BRIEFS

Friday the 13th, lucky or not?

This second Friday in December is the 13th. Some consider it lucky, others believe it is unlucky.

Every year has at least one Friday the 13th, but never more than three. We have had two per year for the past few years, and will have two again during 1992. The following year, and 1994, there will only be one.

A fear of the number 13 is known as Triskaidekaphobia.

Motorcycle officer struck by car

SANFORD — Sgt. Dennis Whitmire of the Sanford Police Department was on patrol at French Avenue and 25th Street at 9:52 p.m. Wednesday night when he was struck by a car.

Whitmire, who patrols on a motorcycle, escaped with only minor injuries.

"He literally walked away from the accident with a scraped elbow," Police Chief Steve Harriett said. "They took him to the hospital and checked him out but, miraculously, he was OK."

Whitmire was traveling northbound on French Avenue when a car, driven by Virginia Dare McDaniel, 47, 2018 Cedar Ave., Sanford, turned eastbound on to 25th Street in front of him.

Harriett said that because the accident involved a Sanford Police officer, the Florida Highway Patrol was called in to investigate.

McDaniel was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and with violating Whitmire's right of way. She failed the roadside sobriety tests. Her blood alcohol level was reported at .12.

She was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held in lieu of $500 bond.

Harriett said that Whitmire will return to motorcycle patrol tonight.

An elephant for Christmas?

SANFORD — The Central Florida Zoological Park has a unique gift for your children this year. You can give Maude, the elephant.

Marketing coordinator Andrea Farmer said, "It may be difficult to gift wrap or fit under the tree, but we have the solution."

For a contribution of $25 or more to the Adopt An Animal program, the zoo will provide an adoption certificate, photograph of your animal, educational information, a gift card, and a copy of the Jungle Book video.

For further information, contact the zoo at 323-4450. The Central Florida Zoological park is located just east of I-4, at 3755 Highway 17-92, in Sanford.

Very good weather forecast for 4th St. Lucia Festival downtown

By NICK PPRIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Saturday is St. Lucia Festival day in Sanford. Whatever you could ask for in a festival will be offered.

The annual event started several years ago, with descendants of some of the original Swedish settlers in the area, gathering to observe a Swedish holiday. In 1989, it was formally established as an annual event in the historical Downtown Sanford area. For several centuries, Saint Lucia has been celebrated on Dec. 13 in all of the Scandinavian countries.

Traditionally, it is the marking of time when the dark winter ends, and spring days bring longer periods of light. The times however, are the exact opposite in this country, but the observance is still considered as a festival of lights, and a logical event for the beginning of the yuletide season.

In Sanford, the event focuses not only on the Swedish heritage, but an opportunity for the entire area to join together and recall local history.

The only portion of the holiday activities planned for the festival which have been cancelled is the Lake Monroe Christmas Boat Parade. Boaters in three classes were scheduled to compete for cash prizes for the best decorated crafts in St. Lucia as well as Christmas settings.

According to Boat Parade organizer Archie Smith, "We've had to cancel that because of a lack of interest." He added, "We had only one small boat entered this year."

Among events and activities planned for Saturday are the following:

Rinehart road work to begin

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD -- Work on the 2.3-mile Rinehart Road connector between County Road 46-A and State Road 46 is expected to begin Jan. 2.

The county issue a notice to proceed on the $1.5 million project to build the longest new county road in recent memory Monday to Briar Construction of Sanford, said Jim Pullen, county construction management engineer. The NOP authorizes work to begin immediately on the year-long project, Pullen said.

Pullen said Briar officials said they would need about two weeks to set up the worksite and would actually begin construction by the first.

The project calls for a curving two-lane road between the current intersection of Rinehart Road and CR 46-A and ending at the intersection of Stanley Avenue and SR 46.

SANFORD — The Higgins House is now open for business. It is the city's first Bed & Breakfast Inn to begin operation.

The building, at 420 S. Oak Avenue in Sanford, is a two story Victorian home, built in 1894 for James Cochran Higgins who was superintendent of the railroad when Sanford began its growth years.

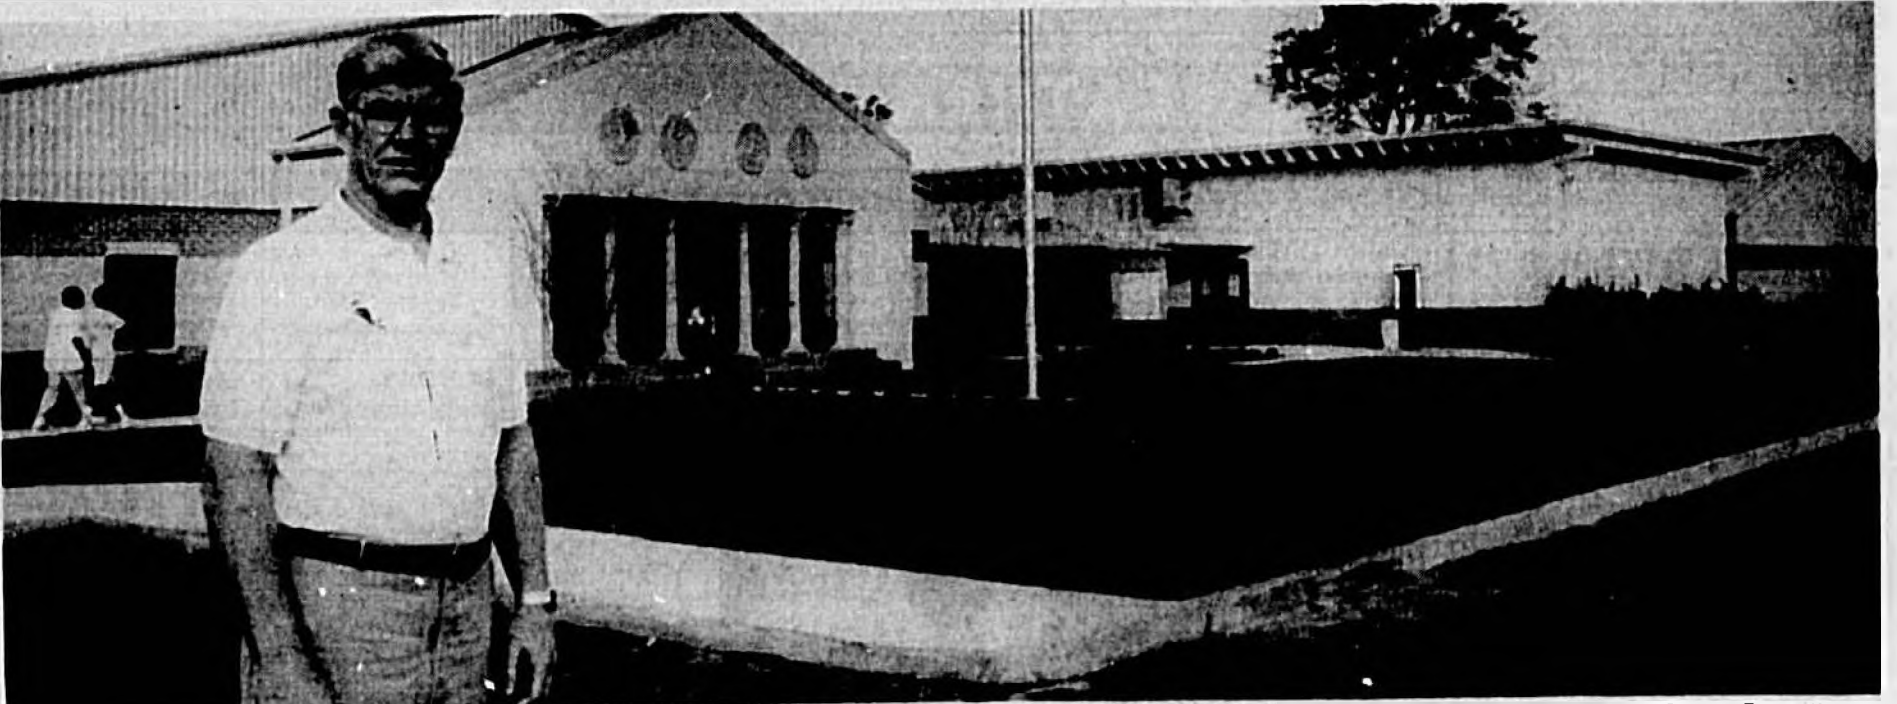

The home is now owned by Walter and Roberta Padgett, who will also serve as Innkeepers. They have been working on getting the house into condition to open for the past two years.

