BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

SELF-PRAISE: Let another man praise thee, and not thine own mouth; a stranger, and not thine own lips.—Proverbs 27:2.

And airplanes continue to take their toll of human lives.

There's one thing about a college boy. He learns to be in a hurry, even if he does waste time to necessitate the hurry.

With so many fisticuffs going on, it is difficult to discern whether it is the baseball diamond or the prize ring.

It's a good thing the Florida Legislature is in session, lest some of the papers wouldn't have anything to kick at.—Bronson Journal.

With 1,600,000 population Florida is entitled to six and one-half Congressmen instead of the present five but who wants to be the eighth?

Someone has said, and we agree that if all the spinach in the world were placed in one pile in a spot in the Sahara Desert, it would be a good idea.

If the nations can only hold out war long enough, they'll all be bankrupt from the tax assessment race, and won't have any money to wage a war.

We wonder if Huey had anything to do with the senate's vote yesterday? If so, we can't imagine what he had in mind, but Huey's always hard to tell what's in the Kingfish's mind.

Here's what we consider the best modern interpretation of the old Bible verse: "When a man asks you for your coat, not only give him your coat and cloak, but carry them to him."

The Florida legislator who would impose an extra tax on foreign-made goods because of discriminations against the United States is a good example of the kind of people who make trade difficult.—Lakeland Ledger.

Times certainly have changed. School children who used to memorize Lincoln's Gettysburg Address or Wordsworth, now pour over such modern efforts as "Ode to a Wash Towel," or "The Sunset as Seen from a Penthouse."

Punitive and restrictive measures against legitimate business, while at the same time seeking to speed recovery, is based on the same philosophy evinced by the hunter who tried to get his dog to retrieve birds by throwing rocks at him.

Always a bit skeptical, or doubtful, about that ship canal, we are impelled to wonder now, as we look at the finally fixed route on the map, if ocean going ships wouldn't after all make better time going around than trying to follow the meanderings around through the big Florida peninsula north of Petersburg Times.

The New York Herald-Tribune, which has opposed relentlessly the policies of President Roosevelt, has this to say about the bonus vote: "With irrefragable logic he has demolished the arguments of those who forced this bill through Congress. In a plain, vigorous speech he has shown the mistaken premises of the bill and the well-consequences of its enactment. What he means he says clearly, speaking eloquently where those who passed this bill did not do so."

The President deserves all honor for his stand which is going to help for an anti-Republican newspaper.

A Frenzied Europe

Mussolini has let it be known that he will brook no interference from any other country in his African campaign. Speaking to his senators he referred to a rumor abroad that France and England contemplated diplomatic steps. "No one can take upon himself the intolerable presumption to dictate to us concerning the character and volume of our precautionary measure," shouted Il Duce.

Oddly enough, except for the humanitarian angle, there is reason why England does not object too strenuously to Italy's activities in Abyssinia. For some time Japan has been penetrating the country. Her farmers have been very successful at raising cotton and have taken the textile market from under Britain's nose. England looks upon the Japanese activities as a serious threat to white domination in Africa, and would be satisfied enough to have Italy running the show. Of course, British statesmen can ill-afford to sanction Italy's aggression and therefore must either by direction or indirection make some show of protest.

France, on the other hand, is anxious because she sees in Italy's foreign campaign a chance for Germany to absorb Austria. Frenchmen, remembering their own experience in Africa, fear that Italy will be forced to spend too much money and send too many troops to Africa, thereby leaving Hitler with a free hand to do what he wants to with Austria. Neither France nor England wants Il Duce to become weak at home because they know that he is the watch-dog over Austria and one of the biggest curbs to Nazi optimism.

Meanwhile, England receives Hitler's speech to the Reichstag with the blunt announcement that the Royal air force will be trebled and announces plans for immediate recruiting of 2500 pilots. The chief of the air ministry said: "We welcome Herr Hitler's offer of limitation, but at the same time we are carrying out our declared policy not to accept inferiority to our neighbors in the air."

Soviet Russia did not take well to the speech and hurled back charges that Germany was attempting to isolate her enemies so that she might smash them one by one. One writer said that Germany had acquired huge stores of poison gas and incendiary bombs which they would use, regardless of any prohibition previously agreed to.

All in all the picture in Europe is not a happy one. The potentialities for war lie between every country from the biggest to the smallest and the world waits for some one to strike a match to set the explosion off.

