Developer Unveils 1,000-Home Plan For Lake Mary

Real estate developer Patricia Stenstrom announced plans Thursday for a 675-acre housing and golf club development in Lake Mary.

Mrs. Stenstrom, owner and president of the Tooke Land Development Co., unveiled the project at a meeting of the Lake Mary City Commission meeting, which she hopes will approve the final plans.

The development, called Timacuan, will be one of the largest in Lake Mary, according to City Manager Kathy Rice. Situated on an expanse of gently rolling acreage between Rinehart Road and Rantool Lane, the property is bounded to the north by county Road 46A and to the south by Lake Mary Boulevard.

Mrs. Stenstrom said she will build 900 to 1,100 homes on the site. Single-family homes will start from $160,000 and town houses, which will be built in clusters of six, will be priced between $90,000 and $110,000.

The 7,500-yard, 18-hole golf course will be graced by a 20,000-square-foot clubhouse, Mrs. Stenstrom said. Its fairways will be lined with golf villas, ranging in price from $110,000 to $125,000.

In addition to the golf course, plans call for polo and croquet fields and a "night club-type" restaurant.

Mrs. Stenstrom described Timacuan as "semi-private" but said the golf course and restaurant would be open to the public.

She said it was the biggest project she has ever undertaken and her developer, Hubert Early, said Timacuan would be an "upper end community."

There were whistles and moans in the audience Thursday as Mrs. Stenstrom and Early expounded on the prices of the houses and the

Water Rate Hike Unopposed

City Plans 'PR Pitch'

At Commissioner Russ Megonegal's urging, the Lake Mary City Commission Thursday gave preliminary approval to a plan to send all Lake Mary registered voters a card explaining how their taxes are being spent.

Calling it a "PR pitch," Megonegal said the commission's constituents need to know how much money each department is getting.

Commissioner Colin Keogh took exception to a proposal to send the cards only to the city's 1,100 registered voters, but Megonegal countered that because of the cost of such a mail-out, only citizens who are most concerned with what is happening in the community should receive them.

Final approval of the plan is pending a report on how much it would cost.

In other action, the commission gave preliminary approval to a water rate hike as expected.

The commission acted on the recommendation of the city's engineering firm Camp, Dresser, and McKee. The firm suggested the increase to help pay for the city's proposed $1.4 million water plant.

According to the ordinance, which must be presented to the public once more at the commission's next meeting Nov. 1, water usage fees and meter installation fees will go up.

If it is passed then, water rates will jump $1.19 — from $4.60 to $5.79 for the first 3,000 gallons used. Customers will be charged $1.93 for every 1,000 gallons over the 3,000 gallon minimum.

Meter inspections will almost double — from $12 to $23. Homeowners and commercial building owners will have to pay deposit to hook up to the city's water lines — $25 and $50 respectively.

There was no opposition to the ordinance from the audience and the commission voted unanimously for its initial approval.

In another move, the commission amended a city code, allowing it to review the rates the city's four garbage companies charge Lake Mary residents. The amendment calls for regular hearings for the commission to approve or disapprove rates.

The amendment reaffirms the See LAKE MARY, page 3A

Florida Highway Patrol trooper Gary Schluter investigates the scene of Thursday's truck versus motorcycle crash that took the life of a 22-year-old Sanford cyclist. The accident occurred at about 12:50 p.m. on state Road 46 west of Sanford.

Cyclist Dies In Crash With Truck

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

A 22-year-old Sanford man was killed Thursday when he rode his motorcycle from Orange Avenue into the path of an on-coming truck on state Road 46, west of Sanford.

Christopher C. Colbert, 22, of 5392 Orange Blvd., died at the scene following the 12:50 p.m. collision. According to a Florida Highway Patrol report, Colbert was riding his 1984 Honda south on Orange Avenue. He pulled onto state Road 46 and collided with the eastbound truck driven by Michael Joyce, 34, of 1158 Allendale Drive, Oviedo. Joyce, who was alone in the truck, was not injured and was not charged.

Colbert's motorcycle was destroyed in the crash and there was $400 damage to the 1971 Ford truck.

Colbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Colbert of Sanford, was a native of Washington, D.C., and worked at the Heathrow golf course.

Colbert's body was taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford.

His death brings the Seminole County traffic death toll to 33 for the year. The 32nd fatality was that of 15-year-old Kimberly Crotty of DeBary who died following a Sept. 23 accident on U.S. Highway 17-92 near the Seminole-Volusia county line. In that accident Michael Behnke, 18, of Sanford, reportedly lost control of his car, which was traveling at a high speed. The car hit a pole and Miss Crotty died at the scene.

GNP Reflects Buyer Blahs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's gross national product increased only 2.7 percent in the July-September quarter, a dramatic slowdown from the second quarter, the Commerce Department said today.

The slowdown was caused in part by a record drop in export sales and consumer lethargy.

The figure, the first formal measure of the broadest economic indicator for the third quarter, came in under the department's advance projection of a 3.6 percent rate and was less than half the second quarter's 7.1 percent rate.

Although the spectacular growth rates in the first half of the year will keep 1984 as a whole above average, the second half has slipped below the 2.9 percent growth path set over several decades.

Economists generally consider a sustained 4 percent rate to be the "break-even" point above which unemployment shrinks and below which it gets worse.

A Labor Department report earlier this month showed factories were the first to feel the slowdown's effect, losing 120,000 jobs in September, the worst setback in nearly two years.

Beggars Legal

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — In a victory for street performers, vagabonds, run-aways and panhandlers, an appeal court ruled Thursday that cities cannot ban public begging for self-support.

Ruling 3-0, the 1st District Court of Appeal struck down a Jacksonville ordinance making it unlawful "to beg or solicit alms in the streets or public places of the city."

The three-judge panel said the ban violated the right of free speech.

"We have learned through the ages that 'charity begins at home' and if so, the less fortunate of our societal admixture should be permitted, under our system, to apply self-help," Judge J. Klein Wigginton wrote in the unanimous opinion.

Red Tape Stalls SR 419 Reconstruction

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Contract letting for the reconstruction of state Road 419 from U.S. Highway 17-92 to state Road 434 in Winter Springs has been delayed from February until May or June, an official of the state Department of Transportation said today.

