

Grading Fee Hike Irks Cities

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Three Seminole County cities—Oviedo, Winter Springs and Altamonte Springs—are responding to a notice from county officials of an increase in charges for road grading work by looking for another way to get the job done.

Oviedo Councilman David Brashears told delegates at the Council of Local Governments in Seminole that the county commission in its move to hold the line on taxes is shifting a greater burden to the cities.

He was referring to a notice from the county that beginning Oct. 1 with the new fiscal year the county's fees to cities for road grading work will more than double.

The fees to Oviedo will increase from $168 per month to $430 while the fees to Altamonte Springs will rise from $251 to $575 monthly and to Winter Springs from $628 to $1,430 monthly.

County Commissioner Sandra Glenn reported earlier to the Local Governments Council that the increase in charges is due to increased costs of fuel and maintenance and to help defray costs for replacing equipment.

These costs have not been included in fees charged in the past, Mrs. Glenn said.

Brashears said today city residents helped pay for the equipment in the first place and "now they expect us to pay for the depreciation of the equipment as well."

Total fees received by the county from the three cities during the current fiscal year will total $12,804. The new fee scheduled to go into effect Oct. 1 would have raised those fees to $29,220.

The fees charged to each city were for grading a certain number of roads in each municipality on a regular monthly basis. The work has been done by contract with each of the cities.

Mrs. Glenn said there was no profit generated for the county from the fees. She said if the cities no longer wish the service, the county's road crews may be cut by one man.

Brashears said Oviedo is protesting the "unwarranted increase in fees by the county. If the increase was warranted, it would be different," he said. "We are looking into it. We have to see if we can do it ourselves." Brashears said.

He suggested one method of handling the road grading might be for Winter Springs and Oviedo to join together to work out a cooperative agreement.

Altamonte Springs City Commissioner Dolores Vickers said Altamonte is looking into purchasing a road grader to do the work.

Earlier Mrs. Glenn notified city delegates to the Council that the cities can expect to receive from the county's levied road and bridge tax only half as much revenue in the new year.

During the current year a total of $53,000 was split among the seven cities from this county levied tax. In the 1981-82 fiscal year, Mrs. Glenn said the seven cities will split a total of $27,000.

Brashears said it "was nice" of the county not to begin increasing its fees for the road grading to the cities until Oct. 1 rather than immediately.

Build-Your-Own-Home Project Underway

"We're involved in a lot more than building houses. We're building people, too," explained Treena Kaye, secretary of the Seminole Self-Reliant Housing Inc. Board. "When people put a lot of 'sweat equity' in their homes, they have pride in them and it changes their lifestyle."

Seminole Self-Reliant Housing Inc., a newly-formed non-profit organization, is seeking enterprising low and moderate income families who are interested in participating in self-housing.

In August the organization will be applying for a $200,000 technical assistance grant from the Farmers Home Administration, U.S. Department of Agriculture. If the application is approved, a five-member staff will be working this fall with eligible Seminole

McGowan Named Casselberry Police Chief

By SYBIL MITCHELL GANDY
Herald Staff Writer

When Casselberry officials bid farewell to retiring Police Chief George Karcher on July 31, Asst. Police Chief Fred McGowan will move into the department's top post.

Mayor Owen Sheppard, who requested special permission from the Civil Service Board to follow an "in-house promotion" policy in filling Karcher's position, said the board has agreed, McGowan was offered the promotion, and he has accepted.

Normal procedure would have been for the city to advertise in trade publications that the position was coming open, then the civil service board would have reviewed applicants and turned them over to Sheppard for a final decision.

In this instance, however, Sheppard said he wanted to promote from within because of the "high quality of the men in our department. I felt there was no need to look elsewhere."

Besides the formal interviewing process of these potentials, a civil service examination would have been given to the applicants.

But Sheppard said he felt the process is unnecessary in this particular case since Asst. Chief McGowan is "so well qualified."

"We had the choice, of course, to go outside our own police department to fill the chief's position," said Sheppard, "but I felt McGowan was an excellent choice with his years of experience in law enforcement."

McGowan's position, said Sheppard, will be filled from the number of officers who apply through the Civil Service Board. But the hiring will again be done from within.

"Casselberry is very lucky to have the caliber of manpower in law enforcement that we have. And the most natural procedure is to do all promoting from within," Sheppard added.

McGowan, who has been with the Hostage Release Pact Legal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The deal President Carter made to free the 52 American hostages in Tehran has been upheld by the Supreme Court, clearing the way for the release of $4 billion in Iranian assets held in the United States.

In a unanimous decision issued Thursday, the justices agreed Carter was within his powers when he authorized the agreement in the final hours of his presidency.

Rejecting complaints from U.S. firms, the court said Carter had the authority to void U.S. court judgments won by American companies against Iran and to order those claims settled by an international tribunal.

Under the agreement, the Iranian assets are to be transferred to a foreign central bank by July 19. The tribunal then would rule on the claims, involving hundreds of U.S. companies.

Former White House counsel Lloyd Cutler, who helped Carter negotiate the package, viewed the court's ruling as a landmark decision for the office of the president.

"The court today strengthened the ability of the presidency and the U.S. government to conduct foreign policy in these very difficult times," he said.

Justice William Rehnquist, writing for the court, said:

"In our view, the president had the authority under the (1977) International Emergency Economic Powers Act. Congress had implicitly approved the president's actions. We conclude the president had the authority."

Without such power, the court said, the president would lose a "bargaining chip" when dealing with a hostile country.

The court's ruling came on the final day of its 1980-81 session, just eight days after the justices heard oral arguments in the case in emergency session.

In affirming a lower court ruling, the high court rejected the private companies' arguments that suspension of court attachments of Iranian property and the transfer of assets were unconstitutional.

The consulting firm of Dames and Moore — which brought the case to the high court — now must go to the international tribunal to press its claim for $3.8 million from Iran for exploring a proposed nuclear power-plant site.

In Los Angeles, Dames and Moore managing partner Robert Perry said the ruling could mean the U.S. government will be responsible for its loss.

"We will consider a suit against the U.S. government," he said. "We still believe the hostage agreement should not have to be honored because it was made under duress."

Los Angeles attorney Robert Wooton, who is representing nine former hostages, said his clients would proceed with legal suits against Iran seeking $45 million in damages, despite the court ruling.

The former hostages maintain their confinement was unlawful and a provision of the agreement prohibiting them from suing Iran is unconstitutional.

In Dallas, Electronic Data Systems said the decision would not affect its legal battle to collect $19 million from Iran.

The giant computer company, headed by millionaire H. Ross Perot, is seeking damages won in a complex suit filed in February 1979, roughly eight months before the American hostages were taken.

51st State?

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Downstate and Chicago legislators, feuding for weeks on aid for Chicago mass transit, have agreed on something at last.

The Senate, on a voice vote Wednesday, endorsed a resolution calling on Congress to admit Chicago and the rest of Cook County as the nation's 51st state.

The sponsor of the tongue-in-cheek resolution, Chicago Democrat Howard Carroll, said the new state could be called "New Illinois." That way, he said, there would be little problem in changing the name of the new state office building under construction in Chicago.

"Instead of calling it the 'New State of Illinois Building,' we could call it the 'State of New Illinois Building,'" Carroll quipped.

Sen. Roger A. Sommer, R-Morton, said he would gain points back home if he endorsed the plan. "This is something my constituents have wanted for a long time," Sommer said.

York City Police Department. A native of New York City, McGowan admitted he was looking forward to the promotion.

"I have to say I am excited about moving up to chief," McGowan said. "I've been assistant chief since October 1974 and I feel this new position is going to present a whole new challenge."

The 54-year-old officer and his wife, Doris, have three children. Prior to joining the New York City police force, McGowan spent four years in the Marines and worked for the Sperry Corporation with military mini-guidance systems.

He will be taking the reins of a police force of 32 sworn officers. But officials will await final budget approval for the department before deciding whether to hire one more officer to fill the resulting vacancy when all promotions have been filled.

A new assistant chief will be appointed in August, said Sheppard.

The proposed staff for the project would consist of an executive director with a salary of $15,000, a construction supervisor at $13,000, construction supervisor II at $13,500, group worker at $9,500 and secretary-bookkeeper at $10,000. Written into the grant would be an increase in total salaries from $60,000 to $64,500 in the second year.

The corporation is hoping for some financial support from the businesses and individuals to help acquire land and get the project underway, possibly in the Oviedo area.

"This is not a giveaway," emphasized Holden, "it fits in with the Reaganomics trend. In other places where the HIP program has been tried they have found that people who have helped build their own homes stay in them, make payments and maintain their homes."

County families to build their own homes, said Ms. Kaye.

The program involves a commitment by each family to work at least 700 hours over a period of several months, working on their home as well as the homes of other families in the group under guidance of a construction supervisor.

"They would work as a team," said Chris Holden, treasurer of Seminole Self-Reliant Housing Inc. "Work is done in stages on all the houses together so that no one home is completed way ahead of the others."

Before and during construction, each family must attend a series of meetings with other families in their group where they learn about construction techniques, the responsibilities of home ownership, tool use, work schedules, taxes, insurance and interior decorating.

"To qualify for the self-help program, a family must be willing to work with others, have a good credit rating, job stability and earn an 'adjusted income of between $7,200 and $12,300 per year. That figure is arrived at by pre-set formula. There is an interest credit subsidy program ranging from one to 13 percent on a 30-year FHA mortgage. The family must also attend pre-construction meetings and demonstrate a desire to be a homeowner," according to Ms. Kaye.

To place their names on the list or for more information, interested persons may call Ms. Kaye at 322-4963 or write Seminole Self-Reliant Housing Inc., Post Office Box 2586, Sanford, FL 32771.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Begin Encounters Trouble In Search For Coalition

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin's hopes of staying in office appeared in difficulty today, with final election results and the stance of possible coalition partners fluctuating.

With vote counting in its final phase, analysts predicted Shimon Peres' Labor Alignment and Begin's Likud bloc in a standoff at 48 mandates each, although final results might give an extra seat in the 120-member parliament to either party.

Aides to the prime minister said Begin's problems in forming a coalition were no different than in the past. But if neither party can secure a majority of 61, new elections must be held, a process that could take months.

News reports today said Josef Burg, chairman of Begin's largest current partner, the third-ranked National Religious Party, was rethinking taking its six parliamentary seats into a Likud-led government with a majority of only one seat in the next Knesset.

"The problem is not how to set up a government, but rather how to keep it going," the Ma'ariv newspaper quoted the NRP chairman as saying. "A government of 61 seats is a national catastrophe."

Following a meeting Thursday with Begin, the ultraorthodox Agudat Israel Party, now slated for four seats, all but committed itself to teaming up with Begin.

Cabinet Shake-Up In Poland

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Prime Minister Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski announced a major cabinet shake-up today in a bid to revive the nation's faltering economy, a day after he told a Soviet-bloc economic summit Poland could solve its crisis on its own.

The move, which involved condensing 11 economic related ministries into six and the firing of eight cabinet ministers, came a day after the government proposed a drastic austerity program, including laying off 1.2 million workers, to pull Poland back from the brink of bankruptcy.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, meanwhile, was expected in Warsaw later in the day, apparently carrying a warning from Moscow against liberalization before the Polish Communist Party Congress opens July 12.

Jaruzelski's bold move was one of the most sweeping cabinet changes the Polish government has seen and the most extensive shake-up since the labor unrest began a year ago.

Lebanese Control Zahle

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Lebanese army patrols marched into the last Christian Phalangist strongholds in Zahle, opening the way for the complete withdrawal of Syrian troops who have besieged the city for three months.

In Damascus, Syrian President Hafez Assad met Thursday with Lebanese Foreign Minister Fuad Butros to iron out details of the Syrian troop withdrawal and other steps to prevent a rekindling of warfare in Lebanon, state-run Beirut Radio said.

With the Lebanese army in control of Zahle, Syrian forces were expected to pull back today from the entrance of the Greek Catholic city and a few remaining strategic positions.

"The Lebanese problem is a political problem," Butros said in the radio broadcast. "We hope to improve the situation by taking steps on a political level which are the foundation for achieving security and stability."

Isabel Peron May Be Freed

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Argentina's former President Isabel Peron could be freed "immediately" from five years of house arrest by the military regime under a new court ruling, court sources said.

A federal appeals court Thursday upheld a guilty verdict against Mrs. Peron, 50, for misusing state charity funds, but reduced her sentence from eight to seven years, opening the way for her early release.

