Planners nix Metts' request

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Marveen Kelly, whose Magnolia Avenue home is within four blocks of Seminole Volunteer Enterprises, said plans to serve dinners for the needy at the non-profit agency would cause such a traffic problem that she would need to find alternative routes home.

"I have a problem navigating that area on certain nights already," Kelly said. "I can not tell you how many children I have seen come close to being seriously injured."

Variance denied for parking at 'soup kitchen'

Kelly and other residents of Sanford's historic district who oppose plans by Seminole Volunteer Enterprises to start the restaurant for the needy scored a victory Thursday, as the city's Planning and Zoning Commission denied a request from the agency to vary on-site parking requirements by a vote of 4-1.

Jean Metts, executive director of Seminole Volunteer Enterprises, said she intends to file an immediate appeal to the City Commission. The agency has up to 30 days to appeal the denial by the Planning and Zoning Commission. "I'll appeal it right away," Metts said. The agency is proposing to operate a restaurant to serve meals to the needy in conjunction with its existing food distribution program.

Seminole Volunteer Enterprises, located at 407 W. Fourth Street, is seeking to establish the restaurant with 14 parking spaces, rather than the 50 required by the city's off-street parking requirements.

"I'm not talking about homeless people and I'm not talking about a soup kitchen," Metts said. "I'm talking about a beautiful dining area."

The city requires one parking space for every four people served at a restaurant. See Request, Page 2A

Chief's aim saves his life, stops suspect

Kerr shoots tires as criminal tries to run over him

By Joe DeBantis
Staff Writer

SANFORD — It's been a rough week for local law enforcement officers. First Hurricane Floyd. Then crazy drivers.

On Monday in Winter Springs, police chief Daniel Kerr had to draw his weapon and shoot out the tires of a motorist who attempted to run him down after a routine traffic stop.

While traveling in an unmarked car Monday, Kerr, dressed in full police uniform, pulled over a vehicle traveling on Winding Hollow and Twelve Oaks Roads. When he asked the driver, who falsely identified himself as Eric Harlan Phelps, 44, of St. Cloud, for his license and registration, Phelps informed the chief he left it at home. Kerr told Phelps to turn his vehicle off and returned to his unmarked car to call for a marked Winter Springs patrol unit. Just as Kerr returned to his vehicle, he heard Phelps restart his car and rev up the engine. Kerr turned around to find the vehicle racing toward him as if to run him over.

"He was revving up the engine and popped the clutch. He headed straight for me," said Kerr.

Kerr yelled at Phelps to stop his vehicle but as the car lurched toward him, he drew his weapon. Phelps drove directly at the chief and veered hard to the right just missing him.

"When I drew the weapon he veered off," recounted the chief. As Phelps' vehicle raced past See Chief, Page 4A

Sheriff warns of ATM scam

By Joe DeBantis
Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County Sheriff's Office has issued a community advisory for Seminole County residents to be alert for a scam that has cropped up in the Orlando area involving the use of ATM machines.

The scam is designed to obtain the bank customer's ATM card and/or their personal identification number (PIN).

Public information officer Steve Olson indicated that the scam is executed when the perpetrators insert a piece of cardboard or plastic into the ATM's card reader to jam the ATM card upon insertion into the machine. Once the machine is jammed the suspects will then hang a sign on the ATM stating "If your card gets stuck, enter your P.I.N. to eject it."

Once the customer enters the PIN, the ATM card is either ejected or remains stuck in the machine. In either event, the machine's mechanisms are still open for a possible transaction. The suspects will then enter the customer's bank account and withdraw whatever money is available.

The Sheriff's department indicated that so far no incidents have been reported in Seminole County, but are cautioning local ATM users that if they see similar signs on ATM machines they attempt to use, to contact local law enforcement offices immediately.

Schools attempt to keep classes small despite growing population

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD — As class sizes rise, students usually receive less individual attention.

The Seminole County School Board is trying to avoid the potential for overcrowded schools as Seminole County's population continues to grow.

Seminole County's population has grown 8.4 percent over the last five years, from 324,130 in 1995 to 354,148 in 1999, according to county records. From 1998 to 1999 alone, the county experienced growth of 2.5 percent. The most rapid growth is in the southeastern portion of the county, followed by the northeastern portion.

