HOOVER TURNS TO FARMER TO GET COUNSEL

Has Already Speeded Business With His Plans For Rushing Building Of Nation

By George R. Holmes International News Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—Having accelerated the industrial engine of the country with the oil of confidence, and mobilized state and city governments behind his program of rushing all plans for public improvements, President Hoover turned to the farmers today to complete his cycle of business conferences which for more than a week have held the center of the national stage.

The leaders of national farm organizations went to the White House at the President's invitation to discuss the state of agriculture, and the part it can play in maintaining the general business structure of the country on a steady keel during the winter months. Thanks to the activity of the new federal farm board and rising grain prices, the farmers are considered fairly well off.

With this conference completed, President Hoover will turn the problem of business maintenance over to business itself to work out. He has mobilized public opinion to combat any policy of retrenchment that undoubtedly was growing up as a result of the uncertainty produced by radical stock market speculation. He has obtained the promises of the industrial and financial leaders of the country to speed full steam ahead with their projects; he has secured promises of no wage cuts and no strikes during this readjustment period; he has put the federal government in the vanguard of the recovery movement, and urged the state governments to follow suit; and having pointed the way he now feels it is up to business itself to carry on.

After his meeting with the agriculturists today, the President will make one more appearance in the role of the engineer in business. Next week he will open a general business conference here, which has been arranged by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, and which will be attended by several hundred leaders in their respective fields. Thereafter, it will be up to the national and local chambers of commerce, and the various trade organizations to keep things moving.

Negro, Offender Of Laws Frequently, Given Seventy Days

In this morning's Police Court, Paul Reed, negro, faced Judge W. E. White on three charges of disorderly conduct. He was also charged with assault and threats and drunkenness. The judge sentenced him to pay a fine of $100 on two of the charges or to serve a period of 70 days in the city jail and dismissed the other two.

The negro is being held in the city jail, according to Chief of Police Roy Williams, following his failure to pay the fine. The police chief further stated that Reed had been giving police authorities considerable trouble lately, following his escape from the city road gang.

The remainder of the city docket consisted of the following cases: Willie Ware, Frank Williams and Jim "Dumpy" Henderson each fined a fine of $5.

Arrested Leadbetter charged with assault was sentenced to serve 30 days in the city jail. A fine of $100 was imposed upon Pearl Williams who was held on a charge of possession of liquor.

DULLEST SESSION SINCE SMASH IS RECORDED TODAY

Stocks Recover Some Of Lost Ground But Bears Also Score

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(INS)—The dullest full session since the big upswing in the stock market was recorded today. Speculative stocks which were under fire at the beginning of the new week recovered a part of their lost ground as the session advanced, but the bears had the hammer out for the copper stocks, the motors and various high-priced specialties which have been whisked along at a rapid pace since the middle of last week.

Stocks were under selling pressure as the raw week opened, mostly as the result of profit taking and liberal selling by the professionals. It was the general impression in Wall Street that, regardless of the brighter outlook in business and industry, the rally from the low prices of the market had been too rapid for comfort. Large investment buying has not been shifted back and forth with no particular destination in view. Professionals were unwilling to load up prior to the four day slowdown of the bar board beginning Wednesday night.

Weakness in Anaconda Copper, which dropped under 24 for a point loss, was an upsetting factor. Selling of the stock accompanied rumors of pipe cutting in the copper metal market, as well as the hangover of large blocks of stock in this and other markets. Kennecott Copper dropped back to 61 for a loss of 1 1/2.

Encouraged by the success in Anaconda, the bears extended their efforts to other copper shares, as well as to other important groups. American Smelting fell 1/2 point to 72 1/2. Nevada Consolidated 5 points to 27 1/4. Kennecott 4 points to 58 1/2. Inspiration 3 points to 28 1/2 and Andes Copper 1 1/4 to 25 1/4.

General Electric, U. S. Steel and other speculative favorites were smashed off at the beginning of trading. General Electric losing 3 points to 210; with the divergence of the bears to more fruitful fields the steel and utility shares staged a good comeback.

Business and industrial news of the day was favorable. Important building and utility construction projects are already under way and railroad equipment buying has increased considerably.