Mrs. Peron, under house arrest since the military seized power March 24, 1976, will probably be "released immediately" under a formula allowing judges to release prisoners who have completed two-thirds of a maximum sentence, court sources said.

Resource Committee Will Reconvene On Plan

The Council of Local Governments in Seminole County will be reconvening its "Resource Recovery Study Committee" to update a plan completed two years ago. The plan suggested resources be recovered from garbage.

The council, composed of representatives of the seven cities and the county commission, requested the committee to go back into session after County Public Works director Jack Schuder, said it is time to update the plan.

The committee, also composed of representatives of the city and county governments in Seminole, completed the study two years ago, reporting that recovering resources from garbage is not feasible at this time and probably will not be feasible this decade.

The committee studied various methods of solid waste (garbage) disposal whereby metals, glass and other resources could be recovered for re-sale. They also considered the feasibility of building a centrally located incinerator and producing electricity from the garbage burning process. The committee's conclusions at that time were that the costs of recovery and the costs of producing the electricity were too high to make either feasible.

The original study was mandated by the state. Schuder said the elements in the study should be reviewed to determine if the cost factors have changed since then. —DONNA ESTES

Firefighters Turn To Guerrilla Warfare

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Firefighters are turning to guerrilla warfare to put out a month-old blaze in Volusia County's Crane Swamp.

Using bulldozers and plows to cut trenches, a special 40-man crew tried to outfox the shifting fire on three fronts Thursday—the 32nd day the stubborn blaze has burned through more than 6,000 acres of pine woods and cypress.

The fire is the most troublesome of seven major blazes in Volusia and Flagler counties that Thursday sent smoke over parts of six counties between Jacksonville and Orlando, according to Peggy West, spokesman for the state Division of Forestry.

The blazes have prompted warnings from health officials about the hazards of soot and ash on persons with respiratory problems. There has been no dramatic increase in the number of medical complaints about the smoky conditions, but Orlando has been another story.

Peggy Nicholson, pulmonary rehabilitation coordinator for Florida Hospital in Orlando, said "respiratory therapists have been busy all week."

Health experts advise persons with breathing problems to stay indoors, use the air conditioner to filter out much of the smoke, and use a handkerchief to cover the nose and mouth.

Volusia's Crane Swamp fire is causing most of the problem which may continue at least for the next couple of days. "We're trying to hold a line on the most dangerous part of it, but we've still got a lot of unsecured fire out there," said J.P.

Speeding Skateboarder Ticketed On Interstate

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (UPI) — A California Highway Patrol officer pulled over a teenager for traveling 72 mph down Interstate 15 in the Cajon Pass — on a skateboard.

But Michael Coyer, 19, complained to Patrolman Lonnie Leitman that he was really doing 75 mph.

Leitman said he was stopped on the highway shoulder Thursday writing out a citation to a motorist when the driver of a tractor-trailer rig rolled by blasting air horns to draw the officer's attention.

Then Coyer streaked by.

Leitman said he quickly finished writing the ticket and took off after the skateboarder. It took Coyer several more miles to finally stop, and he wore out the tire on one boot doing it.

Despite the excessive rate of travel, Coyer was not cited for speeding. His violation was listed as, "Failure to obey the signs that limit use of the freeway to motorized vehicles."

Green, fireboss in charge of the blaze.

He said crews cut fire trenches and set back fires to slow the westward movement of the flames, but noted heavy smoke hampered spotter planes' efforts to direct crew movements near the blaze.

The fire, which has consumed more than 11,500 acres since a lightning strike set it June 1, is burning about eight miles west of Edgewater and Interstate 95. Three weeks ago the fire had threatened the highway.

Green said one of the reasons it's tough to outflank the blaze is the shifting wind. During the early morning the wind is calm or calm from inland. But in the afternoon the sea breeze kicks up.

"We've got to play two different ballgames," he said, indicating the fire's remote location also makes it difficult to work in the dense area.

The fire is so hot officials have rushed 80 heat retardant fire tents to be used as a "last resort" by fire crew members trapped by onrushing flames. So far this year two men have been killed and one seriously burned fighting forest fires.

Statewide in 1981, 11,200 fires have blackened more than 470,000 acres, nearly 10 times the land destruction caused by forest fires in 1980.

PAIR BUSTED FOR DOPE

Two Sanford youths were in jail today charged with drug law violations after they tried to sell an undercover agent a quarter-pound of marijuana.

Being held under $5,000 bond was Abdulla Kazim, a 19-year-old Seminole Community College student who lives at 406-B Geneva Garden Apts., and Robert Earl Taylor, 20, of 288 Franklin Arms Apts. Kazim, a native of Saudi Arabia, was charged with sale, possession, and delivery of a controlled substance. Taylor was charged with conspiracy to sell and deliver a controlled substance.

NEW POLICE PHONE NUMBER

Beginning Friday morning July 10, the Sanford Police Department will have a new non-emergency telephone number.

The old number-322-4141 will continue its role as the department's emergency number. But for all non-emergency and business calls, residents are asked to ring 323-3000.

"If someone calls in on the wrong line, they will be given the proper number and asked to call back," according to department spokesman Herb Shea. "While it will be a little confusing at first, the long-term effect will be greater efficiency in handling the public's calls for assistance."

Air Traffic Controllers Urged To Reject Contract

CHICAGO (UPI) — Air traffic controllers, urged by union leaders to reject a tentative contract with the government, chanted and cheered wildly for an illegal, nationwide strike that could paralyze air travel.

At a meeting attended by union local presidents from across the country, the executive board of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization recommended Thursday that the union soundly defeat the proposed contract.

The formal document resolved "that the executive board of PATCO strongly recommends that the tentative agreement be overwhelmingly rejected by the membership."

PATCO mailed out copies of the agreement Thursday and the ballots will be shipped to locals next week. The union expects to tabulate the votes by July 31.

The recommendation is expected to ensure a "no" vote by a majority of the union's 15,000 members, many of whom had expressed dissatisfaction with the pact. PATCO negotiates for 17,000 controllers.

As federal employees, the controllers are forbidden by law to strike.

Nonetheless, cries of "strike, strike, strike" went up from nearly 500 controllers as the recommendation was read. The union members jumped out of their seats, cheering and shaking their fists for about 20 minutes.

A stack of T-shirts lettered, "What contract? — No" were outside the meeting room door, through which non-union members were ushered immediately after the recommendation was revealed. The meeting continued under heavy security.

Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis testified before Congress last week that there will be no more money for controllers if they reject the tentative pact. The Federal Aviation Administration still has its contingency plan for handling a greatly reduced air traffic load should the union strike.

"In an already ailing economy, we do not want a costly strike; but at a time when the president and Congress are working hard to achieve economic recovery, neither can we agree to an inflationary contract that would be patently unfair to the taxpayers and to other federal workers," Lewis said.

The union and the government reached tentative agreement on a 42-month contract June 22, averting a walkout threatened later that day that would have paralyzed domestic air travel.

The $39.3 million price tag on the package was essentially the same as a contract offered by the FAA the previous week and rejected by union negotiators, although some provisions within the tentative pact were changed.

It calls for 42 hours of pay in a 40-hour week; an increase in the night shift differential; removal of the limit on premium pay that may be earned for overtime, night differential and Sunday and holiday pay; a "retraining allowance" equal to 14 weeks' base pay for veteran controllers who are medically disqualified, and a greater voice in operating and safety procedures, although the FAA would have the last word.

Atlanta Investigation

Black Prisoner Vanishes After Aiding Murder Probe

ATLANTA (UPI) — Nearly every night for three weeks, police let 19-year-old Vincent Kelvin Watson, who fits almost perfectly the profile of Atlanta's 28 murdered young blacks, out of his jail cell to roam the streets in search of a break in the case.

Then he vanished.

Watson failed to show up for a rendezvous with officers on the night of June 22 and a fugitive warrant has been issued for him. Police said Thursday Watson almost certainly fled because he was about to be returned to prison, but nonetheless they fear for his safety.

They said he was trying to find two men he thought might be connected with the killings, but when asked if he actually was being used as a decoy they would not comment.

Watson, a first-offender serving an indeterminate sentence for robbery at a state prison in Hardwick, Ga., volunteered to work on the case. A homosexual, 5-foot-6 and weighing 120 pounds, he claimed he knew of two men — only by nickname — who might be involved in the killings.

After three lie-detector tests showed he was sincere, police said, he was transferred to the Cobb County Jail north of Atlanta.

Cobb County Public Safety Director Robert Hightower said Watson was brought into the case after consultation with a special police task force investigating the slayings.

"The risk of escape didn't seem so great. He was a first offender," Hightower said. He said the young convict was released almost every night.

"He had worked with us for three weeks and attempted to locate a couple of individuals," Hightower said. The two men were homosexuals who Watson said had once paid him to perform sexual acts as they watched.

Watson failed to meet officers at a rendezvous outside a downtown Atlanta bar frequented by homosexuals on the night of June 22, one day after Wayne B. Williams was arrested and charged with the 28th murder.

"We tried to keep a very loose surveillance on him, not only because he was a prisoner but also for his own protection," Hightower said. "You can't keep him in visual contact all the time. He had built a reputation over two or three weeks, he was trustworthy."

Watson "probably ran, but we can't know if he didn't run into those two guys," Hightower said. "I hope to God he didn't."

Deputy Atlanta Police Chief Morris Redding, who heads the special task force, would not comment on Watson's activities except to say he was aware of the inmate's assistance.

Another Person Executed

Millions Of Iranians Pray For Victims Of Bomb Blast

United Press International

Another person was marched before an Iranian firing squad and executed today as millions of Iranians prayed for the 74 victims of Sunday's terror blast that decimated Iran's Islamic leadership, Tehran radio said.

The latest execution came a day after 17 other people, 16 of them members of two radical leftist groups who fought the shah and now oppose Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, were put to death.

About 100 opponents of the regime have been put to death since the ouster of moderate President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr two weeks ago. That figure could increase, as 50 more leftists were arrested and accused of plotting to destroy the parliament, or Majlis, building.

Tehran radio said that in the latest execution, a person convicted of being corrupt on earth, waging war on God and attacking people was killed by a firing squad in the town of Kara, west of Tehran.

The chief target of a clergy-led crackdown appeared to be the Mojahideen Khalq, whom Khomeini blamed Tuesday for planting the bombs that killed 74 of his comrades.

Traffic Death Toll Predicted At 550

By United Press International
The long Fourth of July weekend starts today and although confusion over whether or not it lasts three or four days may reduce traffic jams, authorities say 550 people still could die in holiday traffic accidents. Millions of Americans left on trips after work Thursday and millions more will leave today. The National Safety Council warned between 450 and 550 people could die in traffic accidents during the holiday, which began at 6 p.m. local time Thursday and ends at midnight local time Sunday. Another 21,000 to 26,000 people could suffer disabling injuries. Early today, there were no traffic fatalities reported.

Yachts Return Safely

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Two yachts knocked off course by Tropical Storm Bret have turned up safe following a 35-hour Coast Guard search. The Coast Guard said Wednesday one of the two pleasure boats had made its way to Cape May, N.J., and the other was heading into port at Norfolk. A steamship spotted the 43-foot Patriot as the sailing boat made its way to New Jersey. Radio contact with a second boat lost in the storm, the Valiant Lady, was re-established earlier in the day.

Skulls Stolen From Crypt

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — Three teenagers were arrested for allegedly stealing two human skulls from a 19th-century grave for use as "bong" pipes to smoke marijuana or hashish, police say. David A. Campbell, 17, of Pontiac and two other teenagers were arrested Wednesday in the grave robbing and police said Campbell told them he was going to make "bongs" out of the skulls. The skulls of Polly and John Southard were stolen Tuesday from their crypt at Oak Hill Cemetery in Pontiac, police said. The rest of their skeletons were not disturbed. Polly died in 1880 and John in 1892.

Bludgeon Murders Probed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police investigating four bludgeon murders in the Hollywood Hills are making molds of wounds from the mutilated victims, two of whom had drug records, to determine the murder weapon. Coroner Thomas Noguchi said Thursday early autopsy results on the bodies found Wednesday — 12 hours after neighbors heard screams for mercy — indicated the victims had been beaten to death. The casts will help police determine the weapon or weapons used to kill the two men and two women and critically injure another woman in her mid-20s, who remained hospitalized today with severe lacerations to the head and neck.

