William H. Clark, commissary steward second class, was retired from the Navy at a brief ceremony held by Reconnaissance Attack Squadron 7 on board the Naval Air Station, Sanford.

W. H. CLARK

Clark, who completed 20 years of honorable service, has been awarded the Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal, National Defense Service Medal, Navy Occupation Service Medal, World War II Victory Medal, four Good Conduct Medals and the American Campaign Medal. He first enlisted in November 1943 and has served aboard the USS Miller, LST 344 and the USS Randolph.

State Service Aide To Visit

Howard H. Harrison, Seminole County service officer, reports C. R. Prince, assistant state service officer, will visit this county Jan. 21 to confer with area veterans.

He will discuss technical questions and problems with veterans and their survivors or dependents concerning Veterans Administration benefits such as hospitalization, education and training, insurance, disabilities, widows and dependent parents benefits, GI housing loans.

Prince represents the headquarters office in the Florida Department of Veterans Affairs at Pass-a-Grille and his services are offered free of charge.

Record Income

CALICO (777) The Suez Canal Authority announced a record income of $779,100,000 for 1964 compared to $493,900,000 for 1963 and $241,176,000 for 1962. The last year before the canal was nationalized by Egypt.

GI Insurance Holders Get Modified Plan

A new plan of permanent GI insurance—called "modified life"—is being made available to all holders of National Service Life Insurance through the new law which reopens NSLI for disabled veterans of World War II and the Korean Conflict.

The VA plans to notify all term policyholders at the time of renewal of the opportunity to obtain "modified life" policies.

Any type of National Service Life Insurance, including policies already issued, may be exchanged for or converted to this new plan which will be issued at lower premium rates than the present permanent plans.

The "modified life" plan provides a level premium throughout the life of the insured. However, the face value will be reduced automatically 50 percent when the insured veteran reaches the age of 65. At that time the policyholder will have the option of restoring the full amount of coverage by purchasing ordinary life insurance without a medical examination.

This "modified plan" is offered as an inducement to NSLI term policyholders to convert to a lifetime-level premium plan before the premiums on renewable term insurance become prohibitive as the policyholders grow older.

There are still some three million NSLI term policyholders who have not converted to a permanent plan.

Nuclear Sub, Freighter Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nuclear submarine Ethan Allen collided with a Norwegian freighter in the Mediterranean Sunday, but damage to both vessels was negligible and no one was injured.

The Navy, in reporting the accident, pointed out the freighter was the S.S. Octavia, 10,000 tons, and was en route to Los Angeles after exchanging identification.

The collision happened off the coast of Spain, according to a Navy spokesman in Washington.

Cut Your Own Taxes - 6

By Ray De Crane
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PROBLEM: Your daughter, whose total support you furnished all year long marries on New Year's Eve. Can you claim her as a $600 dependency credit on your tax return?

Answer: Pop, you may be stuck. Since your daughter and her husband were married on the last day of the year they are treated by the tax collector as if they had been married all year long. This means she may file a joint return with her new husband or be listed as an exemption on his return. Should the newly married couple file in either of these two ways you may NOT list her as a dependent on your return.

The remedy: Make a deal with your son-in-law. It's perfectly legal. Assuming that your income is higher than your son-in-law's and therefore your tax rate higher, suggest that he file as if he were unmarried. In that way you can list your daughter as your dependent. Your savings on this $600 credit will vary from $95 to $402, depending on whether you are in the 16 per cent or 22 per cent tax bracket. Offer to share your savings with him.

Two other questions concerning dependency occur almost as frequently. This is the first: "My son graduated from college last June. I paid all his expenses until graduation—tuition, clothes, housing, medical and dental care, spending money. After graduation he started to work and earned $1,500 through the end of the year. Can I claim him as a dependent? Can I at least get credit for that first six months?"

Answer: You either get full credit or none at all. There is no such thing as getting a dependency credit for part of the year. Since your child qualified as a student by having attended college full time for at least five months of the year he may claim more than $600 and you may still claim him as a dependent. PROVIDE you furnished the chief support.

Lets Off Steam

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Francisco "Toni" Rodriguez was stabbed three times by his wife Julia when he tried to surprise her by letting steam out of her new pressure cooker while she was leaning over it. The wounds were not serious.

Now how do you determine just who furnished the chief support? This is the time for work with a pencil and paper. Put a line through the middle of your sheet of paper running from top to bottom. On one side enter the expense of your contributions to his support. On the other side enter his $1,500 plus any other earnings he may have had for the year.

Your contributions will have to exceed his before he can be claimed. Start with the cost of his tuition, if any, then add room and board for the six months, clothing purchases, spending money & transportation expenses, medical care and any other items of expense in his behalf.

If your total is greater than his, you claim him on your return. If they are not you are out of luck.

The other frequently asked dependency question goes like this: "My mother lives in my house. She has no income other than her Social Security checks which amounted to $720 last year. She paid me no board. May I claim her as a dependent?"

Answer: Ordinarily anyone who has more than $600 gross income may not be listed as a dependent. (The exceptions are students and your children under 19.) It is true that Social Security is not considered a part of gross income but it is still spendable income. Therefore the question revolves around who furnished chief support. Proceed as in the problem above and record the cost of support contributed by each. If your total is greater than your mother's $720 you may claim her as a dependent.