The official opening started yesterday afternoon with a ribbon cutting by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and its welcoming committee members. Chamber President-Elect Bobby Douglas officiated at the ceremony. Douglas commented, "I'm very excited about this new concept in our city. It's a beautiful home and we wish you great success."

Walter Padgett told the group, "The Bed & Breakfast concept is already very popular all around the nation, especially in the northeast states. It's a homey place to stay, with not only a bed, but comfortable rooms for sitting, and a complete breakfast. We believe it's a neat alternative to staying in a hotel."

Following the ribbon cutting, Chamber members were given a tour of the house, which has a foyer, large parlor complete with fireplace and upright piano, a large dining room with an additional

SANFORD — Though classes have been meeting on the new Sanford Middle School campus since the start of the school year, the construction was not officially complete until this week.

On a marker outside the new front gate at 1700 French Ave. brass letters spell out the name of the school on a campus that looks nothing like the antiquated building it replaced.

The new school was built directly behind the old one. Before the original building was demolished, the majority of the work on the new facility was completed.

Sanford Middle is a unique construction project.

When Catalyst, Inc. the contracting company declared bankruptcy soon after the design phase was complete two years ago, the school district's facilities, planning and construction department took over the project.

Schools end Bible give-aways

PANAMA CITY — Bay County's school superintendent has halted a 30-year practice of allowing Gideons International to distribute copies of the New Testament in public schools. "If it's done properly, it has my blessing," Superintendent Jack Simonson had said Monday. But Simonson withdrew his blessing Tuesday after school board lawyer Franklin Harrison advised him the Bible giveaway was an unconstitutional intrusion of religion into the public schools. The Gideons group annually had handed out pocket-size Bibles to fifth graders in the Florida Panhandle county's schools. In some cases principals held assemblies of all fifth-grade classes for the giveaways and in others the Gideons were permitted to distribute the books in the classrooms.

Man charged with raping housemate

BOYNTON BEACH — A man has been charged with raping and abducting a female housemate and is suspected of killing a man who lived in the home and dumping the body, police said. His arrest came hours after the woman, 23, untied herself and escaped from a sinking van that was filling with water after it was pushed into a canal in Delray Beach, Boynton Beach police said. Police searched unsuccessfully again Thursday for the other housemate, identified as Jeff Keenan, who the rape victim had said was shot inside the home the three shared in Boynton Beach, early on Wednesday.

Father says Santa curses shocked kids

VENICE — Instead of a hearty "ho, ho, ho," a father says coarse language came out of the mouth of Santa Claus while his daughter and other children watched a recent Christmas parade. It seems Santa — alias Venice City Council member Earl Midiam — got upset at people on another float and let out a couple of choice words children wouldn't expect from jolly old St. Nick. "He said, 'Get that (expletive) thing outta here!' 'Get the (expletive) outta here!'" Piccioni said. "There were five other kids there. They all sat back in startled amazement that Santa Claus had lost it."

SANFORD — A Seminole County judge and the attorney for Lake Mary and the Seminole County School Board were among the nominations for the circuit bench announced Wednesday morning by the chairman of the Eighteenth Circuit Judicial Nominations Commission.

The nine-member commission recommended three lawyers for a vacancy on the circuit bench and three for a vacancy on the county bench. Gov. Lawton Chiles is expected to appoint a judge from each list within 60 days. The six nominations were sent to Chiles Thursday. They were sent in alphabetical order and were not ranked.

Seminole County Judge Wallace Hall, Lake Mary city and school board attorney Ned Julian Jr. and Altamonte Springs lawyer Ken Bevan were offered up to Chiles for the circuit judge's bench.

The commission recommended Eighteenth Circuit chief assistant public defender Mariene M. Alva and lawyers Donald Lee Marblestone and Altamonte Springs lawyer Mark Phillip Rabinowitz to fill a county judge vacancy.

Hall, 54, of Lake Mary, was first appointed to the bench by Gov. Claude Kirk and subsequently retained. Julian, 49, of Lake Mary, has been in private practice since 1967 and has served as Lake Mary's city attorney since 1987 and the school board's attorney since 1979. He previously served as attorney for Longwood and the Sanford Housing Authority. He ran an unsuccessful campaign for circuit judge in 1990.

Bevan, 49, of Longwood, has been in private practice since 1966, most of those years in Miami. He has practiced in Central Florida for 10 years. He staged unsuccessful campaigns for circuit judge in 1988 and county judge in 1990.

Alva, 39, of Geneva, has served as chief assistant public defender since 1984 and has worked as an assistant public defender since 1981. Marblestone, 44, of Altamonte Springs, has served as the chief assistant state prosecutor in the central Florida bureau for 3 1/2 years. He previously had a private practice for two years and as an assistant state attorney in Sanford for 11 years. Information on Rabinowitz was unavailable this morning.

The nominating commission includes three appointments by the governor's office, three by the Florida Bar Association and three appointed by the other six appointees. The membership is Morgan Laur, chairman, Dr. Claude Godwin, Ed Blacksheare, Debbie Lyons, Sid Vihlen, Morgan Laur, Bill Colbert, Richard Stabler, Ben Saxon and Norman LeVin.

Laur said the decision to select the three names for each position was difficult for the commission. By law, the commission's deliberations are secret, she said.

"The names were selected were certainly the most qualified, but there were quite a few very qualified applicants as well," Laur said. "We had a very tough decision based on the applications we received."

The county court vacancy was created earlier this year with the death of Seminole County Judge Harold F. Johnson at age 61 following a two-year battle with colon cancer. He had served on the bench since 1973. The circuit vacancy was created when Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. announced his retirement effective Dec. 31 after serving 12 years.

Florida lawmakers agree on cuts, ready deficit fighting bill

By BILL BERNSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Florida House and Senate budget negotiators agreed on spending cuts in schools, social services, prisons and every corner of state government to eliminate a $622 million deficit.

"They're just about at the end of their ability to give. I think we have stretched 23 pieces of government ... to the absolute limit," Sen. George Kirkpatrick, D-Gainesville, said Thursday night.

Action on the bill was slated to begin at noon and House and Senate leaders said the special session could end today.

The two chambers' appropriations committee chairman — Sen. Bud Gardner, D-Titusville met with subcommittee and staff members late Thursday to work out the toughest compromises. A conference committee finally adopted the compromise cuts on a 30-1 vote. Sen. Lincoln Diaz-Balart, R-Miami, cast the dissenting vote because the bill hadn't been printed. "This is probably the saddest task I've ever had," said Sen. Helen Gordon Davis, D-Tampa.

Bills fought the last of the $143 million in health and rehabilitation services cuts — the elimination of $24.8 million to reimburse hospitals for treating "medically needy" patients, who are employed and can't qualify for Medicaid but also don't have state attorneys and public defenders. It wasn't determined what the savings would be. The House and Senate must bring into agreement their versions of some government reforms Gov. Lawton Chiles seeks.