Ben Watts, DOT deputy district engineer, said the need to build a culvert over Soldier's Creek and acquiring the permits for the work from two state agencies and a federal agency are causing the delay.

Watts said the construction plans for the culvert will take a minimal amount of time. But obtaining permits from the state Department of Environmental Regulation and the St. Johns River Water Management District and possibly the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is expected to be time-consuming.

Watts estimated the cost of the entire 419 project at $1.3 million.

Meanwhile, Winter Springs City Commissioner Bill Jacobs said he plans to seek

'This will be a brand new road and a definite improvement...'

assistance from state Rep. Carl Selph, R-Casselberry, in gaining the money necessary for DOT to four-lane rather than two-lane the 2.4 mile stretch of highway.

Jacobs said two major developments expected to contain more than 1,200 housing units off SR 434 are in the planning stages in Winter Springs now and a four-laned SR 419 is going to be needed much sooner than state officials anticipate.

Eventually, Jacobs said SR 434 from its juncture with 419 will have to be four-laned all the way to Oviedo.

Jacobs added that he will be asking his colleagues on the city commission to instruct city staff to look into the cost and method of financing a traffic study to determine future road needs in the city, especially in the 434, Highlands and Tusawilla areas.

County Engineer Bill Bush said, however, that 419 in Winter Springs is not expected to have sufficient traffic to warrant a four-lane road until the year 2000.

He said the reconstruction and realignment of 419 from a width of 20 feet to 24 feet plus four feet paved shoulders on each side has been in the planning stages for the past 10 years. The state now has a 100 feet wide right-of-way for the highway.

Construction was delayed over the years because of the lack of either state or federal funding. Now, Bush says, with increased revenues from gasoline taxes in both the federal and state sector the road can be rebuilt.

"This will be a brand new road and a definite improvement," Bush said.

And because of the 100-foot right of way, the road can easily be expanded to a four-lane facility in the future.

Watts said the reconstruction of the widened two-lane road will take 325 calendar days to complete.

Measure Would Update Utility Taxes

School Officials Pushing Amendment 8

By Rick Branson
Herald Staff Writer

Among the string of amendments on the Nov. 6 ballot is one that school officials say must be passed or the result will be a virtual halt to construction of school buildings across the state.

Amendment 8, couched in somewhat ambiguous language, deals with utility company taxes used to build schools.

According to the Florida statutes, utility companies must pay $1.50 tax for each $100 they receive. This tax is paid quarterly and has traditionally gone toward funding school building construction.

The statute is based on a 1931 law and the problem is the definition of a utility has changed. The amendment gives the Florida legislature the authority to update the definition to include satellite and computer companies, as well as the myriad of phone companies that have emerged since the break-up of AT&T.

If the amendment does not pass, school officials fear these companies may go to court and successfully convince the state they are not utilities. The state would lose millions in tax and bond money.

"We're looking at the difference between $168.9 million and $70 million in school construction money," said Don Magruder, executive director of the Florida School Boards Association in Tallahassee.

Closer to home, a reduction in those taxes would mean a loss to Seminole County of $5 million earmarked for construction, according to Carey Ferrell of the school board. About 80 percent of that figure is supposed to go for paying off the $14 million the county spent to build Lake Mary High School.

If the money from utility companies, as currently defined, were reduced, it would also mean a virtual standstill of construction in the Seminole County school system, Ferrell said. It would hurt Seminole County particularly, he said, because the school system is one of the fastest growing in the state.

The district is the eleventh largest of the state's 67, and is growing at a rate of 1,000 students a year, he said. The county needs to build one new school a year to keep up with growth, he said. The county can't build at that rate if the amendment doesn't pass.

CIA Guerrilla Booklet Blamed On Free-Lancer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan ordered an investigation of a CIA booklet that instructs Nicaraguan rebels in the art of guerrilla warfare, but House Speaker Thomas O'Neill is not mollified and says agency Director William Casey should "get out."

Shortly after Reagan said Thursday he has told the CIA to determine if there was "the possibility of improper conduct," O'Neill, D-Mass., predicted the in-house probe "is going to be a whitewash."

A senior White House official said an initial investigation had been conducted by the intelligence community and, "They suspect it was the work of a low-level contract employee for the CIA who was working in the region."

The official said the suspected author was described as "a freewheeling free-lancer." He also said the version of the 44-page pamphlet circulated to reporters was not the final version, which he said was toned down.

"Nobody signed off on the first draft," he said.

"It was rejected."

O'Neill said the primer, produced in 1983 but just now surfacing, violates a congressional ban on aid for those trying to overthrow the Managua government and said the call for an investigation does not go far enough.

"I want him (Casey) to get out. I think it's a disgraceful situation... I believe that Casey ought to be out, forthwith. And if he isn't, it shows the president condones the actions of Mr. Casey," said O'Neill.

Boy Named WT15,000 Draws Picture Of Ancient Humanity

NAIROBI, KENYA (UPI) — U.S. and Kenyan scientists camped near an ancient African lake have unearthed the remains of a youth who lived 1.6 million years ago, the most complete skeleton of a human ancestor ever found and among the oldest.

The youth, known as WT15,000, was 12 or 13 years old when he died, the team said. His skeleton provides the clearest picture yet of ancient human ancestors previously visualized only from bone fragments found in Java, China and Africa.

"It says to the lay person, 'We've looked like humans for 1.6 million years,'" said Alan Walker, a Johns Hopkins Medical School professor of cell biology and anatomy who supervised the dig with renowned archeologist Richard Leakey, director of the National Museums of Kenya.

The skeleton will revise previous notions that humankind's close ancestors were scrawny ape-like creatures not much taller than 5 feet, said Leakey. In fact, he said, they were taller than most populations today.

Guerrillas Won't Give Up

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — A communist guerrilla leader has vowed his forces will "never put down" their weapons despite a recent peace initiative with the U.S.-backed government of President Jose Napoleon Duarte.

Commander Lucio Castellanos, in an interview with the guerrilla's Notisal news agency, based in Managua, said his men intend to continue the country's bitter 5-year-old civil war.

Castellanos said the peace talks last Monday between President Jose Napoleon Duarte and rebel leaders, the first high-level meeting since the war began, were "a recognition of the FMLN-FDR as a representative force."

