Freeney Not Guilty Of Murder

Herald Staff Writer A Sanford woman who rejected an offer to plead guilty to, second-degree murder was found not guilty of first-degree murder Friday in the shooting death of her long-time boyfriend.

A jury of eight woman and four men acquitted Linda Freeney, 31, of 103 Seminole Gardens, after less than two hours of deliberation. They returned the verdict at 5:45 p.m. The first-degree murder trial began Thursday.

Ms. Freeney was charged with killing Lester Cooper, 48, of the same address, in April.

"We worked hard on this case," said Thomas Greene of Sanford, Ms. Freeney's lawyer, who cited Cooper's history of beating his client and scientific evidence as prime reasons why the jury opted for the not-guilty verdict.

The state contended the couple had been arguing and that Ms. Freeney, angry that he had been seeing another woman, intentionally killed Cooper while he was using or was about to use the bathroom in their home.

Greene, however, successfully argued that Cooper had forced Ms. Freeney into the bathroom and was about to force her to perform a sexual act when she took his gun from her purse in an attempt to intimidate him and make him back off. The gun, however, was loaded and fired. Greene said, the bullet striking Cooper in the left side of the face, hitting his cheekbone, then traveling into the right side of his brain.

She had his gun. Greene said. because he had been carrying it in her car and she feared he would get into trouble if the gun was left there. The woman he had been seeing had Jealous male companions, records show.

Greene said the bullet's path supported Ms. Freeney story that she was sitting and about to be battered. Further, the speni cartridge from the gun, which throws shells upward and to the back, was found in the bathroom

Cancer Society's Jail-A-Thon Readied

By Kathy Tyrity Herald Staff Writer

Everybody's fair game Nov. 6 for an expensive trip to jail in Seminole County.

Particularly, well known community leaders and public officials will want to check the county arrest warrants. They're prime candidates for a stay behind bars and, if caught, will have to call a number of acquaintances to raise bail.

The annual Jail-A-Thon for the American Cancer Society will kick-off with the imprisonment of a long list of officials at a mini-jail built just for that purpose in Rand Gardens on First Street in downtown San-

To get out on bail, the officials will have access to three phone lines on which to call and firmly request donations. A judge will preside and impose fines on the offenders.

The fundralser is being sponsored by the Lake Mary-Sanford Chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Buzz Petsos, board member, said the Jail-A-Thon will continue Nov. 6 - 8 and unsuspecting prisoners will be captured.

Justice Department Files Charges Against Michigan Publisher

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Justice Department, acting in a 7-year-old case, filed criminal charges Friday against Michigan publisher John Peter McGoff, accusing him of trying to help South Africa infiltrate the U.S. news media without registering as a foreign agent.

Assistant Attorney General William Weld and U.S. Attorney Joseph diGenova announced that McGoff was charged with violating the Foreign Agents Registration Act by failing to register as an agent of the Republic of South Africa beginning in early 1974.

If convicted, McGoff, a big contributor to Republican political causes who hosted former President Gerald Ford on his yacht at the 1980 GOP convention, would face a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a $10,000

Federal prosecutors recommended that McGoff be prosecuted in 1984 for his alleged attempts to buy U.S. news companies on behalf of South Africa. The recommendation, coming in a 700-page prosecution memorandum, was on the desk of Associate Attorney General Lowell Jensen for more than two years. Jensen recently left the department.

Air Force Chooses Jets

Lockheed and Northrop will build two prototypes each of the Advanced Tactical Fighter, or ATF, that will replace the F-15 jet by the mid-1990s, Air Force Secretary Edward Aldridge announced Friday. Lockheed's plane will be called the YF-22A and Northrop's will be the YF-23A.

Each company will receive a $691 million contract — for a $1.38 billion total — to build the prototypes within 50 months. The Air Force then will decide which contractor or team will get the nod to manufacture the plane.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan's last-minute campaign blitz will not prevent Democrats from regaining majority control of the Senate in Tuesday's election, predicts retiring House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass.

Reagan Returns To Home Base

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — President Reagan has come home to his political besento wind up the 1986 campaign with a double-barreled shot for perhaps the piggest upset of the year in the high-stakes fight for control of the Senate.

Having breezed through six states in three days of pep rallies for Republican candidates, Rongan was back-in his adopted home state Saturday for a campaign finale and rest stop at his mountaintop ranch.

Reagan rendezvoused with his wife, Nancy, for the final weekend of the 1986 campaign. They both planned to headline a fund-raising brunch in Anaheim Saturday for the Senate challenge of GOP Rep. Ed Zachau, where Reagan was expected to deliver a spirited attack against incumbent Democratic Sen. Alan Cranston.

Shultz Lauds Summit, Denounces Syria

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Secretary of State George Shultz, preparing for further talks with the Soviet foreign minister, focused on superpower relations in a pair of speeches in California but diverged briefly to denounce a Syrian role on the international scene.

"The government of Syria takes part in terrorism," Shultz said Friday, "It's a terrible thing to say, but you just have to say it as a fact.

The secretary was asked about Syria after an address to 1.500 people at a World Affairs Council luncheon in Los Angeles. He said the administration is studying what to do about the Middle Eastern nation's role in terrorism after withdrawing the U.S.' ambassador from the capital city of Damascus last week.

"We are prepared to take action. We just want it to be action that will work," Shultz said, reflecting concern that emerged fully when Britain cut all diplomatic ties to Syria in announcing evidence of Syrian involvement in the foiled plot to blow up an Israeli jetliner this year.

In San Francisco later, Shultz stayed more upbeat, calling last month's summit in Iceland a watershed in U.S.-Soviet relations that allowed "for the first time in the long history of arms control talks, a genuine possibility of substantial reductions in Soviet and American nuclear arms.'

"We have begun to discuss with the Soviets a safer form of deterrence, one based less on the threat of mutual annihilation," he told a Commonwealth Club dinner. That policy "has kept the peace, but there must be a better way and we are trying to find it."

Asked why he appeared so disappointed immediately after the meeting between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev broke up amid a dispute over the president's "Star Wars" defense plan. Shultz said that because a big breakthrough seemed so near, he was upset to see the talks end so abruptly.

Shultz travels to Vienna next week for the 35-nation Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe, set up to monitor the 1975 Helsinki human rights accords. While there, he will meet again with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze and the week ahead figured prominently in his speeches Friday.

Shultz said the administration welcomed the recent release of several Soviet dissidents and Jews but will continue to press the Kremlin to correct "massive human rights violations."

'We must not gloss over the grim reality of Soviet internal repression," he said. "We must continue to insist that nothing short of significant, sustained progress on human rights will satisfy us."

Shultz said the best way to make the case is is to step up contacts with the Soviet government and people to "seek every opportunity to bring our human rights concerns to the attention of Soviet authorities and people."

"Some believe that the best way is to quarantine the Soviets, to limit our bilateral contacts to an absolute minimum until they carry out a massive program of internal reform," he said. "This method, we must recognize, has been tried and found want-

Shultz also asserted that the administration, by "responding firmly" and "showing consistency" in the recent tit-for-tat war of diplomatic expulsions, "established much better control over Soviet activities in the United States than we have had for many years" by expelling Russian spies.

3 Officials Fired, Captains Arrested In Soviet Shipwreck

MOSCOW (UPI) - Tass reported Friday the Politburo has fired three senior maritime officials, disciplined another and ordered the arrests of the two sea captains involved in this summer's sinking of the cruise liner Admiral Nakhimov, which killed 398 people.

A 32,000-ton bulk carrier collided with the luxury passenger liner Aug. 31 as it was carrying more than 1,200 passengers and crew 8 miles off the Black Sea port of Norovossysk, It broke apart and sank in eight minutes before the crew could lower life boats. A total of 836 people were rescued after clinging to floating debris for several hours in the warm sea. Another 398 people, most of them trapped below decks of the passenger ship, were killed. It was the worst sea disaster in Soviet history.

The official Tass news agency said the Politburo, chief policy making body of the Soviet Union, sacked the chief of the government-run Black Sea Shipping Line, Stanislav Lukyanchenko, the deputy merchant marine minister Anatoly Goldobenko and Bronislav Mainagashev, the head of merchant marine union.

Lukyanchenko also was expelled from the Communist Party. A fourth man, Boris Yumistsyn, another deputy merchant marine minister, was "brought to account by the party." Tass said.

The liner's captain, Vadim Markov, and bulk carrier's captain, Viktor Tkachenko, have been arrested and face criminal proceedings, Tass said.

IRA, Opponents Hold Meetings

DUBLIN, Ireland (UPI) - Members of the legal political wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army gathered Friday for a three-day convention and a vote that could split the movement seeking to drive Britain from Northern Ireland.

Police in the British-ruled north were on alert, fearing the IRA could stage attacks during the annual Dublin conference of 1,000 Sinn Fein delegates, security sources

Meanwhile, in London, Irish and British ministers and police chiefs met Friday to examine ways of closer cooperation to combat Northern Ireland's outlawed Irish Republican Army.

The meeting, the 10th held, under last year's Anglo-Irish agreement, came as security forces in the province braced for an expected wave of demonstrations by Protestants to mark the pact's Nov. 15 anniversary.

The Dublin delegates are expected to vote Sunday in favor of a change of policy to allow Sinn Fein candidates if elected — to participate in the Irish Parliament in pursuit of its "bomb and ballot box" strategy to drive Britain from the north, sources said.

By participating in Parliament, Sinn Fein, which supports the IRA politically, could have an impact on the makeup of the government since Irish governments traditionally hold power by a few parliamentary votes.

Embassy Staff Leave Beirut

Lebanon (UPI) - About 24 U.S. Embassy staff members have been flown out of Beirut to Cyprus for security considerations, American and Lebanese sources said today.

A U.S. Embassy official, who declined to be identified, said the move was "merely a precaution. ... They have been flown to Cyprus for two or three weeks, they are coming back."

The official did not say if their departure was in in way linked to negotiations to win the release of American hostages in Lebanon.

"We are not closing down. The ambassador is still here," in Washington, State Department spokesman Pete Martinez said Friday the move was made "for security considerations" and that the pullout was completed Oct.

Soviet Workers Say Goodbye

MOSCOW (UPI) - Soviet workers withdrawn from the U.S. Embassy in retaliation for the expulsion of Soviet diplomats from the United States made a final visit Friday to collect paychecks and say goodbye.

Justice Adkins, 71, Sues State To Block Forced Retirement

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Seventy-one-year-old Supreme Court Justice James Adkins Jr. likes his job and, despite the dictates of the Florida Constitution, hopes to continue doing it.

The Florida Constitution prohibits any judge from serving after he has reached the age of 70, except on temporary assignment or to complete a current term. Because of that. Adkins will be forced to retire when his current term expires on Jan. 6, 1987. Adkins does not think that is fair. He filed suit Friday to do something about it.

Adkins contends that recent amendments to the federal Age Discrimination in Employment Act make that section of the constitution illegal. He filed suit against the Judicial Nominating Commission for the Supreme Court and Gov. Bob Graham.

"I want to get rid of some age discrimination in the judiciary, and to hang on at the Supreme Court a little while," Adkins explained.

The Judicial Nominating Commission is already it the process of selecting a potential successor to Adkins. Normally, the commission would submit on Nov. 5 three names to Gov. Graham, who would then have 60 days to name the new justice.

35 Charged In Mob Crime Probe

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) - An investigation of several Broward County organized crime schemes, including one involving the Bonnano and Genovese families, has given authorities the evidence to charge 35 people.

Twenty-four of them were arrested Friday in a sweep by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, said FDLE spokesman Fred Schneyer. More arrests were expected. "Operation Inter Nos" was an 18-month FDLE investigation into "traditional organized crime," Schneyer said. Undercover agents infiltrated criminal ranks and prevented some conspiracies, he said.

'We found out about a lot of crimes before they happened," Schneyer sald.

Two organized crime members arrested Friday morning were Steven Maruca and Vito Militano, soldiers for the Bonnano crime family, the FDLE said.

Maruca, 62. of Hollywood, Fla., was charged with conspiracy to racketeer. Militano, 53, of Coral Springs, Fla., was charged with conspiracy to commit loan sharking.

Paul Fontanazza, 37, of Coral Springs, an associate of the Genovese family, was charged with conspiracy to racketeer, Schneyer said.

"I don't think anybody lightly sues their country. But it's something that I feel like I have to do under the circumstances," said Anne Hart, 44, the mother of six. "I think the last year and a half has really done some severe damage to what was a nice person."

The lawsuit filed Thursday by Mrs. Hart and her family seeks $10 million each from the Air Force and Army. It claims the identification of remains excavated from Laos - an identification later rescinded — and a plan to bury the remains at Arlington National Cemetery caused damage to the family.

The reason behind it is simply because the damage that has resulted to this family as a result of the outrageous behavior of the various and sundry government officials that I have dealt with over the last year and a half, are just unacceptable in a civilized society," she said. "Our new heat pump saves more than enough money to run the VCR and TV. Do you think FPL knew that when they helped us buy it?"

Sure we did. FPL is encouraging everybody to manage their energy efficiently because lowering peak energy dernand delays the need for new power plants - an expense everyone must share.

Installing a high-efficiency central heat pump can cut your heating costs up to 40% because it's more efficient than a conventional electric heating system. In the winter, the heat pump extracts heat from the outside air (yes, there's always heat in the air) and transfers it indoors. And in the Jummer, it cools by removing heat and humidity from inside.

The Week In Business

NEW YORK (UPI) - Saudi Arabia stunned OPEC with the ouster of its oil minister, the Commerce Department reported a better-than-expected trade deficit and USX Corp. refused to bend under takeover pressures. Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the most powerful figure in OPEC who helped engineer the 1973 Arab oll embargo, was fired Wednesday as Saudi Arabia's oil minister.

minister of planning, was appointed to replace Yamani as acting minister of petroleum and mineral resources apparently until a full Cabinet minister could be appointed to the post. No reason was given for Yamani's sudden dismissal.

There was widespread speculation among oil analysts that Yamani, the most visible minister in the oil cartel, was removed because he objected to the kingdom's role as the architect of OPEC's eight-month pricing war that drove down the price of oil to less than $10 a barrel in late July from an average $28 a barrel last Dethe kingdom wanted world oil prices to rise to at least $18 a barrel, the official Saudi Press Agency said. In a statement to the agency, monitored in Abu Dhabl, Nazer, said he has called for an urgent meeting of OPEC's pricing committee.

Oil, which has been trading in recent weeks at between $13 and $14 a barrel, rose sharply on world markets Thursday in initial reaction to the Yamani dismissal.

The Commerce Department Hisham Nazer, now the Thursday said the U.S. merchandise trade deficit fell to $12.56 billion in September, the second monthly drop, suggesting that the competitive pricing effects of the dollar's yearlong depreciation are finally having an impact on the flow of trade.

> "There will be temporary setbacks, but we have turned the corner on the trade deficit." Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said. The dollar rosc sharply on news of the trade figure.

The government's main gauge of future economic activity the index of leading economic indicators - advanced 0.4 percent in September after a revised 0.1 percent decline the previous Nazer indicated Thursday that month, the Commerce Department said Friday Analysts said the report was encouraging because the advance was centered in manufacturing indicators, which have shown little strength in recent months.

Bank of Japan Governor Satoshi Sumita announced Friday that Japan will reduce its official discount rate to its lowest level since World War II in an effort to prop up the flagging Japanese economy.

Sumita said the interest rate that the central bank charges Japan's commercial banks would be lowered by 0.5 percent Saturday to a postwar low of 3.0 percent.

The Japanese economy has been hit hard by the ill effects of yen appreciation.

Since the yen began its climb against the U.S. dollar last September, Japanese products have become more expensive and less attractive, and Japan's exports have suffered as a result.

USX Corp. Chairman David Roderick said Wednesday the company will not pay "greenmail" to deter investor Carl Icahn's $8 billion takeover attempt, nor will it be rushed into restructuring moves by the bid or by the labor dispute that has shut its steel operations.

Roderick told a news conference that the company has not received a study by its investment bankers on restructuring alternatives, but he said it will probably come up with a plan before the end of the year.

The steel and energy giant Tuesday reported a net loss of $183 million in the third quarter, compared with earnings of $144 million in the same period last year.

American Express Co. and E.F. Hutton Group Inc. Wednesday refused to comment on rumors that the travel and financial services giant will make a bid for the troubled brokerage house.

An American Express spokesman said it is the company's policy not to comment on rumor and speculation." A Hutton spokesman refused any comment on a possible American Express acquisition or whether the company was on the block.

J. Henry Schroder Bank & Trust . Co. Wednesday said it agreed to acquire Aubrey G. Lanston & Co., one of the 35 primary dealers in U.S. Treasury securities, for $234 million in

New Faces A Sure Bet On Florida's Cabinet

By Paul C. Schaefer Herald Staff Writer

Florida's six cabinet scats will have at least two new faces as a result of Tuesday's election. The state Commissioner of Education and Attorney General seats are up for grabs since the incumbents didn't run for re-election. members, the state Treasurer-Insurance Commissioner, Secretary of State, Comptroller, and Agriculture Commissioner each try to fend off challenges.

Democrat Betty Castor, a State Senator from Tampa and Republican Ron Howard, Boca Raton meet to determine who will follow outgoing three term Commissioner of Education Ralph Turlington who decided not to run to devote more time to lottery.

Ms. Castor has a background as an educator and realtor, while little known Howard is a Palm Beach County middle school classroom teacher.

The attorney general's job opened up when the man who held the seat for two terms. Jim Smith, ran unsuccessfully for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, which was won by Steve Pajcic in a close contest.

