PROFITEERS IS SHOWN UP BY UNCLE SAM

ALL BRANCHES OF SHOP INDUSTRY MAKING HUGE PROFITS SAY GOVERNMENT

Washington, Aug. 8.—President Wilson will address congress in person today to make recommendations for legislation designed to aid in reducing the cost of living. This was learned today at the white house. Agents of the department of justice today throughout the country were obeying the order issued by the attorney general yesterday that profiteers and hoarders of food and other necessities be tracked down and prosecuted under the Lever food control act. Recommendations for additional legislation necessary to effect the reduction in the cost of living, formulated by the special subcommittee of the cabinet, were in President Wilson's hands, and he expected to make these recommendations the subject of an early message to congress. Their nature has not been disclosed.

The country today faced the definite promise of some cut in bread prices following announcement yesterday by Dr. Julius H. Barnes, of grain corporation that immediate effort would be made to place on sale in every community where prices are found improperly high, standard export flour at $10 a barrel. The ruling price during the last four months, he said, has been at least a dollar above that figure. The announcement was made at the same time however that the grain corporation had decided to maintain the government's guarantee on wheat at $2.26 a bushel. The prospective world wheat supply, Mr. Barnes said, dictated this action as a "reserve protection against a higher price later."

In a statement contending that the price of wheat would rise if the guarantee price were not maintained, Mr. Barnes predicted a shrinkage in American production from the June forecast of "probably 400,000,000 bushels," with 250,000,000 bushels forecast of probably 400,000,000 bushels, with 250,000,000 bushels applying to the United States crop and also a shrinkage of 300,000,000 bushels of European rye and wheat production outside of Russia. Grain director, however, promised a readjustment in flour prices if later developments hold promise of a world price for wheat below guarantee figure with the national treasury to bear the expense.

Unprecedented profits being made by slaughters, tanners, manufacturer and dealers for which there was no justification, are responsible for the high prices of shoes, congress was informed today by the federal trade commission which recently concluded an inquiry into the shoe business for the period from 1914 to 1919.

PROFITING IN SHOES

Mr. Ultimate Consumer has barely recovered from the shock he got when he read the prediction of one of the country's boot and shoe barons that we are soon to be paying $20 and $25 a pair for shoes, when he stumbled across an advertisement in a trade paper, an advertisement of shoes for export. "Ready to ship at once direct from our own factories."

There were, for instance, 59,600 pairs of men's work shoes at $3, "made two full soles, solid leather insoles and counter, solid lift heels." Other work shoes are offered at $2.25, $2.35, $1.50 and $2.50. The highest price quoted is $5.75 a pair for "men gun-metal calf high-grade shoes." The fair sex is not forgotten; two of the 12 items provided it with kid shoes at $8.25 and "welt oxford and high shoes" at $1.75 a pair.

Such prices are bound to excite the curiosity of the domestic consumer. Must we go abroad to get American-made shoes cheaply? How can manufacturers and dealers justify the great disparity in prices. If it is possible to sell at such reasonable figures abroad at a profit why not at home?—Buffalo Commercial.

Mrs. B. G. Smith and Mrs. Theo. Aulin and the Aulin baby of Oviedo and Mrs. Tilden Jacobs of Chuluota were shopping in the city Tuesday.

BETTS OPEN FOR BUSINESS

One of the Finest Ice Cream and Cold Drink Parlors in the City. Betts is open.

And the hearts of the kiddies and of the older folks are gladdened by this announcement.

For many weeks they have been waiting for this fine establishment to get ready for business for every man, woman and child knows Ed. Betts for he it known that the aforesaid Ed. Betts has been catering to the wants of the public for the past seven years but he has been working at other establishments in this city. He opens this week his own parlors in the room on First street formerly occupied by Simon's store and next door to Perkins and Britt. This room has recently been remodeled and placed in first class shape by Contractor George Venable and is a room 40x100 feet, the walls being finished in white paper and the wainscoting in dark green and presents that lofty and cool and inviting appearance that is so refreshing in the summer weather.

Ed Betts knows the ice cream and cold drink business and he will cater to the wants of the trade with many new and fancy drinks and delicious ices. He will be assisted by Howard Harris who is also an expert in this line. The new store will also handle Nunnally's famous candies and confections, cigars and tobacco and a good line of stationery and supplies.

Betts place will make a specialty of Sunday orders for ice cream delivered to any part of the city.

The new store has been made complete by the plumbing and fixtures so essential in this business by the Lee brothers of this city and the lighting, fans and other electrical equipment was installed by the Charles Electric Co., of Sanford. The lights are of the semi-indirect type that cast no shadows and shed a soft refugent glow that make a beautiful light and the Betts place is one of the best lighted establishments in the city. The fixtures are up to date in every respect and lend much to the appearance of this new place.

RAILROADMEN DEMAND END CAPITAL RULE

TRIPARTITE MANAGEMENT IS MOST FAR REACHING PROPOSAL EVER SUGGESTED.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Organized labor is before the nation with a demand that private capital be retired from railroad operation and that there be substituted a tripartite control of railroad properties by the public, operating management and the employees. The demands signed by the engineers, firemen, conductors and laborers of the American Federation of Labor was recognized in Washington today as the most far reaching proposal yet placed before the nation during its reconstruction period.

Officials refused to predict its outcome. It will be formally laid before the house commerce committee by Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Engineers; Frank A. Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor and George Plumb, general chairman for the organized railway employees of America.

The proposal in the words of its authors, marks the step by which organized labor passes from the demands for wage increases to demands that the system of profits in industry be overhauled.

In eliminating the private capital from the railroads, the employees plan not only proposes, but demands that the private owners be reimbursed with government bonds "for every honest dollar they have invested," that the public, the operating management and labor share equally share equally in corporations to take over the railroads and that in all revenues in excess of the guarantee to private capital the operators and employees share one-half and the public receive one-half, either by increasing the means for service without increasing fixed charges or by reducing the cost of service the machinery can render.

SHOP MEN ARE OUT IN FORCE

EVERY RAILROAD IN COUNTY WILL BE TIED UP UNLESS DEMANDS ARE MET.