Question: How is the tax situation affected by a birth or death during the year?

Answer: A child born any time during the year—even on Dec. 31—entitles the supporting parents to a full year's $600 dependency credit. In the case of death the controlling factor is the status at the time of death. If the deceased person was a qualified dependent of the taxpayer until his death, the taxpayer may claim a full year's credit similarly if a husband or wife dies during the year the surviving spouse may file a joint return and, claim a full year's exemption credit for the deceased partner.

One final hint: A wife is never considered a dependent for income tax purposes even though she may have had no income. As a spouse, she qualifies the taxpayer to the same $600 credit but in many other ways a spouse is given different tax treatment than a dependent.

For example, a dependent need not file a return until his gross income is $600 or more. A spouse will pay an income tax on her first dollar of income, whether it be on her own separate return or included with her husband's income on a joint return.

Mercury,

year's most successful car, awarded year's top honor

Receives Car Life's Annual Award for Engineering Excellence. The car you see on this page is the proud recipient of the hardest won award in the automobile business.

In selecting Mercury for 1965, Car Life Magazine stated, "Mercury shows a quality of concept, design and engineering far above the ordinary."

Wide press acclaim. The New York Times called Mercury "the surprise hit of 1965 in the medium-price field." Automotive News says it's "probably the most changed car in years." Life Magazine, the Miami News, the Pittsburgh Post Gazette have echoed these sentiments.

But what counts most, really, is customers—people who come in and say, "I like"—and then buy. Right now, the 1965 Mercury is getting its greatest customer acceptance ever.

Production up 83%. To assure meeting the increased demand, production schedules for Mercury have been increased 83%.

Credit, of course, goes to the car itself. A new kind of Mercury—built in the Lincoln Continental tradition. Beautifully proportioned, and with luxury features and options once reserved only for the most expensive cars. No medium-price car has ever come so close in luxury to the high-price class.

Come see what all the talk is about. Drive the new Mercury—today.

Sanfordites listening to weather forecasts Monday lusted up for a chilling night last night only to awaken to another day starting with the mercury in the 50s. That's the kind of a mistake localites enjoy.

John Alexander conducted his first meeting as chairman of the County Commission this morning and did a commendable job. Looks like another good ahead year for Seminole County.

Highlights Of LBJ's Message On Education

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Highlights of President Johnson's education message to Congress:

The Goals
"I propose that we declare a national goal of full educational opportunity. Every child must be encouraged to get as much education as he has the ability to take.

"Nothing matters more to the future of our country; not our military preparedness—for armed might is worthless if we lack the brain power to build a world of peace; not our productive economy—for we cannot sustain growth without trained manpower; not our democratic system of government—for freedom is fragile if citizens are ignorant.

"... I urge we now push ahead with the number one business of the American people—the education of our youth in pre-schools, elementary and secondary schools and in the colleges and universities."

The Cost
"Our program must match the magnitude of these tasks. The budget on education which I request for fiscal year 1966 will contain a total $4.1 billion. I will submit a request for $1.3 billion... to finance the programs described in this message.

"This expenditure is a small price to pay for developing our nation's most priceless resource."

Pre-School
"Education must begin with the very young. The child from the urban or rural slum frequently misses his chance even before he begins school... We must expand our pre-school program in order to reach disadvantaged children early."

Elementary and Secondary Schools
"I recommend... a major program of assistance to public elementary and secondary schools serving children of low income families. My budget... will request $1 billion for this program.

"The burden of the nation's schools is not evenly distributed. Low income families are heavily concentrated in particular urban neighborhoods or rural areas... this is a national problem. Federal action is needed."

Electricity Rate Cuts Ordered In 4 Florida Cities

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Public Utilities Commission ordered electricity rate reduction for customers in four big Florida cities Monday, and Tuesday considered cutting telephone bills throughout the state.

The commission ordered electric power companies in Tampa, Miami, St. Petersburg and Pensacola to pass on to customers $7.6 million in savings slated for them this year from lower federal income taxes.

The corporate tax cut for 1963 will amount to two per cent for the firms — from 50 to 48 per cent — and is similar to a two per cent cut in 1964 from 52 to 50 per cent.

Monday's ruling did not include the 1964 cut for electric companies or the two-year cut for 22 telephone companies and 47 other utilities operating in Florida.

The commission said it would study further cuts based on the federal tax savings.

Slated Tonight Last Burns Fete

PENSACOLA (UPI) — The last of Gov. Haydon Burns' six glittering Inaugural Balls around the state was set here tonight before the state's new First Family returns to Tallahassee to set up residence.

The fifth ball was held in Miami Saturday night and hundreds of guests and state officials attended. Proceeds from the dances have been sunk into a Haydon Burns' college scholarship fund in Florida.

The Governor has been dancing and working—mostly working for the past six days since he took over from Gov. Farris Bryant last Tuesday. He has sent off hundreds of letters and work was continually piled up in his little office in a chartered DCC which has flown his entourage from hall to hall.