The Democratic nominee to replace Smith is Robert Butterworth, a Hollywood attorney. He is opposed by another attorney, Jim Watt of Lake Park.

Here are the candidate's responses to League of Women Voters questions:(* indicates incumbent.)

1. As the Board of Trustees of the Internal Improvement Trust Fund, the Cabinet is responsible for state owned lands and the purchase of additional lands. What criteria will you use to determine the wisest use of expenditure in maintaining currently owned state lands and acquiring new land by the state and its agencies?

Attorney General Robert Butterworth, D: Develop a plan based on user needs through the year 2000. Have the plan approved and adopted by the Cabinet, and implement safeguards to ensure against abuse.

Jim Watt, R: As a member of the Board of Trustees of the Internal Improvement Trust Fund the criteria for wanting existing lands should be environmental protections and improvements to those lands where large populated areas need additional park and recreational facilities. I have always supported giving the state the power of eminent domain to acquire additional park lands, a

George Firestone, D*: My determinations are based on three general criteria: Environmental quality, public recreation and the amount of money involved. To illustrate, I while the four other incumbent consider the ranking given the without regard to political imparcel by the Land Acquisition Selection Committee and environmental factors such as ecological diversity and uniqueness and whether the pacel contains historical and archaeological resources, critical habitat for endangered and threatened species, scenic vistas, lakes, rivers, springs, sandy beaches and wetlands. The recreational potential of the parcel is important and often depends winning approval of a state on the environmental quality of the site. Management expenditures should be made to protect the resource while providing maximum recreational benefits.

Jim Smith, P: Rely heavily on professionals in the areas affected. Water recharge areas. endangered specie habitat, and environmentally sensitive areas must be high on the list. Then the state should purchase these areas in order of priority and not political expediency.

Comptroller

Gerald Lewis, D*: Fortunately, the Florida Legislature has provided a framework in the The incumbents for the other statutes for ensuring a fair and impartial approach to the purchase of environmental and recreational lands. Craig Kiser, R: Such criteria should be incorporated into comprehensive rules that will be strictly enforced and adhered to plications and considerations. I cannot state the criteria on which given land should be used, sold, leased or acquired because of the great number of different purposes for which such lands range in use from governmental offices to environmentally sensitive properties which must be protected by the state. No criteria can be established which will address ever, generally speaking, state lands should be put to their able for this type of managehighest and best use consistent with preserving the land and its integrity.

Treasurer-Commissioner of Insurance

Bill Gunter, Do: The most important criteria for acquisition and management of public lands are: a) the recreational potential and conservation value of the properties; b) the presence of rare or unique endangered plant and animal habitats, historical resources, and/or geological features: c) the vulnerability of the property.

The most scarce resources, such as living coral reefs and first magnitude springs, should be the state's top priority for acquisition and maintenance.

In the purchase of conservation type lands, my first priority would be to purchase land which is located in the areas that have the greatest need based on our population (outdoor recreational survey). A priority would be to acquire land in the less developed areas, if it can be purchased at an economical price, in order to provide a "land bank" for future use.

Recreational land should be developed first in those areas with greatest need.

The radio, quoting intelligence sources, said: "There is a possibility that the two Frenchmen would be released along with six of seven American hostages in exchange for freeing Georges Abdallah who is in jail in France." Georges Ibrahim Abdallah, 35, is presumed to be the leader of the leftist Lebanese Armed Revolutionary faction. He is jailed in France on terrorism charges. His release has been demanded by two Arab groups that claimed responsibility for a series of bombings in Paris last month that killed 10 people and wounded more than 160.

There was no confirmation of the radio report. France denied a deal was in the works and could not confirm that two French diplomats were turned over to the Syrians. Voice of Lebanon radio is controlled by President Amin Gemayel's Phalange

Judicial Candidates Queried

By Paul C. Schaefer

Herald Staff Writer Two attorneys emerged from a four way primary race to vie in the general election to become the next 18th Judicial Circuit Group 4 Judge, a post being vacated by 16-year veteran Judge Dominick Salft.

The two survivors are Altamonte trial attorney O.H. "Bill" Eaton of the Freeman, Alley, & Eaton law firm, and Ned N. Julian, Jr., Sanford, of the Stenstrom, McIntosh, Julian. Colbert & Whigham.

Eaton, 43, is a Florida native and a graduate of the University of Florida. He was president of the Seminole County Bar As ociation in 1981, and vice chairman of the 18th Circuit Grievance Committee in 1980. He is also a U.S. Army veteran of the Vietnam War.

Julian, 44, has lived in Central Florida for 27 years, and is a graduate of Stetson University. and is presently the attorney for the School Board of Seminole County. He is also a past president of the Seminole County Bar Association.

Voters in Seminole and Brevard counties are included in the circuit, and will determine the winner of the race.

In the September primary in Seminole County, Julian was the top vote getter with 44.6 percent of the vote, followed by Jim Lavigne with 22.4 percent and Eaton with 18.4 percent. In Brevard County, however, Eaton was the top vote getter.

Unfortunately, funding was not included for more prison space and persons sentenced usually serve one half of their terms. Judges should have more flexibility in sentencing because first offenders rarely go to prison under the present guidelines. Julian: The major shortcoming of the guidelines is that they lack a practical mechanism for a judge to increase a sentence when traditional sources of input (prosecutor, law enforcement, victim, defense counsel, and probation department) indicate insan'ty defense? that the guideline sentence is not enough.

2. Why doesn't Seminole County have a Citizens Alternative Dispute Board? If there were such a board, how would referrals be handled?

Boards only exist where they receive community support. I approve of the concept of court alternatives and would participate in establishing an Alternative Dispute Board in Seminole County. Referrals through the Summary Claims Division of the county court.

Eaton: Plea bargaining does not facilitate justice and I am

Julian: Plea bargaining occurs when the prosecution and the defense, based on the facts of a case and the law, agree upon a plea of guilty to a specified crime. The sentence is called for by law. This process enables the prosecutor to deal with "routine" cases, leaving the jury courtroom time for complex and serious criminal matters not susceptable to the plea.

Eaton: The insanity defense is part of the law in every state. Florida's insanity defense applied only to persons who are unable to tell right from wrong. Judges should carefully consider insanity evidence and allow the defense only in cases where it is proven and justified.

our system of criminal justice. If a person on the basis of the decision of capable medical professionals is deemed not mentally responsible for his actions alternatives should be employed for the protection of society from that person.

5. Do you feel that the current budget adequately covers the staffing needs for Seminole County?

Expos: 3 Years, $4.8 Million — Raines: Keep Talking

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

Catching Tim Raines and Montreal Expos called a press conference Thursday and revealed their contract offers to the media concerning their two most popular players.

was offered a guaranteed twovear. $2 million guaranteed contract.

"We want everybody to know that we want these players (Raines and Dawson) back." Montreal Vice-President Bill three-year deal for $7.5 million.

Montreal Gazette. "We are giving them generous offers."

We were suprised at public Andre Dawson by surprise, the offer, but we're definitely looking at it." Raines said in the same publication Friday. "We didn't think things were going to happen this way at all."

Although Raines, who earlier Montreal publicist Monique this year was skeptical of the Giroux said Friday Raines was Expos' sincerity, was impressed Expos' sincerity, was impressed offered a guaranteed, three-year, with the straight forward $4.8 million deal and Dawson approach, he said the dollar amount was not sufficient.

"It's not a bad starting point." the 27-year-old left fielder said. "But they'll have to do better."

Raines said earlier this year he and agent Tom Reich asked for a Stoneham said in Friday's. That figure, like Montreal's, was N.L. Baseball not a bad starting point either. Raines said later he would settle for $7 million over three.

One thing is for certain. Giroux said. "They have agreed on the length of contract and that is three years," she said. "Now, they just have to get together on the money.'

Raines is sitting pretty, of course. He is a six-time member of the National League All-Star team. He has stolen 70 or more bases six consecutive years, the only major-leaguer to do so. He dependable, averaging 155 games per season. He is a fan people pay to see play.

All of these qualities took on a brighter look this past season when the Sanford speedster picked up his first National League batting championship.
"The monkey's off my back now." Raines said. "Now, I've proven I'm much more than a base stealer."

With all these qualities intact. Raines filed for free agency Tuesday. So did Dawson. Raines' closest friend on the team. The Expos know they need their two all-star outfielders to contend and apparently are making a last-ditch effort to save

Raines, who longs to play in a favorite, an exciting performer World Series, is very up front about his intentions. "I would love to sign with a team that I think can win." he said. "That doesn't rule out Montreal. I would definitely work there again if things work out.

"If the Expos put out a team that has a chance of winning. I wouldn't think twice.

He isn't thinking twice about what happened last year. Raines and Reich, one of the top agents in the business, are taking a wait-and-see approach.

Until the filing period ends Nov. 11. the Expos are the only team that can sign Raines, who was paid $1.5 million last year. If by Dec. 7 the Expos have offered Raines the choice of going to arbitration, they retain negotiating rights until Jan. 8. If Raines is unsigned after Jan. 8. the Expos cannot sign him until May 15.

Although it was never proven. most players and agents believe the owners gathered their wagons last year and vowed not to sign free agents in an attempt free-agency either. But after to bring the salary structure

Howell Tames Trojans

Defense Makes The Difference

By Scott Sander Herald Sports Writer

ORLANDO - Lake Howell's defensive unit hasn't been given much credit for its excellence this year. Maybe it's because all those monstrous offensive linemen cast a big shadow.

After Lake Howell whipped Orlando Evans, 14-7, in a District 5A-5 game Friday night before 6,001 fans, coach Bisceglia didn't hesitate to pull his defenders from the darkness.

"Our defense won this game for us," Bisceglia said about the crucial victory which disappointed a homecoming crowd at EE Stadium. "Our offense was struggling an our defense took

Evans, 6-2 overall and 2-2 in 5A 5 came into the game ranked seventh in the state. The Trojan offense came into the game averaging over 200 yards a game on the ground and over 23 points. None of the numbers. though, intimidated the Silver

Hawks. . The Howell defense held Evans to 53 yards rushing. The defensive line dominated the line of scrimmage making things extremely tough for the Trojan running backs. The victory keeps the Lake Howell playoff hopes alive. The Hawks are 3-1 in the district. Apopka'a 17-7 win over Lake Brantley has the Blue Darters sitting pretty in the district. Apopka beat Lake Howell, 10-7, earlier in the year. There is a three-way tie in the district. Lake Howell. Apopka. and Winter Park are all 3-1. There are several different playoff possibilities. If Apopka beats West Orange in two weeks. the Darters will win the district. If Apopka beats West Orange and Lake Howell beats Lake Brantley, the Darters will still win'the district. The only hope that Lake Howell has is if Apopka loses, the Hawks win, and Winter Park, which walloped Winter Garden West Orange, 30-6, Friday, beats Evans. If that would happen there would be a three-way tie in the district.

The offense had just enough Friday. Cornel Rigby scored on a five-yard run and Terry Gammons broke loose on a spectacular 89-yard kickoff return for a TD just before the end of the first half.

Evans coach Bill Gierke said that turnovers at crucial times cost the Trojans the game. "We had our chances." Gierke said. "But they came up with the big play when they needed it. It was a hard-fought game and we wish them the best of luck." The loss eliminates the Trojans from the playoff picture.

Defensive tackle Marty Golloher, who had a stellar game with three sacks, credited the victory to the Silver Hawks' preparation. "We really worked hard last week," Golloher said. "We had an off week and it really helped us out. This team has a lot of desire and I think that we showed that tonight."

All of the scoring in the game came in the second quarter. Each team missed field goal opportunities in the first quarter. Evans quarterback Tony White fumbled and Golloher recovered giving Lake Howell the ball at the Evans 12-yard See DEFENSE, Page 5B

Erving: Take A Good Look

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - Julius Erving was unable to take his children out trick-or-treating on Halloween this year, the first time he has missed the holiday since he moved to Philadelphia.

It will also be the last time. Erving announced Friday night that he will retire at the end of the 1986-87 season.

"This is the first year we've ever played on Halloween," Erving said after he scored 18 points to help Philadelphia defeat Indiana 108-104 to open the NBA season. "And since we've moved to Philadelphia, every Halloween I've taken my kids trick-or-treating. This was the first year I wasn't able to do it.

"Maybe there was a little irony there, that there was another sacrifice made for the game that won't have to be made next year. So I'm back on the trick-or-treat trail next year."

Erving, 36, announced his retirement in a statement distributed to the media during the first quarter of the game. The Spectrum crowd of 10.247 was informed over the loudspeaker in the third quarter.

That was also the first his coach and teammates had heard of his plans.

"It came out of the blue," Coach Matt Guokas said. "It totally shocked me. It was the most unusual time to announce your retirement, during a timeout of a game.'

Erving had been expected to play only one more season, signing a one-year contract with the team after rejecting a two-year offer sheet from the Utah Jazz.

But he had refused to say that this season would definitely be his last. "One of the main reasons why is that I've been constantly asked this and things have not slowed up." said Erving, who is starting his 11th season in Philadelphia after playing for five years in the American Basketball Association. "So I didn't want to drag it out with everybody anticipating my decision." Danny Vranes, who Philadelphia acquired from Seattle in September, has only been Erving's teammate for a short time but said his loss would be tremendous.

"You hate to see a legend like this ever leave the game," he said. "You can't imagine it.

He made the ABA what it was. He brought a new dimension to the game with his high-flying dunks and moves. He brought the game to new heights."

Erving, named the NBA's most valuable player in 1981, played on Philadelphia's NBA championship team in 1983. He has averaged 22.4 points in his NBA career and entering the current season he ranked third in pro scoring with 29,021 points, trailing only Kareem-Abdul Jabbar and Wilt Chamberlain.

Erving said his decision to play one more season evolved and was not the result of any specific factor.

"(I have a) real peaceful feeling inside of me." he said. "It should be my last year. The timing is right for me. It may not be for the fans or my teammates but this is an individual

"I feel as though I'm in control of my own destiny as opposed to playing through the season and being a free agent again or dealing with a cut or waiver situation." he said. "I've always indicated I wanted to go through the front door."

Guokas has been associated with Erving as an announcer, assistant coach and coach and said it has been a "great thrill."

"After you get to know him. (you realize) he is truly a special, special person as well as being an excellent basketball player. I'm very honored to be part of his career."

Oviedo's Gordon King and Willie Gainey make a pretty good combination without a middle man.

King, the county's leading punter, normally starts the Lions' offense with a booming punt, driving the opposition into poor field position. When the offense gets it back, Gainey takes it from there, supplying most of Oviedo's yardage on the ground.

Friday night, the middle man made the job much easier.

Seminole's return men fumbled four punts which Gainey turned into three touchdowns as Oviedo whipped the Seminoles, 23-7, in District 4A-5 and Seminole Athletic Conference football before 901 subdued fans at Seminole High School.

4-3, improved to 2-1 in 4A-5 and 2-2 in the SAC. The Lions host Cocoa Beach next Friday, Seminole, 2-6, fell to 0-3 in the 4A-5 and 2-3 in the SAC.

Along with four punt returns, Seminole fumbled a kickoff return and one play from scrimmage. Of the six bobbles, five were recovered by the Lions. "They didn't drop the punts all week in practice." Seminole coach Dave Mosure said. "Then, they come out here tonight and look like they're lost."

In previous games. Seminole's defense had always been able to bail out of poor field position. Friday night, however, the burden became too much.

'They're weary," Mosure said of his aggressive defenders. "It's one thing to not move the ball, but to go backwards is worse. The defense can't stop them every time."

Oviedo coach Jack Blanton agreed. "Mosure's defense is the best," he said. "But when they fumble three times inside the 30, it's tough. They would hold us and then came another fumble. It had to get discouraging."

And Gainey pushed the frustration into the end zone by capitalizing on the mistakes. The 5-10, 170-pounder fought for three touchdowns on runs of 1. 14 and 2 yards. He finished with a hard-carned 81 yards in 21 carries. King nailed a 41-yard field goal with 20 yards to spare for the Lions' other three points.

"The fumbles were very important," Gainey said. "We had some great field position and we were able to capitalize on it."

While Oviedo was capitalizing. the Seminole offense was going nowhere. The Tribe rushed 20 times for 51 yards. Dwayn Willis completed 3 of 8 passes for 31 vards. He was intercepted once by Karl Wright, whose 20-yard return set up Oviedo's last score.

Seminole's lone score came when Ed Banks blocked a King punt in the end zone and senior defensive tackle Keith Denton covered the ball for a fourthquarter TD.

Oviedo jumped to a 7-0 lead when Seminole made its first mistake. Nick Casiello attempted to field a bouncing King punt, fumbled and Wright recovered at the Seminole 12-yard line.

Gainey slipped for three yards on the first play to the Seminole 9. He turned the left corner and fumbled on second down, but the ball went out of bounds on the Seminole 4. Quarterback Mike McCurdy knifed into for three yards and a first down to the Seminole 1 before Gainey scored on the next play. King's PAT gave Oviedo a 7-0 lead with 32 seconds left in the first

"We went to the Power-I in that situation," Blanton said. "(Tight end) Jene Hartman. (guard) Sam Hughes and (tackle) Andy Palmer did a good job of opening the hole."

Rams Turn On Offense, Scuttle Bucs

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

LAKE MARY - The way Mainland quarterback Brian Morris was throwing the ball, it was evident Lake Mary's defense would not come up with its third straight shutout.

So, for the first time this season, the Rams' had to assert themselves on offense.