Each passed bills to reform the state cancer service personnel system and take some steps to centralize the Department of Health and Rehabilitation Services, promising more action in the regular session.

April 1 and the regular session to find funds to reinstate it during the regular 90-day legislative session starting Jan. 14.

Another final compromise involved delaying the scheduled December opening of some prisons and using the savings to at least partially restore cuts for binding, the poll is considered an early test of organizational strength among Democratic candidates in the fourth-largest state.

"These are very key people in terms of their involvement at the grassroots level," Ferro said of the delegates. "The straw poll is going to reflect who has done a better job of organizing these grassroots people."

Of the six announced Democratic candidates, Kerrey, Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, Iowa Sen. Tom Harkin, and former Massachusetts Sen. Paul Tsongas plan to attend. Virginia Gov. Douglas Wilder and former California Gov. Jerry Brown are expected to skip the event.

Democrats gather for straw poll Sunday

TALLAHASSEE — Florida Democrats, gathering today for their state convention, got a lift when Gov. Lawton Chiles ended a feud by deciding to attend and by a new poll showing President Bush's popularity slipping.

Chiles, who has fenced for months with chairman Simon Ferro over control of the state party's direction, said he will go to Orlando either Saturday or Sunday, Chiles' daughter, Rhea Gay, is graduating from the University of South Florida in Tampa on Saturday and the governor wants to be there. "I think I'm going to go," Chiles said Thursday. "I've just got to look at the travel plans."

State Rep. Mike Abrams, a North Miami Beach Democrat who chairs Nebraska Sen. Bob Kerrey's campaign in Florida, said the governor's decision was a signal of renewed unity in the party.

"I hope this is a reconciliation to get us to focus positively on the 1992 elections," said Abrams, a former state party chairman.

The three-day convention in Orlando, which begins today, is capped by a first-in-the-nation presidential straw poll of 2,300 delegates on Sunday. While non-

Crucifix believed oldest in Americas

Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — A crucifix found at a 500-year-old settlement established by Christopher Columbus is believed to be the oldest symbol of Christianity discovered in the Western Hemisphere, archaeologists say.

It was among the ruins of La Isabela, in what is now the Dominican Republic, where Columbus established the first planned European colony in the New World. Kathleen Deagan, an archaeologist from the University of Florida, said Thursday.

"We believe it to be the oldest Christian symbol known in the Americas because it was found in an undisturbed buried deposit belonging to La Isabela, which only existed from 1493 to 1498," she said.

It measures 1 1/2 inches tall and is made of pewter and iron. The body of Christ is made of a copper alloy.

It may have been attached to a rosary or worn as a pendant, and was probably a soldier's personal object of devotion, she said.

"The crucifix offers a rare glimpse into someone's personal life 500 years ago," Ms. Deagan said. "It is a direct expression of the Catholicism brought to the Americas by the Spanish."

Ms. Deagan spent the past three years excavating the site with a Dominican, Venezuelan and North American team. Her work at La Isabela is featured in the January issue of National Geographic Magazine.

The archaeologists say Columbus established two settlements, not just one as scientists previously believed. They uncovered a second settlement across the bay where a satellite colony of craftsmen and farmers supported the main settlement with food and pottery, she said.

The second site had a fertile plain for farming, a river for fresh water and clay soil for pottery making, she said.

Salvation Army kettle fills slowly

By NICK PFEIFER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Salvation Army Advisory Board of Seminole County met yesterday. The report they received was not good.

Captain Gary Bergen, commanding officer, reported that this year's Christmas appeal income is running about 20 percent lower than it was at this time last year, (as of 3 p.m., Wed. Dec. 11).

As of this time, the Salvation Army's Christmas kettles have raised only $15,760. An additional $27,054 has been raised through the mail appeal. "The need in Seminole County however, is $100,000, for this year's Christmas Assistance Programs. "We have only 11 days left in which to raise another $57,186," Bergen said.

The captain commented, "This year we are helping people who previously helped us to help others. Unemployment has caused a tremendous increase in the number of persons applying for Christmas assistance."

He continued, "This year, more than 900 families will be receiving food baskets, new toys and new clothing from the Salvation Army. That's up from 725 families last year."

Distribution day has been scheduled for Dec. 19th and 20th for those families whose needs have been verified.

The low number of donations into the kettles however, could have a serious effect on the amount of help given. Captain Bergen reported, "At the present rate of giving, the Salvation Army in Seminole County will be hard pressed to serve all those requesting assistance this year."

Salvation Army Kettles are being manned during most business hours by volunteers, many representing specific clubs and organizations. They have been in operation since Nov. 15, when the first one was officially dedicated at the Wal-Mart store in Seminole Center. The event was also saluted as the 100th year of the drive.

In all, approximately 20 kettles were placed at strategic areas throughout the Salvation Army's Sanford district. They are open daily except Sundays, until Christmas.

Senatorial guilt

Of the five senators who used their influence to block federal regulators for the benefit of Irvine savings and loan operator Charles Keating, Alan Cranston was guilty of the most egregious misconduct. But what the Senate refused to recognize when it finally put the matter to rest is that Cranston was hardly alone in accepting large contributions in exchange for legislative favors.

During this arrogant, self-serving defense on the Senate floor, the California Democrat spoke the truth when he asserted that his actions were not out of the ordinary. The inescapable reality is that money does indeed buy influence on Capitol Hill. In that sense, Cranston's defense was an indictment of the entire Senate.

That fact helps explain why Cranston's colleagues were content to duck their responsibility to discipline him by holding a floor vote on the Ethics Committee's findings. Under a deal worked out between Cranston and the committee, the panel's conclusions were merely presented to the Senate. That spared the full Senate from having to pass judgment on Cranston's actions.

When the case of the Keating Five came to light two years ago, the Ethics Committee was more interested in limiting the political damage than in disciplining the senators. Despite damning evidence against Sens. Cranston, Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., Donald Riegle, D-Mich., John Glenn, D-Ohio, and John McCain, R-Ariz., the committee let four of them off the hook. Last February, it concluded that the actions of DeConcini and Riegle "gave the appearance of being improper" and that Glenn and McCain merely "exercised poor judgment."

That left Cranston, who had collected nearly $1 million from Keating, to be disciplined. By special counsel Robert Bennett that the committee was obliged to take some kind of action. For the next nine months, however, the panel delayed consideration of whether to recommend the full Senate censure of Cranston, based on "substantial and credible evidence" of his unethical conduct.

The unprecedented 135-minute production on the Senate floor was carefully scripted by the Senator leadership to get rid of the Cranston affair as swiftly as possible.

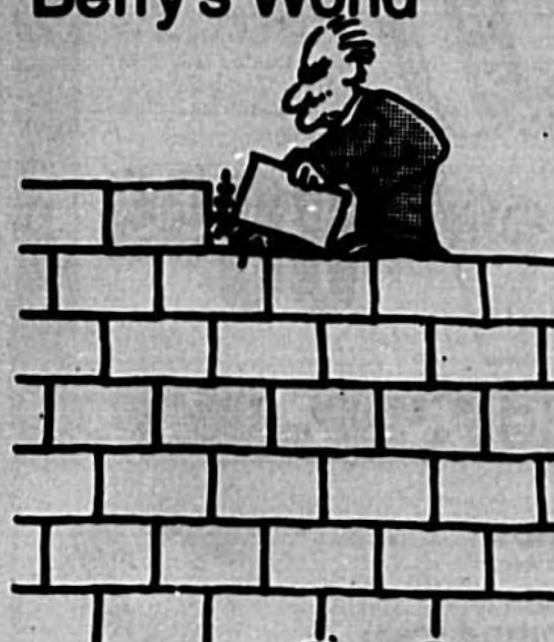

But Cranston, accompanied by his flamboyant lawyer, Alan Dershowitz, departed from the script and tried to explain away his misconduct. The senator's righteous insistence that he had not violated Senate norms, let alone Senate rules, prompted Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., to jump to his feet and berate Cranston's remarks as "arrogant, unrepentant and a smear on this institution."