FLORIDA

IN BRIEF

Two Killed, One Hurt As Two Trucks Collide

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The collision of two trucks on Interstate 95 has left two men dead and a third seriously injured. The Florida Highway Patrol said the accident occurred when a northbound semi tractor-trailer rambled into the rear of an Indian River County dump truck just north of Vero Beach. The impact sent both vehicles reeling off the road, with the tractor-trailer rolling onto its side and the dump truck smashing into two trees, a patrol spokesman said. Identities of the victims were withheld pending notification of next of kin. The injured man was taken to an Indian River County hospital where he was listed in serious condition.

Fugitive Sentenced

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Daniel Allen Mahoney has been sentenced to live in prison for his part in the murder of a 31-year-old school teacher during a burglary last August. Mahoney, a 23-year-old fugitive from Maryland, pleaded guilty Thursday to second degree murder of Clesete Stoford. He admitted entering the home with co-defendant Charles Saffold, 26, during a robbery Aug. 14.

Refugee Problems Noted

Graham Says He May Sue Reagan Administration

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—Gov. Bob Graham said Thursday he may sue the Reagan administration and limit the number of Haitian refugees in a Miami relocation center to get federal assistance for Florida's refugee problems. Graham said he was assured by White House officials that President Reagan and the federal Cabinet would adopt a national immigration policy, including assistance to Florida, Wednesday, "but their decision was no decision." The governor, at a news conference, said he has instructed general counsel Bob Nabors "to develop new legal initiatives," including a court challenge of the sponsorships being accepted by officials of Miami's Krome Facility for the release of Haitian refugees. He said Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services Secretary Alvin Taylor has been ordered to determine to what extent state and local health, environmental and fire safety standards are being violated by overcrowding at the Krome center and whether there is authority for the enforcement of these regulations. He will get reports from Nabors and Taylor by July 15 and decide what action, if any, to take.

Certain Programs Affected

Social Security Benefits To Be Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Certain Social Security benefits — minimum payments, checks for college students and lump-sum death benefits — are on the verge of being legislated out of existence.

The House and Senate approved different budget proposals last week, but both plans would cut about $38 billion in federal spending, much of it from social programs including Social Security.

Although House-Senate conferees must work out differences, there is no doubt the Social Security cuts — estimated at about $2.15 billion next year — will become law. President Reagan asked for them last winter. Still, the cuts are meager compared to the approximately $100 billion in Social Security reductions contemplated by lawmakers last year to avert predicted bankruptcy of the retirement system.

When Congress begins to seriously consider that issue this fall, the options to be considered include: raising the retirement age, stiff penalties for early retirement and limiting cost-of-living increases.

The House and Senate bills would phase out by 1985 benefit payments for college students whose parents are dead or disabled. This would save the system an estimated $1 billion next year.

The minimum benefit that would be eliminated under both the House and Senate versions now goes to about 3 million recipients, officials said.

About 200,000 get that amount based on their earnings, officials say, while the remainder are raised to that level by the minimum-benefit provision of the law.

The administration says ending the minimum benefit will save about $1 billion next year, even allowing for the $300 million that will go to the supplementary Social Security program to help the elderly who would be left destitute by the change.

Both houses also agreed to eliminate the lump-sum death benefit of $255 originally intended to cover funeral costs except when there is an eligible spouse or surviving child. That would save $150 million next year. Other proposals approved by only one house during the budget voting would:

— Provide that a parent would lose child-care benefits when the child receiving insurance benefits reaches 16 instead of 18.

— Require that disability recipients must have paid into the retirement system in six of the 13 quarters before becoming disabled.

— Postpone for a year, until 1983, the proposed lowering from 72 to 70 of the age at which Social Security recipients can draw full benefits regardless of outside earnings.

New Program Explained

Seminole Implements School Insurance Plan

By SYBIL MITCHELL GANDY
Herald Staff Writer
Seminole County School Board officials implemented the system's first self-insurance program in what they project will save taxpayers about $200,000.

Walter H. Meriwether Jr., risk manager and internal auditor, said the self-insured policy went into effect on July 1, costing a maximum of $713,598.

Although conventional school insurance plans have cost about the same in the past few years, officials expect that costs will be reduced by some $200,000 during the 1981-82 school year.

"All claims will be paid with public school tax money, except for boiler-related incidents and statutory bonds for school board officials," Meriwether said.

Boiler policy claims will remain with the McKibbin Insurance Agency which presented the lowest bid for the special claims. The Karns Insurance Agency will handle bonds for schools officials, Meriwether said.

State law requires that insurance bonds are taken out for board officials, he explained.

School officials decided on the self-insurance concept after looking at several insurance proposals in their June 16 board meeting. Meriwether who investigates all claims in his county schools post, cited several reasons why board members went with self-insurance this year.

"The self-insurance concept with the Gallagher-Bassett Insurance Service will provide better control over losses of questionable nature since the school office will have some input on claims payment," he said.

"Additionally, we get to hold and invest all funds for our self-insurance claims and from what we can tell of our past loss history, that maximum cost of $713,598 will afford tremendous savings while providing broader coverage for property and casualty," he explained.

The $713,598 figure will be administered by the Gallagher-Bassett Insurance Service, a specialist in administering funds for self-insured educational facilities.

Meriwether explained that the service will take care of all claims as well as new assessments of public buildings for the Seminole County system.

"We will still be able to provide our employees with the very best medical care possible, but we'll be saving thousands of tax dollars at the same time," said Meriwether.

For a $50,555 fee, which is included in the $713,598 maximum cost, Gallagher-Bassett will be handling claims through what officials believe is today's most cost-effective manner.

"Supt. Hughes and I have been meeting with people from the company over the past two weeks to tie up some loose ends. And we've found them to be extremely professional and knowledgeable about self-insurance," Meriwether said.

Praised for its safety, loss and risk-control policies, Gallagher-Bassett administers self-insurance for 25 school board systems and 28 community colleges in Florida.

Former Schools Supt. William "Bud" Laver recommended self-insurance through this company in 1976, but the board chose to stay with conventional insurance, Meriwether said.

Although self-insurance means that all claims will be paid directly from public school funds rather than from an insurance company, Department of Education mandates prohibits in-house administration of such funds.

Meriwether explained that by paying the $50,555 fee at the onset, Seminole County officials will guard against constantly rising insurance costs.

"Insurance has continued to rise over the past five years under the conventional coverage we've used," Meriwether said.

"Now we have a way of guarding against the high premiums by paying the maximum cost at the beginning," he said.

Officials expect to see the $200,000 savings in the area of claims, monies paid out in workers' compensation, teacher substitution fees and building assessment fees, Meriwether said.

Expense, Uncertainty Cited

Panel Advises Against Power Stations In Space

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mammoth satellites to convert sunshine into electricity for use on Earth would be too expensive and too uncertain for the government to undertake during the next decade, an advisory committee has concluded.

A National Academy of Sciences study panel said Thursday development of a network of satellites 6 miles long and half as wide would strain the nation's abilities to raise the needed money and manage.

"Developing and building an SPS (satellite power system) on the scale contemplated would be by far the largest, most costly and most complex undertaking — civil or military — ever undertaken," the panel said in a report to the space agency, Energy Department and National Science Foundation.

The panel estimated the total cost of such a system likely would exceed $3 trillion in 1980 dollars over a period of 50 years — more than double earlier estimates.

It said power from space would not be cost-competitive with existing and potential alternative sources for 20 years. And it said radical advances in technology would be needed to make the system competitive in 40 years.

Although no technical problem appears insurmountable, the report said development of a solar power satellite system would encounter formidable challenges. It said several decades of engineering advances would be needed before an effective design could be assured.

As envisioned by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Energy Department, the system would consist of 80 satellites, each with banks of solar cells 6 miles long and 3 miles wide.

From stationary orbits 22,300 miles up, each would send back to Earth, in an intense microwave radiation beam, electricity equal to that produced by five average nuclear power plants. Ground receivers would be 8 miles long and 6 miles wide. Construction of the satellites alone, the report said, would require rocket ships with 13 times the space shuttle's cargo capacity, taking off more than once a day for 30 years and each lifting 400 tons of material into a low Earth orbit.

A total of 1,500 workers would have to be in space at any one time to build the system.

Even if the United States had the means to proceed with such an undertaking, the committee said, the international legal and political problems would be so great it might be impossible for the nation to proceed unilaterally.

"The concept of an SPS is presently faced with sufficiently serious difficulties — in technological readiness, cost, competitive technologies for generating electricity, magnitude of the enterprise and international concerns — that no funds should be committed during the next decade to pursue development..." the report said in its No. 1 conclusion.

Lady Luck Likes Him!

MIAMI (UPI) — Some people are lucky to be alive, but few are as blessed as 21-year-old Miguel Saura.

Saura, a Cuban refugee who came to Miami during the Mariel seafit last year, has survived a rash of life-threatening encounters with the kind of luck others envy. Consider what Saura has survived in his year in the United States: two robberies, a shooting, two serious automobile accidents and a mugging.

"You see, I'm a lucky guy," says Saura, currently recovering from being shot at a convenience store where he works in Hialeah. "These things happen to me, but I survive because I am not a bad guy."

Saura was shot in the hand and right chest by an angry customer Tuesday night at the U-Totem convenience store where he works in Hialeah. He is now recovering at a Miami hospital.

But that was not the first time Saura has survived some real scares.

Less than two months ago he was held up at gunpoint at another convenience store. But instead of cooperating, Saura grabbed the robber's gun, chased him and wrestled him to the ground where he held him until police arrived.

And two months before that, Saura walked away from a car accident in which the vehicle he was in tumbled over four times. That came only a few weeks after he was in another accident in which two of his friends were seriously hurt.

And as if that isn't enough, Saura has also been mugged in Hialeah by two men who threatened to kidnap his girlfriend. But as luck would have it, police spotted the encounter and arrested the men.

Saura remains somewhat philosophical about it all. "If it happens again, well, it happens."

Public Rights Predominate

The U.S. Supreme Court apparently has found no difficulty between the rights of a religious group and those of the public. It unanimously ruled Hare Krishna may be limited at a state fair in soliciting, despite the sect's assertion that fund raising is a mandatory religious ritual.

Although Associate Justice Byron R. White said in the written opinion that the First Amendment does not guarantee the right to communicate one's views at all times and places or in any manner that may be desired, the Court otherwise avoided the prickly religious issues raised by Hare Krishna.

Instead, it ruled on the more narrow question of whether the Minnesota State Fair could require all literature sales and distribution and fund raising to be conducted from one of the 1,400 booths on the fairgrounds.

The justices said the state needs such authority because unlimited fund solicitation would create problems of crowd control and they emphasized the requirement applied to all fund raisers and not to the Krishnas alone.

Because of free-speech concerns, the justices divided, 5-4 however, on the constitutionality of restricting to booths the simple distribution of literature where there was no fund raising.

Inasmuch as the decision in this case was confined to the concept of crowd control at a fair, it left unresolved related questions now being litigated in the lower courts concerning the right of airport and shopping center managers to limit solicitation by religious and other groups. The larger issue, of course, concerns the right of individual citizens to be protected from harassment in public places.

Even so, court orders that limit the numbers of Krishnas and define where they may not solicit are now, it would seem, sustained. And through the Minnesota Fair doctrine, we can anticipate greater restrictions on public fund solicitations in the future, especially where crowd control is at stake. This is as it should be. Definite lines should be more closely drawn to protect individual citizens from being plagued for contributions under the cloak of religious freedom.

France Turns

France has completed the swing to socialism begun last month with the election of Francois Mitterrand as president.

In recent elections, Mitterrand was given the majorities he needed in the National Assembly to put in effect the sweeping economic changes pledged in his campaign.

While the United States does not endorse the Mitterrand brand of economics, our nation may find the French president more closely allied than his predecessors in matters of defense.

In any case, Mitterrand was the choice of the French people. He deserves the opportunity to sink or swim with the policies he seeks. The people have given him that opportunity.

The Clock

Seminole County drivers who have taken the "55 Alive - Mature Driving" course offered by Altamonte Springs Police are still singing its praises!

The course was last offered in May. But Altamonte Springs officials will make the sessions available again in September since everyone who has attended is sold on it.

According to its instructor, Army Maj. Claude Orr (Ret.), the main purpose is to inform drivers over 55 not only about the changes that are brought on by aging, but students get a chance to discuss their individual concerns with driving.

A Casselberry man named Warren M. Adams sent a letter to City Manager Jeff Etchberger expressing the great value of the course.

The classroom-table discussion setting provides an informal air, says Major Orr, where students can feel free to ask questions and provide input for future instruction.

The eight-hour curriculum refreshes drivers over 55 in the art of defensive driving. Why 55? Because at this age, Orr explained, a person's hearing and sight start to lessen at a greater rate. Before this time, one's reflexes in seeing and hearing have more of a gradual decline.