John Curry picked up his first 100-yard rushing game of the season, Carlos Hartsfield turned in a solid effort in his second start at quarterback and fullback Tom Kothera bulled in for a pair a 47-yard field goal. But a Lake of touchdowns as the Rams Mary offsides penalty gave claimed a 25-13 victory over the Mainland a fourth and one and Bucs in 5A-4 District action Friday night b. iore 1,501 fans at Lake Mary High.

It was the third consecutive victory for Lake Mary which improved to 4-3 overall. The Rams also kept their slight district hopes alive with the win snap on the extra point, the over Mainland combined with two-point pass failed but Spruce Creek's 9-0 victory over Mainland had a 6-0 lead with Spruce Creek's 9-0 victory over Lyman. Lake Mary and Spruce Creek are 2-1 in the district, one game behind DeLand. Mainland dropped to 3-5 overall and 1-3 in Curry, the Rams' junior workhorse, carried 27 times for 111 yards and one touchdown. Hartsfield, who took over two weeks ago when Shane Letterlo went down with a broken collarbone, connected on 3 of 5 passes for 82 yards with Sheldon Richards on the receiving end of all three passes. It was Lake Mary's highest passing total of the season.

"John (Curry) ran very well tonight and the o-line did a good job blocking." Lake Mary coach Harry Nelson said. "Carlos (Hartsfield) only made one mistake all night and that's not bad for a kid starting his second ballgame at quarterback."

The Rams' victory overshadowed an impressive performance by Mainland's Morris. The senior quarterback completed 16 of 35 passes for 254 yards and was intercepted twice. He also ran 13 times for 47 yards.

After stailing on its first possession, Morris got Mainland cranked up with 6:43 remaining in the opening quarter. The Bucs took over at their own 44 after left in the first half.

Lyman High's Greyhounds

didn't heed those words Friday night against Port Orange Spruce Creek at Welch Memorial

The 'Hounds were looking to keep "Uncle Mo" on their side going into next Friday's crucial Seminole Athletic Conference showdown against Lake Howell.

Lyman, though, played a sloppy 48 minutes of football and the result was a 9-0 loss to the Hawks before 1,201 fans at the Creek's homecoming in District 5A-4 football.

The Greyhounds fell to 4-3 on the year and 0-3 in 5A-4. They will face Lake Howell this week at Lyman. Spruce Creek upped its record to 2.5 and 2-1 in the district and will host Ocala Vanguard.

Lyman's defense played another solid game, but the offense could only manage 31 yards on the ground on 32 carries, and only 35 more through the air. "We played the worst game of our season tonight," Lyman coach Bill Scott said. "We didn't block anybody the entire night." Scott said the Greyhounds suffered another big loss when quarterback Darren Boyesen went down with a pinched nerve and a possible fractured collarbone after returning a Creek punt. Boyesen and John Burton shared the duty at quarterback and Burton took over after the injury occurred early in the fourth quarter.

The 'Hounds desense put in a solid effort as the Hawks' only score for the first three quarters was a safety. Spruce Creek's only touchdown came on an interception return. The 'Hounds gave way to 130 yards on the ground and yielded just 37 yards through the air.

On the opening kickoff. Lyman's Victor Farrier made a nice return to the Lyman 48 and the 'Hounds were able to move the ball until Boyesen tossed an interception right into the hands of Mark Beach and the Creek took over at its,own 20.

Neither team could manage a first down on their next three possessions and was forced to phil the ball!

In the second quarter, Lyman took over at its own 16 with 6:09 remaining in the half. The Greyhounds were hit with a holding call backing them up to the 11. Robert Thomas then ran for a one-yard pick up. Lyman was then forced to punt and. after Scott Radcliff was pressured, he attempted to run for the first down. His attempt was cut short and the Hawks took over at the Lyman 16.

The 'Hounds desense then dodged a bullet, keeping Spruce Creek out of the end zone and forcing a field goal attempt by Jones. The 27-yard attempt was right and Lyman took over at its own 20. The Greyhounds were still unable to move the ball and forced to punt from the 24-yard line. The snap went sailing over Radcliff's head and, when he recovered the ball and attemted to throw it, he stepped on the end line to give the Creek a safety and a 2-0 halftime lead.

In the third, the teams continued to keep the ball on the ground and remained unsuccessful as both teams failed to sustain a long drive or penetrate the opposing side of the field.

Radcliff picked off a Vince Hollomon pass and the Lyman defense gave its offense an opportunity with 2:31 remaining in the third quarter. The Greyhounds attempt again fell short again, forcing Radeliff to punt the ball away.

Late in the fourth, Lyman was forced to go to the air and had success until a trick-play attempt turned sour.

The 'Hounds took over with 4:34 left and began its only substantial drive of the night. Lyman moved the ball from the its own 30 to the 47 on back to back passes. Burton hit Julio Ceballos for a one-yard gain, and tossed to Ira Melton for a 16-yard

Two incomplete passes slowed the drive. Thomas then took a shovel pass to the Creek 44 and picked up the necessary three yards for a first down.

The drive ended when Burton rolled out and hit Thomas with a lateral. Thomas' pass attempt back to Burton was errant and the Hawks' Willie Williams intercepted the ball and raced 62 yards for the touchdown. Jones added the point after putting the game out of reach with 1:31 to Lyman lost any chance to score when the kickoff was fumbled away and Spruce Creek took over at the Lyman 24 and ran the clock out.

Moments later, Hartsfield came up with another big pass play. On fourth and seven at the Mainland 33, Hartsfield contouchdown of the season. It also marked the first time this season someone other than Curry scored a TD for the Rams. The two-point run failed, but Lake Mary had a 12-8 lead with 1:20 left in the half.

inelig ble for basketball season

By Ken Rummel Here's one of the most fascinating football stories of all-time...Perhaps you know it, perhaps you don't...Back in 1942, Boston College was the number one team in the country...They were undefeated going into the last game with Holy Cross...They were heavily lavored, and made reservations to hold a victory celebration after the game at a place called the Coconu

Grove...However, in one of the greatest upsets in football history, Holy Cross not only best B.C., but they best them by the unbelievable acore of 55-12...The crushed Boston College officials concelled the "Victory" party...Then, that night the Coconut Grove burned in one of the worst disasters In history with 492 people losing their ilves...The Boston College football players all might have been killed except for the fact that they lost a foot-ball game that afternoon...Fate plays strange tricks, doesn't it?

Did you know in the old days of football, coaches didn't want their players to wear numbers on their uniforms...They thought it would be better if everbody-opponents and fans-were confused about who was carrying the ball...The rule requiring teams to wear numbers on the back and front of their jerseys was not passed until 1937.

I bet you didn't know...that Ken Rummel Chevrolet has a fine selection of new cars and trucks and OK used cars & trucks. Our service department is fully staffed with factory trained technicians and ready to serve you.

Nowhere Bowl: Fans To Snub Bills, Bucs

UPI Sports Writer

TAMPA - The Buffalo Bills, who can't win on the road, travel south this weekend to meet a team that can't seem to win anywhere.

The 2.6 Bills and 1.7 Buccaneers are trying to build success around young quarterbacks and an annual parade of high draft picks. The stands at Tampa Stadium should be half empty at 1 p.m. EST Sunday when Buffalo attempts to break a 20-game road losing streak. Tampa Bay has dropped six straight home games and the Leeman Bennett era has opened with a 3-21 slate.

Since 1983, the Buccaneers have won just 11 of 56 games. while the Bills have a 14-42 mark in that span.

'The Bucs are young and they're in the same boat we are.

Coach Hank Bullough says. "Offensively, they've kind of limited the quarterback as to complexities of NFL defenses."

Jim Kelly, who owned virtually all of the U.S. Football League's passing records, is struggling with Buffalo's conservative offensive philosophy. Used to throwing the ball 75 percent of the time, Kelly is adjusting to a more balanced attack that calls for few deep

"As far as wins and losses go. this season has been frustrating," Kelly says, "but I'm making strides. Unfortunately, the guys who can help me are either banged up or on injured reserve. It seemed like in the first half of the season, nothing would go our way. I'd throw a pass and it

> With leading rusher Greg Bell still sidelined with a groin injury, first-round draft pick Ronnie Harmon should make his second NFL start. Two rookles, center Kent Hull and guard Will Wolford, start on the offensive line and left tackle Ken Jones is out with a knee injury.

Both teams have outstanding young quarterbacks and are building up the rest of the team to go with them." says Bennett, who calls Young the most improved player on the team. "I don't know if either of us can win consistently yet, but we are capable of good efforts. Buffalo has lost by more than 14 points only once (23-3 setback to New England last week) and the Bills have played a one-point game against the Jets in the Meadowlands."

Tailback James Wilder comes off a 110-yard effort against Kansas City in last week's 27-20 loss, a game Bennett termed

Giants, Raiders Hope To Avoid Season Sweeps

United Press International Season sweeps have been the rule of division rivalries between the Denver Broncos and Los Angeles Raiders, and Dallas Cowboys and New York Glants.

With that in mind, the Raiders and Giants will try to avoid damaging sweeps Sunday when they play rematches of their scason-openers.

The Raiders are home against the Broncos, who opened the season with a 38-36 victory over Los Angeles at Mile High Stadium. Denver, 7-1, leads the AFC West by two games over the Raiders. Scattle Scahawks and Kansas City Chiefs. However. the Raiders take a five-game winning streak into Sunday's

The Giants are home against Dallas in a meeting between two of the three teams tied for first in the NFC East. The Cowboys edged the Giants 31-28 in the first Monday night game of the

The Raiders have swept Denver 14 times and the Broncos swept four series in their 25-year-old rivalry. The series has been swept every year since 1978, except for the strikeshortened 1982 season when they met once.

The Raiders swept last season. keeping the Broncos out of the playoffs with an 11-5 record. Denver's victory in the 1986 opener pushed the Raiders off to nn 0-3 start.

"Five weeks ago, the season was a struggling one for us. We were 0-3 and breakfast didn't taste so good," Raiders Coach Tom Flores said. "We were battling a situation we weren't used to Now we're at a point where we can make a strike to get back in the race. But we're not out of the woods yet."

Denver rebounded from a 20-10 loss to the Jets two weeks' ago by defeating Seattle 20-13 last Sunday.

"We will be ready for the Raiders' this week, but it will take a lot of hard work." Broncos Coach Dan Reeves said. "We are not as sharp overall as we would like to be offensively, but (quarterback John) Elway (a making a lot of big plays for us."

The Raiders will have running back Marcus Allen, defensive end Howie Long and cornerback Mike Haynes — a trio of Pro Bowlers - healthy Sunday.

The game is a sellout at the 92.500-seat Coliseum, marking the Raiders' second seliout since they moved to Los Angeles from Oakland in 1982.

Dallas has swept the Giants 11 times, and New York has returned the favor three times since the Cowboys entered the league in 1960.

The series has been especially important the past two years. The Giants swept Dallas in 1984 to keep the Cowboys from the playoffs for the first time since 1974. The Cowboys' two victories over New York last season gave them the division title after Dallas, New York and Washington finished tied at 10-6. "It's like starting from scratch." Giants Coach Bill Parcells said.

Dallas quarterback Danny White and running back Tony Dorsett return to the starting lineup Sunday after missing time with injuries. The Cowboys have won three straight against the Giants, and Dorsett thinks Dallas is better now than it has been for several years.

"There's no doubt we're a better team," he said.

WEEK 9 Oilers Need Perfect Moon Over Miami

MIAMI (UPI) - Houston quarterback Warren Moon says his team has to play nearly perfect football in order to win. and it is evident by their 1-7 record that the Oile: s have been less than perfect this season.

Houston, on a seven-game losing streak, and the Miami Dolphins, 3.5, will be trying to put disappointing starts behind them Sunday in the Orange Bowl when they open the second half of the season.

Moon, in his third year after signing a multi-million dollar contract out of the Canadian Football League, said the Oilers' losing streak has been keyed by mistakes at critical times.

"We always seem to have penalties at inopportune times," he said. "Those are the things that hurt us week in and week out. We almost have to play perfect football in order to win. I'm just frustrated at this point. I knew it would be tough coming in here, but I didn't think it would take this long."

With the Otlers behind in almost every game, Moon has been forced to throw into defenses waiting on the pass, and the result is 17 interceptions. Only San Diego's Dan Fouts.

with 19, has thrown more. The Otlers have been hurt by injuries to their offensive line, which has caused Moon to use his scrambling ability more than he would like to avoid the rush. The Ollers have allowed 26 sacks.

Moon has completed 141 of 271 passes for 2.035 yards and 7 touchdowns, and is the only other quarterback besides Miami's Dan Marino to have more than 2,000 yards passing. Marino has completed 177 of 299 passes for 2,326 yards, 17 touchdowns and 13 intercept team.

"Moon is a great athlete who ing a lot Sunday)." Moon said. has really come along as far as being a drop-back passer," Miami Coach Don Shula said. "This makes him doubly dangerous because of his tremendous ability on rollouts by design and his ability to scramble."

The Dolphins will be going up against the league's fourth-best pass defense, but that statistic could be deceiving as most teams tend to run the ball when they are ahead, and the Ollers have not led too often this year. Opponents have passed 209 times against the Oilers this year and run 295 times.

Football

The Ollers like to blitz and will use that factic to pressure Marino, who also has been under heavy pressure much of the year. Houston Coach Jerry Glanville said Marino's quick release could negate the effectiveness of blitzing.

"I think the first thing that jumps at you is the quarterback's quick release," Glanville said of Marino. "That." and the way he guns the ball."

Blitzing also will leave Miami wide outs Mark Duper (34 catches for 601 yards and 4 touchdowns) and Mark Clayton (33 catches for 708 yards and 5 scores) in single coverage much of the time.

Miami is trying to get back into playoff contention and needs a win against Houston, which upset the Dolphins in lastf we can keep Rozier in check and keep Warren Moon from scrambling around, we'll have a chance to win," said safety Glenn Blackwood.

If the Ollers are to be successful against the Dolphins Sunday, running back Mike Rozier (132, carries for 438 yards) will need to have a good day against a Miami defense ranked next-to-last against the

"We have to control the football this week and keep it away from Dan Marino and his receivers, but at the same time we have to try to score when we have the football," Moon said.

Scoring is something teams have done well against the Dolphins, who have given up more points than any other NFL "We're hoping for that (scor-

Apopka's Quick Start Frustrates Patriots, 17-7

By Mike Andrew Special to the Herald

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - The Lake Brantley Patriots endured another study in frustration Friday night, dropping their seventh consecutive game. 17-7. to Apopka, in District 5A-5 football before 2,301 fans at Lake Brantley High School.

Coach Fred Almon's team played well during the second half but a 14-point Blue Darter first half spelled the difference.

"We sure didn't play both halves. did we?" Almon asked following the loss. "We played a great game the second half, and won, 7-3. But, in this game, it takes both halves together. And the first half was the worst two quarters we've played since I've been

Lake Brantley, 0.7, fell to 0.4 in 5A-5. The Patriots are at Lake Mary this week. Apopka remained tied for the top spot in 5A.5 at 3.1 as the Darters improved to 5-3 overall.

Almon credited a Patriot defense.

which was on the field for most of the game, and kept what could have been a blow-out close in the first half, in the opening two quarters. Apopka began five consecutive drives in Lake Brantley's territory. The Blue Darters started at Brantley's 35-, 44-, 33-, 43-, and 35- yard lines, yet the Patriot defense held them to just 12 points. Apopka's other two points came on a

Junior monster man Jeff Stanphill set up the Patriots' lone score with a blocked punt late in the fourth quarter. He said his team showed poise in

"We sharpened up a lot out there in the second half." Stanphill said. "I think our team showed a lot of character. The coaching was great. and we played well, except for a couple of small mistakes."

The small mistakes, coupled with a number of unsuccessful crucial plays. were the difference in the game. Bad luck also played a part.

Apopka took a 12-0 lead in the first, half on a pair of two-yard plunges by lineman-turned-fullback Steve Scog-

With 3:30 left in the first half, and Brantley still trailing by 12 points, the Patriots attempted a fake punt on fourth and 10 which appeared wide open. Apopka's Robert Hardwick dove and just got enough of Mark Sepe's foot to trip him short of the first down.

On the ensuing possession, Lake Brantley's defense held and forced a Scott Reynolds punt. Reynolds made the most of it, planting the ball inside the one-yard line of Lake Brantley. On the next play, Hardwick again figured in Brantley's downfall as he combined with Jimmy Mann to sack Pats' QB Greg Ebbert in the end zone.

After the half. Apopka picked up three more points on Reynolds' 20yard field goal for a 17-0 lead.

Ebbert then directed the Brantley Blue on a drive deep into Apopka territory, only to have Hardwick again steal the glory. With 3:14 to go in the third period. Ebbert rolled right on fourth and one looking for Clegg Ivey. Ivey appeared open inside the five, but Hardwick went high in the air to bat away Ebbert's toss.

Things didn't turn around for Lake Brantley until Stanphill's block, but with only 5:58 remaining it was too little, too late.

The block, in fact, turned out to be the only good luck the Patriot's would have. Alm n changed his formation at the last note. and Stanphill got in untouched

"Coach Almon changed it right before the snap." Stanphill said. "When I moved up, one guy blocked in, and the other blocked out and I went right between them. It was a straight shot up the middle."

Apopka mentor Chip Gierke said the victory was a simple formula.

"It was just a matter of knowing what we had to do." Glerke said. "And going out and executing.

"We wanted to establish the running game." Gierke added. "And that was the key to the game. Our offensive line was magnificent.'

