Pettigrew, de la Parte On 1974 U.S. Senate Trail

By TOM RAUM Associated Press Writer TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — With the 1974 U.S. Senate election still far over the horizon, two Democratic state senators have already started out on the long trek toward nomination and a half-dozen other hopefuls are warming up on the sidelines.

I've said that all along," said Pettigrew, 42, the former House speaker who won his state Senate seat last fall by toppling incumbent Senate Rules Chairman George Hollahan of Miami.

formally make the plunge, that such a decision would be too premature, although Pettigrew confirmed he had discussed prospects of an early announcement with several supporters and had rejected it.

Tom Adams, Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin, Jacksonville Mayor Hans Tanner and Insurance Commissioner Tom O'Malley.

Also mentioned as possible contenders — but not as frequently — are former House Speaker Fred Schultz, U. S. Rep. Bill Gunter, an Orlando Democrat, and state Sen. Bruce Smathers, D-Jacksonville.

The goal of all Senate hopefuls is the seat held by U.S. Sen. Ed Gurney, a Winter Park Republican. State Democratic leaders feel they have a good shot at Gurney's seat.

Police Brutality Blamed For Riot At Broward

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—A wealthy retired Fort Lauderdale businessman says three young policemen who "lost their cop" and "savagely beat a prisoner for no apparent reason" helped trigger New Year's Eve beachfront violence here.

John A. Matchette, 55, wrote in a letter to Fort Lauderdale City Manager Robert Bubier that "I think somebody should let city officials know that this riot wasn't caused by a bunch of kids determined to cause trouble."

Matchette's letter has added more fuel to the controversy over the violence which involved several thousand persons, and resulted in injuries to 27 police officers and eight youths and about 44 arrests.

Police accounts said the disturbance started about 11:30 p.m. when officers attempted to arrest a man outside the Elbo Room, a bar popular with youths near the beach.

Fatalities Versus Statistics TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—"Of course, we don't look at them as plain ole figures," says the Florida Highway Patrolman responsible for holiday traffic fatality predictions.

LL J.M. Rodenberry of the Highway Patrol's records bureau said the mathematical formula is relatively simple and can be done months before the holiday, but the thoughts afterward are not so simple.

"You get upset when you think in terms of people who die on streets and highways," he said. "You think about what a waste of human lives it is for someone who just did not think, who made just a little error. It is just tragic."

Police Say Sniper Slipped Away

Eluded 200 Men

By GUY COATES Associated Press Writer NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Police Supt. Clarence Giarrusso says a sniper involved in the slayings of six persons slipped through a 200-man cordon from his hotel rooftop perch Monday gither through "police negligence" or because he was super smart.

How could he have filtered to freedom through the scores of officers surrounding the hotel? "There's a gamut of possibilities ranging from police negligence to a superbrain sniper," Giarrusso replied.