The strike of the shop men of the Sanford Division of the A. C. L. Ry is now one week old and while it seems that a settlement will be reached soon it is not yet in sight.

The strike is a peaceful one from every standpoint the men all being residents of this city and the majority of their own homes here and have lived here many years and they are only asking that they be paid commensurate with the cost of living in this day of exorbitant prices.

The shop men are of the same frame of mind as the engineers who by their representative in Washington last week told President Wilson that either Congress must reduce the high cost of living or expect to raise the wages of the engineers or expect another strike. It is simply coming to the point in the existence of not only the railroad employees but the people in every walk of life that there must be relief from the present high prices or every industry in the land will be tied up.

The demands of the shop men are set forth in the following circular: Sanford, Fla. Aug. 4, 1919 To all Locals and Members Division 2 & 3 Railway Employees Dept. Greeting:

At our regular meeting today we unanimously adopted the following resolutions, and ask that you do likewise:

Owing to the enormous, and as we think unjustifiable, advance in the price of all necessities of life, we the mechanics and helpers employed by the railroad are unable to maintain our pre-war standard of living, and

In January of this year we made this known to the proper authorities and requested such advances as would enable us to meet these enhanced prices, and retain our pre-war standard of living, and

These requests were referred to the "board of adjustment of railroad wages and working conditions" in February of this year, and

We were advised by our Railroad Trade Union and Government officials to be patient, that our requests were justified, and that advances would be granted and made retroactive from January first, and

Having exercised this patience for seven long months with the prices of necessities still soaring higher and higher, and no answer whatever to our requests by the "adjustment board" and

Owing to our anxiety to do no injustice to the railroads, to the board of adjustment, to the Director General, or to the public, we discussed the whole matter over and over again at our lodge and federation meetings and finally came reluctantly to the conclusion that the only way to obtain anything like a square deal was to cease work, and

Having ceased work after due consideration and with a full knowledge of our duties and responsibilities we find on the one side a proposition is made to refer the matter to Congress; on the other side to take a strike vote,

Therefore

Be it resolved: That we can only recognize in each of these propositions a desire to evade our request and divide our forces, that we are on strike and intend to remain on strike until a settlement satisfactory to ourselves, to our homes and our families and in accordance with the strictest principles of justice is arrived at.

Family Reunion

There was a family reunion at the home of B. W. Smith of Paola on Sunday, Aug. 3rd.

His son George, who had served for nine months in Base Hospital 136 Vannes, France had returned the Sunday before, looking none the worse but rather better for his over seas trip.

His young daughter Mrs. G. O. Stenstrom of Eustis arrived on Wednesday; his eldest, Mrs. O. B. Blackwelder of St. Augustine on Thursday; and on Friday his sister Mrs. Phillips, whom he had not seen for nineteen years arrived with her youngest daughter, Mrs. Norman. So Sunday Mrs. Jno. Purdon and family; Mr. and Mrs. Den Smith and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Pearson and family came. This was the first time that Mr. and Mrs. Smith had had the pleasure of seeing all of their children and grandchildren together since they have become grandparents and their joy was unbounded.

The return of our noble soldier boys causes many happy reunions such as this.

NEGRO'S FOOT IS HOODOO TO THE OFFICIALS

AMPUTATED MEMBER IS BURIED TWICE BUT COMES BACK TO HAUNT SHERIFF'S OFFICE EACH TIME.

Is the foot of James Sweeten a hoodoo?

James is a negro boy who a few days ago accidentally shot himself in the foot at his home near Chuluota and was brought to this city where Dr. Denton found it necessary to amputate the foot since which time he has been in the county hospital in the rear of the county jail.

After the operation Dr. Denton gave the amputated member to a party to bury. As to whether the foot was buried this time or not is unknown but in a few days a man working at the fish house on the lake front rushed to the sheriff's office with a foot that was found floating in the lake. He thought an alligator had swallowed a man and left this foot. Deputy David Speer recognized the foot and again it was buried, this time on the lake shore east of the city and Dr. Denton saw to it himself.

Meantime a dog nosing around disinterred the foot and a man finding it rushed to the Carnes Hotel with it and he just knew that somebody had been murdered and the murderer had disposed of the remains all but the foot.

Again the sheriff's office was notified and Dr. Denton called to identify the foot. By this time Dr. Denton and the sheriff's office were getting somewhat worried about the foot and they told the latest sensationalist to keep the foot as they had enough of it.

The last finder has buried it again and Dr. Denton and the sheriff and his deputies threaten that if the foot appears again they will endeavor to give it back to Sweeten and let him keep it or at least keep it buried for a few months where it will not burden them in their dreams and in their waking hours.

Is this foot a hoodoo or not?

GARAGE FIRE THREATENS CITY BLOCK

LOW WATER PRESSURE MADE FIRE FIGHTING DIFFICULT OWNERS LOSE THEIR CARS GARAGE DESTROYED.

What looked like the destruction of an entire city block started in a fire in the Seminole Garage Monday afternoon about five o'clock. The origin of the fire is unknown as the shop had been closed for the day and there was no one in the garage at the time except Mrs. Williams who is the bookkeeper and was in the front of the building in the office. One of the helpers was out in front of the building waiting on a gasoline customer when something like a muffled explosion sounded followed by a dense smoke and Mrs. Williams immediately sounded the alarm.

Volle Williams her husband who has charge of the machine shop was across the street on business and hurried over but in almost an instant the machine shop and the entire building was in flames and it was impossible to get out any cars or any part of the equipment.

The fire department responded to the call as soon as possible but the water pressure was very poor and the water company did not get any pressure until the fire was almost out. With the inadequate pressure the fire department assisted by citizens did valiant work and saved the theatre building belonging to T. J. Miller & Son on the south side and the J. L. Miller building on the north side of the garage. Confined to the one story garage building between these two higher buildings and no wind to fan the flames the garage finally caved in and the flames were subdued but it looked for a time as though the entire block of buildings including the theatre, the Herald building and the Peoples Bank building would go.

The Seminole Garage building is the property of N. H. Garner and the contents belong to the Seminole Garage being the property of N. H. Garner and J. B. Lawson and the loss is heavy partly covered by insurance.