The new Governor announced that Fort Lauderdale road builder William E. Dempsey as his director of interstate highways.

Control Tightened On Patronage Jobs

Secretary of State Tom Adams announced he has taken steps that will prevent future governors from exercising more control than intended over some of their patronage and other appointments.

Adams said that in the past, only fragmentary public records have been maintained in the secretary of state's office with regard to terms of offices of gubernatorial appointments, particularly those subject to Senate confirmation.

Because of the sketchy records, he said, governors have been able to circumvent the intent of the law on appointments.

For example, he said, one recent governor sent to the State Road Board and one of them was not confirmed. No announcement was made, but records were kept and when the Senate adjourned, he said, the governor simply reappointed the board member.

"I do not believe this was the intent of the law," Adams said.

There have been cases, he added, when governors did not send to the Senate the names

Medicare Described As Not A 'Bonanza'

By Dotie Austin — Passage of the administration's Medicare bill to provide health care for all persons over 65, as requested of the Congress by President Lyndon B. Johnson, is "a definite step toward socialized medicine," Dr. Charles Park, Sanford physician, told the Rotary Club Monday.

Under the proposed bill, care is limited to those over 65 and physicians would receive no compensation for their services.

"All that is required to make this socialized medicine is to remove the age limit and include the doctor's bills," said Dr. Park.

"Once we start down this road, we will never be able to turn back," he declared. "It is not the bonanza that it is represented to be and the tax base is unfair," Dr. Park charged.

"There is no provision for drugs, which some people with chronic diseases require constantly, none for private duty nurses and the nursing home convalescent care contains a clause that only nursing homes affiliated with hospitals can qualify. Less than one per cent of nursing homes in this country are affiliated with any hospital," he noted.

Dr. Park also scored the clause in the bill which makes discharge of a patient subject to a review of lay persons, instead of leaving this matter

Southern Split 'Evidence' Of No Sectionalism

By Cliff Sessions
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Southern sidights: Southerners did not vote as a bloc in the House Republican leadership race, though most supported winner Gerald R. Ford. The Southerners proudly cited their split as evidence that there is no sectionalism in the GOP.

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.), who is expected to be a chief Republican target in the 1966 elections, plans to hold a televised news conference soon to announce his intention to run again. His probable opponent, Rep. James Martin, gives a stock answer when asked about 1966: "Right now I am interested only in being a good congressman."

Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.), having moved up to 33rd in Senate seniority, has taken over a choice suite of offices vacated by Hubert H. Humphrey last month.

Some congressmen who want a proposed environmental health center in their state plan to oppose congressional approval of the Public Health Service decision to build it in North Carolina. But lawmakers from North Carolina are confident that the decision will be upheld. They say that the long fight for the coveted center ended with last week's announcement.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.) was once a law student of Rep. Claude Pepper (D-Fla.) at the University of Arkansas. Ex-Professor Pepper remembers Fulbright as a "good student, an athlete—a big man on the campus."

Other Southern senators are peeved over Strom Thurmond's bolt to the GOP but still consider him a member of the Dixie strategy group. He was invited, as usual, to the Southern bloc's first meeting of the year to help make plans for changes. Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.), who had much support from Northern liberals in his winning race for Democratic whip, also attended the meeting and sided with fellow Southerners in the rules fight.

Some Southerners laugh off the attempt to oust Mississippi's entire House delegation as a mere publicity stunt, but the Mississippians are not taking the contest lightly. This is indicated by their numerous meetings with lawyers in recent days.

Rep. Charles E. Bennett (D-Fla.), and Gov. Ralph Palmonsky of the Virgin Islands had lunch together last week and discussed various problems facing the islands. Bennett said his bill to make the islands a Florida county was not discussed, but he conceded that the island territory "might wish to retain more identity than it would have as a county in Florida," 1,100 miles away.

The ire of liberal Democrats was stirred more by Rep. Albert Watson of South Carolina than by Rep. John Bell Williams of Mississippi, the two men who paid with their party seniority for supporting Barry M. Goldwater.

Unlike Williams, the South Carolinian campaigned for Goldwater side-by-side with Republican congressmen. Southern accents were common last week at a Capitol Hill reception for new Republican congressmen. Of the 17 who showed up, nine were from below the Mason-Dixon Line.

Robin Shivers 'Way Up North'

TOMAH, Wis. (UPI) — Psychologists at Tomah Veterans Hospital have failed to convince a cold, hungry robin in a bush outside their window that its time to fly South. The bird has been shivering in a bush outside the psychology department window for more than a month, living on a few berries and spurning goodies ranging from suet balls to baby cereal.

General Cinema Earnings Up 50%

BOSTON (SpI) — Preliminary figures for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1964, indicate that General Cinema Corporation produced net earnings of approximately $1,355,000, equal to $1.34 a share, for an increase of 50 per cent over the $902,875 or 89 cents a share in the year previous. Included was $90,000 in non-recurring profit.

In a progress report, Richard A. Smith, president, told shareholders that the company had also attained record sales of approximately $20,500,000, a 12 per cent increase over the $18,637,297 in sales in 1964.