"We definitely want to avoid having to raise class sizes," said Superintendent Paul Hagerty after a recent planning committee session.

The student to teacher ratio in Seminole County schools in kindergarten through the second grade is 22 students per teacher. There are 26.75 students per teacher in grades three through five, and 28.3 students per teacher in grades six through eight. In grades nine through 12, there are 28.6 students per teacher.

In several elementary cluster schools, the ratio is 20 students per teacher in kindergarten through the second grade, and 25 students per teacher in grades three through five.

In magnet high school programs, there are 25 students per teacher.

At Crooms Academy in Sanford, there are 20 students per teacher at the high school level and 15 students per teacher at the middle school level.

The Seminole County School Board will hold a work session on Tuesday with the Future Planning Committee to discuss ways to avoid potential increases in class sizes. The meeting will be held following a 5:30 p.m. See Schools, Page 8A

Vehicle crash on 17/92

and the agency's planned restaurant could serve up to 200 people according to a Sanford Fire Department inspection.

"To me, 14 spaces just seems grossly inadequate for 200 seats," said Planning and Zoning Commissioner Michael Skat.

Metts said she would be willing to limit the seating to 100. The city would require 25 parking spaces if seating is limited to 100.

The agency is zoned special commercial and is located within the old residential historic district. Metts said there are residents living in apartments within the historic district who already take advantage of food distribution programs at the agency.

Metts estimates that if the parking variance is approved, the restaurant could open within six weeks.

Opponents of a proposed restaurant said the program would increase crime in the historic district.

"Like it or not, when you have people that are attracted to the area by a labor pool or by this program, inevitably it attracts some of the people who contribute to crime," said Steven Myers, who owns a home on Oak Avenue.

Metts plans to hold the dinners on Monday, Tuesday and Friday from 4:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. Meat, potatoes, vegetables, salads, desserts, coffee and tea would be served. She said the agency is also looking into serving lunches for seniors.

"We served 30 dinners in August as a test for this program," Metts said. "They walked or rode bikes to get here. There was not a parking problem."

Opponents of the proposed restaurant said they are concerned that plans for the program could increase.

"When you begin to feed the working poor you come to realize there are more working poor than you ever imagined," said Bart Rush, who lives on S. Park Avenue.

Three people currently work in the agency's building on a regular basis. Metts said the workers would increase to 10 if the restaurant is started.

"They would car pool and that sort of thing," Metts said. "There would not be any more for the workers."

The parking variance request is not the only issue relating to the proposed restaurant being considered by city officials.

Under a proposal that was tabled by the City Commission in August, social service programs such as soup kitchens and food distribution activities would be required to receive approval by both the Planning and Zoning Commission and the City Commission, similar to the way the city approves on-site sales of alcoholic beverages.

Food programs already legal by ordinance at Seminole Volunteer Enterprises would not be affected under the proposed changes. However, new programs would need to meet changed zoning requirements.

Seminole Volunteer Enterprises distributes an average of 2,000 to 2,200 United States Department of Agriculture food commodities to those who qualify, Metts said.

For two years, Seminole Volunteer Enterprises has also operated a food pantry at its present location. During the third and fourth weeks of each month, Metts said that 50 households per day receive food in the program.

Undercover agent involved in accident

On Thursday, an undercover OCIB officer was driving past the Popeys restaurant on Highway 17-82 when a large Cadillac traveling at high speed rear-ended him and pinned the undercover vehicle against a pole badly enough that the driver's side door had to be cut off to remove the injured officer. Traffic was tied up for nearly 30 minutes on 17-82 in Sanford when a motorist rear-ended an undercover officer. The officer had to be cut out of the driver's side of the vehicle when the doors were pinned against a utility pole on the outside of the Popeys restaurant. The officer was placed in a neck brace and taken for medical evaluation.

A life worth living

Editor's note: Russ White is on vacation this week. The following column is from the "Best of Russ," a collection of his previously published columns.

A couple of years ago Dennis Joyner tried to go on an escalator in his wheelchair.