Where The Money Goes

Those who advocate the entry of government in business should scrutinize the records and see how economical the government operates its own business. "The cost of a session of the state legislature," says the Palm Beach Post, "extends beyond the actual pay to the 38 senators and 95 representatives who make up the two branches of the law-making body. There are many clerks, all with a variety of duties occasioned by the introduction of hundreds of bills and the parliamentary red tape which marks the progress of legislation. There are also numerous pages and other attaches, and it is here that the Legislature has drawn public fire in previous years."

"An inkling of similar criticism this year has been started at various points in the state. Representative William Griffin, who publishes the Okeechobee News, pointed out in a recent issue of his paper that the House this year has about 100 times as many bills as in 1933, but the Senate has more than 400 attaches than in 1933. Mr. Griffin views this condition in the upper branch of the Legislature as a pitiful waste of public money. He says there are so many Senate attaches that they are working in shifts of two hours each.

The Sarasota Herald echoes this sentiment when it states that the wanton waste of public money paid the attaches is a defect of government. But this defect, it says, is not beyond correction. The attaches who were elected on platforms including economy pledges, which includes just about every elected official in the state, should not forget these pledges."

SANFORD TWENTY YEARS AGO

TALLAHASSEE, May 24.—Twenty years ago there was a constitutional amendment introduced in the Legislature proposing to exempt from taxation the home-stead exemptions now allowed by law. The resolution was passed by the House of Representatives but met defeat in the Senate. Ben H. Dorman of Ocala county had revived the matter by introducing the resolution in the Senate end of the Legislature today. It is very doubtful if it can be passed at this session, with only two more weeks of the session and the calendar of both houses loaded with bills which have the right of way over it, but it will no doubt give certain officials several nightmares as it moves along on the calendar.

A mistake was made in the statement with reference to the class poem in the last issue of The Herald. Muriel Harold had been appointed to assist, but owing to her illness the words were written by Zoe Munson alone and adapted to music by Zoe and Fannie Reba Munson.

A box social will be given at the home of Mrs. W. H. Peters Wednesday evening at 7:30 for the benefit of the Catholic church to which the members of the church and their friends are invited. The ladies of the church are expected to prepare boxes of lunch, enough for two, which will be auctioned to the highest bidder, the purchaser to share the lunch with the original owner.

Repeatists Attack On Election Has Failed

ATLANTA, May 24.—Two attacks on the legality of last Wednesday's election in which Georgia voted to retain her prohibition law were lost by repeatists in Fulton (Atlanta) superior court yesterday.

Judge G. H. Howard yesterday afternoon denied a mandamus petition filed by Frank Hoyt who charged the repeal election was illegal, after Judge John D. Humphries earlier had thrown out of court a case brought by W. G. Hastings who charged three counties had failed to certify their returns within the time limit required by law.

GENEVA

Mr. and Mrs. Culver Eberhardt, who were married in Bradenton the first of the week, spent Tuesday in Geneva with Mrs. Everett. They were enroute to Glenville, Ga., and Savannah, Ga., to spend a few weeks.

Charles Dotley of Monticello and Paul Parrish of Tallahassee spent the week-end here with relatives. Mrs. Joe Goodson and little daughter Jane returned to their home in Walton after spending several weeks here with relatives.

THE SANFORD FORUM

Sanford, Fla., May 22, 1935. Editor, Sanford Herald:

I have just listened to the address of the President of these supposedly "free" United States to Congress in his message vetoing the Patman Bonus Bill. By his action he has killed for a time a bill that was passed by an overwhelming majority in the lower House and a big majority in the Senate. He has disregarded one of the greatest outpourings of opinion from the rank and file of American people that has ever gone to a President. No other law in the span of most of our lives have caused so many citizens to voice their opinions directly to the law makers. Whether our government has become dominated by one small group of super politicians can only be determined by the vote of the House and Senate when the bill comes up for vote to override his veto.

As to the right or wrong of his actions I have nothing at all to say. He is the President and I am only one of the poor dumb fools that in 1917 felt it was my duty to go the full length of human endurance to try to aid my country. I felt I was playing the part of a patriotic man in going into the American Army. I was just past my twenty-second birthday when war was declared. To me it mattered little that we had to sell a very profitable little business that we had worked years to build up. It mattered very little that it would tear our home apart, never to be united again as before. All that mattered was that the President was calling for men to help defend from what the world today would like to know, our country.