"All of our operating divisions shared in the sales increase," Smith said, "and all but the bowling division showed improved earnings. The shopping center and drive-in theater divisions accounted for the largest portion of these increases."

"During the year 12 new shopping center theaters were opened and two drive-ins were acquired. We expect to open 18 to 25 new shopping center theaters this year," he added. "14 of which are now under construction."

Reviewing Box For Inaugural Costs $431,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House: To Washingtonians and tourists, the construction of inaugural parade grandstands and a presidential reviewing box outside the Executive Mansion is a traffic-snarling mess.

To the contractor and the workmen on the $431,000 project—financed through sales of seat tickets—the activities mean take-home pay and something to do until the conglomeration is torn down after the Jan. 20 inauguration.

And to posterity, this year's construction chores provide new entries in the capital's already-crowded field of statistics.

The figures have been published by "The Carpenter," official organ of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America (AFL-CIO).

Describing President Johnson's own reviewing stand as "the most ornate yet built for an inauguration," the union magazine says: "It will provide the President, his personal friends, and various dignitaries with a high vantage point, and protect them from the weather. A forest of 36 delicately-finned columns, 27½ feet tall, support a four-foot thick flat canopy. Plastic-covered skylights at the top of each column admit diffused light, which will bathe the columns and help illuminate the President and his guests. The whole pavilion will have a graceful, airy look, much different from those in earlier years."

"The Carpenter" offers these other statistics: "About half a million board feet of lumber and 20 tons of bolts will be used for the White House area stands. Another 100,000 board feet or so was to go into special press platforms located at other strategic points along the parade route."

At the Capitol, facing the specially-constructed platform where Johnson and Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey will be sworn in, will be stands for 10,000 spectators and press facilities "which required about 100,000 board feet of yellow southern pine, and cost $184,000."

Flanking the presidential box on the White House side of Pennsylvania Avenue, and across the street, will be bleacher seats for 15,000 people.

"Over their heads, in the center section, will be another massive press box . . . extra strong posts were needed to support the press box. To carry the extra weight, 32-foot 8 by 8s were used."

About Sports

Thinking Out Loud

BY JULIAN STENSTROM

By Julian Stenstrom
Not long ago an all star football team was named with the tag—all mid state.

An anonymous phone caller to The Herald wondered why no mention of it had been made in this newspaper, particularly since several youngsters at Seminole High in Sanford had been named.

Of course, the answer is that the all-mid state team was picked by the sports writers on the newspaper that published the selections and no one from The Herald was invited to participate.

In other words, The Herald would not expect other newspapers to publish our selection of an all-mid state team.

This might give rise to the question as to why The Herald doesn't pick an all-mid state team.

If it does, there are several answers.

First, of all, there's no way for Herald writers to cover enough games to see the teams play and come up with what might be a respectable all-mid state selection.

Second, the truth of the matter is that the newspaper that did pick the mid state team didn't see all the players and teams either.

Frankly, this business of picking all-star teams of high school players is just so much bunk because it's impossible to make fair selections.

Why is that?

Simple! You don't see all the boys play therefore you can't pick the best. And, if you're not in a position to pick the best why pick 'em at all.

Let's look at an example.

The winner of the Metro Conference football title last season had a tackle. One newspaper in this area started telling the public what a terrific boy this fellow was before the season got underway.

We saw the tackle play just one time. In that one ball game he didn't show us a thing—that is, anything favorable. He was sacked so many times during the first half of the game he played against Seminole that we thought it was doubtful if he could get back in the park for the final ball.

During halftime his club left the field and part of the club stretched out on the grass in a corner of the stadium. A few seconds later the coach arrived and announced that another secluded spot would be occupied for the halftime break.

The players who had hit the turf got up and started for the new spot. But not this tackle. He couldn't move. In fact—and this is the gospel truth—three other guys had to hoist him to his feet and drag him to the appointed area.

But this boy made all-everything. Maybe he was good. Frankly, we don't know. He didn't show us too much that night. In fact, Seminole won.

the ball game and the Sanford school was the only club to down the Metro champs during the season.

Let's look at another example. A few weeks ago we were sent forms upon which we could nominate youngsters for berths on the all state team.

We filled in our blanks and returned them to the office of somebody in Gainesville. Subsequently we received a ballot. Also, we got the names of all the kids who were nominated. There were 43 ends listed. Of the 43 we'd seen only one of them play. He, in our opinion, was not all state material. So, if we'd picked two ends, we'd have been forced to pick two boys we never saw play.

The same procedure would have been true for every other position on the team.

We're not against all star selections.

But we do believe that if we are to have all star teams there must be a better way to select them.

Let's look at something else. During the 1963 grid season we'll have to agree that the late Buddy Lawson was one of the best pass receivers in the business. Yet, Buddy—despite all the honors he won—did not grab a berth on the all state team, nor all southern. Yet, wouldn't you like to have seen the kid who could receive passes better than Lawson in high school ranks?

We would.

All star selections are fine, but to us they won't mean much until some way can be devised to give the right honors to the right boys. As it is now, nobody knows for sure.

A few years ago Seminole had a boy named Willie Anderson. Anderson made all conference, all region, all state and all southern.