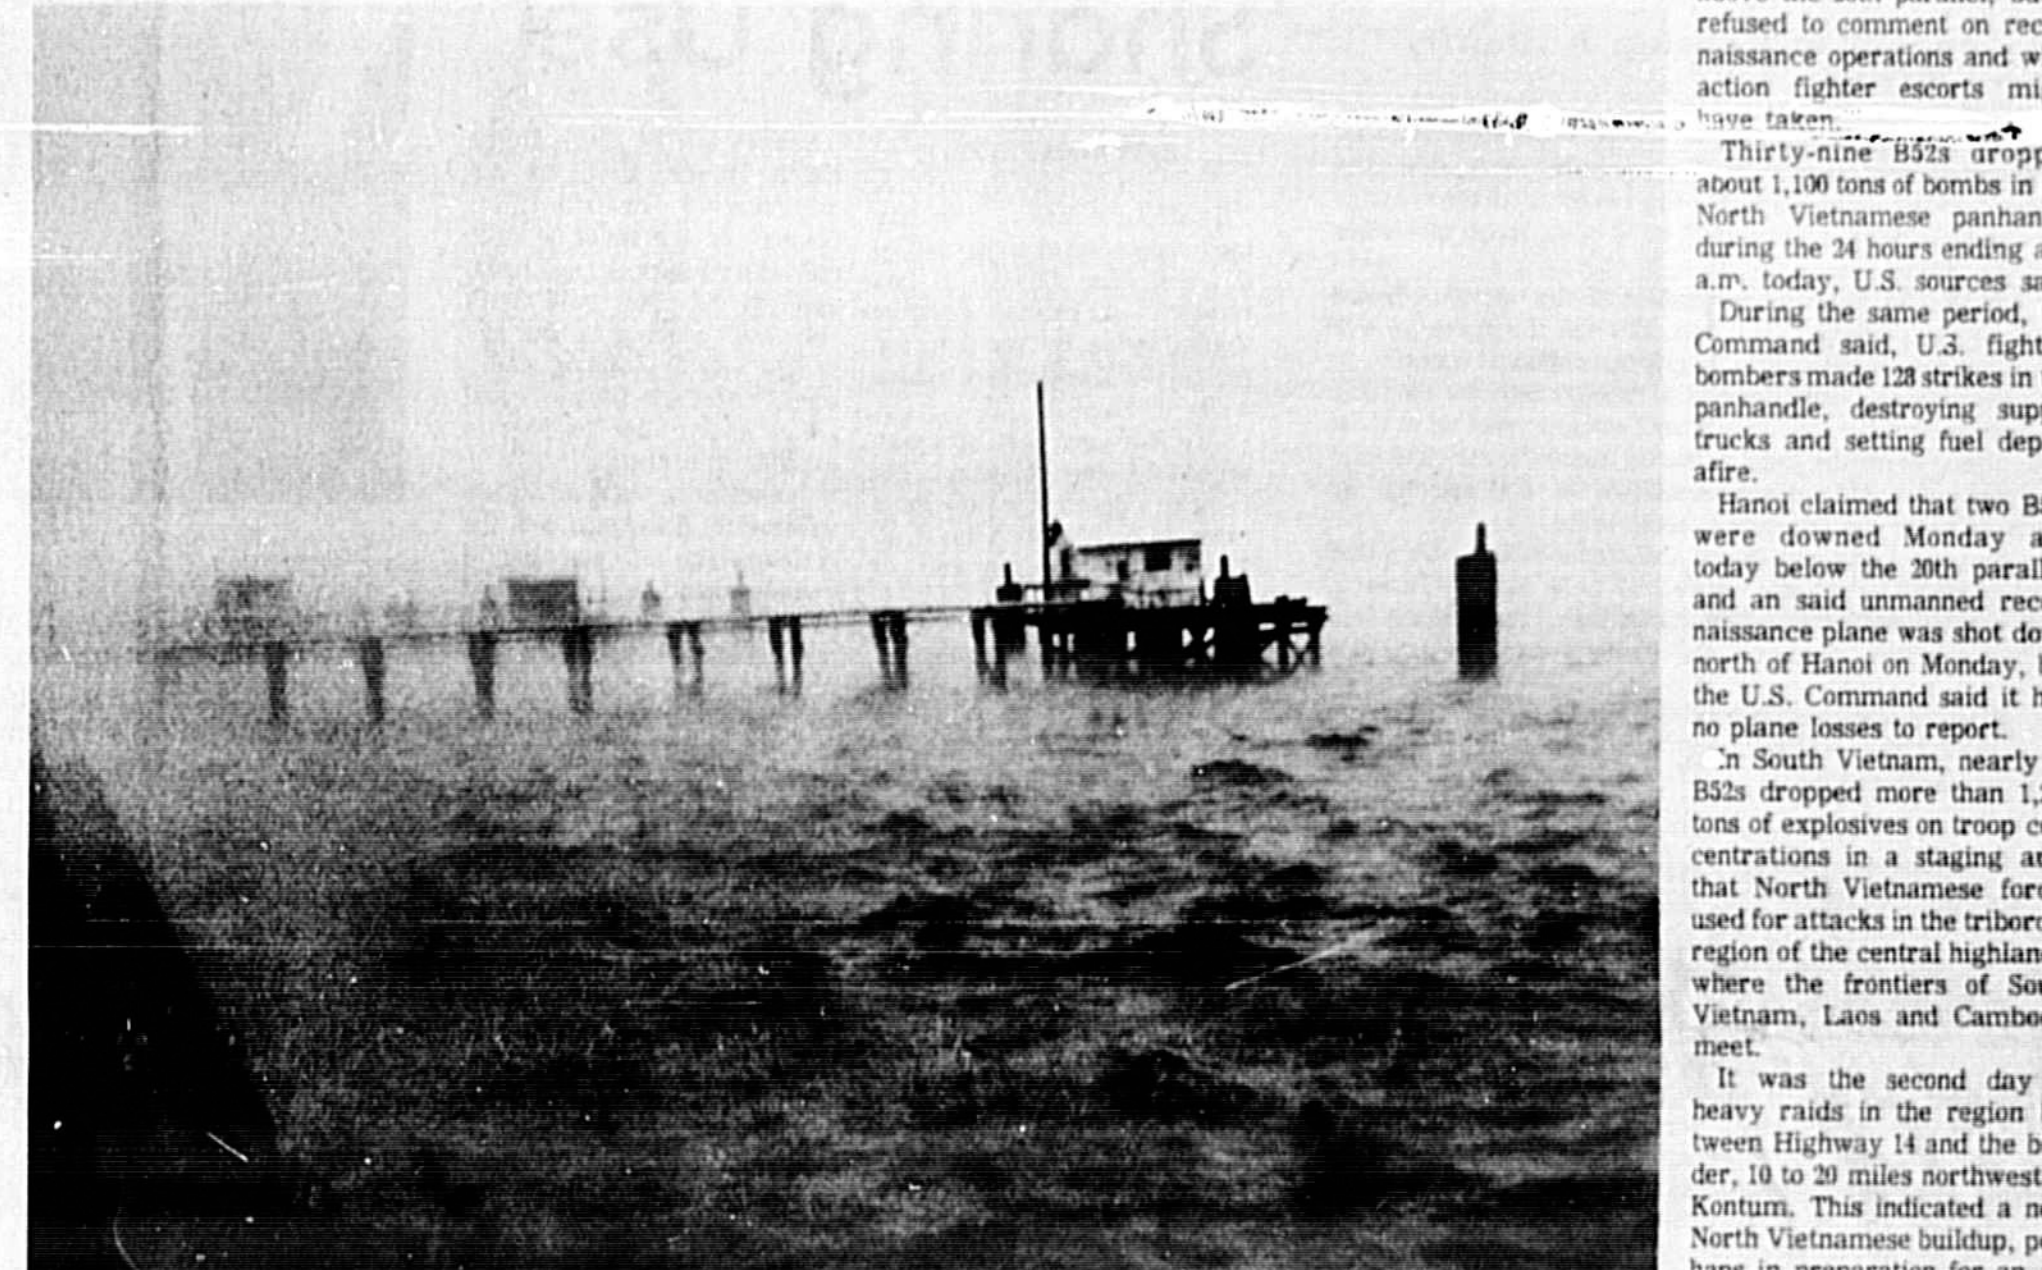

However, the superintendent admitted the possibility that the three were wounded by gunfire from fellow officers stationed in surrounding buildings.