Today I have just heard another President of our country say that I would have done just as much good had I remained at home. He did not mention selling groceries as one of the things necessary to the carrying on of the war. But he very strongly asserted that the men of the combat division in France were doing no more than the "rats" in America who were very frantically running for cover.

My opinion is that another war would be a very bad thing. We were no better than the white collared sneak whose father was a friend of some politician. We were no better than the man who pulled out of a hole when pulling got him a position. Possibly the poor child had to report for duty not later than ten and just could not get away before two. And the most pitiful part of it was that with all that danger and sacrifice on his part received only a mere hundred or hundred and fifty dollars a week. Of course the poor little underpaid boy had to buy his own clothes and pay his board when the family could not do so. Still he was doing his duty and now it is wrong to say that he should have taken from the government and given it to the enemy. We got thirty dollars a month for service in World War I and thirty three for overseas service. It was won for our country and it was won for our country. Today when competition is so keen, they are the ones the government is feeding. They are the ones that are the ones because the present present policy of the government is to take care of them as slowly driving the rest of us into bankruptcy. They will be the first to start the riots when we finally come to our senses and stop this "feed the bomb" craze we have now.

Our President, in his talk of who was to blame for the financial straits most of us are in, gave two causes in reference to our case. One was the men who were disabled directly by the war and the other was those the depression hurt. He did not say who caused the depression if there is a sane man in the world today who can prove to me that it was anyone but the graft-ridden politicians who got us in our present shape. I would certainly like to have him do it.

I think the President made a misstatement in his talk when he said he had seen the men in uniform both on this side and in the trenches of France. I can't think there can be found a record in the Navy where he was any nearer the line than some of our other so-called great politicians and most of our great generals. In fact, if he ever left his plush boat chair in Washington no one heard of it—at least not to go over there. With an ocean riding president much as we had at the time it is hardly to be considered that an undersecretary of the Navy would also be allowed to be travel-minded. Possibly he intended to state that he had reports of men on the other side, if he did I admire him for that. That is the way I am going to get my information of the next war. I'll be sitting on my door step

Colossus Of Rhodes

By A. P. CONNELLY

ARTICLE XX
Possibly this article will strike you, as have many others, an entirely out of place. The subject we will discuss in this article is one that appears to be very extensive in the United States of today, and that is "bread lines" and "threatened hunger strikes" and similar conditions. Some years ago one of my brothers lived in Chicago for approximately twenty years and was connected in an official capacity with one of the large railroad systems running East and on my many visits to Chicago, I availed myself of the opportunity to see Chicago and Cook county Illinois, rather thoroughly. I was amazed at the immensity of the stock yard proposition and many of the other very great things in and about Chicago. The immense plants just across the line at and near Gary, Indiana, and became very enthusiastic over the wonders observed in the City of Chicago and the State of Illinois all of this, of course, being with the afternoon paper. Possibly I can learn to cry and take on in the approved style over the casualty lists as they come back, and go around all day talking about what "we are doing" and following very closely the policy of our President, doing my bit at home. Of course, I can attend all the great rallies, flag-wavings, Red Cross drives, Y. M. C. A. skidgids, (possibly they can figure out a way in which writing paper and envelopes will not cost twenty millions in the next war), and hear other long winded, hot air artists spouting "patriotism" like a fire hose spouting water. And with it all at night I can tuck my very warm carcass in a nice, clean, feather bed and go to sleep with a clear conscience that I am doing my bit as our President has approved. And, too, with all the great danger in which I will be ten times as much as that small way be a safe, because it will be ten times as much as the of the food men who were crazy enough to follow the colors.

Great armies of gnats annual fish schools off the South Coast herald the arrival of drum-line coast in early spring.

That there are many others, goes without saying. I am always sorry to single out any particular national firm or institution, and do not do so in spirit of criticism of great or so-called great men handling these firms, but I do ask you, why should the great State of Illinois have a "bread line" or anything but prosperity? Be assured the sensible and reasonable way out is being found, and while the solution cannot come today or within a year by observing the full and free examination that is being made by our president and both branches of Congress. I feel sure that the day is spaced and the time for proper changes is drawing near all the time, largely because of the fact that men and women, Republicans and Democrats, are thinking more seriously than ever before, because each day the problem of what is to become of the boys and girls of today, to say nothing of future generations, is becoming more difficult. The Colossus of Rhodes of your imagination is but a plenty.