You know why?

We got the Seminole County JayCees to foot the bill for photos and mats and we sent pictures of Anderson along with stories of his feats in every newspaper in Florida plus some of the larger papers in the South.

Result, Anderson made everybody's all-everything. Yet, for all we know, there could have been boys in Florida better than Anderson that particular season.

No matter how you slice the all-star bologna, it's still just that!

Lyman Out To Win Tonight

By Jim Bachus
After a heartbreaking defeat during the last two seconds last Saturday night, Coach Dick Copeland's Greyhounds from Lyman are out for a victory tonight against Leesburg.

The Hound cagers are anxious to make up for their loss at the hands of Ocoee High School with an Orange Belt Conference triumph tonight.

Coach Copeland was understandably disappointed about the Ocoee contest (which Lyman lost 82-48), but he had only praise for the efforts of his team.

"The boys played a fine game against a good ball club," he said. "Both our offensive and defensive strategy held up well under fire due to the fine effort which the boys made. We're improving all the time.

"The Leesburg team is much the same as Ocoee. They have a good season record and will be tough to beat. But I believe we can take them with

Israeli Bridegroom Skips Honeymoon

NEW YORK (NEA)—In Israel, the women are just beginning to learn about "golf widows" and their seasonal sisters.

Take the case of Israel's "Mr. Basketball," Yehuda Berenzweig.

Just a few months ago he was married and immediately after (not even time for a honeymoon), he left for the United States on a special tour to study U.S. coaching tactics and methods.

"I had to come then," Berenzweig said, shrugging his shoulders and exhibiting a "what can you do" expression. "It had been arranged in advance."

Berenzweig is a friendly, outgoing person who came here thanks to the United States Committee, Sports for Israel.

He was chosen over all the other basketball coaches in Israel because he had the highest marks in special testing given during a tour by George Davidson, the Lafayette coach, who was in Israel during the summer for the State Department.

Since coming to the United States, Berenzweig has spent a month with Davidson at Lafayette and a month in Philadelphia with Temple's coach Harry Litwack.

"Basketball like you have here," he said, gazing around Madison Square Garden, "is a dream to me.

"We are just putting basketball in the schools in Israel. We have a lot of club games and we practice three times a week—in the evening.

"Over these the average height is 6-1, 6-2, not 6-8, 6-9 like the players here.

"Most of our courts are outdoors because we have summer weather for nine months. So when we decide on our style of play we always have to take the wind factor into consideration.

"We have nothing like this. Our largest courts have about 3,000 or 3,500 seating capacity."

And how about players like Bill Bradley and Garry Russell?

"If you can find a way to pack them up and ship them Israel, I'd be grateful," he said. "I would even pay you—in Israeli money, though."

Great new taste: pipe tobacco in a filter cigarette!

Asher has been the most consistent scorer thus far in the season, netting 119 markers in seven contests for an average of 17 points per game. During the last three games, he has scored 60 points and has been high scorer in all three contests.

Sterling and Long also have been hitting consistently of late. Sterling has tallied 80 points in seven games for an average of 11.4 per tilt and Long has chalked up 36 markers in the three games he has played since joining the club.

Winkleman and Matia also have come up with several important baskets thus far, but more important has been the sterling play of the two seniors under the boards. Their rebounding has helped make the difference in each of Lyman's three triumphs.

Copeland is hoping that his boys will maintain their perfect conference record of three wins and no losses tonight against the Yellow Jackets in Leesburg. If they prevail tonight, the Greyhounds will have to be considered as serious contenders for the OBC crown.

You get pleasing aroma—and a great new taste! The secret? This filter cigarette is packed with America's best-tasting pipe tobacco—famous Half and Half! Smoke new Half and Half Filter Cigarettes.

Miss Marie Pemberton, R. J. Cushing United At Impressive Church Rites

Miss Marie E. Pemberton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving John Leary of Boston, and Robert James Cushing, son of

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT JAMES CUSHING

Mrs. and Mrs. J. Howard Cushing of this city, were united in holy matrimony on Dec. 26, 1964, at 4 p.m. at the Grace Methodist Church.

Rev. John H. Hires Jr. performed the impressive double ring ceremony before the altar embanked with potted palms and accented with pedestal-baskets of white glads and chrysanthemums.

The traditional nuptial music was presented by Roger Harris.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride was lovely in a formal gown of candlelight satin with a scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves. The entire front of the gown was appliqued with Viennese lace with controlled fullness in the skirt front. The chapel train was attached to the back waistline with a large bow. Her candlelight veil of imported illusion was attached to an open crown pillbox of satin edged with velvet and orange blossoms and she carried a cascade bridal bouquet of French roses.

Mrs. C. C. Pemberton attended her sister-in-law as matron of honor and was gowned in a burnt orange and gold full length silk brocade sheath with a detachable overskirt and her peau de soie shoes and gloves were champagne beige. Her headpiece was an open crown and she carried a cascade of Talianman roses.

C. C. Pemberton, brother of the bride, served the groom as best man and ushers were John McDonald and L. A. Tucker.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Leary chose a turquoise silk sheath with matching jacket and accessories and her corsage was of white roses.