Almon left the size of the Apopka defense, especially up front, hurt his team's chances. "They are just huge." Almon said. "We are so small at the center, left guard and left tackle, we were overmatched. But the kids played tremendously, and I think we've built some momentum going into Lake Mary next week."

fense, though, stiffened and King's 49-yard field goal slipped just under the bar.

After King, who averaged 44.2 yards on six kicks, and Sonny Osborn, who averaged 50.5 yards on four boots, played punter's tug-of-war most of the second quarter until Castello mishandled a return on the run and Chad Duncan recovered on the Seminole 28. Four players later, Blanton called for King and the leftfooted senior crunched the ball high and deep between the uprights for a 41-yard field goal and a 10-0 Oviedo lead with 1:09 left in the first half.

"I hit the 47-yarder against Lyman pretty good (two weeks ago)." King said. "I was really pumped up for this game to-

Oviedo finally returned the favor on the second play of the first half when Ardine Daniels separated Gainey from the ball and Leonard Lucas pounted on it at the Oviedo 24.

Seminole couldn't capitalize, though, Eric Williams was stopped for no gain before a procedure call took five more. Willis threw incomplete twice Williams tried to pick the ball up and circle around, but the play ended up losing 21 yards to Seminole's third fumbled punt - this time by Lucas at the Oviedo 15 - set up Gainey's second TD. "I was surprised at that. I was just trying to hang that one up," King said about his 45-yarder. 'I guess he (Lucas) must of heard footsteps." Gainey pounded his footsteps one play later, breaking two tackles and using a nice spin move to romp 14 yards for the touchdown. King's PAT put Ovledo in command, 17-0, with 7:35 left in the third quarter.

"The lead blocker (Steve Hofmann) did a great job on taking out the linebacker." Gainey said. "And it (the touchdown) was just there."

Seminole put together its most impressive drive on the next series, picking up three first downs as Willis marched the Tribe to the Oviedo 46. A Willis fumble, though, handed it back to the Lions as sophomore Willie

Pauldo covered the ball. King set up Oviedo's last TD with another 45-yarder, this one going end over end and resting on the Seminole 2 when the Tribe opted for the block and go without a return man. After gaining a yard on first down, Willis fired a sideline pass but Wright picked it off at the Seminole 22 and returned it 20 yards to the 2. Gainey powered over on the next play. King hooked the PAT wide to the right but the Lions' 23-0 bulge was enough with 41 seconds left in the third period.

"Gainey got the opportunities to score and he took it in," Mosure said. "The's a fighter."

Osborn, taking a page from King's book, launched a 61-yard punt which rolled dead at the Oviedo 7 to set up Seminole's score. Three plays later. Banks broke through Oviedo's left side and smothered the ball. Denton jumped on it for his first career touchdown. Pat Daugherty added the PAT for a 23-7 count with 8:26 left in the game.

"When I got the ball they were all over me," King said. "I just tried to get it off."

Oviedo's defense took advantage of its field position, too. Linebackers Jeff Joyce and Pauldo turned in strong games as did DBs Duncan and Wright. Duncan stole a halfback pass by Curtin Rudolph later in the fourth quarter. "Our defense did a great job." Blanton said. "Seminole's like us, they don't throw it a lot so we just got nine guys up on the line of scrimmage to stop the Rigby appeared to be stopped at the line of scrimmage but kept his balance and bolted up the middle for a 5-yard touchdown run. Jeff Philips added the PAT giving the Hawks a 7.0 lead with I 1:56 left in the first half.

"I've been waiting for the opportunity to return a kick all season long." Gammons said about the game-winning play. "I caught the ball and saw that there was a crease. I made a cut to my right and I was gone."

Bisceglia said that Hawks needed a big play from the special teams. "Our offense was struggling." he sald. "We needed a big play like that and we got one. We beat a very good football team tonight and I'm very proud of our team. They have a tremendous attitude."

The ususal potent Howell running attack was held in check as the Hawks mustered 116 rushing yards. "The line blocked well when it had to," Wainwright said. "We didn't play all that well offensively but we still won and that is what

WEEK 8 Knights Try To Break 3-Game Skid Vs. VMI

By Scott Sander Herald Sports Writer

After three consecutive losses, one might think that the University of Central Florida football team has written off the rest this

After all, the Knights were 4-1 three weeks ago and seemed to have a legitimate shot at making the Division II playoffs. Three weeks later, UCF is 4.4 and trying to finish off the season with a winning record.

"We aren't ready to throw in the towel just yet." UCF coach Gene McDowell said. "We still have a chance to have the best record in UCF history."

In 1979, the first year that UCF played football, the Knights won six games. Last year UCF went 4.7. UCF will try to get back to winning form on Saturday when the Knights travel to Lexington. Va. to take on Division I-AA Virginia Military Institute. The schedule doesn't get any easier for UCF as the Knights will play host to Georgia Southern, the defending Division II National Champions, next Saturday night in Orlando Stadium.

"The team is very mad right now," McDowell said. "We blew the game last week (A 31-28 homecoming loss to Wosford). Everyone is anxious to make up for last week's poor performance.'

The Keydets are 1-6, but have played tough, according to McDowell. "VMI is a very strong football team." McDowell said. "They have played some very good football teams."

Some of the teams that VMI has lost to include William and Mary, Furman, Richmond, and Western Carolina.

In last week's loss, it was five interceptions by quarterback Darin Slack that hampered UCF's effort. "I don't think he realized that we were wearing the black jerseys," McDowell said. "The interceptions gave them the game. I don't who he was throwing to on some of those passes.

Tony Lanham, who was the starting quarterback last season. tried to bail out the Knights but was unable to do so. Lanham broke his right pinky on the first snap that he took in the game. Lanham's status for the VMI game is questionable.

Football

"If Tony is healthy enough he will definitely start the game." McDowell said. "We are going to have to play it by car. If Tony's finger isn't any better. Darin will start. In the only other meeting of the series. VMI bombarded UCF 69-0 for VMI's biggest victory in history. McDowell said that there is no revenge factor.

"We can't really relate to that game," he said. "These are two totally different teams.

The Knights have found that things are not easy away from Orlando Stadium as UCF has lost its last nine road games dating back to last year.

Slack, a former Lake Howell all-state performer, has had a fine year but 11 interceptions have scarred his performance. Slack is 13th out of all quarterback in Division II with 1,546 yards. UCF kicker Eddle O'Brien is second in the nation with 13 field goals.

VMI coach Eddie Williamson said the Knights worry him. "The things that we are having problems with right now are the things that they seem to do the best," Williamson said. "It is going to be a real challenge for

VMI defensive end Todd Friewald said the the the Keydets are going to have to play their best to beat UCF. "They are a very aggressive football team," Friewald said. "But we are a hungry team. We are going to have to step on the field this weekend like rabid dogs looking for a bone."

"This is a pivotal game for us," McDowell added. "If we lose we will be looking down the barrel of a 5-6 season. I'm not saying that we can't win our final two games. I'm just being realistic. I would be very disappointed if we didn't win this football game. We are a good enough team to have a winning record. KNIGHTS ARMOR — There are several UCF milestones that could be reached in the game. Tailback Elgin Davis is 117 yards shy of the 2,000 yards for his career. O'Brien is one point shy of Scott Ryerson's all-time point record.

Blue Velvet'ls Visually Stunning

By NEA Staff
BLUE VELVET (R) — Kyle
Maclachian, Laura Dern, Isabelia Rossellini, Dennis Hopper. Director David Lynch's nightmarish black comedy is a coming-of-age story like no other. Home from college, Jef-frey (Maclachian) discovers a human ear in a field, which leads to his involvement in a small town's scamy underworld of drugs and sexual brutality. Sadistic and funny by turns, the film is an emotional rollercoaster ride that never ceases to be visually stunning. The actors are excellent, and Hopper, as a maniacal drug addict, gives one the most satanic performances ever committed to celluloid. GRADE; A-minus.

GOD (R) — William Hurt, Mariee Matlin, Piper Laurie, Philip Bosco. (Drama) This Tony-award winning play makes the transi-tion from stage to screen with dignity intact. Both Hurt and Matlin deserve Oscar nominations for their physically and emotionally draining roles as a teacher and student who fall passionately in love. Matlin is especially wonderful, and her transcendent beauty and unique expressiveness are inspirational. This is the first must-see fall film of 1986. Love does have a langauge all its own. GRADE:

CROCODILE DUNDEE (PG-13) — Paul Hogan, Linda Koslowski, Mark Blum. (Comedy) The leather-skinned Dundee, best known for his Australian tourism commercials, makes a likable leading man in this tractive reporter (Koslowski) meets Hogan in the Australian City and falls in love with him. Yuke abound when the naive Dundee makes his way around the big city, and there is just enough action (crocodile killing, anake wrestling, fish spearing) to keep audiences from squirming at the silliness. This is light fall fare. GRADE: B-minus.

JUMPIN' JACK PLASH (R) Whoopi Goldberg, Stephen
 Collins, John Wood, Carol Kane. (Comedy-Adventure) Whoopi Goldberg plays a lonely and bored transactions clerk who starts getting strange messages on her computer terminal — and suddenly finds herself in the middle of an international spy plot. Goldberg has a wonderfully expressive face, and she is ably assisted by Stephen Collins and Carol Kane, among others. This one won't start anyone pondering the meaning of life or the nature of the universe, but it is good diverting fun. GRADE: B.

THE NAME OF THE ROSE (R) - Sean Connery, F. Murray Abraham, Christian Slater. (Mystery) How do you adapt a 200,000-word mystery novel set in a 14th century clotster? Surprisingly, Umberto Eco's best-seller, directed by Jean-Jacques Annaud ("Quest for Fire"). makes the transition with style and wit. Connery has his best role in years as monk-turned-alcuth William of Baskerville, and Abraham relishes his role as Grand Inquisitor. This wholly original film deserves to be seen. But the acreenplay is taxing; pay attention to the action to reap the benefits. GRADE: B.

PROGY STE GOT MARRIED (PG-18) - Kathleen Turner, Nicholas Cage, Barry Miller, Catherine Hicks, Joan Allen, Kevin J. O'Connor. (Comedy) Turner goes to her 25th highschool reunion, faints and is thrust back to the time just before her graduation. "Back to the Future — Part II"? Hardly. Director Francis Coppola has crafted — at least for the first hour — a charming and engag-ing set of circumstances that explore the traumas of unresolved relationships. But Coppola loses control halfway through, and an outrageous scerie invoking mysticism and a weepy conclusion destroy the mood, GRADE: B-minus.

Woman Winning 35-Year Battle Of Bulge With Gastric Bubble

Herald Staff Writer

There's a new weapon in the battle of the bulge, a balloon-like device that when inserted and inflated in the stomach creates a feeling of fullness, thus curbing the appetite.

And with a bit of will power and good motivation a 46-year-old Sanford woman says the Garren-Edwards Gastric Bubble is working for

Charlotte Sykes is the first of two patients of Dr. Lenkala Mallalah to have a gastric bubble placed into her stom-

Mrs. Sykes, at 5-feet, 2-inches tall, weighed in at 235 pounds when she read about the bubble and went to Mallalah and asked for one just over three months ago. Mrs. Sykes is now down to 196 pounds. She said according to weight charts her ideal weight would be 135, but she will be content when she reaches 175, after a 35-year battle of the bulge.

She's tried all the diets, but stopped short of having an intestinal bypass or stomach stapling, out of fear of possible post-surgery complications and side effects.

Dr. Lenkala

Mallaiah cautions

for everyone. 'It's not a panacea. It's

is motivation,' he said.

"I was never a glutton, but I love food," Mrs. Sykes said. "I love to go out to eat. Everything was good. I had a cast iron stomach. I was a binger. I didn't eat one candy bar; I'd eat the six-pack. I ate more than my share. I never missed a meal."

When Mrs. Sykes read about the bubble, which was developed in a decade of research by a husband and wife doctor team and was approved by the Federal Drug Administration just over a year ago, she began looking for one.

A friend who works with Mallaiah, a Sanford gastrologist who who is on the staff at Central Florida Regional Hospital, told her Mallalah had just attended a seminar on the bubble.

Mrs. Sykes, according to medical standards was an ideal candidate for the bubble, which is a soft, plastic cylinder that is about 2inches wide and about 4inches long when inflated after having been passed by a tube down a lightly sedated patient's throat, into the stomach to be inflated there.

She had a positive attitude and was willing to stick to a diet and not expect the bubble to magically work on its on, Mallalah said.

Except for being obese and having high blood pressure, being treated by medication. Mrs. Sykes was in good physical condition.

She had a normal digestive tract. Mallaiah said persons who have had gastro-system surgery including intestinal bypass surgery or stapling can not receive the bubble.

Those who are less than 20 percent over their:"normal" body weight are ruled out for the bubble, he said, as are those with peptic ulcers or other lesions of the upper gastro-intestinal tract and those with abnormalities of the throat or pharynx.

Persons who have hiatal hernias and those on aspirin therapy, anti-inflammatory agents and anti-coagulants are also ruled out, as are those who have psychiatric or alcohol disorders. Mallaiah

Since receiving her bubble, which under FDA rules can only be in place for four months before being deflated and removed, Mrs. Sykes said she has been on a variation of a diabetic diet with a limit of 1,000 calories

Her personal cating habits dictate that she cat about a cup-and-a-half of food every two hours during the day. She likes to always have some food in her stomach.

See BUBBLE, 2C

The Garren Edwards Gastric Bubble is the basis for a complete weight reduction program. It is inserted orally in

Its deflated form into the stomach and then inflated to take up a portion of the stomach's volume and provide the patient with a sensation of fuliness.

First Lady Speaks Out

'Lack Of Self-Esteem' Is The Key To Need For Drugs

Nancy Reagan led the cheers at a dinner honoring "Pros For Kids," a group of athletes who warn youngsters of the dangers of drugs.

Although the evening had its share of laughter, Mrs. Reagan was near tears Wednesday night as she told the large group of sports figures of a letter from a Southwest woman whose son had died of a heroin overdose at the age of 24.

Using that as a springboard, she tried to suggest why drugs have become such a terrifying problem for young America.

She cited the availability of drugs, peer pressure, glamorization of drugs in the

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - First Lady arts and factors such as academic pressures, boredom and "normal adolescent rebellions."

> Yet she said that the overriding factor that led people to drugs, in her opinion, is "lack of self-esteem."

She recalled that after a woman had presented a paper, titled "First Teach Them to Read," at a children's conference, Dr. Martin Luther King leaned over and said, "First, teach them to believe in themselves.'

"I think that's the key," said Mrs. Reagan. "I believe drugs rush in to fill the void where a child's supply of self-esteem should be."

She said other eras have had their own means of escape, such as alcohol, but that "the danger today is that with something like crack, addiction can be almost instantaneous. The stakes of experimentation and search for oneself have been greatly increased.'

She called on the assembled athletes to "help give our children the best medicine in the world — self-esteem. Pros For Kids is the way."

She also paid special tribute to Pros For Kids founder Delvin Williams. former star running back for the San Francisco 49ers and Miami Dolphins, who conquered his personal drug problem and then founded "Pros For Kids."

Mrs. Reagan told Williams, "To tell the truth, Delvin, I'm a bigger fan of yours now than when you played football although to be honest, I didn't know you played football."

Joe Montana, the San Francisco 49ers' recuperating quarterback, and his teammate, linebacking star Keena Turner, presented Guest of Honor Mrs. Reagan with a 49ers jersey bearing No. 1. She also received a jersey for her husband, but he had to settle for No. 2.

Television sportscaster Frank Gifford, himself a former football running back, was the evening's master of ceremony. and about 100 past and present professional athletes were in the audience.

IN BRIEF

O'Neal Courtroom Charmer During $3 Million Suit Trial

By United Press International

Ryan O'Neal was quite the courtroom charmer in New York Thursday. O'Neal, tanned and relaxed, chatted during breaks and smiled at the four women and two men in the jury hearing the $3 million suit filed against him by a doorman from the Hotel Pierre. Brendan Campbell claims O'Neal and Farrah Fawcett were on their way to the theater in August 1980 when O'Neal threw a soda bottle at a photographer and the broken glass landed in Campbell's eye. During one break, O'Neal, who denied throwing the bottle, went to see how he was being sketched by a television station's courtroom artist. "I don't want to be that blond," he told the artist. "I'm not that blond. It looks like Troy Donahue." Perhaps the most starstruck person in the courtroom was Judge Carla Moskowitz's mother, who had a front-row seat for O'Neal's show. "He's adorable," the judge's mother said. "He really is cute. He must be at least 40 (he's 45) and he doesn't look it. I don't often see a movie star from so close up."

Chira's Challenge

Chita Rivera's broken leg has been an immense frustration for her. "At times I'd think, 'What good am I if I can't do my work?" she told The New York Times. "My wings have been clipped. I want to dance. That's what I do." Rivera was starring in "Jerry's Girls" when she was in a car accident April 7 in New York. Since then Rivera, who has 12 pins and a metal plate in her left leg, has spent most of her time recuperating in her suburban Blauvelt home. She recently started doing simple workouts and is hoping to shed some of the 10 pounds she put on while

Cajun Video abmuber 46, feel end

Cajun chef Paul Prudhomme is pushing videotapes in addition to his new bottled Cajun martinis. The drink, which is made from vodka enlivened by cayenne peppers. has "just the right amount of green flavor and just the right amount of heat," says the portly cook. Prudhomme is going on a 25-day nationwide tour to promote the two cooking videos, which combine cooking instructions with scenes of Louisiana's Cajun country, the French Quarter and his K-Paul's restaurant in New Orleans. "What we've tried to do is tell and show you what happens when you put the ingredients in the pot, plus why you put them in the pot the way you do," Prudhomme said.