He was rushing to catch a flight at National Airport in Washington D.C.

Unable to break clear at the top of the escalator, Joyner had to roll over and out of the wheelchair.

Doing so, he dislocated his right shoulder.

Since the incident, Donna Joyner has warned her husband about any further escalator tumbling.

"She's even threatened to go with me on trips," Joyner joked Wednesday.

Joyner, 50, has worked for Seminole County for more than 10 years. He's currently the Assistant Supervisor of Elections for the county.

Those who have worked with Joyner say he is the most cheerful, optimistic, positive person they have ever met. "Want a hero?" Diane Merkt said. "Here's a genuine hero. The most positive individual I've met."

Joyner made a resolve 30 years ago that "somehow, some way" he would keep on going after he lost both legs and his left hand in an explosion during an Army reconnaissance mission in the Mekong Delta region of South Vietnam.

He had been in Viet Nam 32 days when he tripped into the booby trap mine. Aware what had happened and seeing his legs and left hand were gone, Joyner screamed, "let me die."

A sergeant slapped him in the face to keep Joyner from going into shock. And he told the 20-year-old soldier, "You have a lot to live for."

Sgt. Eddie Reynolds was correct. Dennis Joyner had a lot to live for.

"I have something to share with people," said Joyner, a past National Commander of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) who was named once by President Ronald Reagan as the nation's Disabled American of the Year.

Joyner has spoken in cities across the country, trying his best "to crawl inside your chest and to massage your heart."

He tells people that life goes on and if you're going to live, its best to keep smiling and enjoying life. "The more I spoke, the more I realized I was enjoying life," he said.

His favorite times today are with his wife and their 10-year-old daughter, Kristen. She's a student at Sabal Point Elementary School and a good swimmer. Dennis swims with her at their home pool. He also rides a three-wheel bike with a hand pedal and shoots baskets from his wheelchair.

Of all the stories Joyner tells, the one that best captures his spirit, resolve and sense of humor concerns a hunting trip a few years ago.

"Other hunters saw me out in the woods and I'm sure they wanted to run," he said.

"The first deer I ever got - I don't think I really got it. I think the deer died of a heart attack. It came running into the middle of the field and saw me in a wheelchair with a gun. It looked right at me and said, 'You've got to be kidding.'"

SANFORD - A touring group that specializes in the music of the Middle East is coming to Sanford.

The Jews for Jesus Liberated Wailing Wall musical ensemble will perform at Central Baptist Church in Sanford on Tuesday, Sept. 28 at 7 p.m.

Their music reflects many styles of Jewish and Christian worship and the group uses a variety of instruments to achieve their sound, including the piano, guitar, violin, and dunbek, a Middle Eastern drum.

"This is the second time the group has performed here," said Jack Thomas, minister of music for Central Baptist Church. "The music is truly beautiful. It is alive and vibrant, and will inspire you."

Jews for Jesus is an independent missionary organization founded in 1973. The denomination believes that faith in Jesus does not detract from the Jewish culture and heritage.

The public is invited to attend the concert. Central Baptist Church is located at 3101 W. State Road 46 in Sanford.

There will be no admission charge, although a free will offering will be taken for those who wish to contribute to the ministry of Jews for Jesus.

What can the Ten Comandments Do?

THE CONSERVATIVE ADVOCATE

WILLIAM A. RUSHER

On NBC's "Today" show recently, co-host Katie Couric was questioning conservative Janet Parshall, and the conversation got around to whether the Ten Commandments ought to be posted in public schools. Ms. Parshall thought they should.

Whereupon Ms. Couric moved in for the kill: "But do you really think a simple posting of the Ten Commandments will prevent youth violence?"

That question is a belated but formidable entry in the competition for Stupidest Question of the 20th Century.

Nobody — certainly not Ms. Parshall nor I — is suggesting that if Eric Harris and Dylan Klebold, upon entering Columbine High School with their sawed-off shotguns under their coats, had happened to see the Ten Commandments posted on a wall and read the firm injunction "Thou shalt not kill," they would have turned on their heels and slunk away. Since they wouldn't, to suppose that this demonstrates the futility of the Ten Commandments is almost unbelievably absurd.