The government has frequently called guerrillas "terrorists" or "subversives" and refused to recognize both the FMLN, the fighting arm and their political wing, the Democratic Revolutionary Front, or FDR, as a representative force.

China Threatens Retaliation

PEKING (UPI) — China has demanded the United States revoke its new textile import restrictions or face trade retaliation.

Peking has hinted it will not fulfill an agreement to purchase up to $500 million worth of American wheat by the end of the year unless Washington withdraws the textile regulations.

Stage Set For Oil Price War

VIENNA (UPI) — Nigeria has defied the OPEC cartel and unilaterally slashed its oil prices by $2 a barrel, undercutting a recent reduction by non-member Britain in a move that set the stage for a global pricing war.

The United Arab Emirates, another influential OPEC member, denied reports from London oil industry sources that it had offered major customers a 50 cent-a-barrel discount on its light Murban crude, retroactive to Oct. 1.

In Mexico City, the director of the state oil monopoly said non-OPEC Mexico was on "maximum alert" and ready to react to changes in the oil market.

A global price war could help industrialized nations and non-producing Third World countries, but indebted oil producers such as Mexico, Nigeria and Venezuela could be hurt and their problems passed on to U.S. banks and other lenders.

Analysts said OPEC, which called an emergency summit in Geneva Oct. 29 to consider new price cuts by Britain and Norway, may have to meet sooner now that Nigeria has increased the odds of another world oil price collapse.

In early 1983 financially pressed Nigeria broke with OPEC and reduced its oil to match a British cut, forcing the 13-nation cartel to lower its base price for the first time in history by $5 to $29 a barrel.

Nigeria acted a day after Britain caught OPEC off guard by lowering its North Sea crude by $1.35 to $28.54 a barrel. But Nigeria, which repeatedly has vowed to match Britain "cent for cent" on pricing, undercut its North Sea competitor.

Norway, another North Sea producer outside the 13-nation cartel, reduced its light crude by $1.50 a barrel Monday.

Nigeria, the United Arab Emirates, Britain and Norway have had trouble selling their light oil, which has been overpriced in relation to cheaper heavy crude, which is in greater demand.

Analysts in Vienna said OPEC ministers were expected to discuss lowering their 17.5 million barrel-a-day production ceiling at the Geneva summit as an alternative to cutting prices.

But in London, British Energy Secretary Peter Walker said Britain would not curb its production to stem the recent oil price slide.

Officer Suspended After Shooting At Traffic Offender

A Casselberry policeman who emptied his service revolver firing at a fleeing traffic offender is on leave pending the outcome of a police probe into the shooting.

The incident will bring a weapons use policy for Casselberry police.

Mayor Charles Glascock Thursday ordered officer Richard J. Maynard, 28, to take paid leave until it is determined by police if he was justified in firing his .357-caliber pistol at a man whose motorcycle reportedly collided with Maynard's patrol car at about 9 p.m. Friday.

The man ran from the scene after the accident on North Winter Park Drive and Maynard pursued on foot, according to a police report.

He reportedly fired at the suspect after he heard what he thought were gunshots possibly coming from the area the man ran to. No one was injured.

The motorcycle involved in the incident is registered to William A. Kaas, 24, of 1041 7th St., Casselberry.

About a half hour after the incident, Seminole County sheriff's deputies reported finding Kaas under a trailer in the area of the shooting. He reportedly said he had been sleeping there.

Kaas was charged with loitering and prowling. No charges related to the accident have been filed against him. Assistant Casselberry Police Chief Win Gates said that the results of a paraffin test to determine if Kaas had fired a gun just prior to his arrest are not in.

Glascock said he was unaware until Tuesday that Casselberry had no formal policy regarding the use of firearms by police. He ordered Maynard off the job Thursday and ordered development of a weapons use policy.

Neither Gates nor Glascock would say how the outcome of the investigation might affect Maynard's status as a police-

Now At Flea World, You Can Get An Occupational License

Seminole County business people and professionals will have the opportunity of purchasing occupational licenses from a representative of county Tax Collector G. Troy Kay Jr. Saturday and Sunday at Flea World, near Five Points.

Barney Buettner, supervisor of the occupational licensing department in Ray's office, said he will be assigned a booth at Flea World and will issue licenses from 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Saturday and from 8 a.m. until noon Sunday.

Buettner said if persons hold valid occupational licenses in their home county, except for Volusia, Marion and Sumter counties, for the same occupation they are practicing here, they need not purchase another license.

Others, he said, newly arrived in Florida and in business may not know that they are required to have an occupational license.

The licensing booth will be set up on weekends for a month at Flea World and if the numbers applying for licenses require it, the booth may be continued until Christmas, Buettner said.

...Amendment

"Anything that would cut down the total amount of funds available would hit us pretty hard," Ferrell said.

"Support for the amendment comes from educators and business people. Gov. Bob Graham has even appointed a committee headed by George Becker, president of Sea World, to work for its passage."

In Seminole County, Ron Boeth of the Seminole Education Association, said the teachers' union is endorsing the amendment because it effects school buildings.

"And in this county, that becomes especially important with all our growth," he said.

Even a telecommunications company, United Telephone Co., Winter Park, supports the measure.

"It continues the traditional way utilities support education and we're glad to support education," said Lloyd Karnes, communications manager for United.

But smaller companies, like Central Florida Telephone Co. in Altamonte Springs, oppose Amendment 8. Co-owner Connie Thompson said at first she supported it because she has children in school. But after talking with her husband, Tom, who is also co-owner, she said she changed her mind.

"He doesn't believe the corporation should be penalized to support schools and universities," she said.

Bigger companies like United and AT&T have tax loopholes they can fall back on she said, but "not smaller, struggling firms."

"We're small and we don't have that opportunity," Mrs. Thompson said.

Magruder in Tallahassee said the amendment would close many loopholes for small and large communications companies and force them to cough up taxes for education. "But they need to pay them anyway," he said.

As far as citizens are concerned, Magruder said their taxes will not go up because of the amendment.

"People will not feel any affect at all in their pocket books or anywhere else — at least for now."

The commissioners said they wanted authority to regulate the rates to ensure residents good service at a fair price.