Nixon Okays U. S. Fighters Hitting North MIGs, Base

By GEORGE ESPER Associated Press Writer SAIKON (AP) — President Nixon has authorized U.S. fighter escorts to attack North Vietnamese MIGs or surface-to-air missile sites above the 20th parallel if they threaten American B52s below the northern limit Nixon has placed on the bombing of North Vietnam, reliable sources reported today.

it reported last week that U.S. fighters escorting reconnaissance planes attacked anti-aircraft defenses in Hoa Binh Province south of Hanoi. The U.S. Command denied at the time that American planes had bombed pre-selected targets above the 20th parallel, but it refused to comment on reconnaissance operations and what action fighter escorts might have taken.

Turner's Koscot Is Barred In Missouri

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Florida-based cosmetic company Koscot Interplanetary, Inc., was barred Monday from doing business in Missouri and fined $64,500 for violations of the state Consumer Protection Act of 1967.

Koscot attorney Robert H. Kendrick said he would consult with his client before announcing whether Levitt's ruling would be appealed. Koscot has 10 days to appeal or ask for a retrial.

Koscot is liable for a $5,500 fine for each violation of a consent decree negotiated in March, 1971, between the company and the attorney general.

Turner and eight Koscot employees who formerly worked out of St. Louis were also barred from engaging in any further business enterprise in Missouri. The eight were Mrs. Wylondene Reese, Joseph F. Svezia Jr., Steve Hopper, Arnold Marchione, Don Evans, Exter Miller, Don Tucker and Jim Dodson. The court was unable to provide addresses for the eight.

By all of my previous writings, it should be obvious I'm on the side of law and order, and have constantly applauded the efforts of the police.

Here on the local scene, it would also appear that "someone goofed" when the Winter Springs Police Chief was not rehired and the reasons for reaching that conclusion are not made public.

Second Treatment Plant Under Study By Sanford

U.S. sources outside the Command acknowledged that reconnaissance operations with unmanned "drones" and other classified equipment are continuing over Hanoi and Haiphong in preparation for a resumption of the bombing there should the current round of Paris peace talks fail.

At Millers Western Meats Featured

By ANN SIECZKOWSKI

For you folks with home meat centers or freezers, we found a really great meat market. The meat is all western beef and is home cured on the premises. It is called Millers Meat Market. This market is owned and operated by two of the nicest people you will ever meet — Homer and Barbara Miller and they have two exceptional children, a son, age 12 and a daughter, age 16, both of whom attend school at the Sanford Christian School. The Millers are a very devout family, communicants of Central Baptist Church in Sanford. Homer has been active in jail ministry for eight years and is the religious speaker at Camp Seminole on Sundays, which is a mission of Central Baptist. He is a member of the Mountain Lodge No. 82 in Sanford.

According to Barbara, there is so much going on at the Church that they have little time for other community activities. "The meat is the best we've ever had and we are looking forward to further expansion very soon."

For you meat fanciers (and who doesn't enjoy good meat), Millers has aged beef and quick frozen meat. Homer ages the beef according to customer requests, from 12 to 30 days. The meat is then vacuum packed, specifications as dictated by the customer, wrapped in air tight freezer saran to protect the flavor and then wrapped again in regular brown paper and stored for pickup, by the customer. All packages are labeled so that a brief glance tells you exactly what and how long the meat is aged. This is an invaluable aid in meal planning.

If you are a new bride or just someone who wants to know more about the different cuts of meat, Homer will explain this to you as well as some of the better cooking methods for the different pieces of beef. While most of the Millers' Customers are local, they have some who come from as far away as Miami and even Atlanta. Word of mouth has traveled far and Miller's Meat Market and its owners have earned an enviable reputation for quality, integrity and quick efficient service.

Another service offered at Millers is the catering of parties and regal looking "crown roasts" can be cut for you. An added service is that if requested, Homer will bring a tray of meats and cheeses and discuss with his meat brochures and order prices and they have some very interesting tray designs of delicious party foods.

The beef at Millers is received fresh three times a week from western markets, and he sells wholesale or large orders.

with you. However, he invites you to visit his operation. It is located off of Gardens St. You turn onto S42 at the Town and Country Automobile operation, on 17-82 and drive to Gardens Street, turn right and go one-half block, turn left and you will see Millers Meat Market. Or call 322-7982 and talk to the Millers if you have any questions.

BARBARA and Homer Miller demonstrate some of their choice western beef before it is broken down and separated into beautiful steaks, roasts, and other cuts to please the palate of local meat lovers.