The truth is, however, that posting the Ten Commandments would inevitably give rise to a train of thought, among the student body as a whole and over a long period of time, so powerful in its implications that the proposal is being fought bitterly by people who reject those implications. If the Ten Commandments were really so innocuous, they wouldn't bother.

What, then, are those implications? The Ten Commandments are, or purport to be, commandments of God, given by him to Moses and transmitted by Moses to the people of Israel. If so, that necessarily implies two extremely important things: First, that there is a God, a Supreme Being who created heaven and earth and everything in them (including mankind); and second, that God has solemnly ordered mankind to obey the injunctions laid down in the commandments he gave to Moses.

If those commandments were posted prominently in every public school, their first effect would be to let the students know that the school authorities (and for that matter, the state government that controls them) acknowledge the existence of God. And their second effect would be to inform the students of God's 10 rules laid down to govern their behavior.

Further reflection would inevitably suggest to the students that disobeying the orders of a Supreme Being is rather obviously a bad idea. Underneath consequences are pretty clearly implied.

One can see why people who deny the existence of God, and of immutable moral "commandments," would fight the posting of the Ten Commandments with tooth and claw. They insist that this would violate the First Amendment's ban on the establishment of a state religion, though the statements of the Founding Fathers, beginning with the words of the Declaration of Independence, openly acknowledge the existence of God.

Once the subversive notion that there is a God, and that he has given us rules to obey and live by, begins to spread through the student population, its consequences over time are bound to be enormous. To some students, who have received religious instruction at home, it will be old news. Others, already steeped in secularism, will dismiss it as a bad joke. But many students, who have received little or no religious instruction from their parents, will note the respect with which society at large (as represented by the school) treats the Ten Commandments, and feel subtly drawn to the whole concept. Many will find it the door to a more wholesome life.

Simply posting the Ten Commandments in school will never wipe out sin. But it is a safe bet that it would nudge toward God an unknown number of youngsters who might otherwise become moral monsters not far different from the killers of Columbine High.

Church celebrates 15th anniversary

By Bill Kerna
Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Lake Mary recently celebrated its 15th Anniversary.

Some special guests were on hand to mark the occasion on Sunday, Lake Mayor David Meador proclaimed this to be St. Peter's Episcopal Week.

There were also several Honduran citizens who have come to the area on temporary visas while receiving special medical treatment unavailable near their home.

Every year, missionaries from St. Peter's spend a week in Honduras, helping to build a medical and dental facility in the town of Quince de Enero. From June 12-19, there were 50 to 75 members of the Church working on the facility, said Parish Administrator Bernadette Moore.

"To come here, the Hondurans had to go through their government and the U.S. Embassy and prove that they have a place to stay as well as medical facilities and doctors ready to take care of them," Moore said.

St. Peter's Episcopal and Holy Cross Lutheran Church both celebrated their 15th anniversaries this past weekend. One month ago, River Oaks Presbyterian Church in Lake Mary held inaugural services.

"I think it's a tribute to the people of Lake Mary that we support our churches regardless of denomination," Meador said.

St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Lake Mary is located at 700 Rinehart Road.

him Kerr shot out the car's side tires.

"I fired two shots—one into the rear tire and one into the front tire," Kerr said.

Phelps kept driving at a high rate of speed traveling north until he hit the intersection of SR 434, narrowly avoiding a collision with a west-bound pick-up truck. Kerr pursued Phelps with sirens and lights flashing until he made a left onto Stone Gable Drive.

Phelps stopped his vehicle in a neighborhood drive way, exited and began to run away from the scene. Kerr then jumped the curb with his vehicle and struck Phelps with the bumper of his car hard enough to knock him off his feet. Phelps got up and began to run again and after issuing another verbal warning to stop, Kerr physically apprehended Phelps and placed him under arrest.

"You're whole life flashes before your eyes. You hear a lot about reacting to the way you've been trained," said Kerr. "I think that's what I did in this situation."

The Winter Springs fire department was called to the scene to examine Phelps for injuries before he was booked into the Seminole County jail. He was charged with use of a motor vehicle in the commission of a felony.