In reality, the full Senate shared in Cranston's disgrace by declining to take disciplinary action against him, and by its continued refusal to reform a campaign finance system that corrupts the legislative process.

By merely listening to the committee's findings and then quickly moving on to other matters, Cranston's colleagues essentially winked at his actions. As a consequence, he can always argue that he was never reprimanded by the full Senate. He also can cite the committee's findings that he "acted without corrupt intent" and that he "did not receive nor intend to receive personal financial benefit from any of the funds raised through Mr. Keating."

So, after years of investigation and deliberation, the Ethics Committee has slapped Sen. Cranston's wrist for accepting $1 million in bribes — which turns out not to be a violation of the Senate's rules. No wonder so many Americans hold Congress in contempt.

Who is real hostage drama hero?

Amid the rejoicing over the release of Terry Anderson, the last of the American hostages in Lebanon, the role played by his sister, Peggy Say, over the past six years has not been forgotten — nor ought it to be. Immediately after his release, Anderson singled her out for special recognition and a special declaration of gratitude. It was a touching moment, and one supremely well deserved.

More than any other hostage relative, this determined little woman carried the battle, day after day, to make sure that neither the government nor the American people ever forgot the plight of the hostages, or ever did less than their best to secure their freedom. Again and again she could be seen on TV interview shows, or reading some new statement to the cameras, demanding fresh efforts, new initiatives and quicker results.

In doing so, Peggy Say necessarily collided with the official policy of the U.S. government. That policy was to refuse — in my opinion rightly — to bargain with the kidnapers, and instead simply insist that these innocent people must be freed at once, without preconditions. Any other course would have set up a deadly routine whereby any Middle Eastern terrorist group that wanted something could kidnap some innocent American, bargain with our government for his release, and walk away with a series of concessions.

But our policy inevitably meant that there could be no early release of the hostages the terrorists already held. There was nothing for them to do but wait, year after year, until some unforeseeable event changed the minds of the kidnapers. And that just wasn't good enough for Peggy Say.

Unfortunately, if understandably, she allowed herself, late in the Reagan administration, to be drawn into charging publicly that President Reagan wasn't doing enough to free the hostages. The irony was that, in bashing Ronald Reagan, she was injuring the one American official who, almost more than any other, was carrying his empathy for the hostages to seriously questionable lengths. Peggy Say just didn't know that, in supersecret negotiations with Iran conducted by members of his National Security Council staff, Mr. Reagan was jeopardizing the whole American property, in a desperate attempt to free the hostages.

Moreover, in her first statements after her brother's release, Miss Say was effusive over the role played in the final stages by U.N. Secretary General Perez de Cuellar and his personal negotiator in the Middle East. No doubt Mr. Perez de Cuellar deserves congratulations for his efforts, but I suspect he would be the first to acknowledge that they were successful only because of far greater achievements attributable to others — most notably, again, to Ronald Reagan.

Peggy Say ought to proclaim her gratitude to him publicly, every day at high noon, for the central role he played in restoring her brother to her side.

It was Ronald Reagan, that's who.

California money woes worsen

LOS ANGELES — California is facing a financial crisis the size and complexity of which has never been seen before on the state level. Now, according to several new studies, the crisis will only worsen over the coming decade.

California entered fiscal 1991 with an unprecedented $14.3 billion budget shortfall. Despite a $7 billion-plus tax hike, and massive cuts in state programs and payments, California enters the second half of the fiscal year with its budget still at least $3 billion out of balance, and that deficit is growing daily.

Republican Gov. Pete Wilson and legislative leaders agree that new taxes to close the gap are out of the question. The only remaining answer seems to be another round of cuts in health, welfare and education programs. What is being discussed is an across-the-board 10 percent reduction that would hit public education especially hard. "I don't really see there is any other way," Wilson says.

But the governor has a much more ominous message. He says that as bad as California's budget mess is today, it could get much worse over the next decade. And the basic reason has to do with a situation that exists in a growing number of states.

Wilson calls the problem a "taxpayer squeeze" — the growing imbalance between the number of people demanding public services and those working and paying taxes to finance those services. Left unchecked, says Wilson, this imbalance could result in an annual deficit in California in excess of $20 billion by the year 2000.

In a recent speech before the California Merchants and Manufacturers Association, Wilson cited a new study by the state's Finance Department. Using census data projections and current caseloads, the report warned that, by the end of the decade, the number of people in California schools and prisons, and receiving state welfare payments and publicly supported health care services will greatly exceed the number of people paying taxes to support these programs.

By the year 2000, the study projects that California's public schools will be swamped with new students. Over the next 10 years the 5-to-17-year-old age group in the state is expected to grow by 40 percent. As a result, public school enrollment will increase by as much as 48 percent. During the same 10-year period, the caseload of the Aid to Families With Dependent Children program is expected to climb 141 percent. The number of poor receiving health care benefits under the state's Medi-Cal program will grow 60 percent.

In contrast, the working-age adult population — those between the ages of 18 and 64 who pay taxes to support these programs — is projected to grow only 14 percent.

"California is currently experiencing a serious and widening mismatch between explosive growth of its younger population, who are the primary users of government services, and slowdown in growth of its adult working-age population who pay for those services," the Finance Department report said.

The bottom line, according to this new study, is that even if the economy rebounds sharply there is rapid economic growth throughout the '90s, the state's budget will be way out of balance by the year 2000. In that year state revenues would be about $85 billion while outlays would total about $105 billion.

To fully understand the full impact of this report's findings, it must be coupled with the findings of another new study by the California Business Roundtable.

This study shows that 23 percent of 1,462 California business leaders interviewed said they were considering moving all or part of their business operations out of the state. Those surveyed blamed high taxes, the worker compensation system, health care costs, strict liability laws and labor costs. Among manufacturing firms, 37 percent plan to move all or part of their operations out of the state.

This exodus will rob California of millions in corporate taxes as well as the income taxes from tens of thousands of jobs all needed to pay for the ever rising expenditures.

Wilson admits that "the business climate in this state stinks." He is calling for new laws that will allow him to make steep cuts in California's welfare system, which, he says, is turning the state into "a magnet to the nation's needy." He also called on the federal government either to stop the flood of illegal immigrants or help compensate states to support this population.

By the year 2000, 25 percent of California school children and 35 percent of all Californians receiving public benefits will be foreign immigrants, both documented and undocumented.

The governor has a much more ominous message.

Orphan Drug Act doesn't do the job

WASHINGTON — Herb Jacobson of Denver is fighting in Congress for his daughter's life. She is one of fewer than 20,000 Americans who suffer from Gaucher's disease, a rare and potentially fatal enzyme deficiency.

After years of waiting, her family rejoiced at the release of a new drug last spring, Ceredase, which reverses the worst symptoms of Gaucher's disease. But thanks to the consequences of the Orphan Drug Act of 1983, she can't afford to buy Ceredase. It would cost her $340,000 a year. Her health insurance policy has a $1 million spending cap that would be quickly reached if she used it to pay for Ceredase, and since the policy covers her husband and children too, she can't afford to use it up.

For many patients who suffer from rare diseases, the introduction of new drugs was one of the miracles they expected from the Orphan Drug Act, but for some the promise has turned to disappointment and desperation. Orphan drugs are those that no company wants to produce because the market for them is so limited — a handful of people with a rare disease. The 1983 law gave drug companies an incentive to spend the millions of dollars in research money it often takes to develop a new drug.