Help Needed In Housing

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Sen. John J. Sparkman says he believes quick legislation will ease about two-thirds of what he terms the serious impact resulting from the President Nixon's order for an 18-month moratorium on subsidized housing starts.

The freeze was announced Monday by Secretary George W. Romney of the Department of Housing and Urban Development as both he and Sparkman, an Alabama Democrat, spoke at the 29th convention of the National Association of Home Builders.

Romney said a temporary holding action on new commitments for water and sewer grants, open space grants and public facility loans also has been ordered.

"The time has come to pause, to re-evaluate and seek out better ways," Romney said.

He emphasized, however, that projects already in the "pipeline" and those necessary to meet statutory or other specific commitments will be approved.

"But Sparkman, Rep. Wright Patman, 'D-Tex., and home building officials viewed the actions as abuse by the executive branch of its power to impose unapproved funds."

Sparkman, chairman of the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee, said the housing freeze will have a serious impact during the remainder of the current fiscal year.

"But I am hopeful Congress will have acted on legislation by then that will negate the last 12 months of the moratorium," Sparkman told newsmen prior to appearing on the same platform with Romney.

"I should think we could get legislation through pretty early. We passed a good housing bill in the Senate last year and I think we can use that as a basis. With full support of the public and the Congress, I believe we can present to the President a legislative package he would find impossible to turn down."

Patman, chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, spoke before Romney's announcement, but he commented on rumors of an 18-month moratorium on subsidized housing starts.

He said waste and corruption may be involved in some of the housing programs, but he added, "It is silly, and destructive, to think these bills can be cured by a meat-ax."

Directors of the association earlier had approved a resolution saying the rumored moratorium would result in the loss of at least one million man years in jobs.

There will also be night classes beginning on January 16 at 9:30 a.m. and they will run four consecutive weeks on Tuesday, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

There will also be night classes on these same days, beginning at 7:00 p.m.

These four classes will be on placement of round neck-trimmed, V-neck trims, and with vest inclusion, and pattern adjustments, lab fronts and collars, men's or women's skirts and matching jackets with Chanel trim.

Also planned for a future class will be sessions on making men's trousers and sport coats, swim wear and lingerie.

And Caroline tells us that couples classes are now the in thing. So why not bring your very talented husband down with you.

We hope you will go down to Milady's Fabrics at 117 Magnolia Avenue in Downtown Sanford and meet those very nice Holtzclaws and let them help you with your sewing needs and questions. If you do, you are sure to be seen among the best dressed circle. Milady's Fabrics Shop is open from 9:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

A shower of bath arguments

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am mystified over your remarks on bathing. Thanks for enlightening me. I had always heard that all men were created equal. I never realized that women were born "dirtier" than men. I knew that a woman is paid less for doing the same job as a man, but until now I didn't know it was because she is efficient.

DEAR S. K. H.: Men and women are NOT created equal—analytically speaking. Unlike the male reproductive organ, the female's is an office which constantly produces a secretion which is normally some kind of lubricant. She is not necessarily "unclean," but a woman who wants to be forever fragrant will not spare the soap and water.

DEAR ABBY: In conjunction with your recent letter concerning bathing: Will you please stress the fact that MEN need underarm deodorants as well as women? My husband and I are square dancers, and I sure wish I could tell some of these men that it isn't their swinging that makes me dizzy, it's just the fact that I am holding my breath—and a gal can hold her breath just so long before she loses consciousness.

DEAR SQUARE: Consider it done. It's not easy to star there while you're holding your nose.

DEAR ABBY: I am one man who wants to thank you for taking the stand you did regarding women bathing.

Several years ago I had a secretary who splashed on Cologne several times a day. (She probably couldn't stand her own odor.) Between the Cologne and her body odor, she turned me against one of the world's loveliest fragrances. I knew she didn't bathe much because her elbows were always dirty, and her filthy feet showed thru her hose!

I have let men go for the same reason. Some men may shower daily but they never use deodorant or take care of the perspiration secreted during the stress and strain of the daily routine, which is unfair to their coworkers. Forgive my typing. I typed this myself while my secretary was out for lunch.

Problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: P.O. Box 69706, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send it to Abby, Box 69706, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 10, 1973

CARROLL RICHTER'S NOSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is one of those days when you should be able to combine your mental and your intuitions, so that you can see clearly why and when to put in motion a new course of action which can bring you the results you want.

ARLES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good day to talk over with experts the ideas you have for getting ahead much faster in the future. First make sure you are well dressed and feeling fine, and then make a line impression on others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Relax and think over how to make your position in life a more affluent and impressive one. Then get busy obtaining the data you need. A new associate can be most helpful in aiding you to advance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Find the right methods for handling daily responsibilities more wisely and efficiently so you have greater profit. Show more affection for mate and get better results. The evening can be a fine one.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are in the mood to handle a civic matter and this can lead you to very fine things, so get busy. Take care of an important business matter without fail, even if it means foregoing fun.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Search for a better system of operating so that you can become more successful and attain greater income. Being more helpful to fellow workers brings you their aid willingly and quickly. Relax tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sep. 21) You can get all those responsibilities handled well and early in the day so that you can later go out to the amusements that appeal to you. Use your intuition and please good friends and mate.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) Listen to an associate who has fine ideas for improving conditions at home. An outsider can help you in a business way, also. Get together with this person and make future plans. Be wise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) Find a better system for handling your regular duties and give more support to fellow workers for better results now and in the future. Avoid a troublesome situation at home tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are thinking very clearly now and can get allies to go along with your ideas, but don't confuse in others. Realities should be done in a more efficient way. Become more energetic and enthused.