Saris Of The East Journey Westward To Famous Women

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Six yards of silk is all the Indian woman needs to dress herself elegantly. But those six yards could create a crisis in the family budget.

A sari—a 72 by 40-inch piece of handspun silks—can cost from $10.50 to $1,050. The most expensive types are the Benaras brocades, with designs in gold of cheetahs charging the black buck, or sunsets over the holy rivers.

The Kashmir saris are known as the ring tested saris. You can pull a six-yard-long sari through a wedding ring. They are as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth.

They are very expensive and besides nobody likes embroidered motifs these days.

A leading sari merchant in downtown New Delhi said.

During a recent fashion show in New Delhi the sponsors said they were exporting large shipments of saris regularly to foreign countries including the United States and Britain.

One model reeled off the names of Barbara Eisenhower, Jacqueline Kennedy and Rita Hayworth who have either bought saris for wearing or for dress material.

Rashmi Mathur, 21, a leading sari model of Delhi, said there are more than 75 ways of wearing a sari. But in a kaleidoscopic country like India—179 languages, 544 dialects, 300 castes and sub-castes—fashions vary from town to town.

The one in vogue throughout Northern India, is known as the North Indian style. This type is draped loosely around the body—with a portion of midday's midriff showing. About a yard and a half, hanging behind, almost touches the ground.

Orthodox Hindu women are supposed to cover their hair with the pallio, the loose end of the sari, but the modern Indian woman prefers an uncovered head.

No Hindu widow in India may wear a colored or brocaded sari. It must be black.

Most of the middle-income groups go for the dhoti, which is made of coarse cotton cloth.

With the current index of living rising steadily, the average Indian woman cannot afford to buy a silk sari in her own country.

"Until independence, our best customers were the rich maharajahs," a sari dealer said. "Now, our best customers are the American tourists."

One American recently ordered a shipment of saris from India—for curtains!

NO ROOM for the calendar this week, girls — you'll have to check the copy and make your own notations.

Dear Abby:

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl of 14. My father died before I was born. About six years ago my mother took in a man who was looking for a room to rent, only we didn't have an extra room so she let him sleep in her room. All my friends know about it because they keep asking me who the man is and, when I say he rents a room from us, they ask how many bedrooms we have.

My biggest problem is that he is always trying to get me alone and touch me. My mother works from 3 P.M. until midnight and I walk the streets so I won't have to stay alone in the house with him. I know I shouldn't be walking the streets alone at night, but I don't want to hurt my mother's feelings by telling her why I'm afraid to stay at home. What should I do?

My husband died two years ago and recently I started dating. But I felt guilty every time I went out with another man. It was as though I were betraying my husband with another man. After reading that piece in your column, I put my wedding ring in the drawer and placed my lovely diamond engagement ring on my right hand. I broke into tears, but I realized for the first time that I am no longer a married woman, and should not feel guilty. Thank you, Abby.

I disagree with you, Abby. I think a woman who has lost her husband and who has children should wear her wedding ring at all times. My father died four years ago. (I was 12) and a year later my mother took off her rings. When I saw her bare fingers I asked her please to put her rings back on and to keep them on. I pointed out that although she no longer had a husband, she had a son, and I didn't want people to think I was illegitimate. I would appreciate seeing a retraction in your column.

A WIDOW'S SON DEAR SON: No reasonable person would assume that because a woman wears no wedding ring, her children are illegitimate. Nor would I worry about the oddball who might think so.

DEAR ABBY: Just read your reply to the young woman with braces on her teeth who is getting married, and wanted to know if you thought she should have her dentist take her braces off for the wedding. (Her dentist said he would do it, but he would have to put them back on again immediately afterwards.)

I completely disagree with you. I wore braces for years and it is sheer misery to have them taken off, and even worse to have them put back on again. She will probably have a sore mouth for her wedding, unless her braces are removed several weeks before the event. Then there is always the chance of having her teeth go crooked again and she will only have to wear braces longer.

Jacoby On Bridge

If you spend some time watching a really good player in action, you will probably notice that he seems to have fewer problems than someone less skilful. This is not fact. Chances are that he has many more problems, but that he sees them coming and works out the solution well in advance of the moment of decision.

where along the way. Sure enough, South cashed four diamonds and three hearts. West let a heart and spade go on the diamonds, but was forced to throw a black card on the third heart.

We The Women:

Meaning husbanding. If you want to keep peace around the house, there is only one correct answer to the following questions when put to you by your wife: "Isn't it too bad that Jim is almost too old and still hasn't found a nice girl and settled down?" "Isn't it nice that mother's coming for a long visit?" "Do you like my new hair do?"

By Ruth Millet

"Are you sure this dress doesn't look too young for me?" "Do you remember what a hard time you had convincing me that we ought to get married?" "Junior's a lot smarter than most children his age, don't you agree?" "Do I look all right?"

Opposition Faces Gov. Burns On School Question

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Haydon Burns may find it easier to seek cooperation from the new Board of Regents in re-examining the trimester system than to get the Board of Education to go along with him in bypassing the regents.