The commission also delayed final site plan approval for a shopping center at Lake Mary Boulevard and Country Club Road. The commission held up the $2 million, 39,000-square-foot center because of disagreements over drainage, parking and the width of an access road. The commission and the developer, Rodney Walters, will meet in workshop session later this month to try to solve the conflict.

Mayor Dick Fess, in his first night at the helm, appointed four people to city staff positions.

Carol Edwards was reappointed city clerk and Mildred Thompson was named deputy city clerk. City Treasurer Madeline Mims was reappointed as was City Attorney Robert Petree.

NATIONAL REPORT: The storm that brought Utah its heaviest snowstorm in 50 years mauled the Mississippi Valley today with record heavy rain. Arkansas residents fled 4-foot-high flood waters and police tied together with ropes rescued stranded motorists. About 20,000 people in Utah were without power today in the wake of the storm that unloaded up to 27 inches of snow Thursday.

Thousands spent the night in emergency shelters and officials predicted it could take two to three days to restore power to all homes blacked out by the storm.

After leaving the Rockies, the Utah storm moved into the Mississippi Valley, dumping 3½ inches of rain on Rosebud, Mo.

Mrs. Stenstrom told the commissioners Timacuan would be "the best thing that ever happened to Lake Mary," adding later, "I'm going to live out there and I'm going to make sure."

The property has been in her family 35 years, she said. The development was named Timacuan after the Indians who lived in the area before the Seminoles, around 1500.

How You Can Prevent Unsightly Varicose Veins

DEAR DR. LAMB — Both of my parents had trouble with varicose veins throughout their lives. My mother developed hers at age 25. I am 30 and have not had any problems, but I do have broken blood vessels on my legs.

I'm considering joining a bodybuilding club where I can work on toning up the muscles in my legs and abdomen. But I have heard rumors that leglifting equipment and other exercises may contribute to broken vessels and varicose veins. Is this true? If so, how does a person condition his body without the threat of unsightly veins?

DEAR READER — I am not sure what you mean by broken veins. If you mean those small "spider veins" that many people dislike, you can have them treated. Some doctors, including dermatologists, inject a strong solution into the small veins, which scars them so they disappear.

Weightlifting exercises can affect your veins in two ways. One is in how a vein breathes. Breath holding impedes the flow of venous blood back to the chest and causes the larger veins to distend. The other way is by contracting muscles that clamp down on and obstruct veins. Otherwise, standing still is more likely to distend your veins and contribute to developing varicose veins than exercise will.

With your history, you should think about preventing varicose veins. You should wear support hose or some pressure stocking or bandage when standing any length of time. Don't stand still, if you can avoid it. Walking milks the blood out of the legs and decreases the chances of developing varicose veins as does any exercise that involves leg movement.

You will understand varicose veins better after reading my new issue of The Health Letter, Special Report 21, Varicose Veins and Venous Insufficiency.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Just what is a calorie?
 DEAR READER — A calorie is a measure of heat energy. In nutrition and biological terms, it is called a kilocalorie or large calorie. It represents the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of one liter of water one degree centigrade.

You would think from all the emphasis on exercise, which is a healthy trend, that calories were a measure of work, but they are not. Your body produces heat. The big shocker is that all the energy your body uses at rest is converted to heat and eliminated from your body as heat. And, as far as exercise is concerned, more than 75 percent of the

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
 Playing bridge the right way is difficult enough when you are going to stick to the fundamentals. It is even tougher when you need to tamper with your opponent's mind to create an illusion. But every now and then that is the secret to some fancy defensive maneuvering.

Making a one-spade vulnerable overall was a little like crossing Death Valley on foot with a canteen full of salt water, but East got away with it. South, with a spade stopper and a full opening count, bid three no-trump. An expert South might have cue-bid two spades to encourage North to bid no-trump, but we already know from the one-spade overall that this table was not filled with experts.

However, South made a good play on the opening lead. He went up with the king of spades. East won the ace and wondered how he could get his partner on lead to come through the spade 10. He finally led the diamond seven.

What would you think if you were declarer? Wouldn't you assume East had the heart ace and West the diamond king? And if that's so, you'd better grab the diamond ace and play the heart queen to set up the hearts. Anyway, if the heart ace is with East, he can't attack spades safely. Declarer won the diamond ace, played hearts and went set when West took the heart ace and continued spades through the 10. East had defeated an unbeatable contract by creating an illusion.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
OCTOBER 20, 1984

You should see marked improvement in material conditions this coming year. In areas where you reaped a sparse harvest, you could now enjoy large returns.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Although what occurs may not be totally visible, things will be stirring today which will contribute to your security and material well being. Major changes are in store for Libras in the coming year. Send for your year ahead predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is likely to be a busy day for you, but it also should be a pleasant one. Dealings you have with friends will prove fortunate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec.

21) Do something positive about any financial hunches you get today. Your inner voice will be trying to put you on track to something worthwhile.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Even though you'll view things on a grand scale today, they will be within your realm of capability. Do not permit others to put doubts into your mind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In your business dealings today, let the other guy make the overtures. If you play a little hard to get, you'll come out with better terms.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Friends will find you a charming companion today because you'll innately know how to make them feel important, while bringing out their finer points.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Give work and career matters priority today. Lady Luck will be there when you need her to help you pull off something big.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Problems which appear to have no immediate solutions can be resolved today if you'll adopt a positive attitude. Be self-assured.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're likely to be luckier in joint ventures today than you will be playing a lone hand. Intuitively you should know the right persons with whom to team up.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be attentive when conversing with knowledgeable persons today. Something beneficial can be pieced together from information you get from different sources.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Although you may not be seeking them, substantial gains could come your way today from your willingness to be helpful and of service to others.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Situations you personally manage today should work out well for everyone involved. Don't let others do things you know you can do better yourself.

Ryegrass Provides A Dense Winter Lawn

Florida is one of the few places in our country where it's possible to have a green lawn the year-round. But, to do this, we have to use special winter grass. Our permanent tropical grasses fade and lose their color in the fall with the first touch of frost. To keep the lawn green, we "overseed" it.

Several cool-season grasses can be used for overseeding. The best one for our area is annual ryegrass. Annual ryegrass is the most popular because the seeds germinate rapidly. It grows fast, is fairly inexpensive and is adaptable to a variety of growing conditions. It does well in sun or shade, and it tolerates close frequent mowing. Overseeded heavily, annual ryegrass can provide a dense, beautiful winter lawn.

