Under a negotiated plea agreement, Lee Alexander Wheeler, Jr., 65, was to be placed on five years probation, ordered to perform 120 hours of community service, pay $10,593 restitution to Bankers Insurance Company and court costs. The state also agreed not to bring any more charges related to the bond business where Bankers Insurance company is involved. The court is to withhold adjudication of guilt, according to the plea agreement.

Lake Mary officials will resolve issue of basketball courts

By NICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - Only one basketball court should be located at the corner of Country Club Road and Lake Mary Avenue. Because of an error a number of years ago, there are presently two courts on the property.

At this Thursday night's City Commission meeting, City Planner Matt West will present a number of recommendations to resolve the problem. The proposals have already been approved, although not unantmously, by the city Planning and Zoning Board.

West has outlined the history of the double court. He has determined that the single court contained a shuffleboard court, but Interim City Manager Jim Orioles received approval from the commission on June 19, 1986, to convert the shuffleboard court to the second basketball court.

"During the budget hearing process for the fiscal year 91/92," West explained, "the city commission approved a $20,000 cap-Ital request to construct a second basketball court cast of the existing court."

West said construction was completed in June, 1992. "At no time," he said, "was the conditional use or site plan approval process followed. No formal notice of public hearing was issued relating to the original court or the second court.

At the request of the commission, Weat is now attempting to resolve the situation, and will present some Planning and Zoning Board recommendations.

P&Z is suggesting the castern court for basketball be discontinued by Sept. 30, 1994. In conjunction, a replacement court is to be built elsewhere.

The entire court facilities would be enclosed by a fence which would be locked when the court are closed, between 8 p.m. and 8 a.m.

The suggestions also include a stipulation that both courts be limited to the use of Lake Mary residents only, and that monitoring procedures be established to enforce that condition.

Lighting would be modified to prevent glow to neighboring properties, and other stipulations are also suggested.

The courts, as they presently exist, already fall in compliance with the city's Comprehensive Plan and have acceptable access, parking, and sidewalks.

The matter is presently listed at the conclusion of Thursday night's regular meeting of the city commission, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., in the commission Chambers of Lake Mary City Hall, 100 W. Lake Mary Blvd.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE Professors job-hunting

University faculty members frustrated over salaries

By The Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE - University officials two years ago predicted a flood of professors at public universities would be leaving if salaries weren't increased. To their relief, the flood is just a trickle.

But that's not because professors are happy.

Having gone three years without a raise and assured of only a 1.5 percent raise next year, many faculty members at Florida's state universities are looking for new jobs.

Most, however, are having no luck. There are few openings, especially for experienced professors who command higher salaries. because other states are having the same financial problems as Florida.

At the University of Florida, the largest of the nine public universities, only a couple dozen of the 3,500 faculty members have years, according to Gene Hemp, associate academic dean.

With professors feeling trapped, morale has been steadily dropping and has reached rock bottom, faculty members say.

"People are dispirited," said Jim Parry, associate vice chancellor and director of labor relations for the Board of Regents. "They feel they're not getting the support they need and that people don't value and appreciate what they're doing. That takes a toll that's harder to identify than counting people who leave. They leave mentally."

Nine-month salaries for assistant professors in the state university system average $35,417, a little more than $2,000 less than the national average.

But the figure is misleading because engineering and business professors carn much more than other professors, according left for better-paying jobs in the past two to Alan Steinweis, a history professor at Florida State University in Tallahassee.

"A lot of professors at FSU are making $25,000 and $26,000 after several years of good service." Steinweis told The Palm Beach Post in a story published Tuesday.

Despite having a doctorate, Steinweis, 36. makes just $24,820 in Florida. He's leaving to take a $40,000 position at the University of Nebraska.

Biologist Godfrey Bourne, 50, is leaving Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton for a better-paying job up north, convinced this state doesn't care about higher education.

Bourne, an expert in tropical ecology, is making $36,300 at FAU. He will carn $45,800 at the University of Missouri's International Center for Tropical Ecology in St. Louis and will get $75,000 to get his research projects up and running.

property tax appraisals." Howell mid. In 1991, Howell publicly blasted Suber for dra-matic increases in property tax-es after his office reassessed the value of homes, predominantly in Howell's District 1.