PISCES (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Showing kin that you are truly devoted adds to the harmony now existing at home. Anything that stands in the way of progress should be eliminated. The social side is most productive in the evening.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Tip For Students
Lets Things Hang

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is mainly for college students who are not allowed to hang anything on the dorm walls. My daughter's room does have a built-in wall board but it is not large enough. I solved the problem by using 1/2-inch twill tape to make two strips that go entirely around the door, from top to bottom. They can be moved close together or separated to make space between, as one desires. I measured the doors and then made one continuous strip to go all around. The ends were joined together with a short piece of elastic to allow for slipping on the door and staying firmly in place. It is in no way interfering with the closing of the doors. The items to be hung may be pinned or stapled to the strips and on both inside and outside of the doors. If wider strips are desired they could be made of those plastic strips used for repairing yard furniture. An old folding screen with the wood panels removed and unbraced mullin (or any desired fabric) tacked to the frames also makes a terrific bulletin board.—L. M. W.

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Prevee is when stores sell products such as panty hose and then pay no attention at all to how they handle these items. Often the panty hose are stapled to the bag when the clerk should be watching what she is doing instead of talking. Then we get home with no-run hose that have holes in them. Thanks for listening.—PATSY

DEAR POLLY—Her vacuum cleaner should solve Mrs. L. S.'s problem. Use the small brush attachment on the end of the hose to remove all of the corn meal from the curdery broomcase. The vacuum cleaner will remove the attachment it should be set on low suction and then be increased if necessary. If the bag has any small ornaments such as sequins or beads, they should be securely attached before you vacuum. —CATHERINE

DEAR POLLY—Rubber washers glued to the bottom of your bread box will allow the air to circulate underneath so the bottom of the box does not rust and perhaps rub off on your counter top.—MICHELLE

DEAR POLLY—I would like to know what NEA means under the drawings with your column.—CINDY

The opening no-trump is a "picture" bid. It pictures your distribution and high card strength so closely that on most occasions partner knows if the combined hands are in the part score, game or slam range and can compare the bids accordingly.

The picture conveyed by the Jacoby no-trump is almost exactly the same picture Oswald Jacoby decided to show some 40 years ago. It is 16-18 high card points, 4-3-3-2 distribution and the doubler if there is one must include one of the four top honors.

Forty years ago we were more conservative. The doubler had to include either

Mrs. K. W. Holt, organist, presented a program of nuptial selections.

The couple exchanged vows before the altar which was accented with candles; an arrangement of poinsettias and two standard baskets of carnations.

For her vows the bride chose a sheer floor-length light blue gown with bands of lace accented with a blue gown and Mandarin neckline. Her tiered veil of illusion was attached to a jeweled cluster and she carried a bouquet of carnations.

Caroline Hays, maid of honor, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a blue gown and carried a nosegay of carnations and roses.

Wade Griggs served the bridegroom as best man. A reception followed in the social hall of the church.

Following a wedding trip to Cocoa Beach, the newlyweds are making their home at 106 Anderson Circle, Sanford, where the bridegroom is employed at Atlantic Coastline Railroad.

School Board, Superintendent: A Team

A house divided cannot stand and neither can a governmental unit or public body where those persons elected by the voters for the operation of a required function of society and law, become so embroiled in personal vindictiveness for vague reasons known only to themselves, that they shift their attention from bequeathed duty to grudge polishing for personal psyche relief.

There is a growing indication that such a situation may be developing in one of the most, if not the most, important tax-supported units of the county—the education of our children.

A small crack between some school board members and new Supt. William Layer developed during the past few months over several items, but notably the 45-15 extended year concept and the naming of John Angel, outgoing county school superintendent, to the principal post formerly held by incoming Supt. Layer at Teague Middle School without Layer's recommendation or approval.

This crack was appreciably widened at the Jan. 2 School Board reorganizational meeting where board officers were selected and Layer officially assumed his new duties as county school superintendent.

With a movement that reminded religious scholars of Martin Luther's posting of the 95 theses on the door to Castle Church, the new school superintendent surprised the board members with a list of six "remarks" which he said would "establish a proper relationship with the new board," if they would heed them.

Layer asked the board to refrain from playing politics on issues before the board; represent all people in Seminole County and not just special interest groups or special areas; not usurp the authority of the superintendent's office by conspiring to place certain people in high administrative positions; avoid the practice of "going around" the superintendent's office and operate only within the spirit and intent of the "Sunshine Law"; realize that individual board members have no legal authority in school affairs except through participation at board meetings and apply themselves to only the duties and responsibilities prescribed by the Constitution, state law and state school board regulations and leave the school administration to the proper school personnel.

Layer said if the board could do these things and with him offering sound educational and financial recommendations, the school problems could be effectively and efficiently solved. "It is imperative for the students, for the parents, for the taxpayers, and for the professional staff, that dignity and sound judgment prevail at school board meetings again," the new superintendent concluded.

The immediate reaction to Layer's Lamentations brought forth such expressions as "dignity is a two-way street" and a warning from one board member that he would continue his politicking if he did not like what was going on. After the session another board member was heard to comment "this is going to be some year."