The law said those companies would be allowed a monopoly for seven years — exclusive Food and Drug Administration approval of their drug and no competition, so they could corner the whole market and recoup their expenses.

The reality has been that some of the orphan drugs have become big business. Without competition, some drug makers have pushed the prices up and out of reach of patients without deep pockets.

"It's uncivilized, that's what it is," Herb Jacobson told our associate Dean Boyd. "What kind of monster would make a drug for people who suffer from (rare diseases), then price it so high no one can buy it?"

In recent years, some manufacturers have realized annual sales of more than $100 million, and, according to patients' advocacy groups, used the monopoly to shield themselves from competition. Last year, Congress looked at the situation and tried to fine-tune that law by introducing some amendments that would have allowed competition in certain cases.

With huge sales at stake, several bio-tech giants deployed their army of lobbyists and succeeded in winning a compromise amendment from Congress. But the White House vetoed it at the request of Vice President Dan Quayle's Council on Competitiveness.

This year, because of the untiring work of relatives like Herb Jacobson and professional advocates for patients, new amendments have been introduced in the House and Senate to allow competitive drugs into the market if sales on the original drug exceed $200 million a year. Even at that, if the company can prove that the cost of developing the drug was high — at least $200 million in the Senate version of the bill and $100 million in the House version — then the monopoly will remain.

But the bio-tech industry is still not ready to compromise. The Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association says that competition, even after a company sold $200 million worth of its drug, would remove monetary incentives to develop new orphan drugs. The association also argues that hundreds of millions of dollars in sales don't necessarily add up to profits because of the costs of research and development.

But the top companies are not exactly forthcoming with the figures on how much they spend on R&D.

Some drug makers have pushed the prices up and out of reach.

Judge cites families' feelings, keeps Challenger tape private

By LAURIE ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Families of astronauts killed in the 1986 Challenger explosion would suffer pain and invasion of privacy if the tape of the crewmembers' last words were released, a federal judge says.

U.S. District Judge Norma Holloway Johnson on Thursday refused to order the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to release the tape, which was sought in a lawsuit filed by The New York Times.

"Exposure to the voice of a beloved family member immediately prior to that family member's death is what would cause the Challenger families pain," Johnson wrote.

Johnson had ruled in 1987 that the tape must be released, but her decision was overturned 6-5 by a federal appeals court. The U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit said in December the judge could not order the tape released without balancing the public interest against the invasion of privacy question.

The New York Times said the tape might help show what caused the Jan. 28, 1986, explosion that killed all seven astronauts aboard.

Johnson said that was "mere speculation," noting that NASA had released a transcript of the tape.

"Even assuming ... there is some voice inflection or background noise on the tape which indicates that the astronauts knew they were going to die, this court cannot see how that information contributes anything to the public's knowledge of how NASA operates," Johnson said.

Johnson said that releasing the tape could lead to a barrage of personal solicitations to Challenger astronauts' families, media contacts and "a disruption of their peace of mind every time a portion of the tape is played within their hearing."

"Release of the tape would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of the families' personal privacy," the judge said. "How the astronauts said what they did" constitutes a privacy interest, she wrote.

New York Times attorney Nancy Nielsen said she could not comment on the ruling because she had not yet had a chance to read it.

The newspaper had argued that the tape should be released because it was related to government business and a public event, and that it included no personal, intimate details.

The tape is the "best available record of governmental activity aboard the Challenger shuttle during the moments prior to the worst disaster in the history of space exploration," the Times said.

Johnson said she agreed the public has an interest in learning about NASA's conduct concerning the Challenger disaster, but added she was not convinced that releasing the tape would serve that interest.

Roberta Padgett explained. "We will open with only two guest rooms for the time being, but we hope to soon expand it to three. We can house as many as six people at a time."

She added, "We have already had our first bookings for Dec. 23, with some people from Miami and a family member of theirs from New Jersey."

Yesterday evening, the Padgetts hosted a Christmas Open House from 5 until 8 p.m. Many area officials and guests were given the opportunity of touring the beautiful home, and seeing the exquisite antique furnishings including a very old Singer sewing machine.

Padgett has set the prices for staying at the home at $75 per night for double occupancy, or $60 for a single, plus tax. No smoking, no pets, and no children will be accepted.

The Higgins house is located immediately across from Centennial Park in the historic district of Sanford.

took over as the project architect.

Plans had to be resubmitted to the state and receive approval of the Department of Education. After that, the school district became the contractor.

"It was a great example of the school district pulling together to save money," Supt. Bob Hughes said.

Some people were, at first, unhappy that the 63-year-old classroom and administrative building that had housed the school was being torn down. They were pacified, however, when several of the elements of the old school, including several architectural medallions that had been on the building's facade, were incorporated into the new facility.

The money for the reconstruction project came from the $106 million bond issue approved by the voters in 1985.

Principal Dan Felham said he thinks the new school is "wonderful."

He added, "We've been in here since the first of the year, but I'm glad the dust has finally settled."

Promotion

posted again by Monday morning, said Personnel Director Tim McCauley. The posting period will end at 4:30 p.m. Dec. 20.

The decision amounted to a victory for two corporals passed over for the promotion, Darrell L. Brewer and Aaron D. Keith, who had filed grievances Nov. 20, contesting the consideration of two applications received after the deadline passed. Keith had also questioned the promotion testing procedure and promotion of Fontana and Prealey despite disciplinary actions in their past.

Fontana had been named to fill a sergeant's vacancy that will be created Dec. 27 as the result of a retiring police officer.

Personnel director McCauley said this morning Keith agreed to drop those claims Wednesday.

McCauley said he accepted the two late applications because they were submitted in a packet of six applications for corporal he received on Nov. 8, seven days after the deadline to receive applications for that promotion. The corporal promotion deadline was later changed and all applicants had to resubmit their names.

McCauley said he believed the sergeant's promotion applications had been submitted to someone in the police department prior to the deadline and had been misplaced.

"I believed they were submitted in good faith," McCauley said.

McCauley has since refused to accept late applications, although he said he would consider them if an applicant was on vacation or ill and might not have known about the available position.

Police Chief Steven Harriett said he would abide by the board's decision. He refused to grant Fontana, Brewer or Keith permission to speak to a reporter, saying "I'm going to handle all the media inquiries on this."

Road

Although the county had originally planned a two-lane roadway that could be expanded to six lanes, Seminole Towne Center developer Melvin Simon and Associates had offered to pay an additional $1.4 million for an additional two lanes during the initial construction phase. Pullen said the money hasn't been received so the county will proceed on schedule with a two-lane project.

Although Simon officials have announced commitments from several anchor stores, including Dillard's, Parisienne and Belk Lindsey, they are reportedly having difficulties in arranging financing to build the $100 million mall, to be located at the southeast corner of the Interstate 4, SR 46 interchange. Rinehart road will serve as a major access to Simon's development which will include offices and hotel rooms.

Pullen said Briar officials have been notified plans for the additional two lanes could be added during the construction if Simon sends the money.

"It could be the largest change order in the history of the county," Pullen said.

Rinehart will become the largest new road in recent county history. The last new road construction was the 2.1-mile extension of Lake Mary Boulevard to Sanford Avenue, which was completed in May 1989. Pullen said all other projects have been late-opening, although a half-mile rerouting of the County Road 427 intersection at U.S. Highway 17-92 at Five Points was completed in 1989.

Interest rates may fall again

WASHINGTON — With little inflation and the Bush administration talking openly about the economy's weakness, analysts anticipate another dramatic move by the Federal Reserve to cut interest rates again.

Some said the Fed could act as soon as today to reduce the discount rate by half a percentage point to 4 percent — which would be its lowest level in nearly a quarter of a century.