The ability to give quick, responsible reactions to situations that call for sudden decisions isn't what it once was. And older drivers, because of the physiological changes, are considered to be higher risks by insurance companies.

Upon completing the course, though, students are issued a card by the Altamonte Police Department for attending the sessions. Some insurance companies offer a senior citizen's discount for its customers who go through the classes.

Sponsored by the National Teachers Association and the National Association of Retired Persons, Maj. Orr teaches the course for two days in four-hour sessions.

The drivers are taught and encouraged to plan their trips on the road before they go out, especially if they'll be using the freeway.

Additionally, they are instructed to signal any intentions of turning or changing lanes a little more in advance than they have been accustomed to.

These are the main concepts designated for the course by its two national sponsors. But Altamonte Springs police have added another dimension to its worth.

An hour of discussion is given to guidelines on the correct procedures in reporting an accident.

A motorcycle traffic policeman comes in and explains in detail an accident report as well as the driver exchange form.

Drivers are told what to expect in case they're involved in a minor accident. If seniors are better informed on accident procedures, said Orr, they are less likely to go into a panic when an accident does occur.

Dates for the upcoming September sessions are to be announced in coming weeks. Those interested in taking the course may contact the police records office at 830-3818.

Maj. Orr encourages all drivers over 55 to ask their insurance representative about a discount. Average class size is between 18 and 20. The course is free.

Then Seeing No Evil

Believe them, they ask. They want only to express their own opinion, not to set themselves up as censors.

"They" are the Coalition for Better Television, an alliance of right-oriented organizations determined to clean up the nation's screens. Their method is a threatened consumer boycott of the products of companies sponsoring programs deemed objectionable because of excessive sex, violence and profanity.

Any questions as to the potential effectiveness of that method were answered even before the boycotters could name specific target companies. A clutch of television's leading advertisers immediately offered to discuss compromise and one did more. Wasting no time on talk, Proctor & Gamble jettisoned a number of programs that might not pass the coalition's scrutiny.

The networks, whose megabuck revenues derive in significant part from the type of programming in question, are understandably alarmed. With excellent reason. The major component of the coalition is the potent Moral Majority, which is reported prepared to spend at least $2 million on newspaper advertising and a direct-mail effort on behalf of the cause.

Others are concerned for other than financial reasons. Civil libertarians understandably. Also some longstanding critics of television who see the boycott as a simplistic, even dangerous approach to the problem. The impact is narrowly coercive rather than broadly constructive. And it could set a disturbing precedent, opening the way to restricting public exposure not only to material of questionable taste but to information on sensitive political and social issues.

In a word, despite the coalition leadership's disavowals of any such intention, censorship. Well, what about it? Is that bad? Or, considered as a cure, any worse in this case than the ailment to be treated?

Those are not easy questions to answer briefly and convincingly. It is not easy to make an objective case for preserving in a pluralistic society the greatest possible degree of freedom of individual expression — in the press, in broadcasting, in public behavior — when freedom in some cases can be taken as license for the objectionable. The advocate often must take the position of defending the right to public exposure of what he may personally reject.

But there is the essence of the case — personal preference, the necessity of guaranteeing freedom of choice in what individuals may read, say, hear and see to a public of catholic opinions and tastes. As the Washington Star recently commented editorially on the 50th anniversary of a landmark Supreme Court First Amendment decision, "Unless that freedom protects the rights of a rascal it cannot protect the rights of the virtuous."

How can that be applied to the boycott issue? In simplest terms, the rascals in television programming are today free to offer and the like-minded portion of the viewing public is free to view material that the virtuous may find questionable. The virtuous are also free — to choose not to view.

JACK ANDERSON

FBI Pick ABSCAM Marks At Random?

WASHINGTON — The FBI's performance under Director William Webster deserves high marks. But I have been disturbed by evidence that the G-men arbitrarily "targeted" certain members of Congress and then tried to snare them in the ABSCAM bribery trap.

Both the FBI and the Justice Department deny there was any attempt to entrap innocent politicians into committing crimes. But there is evidence that someone on high gave the ABSCAM investigators approval to go after Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., with a bribe offer.

What makes this disturbing is that not even Thurmond's most vehement opponents — and there are plenty — have ever questioned the old curmudgeon's integrity. There is no rational way he could have been on anyone's list of political suspects who might sell their office for a sackful of greenbacks.

Yet there he was on the Justice Department's prospective hit list. None other than Philip Heymann, former head of the department's criminal division, has testified under oath that U.S. Attorney Chuck Ruff asked him to authorize payment of a bribe to Thurmond. Heymann said he made the decision to OK the bribe offer "within 15 minutes" of Ruff's telephone call.

When asked how Ruff and the FBI proceeded against Thurmond, Heymann said: "I don't know exactly what they did, but they proceeded, and Thurmond, I think, did not respond."

Ruff declined to say why Thurmond had been selected or whether a bribe had actually been offered to him. But in a telephone interview, Heymann told my associate Indy Badwar he stands by his account of the proposed bribe offer.

At the same time, Heymann insisted that Thurmond was never a "target." He explained this apparent contradiction by saying it was then-Rep. John Jenrette, D-S.C., who had boasted that Thurmond would take a bribe.

Jenrette, who was convicted at his AB-

SCAM trial, insists, however, that it was FBI undercover agent Anthony Amoroso and ABSCAM middleman Mel Weinberg who first brought up Thurmond's name.

"Maybe I did wrong, and I'll pay for it," said Jenrette, "but they first asked me about Thurmond." According to Jenrette, Amoroso and Weinberg thought Thurmond was susceptible to bribery because of what they described as Thurmond's questionable purchase of a Myrtle Beach condominium in his wife's name. Beyond their alleged suspicions, there is not a shred of evidence that Thurmond's condominium deal was less than aboveboard.

"They kept pressuring me to get to Thurmond," Jenrette said. "They kept telling me, 'We know he'll do it.'" He said they used to call him early in the morning, "when I was still in bed, to talk about Thurmond."

Jenrette said he never made an approach to Thurmond but admitted that he misled Amoroso and Weinberg into believing that he had; he told them Thurmond was willing to cosponsor immigration legislation for the supposed ABSCAM Arab sheik. After that, he said, they kept pressuring him to "produce" Thurmond for a meeting in a Washington hotel or in the Georgetown rowhouse that had been rigged with hidden videotape cameras.

Jenrette said he recommended a meeting in Thurmond's office, "but they told me it would be risky to carry a suitcase of money to the Hill."

Heymann still insists Thurmond was not considered a target. "We were trying to call Jenrette's bluff," he said. "As we now know, he lied about Thurmond."

The FBI supports Heymann's version of the story, and a spokesman said, "Our policy in ABSCAM was never to suggest names or target individuals."

The G-men had better hope Thurmond believes them. As chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, the crusty South Carolinian is one of the last persons on Capitol Hill the FBI should antagonize.

Women Cross Breast-Feed

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Health Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — University of Louisville researchers say the boom in breast-feeding these days includes the emergence of cross-nursing — breast-feeding someone else's baby.

"Breast-feeding mothers are beginning to trade babysitting with other nursing mothers, with feedings as part of the arrangement," said the report in Pediatrics, a journal of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

"Cross-nursing is a logical and practical extension of the resurgence of breast-feeding itself.

"Reciprocally, an increase in cross-nursing may boost the incidence of breast-feeding, in that the nursing mother would not be as tied down and thus may be more willing to try it."

"This may be especially true in the case of employed mothers..."

The report from Judith Z. Krantz and Nancy S. Kupper, in the departments of pediatrics and family practice, said interviews with mothers who cross-nurse showed the practice appears to have had no ill effect on them or their infants.

But the report said there are potential dangers. "The La Leche League discourages cross-nursing, feeling that it interferes with the bonding process and promotes transmission of infectious disease."

"With these possible drawbacks in mind, a group of three women who occasionally crossnurse while babysitting for each other's infants were interviewed," the report said.

All of the women were white, middle class, married, and in their early 30s.

"The babies were all female and about 4 months old."

"None of the mothers smoked or took any medication; two took vitamins regularly.

Caffeine consumption was low to moderate. "Cross-nursing generally occurred while one woman was babysitting for another and was not done for its own sake."

Physical effects on babies. "The women reported the babies all appeared to have received enough milk... inasmuch as they did not immediately demand feeding from their own mothers upon reunion."

Behavioral reaction of babies. "Upon being offered the breast by a different mother, all of the babies were described as 'looking puzzled.' One reared back at first, but all did 'latch on.'"

Women's reactions. "All of the women noticed a variety in nursing styles and strength of suck among the babies. None of the mothers reported feeling any differently about their own babies. All of the mothers felt closer to each other. One mother said — 'You know a woman trusts you if she lets you nurse her baby.'"

The authors of the report said they have encountered examples of cross-nursing in other parts of the country. They concluded: "Cross-nursing may be a quite common, if unreported, practice."

If a patient wants to cross-nurse, the report to pediatricians said the cross-nursing mother should be healthy, taking no medication, well nourished and ideally with an infant about the same age as the unrelated one she will put to breast.

The report also recommended cross-nursing mothers should be screened for syphilis, hepatitis-associated antigen, and other potentially dangerous infectious agents.

It said a cross-nursing mother ideally would be one who does not smoke, drink alcohol or large amounts of caffeinated or saccharin-sweetened beverages.

ROBERT WALTERS

Another Question Of Ethics

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Now that he's an important government official, explains Gilbert A. Robinson, it just wouldn't be appropriate for him to comment on the recent unpleasantness involving the China Exhibition Corp.

That's unfortunate, because Robinson was both principal organizer and board chairman of CEC—a firm whose trail of unpaid debts, amounting to more than $1 million, stretches from coast to coast.

Robinson's experience is hardly an isolated one. In fact, it typifies and emerging pattern in which those closely identified with President Reagan's administration find themselves accused of engaging in questionable commercial practices.

That situation was perhaps unavoidable because the president has relied heavily upon the business community as a talent pool to staff his administration, yet he has demonstrated little personal sensitivity to the ethical problems that often arise in the hurly-burly of the business world.

The record to date includes the following cases:

—Apparently oblivious to the potential for conflict-of-interest problems, Reagan appointed to his transition team numerous lawyers, lobbyists and business executives whose organizations had a commercial interest in the work of the departments and business agencies to which they were assigned.

—A leading Treasury Department official has been repeatedly investigated for his role in awarding a $223,000 non-competitive federal contract for access to an economic forecasting "model" he earlier developed and owned.

—Michael Reagan, the president's son, was forced to resign from his position with two firms after it was disclosed that he had used his father's name in letters soliciting government contracts for one of those companies.

—Those cases have been widely publicized, but Robinson's has received little attention—even through his company's long list of creditors ranges from major banks to small businesses in New York, Chicago and San Francisco.

A veteran New York public relations man and political operative, Robinson was selected last year to organize the first trade show staged in this country by the People's Republic of China—notwithstanding his complete lack of experience in staging such exhibitions.

At an estimated cost of $5.5 million, the trade fair ran for two to three weeks in each of three cities—San Francisco, Chicago and New York—last autumn and winter.

San Francisco attendance of almost 300,000 far exceeded the firm's estimates, but the show attracted fewer than 200,000 of the 300,000 expected in Chicago and in New York the turnout was only 200,000 of the projected 500,000.

As a result of what industry officials described as inept planning and execution, CEC's unpaid bills are estimated to range from $1 million to $3 million. Robinson even made a trip to Peking in a futile effort to convince the Chinese government to bail him out.

The list reads like a "Who's Who" of pitchers' nightmares. More times than once, a struggling young hurler has awakened to the pounding dreams of Twins' bats hitting his horsehide.

Now, on the horizon of (AA) baseball, a new breed is developing. They are spawning at Orlando—Minnesota's Southern League affiliate. They can hit and win. They won their division by 8½ games.

They are called the O-Twins. But Saturday, July 4, they will be the S-Twins because they are coming to Sanford Memorial Stadium to host Knoxville at 11 a.m.

Tickets are $2 for adults, $1 for children and 50 cents for Little Leaguers accompanied by their coach. Bats, balls, gloves and spikes will be up for grabs for the Little Leaguers with special tickets courtesy of Sanford's baseball guru Wes Rinker.

And this breed of Twins brings plenty of credentials with it. SIX Twins have home run totals in double figures. FIVE Twins are batting .295 or higher. FIVE Twins have driven in 45 or more runs with the season just half over.