Witchy New Year

Friday may have been Halloween for the kids but for witches it was 'New Year's Day, Laurie Cabot, chiel among the 2,000 witches of Salem, Mass., said Halloween is Samhain; their New Year from the ancient Celtic religion. "We celebrate by doing rituels, like the magic circle," ahe said. "We dress up as what we want to become in the New Year hever scary of ugly things." Cabot, who teaches, lectures and performs psychic counseling when not operating her Crow Haven Corner store in Salem, said witches celebrate Halloween much like other people observe their New Year except "we don't drink." Since it's harvest time, she said, "we go around from house to house to taste every family's harvest. That's the origin of 'trick or treat' - but there are no tricks." She said jack-o'-lanterns are carried to light the way and "scare away animals or things you don't want near you.'

Booster Club To Hold Mortgage Burning Prior To Nov. 7 Game

A "mortgage burning" is being planned by the Lake Mary High School Booster Club Friday, Nov. 7 prior to the Lake Mary-Lake Brantley football game. At this time Lake Mary Booster Club will make its final payment on the loan for the building of Lake

Mary's stadium. Lake Mary High School opened its doors in August, 1981, and secured a loan for its first football field, lights, and portable bleachers. In February of 1983, Chuck Schmitt, Don Ames and Don Reynolds gave a slide presentation to members of the booster club showing plans for the new stadium. The plans were overwhelminly approved. With exhuberation, workers began their long, hot, tedious tasks in June. 1983, and everyone: coaches, administrators, students, teachers, and parents worked steadfastly through the summer with one goal in mind, the completion of the stadium for the first football game of the season.

Fans began arriving for the opening game of the football season in September, 1983, a workers were still toiling in hot pursuit, making the finishing touches. At least the mission of the Booster Club wax finally accomplished. On Nov. 7, 1986 a total of $213.275.00 plus interest in loans will be paid off in full as Don T. Reynolds, principal of Lake Mary High School, turns over the final payment to a member of Freedom Bank. In the presence of thousands of fans, the story of a 6-year loan ends in just three years and two months. Come early to the game and join the festivities as the gala celebration begins at the stadium at 7:30 p.m. with a triumphant mortgage burning ccremony.

The Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce will meet on Wednesday, Nov. 5. at 8 a.m. in the Community Ceter, 260 North Country Club Road, Lake Mary. There will be two guest speakers.

Chief Lauderdale of the Lake Mary Police Department will discuss merchant crime prevention techniques. Joe Glossick, Director of Operations for the Institute of Human Resources topic will be "Employment Systems Programs." on drug rehabilitation.

years dancing experience. Ms. Vaccaro said dancers planning to audition "must have two years dance background anywhere such as in high school. Nothing in the by-laws says they must attend classes."

Free auditions will be held Dec. 6, from noon to 4 p.m., at the National Guard Armory, 915 E. First St., Sanford. Dancers are asked to wear practise clothes and bring appropriate shoes All dancers will be auditioned in tap, ballet, jazz and modern.

Adjudicators for the auditions are: Edith Royal, former owner of Royal School of Dance, Winter Park and artistic director of the prestigious Royal Ballet Co.; Connie Mosure, dance instructor at Lake Mary High School and director of the school's Lake Mariorettes: and Maureen Maguire, dance coordinator at Seminole High School.

Ms. Vaccaro said 12-year-old dancers will be eligible to audition upon the recommendation of their dancing teachers. "We are hoping to have thirty in the company with six understudies," Ms. Vaccaro said. "At this point, we are trying to happen inadvertantly." Applications for auditions are being printed this week and will be available next week at area schools, dancing schools, chambers of commerce and Betty Vaccaro's World of Performing Arts, Sanford.

The first annual performance by the company will be between Thanksgiving and Christmas, 1987, Ms. Vaccaro said. It is possible, she added, that the company may be ready to perform in three-to six months in mini performances."We are hoping we are not infringing on any other dance events that go on at that time," she added. There are no dance recitals or final exams at that time, plus the dance lines are winding down after the football season.'

Ms. Vaccaro says she believes DCF will help smaller dancing schools in the area. She said a achool may have " a couple of very talented kids who need a goal to work towards. We need the support of all dancing achools we can call on for input. We want all the kids in the area in it (dance company).

"Even if I had 50 kids to have a dance line of my own. I still couldn't have the best because the best don't all go to one dancing school," she said.

the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce when "Dance" Central Florida Board of Directors will explain the workings of the company.

After auditions are held, the accepted company dancers will hold rehearsals at Betty Vaccaro's World of Performing Arts every Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m. when they will be taught only routines for performances.

Two top ballet instructors from Ms. Vaccaro's staff who have volunteered their time to rehearse the new dancers are Kay Harmon Webb and Shella Lehner. They will be joined by other volunteer teachers.

"Dance" Central Florida will be governed by a volunteer Board of Directors who have been meeting regularly toward the formation and incorporation of the company. The board includes: Mary Burkhart, presi-dent: Dave Farr, president of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, vice president; Linda Keelifig, treasurer: Jan Bauerle, accretary: Betty Vaccaro, artistic director; and directors Betty Anne Howard, Sanford City Commissioner Bob Thomas, Pat Hitchmon, Janice Springfield. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Orwig. 2425 Laurel Ave., Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen McKendree and the late Mr. Dean Paul Taylor, all of Sanford.

Parties Herald Holiday Season A Little Early

It's the season for parties beautiful parties. And why not? The Heathrow Royal Tennis Grand Prix tournament last weekend attracted a host of celebrities to the area as well other beautiful people. A cocktail party for the tournament sponsors Friday night under the stars and twinkling tree lights at the plush Heathrow Raquet and Swim club was really something else. It was one of those glittering galas that you wouldn't miss for the world. The women arrived all gussied up in gorgeous glitzy fashions to enjoy the superb hospitality of the Heathrow hosts when the sky was the limit in party food and drinks.

Tom McDonald was the only person we saw that we knew. but later Mary Lou said she was busy in the hostess role and that their daughter. Cindy, spent the weekend as Cliff Robertson's chausfeur. Some fun.

Everyone seemed to marvel at the luxurious clubhouse and surroundings, and from all the galety and laughter, it's a good bet to surmise that everybody did, indeed, have a good time.

On Wednesday night, Mayor Bettye Smith and her husband. Dr. Robert J. Smith, entertained at a lavish floating reception aboard the Sanford-based cruise ship, Romance.

A few falling raindrops didn't dampen the spirits of the merrymakers who reveled in luxury aboard the ship while cruising down the St. Johns River.

Bettye greeted the guests wearing a simply smashing and quite chic pastel sequined short gown complemented with matching accents. Dr. Smith was using a cane due to a slightly sprained back that he promised would soon be all right.

An elegant and lively party atmosphere was reflected in a decor that depicted Halloween, complete with a large caldron of smoking and bubbling witch's

A variety of delicious party food and guests' choice of beverages was served during the entire cruise. A band and pretty cancan girls added to the festive atmosphere.

The invitation read "evening attire" and the ship was filled with women wearing simply lovely fashions that dictated "after-flye" glamour.

What was the occasion, sever-

Widow Now Regrets Keeping Husband And Mistress Apart

DEAR ABBY: I'm a widow in my 70s with many regrets. Many years ago, I discovered that my husband had a mistress. He had always provided well for me and our children, but he showed me little real affection. It was to his mistress that he turned for companionship, comfort and

I was brought up to believe objections, but I do resent plain that marriage was forever - no matter what - and besides. I enjoyed the beautiful home, financial security and prestige of being his wife. I had enough information about his business dealings to send hom to prison if I had wanted to, and he knew it.

On his 55th birthday he asked me for a divorce, but I wouldn't hear of it. I created a terrible scene, threatening blackmail, suicide and everything I could think of to remain his wife.

A year later he became terminally ill. Toward the end. he begged me to allow his mistress to visit him in our home. I Did I really win? As I look back, I realize that had I given him a divorce, I still would have been financially secure and could have made a new life for myself. He and his mistress could have had happiness, and everyone would have been better

DEAR ABBY: I called a plumber yesterday. As soon as I opened the door, he entered and asked. 'May I use your bathroom?" This annoyed me for the following reasons: I'm sure the company would not dock him for making a "pit stop." I don't know how far this man traveled from his other job, but en route I'm sure he passed some bathrooms that were open to the public, Very near me are numerous filling stations, restaurants, shopping centers, and any number of places he could Set it straight, Abby.

Dale Carnegie Still Wins Friends And Influences People

United Press International

Every year self-help books tumble off the presses, some to see a brief season as a best-seller, some to disappear without a trace. But the daddy of them all. Dale Carnegie's "How to Win Friends and Influence People." lives on 50 years after it first appeared.

The book has sold 16 million copies to date. In 1985. American Heritage Magazine listed it as one of 10 books that have shaped the American character, alongside such books as Henry David Thoreau's "Walden."

"How to Win Friends" has been translated to more than 30 languages. More than 3 million people worldwide have taken the Carnegie courses on topics such as employee relations. business management and, of course, public speaking. Past students include Chrysler Chairman Lee lacocca.

Carnegie was born in a Maryville. Mo. but considered the town of Belton, Mo., his home. He attended Warrensburg State Teachers College in Missouri and after a brief selling career, went to New York City. There, in 1912 at the 125th Street Y.M.C.A., he began teaching public speaking to business people.

'The skill of speaking in public is the one most people come for and the most difficult. Fear of public speaking ranks greater than fear of dying. people tell us. It's the fear of embarrassing themselves, of looking bad," said Oliver Crom. president of Dale Carnegie & Associates, Inc.

The Dale Carnegie Institute, headquartered in Garden City, N.Y., now offers eight seminars and courses to people in more than 60 countries.

"The top places for us are Germany. France, Great Britain and Japan. In Latin America it's Ecuador, then Mexico," Crom said in a telephone He said the greatest population percentage of used to live better lives and asked people in his classes to try them and tell him how they worked," Crum said.

Simon and Schuster published the first copies of the book in 1936, sellingthem for $1.98 each. The first paperback edition appeared in 1940.

The book was revised in 1981 to make it more modern. A section that referred to women mainly as housewives was deleted, pronouns were "desexed," and examples used were updated e.g. the name of Stevic Wonder is used instead of

The book contains principles such as "be a good listener," "smile." "try honestly to see things from the other person's point of view." Those principles, Crom feels, are a large part of the reason for the success of the books and the

"They're basic but not simplistic," Crom said. "Most of them have been told to us by parents. employees, and teachers, but we're still in the learning process. Even though we know the principles, we still need to practice."

Crom said he feels the continued success of the book and the courses is partly due to its positive attitude and reinforcement.

"As we begin to get older we get more negative reinforcement. When we're children, learning to walk we're cheered and told how wonderful little Suste is. When we get older, people tell us what we are doing is wrong. So we concentrate on the positive, reinforce this and show people they can do it." he said.

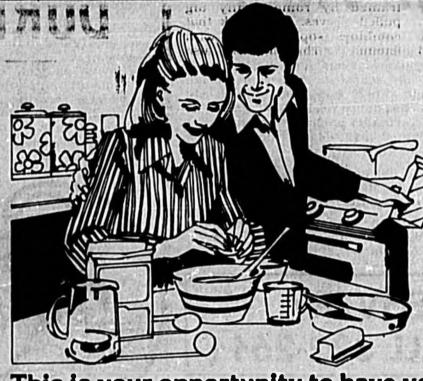

Crom said Carnegie began expanding his courses shortly after World War II. The Dale Carnegie Institute now offers eight subjects including an executive image program, a management seminar and a customer relations

For $750, students attend classes one day or night a week for 14 weeks and are shown how to communicate, relate and listen better.

The courses are adapted when taught overseas. "For instance," he said, "in France we'd speak of (Charles) de Gaulle rather than Churchill as an

"In Japan, a person doesn't go by his or her first name except in the Dale Carnegle course. The lecturer announces that this is an American course and the reason for using first names is to know each other better, but that outside the clasroom they will go back to Japanese courtesies."

The appeal of the book and the courses crosses all boundaries and walks of life.

Black Museum Filled With Slavery Relics

United Pres International

LaPLATA, Md. (UPI) - Some families hand down heirlooms of silver or gold, but the historical riches the Digges family has preserved for America include a 23 1/2 pound ball-and-chain used to shackle their slave ancestors.

"This really proved to me that we had - and still have — real mean people." said William Digges, gazing at the iron used to weigh down his great-grandfather for 20 years after repeated unsucessful attempts to escape from slavery.

Digges, 67, a retired school teacher, has created a black history museum out of the relics of slavery and sharecropping that his relatives experienced in Southern Maryland's tobacco growing country. Unlike the cold, "hands-off" attitude of many museum curators. Digges encourages his visitors many of them school children — to touch an old ox-drawn cultivator, pick up a sait-preserved squirrel or peer inside a black midwife's medical

The most dramatic part of his collection is the ball-and-chain, which Digges said his greatgrandmother removed from his greatgrandfather's leg after his death by chopping off his foot with an axe.

But other items, such as original bills of sale for slaves, flogging whips and the back-breaking iron buckets carried by slave washerwomen, somberly help to drive home the reality of bondage endured by generations of blacks.

"A lot of people don't want to be reminded of the past, they don't see the beauty of it, said Louise Webb, a volunteer who helps support the

In addition to material that tells of blacks' hard work and pain, the museum boasts of black accomplishments. Pictures of black leaders line the wall and historic photographs of Southern Maryland blacks show well-built homes and families decked out in their Sunday finery.

Another display proudly tells of the role of blacks in helping track down President Lincoln's assassin, John Wilkes Booth, and how their testimony helped convict other suspects in the

"I grew up with an inferiority complex. I always thought I didn't know as much as the white kids knew," said Webb, who said when she went to school she was taught "no black history at all." Digges, who began his teaching career at the age of 16, said he started sneaking bits of black history into his courses even though he says at the time such curriculum was against Maryland

In the 1930s, he began asking his grandparents and their contemporaries for the battered utensils, worn tools and yellowing documents sitting around their Charles County homes. Digges's efforts started none too soon because during the Depression, many hard-pressed families sold valuable pieces of black history to antique collectors at bargain prices. The museum, which is jammed into two school rooms allocated by the county, not only depicts blacks as they saw themselves in U.S. history. but also documents the bigoted manner in which many early 19th century whites viewed blacks.

Aunt Jemima dolls, "coon" sheet music and postcards depicting watermelon-eating "pickaninnies" occupy a significant berth in Digges's collection.

"I have these things here because it is history.... This is a form of prejudice that was real and it stamped in white people's minds certain images about black people." Digges said. "You couldn't fault a white child who looked at these degrading things for having a negative image of black people.'

The former teacher said when school children visit the museum he passes around the demeaning post cards and waits for their reaction.

'Some start crying, some lie down and say nothing, and others laugh or get angry," said Digges, who then uses the cards to start students talking about the stereotypes and prejudice blacks have had to fight over the years.

Digges and the Afro-American Heritage Society of Charles County are trying to raise funds to build a black museum and cultural center on five acres of land in LaPlata. In addition to the Maryland effort, Digges has helped establish a black history museum. "Uncle Tom's Cabin," near Dresden, Ontario - a Canadian town that was a refuge for many runaway slaves, including Digges' great-uncle.

'I think more people are getting interested in black history. You've got to if you have any sense." Digges said.

Holiday Evening Clothes Combine Glamour, Ease

clothes combine glamour with back. A front V-segment is filled ease, a concept no doubt influ- in with ivory silk and delicate enced by sportswear. It means swags of pearl embroidery.

The trend can be seen in the collections of leading designers like Oscar de la Renta, who likes softly draped dresses with cashmere skirts and bodices with all-over silver embroidery. Cashmere, the luxury fabric of sportswear, also appears at Carolyne Roehm — usually a designer of elaborately elegant gowns. She does a strapless, softly shirred gown with an easy slit skirt. Chain embroidery glitters at the waist and is repeated as edging for the cardigan jacket.

All-the-way body fit is still strongly influenced by Emanuel Ungaro, who revived the shirred torso with stunning effect. It can be seen in such styles as Eugene Jersey bustier. It is accented with his signature flowers in white sequins edged in black, starting at the waist as an applique and ending on the shoulder.

Dale Carnegie Still Wins Friends And Influences People

United Press International

Every year self-help books tumble off the presses, some to see a brief season as a best-seller, some to disappear without a trace. But the daddy of them all. Dale Carnegie's "How to Win Friends and Influence People." lives on 50 years after it first appeared.

The book has sold 16 million copies to date. In 1985, American Heritage Magazine listed it as one of 10 books that have shaped the American character, alongside such books as Henry David Thoreau's "Walden."

'How to Win Friends" has been translated to more than 30 languages. More than 3 million people worldwide have taken the Carnegie courses on topics such as employee relations. business management and, of course, public speaking. Past students include Chrysler Chairman Lee lacocca.

Carnegie was born in a Maryville. Mo. but considered the town of Belton. Mo., his home. He attended Warrensburg State Teachers College in Missouri and after a brief selling career, went to New York City. There, in 1912 at the 125th Street Y.M.C.A., he began teaching public speaking to

"The skill of speaking in public is the one most people come for and the most difficult. Fear of public speaking ranks greater than fear of dying. people tell us. It's the fear of embarrassing themselves, of looking bad," said Oliver Crom. president of Dale Carnegie & Associates, Inc.

The Dale Carnegic Institute, headquartered in Garden City. N.Y.. now offers eight seminars and courses to people in more than 60 countries.