But Suber says Howell does not live at the 1109 S. Park Ave. address he has claimed for homestead exemption. During Howell's District 1 re-election campaign in December, he re-ported having been a reaident of Sanford for the past 15 years. One opponent challenged Howell then, claiming Howell resided in DeBary.

According to Property Appraiser Bill Suber, "The basis of our denial of homestead is based on no residency." He continued, "The notice has been sent out, but we are still investigating the matter. We won't be making an official determination until the investigation is concluded."

Howell said last night, "I live at 1109 Park, that's my home. I get my mail there. If they're pecking in the window to see if I sleep there, that's against the law. They better have proof.

Part of the Sanford City Charter regarding forfeiture of office says in part, "A commis-sioner shall forfeit his office if he lacks at any time during his term of office, any qualification for the office prescribed by this charter or by law."

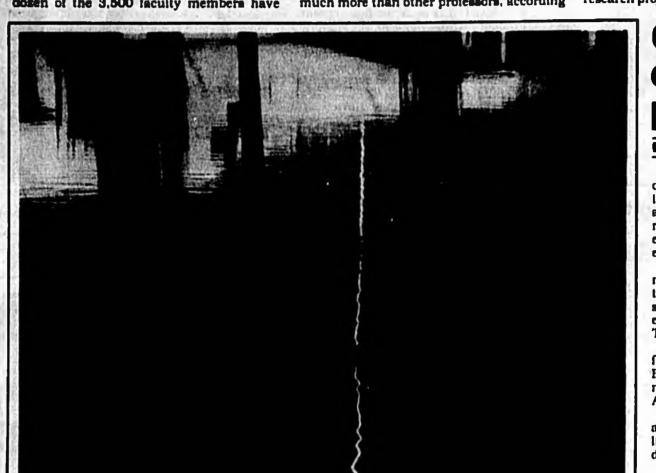

Part of the federal law regarding qualifications specifies that each commission candidate (for office) must be a resident of the particular district in which he/she would serve.

Sanford City Clerk Jan Donahoe explained, "The determination of residency would be open to a lot of interpretations by courts and lawyers, so it's difficult to determine what a homestead denial might do, if anything."

Mayor Bettye Smith said if such a question came up, she would immediately turn the matter over to the city attorney for legal determination.

City Attorney Bill Colbert commented, "A denial of homestead exemption would not, in itself, prevent anyone from holding office. A person does not have to own property."

He continued, "He could live in an apartment or with a relative. But there is no rule that says a person must own property in Sanford to serve on the City Commission."

Consumer confidence plunges

By The Associated Press

GAINESVILLE - Consumer confidence in Florida plunged to its lowest level in nine months and was dragged down by worries by men about the nation's economy, University of Florida economists report.

"Only sagging trust in the national economy pulled down the May index. Everything else stayed the same as in April," UF economist Dave Denslow said Tuesday.

The Florida Consumer Confidence index, compiled by UF's Bureau of Economic and Business Research, fell from 82 in April to 76.9 in May.

"Even the increased worry about the national economy was limited to men. Women's views didn't change from last month."

How have they figured out I don't live there? If people are looking for my car to see if I'm home, well, I don't own a car. I sold my jeep. I'm having economic problems. There's not one Individual in America who ian't having these problems."

Homail and his son lives with a family friend in DeBary.

"For the last year, I've spent a lot of time there with him." he said.

book from school shelves

By The Associated press

FRUITLAND PARK - The mother of a third-grader wants a book removed from Lake County school library shelves, saying it encourages children to manipulate their parents.

"I was just outraged by it all," said Sherry Towne who learned of the book when her daughter Cyrena brought it home from Fruitland Park Elementary School.

Towne can't decide what's more distasteful the story or the illustrations for "Little Abigail and the Beautiful Pony," a poem in "A Light in the Attic."

It is one of two books by Shel Silverstein that Towne maintains are not appropriate for youngsters. The other is "Where the Sidewalk Ends.