The best time to establish a winter ryegrass lawn is after the permanent lawn has been turned brown by frost. You'll have less trouble with disease at this time. Start by mowing close and taking up all debris. Next, spread the ryegrass seeds. You'll need between five and 15 pounds per 1,000 square feet of lawn area. If possible, buy seeds that have been treated with a fungicide. And, be sure they're fresh and weed-free. Apply the seed with a fertilizer spreader.

To get the most uniform stand of ryegrass, divide the seeds into two applications. Sow half in one direction over the lawn. Then, go back and sow the rest at right angles to your original path. After you spread the seeds, rake the lawn lightly to help the seeds get through the permanent grass and make contact with the soil.

Now it's time for watering — one of the most important steps. The newly seeded lawn should receive light waterings once or twice a day until the seeds germinate. Keep the seeds moist, but be careful not to overwater. Overwatering can wash the seeds away, and may add to disease problems. Once the grass is established, water is needed.

The main disadvantage of a winter ryegrass lawn will grow quickly, and you'll need to mow twice a week. Begin mowing when the grass is tall enough to be cut — about two inches high.

Watch for disease problems. It seems to cause the most trouble on overwatered and overfertilized ryegrass, especially during warm spells. Check with your favorite garden supply center for an appropriate fungicide.

This is a good time to renew the mulch around your landscape plants, too. Most of us use a mulch because it makes our plant look better. Appearance is only one of the benefits of mulching.

Mulches make it much harder for weeds to grow in shrubbery and flower beds. Also, it slows evaporation of soil moisture. Mulches act as an insulating blanket over plant roots — keeping them cool in the summer and warm in the winter.

As organic mulches decompose, they work down into the soil. This improves texture and may increase soil fertility. Mulches allow water from rain or irrigation to soak into the soil, rather than running off and causing erosion.

Any number of different mulching materials are available. You can classify mulches into two categories — organic and inert mulches. Organic mulches include compost, bark, leaves, grass clippings, straw, wood chips, sawdust, and similar materials. Inert mulches are things like gravel, pebbles, and polyethylene plastic film. In most instances, the organic mulches are preferred.

Applying an organic mulch is a simply matter. Just spread a two- to four-inch thick layer of the selected material around the base of landscape plants. Then, add more mulch as needed during the year. Never allow the mulch to pile up around the trunks or lower branches of your plants. Spring is usually the best time to add mulch to well-established plants.

If you're mulching with straw, wood chips, or sawdust, it's a good idea to apply some high nitrogen fertilizer at the same time. One or two cups of fertilizer added to each bushel of mulch should help avoid any nutrient deficiency problem.

If you're using plastic mulch, you need to add fertilizer, you need to add fertilizer to the soil first. Apply about two pounds of fertilizer per 100 square feet of garden area. Then, work it down into the top two or three inches of soil. This may not seem like much fertilizer, but plastic mulches reduce the amount that leaches out of the root zone of your plants. So, you can apply less fertilizer to begin with. Plastic mulches generally are used for commercial ornamental and vegetable crop production in Florida. Mulching can be one of your most valuable gardening practices. Happy gardening!

Garden Circles

JACARANDA CIRCLE

The Jacaranda Circle of the Sanford Garden Club met at the Garden Center for the October meeting. Hostesses were Mrs. Faye Jones and Mrs. Teola McSwain.

Howard Jeffries presented an informative program on "Preparing Plants for Winter."

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to eight members and two new members welcomed into the club. They are

Mrs. Marcella Benham and Mrs. Christine Grow.

CAMELLIA CIRCLE

The October meeting was held at the home of Mrs. William (Pat) Foster. Eight members were served a covered dish luncheon.

Projects for the coming year were discussed and planned including the proposed arbor ordinance and the circle fundraiser — selling garden club calendars.

Surprise Retirement Party

Sam Davis is served refreshments by his wife, Barbara, at a surprise retirement party given in his honor by the staff at Goldsboro Elementary School, Sanford, where he taught for 15 years. The staff presented Davis, a Seminole County teacher since 1963, with a trip to the Don CeSar in St. Petersburg as a gift memento. Davis has varied interests including collecting old cameras. Mrs. Davis still teaches at Idyllwild Elementary School.

Hunt Selected To Eye Donor Chairmanship

Jack Hunt, second vice president of the Sanford Lions Club, has been appointed Chairman of the Eye Donor Committee.

According to the club president, Sully Fleming, Hunt will work directly with the North Florida Lions Eye Bank For Restoring Sight, founded by the Lions Clubs of Florida and the University of Florida Hospital.

"There is no lovelier way to thank God for your sight than by giving a helping hand to those in the dark," the late Helen Keller said.

Those desiring that their eyes be made available upon death to the North Florida Lions Eye Bank for restoring sight, please write to the Sanford Lions Club, Box 2592 Sanford, Florida or call 322-5551.

Great-Aunt's Memory Too Great

DEAR ABBY: Our son is engaged to be married. My great-aunt Emily, who used to live in this town, returned for the engagement celebration. (She's 81).

When Aunt Emily was introduced to "Mr. Jones," the father of the bride, she recognized him as a man she had known 40 years ago. In the presence of Mr. Jones' wife and daughter, Aunt Emily asked him how his son was. Mr. Jones said, "You must be mistaken. I have no son." My aunt replied, "You certainly have—I attended a party for you, your cute French wife and your adorable little boy right after World War II."

It turned out that Mr. Jones did have a son by a French woman to whom he was married briefly. He had told Mrs. Jones about it, but no one else, including his daughter, who was astonished and upset. He contends that when he gave the boy up for adoption, that chapter of his life was closed.

The relationship between our families has become very strained. The Joneses do not want my "busybody" aunt at their daughter's wedding. Our son is miserable over the incident and his bride is miffed because his family embarrassed her family.

What should we do? My husband said your answer would guide us.

STRAINED RELATIONS
DEAR STRAINED: When Mr. J. told Aunt Emily she must be mistaken—that he had no son—a wiser, more tactful woman would have said, "Yes, I probably am," and let it go at that.

It would be better for all concerned if Aunt Emily didn't attend the wedding. She may not like it, but she should understand.