"The top places for us are Germany. France. Great Britain and Japan. In Latin America it's Ecuador, then Mexico," Crom said in a telephone

"He looked for basic principles that might be used to live better lives and asked people in his classes to try them and tell him how they worked," Crum said.

Simon and Schuster published the first copies of the book in 1936, sellingthem for $1.98 each The first paperback edition appeared in 1940.

The book was revised in 1981 to make it more modern. A section that referred to women mainly as housewives was deleted, pronouns were "desexed." and examples used were updated e.g the name of Stevie Wonder is used instead of

The book contains principles such as "be a good listener." "smile." "try honestly to see things from the other person's point of view." Those principles. Crom feels, are a large part of the reason for the success of the books and the

"They're basic but not simplistic." Crom said. 'Most of them have been told to us by parents. employees, and teachers, but we're still in the learning process. Even though we know the principles, we still need to practice."

Crom said he feels the continued success of the book and the courses is partly due to its positive attitude and reinforcement.

"As we begin to get older we get more negative reinforcement. When we're children, learning to walk we're cheered and told how wonderful little Suste is. When we get older, people tell us what we are doing is wrong. So we concentrate on the positive, reinforce this and show people they can

Crom said Carnegie began expanding his courses shortly after World War II. The Dale Carnegie institute now offers eight subjects including an executive image program, a management seminar and a customer relations

For $750, students attend classes one day or night a week for 14 weeks and are shown how to communicate, relate and listen better.

The courses are adapted when taught overseas. "For instance," he said, "in France we'd speak of (Charles) de Gaulle rather than Churchill as an

The appeal of the book and the courses crosses all boundaries and walks of life.

Black Museum Filled With Slavery Relics

By Rebecca Kolberg United Pres International

LaPLATA, Md. (UPI) - Some families hand down heiriooms of silver or gold, but the historical riches the Digges family has preserved for America include a 23 1/2 pound ball-and-chain used to shackle their slave ancestors.

"This really proved to me that we had — and still have — real mean people," said William Digges, gazing at the iron used to weigh down his great-grandfather for 20 years after repeated unsucessful attempts to escape from slavery.

Digges, 67, a retired school teacher, has created a black history museum out of the relics of slavery and sharecropping that his relatives experienced in Southern Maryland's tobacco growing country.

Unlike the cold, "hands-off" attitude of many museum curators, Digges encourages his visitors - many of them school children - to touch an old ox-drawn cultivator, pick up a salt-preserved squirrel or peer inside a black midwife's medical

The most dramatic part of his collection is the ball-and-chain, which Digges said his greatgrandmother removed from his great-grandfather's leg after his death by chopping off his foot with an axe.

But other items, such as original bills of sale for slaves, flogging whips and the back-breaking iron buckets carried by slave washerwomen, somberly help to drive home the reality of bondage endured by generations of blacks.

'A lot of people don't want to be reminded of the past, they don't see the beauty of it, said Louise Webb, a volunteer who helps support the

In addition to material that tells of blacks' hard work and pain, the museum boasts of black accomplishments. Pictures of black leaders line the wall and historic photographs of Southern Maryland blacks show well-built homes and families decked out in their Sunday finery.

Another display proudly tells of the role of blacks in helping track down President Lincoln's assassin. John Wilkes Booth, and how their testimony helped convict other suspects in the plot.

"I grew up with an inferiority complex. I always thought I didn't know as much as the white kids knew," said Webb, who said when she went to school she was taught "no black history at all." Digges, who began his teaching career at the age of 16, said he started sneaking bits of black history into his courses even though he says at the time such curriculum was against Maryland

In the 1930s, he began asking his grandparents and their contemporaries for the battered utensils, worn tools and yellowing documents sitting around their Charles County homes. Digges's efforts started none too soon because during the Depression, many hard-pressed families sold valuable pieces of black history to antique collectors at bargain prices.

The museum, which is jammed into two school rooms allocated by the county, not only depicts blacks as they saw themselves in U.S. history, but also documents the bigoted manner in which many early 19th century whites viewed blacks.

Aunt Jemima dolls, "coon" sheet music and postcards depicting watermelon-eating "pickaninnies" occupy a significant berth in Digges's collection.

"I have these things here because it is history.... This is a form of prejudice that was real and it stamped in white people's minds certain images about black people," Digges said. "You couldn't fault a white child who looked at these degrading things for having a negative image of

The former teacher said when school children visit the museum he passes around the demeaning post cards and waits for their reaction.

Some start crying, some lie down and say nothing, and others laugh or get angry," said Digges, who then uses the cards to start students talking about the stereotypes and prejudice blacks have had to fight over the years.

Digges and the Afro-American Heritage Society of Charles County are trying to raise funds to build a black museum and cultural center on five acres of land in LaPlata. In addition to the Maryland effort, Digges has helped establish a black history museum. "Uncle Tom's Cabin." near Dresden. Ontario - a Canadian town that was a refuge for many runaway slaves, including Digges' great-uncle.

"I think more people are getting interested in black history. You've got to if you have any sense," Digges said.

Sunday Matthew

She was accused of being "aloof," a bit too high-hat. But, there sometimes comes a time when one must walk, head-high, to keep from limping.

A wayward son, a deflant daughter, an unfaithful wife or husband, financial problems, a series of illnesses in the family, one's own health fears.

These are things we often feel we must carry alone; no one must guess what we are suffering. We are too proud to share. We walk proudly and keep the hurts inside.

There is a story of a friend who said to another friend, "If you have a party and don't invite me, it never will bother me, but if you have a burden and don't feel I want to share it, that will hurt."

Becoming a part of a Church family will help us find people who care and who will want to share. You have a right to walk proudly, but you don't have to walk alone. Not ever.

Gospel Singing, Criminology Are Police Computer Operator's Goals

By Kathy Tyrity Herald Staff Writer

A gospel singer who likes to sing top-40 tunes at nightclubs and wears a law enforcement uniform during the day? That's 19-year-old Tracic Turner, a computer operator at the Sanford Police Department. Her soprano volce is often heard softly as she walks through the corridors in the mornings at the depart-

If singing and working aren't enough, she also goes to night school at Bethune-Cookman College where she is studying criminology. She's a determined young woman, but she has a soft manner and goes through life with an easy smile.

Several police officers have asked her to sing at weddings for their sons and daughters. She will sing for Officer Andy Collazo's daughter's wedding next month.

It is a talent she says she comes by

Her grandfather used to play bass guitar for big bands including Count Basic, she said. Her older brother Darrel Turner, 24, performed at the Apollo Theater in Harlem. N.Y., and her 21-year-old brother Linzola Turner graduated from the TV Fame school called the School of Music and Arts, in New York City. Her younger brother Corey Johnson, 13, is also showing signs of musical talent, she said, and her mother. Jacqueline Johnson, a hair dresser, "has a beautiful singing voice." It was her mother who encouraged the children to pursue melodies at times when they had little to

'My mother really held our family together," she said. "And if I ever make it big. I'm going to make sure she never wants for anything.

Scen most regularly in the choir and as a soloist at a Missionary Baptist Church, Miss Turner has also been guest soloist at a number of other churches around Sanford. A 1985 graduate of Seminole High School, she was seen in numerous talent shows and in the chorus at the Sanford Civic Center. She has sung with the Sanford Community Choir and has appeared at the Orange Quarter nightclub in Orlando. She sings a number of parts, "alto, tenor, soprano, It really doesn't matter.'

What she likes the most is contemporary gospel music, but she also adores top-40. Her favorite singer, whom she likes to imitate: Patti LaBelle, singing Somewhere Over the Rainbow. She also chooses for her selections, I'm.on My Own, Sweet Love. Do You Still Love Me?, and What Have You Done for Me Lately? But her favorite of all is a gospel tune, Don't Watt 'Til the Battle Is Over: You Can Shout Now.

Born in Brooklyn, N.Y., she came to Sanford at the age of 7. Her mother and stepfather raised her, and she always stayed close with the church and the teachings of her parents. No drugs, no rebellion. She says she knew from an early age she wanted to make a success out of her life. She studied college-prep courses with an eye toward criminology and social work. "I want to help people." she says.

says have gotten her through a rough road. "I thank God for everything he has done for me. I give to him first because if it wasn't for him I wouldn't have made it." She credits her mother for helping her through tough times that youth have by telling her to read Psalms 37.

It reads in part. "Fret not thyself because of evil-doers, neither be thou envious against the workers of iniquity. For they shall soon be cut down like the grass, and wither as the green herb." Miss Turner says she would read this passage and the lines that follow "instead of feeling anger and wanting revenge."

She has a message for young people growing up in the school system and being faced with classmates who abuse drugs and cut class. "I tell them, honor God as being a queen.

Tracie Turner keeps Sanford police halls alive with the sound of music.

She has deep religious roots, which she first and he will bring you through these pressures. He said there are many trials you have to go through. Hold on fast and you won't fall. In the end you'll be the winner."

Although her career is still in the formulative stage. Miss Turner knows she wants to graduate from college, make a record (for which she already has connections) and work in the criminology field. "I want to achieve a career by which I can help my parents have everything they want. she said. "The sky's the limit."

She says many kids go astray because they need a firm hand, but in her family she always found one with her mother, "whose other hand reached out to God.

She's like my big sister. We thank God for what he has done for our family. And when I make it my mother's going to be treated like

Pentecostals, Protestants In Dialogue

By David E. Anderson UPI Religion Writer

Leaders of the Pentecostal movement -Holy Spirit such as speaking in tongues and conciliar, or mainstream, Protestant nealing — and mainline Protestant Christianity have begun a cautious process of cism. dialogue with one another.

from one another as well as continued fears. suspicions and stereotypes will make progress toward mutual understanding a slow and difficult process.

The most recent encounter came Oct. 22.24 at the Fuller Theological Seminary. Pasadena, Calif., under the co-sponsorhsip of the David du Plessis Center for Christian Spirituality and the Commission on Faith and Order of the National Council of Churches, as part of the latter's long-term study "Towards the Common Expression of the Apostolic Faith Today.'

Classical Pentecostalism, which includes such denominations as the Assemblies of God and the Church of God in Christ, traces its roots to the early 20th century and the teaching that glossolalia - speaking in tongues — is the necessary first evidence of receiving the baptism of Holy Spirit.

Since the early 1960s, however, many clements of the Pentecostal experience. especially the phenomena of speaking in those churches shaped by the gifts of the tongues and healing, have also appeared in

'The churches of the conciliar movement But officials and theologians on both sides freed to realize that there are areas where we of the talks stress that decades of isolation can learn a great deal from the Pentecostal witness and the charismatic witness within our own communions," Claire Randall. former general secretary of the NCC, told the Fuller meeting.

Like others at the meeting, however, Randall recognized the long road the two faith groups would have to travel before any real collaboration is possible.

"The apprehension many of us have about the sectarian character, the individualism and the particular interpretations brought to the Scripture in some Pentecostal and Holiness traditions, is very real," she said.

"Even though we may never fully agree." she added. "we can more fully understand only by reaching out to those of you who will instruct us on how these experiences are to be interpreted and how relationships

Pentecostals, for their part, were equally cautious but also optimistic.

Cecil M. Robeck, an Assemblies of God theologian who is assistant dean in the school of theology at Fuller, noted a series of areas of mutual concern as well as areas agreement that are also clearly present among the two groups.

In the first, he said, "disagreement appears to exist on some basic definitions.' including the language of unity and the Pentecostal stress on the "invisible" church over the institutionalized vision of the conciliar churches. .

He also said Pentecostals stress "experience" over "doctrine," or the holding of "right belief," while in the the conciliar churches the emphasis is just the opposite. That leads to a fear among Pentecostals that they will be "spiritually starved" in conciliar churches while mainstream Protestants fear the "excesses" of emotion and the loss of rationality in the Pentecostal churches.

And he concluded with a call to each side: "It is important both affirm each others strengths and to acknowledge our own weaknesses." he said, creating an agenda that could bring about far-reaching changes throughout Christianity in the United

Controlled Growth New Lake Mary City Commissioner Seeks Orderly Progress

By Paul C. Schaefer Herald Staff Writer

New Lake Mary city commissioner John Percy says he may not run for re-election. Percy has been on the job in his new capacity for less than a month.

Percy is the city's freshman commissioner, replacing Russ Megonegal, who didn't run for reelection because he moved to Palm Coast.

The 39-year-old land planner didn't get elected to his new position. He won the seat by default, when no opposition filed qualifying papers to oppose him. City Mayor Dick Fess and fellow commissioner Paul Tremel had no opposition either.

Percy's suggestion that he may be a one-term commission is not made because he doesn't like the job. He does. But he also wants to see more community involvement in city government.

"I don't necessarily think I'll run for another term," he said. "Hopefully somebody else will come along that will want to work at this, too,"

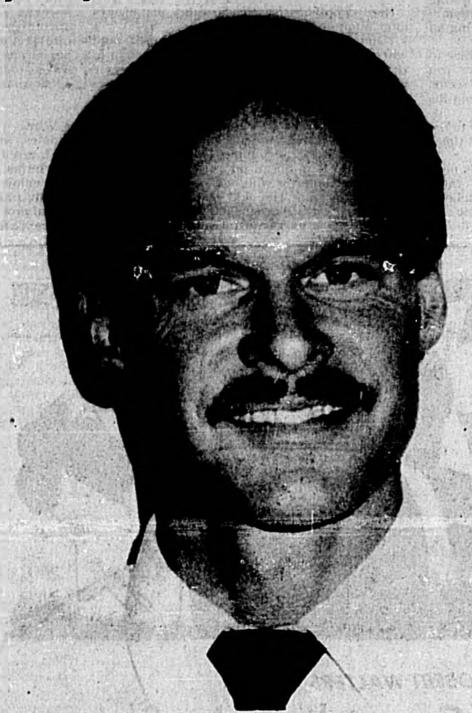

he said. Of long-term offices holders he said, "Some can do it and do a good job. I'll try it and see how it works."

Before deciding earlier this year to run for Megonegal's seat, the softspoken young-looking bachelor served on the city's board of adjustments and planning and zoning board, and "getting involved with the city commission seemed to be the next logical thing to do."

He said he initially got involved in city politics "to be aware of what's going on." He has been a city resident for 11 years, after moving from Twinsburg, Ohio, near Cleve-

He says lack of opposition for his seat this election year can't be blamed on Lake Mary voter apathy. "People feel that I can do a good job, or at least willing to give me one try," he said. "That's not a sign of apathy. I think there will be plenty of good candidates (in future elections)," he said.

Recently Elected Lake Mary Commissioner John Percy

Percy is a Senior Planner for Glatting, Lopez, Kercher and Anglin, Inc., Orlando, an urban planning and landscape arcitecture firm. Before that, he was a employed by Seminole County as a planner, but was fired by county administrator Ken Hopper a year ago. Of the firing.

Percy says, "I've just written that off as a personality conflict." He said he was unemployed for "a day and a half' before being hired at his present job which he has said was a positive career move.

Percy has many goals for his next two years as commissioner. A top priority is hiring a new city manager, which the commission will work on this month. Another is managing growth in the city, and yet another is solving the city's increasing need for office space.

"Hiring a good city manager is the most important immediate task," Percy said.

The city has been without a top administrator since August when former city manager Kathy Rice quit to take a similar position in Gulfport.

The commission is reviewing about 40 applicants for the job this month.

"The most important thing is to find someone who has local government experience," Percy said, "or someone with a good business background in the private or military sector."

Percy agrees with Mayor Dick Fess' desire to restructure the city's management, which would give the city manager more authority over the various city department heads.

"I would like to see the the city manager given real authority. Percy said.

"I hope we as commissioners will let that person do their job. We (the commission) should be the policy makers, and the city manager should execute that policy."

He said the change will come through an "evolutionary process". which will be accomplished through a city charter change, on which city residents will eventually vote.

Growth management has been a perpetual issue in Lake Mary for several years, with thousands of new homes planned in or near the city limits.

Managers Thwart Takeovers By Tinkering With Company

I had a chance last week to babysit for my neighbors Ben, age 5, and Misty, age 3.

Usually, this means I get to tell a bedtime story. But Ben, fearing another story about the Federal Reserve, announced he would tell the story. I was to listen quietly.

"OK, Misty," he said, "this is a story about corporate takeovers.' "Oh, good," Misty replied. "I'm getting sleepy already. "Once bon a ume, there was a very good company that made toys for all the very good little girls and boys across the land. Its management was happy, its customers were happy.

"But suddenly, from out of the West, an Evil Raider appeared!"

"Golly!" Misty exclaimed. "What did the Evil Raider want?"

"He wanted to take over the company! He offered the stockholders a lot more than the going price for their stock!"

"Wow! That must have made the stockholders very happy," Misty said excitedly.

"Maybe so," Ben said. "But the management explained what an evil man the Raider was, and how he would rape and pillage the company if he got his hands on it!"

"You mean he would boot out the old management and bring in someone better?" Misty asked.

"Oh, no. The management cared only about its stockholders. It wanted to protect them from the Evil Raider.'

"I see," Misty said skeptically. "Anyway, the management started looking for a White Knight to save the company from the Evil 'What's a White Knight?"

"A White Knight is another very good company that would buy part of the toy company before the Evil Raider could get it. The White Knight would let the old management stick around."

"Those managers certainly were looking out for their stockholders," Misty said. "Did they find a White Knight?"

"They found one that made candy for all the very good little girls and boys across the land. The White Knight agreed to buy enough of the toy company's stock to keep the Evil Raider

But the Evil Raider was moving fast! It looked like the White Knight wouldn't get there in time to save the company!"