Two of the five members of the Cabinet rank Board of Education, Secretary of State Tom Adams and state School Supt. Thomas D. Bailey, showed opposition to Burns' suggestion of having the Board of Education order a study of the trimester system without consulting the Board of Regents.

The other members of the Cabinet board are Burns, Atty. Gen. Earl Fairoloth, and Treasurer J. Edwin Larson.

The new nine-member Board of Regents was named by Faris Bryant five days before he left office, over the protests of Burns, who said he felt Bryant favored continuation of the trimester system and would put members on the board who also did.

Burns campaigned on a promise to try and bring back the semester system to state universities.

The regents' board holds its organizational meeting in Tallahassee Wednesday, and the trimester system and a new president for Florida State University will be top pending matters to be discussed both among members and with the new governor.

Baya Harrison, of St. Petersburg, chairman of the old Board of Control and one of four carryover members to the new regents board named by Bryant, said he did not know how much these things would be discussed at the first meeting.

It will be primarily for electing a new chairman and taking care of other organizational matters.

Carlson To Head Longwood Board

By Donna Estes

R. C. Carlson was re-elected to his 13th consecutive year as chairman of the Longwood City Council at the reorganizational meeting of the board held last Thursday evening.

Carlson, who is beginning his 15th consecutive year on council, was named to the post by a vote of four to one with the only contrary vote being cast for Carl Lommler.

Carlson thanked his colleagues for the vote of confidence but stated firmly that since he was "serving his last term as councilman, having no intention to run for the office again, he would relinquish the post as chairman next year."

Currency Isn't Like Any Paper

By Jesse Bogus
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The current turmoil over the price of gold on international markets has left at least one bank employe in this financial center completely unafflicted.

He is too busy each banking day taking care of a stock of millions of dollars in currency.

He is Cornelius Hopkins, ex-Marine, who works in the closely-guarded fifth basement level at Chase Manhattan's main office in the Wall Street area, as a supervisor of the currency and coin department. Money is the stock in trade of any bank, of course, and Hopkins works amid shelves where currency is wrapped and stacked just as items in retail trade at any store. The currency division, and nearby Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority division handle about $15 million each day.

And as in any receiving department in a manufacturing or industrial concern, the incoming stock gets a thorough going over. Bills are counted on a federal bill counter and inspected at the same time. Worn currency is weeded out and sent to the Federal Reserve Bank for disposition. That which passes inspection goes back into packages, by denomination of 100 bills. Some is retained for use by the Chase, it is packaged in the familiar paper-band wrapping which cashiers' windows produce in quantity on paydays.

About 75 per cent of the currency Hopkins' department handles comes in from abroad, mostly by registered sea mail. The other 25 per cent comes from domestic sources.

"Currency isn't like a piece of paper than can be mislaid and replaced," Hopkins said recently. "You may never recover it if it is lost."

As in any job where accuracy and dependability are governing factors, Hopkins must be always careful and always on the alert. But after eight years on the job, he regards all that money as merely stock in trade. The sight of it, he says, doesn't affect him at all.

Especially honored were Mrs. Virginia McManus, current president; Mrs. Harriet Harris, charter president, and Mrs. Irene March, past president. Given recognition were John McMacus, current post commander, Robert March and Harold Matz, past commanders; Ed Ludecke, Brockton, N. Y. and past commander Sanford Barryacks World War I Vets, and Merle Harris, past commander, Weber Memorial Post 9306 of Winthrop, Mass.

Market Turns

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Spear and Staff, Inc., says the long range outlook for stocks is favorable and "we would not disturb investments that are drastically conservative."

However, the advisory letter comments that on a near term basis "we would avoid making substantial new commitments on margin until the technical picture improves."

International Statistical Bureau advises its clients not to disturb their stock holdings at present. The bureau says the performance of the market in the past week "justified our optimism and clearly negated the misplaced pessimism of some investors, speculators and advisory services."

Alexander Hamilton Institute comments that the market rally of last week may continue somewhat further, but says the recovery may be only temporary. The advisory service says "we believe the market has pretty well discounted the current strength in general business, particularly in automobile sales and the steel inventory buildup."

Adults Flunk School Exam

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Barbara Davis, a 17-year-old senior at Wooster High School, returned to school today with a little more respect for her classmates.

Barbara said Sunday that she gave a 21-question test to 51 persons, including four teachers and three college students, designed to prove that most adults could not pass a basic high school civic examination.

Only five of the 51 received a passing grade of 70 or more. The scores ranged from 35 to 58.

A typical question was, "name three constitutional requirements for being president." Some answers: "must be a millionaire" . . . "must be male" . . . "white only" . . . "married."

Cut Your Own Taxes - 7

By Ray De Cress
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It probably was an Internal Revenue auditor who first said: "There would be no mortgages outstanding on churches today if churches actually received all the money people claimed they contributed on their tax returns."

Perhaps that is why so many church officials are being queried by tax auditors these days to confirm contributions being reported on tax returns.

As in all other statements and deductions claimed on tax forms the burden of proof is on the taxpayer and it is a wise man who has a statement from his church or canceled checks to support his contributions.