Others, however, said the Fed is unlikely to move the most visible of its policy levers until after a meeting next Tuesday.

What could trigger the rate cut was today's release of the widely watched Consumer Price Index, which measures the price increases that Americans experienced in buying retail goods and services in November.

Indicted Keating says he is scapegoat

LOS ANGELES — Charles Keating Jr., indicted on 77 federal fraud charges on top of his conviction in California, complained as he was led away in chains that he's a scapegoat for the nation's savings and loan crisis.

"There but for the grace of political power goes Neil Bush," Keating said as he was taken into federal custody Thursday, shackled to his son and co-defendant, Charles Keating III. He referred to President Bush's son, who federal thrift regulators decided had engaged in conflicts of interest while on the board of Denver's Silverado Savings. Its failure cost taxpayers $1 billion, but Neil Bush was not charged with criminal wrongdoing.

Lawyer: Kennedy trial victory for family

WEST PALM BEACH — William Kennedy Smith's lawyer says his acquittal wasn't a setback for rape victims but a victory against an effort to put the Kennedy family on trial.

"This case is a landmark for Will Smith and his family," lawyer Roy Black said Thursday during a whirlwind day of interviews about his defense of the 31-year-old nephew of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

"It's not a case that should change rape law or the way rape cases are handled," he said.

A spokeswoman for Smith said he was relaxing at the Kennedy estate on Thursday and looking forward to resuming his medical career in January, when he will start a residency he postponed at the University of New Mexico hospital.

Scientists scramble to find radium

LANSLOWNE, Pa. — Contractors in the early 1920s used a sandy material they got from a warehouse in this Philadelphia suburb to build homes and businesses in the area.

Federal scientists are now scrambling to find out where it was used because it wasn't really sand. It was the potentially lethal waste product of processed radium.

Since October, a special van loaded with sensitive radiation detection equipment has spent weeks crawling through neighborhoods looking for signs of contamination.

Contractors used the radioactive waste to make stucco, concrete and plaster. It is now decaying in the walls and foundations of homes, spewing radon gas, which is linked to cancer.

'Hook' reviews mixed, ticket sales slow

LOS ANGELES — Steven Spielberg's costly "Hook" is supposed to be the movie of the year, rescuing Hollywood from its doldrums and packing moviegoers into theaters.

So far, though, "Hook" has snared little more than mixed reviews and unimpressive ticket sales.

For TriStar Pictures, stung like other studios by the recession and slumping movie attendance, the movie's slow start could be a blowside amid a barrage of bad news.

Orion Pictures Corp. sits in bankruptcy, declaring Chapter 11 Wednesday, and MGM Pathe Communications Co. teeters on the brink. While TriStar's financial health isn't in jeopardy, the studio has much riding on "Hook."

Jay Leno gets VIP treatment from Bush

WASHINGTON — Comedian Jay Leno got the VIP treatment from President Bush at the White House, but it didn't keep him from cracking jokes at Bush's expense.

Leno, who'll succeed Johnny Carson next year on "The Tonight Show," had private audiences at the White House on Thursday with both Bush and Vice President Dan Quayle, a frequent butt of Leno's jokes. Bush also took him on a tour of the Christmas decorations in the executive mansion.

Board considers old, new slots

By VICKI BOGANNON
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The School Board of Seminole County has postponed until next month discussion about the hiring of a staff attorney/chief negotiator.

When Ernie Cowley, who has been the chief negotiator of the Seminole County school district for 25 years, retires at the end of this month, that position will become available.

The district employees unions hope to fill the position as soon as possible because district employees are still working without a contract for the 1991-92 school year.

The staff attorney would be a new position. The school board attorney, a position currently held by Ned Julian, would continue to advise the board while the staff attorney would work with administrative staff, including principals.

Board members, unclear as to why an additional attorney was needed and in need of answers about division of duties between the attorneys, called for a work session at 6 p.m. on Jan. 7.

"I just want to look at the feasibility of all of this," said chairman Nancy Warren.

A job description, written by the district's personnel department, but not yet approved by the board called for the staff attorney/chief negotiator to be a member of the Florida Bar, to have three years of legal experience, to have some experience in collective bargaining with some "sensitivity to management viewpoint" and some knowledge of labor and education laws.

The position would pay between $52,699 and $65,553 annually.

While the board did not yet approve the job description for the staff attorney/chief negotiator position, they did create four other new job categories.

An employee benefits coordinator, earning between $27,940 and $34,692 annually will be hired in the department of business and finance.

A similar position, now called the supervisor of employee benefits, has been eliminated and the job "down-graded." As a result, the starting salary is reduced from $37,275.

The employee benefit coordinator's job duties include managing the daily activities of the employee benefits office, monitoring benefits materials and informing employees of changes, monitoring claims reports, conducting new employee orientations and overseeing workers' compensation programs.

The board also approved the creation of three positions in the instructional services division.

MOSCOW — The leaders of five Central Asian republics today agreed to join Russian President Boris Yeltsin's new commonwealth, abandoning the Kremlin and turning a cold shoulder to Mikhail S. Gorbachev's hopes of preserving the Soviet Union.

The move gives irresistible momentum to the commonwealth and further corners Soviet President Gorbachev, who appears on the verge of resigning.

The leaders of Kazakhstan and the predominantly Muslim republics of Kirgizia, Tadzhikistan, Uzbekistan and Turkmenistan made the decision during a meeting in Ashkhabad, the Turkmen capital, the Tass news agency reported.

Kazakhstan, the second-largest Soviet republic, is the only non-Slavic territory with nuclear weapons.

Today's decision leaves only four relatively small republics outside the commonwealth — Georgia, Azerbaijan, Armenia and Moldavia. All have said they are considering joining.

Russia, Ukraine and Byelorussia formed the still-loosely defined Commonwealth of Independent States on Sunday to replace a central government whose power swiftly eroded in the wake of August's failed coup by hard-line Communists.

The three Slavic republics comprise the bulk of the Soviet Union's industrial and agricultural might, as well as most of its territory and population. But Kazakhstan has substantial resources and possesses nuclear weapons that officials seek to keep under central control.

Sanford airport second for funds received

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Central Florida Regional Airport has finally made the top 10 list. The Federal Aviation Authority has announced it as having received the second highest amount of funds in the Southern Region.

Airport Director Steve Cooke said, "We have been informed that we received the second highest amount of funding from the FAA during Fiscal Year 1991, in the General Aviation and Reliever Airport category." The airport received a total of $2.6 million in discretionary dollars during this year.

He explained, "Discretionary funds are those which we applied for, and go into competition with other airports in order to get the money."

"Last year," Cooke said, "we received only about $1 million, and we weren't even in the top ten."

The money obtained this year was used to construct taxiway "B", taxiway "C", obtain various navigational aides and other improvements. The money does not include the cost of erecting the new control tower. "That's a completely separate FAA fund," Cooke said. The tower construction involved an additional $550,000 from the Federal Government.

The FAA Airportopics report issued by the U.S. Government indicates 273 new grants totaling $366 million were made at 186 airports around the nation during this past year.

Tribe tops pesky Hornets; top-ranked St. Cloud next

By SEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — Overcoming a rare size disadvantage and not-uncommon special defense, the Seminole High School girls basketball team held off the Bishop Moore Hornets 46-40 at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium Thursday night.

The win, which improved the Tribe's record to 4-1, was a good tuneup for the fifth ranked Class 3A team's matchup at No. 1-ranked St. Cloud tonight. Bishop Moore, receiving votes in Class 2A, fell to 2-2.

The junior varsity contest went to visitor's by a 43-26 score.

Seminole got off to a slow start because of the Hornets' box-and-one defense on Niki Washington and 6-foot, 6-inch sophomore Amy Dorsett.