Perhaps it will be some year; but despite the voters' decision to place persons of divergent political philosophies in the same grouping, the

Media Growth Helped Form Youth

By KENNETH J. RABEN

Building educational institutions for more than a thousand people increases student alienation, says one of the nation's foremost authorities on school effectiveness.

Dr. James S. Coleman, professor of social relations at the Johns Hopkins University, also indicated that these qualitative changes exist regardless of pupil-teacher ratio. "In most of these schools, teachers don't know the names of their students. Students do not feel they can turn to a teacher."

After collecting the most data about schools and pupils in the nation's history about seven years ago, Coleman debunked many of education's most cherished notions with publication in 1966 of "Equality of Educational Opportunity." It sparked a major re-evaluation of the nation's schools. Many of the conclusions in what is known as "the Coleman report" were confirmed in 1972 in two books published by social scientists at Harvard University.

For the last 18 months, Coleman has been studying youth cultures in the United States as head of a presidential advisory panel on science. "One of the unfortunate aspects of the structure of American education is the 'trickle down' demands created by universities that establish the character of high schools and then, down to elementary school requirements. Parental demands would be different if college demands were different."

Although Coleman does not believe there is one massive youth culture, he has identified three common threads, a tendency for youth to look inward; a psychic attachment to their own age and pressure toward autonomy. Yesterday's young adult he-public, who pays the taxes that funds the school operations, have the right to expect all persons involved with the educational process of this county to put aside their personal and political animosities to give full attention to the needs of schools and education.

There can be no other alternative to the board or to the superintendent. In the similar words of that American Naval hero of yore, "damn the politics, full speed ahead."

Pity the poor historian who must try some day to chart accurately the course of the serious negotiations for peace in Vietnam which began with moves from Hanoi on Oct. 6. He will have to penetrate the dense emotional fog which surrounds this war.

The heavy criticism of President Nixon for resuming the bombing of North Vietnam, so dominating the news that it is difficult to keep track of even the surface evidences of the negotiations.

It was proper, at that point, to suspect Hanoi of using U.S. channels to apply pressure for acceptance of specific peace terms outlined in that interview.

Yet the prospective of caution was quickly lost when presidential aide Henry Kissinger on Oct. 26 confirmed the fact of real negotiations and also said peace was at hand.

He did, of course, add that some sticky matters remained to be resolved and that another meeting with Hanoi's bargainers would be required. When the North Vietnamese at first balked but then did sit down for another round of talks, the momentum toward peace seemed only to be underscored.

Here, however, the fog thickens. Those who contend that the whole thing was a Nixon campaign charade won't get much of the historian's time. Obviously something real was afoot, or Hanoi would not have spoken out. What we know too little of is the true state of Kissinger's mind at that time.

Was he affected by the impending election when he put a basically bright face on negotiations in his Oct. 26 statement? Or did he truly believe the remaining differences were minor, and probably easily resolved?

If the first question is answered affirmatively, it still does not make the business into an election ploy. But does Kissinger and the President of giving the state of the talks a misleading tone.

The second question actually is the more interesting one, for the answer to it may provide a truer measure of Kissinger's skills and perceptions as a negotiator.

One Man's Opinion

Foundations Many, And They Are Good

By DON OAKLEY

There is in the United States today a general disposition to question, test and scrutinize all our institutions. The philanthropic foundation, that distinctively American development, has not been immune to this process.

All foundations came under the shadow of public scrutiny a few years ago when it was revealed that a very few were little more than tax dodges by some individual taking advantage of liberal laws governing foundations. A congressional inquiry culminated in a host of new regulations written into the Tax Reform Act of 1969, whose effects foundations are still trying to cope with.

At the same time, the true scope and nature of the role played by foundations in American life remains poorly understood by many Americans.