Furthermore, there is no "rule of thumb" or "average amount" to be listed as a contribution. List what you actually gave. That amount is your deduction.

Of course, for the overly generous there are maximum limitations. Contributions are generally limited to 20 per cent of total income. An additional 10 per cent may be taken if the money went to religious, charitable, scientific, literary or educational organizations. This does not include tuition to a school or college but an outright gift.

In addition to your contributions to church you may deduct all contributions to non-profit schools and hospitals, Salvation Army, Red Cross, Community Chest, Camp Fire Girls, Boy Scouts, the various health funds and societies for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals.

There are other items that are also properly considered as deductible charitable contributions.

Say you go to a theater party where all the proceeds go to a recognized charity. If the cost of the ticket is $50 and the usual charge for the entertainment or play is $5, then the additional $45 is treated as a contribution.

Or you go to a church affair and bid $10 for a box lunch. If the fair market value of the lunch is $15.00, you have an $8.50 charitable contribution.

Should you give articles of clothing or household goods to a church or charitable agency then the fair market value of the items so given is deductible.

Many housewives overlook another charitable deduction now available to them.

If you are a volunteer worker at a hospital, a den mother or a Brownie or Cub Scout pack or the Boy Scouts or Girl Scouts you may have some deductible expenses which never occurred to you.

As a volunteer worker, your cost of transportation to and from the hospital or welfare institution is, deductible. If you used your own car the cost of gas and oil plus parking may be itemized. Or you may simply use a Treasury-approved allowance of five cents a mile on the car.

Cost of meals and lodging while performing your donated service are also deductible. Should you be required to wear a distinctive uniform which is not readily adaptable to general use its original cost and laundering expenses may also be included.

Den mothers who take turns holding meetings for Scout groups may charge off the cost of snacks served at meetings as well as transportation expenses when taking such groups on field trips.

Delegates to a church convention who are not compensated for their services or reimbursed for their expenses may deduct the transportation charges plus the cost of meals and lodging while attending to convention business.

Under no circumstances may you charge off any value placed on your time or services while performing such volunteer work.

Should you donate painting, a work of art, a bond, securities or anything of value to a religious or charitable institution, the fair market value of the item—it may be more or less than your original cost—is fully deductible.

County Bows To State's Light Demand

That traffic hazard at the interchange of Interstate 4 and Highway 436 will stay. So will traffic lights installed there recently by the State Road Department after a series of accidents and near-accidents.

County commissioners were told Tuesday that the SRD has no intention of changing the design. The lights will stay as placed, according to Richey Green, SRD engineer, who admitted in a letter to the County Commission that the traffic lights were installed "hastily."

He asked that the county pay for maintenance of the traffic lights and at first commissioners were against it. One county official said he has been informed that the SRD has the right to close all "bypass" roads and indicated that may be the thinking at the interchange if a controversy developed on maintenance of the lights.

It was pointed out that the SRD has the authority to close any interchange it deemed a hazard. Conceivably, this area of the interstate could have all access cut off. Mulling this over for a few seconds, commissioners decided to accept maintenance of the signals. They learned, too, that other lights may be placed at the interchange when the west side of Highway 436 is widened to four lanes.

Green also wrote the commission that a proposal for a sidewalk along Celery Avenue has been turned down because the state has no such funds available. The request was relayed by the City Commission to county officials for further relay to the state.

Commission Chairman John Alexander appointed commissioners to supervise various activities in the county. John Fitzpatrick will be in charge of the employment board; Ed Yarborough in charge of the agriculture and road department buildings; Lawrence Swafford the Osceola site and Big Tree Park; and Leo Gary the courthouse custodian.

U. S. 'Nation Of Nations,' Johnson Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson asked Congress today for a major overhaul of U. S. immigration laws.

He proposed abolishing the 40-year-old system of national quotas which he called "incompatible with our basic American tradition." Johnson's special message to Congress carried out his State of the Union pledge last week to seek an immigration law "based on the work a man can do and not where he was born or how he spells his name."

The President told the lawmakers today that correction of "serious defects" in the law was long overdue. He urged that the program be given "priority consideration."

Same As JFK Except for technical refinements, the proposed legislation is essentially the same as sought by the late President John F. Kennedy in 1963. Kennedy's proposal failed to clear either the House or Senate Judiciary committee.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, (D-Mich.), announced that he would introduce legislation Friday to carry out Johnson's recommendations.

The heart of Johnson's plan is a recommendation for gradual elimination of the quota system which has been in use since 1924 to determine the number of foreigners permitted to enter the United States from each country.

The President asked that the promise of America be opened to others based on their skills and ability, and on their relationship to relatives in this country so families could be reunited—not on the basis of a person's country of origin.

"We are not merely a nation, but a 'nation of nations,'" Johnson declared. "Violation of this tradition by the national origin quota system does incalculable harm."

"The procedure simply that men and women from some countries are, just because of where they come from, more desirable citizens than others. We have no right to discriminate the ancestors of millions of our fellow Americans in this way."

Under the proposal, existing country-by-country immigrant quotas would be gradually eliminated over five years. The quotas would be reduced by one fifth in each year until abolished, thus avoiding an abrupt change in the pattern of immigration.