One of the worst features of the fire was the loss of many cars that were in storage or were being repaired at the time and none of them being insured. Those who suffered the loss of their cars were:

Messrs. Greenman, Chas. Pape & Co., Dressner, Will Zachary, Chief of Police Tillis, Robbins, Benjamin, A. Foster, Dutton and Ray White. Some of these cars were new and the loss falls heavy upon the owners.

Mr. Garner and Mr. Lawson were absent from the city at the time of the fire and the garage was in charge of Volle Williams and Stanley Walker. So many people were at the ball game at the park that there was no chance to get into the garage to recover any of the cars, and the flames gained such rapid headway that it was impossible to get anywhere near the workshop to recover the cars.

It is not known at this time whether Mr. Garner will rebuild or not but as the Seminole was doing a good business it is more than likely that the building will be rebuilt as soon as insurance adjustments can be made.

The fire demonstrated that garages are dangerous risks in the heart of the city and that Sanford needs a better fire pressure and one that should be ready for business any time of the day or night.

Was Not Murder

Neighbors found the body of a negro named Scipio Jones in his home near Longwood last Saturday. On account of blood being discovered near the body it was at first rumored that he had been killed. At the coroner's inquest it developed that he had been subject to hemorrhages and this had caused his death.

Some Sanford People Fail to Realize the Seriousness of a Bad Back. The constant aching of a bad back, the weariness, the tired feeling, the pains and aches of kidney ill, may result seriously if neglected. Dangerous urinary troubles often follow.

A Sanford citizen shows you what to do.

Mrs. W. A. Tills, 1106 Elm Ave., says: "I am just as strong for Doan's Kidney Pills now as when I endorsed them before. I used them some years ago. At that time I had a sore and lame back and found it difficult to bend over. My kidneys didn't act as they should either. I used a box of Doan's and they regulated my kidneys and rid me of the pains in my back. I have great faith in Doan's Kidney Pills."

Scipio Jones an old colored citizen of Longwood was found dead in his home on Sunday afternoon. He was last seen on Friday repairing his roof. It is thought he might have fallen and been able to get into the house but died from the effects of the hurt as no one heard him complain of being ill.
Word has been received from Louis Entzinger that he has arrived in the states and was at Camp Merrill.
Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Morton, Mrs. Maurey and son Gregory Jr. of Orlando and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Dinkel and J. E. Phipps enjoyed a picnic supper and a swim in Hoosier Springs last Saturday.

guests, or in fact, noticed them particularly. His mind also, was usually upon business, or—Lalla.
It was for the girl's sake that he bent his every endeavor toward success. Lalla, beautiful favored daughter of fortune, had promised to wait for him until he should have achieved the financial success which her father considered necessary to their union.
Lalla in her promise had not entirely given up her freedom. It was agreed that she might still attend various festivities to which she was accustomed in the companionship of men of her choosing, while Bob Brereton toiled by the light of the figurative evening lamp.
Little Janet sitting at the opposite side of the boarding house table in her neat gray dress with its white collar, Janet with new weary circles beneath her violet eyes—glanced at the fine absorbed face of the new boarder and wondered wistfully how some women were blessed by finding their ideal.
Janet coming early to the breakfast table one morning missed him. The room seemed unaccountably desolate. For a moment she stood with the mistress of the house alone.
"That Mr. Brereton is sick," Mrs. Hutchins said irritably, "and I'm afraid he's taken with this catching epidemic. If the folks here learn about it I won't have a soul in the house by night. They're all dandy afraid of the disease, an' I can't wait on him, Land knows! He's got an awful fever, wouldn't be surprised to have him go off his head. Seemed too sick to even make plans for himself. Told me impatient like to call up that swell girl of his an' she'd arrange things for him. Then he went off to sleep. Maybe you'd do that for me," Mrs. Hutchins suggested. "I haven't time to call up folk's friends."
So Janet seated herself and gave the Vaughns' telephone number. Her heart beat rapidly as she waited the answering voice of Brereton's sweetheart. It was as though she had mysteriously changed places with him.
"Sick?" came Miss Vaughn's horrified query. "I will send in a call for Dr. Minor at once, and if the doctor says that Mr. Brereton has the 'flu' you will let me know at once, won't you? I shouldn't like to risk exposing myself by going to see him. And then have Dr. Minor call a nurse. Thank you, let me hear from you later." Mrs. Hutchins' worst fears were realized, her boarder was suffering severely from the prevailing malady, while the doctor positively forbade his removal! And it developed that no nurse could be found in the exigency and the doctor who was exceedingly busy hurried away.
Janet crept softly to the stair, a moment she hesitated before the door of the forbidden room, then bravely entered.
"I will take care of Mr. Brereton," she told Mrs. Hutchins. "My room is directly across the hall. We will keep him secluded and I shall carefully obey the doctor's directions."
"Seems it ought to be a nearer woman doing all that for him," Mrs. Hutchins said, dryly.
Little Janet's lips closed in a firm line. She had notified Miss Vaughn of her fiance's latest condition, and the return message had been:
"Doctor Minor will undoubtedly find someone to look after him and please will you tell Mr. Brereton not to attempt to come to our house until it is quite, quite safe, and—I'll send him roses every day."
The roses came. Janet, busy with her fight against death, left them piled in the hall. The doctor had ordered that they were not to be in the patient's room.
"Brereton needed every bit of oxygen that he could get," he said. "It would be a desperate fight if they could pull him through as it was."
"But together they did it—the doctor and his tireless assistant. Patting the girl's shoulder, the doctor assured her that her part in the case was greater than his own. Janet with a trembling sigh turned aside.
"I'll get some sleep now," she said. "Soon I'll have to go back to the office." Weakly but tremulously the sick man called to her.
"Now that I can talk, little angel of light," he said, "I want to talk to you."
But when Janet tried to explain tactfully the refusal of his sweetheart to visit him in his extremity, Brereton put forth a quieting hand.
"Never mind," he said smiling. "There are many things which we learn lying in silence. The true meaning of the word love, perhaps. Lalla has that still to learn."
"I must go now," Janet began hastily. But Brereton's clasping hands restrained her.
"Not until you promise to come back—to me," he said shakily. "You must always come back because—I shall need you always—dear."
Silent in joyous wonder Janet gazed into the face of her ideal.