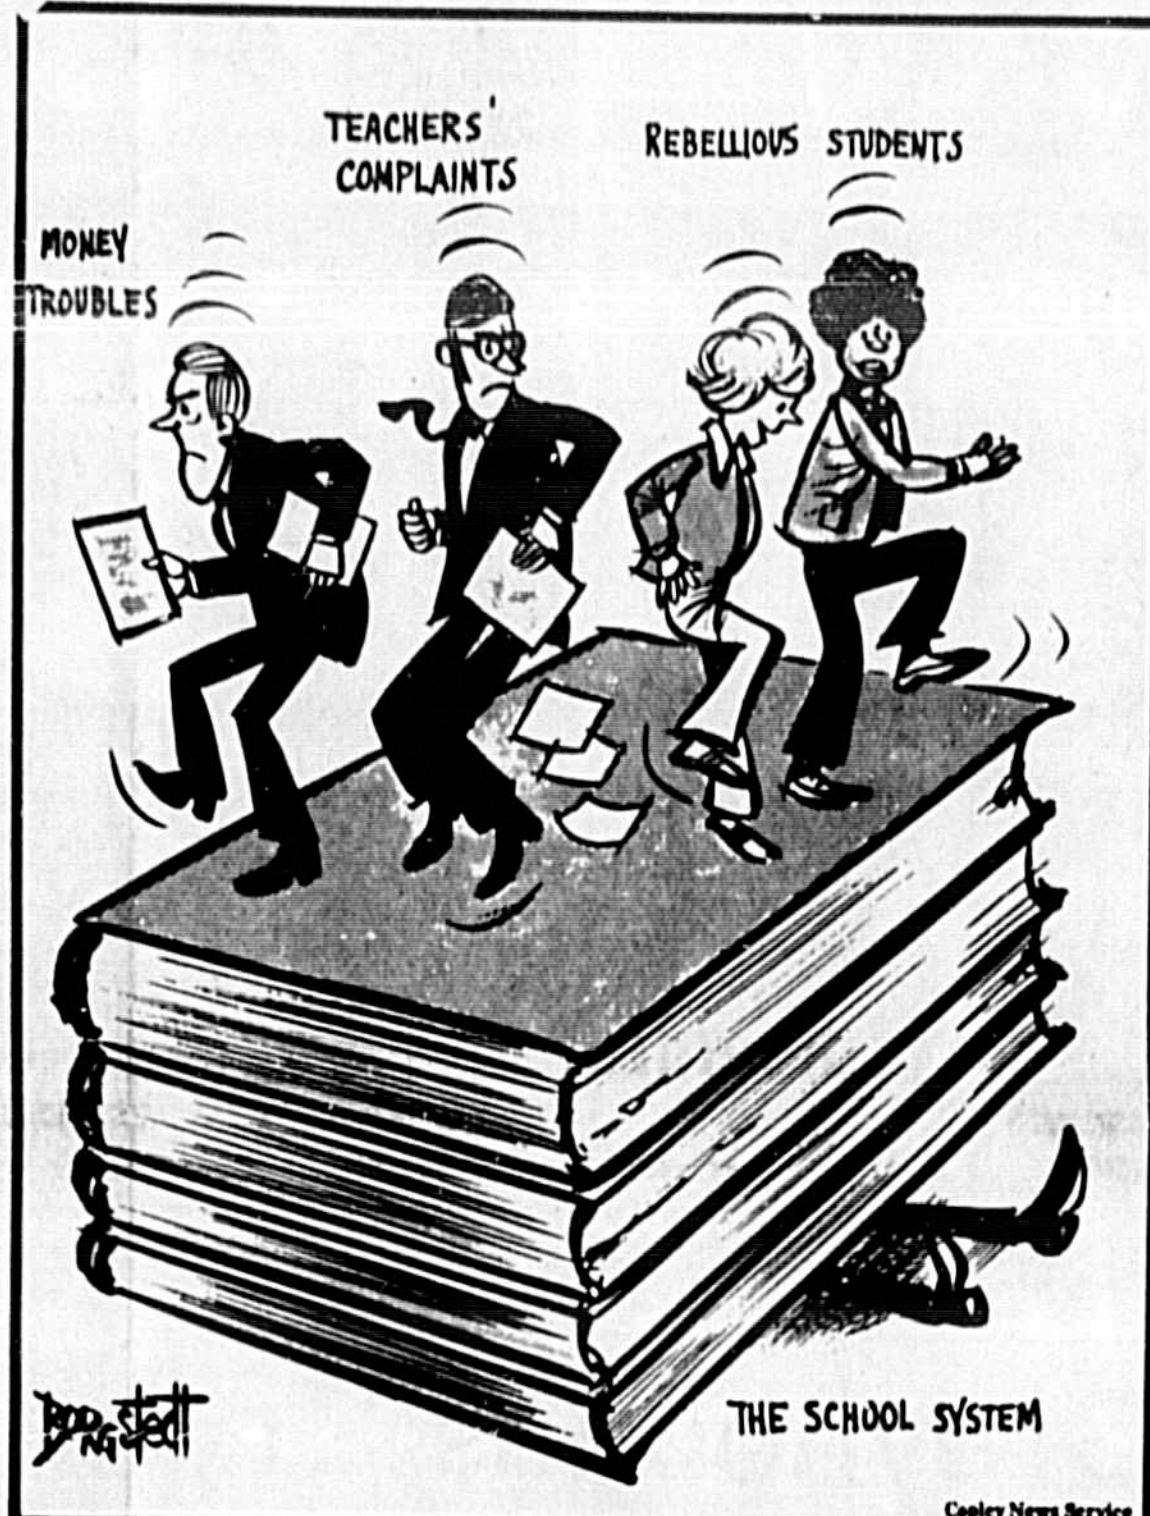

"Foundations are an important means of putting private resources and private initiatives to work for the public good," says Robert F. Goheen, former president of Princeton University, who last fall became the first full-time chairman and chief executive officer of the Council on Foundations, Inc., whose membership includes more than 500 independent, community and corporate foundations.

Everyone has heard of the giants in the field—the Rockefeller Foundation or the Carnegie Corporation and a few others, whose annual grants amount to many millions of dollars.

But there are more than 25,000 other foundations, most of them quite small and many of them directed toward localized or restricted concerns, such as research into a specific disease.

They represent, says Goheen, a diversity of interests and activities, corresponding to the multiplicity of felt needs in the community. He describes the small foundations as "extended pocketbooks" for charitable giving.

Between 1960 and 1971, foundations gave some $12.96 billion to religious, educational, welfare, health, civic and cultural institutions and agencies and other causes, or about 8.8 per cent of the total philanthropic dollar. This compares with $11.1 billion donated by individuals in the same period.

Scientists Dispute Old Theories

By PETER H. BROWN
Copley News Service

For years, Navy scientists have been singing research lullaby to volunteer recruits to study their sleep. And their findings may wake up the scientific community.