CHINESE JOIN ARMS TO FIGHT SOVIET FORCES

Menace Of Advancing Russian Troops Has Effect Of Uniting 2 Factions At Home

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(INS)—Awakening to the peril of sustained Soviet advances into Manchuria, the warring Chinese factions are believed to be reaching an agreement in the common interest of repelling the invader, dispatches from the Far East received here today indicated.

Worried by countless Soviet attacks, lacking ammunition and other supplies, the Chinese forces were reported to be ready falling back with heavy losses. Estimates of Chinese casualties were placed at 12,000.

President Chiang Kai Shek, who was directing the nationalist forces fighting the Kuomintang rebels, is reported returning to Nanking to bolster his retreating forces on the Manchurian front by his personal direction. The Kuomintang forces, meanwhile, were reported to be quietly retiring westward.

According to dispatches from Shanghai, Chang is now supposed to be negotiating a compromise with General Chang Fu Kwei and other rebel leaders.

The Soviet forces have advanced as far as to seriously menace the city of Harbin, with its population of 350,000 and strategic importance. Harbin is 115 miles east of Manchou, the western terminus of the 4,000-mile Chinese Eastern Railway which is the bone of contention in the present hostilities between the Russians and Chinese.

Muling is only 73 miles west of Suifenho (Pogranichnyy), the eastern terminus of the railroad. Both Manchou and Suifenho are on the Siberian border.

If the Russians continue their progress inward from the east and west, Harbin may fall, as well as some dispatches. The Siberian forces are now about 250 miles from Harbin, 700 miles from the west.

According to dispatches, the Mukden government has made overtures to the Soviet authorities to settle the Chinese Eastern Railway dispute and end hostilities regardless of the apparent determination of the Nanking government to fight on.

Mrs. Morse Makes Appeal For Help Of People In Distress

An urgent call for help was made this morning by the Sanfordside City Welfare Board, when Mrs. Helen Morse, supervisor of the board, stated that an investigation by one of the board had revealed that there were persons in the county needing clothing and other necessities.

Mrs. Morse requested that anyone desiring to help in this cause, by donating clothing, bedding, blankets, shoes, sweaters or coats, could do so by calling at the welfare office in the Court House or by telephoning 143.

When asked if these donations were to be Christmas gifts, Mrs. Morse said that "the day of gifts was too far off, and that the need was now." She further said that this would be a "November Christmas without a Santa Claus."

Thieves Again Call Upon Farrell Home

Thieves again intruded upon the property of O. D. Farrell, Magnolia Avenue and Thirteenth Street, early Sunday morning, it was learned this morning from Mr. Farrell, who stated that the "punished" visitors had made their way from the spare tire and wheel from his Ford car, which was in his garage at the time of the robbery.

Although fatigued to the breaking point after a three day vigil at the dying man's bedside, he left on the 200-mile journey to Venice, a few hours after Clemenceau's death.

Brabant is the only one who knows exactly where Clemenceau wished to have his body placed. Months before, he had been told to depart for the grave at the moment of death and prepare it properly so that Clemenceau could be buried upright as was his father, Dr. Clemenceau.

SHADES OF PAST REVIVED AS YALE FACES HARVARD

Ancient Rivals Meet In 48th Contest At Cambridge Stadium

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service
Sports Editor
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 23.—Days of the hallowed past—those olden, golden days of Jim Hogan and Ham Fish, of Linkey, of Shelvin and Gordon Brown—will arise from the dead and live again for one, brief fleeting hour while Harvard plays Yale at Soldiers' Field this afternoon. This museum piece of competitive football is exhibited annually on the final Saturday of November and, annually, the phantoms of a vivid, glowing past fill down through the corridors of time and enter by the goal posts, there to wait the coming of another addition to the society of dead ones.

It is only the glory of the past that makes the Harvard-Yale game the glorious thing of the present. Neither of them is a champion-to-be yet 67,000 people will fight their way into the stadium to see them play and a nation of football addicts will follow the course of the ball with far from casual interest. This has been so since 1875 and probably it will be so 50 years hence.