SANFORD'S NEED
We witnessed a fire in Sanford yesterday, and anyone else viewing the flames could easily see that our sister city was badly in need of an apparatus which could furnish its own water pressure and not depend upon the water works for it.

It is cheaper to prevent than

TWO UNCEASING SUBJECTS
The two ever-present subjects of the Florida press are politics and the "building boom". The former has got to run along for ten months yet, and our readers must be fed daily on this sort of pap.

And as for the building boom: Is there really and truly much of a building boom? Honest now.

You pick up a Miami paper or a St. Petersburg or a Clearwater paper and you get the idea that the din of the saw and hammer would deafen you.

We all know, of course, that those places named are great and growing winter resorts and that, they are compelled to build new hotels and additions to old ones. That, in their own peculiar way are great and invaluable assets for Florida.

But is there a building boom in the State? Orlando, Lakeland, Sanford, DeLand, Palatka, Gainesville, Lake City, Live Oak, Marianna, Pensacola?

How can there be at present at most moderate prices of lumber?

Quit your kidding, Uncle Bob, and take a trip to south Florida where there is something doing every day.
The building boom in any south Florida city and the paved roads would give an Alachua county cracker heart disease.

FLORIDA RANKS SECOND

The agricultural and industrial department of the Seaboard Air Line railway has been doing great work through an advertising campaign to establish housekeepers in the South. The railway administration has favored and fostered the plan for each of the states, and for all the roads. Analysis of the 2,817 replies received by the Seaboard at its Norfolk offices results, in what may be a surprise for many who think they know where real farming lands and opportunities lie.

Through the department at Norfolk inquiries were received concerning every one of the forty eight states. Florida was scored in comparison with all the other states, and first in comparison with the other southern states.

It would be interesting to know where these inquiries came from, by states, and from that analysis could be even more strongly shown ling power Florida has when it has behind in intelligent advertising.

Out of the total inquiries received following the advertising campaigns, Florida received 778, leading the entire south, and ranking second. Virginia is ranked next closest position being twelfth; then came Georgia twenty-third; Alabama twenty-ninth, North Carolina twenty-ninth, and South Carolina forty first.

The only state concerning which more inquiries were received than Florida was California, which had eighty eight more inquiries out of the total of 9,817.—Tampa Tribune.

NO WATER PRESSURE

The fire Monday afternoon demonstrated that the Southern Utilities does not conform with the agreement in the franchise that they have at least eighty pounds of pressure available at all times or a least a pressure sufficient to extinguish a fire. In case the pressure has run down they should be equipped and ready to raise the pressure in a few minutes. This they have not done and are not doing and the finest example of their negligence or inability to carry out their contract with the city is their utter failure to have pressure when the fire started and to utterly fail to have any pressure until the fire was about over and the water was not needed. The Herald has not been disposed to entertain the thought of a large outlay of money on the fire department at this time but unless the Southern Utilities can furnish pressure the city will certainly need to purchase an engine for the purpose of pumping water at a fire such as this city experienced Monday when quick pressure and service is necessary. Since the city is paying for water and the Southern Utilities Co. has a franchise to supply water it seems strange that our city should be endangered by the failure of this company to have sufficient pressure when it is needed.

THE EXPECTED RESULT

Some days ago we called attention to the fact that distributing the government collected food still on hand among the population of the country would give little more than a dollar's worth to each inhabitant.
We also expressed the belief that the cost to the consumer, when he had paid his postage and charges for carriage, would make what he bought but little cheaper, if any, than what he pays at home.

There is another phase of the situation which presents itself a letter from a correspondent. He says as soon as it is discovered that the actual cost to the consumer is equal to or exceeds the local cost at home, there will be a sudden shutting off of demand and calls for the foodstuffs, and the whole balance will be sold at auction, and by wholesale, for something like 25 per cent. of its cost value.

The writer, State Chemist R. E.
Rose, says: "If congress really desires to aid the consumer and reduce prices, let it offer these goods to the public at 50 per cent. of their cost, which will probably be 100 per cent. more than it can receive when it has to sell the goods to wholesalers and speculators."

The state chemist says that he has carefully compared prices, in case lots with transportation charges (parcel post) added, with the prices advertised by Florida retail grocers and fails to see how the public is going to be benefited by the proposed sale through the postmasters at the prices fixed.

Here is something for the Florida congressmen and senators to look into. Florida is several "zones" distant from these great New York and Chicago warehouses, where most of the goods are stored. It will take a high post parcel rate to bring them to Florida, and all this expense is that much added to the first cost which is already too high.

The congress of the United States should, if it has any consideration for the consumer, the class which will benefit by a sale of food cheap should at least make the price so low that it will be worth while to buy through this channel.
If this is not done, the bulk of the goods sold will, we fear, go under one and another guise, to grocers or speculators who will buy for the purpose of making money off the speculation.

The suggestion of the state chemist is that Florida congressmen and senators get busy and make this great bulk of food really available, especially to the use of the poorer class. The suggestion is worth while and we pass it to congress. Tampa Tribune.

THE LESSON OF THE STRIKE

In spite of the delay, the inconvenience and the general discomfort to the public inseparable from a railroad strike, one could feel it in one's inmost heart to be grateful to the striking shopmen of the sixteen roads in the southeastern states and to applaud them for their courage in translating into concrete action the disorganized and helpless protest of the nation at large against the high cost of living. They have adopted a course that will no longer leave congress with the option of ignoring the most pressing question of the hour. They have brought matters to a focus with a vengeance and while we may deplore the inconvenience that their method of making themselves heard may impose upon each of us individually we cannot but regard them as the champions of right and common sense. By their action, they have put it squarely up to congress and the administration to devise some efficient method to lower the cost of living. While they demand higher wages, as the alternative for failure to bring about this end, they have not disguised their sincere opinion that higher wages would afford relief.
The rulers of the nation are confronted with a problem so grave as to appear almost insoluble by legislation. The remedy can be applied effectively only by a concerted action upon the part of a majority of the citizens of this country. What this remedy consists in is clearly indicated by the announcements that the price of corn has dropped thirteen cents in two days as a result of a drive against the prevalent high prices. If the nation ever learned the war-taught lesson of thrift, the time has come to put it into practice. There is no need to fear that the cultivation of habit of strictest economy in our personal expenditure will deal any lasting blow to the interests of either production or of labor. Having once started prices on their downward treble, the demand for all classes of goods will be quickly doubled and trebled. Labor itself has been the first to recognize the soundness of this principle. Self-denial has ceased to be a virtue; it has become a necessity if the dollar is not henceforth to represent only fifty cents or less. Our plan of living must be simplified and scaled down both in quantity and quality. If the price of corn can be driven down thirteen cents in two days, what effect could not be exercised on the price of clothing and of shoes if we resolutely refused to buy new garments, as long as our old ones would decently cover our nakedness, and to purchase no foot-covering made of leather?