Britain Said To Be Drilling In Ethiopia

ROME, May 24.—(AP)—Giuseppe D'Italia, authoritative newspaper, Tuesday said British troops have been concentrated on the Sudan-Ethiopian frontier and England has constituted small military organizations and army bases on Ethiopian territory itself.

Relief Rolls Will Be Cut Down At Once

Underserving Chiselers Will Be Weeded Out; State Feels Pinch Of Drain On Funds

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Wholesale shakeups of relief rolls throughout the country to weed out underserving chiselers impending yesterday.

With the federal government shutting off the flood of relief funds and turning back the job of aiding unemployables to the states and local communities, a 20 percent cut in the number of such beneficiaries is expected.

Feeling the financial pinch, the states are determined to exclude from relief thousands of cases which were allowed to share unemployment benefits as long as Washington was paying the bill.

Another factor which shortly will lop off a large slice from the numbers of relief recipients is the social security legislation pending in Congress.

Enactment of old age pensions will automatically take all persons over 65 from relief rolls and place them in a separate category. Unemployment insurance will hold down the relief load in times of industrial distress.

By Aug. 1 federal officials expect to surrender the entire burden of direct relief to local authorities. This applies to 1,500,000 heads of families in the unemployment class, who will not share in the benefits of the President's $1,000,000,000 work relief program.

In order to prepare the states for this task, Relief Administrator Hopkins has assigned a relief apportionment quota for each and threatened to cut off federal funds immediately unless the states put in their required contributions.

Al Smith Offers New Plan To Aid Good Government

Platform Committees Would Meet Before Convention, Is Idea

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP)—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, in his second book, "The Citizen and His Government," published recently, advocates that the platform committees of the major political parties meet before the national conventions convene.

Under his proposal the delegates from the various states would each nominate a member of the resolutions or platform committee from the membership of their state committee and "these delegates would get together well in advance of the actual convention in order to express to each other their desires in the way of a party platform."

"I believe this would be a good thing to do," writes Smith, "because I cannot believe that any platform committee meeting in the hustle, bustle, noise and confusion of a national convention can really make a satisfactory job and a finished product of a platform for presentation to the entire country. x x x

"The present practice almost invariably results in a compromise except in occasional hard-fought cases when the decision of an argument for a platform plank is placed before the convention as a whole. There is never a thorough discussion."

Recalling his experiences as the Democratic presidential nominee in 1928, Smith said that to nominate a candidate in June "imposes a much greater job on him than a presidential candidate should really have to cope with."

"It is practically impossible," he said, "during the heat of the actual national campaign, for a candidate to find time enough really to think out the speeches he is about to make. Particularly is this true of a candidate who cannot or does not wish to rely upon some other person who is willing to spend his time preparing the material for his speeches."

Emily Woodward Takes Up Cudgel Against Linder

Former Head Of Georgia Press Association Is Critical

MACON, Ga., May 24.—(AP)—Miss Emily Woodward, well known Georgia newspaper woman, is reported to be a state legislator who advocates woods burning and in a medium which she said "has been used to water down" in addition to the "four corners of the state" in addressing the Georgia Forestry Association.

Miss Woodward, whose home is at Vienna, Ga., is a former president of the Georgia Forestry Association.

Tim Linder, state commissioner of agriculture in the Market Bulletin department publication for October for Feb. 11, said:

"The woods should be burned at least every two years and should be burned when there is plenty of water in the ground and should be burned against the wind so as to prevent damage to the timber."

Elimination of the state's forest resources, Miss Woodward said here, will be determined largely by the "fidelity and foresight of the men to whom we entrust the guidance of our government."

"Not wishing to be personal, but merely to offer proof of my contention, may I ask do we not here in Georgia give an important public post to one who by advocating woods burning caused many a flame to be kindled in Georgia's forests the past year, leaving behind incalculable destruction?"

"We do not go further and our taxpayers furnish the medium through which this destructive propaganda was spread to a veritable army of Georgians. Have we not sat supinely by while this same medium was used to scatter seeds of sedition to the four corners of the state?"

Miss Woodward also said that if

Georgia Methodists Preacher Suspended

ATLANTA, May 24.—(AP)—A Methodist preacher, who campaigned for repeal of Georgia's prohibition law, yesterday found himself suspended from his pulpit and facing a church trial.

The Rev. H. E. McBrayer of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, occupying a pastorate in suburban Lakewood Heights, was told by a church committee that he could stand trial or surrender his credentials.