Their names are Tim Laudner, Gary Gaetti, Randy Bush, Steve Douglas, Lance Hallberg, Scott Ullger, Andre David, Tim Teufel and Rod Booker.

Manager Tom Kelly, a precocious 30-year-old, in a league of grizzled veterans has grown up with them. He feels some are of major league stock and thinks they will form their lines in the "Twin Hit Parade."

Kelly produced two division pennants for Visalia (A) the past two years. About half of his team moved East with him to continue the trend this year at Orlando.

"I don't really know what it is about Twins and hitting," mused the smooth-talking redhead Wednesday after throwing batting practice. "It's just something that's always been there."

Kelly was a first-baseman outfielder for the Twins for three years. He is aware that Minnesota moves its managers through the ranks as well as major league organization.

And he doesn't deny that he has an eye on the parent club's managerial position—someday.

But for now Kelly is just worried about his O-Twins, where he feels his age is a definite advantage. "I'm not that much older than these guys," said Kelly. "I feel I can relate to them better than some older manager."

For three years now the relationship has been good. Catcher Laudner has been on a homer binge of late, crashing four "dingers" in the past week. He leads the Twins with 22 blasts. He has 49 "ribbies."

Just behind Laudner is third baseman Gary Gaetti. The Centralia (Il.) product has 17 homers and 58 RBI. "This is definitely a hitting team," agreed Gaetti about the Twins' 99 home runs which is ahead of the league-record pace of Asheville (N.C.) with 146 in 1964.

Kelly feels that Laudner and Gaetti are both solid pro prospects. "Gary had a little trouble adjusting to third base, but he's played it much better the second half. Tim has to improve defensively. But both can hit the ball," stressed Kelly.

Which can be said for the rest, too. Randy Bush, left field, is batting .309 after two hits Wednesday. He is among the league leaders with 58 runs. Bush has 10 "laters."

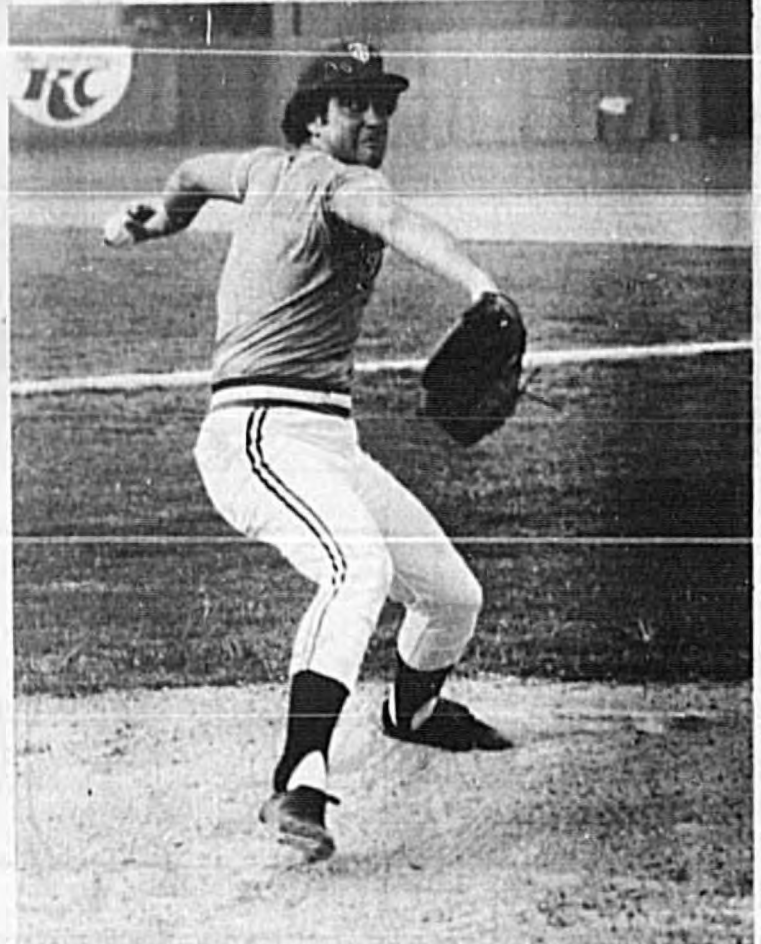

Leading off for the Twins is minor-league veteran Steve Douglas. Right-fielder Douglas is still adjusting to his number one spot, but has produced a .302 average along the way.

Behind Douglas is left-handed swinger Andre David, the Twins best outfielder. David patrols the center pasture in Tinker and bats .250. Scott Ullger is the designated hitter and leads the Twins in RBI with 63. He has 13 round trippers.

First baseman Lance Hallberg and second sacker Tim Teufel each have stroked 12 home runs. Hallberg has chased home 45 runs. Rod Booker is the shortstop. He is a solid .303 hitter and covers the ground on the left side.

Catcher George Skeens and infielder Manny Colletti are the backups for the Twins. Gaetti leads the club with 10 game-winning hits. Ullger has seven and Bush six.

The beneficiary of all this run production is the O-Twins' pitching staff. Brad Havens and Steve Mapel—both 10-game winners—were the staff's best, but were called up. Havens went right to Minnesota and Mapel went to Toledo (AA).

Scott Gleckel has a 2.74 earned-run average.

"We lost two pitchers, but we got one (Frank Viola) from St. Johns University," pointed out former major leaguer Gary Serum, who is a short-relief man for Kelly. "He's picked up a lot. The main thing is just to get up for the second half as we did the first."

Viola (1-0), a left-hander, teams with fellow southpaw Scott Gleckel (5-4) to give the O-Twins a solid portside combination. Gleckel's ERA is a fine 2.74, while Viola's is 3.00.

Jack Hobbs (4-5), Ted Krony (7-4) and Bob Konopa (5-5) complete the starting rotation. Serum and right-hander Steve Green lead the bull pen with seven saves. Serum's ERA is 3.34 and Green's is 3.68.

"One time I come in and strike them out and the next time I give up a couple of hits," said Serum. "I think it'll take about a year, then I'll get back up there (the major leagues) again."

Don't look now Gary, but you might have some familiar company.

Orlando 'Hits' Saturday

Orlando's Twins were rained out Thursday night. A double-header is scheduled for Friday at 6:30 p.m. at Tinker Field. After the O-Twins-Knoxville 11 a.m. clash Saturday at Sanford Memorial Stadium, the Sanford All Stars host Inverness at 2 p.m. The All-stars host Inverness again Sunday for a double-header at 1 p.m.

It reads like a print-out from some computer programmer. Or maybe when owner Calvin Griffith first tenders the player's signature he hauls him into a hypnotist's office and mesmerizes him into a hitter.

Whatever, since the inception of the Twins—and even before as the Washington Senators—the men playing for Griffith have always been able to send a baseball back at the opposition.

Harmon Killebrew, Rod Carew, Tony Oliva, Bob Allison, Jimmy Hall, Lyman Bostock, Ken Landreaux, Larry Hiale, Minnesota Twins...can hit. Minnesota Twins...can hit. Minnesota Twins...can hit. Minnesota Twins...can hit.

Ervin Keys Riggs Realty 'B' Title

By BENTON WOOD
Herald Sports Writer

A most valuable player wasn't selected in this year's series, but if the debate would have risen the mention of Joe Ervin's name would have ended the discussion.

The left-center fielder for Riggs Realty sparked a 4-3 victory in the first game with a two-run, two-out inside-the-park homer and keyed a three-run sixth inning rally in game three with a two-run double as the first hall champs downed Cooper's Pub in the finale 12-10 for the league crown.

Cooper's Pub forced a third game with an 8-5 win in game two, but Ervin turned back the second half victors in the last set.

The left-handed swinging Ervin was perfect from the plate in game three, lining four backside hits including the game winner.

With the score knotted at 4-4, Cooper's Pub knocked its opponent against the ropes with a four-run fifth.

Riggs Realty fought back with a two-out rally in its half of the fifth to score five runs and take a 9-8 edge. Jay Payne reached base on an error and was followed with five consecutive singles and another error.

Cooper's Pub came up with a two-out rally of its own in the top half of the sixth to tie the game at 9-9. Riggs Realty had a chance to get out of the inning without any damage, but third baseman Grady Legette muffed a Bobby Butler pop-up to put the tying run aboard. Consecutive singles to center by Tony Blalle and Ed Bussard pushed Butler across to score.

The game didn't remain tied long, though. With runners at first and second and two outs Ervin blasted his double to left center scoring Kevin Denton with the temporary lead run and Payne with the eventual game winner. Ervin scored the final run of the inning on an infield hit and an error.

In the first game Riggs Realty was shut down to just three hits and no runs through four innings before it broke the ice with an unearned run in the bottom of the fifth.

Cooper's Pub was still clinging to its 2-1 lead with two outs and Payne on first in the sixth when Ervin stepped to the plate. He slugged the pitch past outfielders David Price and Lonnie Taylor and the ball rolled to the fence in the deepest part of center field as the speedy Ervin circled the bases giving his club a 3-2 edge.

Two hits and an error in the top of the seventh helped Cooper's Pub tie the game at 3-3 before a Wayne Lively sacrifice fly gave Riggs Realty the 4-3 win in the bottom half of the inning. A six-run second inning gave Cooper's Pub all the runs it needed to capture game two.

Two walks forced in the first Cooper's Pub runs before a Terry Hawks two-run single up the middle handed them a lead they would never relinquish. Price and Randy Maxwell drove in the final two runs of the inning with singles to right.

Ervin led Riggs Realty with six hits in nine at-bats during the three games while teammates Lovie Lively and Paul Payne were each five-for-10.

Taylor, Price and Dan Cannon rapped five hits each on the night for Cooper's Pub.

Poppa Jay's, Petroleum Battle For Third

The number two teams from Sanford's two little major leagues will tangle Saturday to decide third place in the city.

Poppa Jay's of the Sanford Little National League brings a 15-3 record into the game, which will be held at 6:30 p.m. and will end just before the annual fireworks display over Lake Monroe. Seminole Petroleum, which will represent the Sanford Little American League in the game, has a 13-5 record.

The game will be the second half of a Sanford Youth Baseball Association doubleheader. In the first game, at 4:30 p.m., the top players from the Sanford Pee Wee League will play an all-star game at Fort Mellon Park.

As a team, Poppa Jay's had the best batting average in the city this year, posting a .387 mark.

Willie McCloud leads the team in hitting with a .510 average. He collected 25 hits in 49 at bats. Two other players shared the lead in hits with 20 hits in 49 at bats. Two other players shared the lead in runs with 25, but had more at bats. Ronald Blake was 25 for 32, a .481 average and his 10-year-old nephew, Jeff Blake, was 25 for 56 for a .446 average.

Other top hitters for Poppa Jay's are Dexter Deboe (.428), Stewart Gordon (.418), Lawrence Ayers (.400), Kevin Campbell (.379) and Joey Sheehan (.333).

Ronald Blake had the best pitching record on the team and in the league, finishing with a perfect 6-0 mark. McCloud was 4-2 and Jeff Blake was 2-1.

Seminole Petroleum posted a .278 team batting average. Leading the team at the plate was Tommy Mitchell with 23 hits in 47 at bats for a .489 average. Marvin Killingworth was 23 for 51 for a .451 average.

Among the other top hitters on the team at Patrick Williams (.415), Mat Hines (.289) and Lewis Wade (.244).

Williams led the Seminole Petroleum pitching staff in victories with a 7-3 record, while Killingworth was 3-0 and Mitchell was 3-2.

The Sanford Pee Wee League has been divided into two divisions for the all-star game. The Automotive Division consists of players from League Champ Clem Leonard Shell, Bulch's Chevron and Ken Kern's Garage. The Business Division is made up of players from Adcock Roofing, Rinker Materials and Seminole Sporting Goods.

Playing for the Automotive Division are: Keith Armondi, W.L. Gracey, Brett Hansen, Michael Hartman, Denver Johnson, Michael Merthie, Jessie Nightingale, Wayne Palmer, Tony Pritchard, Lenard Richardson, Bill Shaw, Bruce Taylor, Shawn Washington, Kerry Wiggins and Dackory Williams. The team is coached by Bill Gracey and David Armondi.

Business Division players are: Eddie Adams, John Bryant, Timmy Hampton, Brian Howard, Steve Johnson, Jimmy Klitcheva, Ty Koke, David Lambert, Edgar Lemon, Eddie Phillips, Anton Reid, Mike Roberts, Eric Small, Mike Wilks and Elbert Williams. The team is coached by Sid Lloyd, Andy Nichols, Shelton Franklin and Jimmy Johnson.