Today's game carries more than the usual burden of attention because of the fact that it is scheduled to bring Albie Booth out from his hooded blanket on the sidelines, possibly to race through Harvard as he did with Army, Brown and Dartmouth. They say Yale will use this most publicized of all individual stars right from the opening whistle today, and, if this is so, the crowd may get the thrill of its life from the contest between the giants of the Harvard line and this tiny, heroic Jack, who slaps them with the keen blade of his wit and cleverness.

Booth has been rested for two weeks since the Dartmouth meeting and ought to be ready with his epic effort of the year. He will need it.

For this is no run-of-the-mill Harvard team. In spite of the fact that it hasn't won a major game this year, it is a two-handed, fighting giant, shielding a man who throws football passes as a gun shoots its bullet. Harvard, with Wood at quarterback, is a roaring team as long as it keeps the ball in the air and Yale has been notorious in its weakness against air raids. As to that, Harvard has been none too strong in its defense against a running attack and this happens to be the department of play in which Yale revels.

So, with this odd matching of weaknesses and strengths, this should be quite a ball game. Yale, having a clear edge in the 48 games played to date, was a steady favorite in the odds. But Yale was all of that last year and, as matters turned out, it did well to hold Harvard to 17 points. Frankly, it should be anybody's game and, if it wasn't for any

WHY THE BULLDOG BITES!

By Burriss Jenkins Jr.

THE YALE TEAM OF '29 HAS "RESERVE" BACKS GOOD ENOUGH FOR ANYBODY'S VARSITY. McLENNAN WAS THE "UNKNOWN" SATURDAY WHOSE SLIPPERY WORK THROUGH A FIRST GRADE PRINCETON DEFENSE REACHED HEIGHTS LITTLE SHORT OF BOOTH.

YALE STRATEGY THIS YEAR HAS DARING AND INGENUITY. McLENNAN DAMPED INSTEAD OF WALKING FOR AN EXTRA POINT, AND TAYLOR DAMPED FOR A TOUCHDOWN. WHEN YALE NEEDS TWO YARDS, CAPT. "FIRRO" GREENE CAN GIVE IT TO THEM.

YOU NEVER SAW MORE VICIOUS TACKLING THAN "BERRA" AND "HICKOK" ON A FASTER GUY THAN "THE LATER".

loyalty to old Yodahti, I think I would have a lot down on Harvard.

It certainly is due to cash one, after playing a 21-21 tie with the Army, losing to Dartmouth and then being out-juggled by Michigan. And, by the same token, Yale would be due to blow. It pulled out the Brown game in the second half, it did the same with the Army and Dartmouth. You can't draw them that fine all the time.

Yale, however, cooks the part of the leader team. It was beaten by Georgia while trying to unshackle itself from the Warner system and way back '27 Maryland while trying to rate itself in lead and an empty lead. But these years only minor tragedies of the campaign that will be down right perfect, if this Yale beats Harvard this afternoon. Harvard, too, will gladly give Army its tie and Michigan and Dartmouth their victories if only it can give Yale a good, swift kick in the kitchen.

The Stamp Mart

Attendance at the Stamp Club meetings continues to run between 25 and 30 each Saturday. Exhibits from different countries are being held every Saturday, with increasing interest in this feature. Last week the prize, were won by Franklin Bennett and Carlyle Housholder. The blue, red and yellow ribbons were each week for the first three places in the competition are being held for final check-up at the end of the year. At that time each of the three stamp prizes will be given for the members of the club having the greatest number of ribbons.

Boys and girls who are interested in stamps but who have not yet joined the club are urged to come to one of the meetings and get acquainted. There are no dues, or other charges to belong to the Stamp Club.

Kansas Nebraska Overprints
A few months ago the Post Office Department in order to stop the sale of low value stamps in Kansas and Nebraska issued the 1c to 10c values for the past six years, these states with surcharges. Kansas, for Kansas and Nebraska. These stamps are now listed as separate issues in Scott's Catalogue and may be secured unused from post offices in the two states, and from the Philatelic Agency in Washington.