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago I caught my husband and my friend "Laura" kissing in our kitchen. It was a long and passionate kiss. Laura and her husband have been our friends for a long time, and I had no idea she had the hots for my husband.

Since then, I have forgiven my husband, but I can't forgive Laura. My husband can't understand why I don't want to continue seeing this couple.

I feel uncomfortable in Laura's company. I suppose it's unfair of me to blame her more than I blame my husband, but that's the way I feel. Please advise me.

B. IN BINGHAMPTON, N.Y.
DEAR B.: Feeling as you do, I don't blame you for wanting to cool it with a "friend" who has the hots for your husband. To thine own self be true, I agree. Laura should be kissed off.

DEAR ABBY: "Tom in Cambridge, Md." wrote in part:

"Your wisdom we value most highly."

"Your witty responses are fun."

"We love you, Dear Abby—but spare us"

"The silly nonsensical pun!" Here's my rebuttal:

Abby Seel'n' Ya

They're Collectibles, Even Works Of Art

Knives For More Than Just Cutting Your Steak

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Sharp, shiny and sometimes deadly, the knife holds a fascination that lures the craftsman and the collector as well as the sportsman and soldier.

Whether a purely functional tool or a work of art that will never cut a swath through anything, knives have carved their niche in history and in the heart of man.

You can't talk knives in Central Florida, nay, even the whole world, without the name of Orlando knife artist W.D. "Bo" Randall Jr. edging into the conversation. Randall's 44-year-old son, Gary, who is a knifemaker following the tradition established by his dad when he began making knives in 1937, said, "Dad has a magical ability to make anything he wants with his hands and make it beautiful. He's really an artist."

For more than four decades, American and international knife collectors and users have given the products of the 75-year-old Randall a five-star rating. Randall knives have made it into space with American astronauts and into the Smithsonian Institution. Many knifemakers have been lured to the craft out of a desire to own if not a "Randall" then at least a Randall-type knife of their own making.

That's how Sanford firefighter A.D. "Wick" Ellerbe got hooked on knifemaking 13 years ago. He "wanted a good knife, but couldn't find one in my price range, so I made one. It's not hard to spend $200 on a good knife and it costs about $40 to make one yourself."

Ellerbe is a self-made knife fashioner. He mimicked Randall's style when he was a fledgling craftsman and learned his art by reading books and honing his touch through trial and error. Over the years, he has developed his own designs for hunting and fishing knives and for combat and defense weapons, but it was 1977 before he "started turning out work I liked and about two years ago I perfected it," he said.

Once he developed his own style, Ellerbe found his work different from the "Randall's" he tried to emulate.

Once the raw materials of a carbon-steel blade shank and micarda (used to form the handle) are in hand, Ellerbe said it takes him about 20 to 30 hours to produce the finished product. He does it all except the heat-treating which hardens the blade. For that, he ships his creation to California.

Ellerbe has turned his hobby into a money-maker. He sells his knives by mail order, in shops and at shows. Shows are a big part of the knife fancier's life and Ellerbe said there's usually one somewhere almost every weekend.

Tomorrow, Oct. 20, another Sanford knife lover who sees the blades from a different perspective, J.Q. "Slim" Galloway, will show off his collection of antique folding knives at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

The free display will be open to the public from 4 to 9 p.m. and 73-year-old Galloway, who will be joined by other collectors at the show, said it's just a mini-preview for a national knife show scheduled for Orlando's Expo Center on Nov. 2, 3 and 4.

Galloway, who was a Seminole County sheriff's deputy for 25 years said he began collecting knives seven years ago, but he's a selective collector.

"If it ain't old and it don't fold I don't want it," he said.

He and many other knife collectors have turned from guns to knives, because he said, of the restrictions on firearms and because of the ease of storing knives. He keeps his collection of rare, discontinued antiques, which include a Remington knife with a sterling silver bullet fashioned into its handle and valued at $1,000. In a bank vault.

That kind of knife you don't use to whittle out on the back porch on cool autumn evenings. But most of Galloway's blades are rather traditional pocket knives picked up at flea markets and knife shows, but some are more than 100 years old. Others are unique because of the special functions they were designed to perform. He has a hobo's knife, for example, circa 1917, which breaks down into a separate fork and knife, and a 75-year-old knife, which in addition to its traditional folding blade, also features a hatchet-shaped razor.

Galloway has no Randall knives, because they "ain't old and don't fold," but Tom Neblett, a 52-year-old Orange County collector, has 23 "Randall's" and 11 more on order.

It's people like Neblett who keep 16 knifemakers on the job turning out about 110 "Randall" knives a week. Despite that, you must have patience if you want a handmade "Randall" because orders are backed up through April, 1987.

Neblett, who has been collecting knives for four years, including antiques as well as "Randall's", said it's well worth the wait, but he sometimes cuts his wait by dropping by Randall's Orlando knife museum and shop and selects a knife that another customer failed to take delivery on.

Neblett's Randall knives, which he said range in value from $150 to $500 and average out at about $200 a knife, are not just to look at. He puts them to use and has ordered some for specific functions, such as a steak knife set and a carving set.

Knives, he said, have enjoyed a huge increase in popularity in the last 10 years. "Fifteen years ago nobody collected knives, but now in an affluent society everybody is collecting something."

Knife collecting, Neblett said, "gives you something to look for at flea markets. No one makes knives exactly like another. They have an opportunity to produce art as well as a functional tool. Some knives are as beautiful as any sculpture or painting, the way they are put together, the balance and design."

Producer Blasts Film Non-Goers

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Producer Larry Spangler doubts the sincerity of pious moviegoers who cry for "good, clean, wholesome entertainment."

These self-same members of the PTA and Sunday school classes are the very ones who stroll home in droves watching "The A-Team" when a family picture is released.

Spangler believes audiences deserve the kind of movies they get — "Porkys," "Conan" and "Freaky Friday."

Spangler released "The Bear," an inspirational movie on the life of the late Alabama football coach Bear Bryant, to resounding indifference in the South this month.

In the midst of the college and professional seasons in football-rabid Dixie, "The Bear" is anything but bullish at the box office, and Spangler can't understand why.

Gary Busby in the title role is superb, perhaps an Oscar candidate. The production is smooth and the story line engaging with action and suspense aplenty. There is no sex, nudity or violence.