Arrest records indicate that Phelps told police he fled after being pulled over because he feared Kerr was impersonating a police officer. Phelps is being held at the Seminole County jail on $4,500 bond. That figure will likely be increased today.

Winter Springs police have discovered that Phelps is wanted on an outstanding Seminole County warrant for battery on a law enforcement officer, and that he provided them with a false identification following his arrest. The suspect is really Jeffrey Alan Phelps. He used his brother's identity during the incident and could face an additional charge for that.

As part of standard operating procedure when a weapon is used by an officer, Winter Springs police internal affairs as well as the Florida Department of Law Enforcement will review the case.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Only against experts

By Phillip Alder

There are some declarer plays that work only against pseudo-experts. One was featured by Alan Hiron in the last deal of his article in the June issue of Bridge Magazine. (A one-year, 12-issue subscription with airmail to New York City costs $60. To subscribe, go to www.bridgemagazine.co.uk.) Playing in three no-trump, how many club tricks did South win?

South could have raised one diamond to two diamonds. However, North would probably have jumped to three no-trump, a contract that would stand little chance after the heart-jack lead. By responding one no-trump, South achieved an unusual coup in keeping the weaker hand hidden.

West led the spade jack. South could see seven top tricks: two spades, one heart and four diamonds. As West held the club ace, declarer could get his total up to eight by leading toward dummy's king. But where was trick nine? The spades weren't 2-3. West had the heart king, and West didn't have the doubleton ace-queen of clubs.

After taking the first trick with dummy's spade king, South called for the club king! West, placing declarer with something like queen-jack-10-fifth of clubs, decided to hold out.

South continued with a club to his jack. Sticking to his original reading of the situation, West ducked again! (This is a clear error, because if South's clubs are solid, it doesn't help to hold up the ace twice. Yet an idea like this is an idea first.)

New declarer ran for home. It is such a seemingly simple card combination, but it is full of surprising possibilities.

ASK DR. GOTT

Could 'terrible twos' be ADD?

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 2-year-old son is never still. He moves in his sleep, won't go to bed before midnight, refuses to nap and constantly rambles. People tell me he's hyperactive. What is hyperactivity and what can be done about it?

DEAR READER: The term "hyperactivity" is obsolete, having been replaced by "attention deficit disorder." ADD is a syndrome of unknown cause that may affect youngsters (and adults) of normal intelligence, and is marked by learning and behavior disabilities. It can range from mild (needing no therapy) to severe (requiring prescription medicine). In its characteristic form, ADD causes problems in language, motor skills, visual perceptions and memory; short attention span, emotional instability and poor school performance are also part of the syndrome. Hyperactivity may or may not be present. The diagnosis of ADD requires special psychological testing by a professional who is familiar with the affliction.

Let me add a personal observation. Two-year-old children are almost always overactive by adult standards. Be careful not to label your son "hyperactive" on the basis of non-professional judgments. This would place a needless and unfortunate stigma on him. Better to discuss your concerns with a pediatrician. There may be other causes for your son's constant activity; in fact, it may be normal. A physician should examine your son and establish a diagnosis. If the child is normal, the pediatrician can give you some tips about how to survive this difficult period, known familiarly as "the terrible twos." If, on the other hand, your son does have ADD, the doctor can prescribe the necessary medication.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I play competition senior tennis. During matches, my pulse increases (to over 180), I become lightheaded and tired, and my arms seem to be made of lead. Your natural advice would be "give up tennis," but the sport gives me real pleasure. Should I worry?

DEAR READER: As a tennis player myself, my natural advice is: Don't give up playing. However, I do urge you to see a doctor, because the symptoms you describe could indicate illness. For example, you may be anemic or have a heart condition.

At rest, our bodies have a basic metabolic demand, which increases drastically when we exercise. Your tennis-induced fatigue and rapid heartbeat suggest that your system is overworking to supply your muscles with the oxygen necessary for strenuous activity. If you are anemic, less oxygen is carried by the blood cells, leading to weakness and early fatigue. If your heart's efficiency is impaired, less blood (and oxygen) will circulate, causing breathlessness and light-headedness. See a doctor and get checked out before you quit tennis!