This may sound like treasonable doctrine; perhaps, indeed, it savors of a thinly disguised form of bolshevism. But it is sound to the core and it is doubtful if all the wisdom of congress will succeed in deciding a remedy promising more rapid, direct and unflinching results. Out side of the ranks of unionized labor, the consumer is powerless to bring any pressure to bear on the evils of profiteering. He may demand the enactment of suitable legislation, but he will find it hard either to suggest its nature or to prescribe regulations for its enforcement.
Unionized labor up to a certain point apparently has the game in its own hands until it arrives at that impasse whose existence it fully realizes. The nation must organize itself against the profiteer, using thrift as its weapon. If it prove true to itself, a speedy victory is assured.—Palm Beach Post.

REFUGE FROM SUDDEN STORM

Early Constructed Shelter Which Should Have Place on Every Public Picnic Ground.

There is not much pleasure to be had in the woods if no shelter is near when rain threatens at any minute.
Many picnics are broken up by showers which last but a few minutes, simply because there is no way to protect the food or to keep dry until the squall passes over, writes C. L. Meller, Fargo, N. D., in Popular Mechanics Magazine. A shelter, such as illustrated, will take the discomfort out of walks and picnics, and will induce people to tempt the weather more often, since they know that protection is within easy reach.

A dead tree, the trunk of which is still quite sound, makes an excellent shelter for such a shelter. It should be cut off about ten feet from the ground, logs being taken to make the saw-cuts as even as possible. It may be necessary to erect scaffolding to mate this cut properly. After the cut surface is worked smooth, eight rafters are fitted into the top of the trunk.
The rafters are 12 feet long, four of them being two by four inch timber, and four, four by four inches. They are supported at the outer end, by four by four inch posts, driven into the ground and extending eight feet

Picnickers Have Little Fear of Passing Rainstorms When a Substantial Shelter is Near to Protect Clothing and Food.

above it. The four by four inch rafters should be fitted into the log first, the two by four inch being added later.
Upon this framework, which forms an octagonal, umbrella-shaped structure, seven-eighths inch boards are nailed to form the roof. This may be covered with shingles or some roofing material.
For greater comfort, a seat built around the trunk may be added, and other seats may be built near it. The whole structure should be finished in a dark, neutral brown, with just a touch of white trimming. If the roof is stained a moss-green, the color scheme will be in harmony during all seasons of the year, with the prevailing colors throughout the surrounding woods.

Altogether Too Smart.
"Some men," said Uncle Eben, "is so smart dat dey loses interest in plain old-fashioned truth 'cause dar ain't enough novelty to it."

Far Too Short.
I still find each day too short for all the thoughts I want to think, all the walks I want to take, all the books I want to read and all the friends I want to see.—John Burroughs.

"So you and Cora have decided to embark upon the sea of matrimony, Brill?"
"I am happy and fortunate in saying yes."

"Cora is a fine girl," declared Myron Blair. "I'd ought to know, for she is my sister-in-law. She will make you a good wife, only one piece of advice, cut out the mother-in-law."

"I hardly understand you," spoke Wallace.
"Your will when you get farther along in your experience. See here, as relatives prospective by courtesy, I can be plain with you. If one principle was instilled into my nature by prejudice and observation it was the mother-in-law problem. When I married Bella Mayne I made up my mind to run no risks of having a first, my almsome old lady on my hands. Of course I treated Mrs. Mayne with all the respect, firmly, persistently, though, I adopted a policy of proceeding that set up the bars against any mother-in-law invasion. I settled down in a house at the farther end of the village on purpose, so Mrs. Mayne wouldn't find it convenient to run in on us every day. When the two children came along I saw to it that they didn't come under her rule and influence in any way. No, sir! I tell you, Brill, the man who wants a well-ordered household must keep the mother-in-law at a distance. Hello! There's a man I want to see on business. Of the noble speaker darted off.

Wallace was glad. In another moment he would have been unable to control his indignation. To him the mother of his bride expectant was almost a part of herself, and a person for whom he felt a dutiful and respectful consideration. Then, again, Wallace knew something of "the system" of Myron Blair and its results. It had not worked, except for the selfish benefit of shallow, self-opinionated Blair.
As Wallace was well aware it had brought misery and unhappiness to others—victims who made no complaint, but silently experienced their wretchedness because they were of a noble, self-sacrificing nature. When Blair installed the daughter in a home two miles away Mrs. Mayne experienced a loneliness that might have been easily avoided. When Blair jealously restricted the children to only occasional formal visits to their grandmother, it almost broke her heart. The absence of her mother at critical jun-ctures in her life meant suffering and a broken constitution for Bella, and the boastful, insensate Blair fancied that as a model disciplinarian he was a decided success.

Wallace Brill had not known a mother's care from early childhood.
When he began to pay attention to Cora Mayne it seemed as though her mother came to fill a precious place in his life.

Very careful was Mrs. Mayne to refrain from intruding her personality or her views upon this new prospective son-in-law, but she bestowed many a grateful look upon him and her old, wearied heart warmed toward him, as he clearly showed that he not only desired, but cherished her interest and counsel in the problems that confronted Cora and himself on the threshold of their matrimonial venture.

Wallace was doing well in a business way. He had been thrifty and had accumulated sufficient to enable him to start out in life with a home of his own. When he first spoke to Cora of this it was in the presence of her mother.