Although the stamps are valid for postage in the two states, it is thought by the government officials that the appearance of a great number outside the two states in question would be a cause for investigation and possible apprehension of stamp thieves. The latter have been in the habit of taking stamps some distance from the point of issue to use them. Local collectors will receive letters or parcels from relatives or friends in Kansas or Nebraska should be on the lookout for these stamps to add to their collections.

Tons of Stamps
The number of stamps of a certain variety issued has not to do with determining the actual market value of such stamps in the future. Most of the regular issues of the United States are issued in enormous quantities, and hence the ordinary stamps unless available only a short time, do not rapidly enhance in value. An idea of the number of stamps issued by this country can be gathered by a report from Washington dated November 16, 1929, which it is announced that the post office of this country had prepared for the Christmas rush more than four billion stamps totaling 300 tons in weight. Also that during the last 30 days the department had issued 2,318,422,000 postage stamps, 481,251,000 stamped envelopes, and 261,886,250 postcards.

Highest Honors in Philately
In philatelic circles the signing of a scroll containing the names of "Distinguished Philatelists," held by the Philatelic Congress of Great Britain is regarded as receiving the knighthood of the stamp collecting world.

Only a few dozen names, headed by that of King George of England, decorate this roll of honor. Just recently the first citizen of the United States ever invited to affix his signature in person, returned from England, bringing with him an inscribed silver pen with which he signed the scroll. This man is Major T. Charlton Henry of Chestnut Hill, Pa., who is the possessor of one of the finest collections of British West Indian stamps in the world.

New Issues Coming
It is announced that Cuba will issue another commemorative stamp this time to honor the hundredth anniversary of the founding of the University of Havana. The stamps will be valid only until the end of the year. The fact that the University of Havana football team has been playing games this season in Florida will make this issue all the more interesting to us.

Dominican Republic
A set of three parcel post stamps, dated 1926 have made a somewhat belated appearance. They are the 25 centavo carmine, 50 centavo orange, and the one peso green.

For an industrial exhibition held at Damascus from Sept. 5 to Oct. 5, the following current stamps of Spain were especially sur-

MOST OF DIXIE IS QUIET TODAY ON GRIDIRON FRONT

Florida's Scrap With Carolina Gamecocks Is Biggest Feature

By Gordon Pulliam
International News Service
ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 23.—T was Saturday before Thanksgiving so an ominous lull hovered over most southern gridirons today, which, among other things, meant a moment of prosperity for many. Only sporadic but in several instances sanguinary clashes were scheduled today along the battle front of Dixie, while shock troops rested or prepared for the terrific offensive that will rock the entire South during the afternoon hours next Thursday.

From the mere pocketful of games which cannot be heralded as anything preliminary to the holiday wind-ups, three stand out as unsafe for any financial investment whereby one would hope to gain.

These are:

South Carolina vs. Florida at Columbia.

Howard vs. Birmingham South at Birmingham.

Oglethorpe vs. Mercer at Atlanta.

In the first of these, almost anything might happen; in the second, everything could happen, and in the third, everything will probably take place.

Florida, with its intricate "erazy quilt" formation and flashy running attack will rule a favor over the Gamecocks as those two teams cast themselves into the fray, but such will not be the case in the two other clashes.

The Oglethorpe-Mercer engagement has become an old southern tradition and each renewal of the rivalry between the two has been marked by that inspired determination that characterizes only those life-and-death struggles.

Oglethorpe loses even the slightest edge with reports that Cy Bell, fast footed back who was to end his collegiate career in a blaze of glory, was last seen on a pair of crutches, and in all probability would see action only from the bench.

In Birmingham a similar story is written when Howard and Birmingham Southern struggle for a city title and the glory that comes from a victory over the traditional foe.

Despite their ranking superiority, these three games will not furnish all of the football pep techniques for the day. Far from that, what with Clemson and Citadel engaging in their annual conflict, Duke and Wake Forest, Jashin and Rollins and Southern battling for some sort of state honors in Florida.

The Duke-Wake Forest and the Clemson-Citadel contests are southern conference and S. I. A. teams into direct conflict.

The remaining schedule for the day included "King vs. Carson Newman, at Bristol; Louisiana Tech against Centenary, at Shreveport, U. of Louisville, and Georgetown, at Louisville, and Loyola against Springhill at New Orleans.