With one girl denying Washington the ball and the rest of the team playing zone defense, the Tribe tried LAKE MARY — In a battle between undefeated teams, little things can make the difference.

On Thursday night, free throws — some made, some missed — were the deciding factor as the Lake Brantley Patriots pulled out a 48-45 win over the host Lake Mary Rams in a Seminole Athletic Conference girls' basketball game.

Lake Brantley improves to 6-0, 1-0 in the SAC. Lake Mary is now 5-1 overall, 0-1 in the conference.

Holiday tournament season starts tonight

It must almost be Christmas because tournaments are popping up on the high school athletic calendar. The holiday tournament season begins tonight with a pair of wrestling events. Seminole heads over to

Rams able to dodge Patriot upset bid

From Staff Reports

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — How far is it from the top to the bottom? In Seminole County, not far.

On Thursday night, the undefeated Lake Mary High School boys' soccer team just barely escaped Lake Brantley's Tom Storey Field with their perfect record intact, rallying from a 2-1 deficit to pull out a 3-2 victory over the host Patriots.

Lake Mary is now 7-0, 2-0 in the Seminole Athletic Conference. Lake Brantley falls to 2-4, 0-3 in the conference.

"It looked like a definite loss for us," said Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle. "Lake Brantley really played well in the second half."

The Rams struck almost immediately, Brian Coduto scoring on an assist from Eric Davis a minute into the match. Four minutes later, the Patriots took advantage of a Lake Mary defensive miscue as Mike Johnston netted the equalizer.

Lake Mary had a chance to go up 2-1 before halftime when Lake Brantley was called for a foul in the penalty area. But Mario Travlos' attempt on the penalty kick ricocheted off the goalpost.

The Patriots went out in front on a beautiful goal by Jimmy Melettilidis in the 45th minute. Melettilidis was making a left-to-right crossing run in front of the Lake Mary goal when he received the ball and played a shot back across the goal mouth to the far post.

Just when it looked like Lake Brantley might pull off the upset, Coduto tied the game when he scored with 10 minutes left in the match. Bruce Leenim assisted on the goal.

Jody DeBruin spoiled any Patriot dreams of salvaging a tie when he took a cross from Justin Walker and volleyed it home for the game-winner with two minutes to play. It was DeBruin's first high school goal.

"Despite having balls bouncing the wrong way and missing a penalty kick, we pulled it out," said McCorkle. "I'm proud of the way we came back and won."

Lake Mary outshot Lake Brantley 17-9 and had a 3-2 edge in corner kicks. Ram goalie Pat Riley made seven saves while Patriot keeper Chris Williams came up with eight stops.

The Rams will play again Saturday at Winter Park. Lake Brantley's next scheduled match is at Seminole next Wednesday.

Lyman sidesteps Tribe trap

By TONY DeSORMER
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — It certainly wasn't pretty. But whatever shortcomings Lyman's 2-0 win over Seminole in a Seminole Athletic Conference boys' soccer match Thursday night may have had on an artistic scale, it wasn't lacking for drama.

Seminole, just 48 hours removed from a 6-0 strafing by Lake Mary, effectively used the offside trap, physical defensive play and the small surface of Thomas E. Whigham Stadium to slow down the fleet-footed Greyhounds.

Lyman was still able to create offensive opportunities but was still faced with a scoreless tie at halftime. The stalemate continued until Chad Courtney finally broke through for the Greyhounds, scoring on an assist from Dan McAvoy with 20:00 left in the game.

Brian Fooks added an insurance goal at 72:40, also on an assist from McAvoy.

"Seminole gives us a hard game everytime we play them here," said Lyman coach Ray Sandidge. "We missed some chances and their goalkeeper (Jon Williams) made some good saves."

"The thing is, the longer a game like that goes on, the more confidence the other team gets. And as long as the score's 0-0, if we make one mistake, we could be in trouble."

Seminole did get off four shots on goal but Lyman keeper Robert Colon was equal to the task, making a pair of saves. By comparison, Williams finished with 12 saves on the 33 shots attempted by the Greyhounds.

"This was probably one of the biggest turnarounds I've ever seen since I've been here," said Seminole coach Carlos Merlino. "The boys showed me an awful lot tonight."

The Greyhound junior varsity also was victorious, winning 5-0.

Lyman, now 5-1-1 overall and 3-0 in the SAC, hosts Gainesville on Saturday. Seminole, 0-3 overall and in the conference, is at home against Lake Brantley next Wednesday.

Take off pounds sensibly

By HERMAN BEHRENDER
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Thelma Shrewberry is only half the woman she used to be.

As guest speaker at a recent Take Off Pounds Sensibly meeting held at Howell Place, Sanford, the 1991 state TOPS Queen once weighed 255 pounds. Now a sleek 145 pounds, Shrewberry, from Altamonte Springs, told the group that she had been fat for years and had tried many ways to lose weight. Except she said, she never tried eating less.

Her doctor gave her an ultimatum: lost weight or else.

Shrewberry's blood pressure was elevated. She had to take medicine.

Shrewberry said she heard about TOPS, a group that offers support and encouragement.

She changed her diet and eating habits, choosing smaller portions of healthier foods.

She exercised more. The pounds slowly melted away, she told 16 members and four guests of the Sanford chapter.

Other TOPS members shared their battle with the bulge.

Rose Davis was congratulated for losing the most weight in the week preceding the meeting. She shed five pounds.

Members agreed with Shrewberry. It is hard to lose weight and keep it off, but the rewards are great.

Shrewberry passed around before and after pictures of herself. She said she no longer has to take medicine for high blood pressure now that she weighs 145 pounds. She reminded members to lose the excess weight and make fewer trips to the doctor.

TOPS Sanford Chapter, led by Johnnie Furtrell, began in 1967. Members have been meeting at Howell Place for several years. In 1977, a Sanford member, Margaret Matthews, was chosen state queen. The Sanford club meets every Tuesday at 6:15 p.m.

Husband's daughter stone in wife's shoe

DEAR ABBY: Once again, you are receiving a letter from someone who never dreamed she would be writing to you for advice. Actually, I don't know if I want advice, or just need to get my feelings out. (I'm too ashamed to talk to any friends or family.)

I have been married for seven years to a wonderful man and I love him dearly. He has an 8-year-old daughter from a previous marriage. The problem is, I can't stand to be around her. I've always felt this way, but it has become worse since I had my own daughter 2½ years ago.

My stepdaughter (I'll call her Mary) is with us every other weekend and on holidays. When Mary comes to stay, I get depressed because I feel I have to pretend to like her — I don't hate her, and I would never hurt her. In fact, when she needs discipline, I bite my lip to keep from saying anything.

Mary has a sassy mouth and can be very rude to adults. My husband is aware of my feelings for her, but he doesn't know how deep they are. I truly love my own daughter, and when my husband walks in on Fridays with Mary, I cringe; when he leaves with her on Sunday, I let out a sigh of relief.

I hope one day things will get better, but right now, I can't seem to get over my feelings.

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: Congratulations — you have already identified your problem, are properly contrite and want to resolve it. We all have people in our lives we cannot "love" or even like, so don't be ashamed.

You need to find out why you have such hostile feelings toward this 8-year-old child. Perhaps it has something to do with her being the daughter of your husband's former wife.

You could also be reacting to Mary's negative feelings toward you. After all, you are the woman who replaced her mother. And it's also possible that Mary's mother may have influenced her.

Please consider a family therapist. Your problem may be solved once you understand why you and your stepdaughter feel the way you do.

A candle flickers on the mantle... a wavering, unsteady light... easily extinguished with one breath. A flame, however, is a "blaze"... an intense light full of strength and vigor... which may survive for hours or days, despite all efforts to extinguish it.