Evert-Mandilkova meet today. See Page 8A.

Black Ribbon Honors Smith

A black ribbon has been added to the sleeves of all all-star uniforms worn by teams representing the Sanford Youth Baseball Association.

The ribbons were placed on the uniforms in memory of Harry Smith, Sanford's superintendent of recreation who died June 28. The Sanford Youth Baseball Association fields all-star teams representing the Sanford Little American League, the Sanford Little National League and the Sanford Junior League.

The Sanford Americans and the Sanford Nationals will both participate in the week-long Florida Little Major League sub-district tournament which opens Monday at Sanford's Fort Mellon Park.

"Harry Smith was such a key part of our baseball program, especially at all-star time when he did so many of the important things necessary to field the all-star teams," said Gary Taylor, president of the Sanford Youth Baseball Association. "The black ribbons will be worn by every star this year as a tribute to Harry and the contribution he made to our baseball program."

Several members of the Elder Springs Homemakers Club donated their time last week to sew on the black ribbons.

HOROSCOPE
By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Saturday, July 4, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY
July 4, 1981

There is a strong possibility this coming year that you can develop several new channels to add to your income and resources. What makes it more admirable is that they are apt to be your own creations.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Lake Luck continues to favor you materially, provided you're not looking for something for nothing. She's apt to turn her back on you if you take foolish gambles. Find out more of what lies ahead of you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of AstroGraph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're a take-charge type today. Others will recognize this quality and go along with you, if you don't try to alter the procedures too much.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Conditions are developing in favorable ways which should allow you to fulfill a secret ambition. You'd be wise not to talk about it, however.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This should be a fun day for you. Things in general will work out to your liking. There is a clinker you make have to contend with, however, and that's your extravagance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you let matters run their course today, the end result should be very rewarding. Injecting changes might throw conditions off-kilter. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Should you have to make a choice today between spending time with old friends or with newer acquaintances, choose the former. Old pals wear better.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is a good day to arrange something sociable with persons you work with or with those who could give your career a boost. Share time with kindred spirits.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Stick to your original plans today and all should work out smoothly. Making sudden changes in order to accommodate others may spoil everyone's fun.

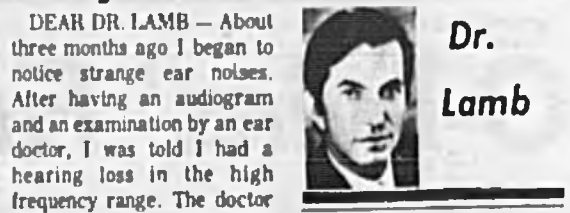

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Frivolous pursuits may provide others with enjoyment today, but you're not apt to be content unless you feel you're doing something constructive.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Seek companions today who are as active and fun-loving as yourself. Try to keep everything on a pure pleasure level. Don't inject serious topics.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Material opportunities could come through persons with whom you are associating today. In your case, business and pleasure make a profitable mix.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're a bit more daring than your contemporaries today. This is OK, provided you use good judgment. Curb impulses to take erratic risks.

Ringing In Ears May Be Tinnitus

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — About three months ago I began to notice strange ear noises. After having an audiogram and an examination by an ear doctor, I was told I had a hearing loss in the high frequency range. The doctor told me there was nothing that could be done about it, that it was a common complaint with aging. I'm 64. He said I would just have to tolerate it and live with it.

If you can imagine the sounds of bees buzzing, meat frying in the pan, water running, a snake hissing and loud pulsation noises happening all at once, that is what I am experiencing. I understand the word for this is tinnitus. Should I seek further advice? Can you help me in any way?

DEAR READER — Perhaps you should seek a second opinion. Ear noises may be caused from something simple, such as wax in the ears, which is probably not your case since you just had an examination. They can be caused by some medicines, including ordinary aspirin.

Sometimes they are associated with a hearing loss and if a suitable hearing aid is provided after careful matching with your special loss by an audiologist, it can eliminate the problem. The improvement in hearing makes you less aware of the annoying sounds.

Still others are not associated with a hearing loss and can be benefited by a tinnitus masker. This device provides constant sound to the ears that literally masks the annoying sounds. Not all audiologists are certified to dispense the tinnitus masker if it is needed.

The different things that might be done for people with ear noises are discussed in The Health Letter number 12-10, Help for Tinnitus — Noise or Ringing in the Ears. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

Some doctors might think you have neurocirculatory asthenia, in view of your description and the absence of findings on your examination. That is a term used for symptoms of that nature noted in anxiety. They are sometimes seen in people who are exercising above their level of fitness — such as trying to train too fast.

Why don't you eliminate all coffee, teas and colas and try to relax a bit more and see if that helps. If not, you might want to investigate any psychological factors that may be causing you stress.

player with conservative tendencies. In explanation of the bidding, South wasn't really prepared for the horrible dummy that hit the table. South had expected a singleton club or maybe even a void, but he did expect to find the king of spades.

Still, after the diamond lead, South saw that if no one held three spades or five hearts the slam was coming in. He ruffed the diamond, played his ace of spades and started on hearts. When the second high heart held, South was home since he could discard dummy's one club on the third high heart and ruff out East's jack.

West was really annoyed at himself for leading that diamond. He said to South, "I should have known you were void of diamonds. You might have been void of clubs also, but that redouble should have made me lead the club ace."

"Looking back, it is a fine theory," replied South. "But I just doubt if anything could persuade you not to open a diamond. After all, the proof of the pudding is in the eating. I did redouble and you did lead the diamond."

Dwarf Plants Popular In Landscapes

Dwarf plants are becoming increasingly popular in our landscapes. Their smallness makes them easier to manage than large shrubbery, and there are a variety of ways to use dwarf plants effectively.

Probably the first thing we need to do is describe exactly what a dwarf plant is. A dwarf plant is one that has been specially developed to be a miniature of a larger shrub.

While a normal shrub may grow six to eight feet high most dwarfs are three feet high or less when full-grown. Many popular landscape plants now come in dwarf varieties. These include junipers, pyracantha, gardenia, bamboo, barberry, crape myrtle, yucca, and holly.

Many areas of the landscape are well-suited for dwarf plants. Patio areas, entrances, and walkways are good places to display dwarf plants. Dwarfs should be placed in small, detailed areas, where they can be seen at close range. They won't make a significant contribution to your landscape if you use them for back borders or distant plantings.

Dwarf plants are highly versatile and adaptable. You can find dwarfs for just about any lighting requirements, ranging from full shade to open sun. Dwarfs which prefer full shade are holly fern, aucuba, fatsia, dwarf azalea, mahonia, and vinca.

For an area which receives a lot of sunlight, plant dwarfs such as junipers, barberry, holly, crape myrtle, pyracantha and pomegranate. Many dwarf plants will grow well in either sunlight or partial shade. These include Japanese black pine, purple honeysuckle, Indian hawthorne, boxwood and many hollies.

The uses for dwarf plants in the landscape are practically endless. Because of their size, they mix well in groups of plants, or they can be used alone as accent plants. Some dwarfs make very good ground covers, while others are excellent for potted plants in patio areas.

The best dwarf plants to use for specimen or accent plantings are holly fern, fatsia, aucuba, Japanese black pine, yucca and bamboo. These are hardy plants which will tolerate winter conditions out of doors. When cold weather comes, you won't have to move these plants from your patio areas.

Other uses for dwarf plants include clipped borders, landscaping beneath low windows, and planter box plantings. The biggest advantage here is that using a dwarf plant will eliminate the need for constant pruning. Since dwarfs only reach a certain height, it's easy to keep the plant in proper perspective with things like window sills, fences, and other landscape features.

Many dwarfs have another advantage in that they decorate your landscape with seasonal blooms. Some of the most popular ones are dwarf gardenia, azalea, crape myrtle, Japanese purple honeysuckle, and Indian hawthorne. Dwarfs, such as holly, mahonia, and pyracantha, produce colorful berries.

Others which produce neither flowers nor berries, will still make an attractive addition to your landscape through their brightly colored foliage. These include aucuba, senecio, nandina, and some junipers.

If you have any additional questions about dwarf plants feel free to contact us at the Agricultural Center in Sanford.

All extension programs are open to anyone regardless of race, color, sex or national origin.

Cleveland At Helm Of Rotary-Breakfast

Rotary Club of Sanford-Breakfast held Ladies Night and Installation of officers on June 25 at Jerry's Restaurant, Sanford Airport. The installing officer was Carlton E. (Gene) Colley, Governor, District 698 (1981-82) Rotary International, from Winter Park.

The new officers are, from left, Ernie Cavallaro, treasurer; Duane Harrell, secretary; Jim Jernigan, Sergeant-at-arms; "Tony" Russi, retiring president; J.S. "Red" Cleveland, president; Lee Wheeler, vice president; and Gene Colley.

"Tony" Russi was named the club's Paul Harris Fellow. See OURSELVES section Sunday.

Widow Has Nagging Urge To Dig Past

DEAR ABBY: Roy and I had a long and happy marriage. Shortly after we were married, I asked him if he had ever had sex with anyone else. He said yes, before he knew me. Then he told me her name was Maggie. He said he had gone to her home to take out her sister, but she had stood him up, so just to get even, he took out Maggie, and that's when it happened. Roy said they were both in their teens.

Roy is dead now, and I recall that there was a basket of flowers at his funeral with a card signed, "From a friend." I have a feeling they were from Maggie. It never bothered me while Roy was living, but it bothers me now. Maggie lives near me. She is also a widow. Whenever I see her I have this nagging urge to tell her that I knew what happened between her and Roy, even though it was before he knew me.

Is there any way I can get rid of this nagging urge?

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: Try not to dwell on it. And if you find yourself painfully preoccupied with this incident which has absolutely no significance or importance now, see a therapist and talk it out of your system. No purpose would be served by telling Maggie that you "know."

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow (63) who would like to marry again, but I'm not desperate. I met a widower two years ago who begged me to go out with him. At first I wouldn't go because although he is good and kindhearted, he is very careless about himself. He finally broke me down and I went out with him, but I had to ask him to please take a bath because we were going someplace special. Before I accepted another date with him, I bought a deodorant and asked him to use it. Even though he says he bathes regularly, I can't believe it. If he does, he puts the same dirty socks and underwear on, because the man is just not clean, and he smells terrible!

When he wears a suit, there are stains all over it. He says he loves me and wants to marry me, but how can I marry a man who smells so bad nobody wants to sit down next to him?

If it weren't for this one fault, he would make a good husband because he is good company and a kind person. I told him several times what is wrong with him, but he refuses to believe it. Maybe if you print my letter he will take the hint and clean up. He's in his middle 60s—too young to be going senile. What is wrong with him, Abby?

FUSSY WIDOW

DEAR FUSSY: He is either lazy or stingy. (Maybe both.) Don't expect this letter to work a miracle. If you've told him and it made no impression, he's a lost cause. Pity. Worse yet, a dirty shame.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from WEAK IN ILLINOIS, who went from one adulterous affair to another, could have been written by me. I wish I could control this terrible sex drive. The idea of an Adulterers Anonymous is a good one. Just being able to talk to someone who has the same weakness would be a big help.

LEON C. SHERROD

Floridian Elected To High Moose Post

Leon C. Sherrod of Orlando, was elected Supreme Junior Governor of the Loyal Order of Moose during its 93rd annual convention in New Orleans, La. on June 24.

His newly elected position is the second highest elected office in the over 1,300,000 member fraternal Order with Moose Lodge affiliations located in the U.S., Canada, and Great Britain.

The fraternity dedicates itself to community service and care for the children of its members in Mooseheart, Ill., and its aged members at Moosehaven in Orange Park, Fla.

Upon joining Orlando Moose Lodge 766 in 1950, Sherrod became an active member. He served on many committees and was elected to several offices.

A life member of Seminole Moose Legion 81 and charter member of Indian River Moose Legion 178, he worked his way through the chairs to become North Moose in 1967. He was president of the Florida Moose Association in 1965.