"Golly! What did the management do then?"... "First, it put out Shark Repellent."

"To keep the Evil Raider away?"

"Exactly. The management bought a very bad company that made cough medicine for all the very bad little girls and boys across the land. It was a real money-loser. It was a Poison Pill that would be hard for the Evil Raider to awallow."

"You mean the management merged with a bad company so its toy company would be less attractive? The bad company was a Poison Pill Shark Repellent against the Evil Raider?"

"Right. And just in case the Poison Pill Shark Repellent didn't work, the management issued itself Crown Jewel Options." "Crown Jewel Options?"

'Those are options that allow the managers to buy shares of the company in the future at a very low price. They can then sell them for a fortune, and ride a Golden Parachute to financial safety."

"So," Misty concluded, "to protect the stock-holders, the managers tried to find a White Knight to save their own jobs. Then they hurt the company by buying an awful company as a Poison Pill to act as a Shark Repellent against the Evil Raider. Then they arranged to loot the company themselves with Crown Jewel Options to buy a Golden Parachute if all that failed.

'Well, I guess you could put it that way," Ben

"Those stockholders would be better off with a Bolted Door and a Perfumed Parlour," Misty said "Huh?"

"Well, takeovers are a way to transfer companies to people who can run them better. They make the economy and the stockholders better off. Stockholders should lock up their managers with a Bolted Door to keep them from meddling to save their own necks, and use a Perfumed Parlour to make themselves as attractive to Raiders as they can.

Science Update

New Satellite Measurements Add To Ozone

By Al Receiter Jr.

UPI Science Editor
GREENBELT, Md. (UPI) — Disquieting new satellite measurements indicate the thin layer of ozone that shields Earth from harmful solar radiation is weakening slightly over the most northern and southern parts of the globe.

These still-tentative findings are in addition to the much-publicized springtime "hole" in the ozone screen over Aniarctica and a lesspronounced wintertime arctic thinning centered over the island of Spitsbergen in the Greenland Sea.

Ozone is vital to life on Earth because it is the only gas in the atmosphere that filters out dangerous ultraviolet radiation. According to estimates endorsed by the Environmental Protection Agency, for every 1 percent of ozone decrease in the atmosphere, there could be 20,000 more skin cancer cases annually in the United States.

Scientists also fear increased ultraviolet exposure could harm farm crops and other plants and marine

The new measurements from NASA research scientist Donald Heath showing a six-year decrease of ozone in high latitudes have yet to be confirmed by other researchers and there is disagreement over their significance.

Nevertheless, the satellite readings are likely to add new urgency to mounting international concern over possible damage to the ozone from Freon-type gases known as chlorofluorocarbons or CFCs.

The issue was first raised in 1974 and led to the 1978 federal ban against the use of Freon and its counterparts in spray cans. That reduced concern until May 1985 when scientists from the British Antarctic Survey announced the discovery of the ozone hole over Antarctica.

After the existence of the startling antarctic ozone decrease was confirmed by NASA's Nimbus 7, a butterfly-shaped atmospheric research satellite, the issue once again attracted increased attention of policy-makers.

The Senate's Subcommittee on Environmental Pollution held two days of hearings on the ozone issue and the related atmospheric warming problem in June and the Senate in July ratified an international agreement calling for cooperation in studying and monitoring the ozone

The government's National Science Foundation sent 17 scientists to Antarctica in August to investigate the ozone hole. The scientists reported Oct. 20 that it appeared the ozone depletion was being caused by a chemical process of some kind.

European Economic Community environment ministers will meet Nov. 14 to discuss the issue and the United Nations Environment Program has scheduled a meeting in the first week of December in Geneva to begin work on the international agreement to regulate the CFCs.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is to make a decision by May 1 on whether additional domestic CFC controls are needed.

E.I. du Pont de Nemours Co., the world's largest producer of CFCs that it markets as Freon, has changed its position on the issue and said in a letter to its customers it now concludes "It would be prudent" to take international action to limit the production of CFCs.

The two main kinds of CFCs called Freon-11 and Freon-12 by Du Pont — are made up of chlorine. fluorine and carbon. They are nonslammable, do not react chemically with other substances and have very low toxicity and a low boiling

That makes them attractive to use as refrigerants in air conditioning systems, refrigerators and freezers. They also are widely used in the manufacture of plastic foam insulators and packaging materials like those in wide use in fast-food restaurants. Each bubble in the foam contains trapped CFC.

CFCs also are used as cleaning agents and still are heavily used outside the United States as propellants in spray cans. The problem is that as the gases enter the atmosphere, they eventually make their way into the stratosphere 6 to 30 miles high, where most of the ozone is. Ultraviolet sunlight there breaks down the CFCs and releases chlorine atoms that scientists believe start a complex reaction that destroys ozone molecules.

Ozone is an ordinary oxygen molecule with a third oxygen atom tacked on. It is produced naturally in the stratosphere when sunlight converts some of the oxygen into ozone.

There is not much ozone up there. If all the ozone were compressed to the pressure of the air at Earth's surface, the ozone would be a layer about one-eighth of an inch thick. In 1976, a National Academy of Sciences committee concluded that continued release of CFCs at the 1973 rate eventually would destroy 7 percent of the ozone shield, with half of this erosion occuring within 50 years. This would be expected to increase the amount of harmful ultraviolet radiation reaching the planet's surface by 14 percent.

Kroll, Bryant For School Board

There is probably no area of government which affects more people than the public school system.

And, that effect can be the residue from personal experiences. The long ago can quickly become the golden age of education.

However, the little red school house has been replaced by multi-purpose campuses, and reading, writing and arithmetic has progressed from a slate board and McGuffey's reader to computers, word processors and calculators. Teachers have become unionized, administrators have become Management By Objective-oriented, and parents, most often both working, have become perplexed by what is expected of them.

Seminole County faces the challenges of exponential growth in school population and consequent capital needs.

The recent $105 million bond issue is for immediate needs and will not provide a long

There are four candidates for two seats on the School Board. Larry Betsinger is challenging two-term incumbent Bill Kroll for the District 1 post, while Ann Neiswender is campaigning to unseat Jean Bryant, a veteran of 12 years on the Board in District 5.

Mr. Betsinger has been a resident of Central Florida for 32 years and is an independent insurance agent.

He has been active in youth sports in this county and coached high school soccer in Seminole County.

Mr. Kroll is the sales manager for a Sanford chemical company and is active in school, church and civic affairs.

He, like his opponent, is a soccer coach with area youth teams. He has served on the School Board for eight years.

Mrs. Neiswender served as a teacher and administrator in Seminole County for 15 years, resigning to seek the school board post.

She has been an active participant in professional and civic organizations.

Mrs. Bryant, a 29-year resident of Sanford. has served for the past 12 years on the School

She was a charter Dividend volunteer and has been active in many civic endeavors.

During recent years, 19 new schools have been built, the Crooms School of Choice has been developed and a bond issue passed.

The School Board will deal with continuing problems occasioned by ever increasing student population, expanding vocational and technical training program demands, and the needs of improving, qualitatively, the scholastic standards of the curriculum.

The experience of the two incumbents is a great asset and the record of each has been commendable.

They have had to face the enormous challenges of the past and both deserve high marks for their endeavors.

The Evening Herald endorses Jean Bryant and Bill Kroll for reelection to their respective scals on the Seminole County School Board.

President Reagan Relishes 'Last Hurrah'

rarely seemed to relish a campaign more than his current "last hurrah."

In many ways he is exhibiting a new freedom with the restraints lifted. He is not running for office but he is telling crowds along the campaign trail that a vote for his candidate is a vote for me."

He is resorting to many of the themes, dating back to 1980, denouncing Democrats, mainly former President Jimmy Carter, for creating an economic "mess" in Washington.

He also is telling Americans that it is nice to be away from Washington, to be where you, meet the "real people." But most of all he seems to be having fun. He is relaxed and telling his storehouse of old jokes.

One of his stock laugh lines is traceable to the Three Stooges, and he has used it several times as the campaign draws to a close.

Saying that some members of Congress need watching. Reagan adds that "some of them remind me of that little story about three felle vs who came out of a building and found they had locked themselves out of their car. And one of WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan has them said, 'Well, get me a wire coat hanger and I can straighten it out and figure out how to trip the handle with it. And the second said, 'You can't do that. Someone will see us and think you're stealing the car."

"And the third one said, 'Well, we better do something quick, because it's starting to rain and the top's down.'''

Here's another story Reagan story that evokes loud laughter:

"There was a Democratic fund-raiser, and when the people were coming out of the affair at the end of it there was a kid outside with some pupples, and he was holding up these pupples one by one and he was saying 'pups for sale. Democratic pups for sale.

"And two weeks later the Republicans held a fund-raiser in the same place, and the same kid was there with the pupples, and he was now holding up Republican pupples for sale. And a newspaper reporter who had last seen him two weeks bfore said. 'Hey, kid, wait a minute. Last time here, two weeks ago, you were trying to sell those pupples as Democrat pupples. Now you say they're Republican pupples. How come? The kid said, 'Now they've got their eyes open.

Observers are convinced that deputy press secretary Larry Speakes would be interested in a public relations job at Merrill Lynch, the New York investment brokerage reported to have coned Speakes about possible employment. But Speakes says he is interested in talking to anyone who wants to talk to him about his future. And he has been amused at how many persons are vying for his job should he decide to leave, tough as it is to be a White House spokesman.

While campaigning for Republican candidates. Reagan also hears an occasional plug for himself to run again although he is limited to

"I enjoyed that six more years chant." he told a rally in Columbus, Ga. "There's a constitutional provision involved. I'll settle for two more years of a Republican Schate.'

A Real Alpine Rambo

MUNICH. West Germany (NEA) -In the German mind these days. Bavaria is virtually synonymous with one man.

He is Franz Josef Strauss, the longtime prime minister and an even longer time power in national politics. That power comes in part from his position as leader of the Christian Social Union. The party. the smaller sister of the governing Christian Democrats, is essential to keeping the Christian Democrats in power in Bonn.

It also helps that Bavaria is the country's economic leader and new industrial heartland.

But the real source of Strauss's power is a forceful personality coupled with a shrewd - some would say ruthless - political intelligence that may have won him more enemies than friends, but that no one has been able to best.

This has earned him numerous part-satiric, part-envious appella-tions such as the "Substitute Monarch" and the "Alpine Rambo." Bavaria, which under the German federal system is a "Free State," is biten called the "Strauss State." And there's a new Bavarian saying that "Man thinks, God guides and Franz Josef decides."

Strauss, who has been on the West German political scene since the '50s, has made a few stabs at national office. He served in Christian Democratic Cabinets on several occasiona, usually stirring up political storms that had to be calmed with his resignation.

In 1980, he went for the top job but was decisively defeated by the then Social Democratic chancellor, Helmut Schmidt. The German electorate as a whole was not buying the Alpine Rambo.

Strauss withdrew to Bavaria. where he continues to sell well. Recent local elections strengthened his position in both the state parliament and Munich city politics.

The national press is overwhelmingly hostile to Strauss, charging among other things that he is served in state offices by "toadies." It was widely noted that Bavarian Broadcasting killed a planned critical report on the Soviet nuclear disaster at Chernobyl.

He is also an outspoken friend of the United States. Whenever American policies - Central America, European missile installations, Star Wars. what have you — come under attack in Germany, he can be counted upon to counterattack.

Crowding In Skies

LOS ANGELES (NEA) - Of the more than 3.15 million aircraft control areas, or TCAs, the airspace arrivals and departures in Los surrounding 23 of the country's Angeles County last year, only 17.3 busiest airports, FAA employees percent occurred at the region's strictly control all air traffic within busiest and best known airport -Los Angeles International.

An even smaller proportion -12.7 percent - involved scheduled passenger flights on commercial air carriers.

The remainder of those arrivals and departures were attributable to "general aviation" — a category that covers private planes from sleek executive jets to aging propeller-driven crop dusters. The vast majority of those aircraft flew in and out of airports in suburban communities such as Van Nuys, Long Beach, Torrance. Burbank, La Verne, El Monte, Santa Monica and Compton. Together. those eight busy airfields handled four times as many aircraft operations as Los Angeles International.

Those statistics illustrate why the airspace over this city is the most crowded in the nation - and why there have been 30 midair collisions in the area during the past 22 years.

The most serious of those disasters was also the most recent the late August collision between an Acromexico DC-9 and a privately operated Piper Cherokee that killed all 67 people aboard the two planes as well as 15 others on the ground in suburban Cerritos.

That accident inspired the Federal Aviation Administration to belatedly propose measures that may somewhat reduce the risk of future crashes but will not provide the safety needed in the increasingly overcrowded skies over Los Angeles and other major cities.

The regulations involve terminal these areas. Now, the FAA wants to expand the radius of the TCAS from its present 20-25 miles to 30 miles. In addition, the height of the TCAs would be increased from the current 6,000-7,000 feet to 10,000 feet. General aviation aircraft that now enter TCAs must be equipped with transponders that automatically produce a blip on FAA radar sets. This indicates to air traffic controllers the presence of a plane but not its altitude. The transponders cost about $1,500.

The new proposal would require all aircrast entering TCAs to be equipped with transponders that would also display the plane's altitude on the FAA radar screens. These transponders cost $7,500 to

Moreover, the FAA has done pitifully little to emphasize the dangers inherent in flying a tiny Cessna with reckless abandon in a sky filled with massive Boeing 747s. Last year, only 25 to 30 general aviation pilots everywhere in the nation were formally cited for intruding on commercial airspace and the penalty imposed was a slap-on-the-wrist 30-day suspension of their licenses.

The remedy lies not in the promulgation of additional rules that will be difficult to enforce but instead with a broad prohibition on non-essential general aviation traffic above all of the country's metropolilan areas.

Lawsuit Prompts Lawsuits?

By Rob Stein UPI Science Writer

BOSTON (UPI) - Although a highly publicized lawsuit against W.R. Grace & Co. for contaminating wells with toxic waste was settled out of court, environmentalists say the case should make it easier to sue polluters.

"More people are going to hold companies accountable and more companies are going to realize people are going to hold them accountable," said Daniel Becker of the Washington-based group Environmental Action.

Grace agreed Sept. 23 to pay eight families a reported $8 million. The families had charged the firm polluted two wells with solvents in the suburban town of Woburn that caused six leukemia deaths and other health problems.

Although Grace officials deny the settlement was an admission of guilt, the size of the payment will encourage more people to file such suits and make more lawyers willing to accept them. environmentalists say.

The case against Grace was also designed to use a new approach for proving a link between exposure to a suspected health hazard and actual disease in humans, traditionally the most difficult part of such cases.

"The approach is really revolutionary," said Anthony Rolsman. executive director of the Trials Lawyers for Public Justice, which coordinated the plaintiffs' case against Grace. 'Obviously Grace was well aware that we were going to prove this case in a way that was much more direct and much more persuasive," said Roisman. A jury had found Grace guilty of polluting the wells, but the case was settled out of court before a second phase of the trial could begin that would have decided whether the contamination caused the illnesses.

However, U.S. Court Judge Walter Jay Skinner had ruled in pretrial motions that the plaintiffs could admit evidence that would have made it possible to employ the new approach to proving that two chemicals dumped by company employees caused cancer and other Illnesses.

The Government Accounting Office estimates as many as 378,000 toxic waste sites may eventually be discovered in the United States. "Each one of those could be several lawsuits," said Becker.

Rep. Lehman Goes To Hawaii; We Pay talists, before he could vote on the matter: the $180 million he insisted Miami was settled by June 15. By Jack Anderson

And Joseph Spear
WASHINGTON — Rep. William
Lehman, D-Fla., a former Buick dealer, evidently believes the federal government should pay for his own and his constituents' travel. Earlier this year, he visited his grand-children in Hawaii at the Transportation Department's expense. At the same time, the North Miami Beach congressman blackjacked the de-partment into continued funding for Mismi's costly, controversial subway system.

Lehman, chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee on transportations subcommittee on transportation, which holds the department's parasstrings, encountered no difficulty in charging the taxpayers for 22,550.50 of his nine-day trip in May, including his own first-class airfare. 2300 for four days of an paid $13.50 laundry bill. an paid for the other five days trip because they did not itute official subcommittee

But Lehman's itinerary indicates that he had more than transportation matters on his mind during the working portion of his trip. On May 27. Jehman took a helicopter ride to check out highways 1, 2 and 3, 'sightpeeing included.' the itinerary says. The itinerary lists Lehman's grandsons in the "traveling party."

The next day. Lehman spent an hour at the Kabulut Airport control tower, had lunch with his son-in-law

Department opposition, Lehman began playing what his admirers called "political hardball" — and what his critics called "political blackmail."

For a first move, Lehman's subcommittee voted to transfer $750,000 from the office of Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole to help pay for more air traffic controllers. "Apparently the secre-tary was getting some very bad advice from her staff." Lehman explained with a straight face. "I thought if she had less staff, she'd get less bad advice."

Dole, unamused, called Lehman's ploy "an act of bad faith" and canceled negotiations over the Miami subway funding.

A Lehman subcommittee member, Rep. Larry Coughlin. R-Pa., then introduced an amendment agreeing not to take the 6750,000 from Dole's office budget if a transit-funding contract with Stanley's travel records.

The Urban Mass Transit Administration dug in its heels. insisting on an environmental impact study before funding negotiations resumed.