In these times, we may consider our faith in God. It can resemble a flicker, easily wavering when a troubling breeze of despair blows our way... or a flame, able to survive the most difficult of circumstances... with God as its source.

Develop the steady flame of an unwavering faith as you worship God each Sabbath, and glow with the assurance of His abiding strength...

*"I see heaven's glories shine,
 And faith shines equal,
 Arming me from fear."*

Celebration of Christmas

Join family, friends and neighbors in the celebration of the birth of our Savior, Jesus Christ

By KELLEY MITCHELL
Herald Religion Editor

Musical presentations, live Nativity scenes and candlelight services are only a few of the activities available to the community during this Christmas season in the coming week.

Mark your calendars and join in the celebration of the birth of our Savior with the following events:

• The members of Mission No. Two of New Mount Calvary Missionary Baptist Church, 1109 W. 12th St., Sanford, will sponsor Operation Blessing On Saturday from noon until 4 p.m. the church will give away clothing, toys and household articles to those in need in the parking lot of the church, behind Tip Top Supermarket on East 13th Street.

During this holiday season we remember Acts

20:35. "I have shewed you all things, how that so labouring ye ought to support the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, It is more blessed to give than to receive."

• The Sanford Church of God, 801 W. 22nd St., will present two Christmas musical dramas. On Sunday at 10:45 a.m. the Sanctuary Choir will perform a mini-Christmas musical/drama entitled "Open Your Treasure Give Of Yourself To The Lord." The Church Ensemble will present "Home For Christmas" during the 6 p.m. evening service. Bring family and friends to celebrate the birth of Jesus.

• An ornament is something that adds virtue and grace to everyone who sees it; something that is a perfect example, a standard for all the rest to follow. Jesus, God's perfect ornament, was broken for you and me when he was hung on a tree. Not a Christmas pine or an artificial kind, but the one on Calvary.

The public is cordially invited to attend "The Story of the Ornament" which will be presented by the Children's Choirs of First Baptist Church, 519 Park Ave., Sanford, on Sunday at 8:55 p.m. The Children's Choirs are under the direction of Beverice Hays and Terry Moore.

On Dec. 21, 22, the music ministry of the church proudly presents the original, musical drama, "Hear the Angels Sing," at 8:55 p.m. The program will be presented by the Celebration Choir, under the direction of the Rev. Jim Cornell, and drama ministry.

The drama presentation is written by Beth Nicholas and directed by Peggy Noell.

• Abundant Life Christian Fellowship, which meets at 549 W. Lake Mary Blvd., Lake Mary, will hold a Birthday Party for Jesus on Sunday at 8 p.m. The gifts take the form of using a God-given ability, making something of it, and presenting to the Christ Child.

Examples are: singing a song, playing a musical piece, telling a story, reading a poem, giving a gift to the church such as a worship banner or a book, etc.

The evening will close with fellowship and refreshments.

• The First Presbyterian Church, 301 Oak Ave., Sanford, will present "Christmas Time," a Christmas musical by children at 4 p.m. on Sunday.

The church will also hold its Christmas Craft Bazaar, sponsored by the youth of the church, at 11 a.m. and 5 p.m., after the morning service and the children's program. Proceeds will go into a "trips, camps, and conferences" fund for all ages. An Advent Recital featuring Ken Stoops, organist, will be given Tuesday at noon.

What causes an enlarged heart?

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can you explain what an enlarged heart means? Will this shorten my life span? My doctor appears unconcerned.

DEAR READER: The heart can enlarge because of normal growth of cardiac muscle, as occurs in well-trained athletes who often have slow pulses and big hearts.

The heart can also enlarge because the muscle fibers stretch. Unlike the normal heart of the athlete, the stretched heart is flabby and weak. This is usually due to cardiac disease (such as arteriosclerosis) and the primary heart damage that results from hypertension, infection or excessive alcohol consumption.

When the heart stretches and dilates, blood flow to the body is slowed and fluid may leak into tissues, such as the lungs and the legs. Called congestive heart failure, this serious condition can lead to extreme difficulty breathing and suffocation. Therefore, it should be promptly treated with heart stimulants (such as digoxin) and diuretics (such as Lasix).

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suffer from spontaneous bruising and don't know what causes the condition. Can you enlighten me?

DEAR READER: Spontaneous bruising is always cause for concern because this symptom can reflect a deficiency in the normal clotting mechanism, which — if untreated — could lead to serious consequences, such as hemorrhage.

On one hand, spontaneous bruising may merely reflect the aging process, during which the blood capillaries weaken and become more susceptible to minor trauma. Also, some medicines — such as aspirin — can cause bruising, as can a deficiency of vitamin C.

On the other hand, leukemia and similar blood disorders (which affect the quantity and function of blood cells) often lead to spontaneous bruising. Further, liver disease causes bruising because the normal clotting mechanism depends on proteins produced in the liver.

In my opinion, you should see your doctor for an examination and testing that will include a complete blood count and other measures of blood components necessary for clotting.

WIN AT B

By Phillip Alder

Some contracts stand no chance of success. The defenders sit back and collect their winners. But sometimes the defensive road to success is littered with mines waiting to explode if either defender takes one false step.

Today's deal occurred during the quarterfinal NEC Bermuda Bowl match between Poland and Great Britain. No, the bidding diagram isn't one big misprint. The Poles sitting East-West play a forcing pass system, in which an "opening" pass shows any hand with 13 or more points. West's one-diamond "response" was a negative: 0-6 points. Now North made a natural bid, but the artificiality returned. South's two diamonds asking for further information. After that, natural bidding got the British pair to four spades.

West led the heart three. This was his third- or fifth-best heart, a method that is popular in expert circles. If East had won with the ace, declarer would have dropped the king. This would have established two key heart entries to the dummy: one for a finesse in trumps, the second giving access to a club winner after a ruffing finesse had removed East's king. But East played low.

South won with dummy's heart 10 and led the diamond 10. East rose with the ace and switched to a trump. Declarer finessed the jack and led the heart king. East did well again, winning with the ace and returning a heart. Now declarer ran dummy's diamond nine, but West won with the jack and returned his second trump, killing the diamond ruff in the dummy: one down.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bode Oso

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Dec. 14, 1991

Set your sights a trifle higher in the year ahead regarding objectives you'd like to achieve. Your probabilities for success are enhanced — if you push yourself a bit harder than usual.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A little change of venue this evening could do you a world of good. Go out somewhere different with friends who fit comfortably into all types of situations. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you're hoping to finalize a matter of importance today, let things proceed at their natural pace. Attempting to accelerate the process could push matters off course.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

This is one of those days where expensive, diversionary activities could turn out to be the least amount of fun. Enjoy yourself without bruising your wallet.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Take the initiative today in developments that have a direct effect on your material interests. Don't depend on someone else to look out for your end.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you permit your mind to wander today, it could seriously impede your progress. Make a concerted effort to keep your focus on the task at hand.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Social obligations that are too demanding of your time and patience today could turn out to be unsettling. If you must attend an obligatory event, pop in and out quickly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Owing to poor planning, you might start several projects today, then abandon them when they're only half-completed. To be effective, you must think your moves through in advance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try not to waste too much time today rehashing something on which you've already decided to take specific action. If you don't start promptly, you may not start at all.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be extremely careful in business negotiations today, or else you might make a bum deal that becomes difficult to unravel. The secret to success is to do it right the first time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't team up with a partner on a new endeavor today if this individual isn't as enthusiastic about it as you are. Both parties must be of the same mind.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Take ample time today to think through all your alternatives before making a major decision. Don't let an outside influence determine your timetable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) An assignment you've mapped out for yourself today might not come off in accordance with your schedule. However, if you persist, you should still be able to get it in under the wire.