Schools

work session concerning the school district's budget. There will also be a 3:30 p.m. board meeting on Tuesday.

At the last future planning work session, held Aug. 31, the committee agreed that the district would need at least eight elementary schools, two middle schools and one high school over the next ten years.

The Board did not support proposals to increase class size as a method to deal with student population growth.

Board members are concerned about how holding students back in the elementary grades will in time effect the population within high schools.

"If you keep more fifth and sixth graders, this will eventually show up in high school," said Board member Diane Bauer. "The projections we're looking at could be skewed."

Construction began in July on John W. Evans Elementary School in Oviedo. However, when the elementary school opens in August, 2000, the school district will still have overcrowding concerns.

Designed for 800 students, Evans Elementary School is being modeled after Highlands Elementary School in Winter Springs. Total costs of building the two-story school are estimated at $10.5 million.

The school will ease crowding in Carillon, Stenstrom, Lawton, and Rainbow elementary schools. A school principal will be named by the School Board in the spring of 2000.

Without accounting for the county's expected growth, school officials estimate the district needs three-to-five new elementary schools to relieve overcrowding and move students out of portable classrooms. The trouble is that there is not enough income for the district to build additional elementary schools, said Thomas Kramer, director of facilities for Seminole County Schools.

The need for new schools exists district-wide. Kramer said growth is most rapid in the southeast area of the county, including Oviedo, and in the northwest portion of the county, including Sanford and Lake Mary.

"You can't just put new schools in those parts of the county with the most rapid growth," Kramer said. "That still leaves the central part of the County."

Construction costs are rising, up 20 percent since Highlands Elementary was built in 1995, Kramer said.

Meanwhile, work continues on a number of major projects in schools throughout Seminole County.

The district recently completed a six-month project of repainting every classroom at Seminole High School. Construction is underway on the Olympic-sized community swimming pool at Seminole High School, scheduled to open by January, 2000, at Seminole High School.

The pool is expected to cost $1 million to build, with funding shared by the School Board, Seminole County, and the city of Sanford. Students at Seminole High School are already enrolling in spring semester swimming classes.

The $40 million renovations to Lake Brantley High School are nearing completion. The project has been on-going since January, 1998, and is expected to be completed in the spring of 2000.

This summer, a new administration suite and interior courtyard are under construction. The so-called "Round Building," constructed in the 1970's with open-pod classrooms, is being replaced by three academic buildings.

Other additions at Lake Brantley High School include a new Gymnasium and Media Center. The science building is being renovated. The school's softball and baseball fields have also been relocated.

In June, the School Board agreed to a five-year plan that includes $20 million for renovations at Lyman High School. However, school officials say the district still has $160 million in unfunded needs.

Board members also decided in June to add one elementary school during the next five years.

LONGWOOD - If you were planning on taking in the football game between Lyman and New Smyrna Beach tonight, you might want to consider heading to one of the other three top-flight matchups or head to a movie, because the Carlton Henley Sports Complex will be dark.

With New Smyrna Beach High School being closed until today because of Hurricane Floyd, the Barracudas (2-0), ranked No. 2 in Class 4A, have not been able to practice and the two schools decided to postpone the game.

A decision on whether the game would be played on Saturday, or rescheduled for a later date this season, had not been made as of late Thursday night.

In other games that will be played this evening:

Lake Brantley, 2-0 and ranked No. 12 in the FSWA Class 6A State Poll, have not lost a regular season game since a 38-9 defeat at the hands of the Oviedo Lions in the final game of the 1997 season, will look to stretch its regular season winning streak to 12 games when it travels to Sanford to take on Seminole at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium at 7:30 p.m.

The Fighting Seminoles, also 2-0 and ranked No. 10 in the FSWA Class 5A State Poll, will be looking for a victory, but must also stay healthy with what may be their biggest game of the season, a district battle with Mainland, scheduled for next week.

Lake Mary (1-1) will look to maintain the momentum gained from stomping DeLand last week when it hosts Winter Springs (0-2) in a Seminole Athletic Conference contest at Don T. Reynolds Stadium starting at 7:30 p.m.