"People who scream for family pictures obviously don't really go to see them," said a disenchanted Spangler. "I feel like I've been slam-dunked!"

"We've only released the film in the South, where we expected it to do best. We don't open in the Northern states until Nov. 16. We'll just keep it in theaters down South until the Christmas pictures start coming out."

"Between now and the time we open in the North I'm trying to come up with an advertising campaign that will appeal to younger audiences. They are the ones who make or break a picture."

"Spot checks of 70 theaters show the majority of people seeing 'The Bear' are 30 and over. Kids who see it like it a lot. The problem is getting them to go. It's a bad time of year to attract young audiences. They're going to school and don't go out weeknights."

"I guess we were wrong releasing it in October. We're competing with the baseball playoffs and the World Series. Friday night is high school football. Saturday is college football and Sunday is pro football."

"Even so, I believe there is a place in this country for wholesome, inspirational pictures. Look at 'On Golden Pond,' 'Chariots of Fire' and 'The Karate Kid.'"

Spangler was reminded that aside from the "Rocky" trio, sports movies have been anathema at the box office.

The Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig baseball pictures bombed. Such football epics as "Crazy Legs" failed to set the world afire. Even Robert Redford on skis in "The Downhill Racer" took a header.

Moreover, while Bear Bryant may have made Confederate hearts flutter, the famed coach was not beatified at USC, Penn State, Notre Dame or Syracuse.

Spangler, however, does have a legitimate gripe involving reviews.

He complains that instead of weighing the picture on its own merits, critics are comparing it with the real-life Bear Bryant.

"There haven't been any real reviews of the performances, direction and story," Spangler said. "Critics are writing about the Bryant family giving or not giving approval of the script and the fact that the Bear doesn't cuss in our picture as he did in real life."

"Our picture is true to Bear's life."

Scott Blends Actor, Himself In Scrooge

By Julianne Hastings
UPI TV Reporter

NEW YORK (UPI) — George C. Scott liked playing Scrooge in the new remake of "A Christmas Carol" so much that he may take a look at the movie himself, something he rarely does with his own work.

The two-hour film that also stars Susannah York, David Warner ("Masada") and Roger Rees ("Nicholas Nickleby") will air Dec. 17 as one of four or five Christmas specials CBS will be showing this year.

Filed on location in Shrewsbury, England, the beautifully made movie will be released in theaters in that country on Dec. 8, the day after a royal command performance which Scott plans to attend.

"I would be delighted to meet the queen," Scott said. "I can curtsy as well as Marilyn Monroe."

Scott said he most enjoyed playing bad guys — especially Dickensian bad guys like Scrooge and Fagan, whom he played in the TV movie "Oliver Twist."

"Scrooge is probably the most lovable winner of modern literature," Scott said. "He's such a bad guy in the beginning and he is redeemed, and the redemptive process is so interesting."

"Christmas Carol" is the kind of story that is loved in our culture.

Scott said he felt he contributed a few new things to the part of Scrooge.

"One thing for sure, I'm the fattest Scrooge ever. I can fill a screen in more ways than one."

Steve Mills, vice president, Motion Pictures for Television and Mini-Series, CBS Entertainment, said the network decided on the remake for several reasons.

"I can't think of a better melding of an actor and a character than Scrooge and George," Mills said. "And we also had a sponsor willing to pay for the movie (IBM), so it was no risk for CBS."

Scott said his own thoughts about Christmas were a little like those of the early Scrooge.

"When you've been married as many times as I have and have as many children as I do — let's just say I look forward to the holiday with abhorrence."

"I like to go to Bermuda or some place where there's no green and red for Christmas. When you get to my age, you forbear. That may be a cynical thing to say."

"But when I was a child, Christmas was a rather bleak time for me as I recall," Scott said, explaining that his father, a traveling salesman, usually wasn't home for the holiday.

Still, Scott said he liked "A Christmas Story" immensely. "I may see it. I usually choose not to see my films."

Producer William Storke said Roger Hirson's screenplay deliberately uses Dickens' own words as often as possible. "The lifting is verbatim because Dickens was such a great dialogue writer."

The lush film, which cost about $5.2 million to make, was shot as a theatrical movie. "We didn't shoot it for the small screen," Storke said.

Shrewsbury was used for the film because it looks more like 1840 London than any location in the city itself, the producer said.

Scott said he would like to return to television in a series, preferably a comedy.

He admitted he was upset when his old series on CBS, "East Side, West Side," was cancelled in 1964 after a one-year run, but he said his beef was not with the network, but with one executive who now was gone.

His next project for CBS will be a 3½-hour special about the last days of Gen. Patton, whom Scott won an Oscar playing in the movie "Patton" 15 years ago.

"The new movie will not be about war. It will be much more personalized," Scott said. "It will be about the last days of a man who was paralyzed from the neck down — much more personalized than 'Let's kick Rommel in the ass.'"

Scott said he didn't mind that people still think of him as Patton, despite all the roles he's played since.

"I walk down the street and a man goes, 'Hey, general. How's it going baby.' I don't mind, I like it."

'Cover-Up' To Remain On The Air

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The producers of "Cover-Up" are looking for an actor to replace co-star Jon-Erik Hexum, in critical condition with a head wound he suffered when he shot himself with a blank while playing Russian roulette, CBS said.

There was a report by a local television station that Hexum had been placed on a life support system, but hospital officials would not confirm it.

Bud Grant, president of CBS, said Wednesday the new actor would not assume Hexum's role but might play another male model in the same relationship with the fashion photographer portrayed by Jennifer O'Neill.

"The producers of the series 'Under Cover' are looking for another actor to play a different character in the series," Grant said.

"We have a couple of episodes in reserve. We may have to run a repeat or two and perhaps take a (short) pre-emption, but the show won't leave the air."

"We are shocked and horrified over Jon-Erik's accident."

Studio officials earlier said they would finish the episode being filmed when Hexum was wounded.

The series, which has ranked near the bottom of the Nielsen ratings since its debut this fall, was rated 53rd out of nearly 80 shows last week. It last aired Saturday night, one day after the accident at 20th Century Fox studios.

Hexum, meanwhile, remained in critical condition at the Beverly Hills Medical Center.