When the deadline passed with no agreement, Lehman struck again. Language inserted in the supplemental appropriations bill provided that if the matter hadn't been settled by July 15, the funding contract proposed by Miami subway officials on June 6 would be "deemed approved" and "shall be binding" even if UMTA refused to UMTA director Ralph Stanley still didn't want the subway extensions. He told Miami officials he'd gladly release the money Congress appropriated if they'd use it to replace old buses. "This is a way to stop the madness on the extensions," he explained.

Lehman's response to this impertinence was to order an investigation of UMTA. Among the things being scrutinized are UMTA boss

Elites Protest Too Much Over AIDS Ballot Item

By John Adams Wettergreen

Whether or not it is true that there is mass hysteria about AIDS, clearly there is elite hysteria about California's Proposition 64! The anti-AIDS initiative on this November's ballot, which would declare AIDS a communicable disease subject to public health restrictions similar to other infectious diseases, has been denounced by newspaper editors and reporters, public health bureaucrats of various descriptions, the boards of supervisors of several counties, city councils, miscellaneous medical doctors and scientists, the leadership of both political parties, various associations of medical professionals, and many state and national legislators.

It appears that virtually every elite organization and opinion leader in California is against the measure. On the other hand, I can find only one story reporting on the campaign for Proposition 64 in a fat file of newspaper clippings: three paragraphs reporting the views of Lyndon LaRouche, a socialist political activist whose organization qualified the proposition for the ballot, and twenty-six paragraphs reporting what is wrong with those views. If the news media is to be believed, only a few rabid political extremists favor the initiative.

Whenever political debate is so overwhelmingly one-sided, there is a danger that the public will be misinformed. For example, David L. Kirp — a professor of public policy, a newspaperman and a flerce proponent of "gay rights" — has recently demanded in print that doctors, scientists and health professionals stop talking about the low "probabilities" of catching AIDS. because this causes fears among "jittery laymen" who want certainties.

"Doctors have to say flat out that AIDS cannot be casually transmitted," Kirp insists. For reasons indicated below, it is fortunate that doctors have not taken his advice. For the same reasons, it is unfortunate that the anti-64 campaign, public information announcements on AIDS, and the newspaper reporters have begun to say flatly that "AIDS cannot be casually transmitted." Certainly; anti-64 medical professionals dangerously mislead the public by writing in their ballot statement that "NO ONE has contracted AIDS from casual contact at a restaurant, grocery store or in the workplace.

It is misleading because there have been no systematic studies of "casual contact." Indeed, there cannot be such studies, because "casual contact" has no scientifically precise definition. Furthermore, it is misleading because the several case studies of AIDS resulting from the ingestion of the AIDS virus, for example, contradict it. The ballot statement should have said that medical scientists do not well understand how much of the AIDS agent (HTLV-III) must be transmitted, and over what period of time, to be lethal.

If only because the claim is scientifically incorrect, those who assert that there can be no "casual transmission" of HTLV-III are politically irresponsible. So already elite hysteria has engendered public disinformation about

Then what ought public health officials, politicians and governmental officials do?

Of course, those responsible for public health (and for public health education) have a duty to be explicit about the means by which AIDS can be spread. They ought to — and usually do - point out that most of the cases of frank AIDS (well over 90%) in the United States so far have been transmitted through some direct breach of the circulatory system: tears, lacerations or sors of the rectum, anus, mouth and genitals; injection into the bloodstream consequent to the transfusion of blood and blood products or to drug abuse. Authorities ought also to point out and they do not - that current health policy is founded upon the questionable assumption that the infectivity of HTLV-III is ordinary, in the sense that although HTLV-III cannot be "casually" communicated, once it is com. Disease Control, reported at a July of the Claremont Institute.)

couple of years. Although this assumption is dogma to most state and local medical professionals, and so to most of officialdom, it is questionable on two related grounds:

First, medical science is constantly augmenting the list of "non-casual" transmissions: natural sexual intercourse during menstruation (when the woman's circulatory system might be open to the HTLV-III in a man's semen) has been added; conception by semen containing HTLV-III might spread it both to mother and child; transplantation, for example, of corneas or kidneys, is another; there is evidence that AIDS can be transmitted in mothers' milk. It seems certain that even a microinjection of HTLV-III tainted blood - an accidental "needle-stick" — can transmit AIDS. Recently, Lancet the distinguished British medical journal, reported a case of transmission by the bite of an AIDS victim, which did not cause bleeding or bruises. And so on.

Furthermore, medical literature on viral transmission suggests that HTLV-III might be infective through the oral route and possibly by inhalation, especially during the relatively short 'shedding stage" of its incubation. If this is true — and some outstanding medical scientists, including some distinguished virologists, believe it is then even the most passing contact might spread AIDS, but only rarely in the course of the disease's develop-

In the second place, the conventional wisdom on AIDS infectivity is questionable because it does not take into account the fact that HTLV-III, being a "slow virus," might have an incubation period that is dosage related. Most of those who lead the "gay lifestyle" repeatedly receive large dosages directly into the circulatory system, and so die in two or three years after infection. With fewer, less concentrated exposures, some medical experts believe the disease might develop more slowly, perhaps over a 10-to-15-year period. In accordance with this, Dr. Harold Jaffe, chief of epidemiology of the AIDS program of the Centers for municated, AIDS follows after an in- conference that after initial exposure to cubation period of several months to a HTLV-III the risk of developing frank AIDS actually increases over time.

Thus, contrary to another working assumption of current health policy. the true proportions of the AIDS epidemic might not be accurately projected in the basis of today's statistics. Indeed. on June 12, 1986. the Public Health Service announced that "actual diagnosed cases are only the tip of the epidemiological pyramid, according to a New York Times report. At the same time, PHS admitted that it now expected from 270,000 to 450,000 cases by 1991. Less than a year ago, those who made similar projections were denounced as "hysterical" and "homophobic" by those who today react hysterically to Proposition 64.

Elite hysteria in public discourse on the AIDS issue is nothing new. On at least two previous occasions, those responsible for public information on this issue have failed miserably. First, throughout the spring and summer of 1983, leading public health officials in California resisted the attempts to screen male homosexuals out of giving blood, claiming that that would be irrationally prejudiced, expensive and counter-productive. Today, such screens are recognized as essential for controlling the spread of AIDS. Similarly, a year ago, leading public health bureaucrats resisted the demand that homosexual "bath houses" be closed, claiming that they were essential institutions of an oppressed sub-culture. Today, all - including organized homosexuals - recognize what dangerous piaces these were.

A, third failure on Proposition 64 could be fatal to the esteem in which the general public usually holds medical professionals. It is time for bureaucrats and politicians to stop hoping for a cure and start working positively to stop the spread of HTLV-III into the general population. It is time to remember THE maxim of public health:

No disease has ever been eradicated through treatment - only through prevention.

Planning Your Own Future Health Care

We should all plan for the future. when we may become physically or mentally unable to look out for our own welfare. This planning is even more important for someone who has never married and or who may have a weak "support system" of friends, family or legal advisers.

"There are five essential concerns." says Marian Bruin, a social worker who, with her husband, David Dintenfass, a counselor and therapist, has established Star Sysems Consultation and Training, Inc.

This Philadelphia-based, for-profit social-service business helps older people and their families to plan, locate and monitor services that older people need if they become disabled.

These are the recommendations developed by Star Systems:

1. Make a will. This is the only way to ensure that your assets will be distributed according to your wishes.

2. Protect finances. If you should suddenly be unable to handle your finances or sign checks and other documents, it helps if you've designated a trusted person to act in your behalf; this can help you to avoid complicated and unpleasant guardianship hearings. If you establish a broad and durable power of attorney, the person with your power of attorney can continue to act for you after you become incapacitated.

3. Construct a future-care plan. This is a specific written plan that details how you want to be cared for if and when you're no longer independent. It should provide all the information necessary to secure immediate care in case of a crisis, and it should also detail your wishes for long-term care.

This plan should mention your medical history, legal matters, preferences about your living arrangements, information about your finances and how these affect government benefits, how to reach your family and other memport system, preici ences for burial arrangements, and important personal characteristics things you'd want people to know if they had to care for you and you couldn't communicate with them.

4. Name a responsible individual to oversee your care. This person also can act as the executor or trustee: however. he or she should be someone you trust and should be familiar with your written plan and willing to carry out your wishes for future care. This responsible party should be concerned with your well-being. In many cases, it's a son or daughter, an attorney, or both. In the case of a single person, it could be a niece or nephew and an attorney.

5. Provide social-service assistance for the person who will oversee your care. Over the years, you may have become an expert in Medicare coverage, the government bureacracy and the complex social-services systems. But when you're no longer able to do this for yourself, you'll still need representation and intervention.

It's unrealistic to assume that the responsible party will be as knowledgeable as you are. However, professional social-service advice and assistance, provided by qualified professionals, can help the person you designate to oversee your care and make informed decisions in keeping with your wishes. It can also relieve him or her of what can be an overwhelming burden.

"When these guidelines are followed." says Bruin. "the dependent elderly person will benefit from having his or her wishes carried out."

Matter Of Morality

The present controversy over the zoning of adult group homes in a residential area in the city of Sanford boils down to a matter of morality and civil rights.

No matter how much some people would like to divorce the elderly from this issue, it is impossible to do so, for they are the ones ultimately being legislated out of their rightful environment.

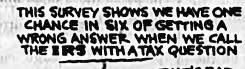

Perhaps a week or month ago or longer, these people were active members of our society; able to enjoy working, raising a family and living in a residential community.

But now these same people. because they have developed a condition that necessitates some degree of supervision, are required by law to give up their residential community lifestyle, for which we and they have fought wars to preserve, and be unnecessarily institutionalized.

Is this not a severe penalty that is levied against old age, along with the loss of personal freedom of choice?

Is it possible that in 1986 there are such discriminatory and socially unjust zoning laws? Shouldn't these homes be permitted in any residential

City Not Bad Guy

1 am concerned about recent stories regarding people caring for the elderly in their homes in Sanford. These stories are making the city and state the bad guy.

Each of these people are violating state and city laws. For some it is not the first time they have illegally operated a facility.

Florida Statutes Chapter 400 Part 2 requires that any one accepting any number of residents, that need certain assistances and that are not their relative, must have a state license.

There are very good reasons for this law. Like most laws, this one was not enacted to control those who would do a good Job in a good and safe environment.

If only one elderly person is protected then these laws and rules are worthwhile. There are over 1,300 of these facilities licensed in Florida, but only three in Sanford. These homes serve a wonderful purpose and we need more of them. It may be that the city needs to look at its zoning ordinance and see if there are more areas where this type of business (and it is a business) would fit, we must also remember while we are working to protect the rights of the elderly we must also protect the rights of others and not let emotions overule our good judgment.

Old Fogies Solve Problem Of Today's Youth

By United Press International The Poteau (Okla.) News & Sun

A bunch of us old fogies were warming our hands around the wax machine the other day and grousing about things in general when we solved one of the major problems with today's youth.

It all was spawned, you see, by the appalling spelling, grammar and syntax that flows through our doors from the general public.

'Black Widow' Facts More Interesting Than Style

By Kyle Kulish United Press International Black Widow, by R. Robin McDonald. (New Merison Press, 409 pp. $15.95) Real-life crime novels seem to be the top sellers nowadays, especially those that ring untrue and wind-up stranger than fictional efforts. Thus is the case with R. Robin McDonald's "Black Widow."

The title character in this tale is Audrey Marie Hilley, an Anniston, Ala., woman now living on the state's death row following convictions for the arsenic poisoning of her husband, mother-in-law and attempted poisoning of her daughter.

The twist in this book is Hilley jumped changed her identity, fell in love with a man there, married him and moved to Vermont as Robbi L. Homan. To confuse matters further, she traveled to Texas, faked her death and then returned to her new husband as her twin sister under the name of Teri Martin. But her entire past was revealed when police her bail, escaped to Florida where she began to question her when they were looking for a different Teri Martin. Hilley broke down and confessed who she really was in an event that sent the residents of Anniston spinning as the circus-like trial revealed her love of position and money and possible motives. McDonald has an intriguing tale at her hands and as a former Anniston Star reporter who covered the trial she has all of the information, including that which could not fit in the short day-by-day stories of the trial.

Unfortunately her reporting style has the book running at a clipped pace featuring short choppy sentences and overly repetitive passages that interrupt the narrative and destroy what is a highly intriguing story.

McDonald reveals how Hilley's desire for power, money and position combined with her uncanny ability to weave a convincing tale catapulted her places. It is also that story-telling ability that has her prison warden now thinking Hilley is innocent. Hilley is a formidable criminal if she is guilty.

If only the book of her life were as powerful, this would be a book to hit the best-seller lists. But in its present form, its just an intriguing study of how strange the truth can be.

Local Author Pens Florida Book

"You are made of the sands of Florida," King Philip thus counseled his son, Coachoochde, who by this, no doubt, was spurred on to the many deeds of his colorful, exciting, and emotional career. Much of the story in Arthur Francke's Coacoochee Made of the Sands of Florida is related by Coacoochee in the presentation of his recorded speeches in the form of free verse - the most effective manner to dramatize the terse, lean imagery of Indian talk.

There is much more to tell about Coacoochee than Osceola, because the former by his dramatic escape from Fort Marion prolonged the Indian war for almost five years. The drawing of this escape by Florida's artist of many Seminole scenes, James Hutchison, is featured on the cover of this 78-page paperback, which includes also over a dozen additional illustrations - one of a never-before published Florida fort.

Richard Eberhart of Dartmouth College and since 1974 a Visiting Writer-in-Residence at the University of Florida for one term each year, as well as author of his own Florida Poems published by Konglomerati Press in 1981, had this to say after reading Coacoochee: "It was an unusual pleasure to read this material. I like your prose introduction. Thanks very much for letting me see these exciting Martha McInnis, editor of Envirosouth said: "I found 'Coacoochee Made of the Sands of Florida' to be a most stimulating and novel (literature-wise) perspective of the Seminole War.'

A Story Of Peace

Shelter, by Marty Asher (Arbor House, 136 pp., $12.95)

Shelter is a simple book that at first causes the reader to grin in recognition and by the end both to grimace in recognition and in hope that this time the message begets action.

Its hero is Billy, who writes bumper stickers, and who becomes more and more afraid of the coming nuclear end of the world. The vision increasingly forces him away from his family and toward the Beatles' music and a search for a way

To the point, in fact, that he thinks he sees the late John Lennon. Billy keeps interpreting the lyrics of the Beatles' songs as messages to him, guiding his actions and, in the short run, his life. Billy is everyone who grew up in the 1960s, the anti-Vietnam era, and the past decade or so of SALT and no-SALT, summits and postponed summits, steps forward and back.

His answer, after consulting with John and spending time in that '60s hippie mecca, San Francisco, is a giant peace rally of millions gathered to honor John's memory and to force the end of nucleur Asher's writing is clear and in its simplicity, the story is sharper in its message - that we need peace and that we can only get it by acting in concert. Shelter will hit home with everyone who cares about the world.

America Pays Big For Ex-Presidents

By Thomas Ferraro UPI Feature Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) - American taxpayers fork out more money on their ex-presidents. some of them long dead, than they do to operate the White House.

The annual cost of about $27 million a year goes to run eight shrine-like presidential libraries and to provide staffs, offices and $86,200 pensions for Richard Nixon. Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter.

This money, about $2 million more than this year's White House budget, also covers around-the-clock protection by the Secret Service for Ford and Carter, their wives, and Lyndon Johnson's widow, Lady Bird.

Nixon voluntarily gave up his federal security a year ago, giving a push to long-stalled legislation to curb what Sen. Lawton Chiles, D.Fla., calls "the era of the Imperial Former Presidency.'

"Things have gotten out of hand," said Chiles, noting the cost of supporting ex-presidents in the style to which they have grown accustomed has soared four-fold since 1965. Back in 1955, when Harry Truman and Herbert Hoover were the living ex-presidents, these expenses totaled just $63,745.

"It is right that we ensure the dignity of the office and those who have held it, along with their safety, but we have no responsibility to make them richer or to provide imperial lifestyles," Chiles said.

This summer, after eight years of studies, hearings and wrangling with both Democratic and Republican administrations. Congress passed a bill initiated by Chiles to start to restrict presidential libraries.

The measure, the first of two aimed at ex-presidents, limits the size of new presidential libraries to 70,000 square feet no public powers and hold no and requires a private endowment to defray operating and maintenance costs.

They house the presidential papers and memorabilia of Herbert Hoover, Harry Truman. Franklin Roosevelt. Dwight Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy, Johnson, Ford and Carter.

Although initially justified as research facilities, a congressional study showed most of the visitors to the libraries are there merely to sight-see.

President Reagan, who made budget-cutting a theme of his administration, did sign the library bill, but only after backroom haggling with Congress to exempt his own yet-to-be-built library from the restrictions.

He opposes a Senate-passed bill sponsored by Chiles that would limit Secret Service protection for ex-presidents to five years and for their wives to two years. The protection could be extended at the discretion of the treasury secretary, who oversees the Secret Service, and by Con-

Ex-presidents and their spouses get protection for life, and children to age 16. A widowed spouse who remarries, as Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis did, loses the federal security as well as her pension, now $20,000 a year.

Since 1981, public expenses associated with ex-presidents have topped the annual budget of The Office of the White House. which includes utilities, maintenance, entertainment, security and salaries. White House Secret Service protection is separate and costs about $50 million.

As former chief executives, Nixon, Ford and Carter are in demand for television appearances, writing books and giving speeches, activities that provide substantial income. They have public office.

Yet, they spend an average of about $300,000 a year each in public money to rent offices, pay staffs, go on trips and plan