"Well, I settled about a lot today," he announced in his brisk, pleasant way. "I say, mother, there's one disappointment. I have tried to get as near as possible to the old homestead here, but the only vacant lot that fitted to my money requirements was two squares down the street."

"That—that is not far, is it, Wallace?" spoke the old lady. Her tones were tremulous.
"If you will put on your spectacles, mother," went on Wallace, "we'll all draw up to the table and look over some plans for a new house I got from an architect today. "There," as he settled her in the most comfortable chair and directly at his side, "with such counselors as you precious two,

"I'll warrant we'll have a regular little palace."
With his pencil Wallace went over the plans—parlor, dining room, kitchen, bedrooms, closets, and then he indicated a special apartment.
"I'm throwing myself on that room," emphasized Wallace with a token of rare pride in his tones. "Sunlight on three sides, ventilation perfect, convenient to all the other rooms in the house. What do you think of it, mother?"
"Your den, I suppose?" said Mrs.
Mayne.
"Oh, no," replied Wallace promptly.
"That's your room, mother."
"My room!" faltered the old lady, all a tremble.
"All your own, and no one else's," declared Wallace. "How do you like it?"
Mrs. Mayne fixed her faded eyes upon the speaker with a devotion and gratitude that thrilled him mightily.
Then upon his shoulder sank her silvered head. And then, her arm about him, joining in the grateful sobbing of that dear old soul, Clara Mayne dissolved both in her arms and Wallace Brill felt that life was indeed sweet.

The Yellow Serpent.

Some of the negroes who have returned from France were members of that division whose insignia is the colored yellow serpent. A New York woman who saw three of them standing on the street was curious about the meaning of the emblem and asked the negroes. One of them was a sergeant, the others privates. The sergeant waved the others grandly back to prevent their answering. He had prepared the reply to that question.
"Lady, dey is two meanin's to dis hean emblem," he explained pompously; "de first signification is dat we occupied a dangerous and important post called Snake Hill, and de second sig-nification, lady, is dat we wuz 'plson to de Germans."

Silly Jamie.

The other day Jamie came fumming into the house crying at the top of his voice. He was followed by Jan who explained by saying: "Mother, 'n' 'shamed of Jamie—he's so unbrav'ry 'cause a little dog chased him."

Wanted to "Hunk" It.

Ethel's mother was trying to spray her throat with the atomizer, but met with considerable opposition from the son's veto. "I wouldn't mind it so much," said Ethel, "if you would let me hunk it myself."

"In Union There Is Strength" THE principle applies quite as much to banking as to soldiers or states or governments.
It is most fortunate that the Federal Reserve Banking System has been in operation during the war.
The advantages of this organization accrue to the customers of the member banks who at the same time contribute to the strength of the nation's banking system and enjoy the benefit of its protection.

Freak Tree. We are told that in Kentucky there is a tree bearing each year a crop of walnuts and a crop of mulberries, and the curious phenomenon is accounted for by the supposition that a mulberry seed fell where a walnut lay in the ground, and the young shoots came up side by side and united their forces into one solid trunk. This supposition seems feasible from the fact that the bark of the tree is on one side that of walnut and on the other that of the mulberry.

Sincerity First Requisite. And least of all is sincerity a quality that can be successfully imitated. It twines through the whole emotional fiber; it has its roots in the heart. Sincerity gives wings to power. It is the way an old proverb happily puts it. Go through any list of acknowledged leader of business and professional life. You will find there are few who have not been pre-eminently sincere.—H. Addington Bruce.

Battle of San Jacinto. The battle of San Jacinto was fought April 21, 1836, between 1,000 Mexicans under Santa Anna and 800 Americans under Sam Houston. Santa Anna was defeated and he and 730 of his men were captured, 630 killed and 208 wounded. The Texan loss was 2 killed and 23 wounded. This battle decided the independence of Texas, and the day is observed in the state as a holiday.

To Polish Shoes. The Englishman's shoes, or "boots," are the best looking seen on the feet of any race. The reason for this is that the Englishman puts trees in his shoes, which are polished with the leather thus smoothed out. The softening polish, if applied while the shoe is on the foot, as is usual in America, creases the leather into the shape of the foot and the shoe loses its smooth effect. Trees, which add to the long life of shoes, are inexpensive and should be put in the shoes every night. If you polish your own shoes, try polishing them when on trees. You will be pleased with the result.

ELDER SPRINGS WATER

THOMAS D. BAKER, Ph. D. Analytical and Consulting Chemist. Professional of Natural Science. Emeritus, Rollins College, Florida. Private Laboratory of Rollins College. Winter Park, Fla., Nov. 5th, 1918.

Mr. T. O. Charles, Sanford, Fla. Dear Sir: I have completed careful chemical analysis of the sample of water that you brought me early last week, and have obtained the following results:

Color..... Clear..... Chlorine..... 1.75 parts per million Reaction..... Neutral..... Total solids..... 4.00 parts per million Free Ammonia..... .90 parts per million..... Hardness..... 22.02 parts per million Albuminoid Ammonia..... Trace..... Nitrites..... Trace

The absence practically of free and albuminoid ammonia in this water and its very small amount of chlorine indicates its excellent quality for household purposes. In addition to the good quality characteristics of superior household water, it possesses special features of much value, especially those of excellent natural aeration and LOW degree of hardness.

The bacteriological analysis, resulting in an average total count, in four samples of the water, of 2 bacteria per cent., and in finding no coliform, or other harmful bacteria, fully confirm its good quality indicated by the CHEMICAL analysis.

Of the many waters of this and other regions that I have analyzed, I have found none superior in all good qualities to that of the "Elder Water."

Yours very respectfully, (Signed) THOS. D. BAKER

WAR WORK STATEMENT GIVEN OUT

FIGURES SHOW DISPOSAL OF MILLIONS GIVEN TO Y. M. C. FOR WORK HERE AND OVER THERE.

New York, July 30.—First detailed accounts of the receipts and expenditures of the Young Men's Christian Association, made public here today by the organization's National War Work Council finance committee, show that $125,282,859 was received by it between April 26, 1917, and March 31, 1919. Total expenditures aggregated $97,817,005 in the period named, it is stated, leaving a balance of $27,465,854, a sum estimated to be sufficient to carry on the work here and abroad until next Dec. 31.