"I will not surrender my credentials," said the minister. "I prefer going to trial, and I will request a trial at the very earliest date the law of the church will allow."

The outlook for settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute changed early yesterday from despair to one of bright hope when Italian quarters reported a compromise had been reached.

While British circles failed to confirm a compromise and said the situation was still confused, there were indications that the outlines of such a compromise have been approved in principle at least.

The French delegation said the changed situation looked promising and that the negotiations were likely to result satisfactorily.

WILLIAM S. WHITE
 HINGTON, May 24.—The man whose name is a synonym for the word "apple-cheeked," Rep. ### Opinions Vary On Hitler's Talk Before Reichstag

Some Leaders Believe It Held Peace Move, Others Sense War

GENEVA, May 24. (AP)—While enthusiastic Nazis acclaimed the peace gesture in Reichstag Hitler's Reichstag address, some skeptical foreign diplomats saw in it recently the promise of "an unprecedented rearmament race."

Essentially a man with a single interest—the honor—he never departs for long from that subject. But, as a former district attorney, a zealous and crusading prosecutor, he sometimes turns his attention for the moment to some other subject and blasts away at some situation he doesn't like, or some individual he suspects.

Mild-looking and soft voiced, he is politically highly pugnacious, although the casual observer wouldn't suspect it. He has little "color" in the political sense of that term, has no hobbies, makes no social pretensions and lives the quiet life of a family man, sticking rather closely to his office—and his knitting.

2. Its opposition to pacts of mutual assistance.

3. Its obvious attempt to placate Italy, France and Austria, while bribing at Russia.

4. Its expressions of interest in preservation of the League of Nations.

Soon after the speech completed his speech in the Reichstag House— it required two hours and 14 minutes—the government issued a law compelling all German males between the ages of 18 and 45 to serve one year in the army.

The decree provided that "during war every German man and woman will be obliged to serve the fatherland."

Germany openly found no conflict between the Führer's declaration to the Reichstag that the country "needs and wills peace" and the promulgation a few hours later of a conscription program making possible the largest peacetime army in the nation's history.

In diplomatic and other circles, however, the opinion was heard that "Hitler has offered nothing tangible toward the international peace cause" except an attempt to justify his course.

The motive of trying to allay foreign apprehension to gain sufficient time for fulfilling his arms plans was laid to Hitler by some.

Significance Of Political Plans Escapes Many

Prof. R. E. Trow, stated that the close friendship between the people of different sections of the state is the result of the influence of the Republican party to rehabilitate the party in the eyes of the people. He said that the party is in a position to win more than ever before in the state.

But the difficulties of that nature, and may be called, become more and more obvious as time goes on.

One complication is that an organization could be formed to assist still further the western Republicans. This organization would be known as the "Western Republican League." Another is that it might fall to attract many Democrats. The party is in a pretty strong position in the Democratic column, who make up the conservative wing. Besides it is not easy to induce voters to leave a party when it is in power, after years of loss.

A third problem is to find the candidate who fulfills the plan. The proposal is to nominate a Democrat in the Republican field, seems not to have got very far among the politicians, although it has been much discussed among business men.

Lake Mary Fetes Its Departing Winter Visitors

Arrangements for the departure of winter visitors from Lake Mary were made by the Chamber of Commerce. The departure was held at the Lake Mary Hotel. The Chamber of Commerce is pleased to have had such a large number of winter visitors.

W. H. (Bill) Schmidt, with his carpenter's saw, assisted by William Gentry on the violin and W. L. Harvey on the guitar, scored a hit.

A feature of the evening was the several public performances of the Baby Blues, Betty Hess Hall, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hall, and Peggy Ann Howell, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Howell.

The Misses Tew and Fowler, in a piano and vocal selection, and Miss Dorothy Lee and E. F. Cooper, with their contraltos, all from Orlando, received pronounced applause.

George Hewitt, 87-year-old man, an old citizen performer, sang the audience in an appeal with his own voice.

"Florida on Parade" was played by the Lake Mary orchestra with piano accompaniment by Harry Water, Joseph of Lake Mary, and the orchestra.

Refreshments were served during the evening and flowers distributed to the guests.

Opposition To Wagner Bill Did Unusual No. 1

Prof. C. W. Lott, gave a general talk on the progress that the Chamber of Commerce had made in plugging the success of the Chamber of Commerce in the state. He said that the Chamber of Commerce is in a position to win more than ever before in the state.

Refreshments were served during the evening and flowers distributed to the guests.