By putting electrodes instead of sleeping caps on young Navy men, the doctors have discovered facts that clash with some old scientific ideas about man's sleep.

Scientists in a special sleep laboratory in San Diego, Calif., have traveled to several conclusions after spending five years shaking recruits awake and testing them.

Experiments at the Navy Medical Neuropsychiatric Unit in San Diego, have found that it is not the kind of sleep man gets that makes a difference in his performance. It is the amount.

"We can deprive a person of a certain kind of sleep night after night without affecting his performance," said Dr. Daniel Hord of the institute.

The finding seems simple enough. But it takes serious issue with some basic scientific ideas of sleep that have received mass publicity during the last two decades.

capable of sleeping in stages from light sleep or "rapid eye movement sleep" to stage four sleep or "slow brain wave sleep."

According to some theories, a man needs either some of all stages of sleep or both rapid eye movement sleep and deep sleep to perform well in the daytime.

Of all this scientific lore, rapid eye movement (REM) has received the most attention.

It has been called essential to man's well-being. The lullaby surrounding these "sleep states" may be just that, according to research.

"Keeping people out of a given stage of sleep, any stage, does not seem to matter," says Hord.

Dr. Angeleri Pai, an authority on sleep and an English doctor of psychological medicine, says all men and women should consider cutting their sleep to five hours.

Pai's controversial theory that less sleep can bring better health and more achievement has never faced a true scientific test. Until now.

This winter, doctors at the University of California and psychologists at the Navy's Neuropsychiatric Unit intend to find out what happens if man carefully and gradually reduces his sleep.

Two married couples, graduate students at the University of California at Irvine, have already started cutting back on their sleep—in the name of science.

It Depends On How You Look At It

I once knew this comedy writer whose hobby was collecting parking tickets. When he would acquire about 60 or 70 tickets, he would take them to the police station and meekly pay his fines. The reason he kept getting tickets was, he kept parking in red zones.

One day I said to him: "Why do you always park in red zones?" He looked at me as though I were out to lunch. "Haven't you noticed?" he demanded. "There's always room to park in a red zone."

And there's another comedy writer I know who always wore red socks. He said to me: "One day I decided I'd look good in red socks, so I bought six dozen pairs of red socks and threw out all my other ones. You see, I thought I'd get to be known as the Man Who Wears Red Socks. But it didn't work out that way."

"Instead, I became known as the fellow with only one pair of socks!" They're strange, all of them, all those comedy writers. And no exception is Jack Douglas, the only man I can ever remember interviewing in the dentist's chair. (He filled a lower bicuspid and I haven't had a bit of trouble since.)

Actually, it was Doug who was in the chair, compelled to speak, as it were, with tongue in cheek. Come to think of it, Douglas' dentist—this was in New York—was also a fairly improbable sort. Why, he was asked, had he turned to dentistry in the first place?

The man shrugged and explained: "When I was a kid I heard that if you have a 'Dr.' in front of your name, it's easier to get reservations in a classy restaurant."

But then, who would expect Jack Douglas to have one of your basic, average, normal dentists? Not the Jack Douglas who has just written one of the year's funniest books, with the weird title, wit: "The Jewish-Japanese Sex and Cook Book and How to Raise Wolves."

I can only tell you that Jack Douglas is odd. For years, when he was living in Los Angeles he would never drive on Balboa Street because he said he was afraid he would hit a dog. He has never hit a dog on any street in his life and there are no more dogs on Balboa Street than on any other—but you could never tell that to Jack.

"We interrupt the inaugural address to bring you this special message—dinner is served!"

Freshman Shy Helps Gators Stun Vanderbilt

60th Birthday

Nixon Hopes 'Great Things'

By FRANCES LEWINE Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon, observing his milestone 60th birthday today, says he "hopes to do great things" in the next four years of his seventh decade.

And to keep thinking young he suggests looking to the future, not the past, and staying in contact with younger people. Nixon granted a birthday interview to two news-service reporters, provided the discussion was limited solely to his birthday reflections. He took time out from working on his inaugural address for a 25-minute talk in his Executive Office Building hideaway.

The President said he doesn't like observing birthdays annually anymore and prefers to make note of them only on the decades—"every 10 years."

Ex-Police Chief's Dismissal Bachelor Says 'Sunshine' Violation

By MARION BETHEA Former Winter Springs Police Chief Walter Bachelor who was not recommended for reappointment by Mayor

Granville Brown envisions the chief being named by City Council Monday as a "classic example of violation of the 'sunshine' law."

County Studies Unigovernment

By ANNE SZCZKOWSKI Seminole County Commissioner Greg Drummond is pursuing a study for Seminole County. At one point in the past he endorsed a metro form of government and began research into various other kinds of consolidated county government. Now Drummond says he'll seek signatures of 15 percent of the Seminole electorate on petitions calling for the unigovernment study commission.

"When any form of government is started, there will be negatives, but these will be offset by positives."

he determined further study is necessary and he began researching various kinds of county government. "The negatives were so overwhelming I cut back on the metro study," Drummond said. In studying general aspects of unigovernment Drummond said he found many formats of city-county consolidation. "The study commission will not necessarily endorse the system as it is employed in Jacksonville-Duval," he said. "The commission must employ the needs that fit local requirements."