According to the figures, which appear over the signatures of George W. Perkins, chairman of the committee; Cleveland H. Dodge, treasurer of the War Work Council, and H. W. Wilmot, comptroller, slightly more than 2 per cent. of the total funds contributed by the American public were expended for religious purposes in the United States and overseas, while approximately 80 per cent. were devoted to the purchase transportation and distribution of canteen, supplies and to entertainments, education and athletic sports.

In addition to the provision of free athletic supplies, which included among other things, in the United States camps alone, 557,096 baseballs and 20,000 sets of boxing gloves, the report says, the Y. M. C. A. distributed $36,832,449 worth of merchandise overseas. Of this merchandise $1,794,771 worth or approximately 5 per cent. were given for the

Of the $97,817,005 expended, it is shown, more than $30,000,000 was spent in the home camps, more than $43,000,000 with the American Expeditionary Force abroad and $14,409, 175 for work with the Allied armies and prisoners of war. The balance went for other expenses. The statement explains that the "Y" suffered a loss of $1,478,084 in the operation of army post-exchanges and canteens which, also, owing to the depreciation in value of French and English currency and conversion of the overseas figures at market rates, resulted in a book loss of $2,432,049.

The report the committee makes clear, is not final because the war service of the Y. M. C. A., which reached its maximum in March of this year, is being continued in the United States and foreign countries. Three war work campaigns for funds, it points out, brought from the American public $12,254,052, and this amount, the report states, was augmented to $125,282,859 by sums from other sources.

Some idea of the magnitude of the work accomplished by the organization is shown by the statement that more than 97,000 concerts, vaudeville performances were staged by the "Y" in American cantonments to an aggregate audience of 48,500,000 at a cost of $1,166,767. In addition, free motion picture shows in the home camps, necessitated an outlay of $2,328,271.

Erection of 950 huts for men in training camps on this side cost $7,698,984 and the outlay for maintenance was $3,965,736. "These buildings," says the report, "were centers of religious, educational, entertainment and athletic activities for all men who passed through the camps on their way overseas or who used the centers through the period covered by the report and are still using them."

Overseas, the statement says, work of even "a vaster scope" was accomplished. The 1,900 or more "Y" huts and tents built or leased for the use of the A. E. F. cost $4,801,271, were equipped at a cost of $2,950,421 and operated and maintained at a further expense of $1,014,337.

Writing materials and newspapers for the overseas men, including 400,000,000 sheets of letter paper, half as many envelopes and 16,000,000 postcards, cost $2,296,808. For motion picture shows, in which 13,000,000 feet of film were used in France alone, and spectators aggregated 50, 000,000 the "Y" paid $1,066,787. More than 34,000 concerts and entertainments increased the expenditure by $850,969.

The cost of the "Y's" overseas religious program was $467,534, or approximately two-fifths of 1 per cent. of the entire operating funds. Educational plants, literature and library work cost $991,932, and the A. E. F. athletics cost $1,957,301. The organization also operated, it is explained, more than 25 "leave areas" in various parts of France, at an expense of $831,601, and a chain of hotels for men on leave at a cost of $477,956.

In the United States it is shown, the organization expended $2,105,816 upon its religious program in the six military departments, which included the holding of meetings and Bible classes, the distribution of literature and the maintenance of religious secretaries and musical directors. Educational literature, together with lectures, instruction in the French language, and library service, was provided at home by an expenditure of $1,192,737 and for sex hygienic education and literature the "Y" spent $73,704.

Home Service Red Cross

The Home Service section of the Red Cross is now occupying a room on the second floor of the court house. Those in charge of the work will be glad to have all the soldiers call at the office, especially those wishing information or help of any kind.

One thing the Red Cross Department of Civillian Relief is doing these days is to see that every crippled soldier or sailor "gets back into the game" just as close to his close to his original self as science can make him—that is the idea of the government. The government provides for the fitting, replacing and jeeping in repair of every artificial limb or appliance required by its crippled fighters, and the Red Cross is helping to see that all who need these things apply to Uncle Sam for them.

The excellence of these artificial adjuncts to the human body is remarkable. Miss Mary Ann Able of the Southern Division headquarters attended a baseball game in Washington recently in which every member of both teams had lost either a leg or an arm and it was a good, close, hard-fought game of ball, too.

Letter From Frank Talbott

Lamar, Ark., July 23, 1919
Sanford Herald,
Sanford, Florida.

Dear Herald Friends:
Well, here I am among the rabbit twisters and Hill billies of Arkansas. Believe me, there is more dust and dirt in this town than all of Florida put together, and the worst of it is that they forget to furnish water to wash it off with.

We are now starting on the peach deal here and would send you some peaches but am afraid that the long haul would leave nothing but an empty basket when it got there.

The more I see of other places the more I think of Florida. Have met several men who spent the winter in Florida and they all seem to be Florida boosters also.

With kindest personal regards and hoping that everything is going along nicely there with you, I beg to remain,

Very truly yours,
F. W. TALBOTT.
P. S. Put me down for one of those dailies when they start, and mail your bill when you get ready.

NORMAL RAINFALL

Stop your kicking about the rain Orlando rainfall for June was 5.19 inches, which the government report shows to have been 2.07 inches below the normal rainfall for June for the past ten years.

Other points in Florida had a total rainfall for the month followed: Crescent City, 9.06 inches; Federa Point, 11.93; Fernandina, 12.19; Jacksonville, 13.79; Brooksville, 10; Jacksonville, 13.79; Brooksville, 10; Ft. Meade, 11.71; St. Leo, 12.16; Ft. Myers, 10.89; Homestead, 12.18.

That's a lot of water for Jacksonville to be compelled to take in addition to having to go "dry" under the prohibition.—Orlando Sentinel

The Fly and the Flea.

A fly and a flea in a fly were imprisoned. Said the fly: "Let us flee," Said the flea: "Let us fly." So they flew through a flaw in the flea.

Daily Thought.

There is no better ballast for keeping the mind steady on its keel and saving it from all risk of creakiness than business.—Lowell.