Oviedo (1-1) looks to get back into the win column when it travels to Casselberry to battle neighborhood rival Lake Howell (0-1) in a Seminole Athletic Conference contest at Richard Evans Field at 7:30 p.m.

PATRIOTS-NOLES ON THE TUBE

MAITLAND - Time Warner Communications will tape tonight's Lake Brantley-Seminole football game to be shown as part of its "High School Game of the Week" telecasts this season.

The game, which can be seen on Channel 21 in the Orlando area, will be shown Saturday (Sept. 18th) morning at 10 a.m. and then re-broadcast on Tuesday, Sept. 21st, at 8:30 p.m.

Other games scheduled to televised involving Seminole Athletic Conference schools are the Colonial, with former Winter Springs quarterback Brandon Blake at the controls, at Lake Brantley game on October 8th, and the University at Oviedo district contest on October 22nd.

Other games on the 10-game schedule are: Jones at Bishop Moore, Sept. 24; Oak Ridge at Cypress Creek, Oct. 14; Dr. Phillips at Evans, Oct. 29; Edgewater at Boone, Nov. 5; and Apopka at Evans, Nov. 12.

IN PREP ACTION FROM THURSDAY:

With Hurricane Floyd causing little damage locally, the high school athletic teams resumed their regular season schedules on Thursday.

Special to the Herald

GAINESVILLE - University of Florida Junior Rob Evans (Altamont Springs) went into last Thursday's Nike Tri-Light Invitational cross country meet not even knowing if he could run.

The flu bug had bitten the Lyman High School graduate earlier in the week and left him in a condition that almost caused Head Coach Doug Brown to sit him for the race.

Instead of sitting it out, Evans saw it through to the tune of his second career victory and a new course record of 20:01.05.

Now, his accomplishments have earned him another honor: Southeastern Conference Cross Country Athlete of the Week.

Evans was given the weekly honor by the SEC late Tuesday night and between the third and fourth miles of the 5.5-mile race, Evans served Sarah Jones and Jimmy Koon was recognized for the volleyball team both on Monday.

Evans is the first to earn the cross country honor which is being given out for the first time this year in the SEC. He is the second recipient overall.

Evans' stars return to action on Saturday, September 25 at the Sam Ball Invitational at the University of Indiana in Bloomington.

LANE BUENA VISTA - The Tornados, a 17-and-under inline hockey team that plays out of Inlines Skates Center in Longwood, made the Final Four medal round of an international hockey tournament held Sept. 2-6 at Dancy's Wide World of Sports Center.

A total of 15, 17-and-under teams from the United States, Canada and the United Kingdom competed in Dancy's Ultimate Inlines Hockey Experience II held in the Field House at Wide World of Sports.

The tournament featured competition among 70 inline hockey teams in seven age divisions from the United States and seven other nations.

The 11-member Tornados team, with players from Seminole, Orange, Volusia and Lake counties and coached by Frank Glasse, eliminated 17-and-under teams from New York, Atlanta, and Hampshire, England in the preliminary rounds.

The Tornados then defeated a previously unbeaten team from Virginia Beach, Va. 3-3 in the wild card playoff to advance to the Final Four and the medal round.

The Tornados lost 7-0 in semifinals to top-seeded Team Bauer, a corporate-sponsored team with players from Florida

The undefeated Cardinals (2-0), made up mostly of players who live in Seminole County, will take on the Yankees (1-1) at 7 p.m. Saturday evening and the Marlins (0-2) will battle the Codgers (1-1) at 9 a.m. on Sunday.

The Cardinals, led by Seminole High School graduate Bill Grady, Robert Smith and Nick Brady, have gotten off to a fast start in their effort to rebound from an off Spring season that saw the three-time league champions finish below .500 and wind up in third place behind the champion Codgers and runner-up Devil Rays, from Ormond Beach and who do not play in the Fall League.

This past Saturday, the Cardinals got a huge victory in the league for players over the age of 40, edging the Codgers, 4-3, in eight innings.

The lead changed hands several times before the Cardinals came out on top, ending a three-game losing streak to the Codgers.

Admission is free to the non-playing games that are played on the beautiful field located behind the Showwater Field track complex between Highway 408 and Highway 17, just off of Winter Park Memorial Highway.