Detectives revealed Tuesday that Hexum, 27, had loaded three empty cartridges and two gunpowder-filled blanks into a .44 Magnum during a break in filming. Witnesses said he told three crew members, "Let's see if I've got one for me," and then fired the gun.

'Dolls' Is Glamorous, Sexy And A Big Bomb

By David Handler

ABC's "Paper Dolls" has all the makings of another "Dallas" or "Dynasty." It's glamorous, sexy and nasty. It's chock full of the ambitious, ruthless prime-time soap characters we've come to know and loathe.

Yes, it's all here in this behind-the-scenes potboiler about the fashion industry. I'm usually a sucker for this kind of glossy junk, but for some reason "Paper Dolls" leaves me cold. Maybe the formula is getting too familiar. Whatever, I find it ho-hum.

like a modern-day slave trader. Her nickname is Jaws 4.

Racine is the lover of Wesley Harper (Dack Rambo), the oily creep who heads Harper Cosmetics, which gives Racine a lot of business. Wesley acts tough, but it's his father, Grant Harper (Lloyd Bridges), who really runs the company.

Wesley and Grant don't get along because Wesley's mom died in a car driven by Grant, who then remarried and had another child, Blair (Mimi Rogers), who he vastly prefers. Got that? Hang on:

Two teen models provide our access to this awful world. One of them is gorgeous Taryn Blake (Nicolette Sheridan), who's a Cosmo cover girl at 16 and a total wreck.

Taryn comes off like a "prime donna" and a "monster," but she's actually a lonely, unhappy little girl who is the victim of a horribly pushy show-biz mom, Julia (Brenda Vaccaro). "I have no friends," weeps Taryn. "I want a normal life. I don't want to be famous." Snaps Julia: "You're the best. And you're not alone. You've got me."

Blair is a model herself, though her career is fading as she approaches 30. She's a client of Racine, and is married to David Fenton (Richard Beymer), a decent, struggling young sportswear designer. David wants to sign up Laurie Caswell to an exclusive contract.

But when Taryn gets busted for coke, Racine is more interested in pawning Laurie off on Wesley, who needs a new Expectations girl. Wesley doesn't hesitate to steal Laurie from his brother-in-law, who in turn doesn't hesitate to punch Wesley's lights out at a big party.

Our other teen, Laurie Caswell (Terry Farrell), has that normal life. She's a fresh-faced suburban high-school student — innocent, giggly, happy and poised on the verge of becoming the next Taryn Blake.

Laurie has The Look. Her mom, Dinah (Jennifer Warren), is nervous about Laurie becoming a model. "It means being treated like a piece of meat," she says. But Laurie is on her way.

"The closeness of this family does one's heart good," coos Racine. Meanwhile, when Taryn finds out she's been dumped by Wesley, she writes, "I'm sorry, mommy" on the bathroom mirror in lipstick and takes a bunch of pills. She survives, but her mother, Julia, accuses Laurie's mother, Dinah, of engineering it to further her own daughter's career.

Mostly, "Paper Dolls" is about the forces that shape, manipulate and exploit these girls. Our prime mover is their agent, Racine (Morgan Fairchild), a cold, heartless witch who handles her clientele

"Paper Dolls" has plenty of furs, jewels, limos and Jacuzzis. The cast isn't bad. Still, the whole thing feels stale and predictable to me. Through no fault of its own, "Paper Dolls" may be one soap too many.

'Burning Bed' Tops Prime Time Ratings

NEW YORK (UPI) — NBC was undisputed winner of the prime time ratings race last week, with a hit TV movie and the World Series giving the network its best ratings week since Sept. 15-21, 1980 when it aired the miniseries "Shogun."

The A.C. Nielsen prime time ratings for the week ending Oct. 14 gave NBC a 22.1 rating and a 35 percent share of the audience, CBS a 15.3 rating with a 24 share and ABC a 15.0 rating with a 24 share.

For the first three weeks of the new TV season, NBC leads with an 18.0 rating and a 29 share. CBS is second, with a 17.1 rating and a 27 share, while ABC brings up the rear with a 15.2 rating and a 25 share.

The most-watched show of the week was NBC's "The Burning Bed," starring Farrah Fawcett as an abused wife. It was the network's highest-rated made-for-TV movie ever, and the fourth highest rated in network competition.

The only new series to make the top 10 also carried the NBC logo — "The Bill Cosby Show." Angela Lansbury's CBS series, "Murder, She Wrote," made a fine showing in 12th place. Most of the other new series that weren't knocked off by specials, politics or baseball nestled cozily near the bottom of the ratings list.

The CBS analysis following the vice presidential debate was the most popular, as was its analysis after the first presidential debate. CBS had a 14 rating and a 23 share, compared to ABC's 12.4 rating and 21 share and NBC's 11.9 rating and a 20 share.

- In the evening news category, "CBS Evening News with Dan Rather" was No. 1 with an 11.5 rating and 22 share. ABC's "World News Tonight" had a 10.1 rating and a 20 share, while "NBC Nightly News" had an 9.2 rating and a 19 share.
- Top 10 prime time shows for the week ending Oct. 14, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co., were:
1. NBC Monday Night Movie, "The Burning Bed"
 2. World Series — Game 5 (NBC)
 3. World Series — Game 1 (NBC)
 4. World Series — Game 2 (NBC)
 5. Dynasty (ABC)
 6. World Series — Postgame 5 (NBC)
 7. Dallas (CBS)
 8. World Series — Game 3 (NBC)
 9. The Bill Cosby Show (NBC)
 10. Magnum, P.I. (CBS)

Reagan's Daughter Fired?

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The manager for President Reagan's daughter Patti Davis denied reports the actress was fired from a new TV soap opera and said she never intended to appear on more than two episodes of the show.

"Rituals," a new syndicated daytime drama, announced last week that Davis was dropped from the show because she failed to appear for a scheduled taping.

Manager Mike Gurse said, however, that Davis was not fired because she never intended to work on the show as a regular.

"She was contracted for two days work, which she performed," Gurse said. "The producers then asked her to sign a long term contract, which she declined to do because she never intended to be a regular on the show. We're very surprised to read reports that she had been fired."

Producers of "Rituals" said they dropped Davis after she called in last Tuesday and asked to postpone her scheduled appearance that day until 3 p.m.

They said she later phoned to say that "scheduling problems" would prevent her from taping any time that day.