Stetson Freshmen Defeat Southern In Night Grid Contest

In a well sustained attack led by their running ace, Hewitt, the Stetson University freshmen pushed over three touchdowns to defeat Southern College yearlings last night by the score of 18-9.

The Baby Mocs from Southern were generally outplayed but on several occasions, put on a display of offensive strength, consisting for the most part of assaults at the line, which appeared to be sufficient to merit touchdowns. But some how or other the drives were not maintained long enough and the coveted touchdowns were denied by a gallantly fighting Stetson team.

The contest was the second night football game ever played in the state, the first one being staged here a few weeks ago between the Sanford High School and the Rollins College freshmen.

A large throng of football fans were on hand to witness the game, a sizable contingent of out-of-town visitors being noticed among the spectators, who frequently rent the air with their cheers.

News Notes On Agriculture

Alex. H. Johnson
Dept. Vocational Agriculture
Dunwoody High School

FARM BOYS SHOW NEAT PROFIT ON PROJECT WORK

Earning while learning coupled up with actual experience in a chosen vocation is a feature of the vocational agriculture course at the local high school. This fact is clearly brought out by the final report of the home project work carried on by the boys enrolled in the work last year. 469 hours of practice work on home farming projects netted an income of $976.36 for the 33 boys enrolled in the agricultural course last year. Over 21 cents for each hour devoted to home practice work. These figures are based on all of the work and include eight projects which showed a loss due to market conditions of last season.

The projects included crops of celery, corn, bulbs, peppers, escarole, poultry, carrots and others totaling up to over 18 acres. Several boys planted more than one crop.

The two most profitable projects of the year were conducted by George Steele who showed a net income of $219.73, and Arthur Partin with a net income of $198.00.

FLORIDA TEAM WINS SECOND IN NATIONAL JUDGING CONTEST

Second place in the National Beef Judging Contest held at Kansas City, was won by the Vocational Agriculture Student Judging Team entered from this state. This team was composed of Clyde Clark, Greensboro; Donald Davidson, Monticello; Roy Hewitt, Grand Ridge; and Gray Miley, Plant City.

FLORIDA BOY WINS NATIONAL HONOR IN FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA

Gray Miley of the Plant City Chapter of F. F. F. was recently awarded the highest degree of the F. F. A. when at the National Convention of Future Farmers of America he was elected to the degree of "America Planter". In order to receive this honor it was necessary for him to win over agricultural students from practically every state in the union. In addition to receiving this high degree he was also elected Vice-President of the National body. Gray Miley is also President of the State body, Future Farmers of Florida.

RECOGNITION TO BE GIVEN EARLY USERS OF NITRATE

An attempt is being made to find some of the farmers who pioneered in using nitrate of soda as a fertilizer in Florida. As a feature of the centennial celebration of Chilean nitrate of soda, special recognition is to be conferred on the farmer now living in this state who first used "Soda" and also on the farmer who has used it for the longest period of time. It is thought Ocala Seminole County will have several representatives among the early users of nitrate. Any farmer who has used nitrate of soda for 25 years or more should report his experience, for he may, unknowingly, be the first or the longest user in the state. Names may be sent in to Prof. Alex. H. Johnson, Vocational Agricultural Instructor, Sanford, who will forward them to the committee which will make the award.

The use of mineral fertilizers in the United States can be traced to the first half of the past century. When the first inorganic mineral fertilizers were made, much doubt about the value of the idea, also when very little was known of it, has now become an economic necessity in the agriculture of the country. The first shipment of nitrate of soda was brought to the United States in 1830. Since then it has been used by four generations of American farmers. Today, with the exception of lime and mud, it has probably been utilized the longest of the inorganic substances used for agricultural purposes.

NOAH'S ARK

Copyright 1929, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. "NOAH'S ARK" starring Debraze Caplan and featuring George O'Brien, in a Warner Bros. production of this novel, is based upon the scenario by Darryl Francis Zanuck.