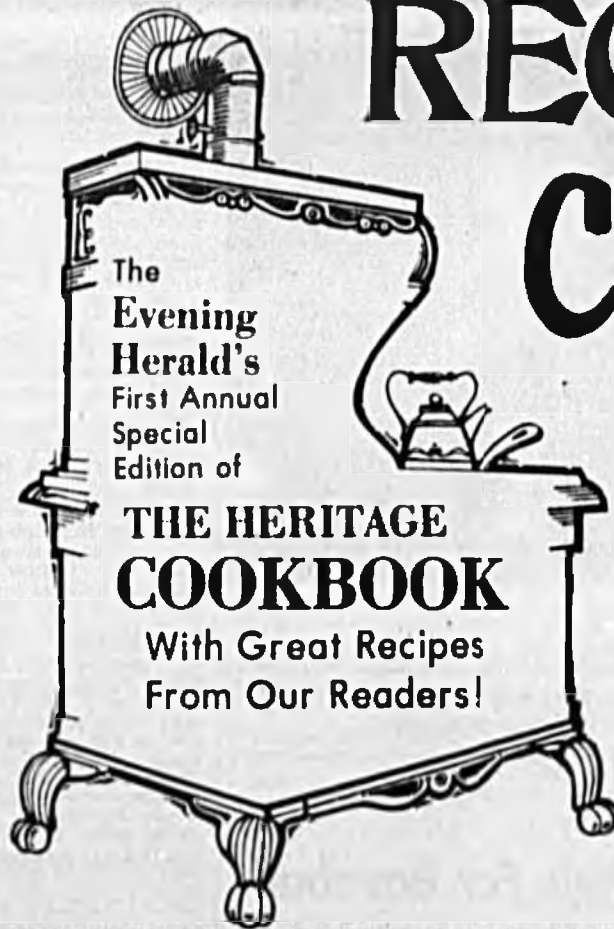

Sherrod served as Deputy Supreme Governor of Florida for three years. He was appointed to the Moosehaven Board of Governors in 1971 and elected to the fraternity's Supreme Council in 1974.

A member of the 175 Division of the 25-Club, Sherrod was awarded the Fellowship Degree in 1963 and the Pilgrim Degree of Merit, the Order's highest degree, in 1965.

He and his wife Thelma, live in Orlando.

Borg, McEnroe Vie

Mandlikova, Evert Settle Score Today

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Top seed Chris Evert Lloyd and second seed Hana Mandlikova, each with a score to settle, contest the women's singles final at Wimbledon today following a day of men's semifinals which combined drama, tantrums and a titanic battle between Bjorn Borg and Jimmy Connors.

Evert, the beaten finalist at Wimbledon for the last three years, will be out not only to regain the crown she won in 1974 and 1976, but to avenge last month's French Open semifinal, where she suffered only her second clay-court defeat in eight years — at the hands of Mandlikova.

The 19-year-old Czech, surely en route to becoming one of the great women's players, lost to Evert in the final of the U.S. Open last year and will be trying to reverse that defeat. In addition, a victory would place Mandlikova closer to a "Grand Slam" win of the four major singles titles in the world at the same time. She already has won the Australian and French opens.

It remains to be seen whether the young rising star, whose parents are flying in from Czechoslovakia to watch her, can keep calm and collected on the biggest day of her tennis career so far.

"I have always dreamed of winning Wimbledon," Mandlikova said after her semifinal victory.

"If both of us are at the top of our game, there should only be one or two points in it either way," Evert predicted.

But whatever the outcome, the women's final will inevitably be overshadowed by the men's singles championship Saturday, when a replay of last year's classic between Borg, chasing his sixth successive title, and John McEnroe will be held.

Both had difficulty in reaching the final. McEnroe overcame unranked Australian Rod Frawley after three hours, by a tight 7-5 (7-3), 6-4, 7-5 score, and had arguments with an umpire which could lead to a fine in addition to the $1,500 penalty levied earlier in the tournament for similar "unsportsmanlike conduct."

Borg had to produce what he admitted was "one of my greatest comebacks" to overcome a two-set deficit and defeat Connors in a thriller.

Borg seemed set for his first Wimbledon defeat since 1975 when Connors whipped through the first set, 6-0, and also took the second, 6-4.

"I was lucky to survive the match," the 25-year-old Swede said. "But I thought it was awful, there were more good points in this one than in the final last year."

The remorseless Borg took the third set 6-3, demolished Connors 6-0 in the fourth, then survived an enthralling fifth set of magnificent tennis before getting the edge, 6-4.

"He had to play his best stuff to beat me," said Connors, trying to hide his disappointment at losing to Borg for the 10th consecutive time.

Asked if he could salvage some pride in having played so magnificently and drawn the best from Borg, the combative Connors characteristically, but without bitterness, replied, "None of that counts. You win or you lose, that's all."

STRIKE

No News, Good News For Baseball

NEW YORK (UPI) — Negotiators in the 23-day-old baseball strike, with a chance to produce one of the most memorable Independence Days in 205 years, have scheduled a meeting for 11 a.m. EDT Saturday.

However, sources close to the bargaining cautioned Thursday night against assuming a solution was near.

A media blackout — usually a good sign in labor negotiations — was put into effect after a 90-minute session Thursday. Another reason for optimism was the Saturday meeting, as the parties have been taking weekends off.

One high management source said he believed the holiday session could produce some movement.

"The important aspect of Saturday's meeting," said the source, "is that the two sides mutually willed it to happen rather than have the mediator urge them to come to the bargaining table."

The source nevertheless warned against undue optimism. He said even if the compensation problem was somehow solved, the settlement issues might prove troublesome.

"The compensation issue could pale besides things like service time, retroactive salary, who pays for what training, and pension payments," the source said.

The strike, by far the longest in major-league history, has forced the cancellation of 274 games. This weekend marks the unofficial deadline for salvaging the All-Star game, scheduled for July 14 in Cleveland.

JULY 4TH

Our Heritage Of Freedom

This symbol of American independence, her Liberty Bell, was cast in London and was rung for the first time upon the occasion of the first reading of the Declaration of Independence. Inscribed prophetically on the huge iron bell are these words:

"Proclaim Liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

Area Celebrations Planned

He'll Light Your Fireworks

By JOHN GORDON
Special to the Herald

Tomorrow night when Vic Vickers and friends flick their Bic's, traffic cops throughout Central Florida will be the ones feeling the heat.

On every Independence Day for as far back as he can remember, traffic has jammed to a halt on some of the busiest thoroughfares in Seminole and Orange Counties to admire Vickers' work.

Vickers has a federal license to burn fireworks and will be using his skills as a pyrotechnician to create all of the fancy fireworks shows available free to the public tomorrow night.

Vickers promises that his Sanford show over Lake Monroe will be the biggest ever for the area. His crew will come equipped with Roman Candle guns that will shoot 350 multi-colored missiles into the air; a huge American flag ground display, nearly 100 fireworks of various sizes for the bulk of the show and a 70 projectile grand finale.

The half hour show begins at 9 p.m. and will be sponsored for the first time by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Vickers' Altamonte Mall show which follows at 10 p.m. is expected to bring traffic to a standstill at the Interstate 4-State Road 436 intersection as it does every year.

"One of these years I'm going to take a plane up on the Fourth just to see the kind of damage I hear I do," Vickers said.

Usually, he explained, he gets a call or two from a traffic patrolman or state trooper who had to untie a jamup of motorists who would stop their cars in the middle of the highway to watch the skyshow.

The Fourth of July is Vickers' busiest time of year. He and his son, Steve, will hire on a total of 80 assistants to cover 26 shows his business will put on tomorrow night.

But after all the flagwaving is over for another year, Vickers is just getting his second wind. During the rest of the year the Orlando resident is hawking his sparkly wares at trade shows, conventions, universities and tourist attractions throughout the southeast United States. "And we're about to go international," Vickers said, "We just got a call this week from the Bolivian Consulate in Miami asking us to do a show in LaPaz July 16. We took it."

Which one of his many aerial tricks produces the biggest crowd reaction?

"Well, surprisingly enough, it's one of our cheapest rockets called a 'Pidgeon' or 'wire rat,'" Vickers explained. "All they are are small rockets that are attached by a loop to long pieces of wire we can run for long distances just about anywhere. When we use several wires running in all directions and a rocket on each wire, the effect is breathtaking."

At one past July 4 show in Orlando, a firework manufacturer's mistake turned into an unexpected crowd pleaser for Vickers and company.

"If I remember this right a series of Roman Candles we set off at Eola Park that night did not fire up as high as they were supposed to and dropped into Lake Eola before the fireball had time to extinguish itself in the air," Vickers recalled. "After all the underwater gurgling stopped they (the crowd) all yelled at us to do it again."

When the Orlando International Airport officially opens its doors later this year, Vic Vickers and crew will be there with what he calls his fanciest show to date. In addition to the regular skyshow, Vickers plans to construct a model of a Boeing 747 out of wood and aluminum framework, plenty of wire and hundreds of fireworks.

The entire contraption will be mounted to a moving crane with an up and down boom.

"If all goes right," he said, "The view from the jetport terminal will be of a jelliner sparkling down the north runway. It will look like it will take off then land at the end of the runway before the fire goes out."

One of Vickers' favorite shows is put on for anyone contemplating a divorce. "For a fee, we put on a regular show, then for a finale we burn out the silhouette of our client's ex-husband or ex-wife," Vickers said.

"Then at the end of the burn, we blow the whole display

Fireworks expert Vic Vickers gets into practice for tomorrow's evening of skyshows by lighting up a model of skyrockets used at his 26 performances around Central Florida. Vickers is one of a handful of federally licensed pyrotechnicians in Florida and is responsible for all of the sparkle seen in the skies of Seminole County on Independence Day.

Playing the part of her mother, Marie Osmond will star in "Side by Side: The Story of the Osmond Family," a two-hour musical biography for NBC's Project Peacock series.

The show will focus on the courtship of 18-year-old Olive Davis and 26-year-old George Osmond and their subsequent marriage. It will continue into the early 1960s when their sons made their first TV appearance on "The Andy Williams Show."

George Osmond will be played by Joe Bottoms, who had roles in NBC's "Holocaust" and the motion picture "The Black Hole." Production began in early June, with most of the filming to take place in Provo, Utah.

Program about rape

The rape of a 14-year-old girl is the theme of a special two-part series of "Little House on the Prairie," to be rebroadcast Monday and July 13 in the program's regular time period.

Michael Landon, who wrote and directed this episode, says, "We're dealing with the traumatic effect of rape on the girl—who is somehow made to feel that she did something wrong—and the reaction of others as she is smothered in a world of gossip and confusion.

"I'm hoping that the show will open a dialogue between parents and their children," Landon continues. "I want my children to see the program, and I hope other parents feel the same way."

to pieces and light up the words "I'm Free!" where the silhouette was!"

Vickers was 15 when his father, the stadium manager at the University of Tulsa (Okla.), introduced him to pyrotechnics.

Vickers moved to Central Florida after World War II where he gained an early reputation in the advertising and public relations field. He specialized in helping businesses sell themselves to the potential buying public.

He also served as promotions director for the Colonial Plaza Shopping Center in Orlando and sales manager for WFTV (Channel 9).

"Advertising and public relations in the area have always been dog-eat-dog," Vickers reasoned. "So I said to myself, to Hell with it. Why not do something you like to do?"

So now Vickers does something he really gets a bang out of.

A Real Life Drama Of Paralysis And Recovery

"It took less than a second to change my life," says Jack Willis of the Accident that paralyzed him shortly before his planned marriage.

That time of trial for him and Mary, then his fiancee, is the subject of "Some Kind of Miracle," a dramatic motion picture for television starring David Duke and Andrea Marcovicci, to be rebroadcast Tuesday on CBS.

The moving drama begins with the day when Joe, (the fictional Jack Willis) while surfing at a California beach with his fiancee, is caught by a wave and slammed down hard on the sand. Injury to his spinal cord leaves him unable to move from the chest down.

The test of their love begins as doctors assess the extent of the damage and Joe's chances of recovery. There are hard questions to answer as to their personal relationship when they realize he may never walk again. However, at a rehabilitation hospital, other patients help the couple in their determination to fight for what is still a good life together.

A sight rarely seen by audiences at fireworks shows are what the fireworks look like before their shot. Above is a small sampling of what Vickers crew fires into the night skies out of guns made out of short, metal cylinders. Most of the explosives and sky bursts are manufactured for Vickers in Sebring, Fla.

ANSWER: Summer Returns

Brooke Shields Stirring Even More Controversy

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Sixteen-year-old Brooke Shields has stirred more controversy in her brief years as model and movie star than many a glamour girl has in a lifetime.

The startlingly beautiful youngster brought the wrath of blue censors down on her head when she appeared in a series of suggestive TV commercials for a designer jeans outfit.

Brooke was chastised by many for her nude scenes (played by another actress) and free love exploits in "The Blue Lagoon" last year.

She made more news last month when objections were raised to her appearance in an anti-smoking campaign posing with cigarettes dangling from each ear.