BUDGET OF OPINION "JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME" EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A Chief Is Among Ye Taking Notes and Faith, "He'll Print 'em"--- So Says Saunterer.

A sunspot forecaster says that owing to a strange grouping of six mighty planets the United States will be swept by the most terrific storm and cataclysm that man has ever known in this decade. I hope it will jerk loose some of those food and clothing profiteers and skoot them into another planet where they will not bother us any more.

When my phone rings faintly and I am undecided as to whether it really did ring or that it was a loose penny in my pocket and I take down the receiver and say in my sweetest manner, "Did this phone ring?" and a sweet voice comes over the phone from Central that says, "Excuse me please." I never know whether I am being kidded or whether the phone rang or whether I am just an ordinary dampfool for the want of sense. Yassum.

I dropped in at the Seminole Grill Room the other night and gave it the once over and believe me it is a sweet place where the palate can be tickled and the soup strained through a man's whiskers ala carte postale. And when I say it is a sweet place I mean just those words and my lady friends will bear me out in the statement that it is sweet and dear and lovely and is better than the best in the big cities. If you have any doubts about this take a look at this fine new cafe and hotel.

One of my friends mysteriously called me over the other day and told me that "likker" was being made and sold "somewhere in this county" and it was up to me and the Anti-Saloon League to stop it. Just how I am going to stop this nefarious and dod ratted and then some practice is not known to my friend especially since there is no Anti-Saloon League as all the Saloons are dead. A "Moonshine League" would be all right or a "Mountain Dew League" or something of that sort. As soon as I can fix upon a suitable title I will get busy on this crusade for it makes me mad to think that any one would presume to drink "likker" now that the United States is dry.

Headline in Arcadia paper says, "Building Road to Venus's" Good, we will all take a ride on that road. Always have wanted to see that girl, Venus.

See that postcards are now out advertising the new hotel Valdez and while we are about it we might as well get all the hotels to have post cards printed and we will send them out with our letters. We have more than one good hotel now and are building more of them. Give the news to the world that Sanford can accommodate them this year.

People cannot go to Europe this year and they are turning toward Florida and this is the time that we should be advertising our county. Without advertising you cannot get the people and the Board of Trade could do nothing better than starting a campaign soon for memberships and then go in for advertising Sanford and Seminole county as never before. This will be our harvest season if we get ready for the harvest now.

Chicago wants to know if the southern states will take the negroes back that came from the south when the war started and were given work at higher wages. Now that they are having trouble up there and do not know how to handle it they want the south to take the negroes back. The governor of North Carolina said they would be taken back if they wanted work and not social equality.

Man asked me yesterday what I thought about the strike and I said "What strike" and he said the railroad strike. There are so many strikes just now that I cannot keep up with them but I want to say that I favor them all and intend to strike myself if the price of food does not come down pretty soon. And I believe in every man in the United States striking and tying up the whole darned show all at once and having it over with. I never did favor a little strike here and there. Why shouldn't we all strike and tell congress just like the engineers did a few days ago that either the price of food and clothing drops or we quit. I am not an anarchist but I could become one easy enough these days. What do you think about we people who are not backed by an organization and are making the same money that we made four or five years ago with no prospect of better wages and starvation-staring us in the face. Strike, yes, indeed. We need the money more than any man in the world. Look at the clerks, the professional men, the army of middle class people who are not making a living and cannot under the present rate of living. You bet we favor strikes. In fact we favor the present congress doing something at once or kicking the present congress out of office and starting a new deal altogether and this country will see something in the next few months if congress does not get busy at once. You bet I favor striking. In fact I favor stopping everything until something is done to reduce the high cost of living.

Can Go To Europe Now

Washington, July 30.—Restrictions on the issuance of passports to persons wishing to visit European countries, with the exception of Germany and Russia, are to be relaxed, Secretary Lansing announced today. Hereafter no one will be required to show urgent reasons for his visit, nor will age be taken into consideration. The only requirement will be that the object of the visit is legitimate and reasonable.

Seminole County Rice

J. Tilden Jacobs of Chuluota brought to Sanford one of the finest specimens of rice that has been seen in this section.

This rice which is being raised by Mr. Jacobs on his farm is fully five feet in height and from the sample brought to Sanford the indications are that it will produce a very fine crop.

While rice has never been cultivated extensively in this section it is very evident that this is one crop that will some day be a very important crop in our agricultural products.

UP TO RETAIL DEALER

Washington, Aug. 7.—F. E. White vice-president of Armour & Co., meat packers, appearing before a senate committee investigating the high cost of living in the District of Columbia, denied that his was profiteering or using unfair methods in the distribution and sale of meat. He declared the company had made no profit on its beef business this year and that it would welcome an investigation of its books and records.

He told the committee that the consumer was to blame in a part for the present high cost of living. Asked why it was that although wholesale meat prices were lower, retail prices were higher, the witness said the retailers advanced his prices with each advancing market and held the prices up just as long as his customers permitted him to do so. He suggested the imposition of an excess profits tax against profiteers as a means of stopping the practice.

Mr. White told the committee that letters received by Armour and Co., indicated that the producers were opposing to Federal regulations of the packing industry.

The Right View and the Wrong. "The man who makes good doesn't wait for opportunity to knock; he has the door wide open," says an exchange. That's the right spirit. The other day we heard a chap complaining because old Opp didn't step his toe in the door like a book agent.—Boston Transcript.

"On the job"

Certain-teed forms a complete, seamless surface that sheds rain, snow and sleet year after year with almost no attention. It is always "on the job."

The most severe weather makes no impression on Certain-teed—nor can sparks, fumes, gas, smoke or insects impair its protective strength.

Yet Certain-teed costs no more—less in fact than other types of roofs. It is easily and quickly laid by anyone who will follow the simple directions that come with the roll. Upkeep expense is too slight to consider.

Your buildings, old or new—large or small—in city or country—should have the protection of Certain-teed.

Certain-teed is made in rolls, both smooth and rough surfaced, (red or green) also in handsome red or green, asphalt shingles for residences. Certain-teed is extra quality—the name means certainty of quality and satisfaction guaranteed. It will pay you to get Certain-teed—most dealers sell it. Ask for Certain-teed and be sure to get it.