SYNOPSIS
Three friends, Ivan, Armand, and Emily, a French girl, Marie, two Americans, Travis and Al; and a priest, meet on a Continental train. The three friends quarrel over the girl, but Travis and Al rescue her and escape to Paris. War is declared, Marie believes Travis intends marriage; but he and Al return to America. Three years later, Marie, heartbroken, finds the priest and the three friends at a dressing station. An air raid... Marie is unconscious... in the dogs of Noah, Miriam, Japheth's betrothed, to steal by the King's guard, Japheth attempts a rescue, but the two lovers are imprisoned in the cages to be starved.

CHAPTER XVII
Up in the grove of trees on the hilltop stood the ark almost completed. The air open side now no longer revealed the skeleton of the interior. Noah, Sham and Ham were busily plying the hull with great gobs of pitch, stuffing the thick viscous substance into every crack and crevice.

The sounds of an approaching cavalcade brought the onlookers running, starting to see what might happen next. It was King Nephthim's own guard, they told each other excitedly, with the Chief Counselor at the head.

As they approached the clearing, Nephthim gave the command to stop. He held up his hand for silence. The crowd settled into stillness.

"It is His Majesty, King Nephthim's, command," the Counselor's voice rang on, "that the worship of all gods other than Jehovah and his lesser gods be stopped, and their temples and altars destroyed."

They reached for his stone hammer and leapt to his feet. "He can't do that," he muttered.

"There is no need to worry any longer about Japheth and Miriam," he told them. "The sign has come. It is not well with them now, but they will soon be delivered from their bonds."

By Alton Langler
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Nov. 18.—Americans are extolled for their individual generosity by Leon Binet, one of France's finest biologists in a recent article appearing in "La Presse Medicale."

Urging his countrymen to bring the same aid to the advancement of science through the creation of laboratories and education institutions, Monsieur Binet said:

In the greatest universities in the United States, in those which are the principal foci of scientific activity, budgets are constituted by private liberality, whereas in France, rare are the private funds to further the realization of scientific work and full of faith in their work are more numerous.

Frenchmen want to look like Americans, and so they affect horn rimmed spectacles. No sooner had this charge been made by a writer in a local magazine than a champion of the French stepped forward to deny the insinuation.

Horn rimmed spectacles are, in fact, a French invention, say the aforementioned, champion. "It seems that the French began to wear the horn rimmed kind, outward sign of prosperity, brains, and social position, way back in Napoleonic age."

And what flag will the League of Nations wear when it rides into battle to preserve peace? If colonialism are serious—and this is doubtful—an organization known as the International Union of Associations for the League of Nations—full stop—has opened a flag contest.

The designer of the winning flag will receive $400, payable in Dutch florins, the donor being a Dutchman. A white rabbit with red eyes on a field of red, the scales of justice on a white field and a rainbow design are suggested by

Effort Of Ford To Buy Colonial Home Arouses Virginians

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 25.—(INS)—Repeated efforts of Henry Ford to purchase a colonial home here and transport it to the Ford Museum at Dearborn, Mich., had aroused the Washington Society of this historic city filled with Washington lore.

John B. Gordon, a leader of the Washington Society, declared any effort by Ford to buy the property would be an affront to the citizenry of the state of Virginia.

Ford came here last week and was understood instructed Richard B. English, one of his representatives to select a typical Colonial home either in Alexandria or some other southern town. English declared no particular town had been selected.

Gordon, highly incensed at the prospect of Alexandria being called upon to make the sacrifice said: "These old homes of colonial Virginia are not the property of any private citizen in the strictest sense. They belong, most of them, to private citizens in a legal sense."

But it is not their right to sell them for removal from the state of Virginia. These historic homes are a part of the historical environment of George Washington.

Standing as they do in historic Alexandria, the home of colonial Virginia poses a solemn dignity. But taken away from the soil of Virginia, and they become only so much brick and mortar. The patriotic spirit of present day Virginia will not allow the consummation of what is proposed in Ford's name.

A prominent member of the American colony in Paris, Mrs. Michael Winburn, gave a helping hand to child welfare work in France recently in the gift of 1,000,000 francs for the establishment of a children's clinic in the suburbs of Paris. It was under the direction of the Nouvelle Ecole Society which is working against the enormous infant mortality in France, establishing public health centers, and training young women in the care of children of all ages.