Now she is in the midst of yet another controversy, the nudity and love-making in "Endless Love." She plays a 15-year-old girl who loses her virginity and enjoys every moment of it.

The cry went up that "Endless Love" might encourage other 15-year-olds to give up their virtue, providing, of course, it is not too late.

Hollywood's self-censorship section of the Motion Picture Association of America saw the film, fought off cardiac arrest and decided to hang an X rating on this film dealing with young love.

The men responsible for "Endless Love," Peter Guber and Jon Peters, went straight through the roof, screaming like wounded bananeas. They claim the MPAA overreacted to the subject matter.

Guber, who produced "Midnight Express" and Peters, who produced "A Star Is Born," are not without credentials.

They feel they've been victimized by the conservative wave sweeping the country politically and by the Moral Majority on the religious front. Both men are parents of teenagers.

After a two-pronged attack on the rating administration office, headed by Richard

BROOKE SHIELDS

Heffner, and a couple of changes, "Endless Love" was given an R rating.

"Part of the problem was that Brooke is such a big celebrity that the MPAA was aware that the film would draw a lot of attention," Guber said.

"The story deals with the exploratory age of teenagers when they begin to experiment with personal liberty and mobility and when they are being assaulted by sexuality on television.

"Their minds and bodies are awakening to sex at age 12. One-hundred and fifty years ago people were getting married at 15. Biologically, most young people are ready for sex at that age. And that's what our movie is about."

Peters added, "It's a story about a girl 15 and a boy 17, the crucial adolescent years, growing up. It's also a story of two families and the differences in their attitudes toward one another.

"We haven't isolated the young people's love story. It's as much a story of the reactions of two sets of parents as it is the involvement of the leading characters in a new relationship, a new experience.

"The picture was made in good taste by one of the best and most sensitive directors in the business, Franco Zeffirelli, who directed 'Romeo and Juliet' so beautifully and tenderly a few years back.

"Sexual awakening in young people is a beautiful thing that can be explored tastefully. If these feelings are denied, they can become cancerous. It's a stage in people's lives that should be dealt with, not ignored."

Guber took over, saying, "I think the code office wanted to demonstrate they were doing their job. The problem is they wanted to give the picture an X for the wrong reasons. They don't worry about violence, only sensitive feelings.

"They didn't get up tight about the content of the film but rather the issue. They were hysterical that we could make a movie about teenage sexual exploration. They didn't believe a 15-year-old could have these emotions.

"What gets me is the power of censorship, the idea that they are able to blow us away is reprehensible. The MPAA was objecting to the subject matter, not actual scenes on the screen."

Peters explained that Zeffirelli made some minor changes demanded by the code office, playing down some steamy love scenes. He said there was no total frontal nudity, just breasts and bottoms.

The breasts and bottom, it was made clear, belong to a double, not Brooke.

"We didn't dwell on the nudity," said Peters. "There's just enough to make the point. It's not gratuitous. It's not explicit. If 'Blue Lagoon' got an R rating, then 'Endless Love' is certainly an R.

"We've made a picture that parents of teenagers ought to see. And kids should see it themselves. I have a 13-year-old son and he loved it."

"My daughter is 14," Guber said. "After seeing the picture she told me it was a learning process that changed her point of view. She didn't think it was dirty.

"The film is erotic and powerful emotionally and it has shock value."

Due for release nationwide July 17, "Endless Love" is certain to add to the growing controversy of its star, Brooke Shields.

Tracing Roots On Camera

"Who am I? Where did I come from...?"

Talkshow and varietyshow host Mike Douglas describes how very moved he was when Alex Haley, the author of "Roots," surprised him with a chart of his genealogy during what Mike thought would be a routine guest on his nationally syndicated show.

Mike recalled that he was "touched, moved, shook up," when Alex came on his show with a "Roots job" for Mike, who except for one strain of German ancestry, is mostly Irish. Says Mike, "Alex went into my genealogy, traced it back to Ireland and it included relatives I'd heard about and many I hadn't. I can't tell you how moved I was."

Mike mused: "I knew about Bradys in my line, of course, but I didn't know, until Alex's study, that there was a relationship to

Diamond Jim Brady."

Most touching, perhaps, and perhaps one of the most motivating influences in Mike's life, was a dear aunt of his in Chicago. "Alex had found out about her, too. She loved me. I loved her." Mike added, with great tenderness, "She was an alcoholic. Even though I worked in nightclubs when I was very young, I've never had a drink in my life."

Do you have to know where you came from to be motivated? Are you crippled psychologically if you don't know the geography and the genetics of both parents? According to long-time television host Art Linkletter, no.

Art is now ranked as one of Hollywood's richest men.

Yet all that he knows of his origins is that there was a note pinned to him when he was left on a doorstep as a founding. It said, "His name is Kelly." He got the names by which he is known when a Baptist minister named Linkletter, and his wife, adopted the abandoned infant.

Book For Parents Of Hospital-Bound Tykes

By DENISE MURCKO WILMS
American Library Assn.

Parents of a child who faces hospitalization are often unsure how to prepare for the experience. Separation may be a worry, though many hospitals permit a parent to stay overnight with their youngster. There is also apprehension over having to live, temporarily, in new surroundings full of unfamiliar faces and strange equipment.

In "The Hospital Book" (Crown, $10.95, 495 pages), James Howe smooths the way by informing children (and their parents) in a realistic, supportive manner.

Although numerous children's books have tackled this subject, generally they have been fiction, with the story's main character encountering hospital routines and adjusting nicely. Here, though, events are firmly grounded in reality, with pictures of real kids in real hospitals. Reassurance is the book's mainstay. That, coupled with hard information, creates a strong antidote against fear.

In the first section, entitled "What's Going to Happen to Me?", readers make their first acquaintance with the hospital setting and routine. They see a typical hospital room which, they will most likely share with other children. They learn pertinent details, such as the fact that they'll eat in bed, and that the bed will be higher than the one at home and will have guardrails so they won't fall out.

Once in the room, they can expect a doctor or nurse to come and talk to them for a "history." After that there will be some simple tests, ones that are given to all patients, regardless of what is wrong with them. One of these is, of course, a blood test which they're assured hurts "only a little, and only for a few moments." Meanwhile, photographs show two blood-taking methods that involve either a needle or a simple lance.

Hospital personnel are introduced too. Besides doctors and nurses, Howe explains about the residents, interns and medical students who may be in attendance. He also describes various less visible staff such as lab technicians or the child life specialist who oversees the playroom.

Hospital equipment is another important subject for discussion. Howe counsels that although objects like a bedpan, urinal or stretcher bed may be unfamiliar, all "have something to do with helping you to get better."

The psychological side of a hospital stay receives attention too.

Somebody Goofed During Filming Of 'The Masada Plan'

DEAR DICK: Could you tell me what was the name and who wrote the music to the television show, "Masada"? MENACHEM HULTMARK, Grand Junction, Mich.

The music had no name; it was called the score to "Masada." Jerry Goldsmith wrote the music for the first four hours, Morton Stevens for the last four hours.

DEAR DICK: Can you explain why in "Masada," when they built the inner wall from the planks of the temple, the first plank was brought to position by one man and the next two planks were carried by six to eight men? R. NIXON, Trenton, N.J.

There are two possible explanations. Either the first plank was balsa wood, which is absurd. Or else they were all props and somebody just goofed and forgot—maybe one scene was shot one day and the other scene was shot a few days later, and they didn't remember what they had done the first time.

DEAR DICK: I have a $5 bet with my husband. I say Phil Donahue, the talkshow host, has his own hair. My husband thinks he has a hairpiece. What do you say? E. M. W., Kalamazoo, Mich.

I entrusted the research on this vital question to Jackie Cooper. He and I collaborated on his autobiography, "Please Don't Shoot My Dog," and he was a guest on Donahue's show. He says he looked closely "and it's all his own hair."

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me if Tyne Daly and Rad Daly of "Walking Tall," are related? G. NICKERSON, Liberty, Pa.

The Dalys are unrelated.

DEAR DICK: I hope you can help me, because a $10 bet it involved. I say that John Davidson replaced Mike Douglas on the TV talk show. My brother, who lives in Texas, bet me that John Davidson replaced Dinah Shore. BLANCHE SHIDELEN, Baton Rouge, La.

You win — the company that produced Douglas' show hired Davidson instead.

'U.S. Chronicle' Back For 2nd Year

"U.S. Chronicle" is back for its second year.

The weekly, award-winning documentary series, with Jim Lehrer as host, returns to public television Sunday with 20 new reports, each one offering viewers a close-up, behind-the-headlines look at national issues and trends.

Award-winning broadcast journalist and correspondent Jim Lehrer will remain with the show as the unifying link in every episode of "U.S. Chronicle," introducing and summarizing each half-hour report.

Each "U.S. Chronicle" program deals with a single topic of national importance, and focuses on what's happening now to people and places, trends and issues. The questions raised are often pointed and controversial, and are examined by the reactions, opinions and experiences of Americans.

What's in store for viewers of "U.S. Chronicle"?

The premier program in the second series, "Abecam and the Philadelphia Story," produced by WHYY, Philadelphia, reports on that city's history of political corruption.

"Lower Lancaster Street," the second program, produced by WHIT, Schenectady, reports on "gentrification"

— a word coined many years ago by London's poor working class, who were evicted from their homes by high-income people they called the landed gentry — and its effects on one city block in Albany, N.Y.

The third and fourth programs in the series are "Boomtown," produced by KRMA, Denver, a report on the modern-day energy boom-town of Craig, Colo., and the problems prosperity is bringing to that community; and "A Different Kind of Life," produced by WETA, Washington, profiles of three women with cancer who continue to lead active lives.

Kathy Cronkite Talks To Children Of Stars

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) - In her book "On the Edge of the Spotlight," Kathy Cronkite interviews the offspring of celebrities to find out what they think about their status as stars' kids.

As a celebrity's child herself — her daddy is Walter — she knows whereof she speaks. She believes that, because of who she is, her subjects opened up more than they would have to a person not related to a celebrity.

And they did. They poured out their grievances, their problems and their celebrations. She says that, though you might expect children of celebrities to discuss this topic whenever they get together, they don't.

"We don't ordinarily talk about it," Miss Cronkite says. "And we don't talk about it to other people, either, because they just wouldn't understand. So it is a subject that is rarely discussed."

Thus the book plows new ground. She got people to talk about that which is seldom talked about.

KATHY CRONKITE

Miss Cronkite herself says she cannot think of any major disadvantage to being the daughter of a very visible and prominent man.

"My father," she says, "was a god, not only to me but to everyone else."

There were, she says, a few minor annoyances attached to that, but basically the results were positive.

"Being the child of someone of that stature," she says, "allows you to grow up with the feeling that anything you want to do is possible, that all doors are open. So you proceed to the rest of your life with that philosophy."

Fear—that's the reason according to one novelist, that we haven't seen any movies about kids who become "Moonies" — converts to the cult founded by the Rev. Sun Myung Moon.

Warren Adler is an expert on the subject. He is a first-rate novelist and playwright who has written a play called "Father Glory," based on his experiences of getting his son out from the cult.

"I've never been able to get it produced," Adler says. "And for some reason no movies based on experiences with the Moonies have been made — fear. Especially since the Lennon killing, people are afraid of kooks, such as the Moonies, and what they can do."

He and his son are still actively fighting the Moonies today. One of their current targets is the big, splashy movie "Inchon," which he says, was made with Moonie money. The Adlers are trying to prevent the premiere of "Inchon" from being held at the Kennedy Center in Washington.

Adler is busy with other activities as well. His newest novel is the facinating "The War of the Roses," which has a powerful shocker of an ending. But when it is filmed—Zanuck-Brown, the company that made "Jaws," has bought it—there will be a different ending.

"I sold it to them," Adler says, "with the proviso that I be allowed to write the script. And I did write the script, and I felt I had to change the ending."

He won't say what the new ending will be, however.

He insisted on writing his own script for this movie because of an experience he had with an earlier novel, "Trans-Siberian Express." It was sold to producer Robert Fryer and, he says, four scripts were written by four different writers. But the movie was never made.

"Afterwards," Adler says, "I was able to get those four scripts and I read them—and one was worse than the other. I realized I could have written better scripts myself."

Adler studied writing in the same class at New York's New School for Social Research with William Styron and Mario Puzo. Those two writers were both successful, but Adler wasn't at first. He went into advertising and public relations in Washington and was successful there.

"When 'Godfather' made Puzo a household name," Adler says, "I decided I was going to do it, too."

So he quit his other activities, concentrated on writing books and plays—and in the past 10 years has published nine novels.