An illustration shows a grieving mom and dad. "Ohl if she were alive, I would buy her a hundred ponies!" mom says. "What fools we were!" says dad.

So far, Towne has failed in getting the books banned. Last week, Superintendent Tom Sanders said he would follow the school committee recommendations and keep both popular children's books in the library.

Towne plans to appeal to the Lake County School Board.

Complaints about curriculums and library materials are common in parts of Florida. The state led the nation with such concerns last year. according to a report compiled by People for the American Way, an advocate of constitutional liberties.

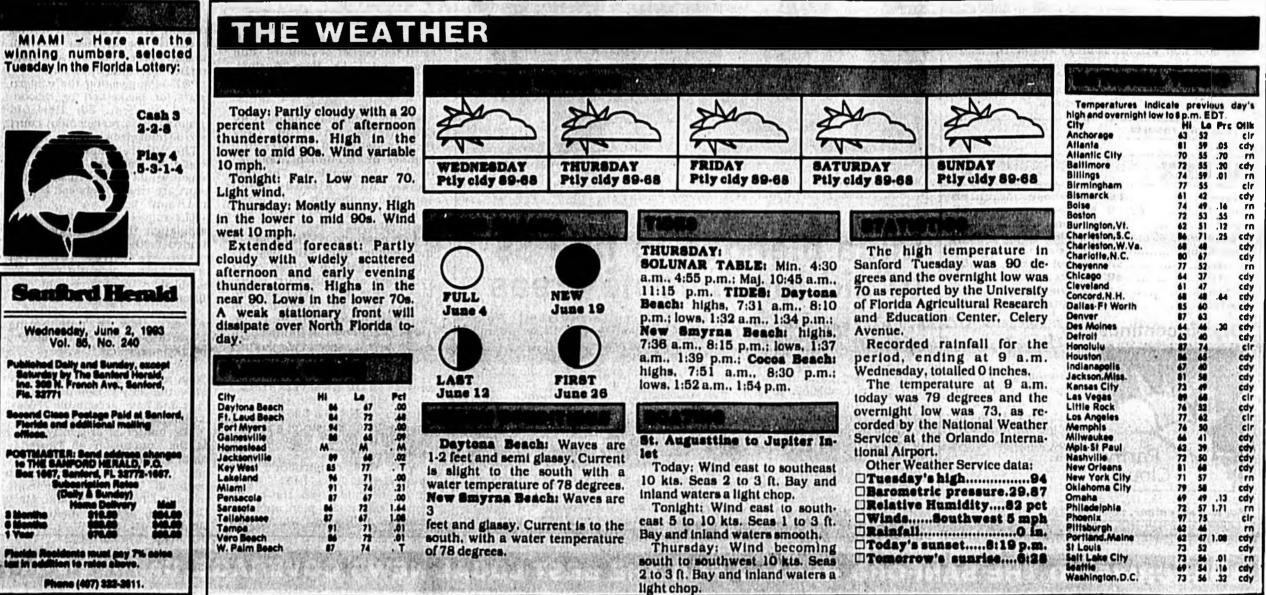

The share of respondents expecting bad times for the national economy in the coming year jumped 10 percentage points in May to 46 percent, while the share expecting good times fell from 38 percent in April to 31 percent in May. However, the expectations of Floridians about the state economy were generally roster than they were for the national economy. Forty-four percent of those answering the survey thought the state economy would improve in the coming year and 32 percent thought ft would become worse.

"Usually, hopes for the state and national economies rise and fall together. May's sustained confidence in the state and worry about the nation suggests Floridians wonder what will emerge from the sparring in Washington over economic policy," Denslow said.

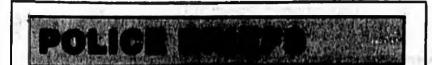

The share of those surveyed contemplating buying a car was 17.3 percent in May 1993, up from 13 percent in May 1992. The share thinking about buying a house was 10.9 percent this May, up from 9.9 percent in 1992.

The survey uses 1966 as its base year. Numbers below 100 indicate that consumers are less confident than they were in 1966 when the index was 100.

HRS computer glitches cost more

By The Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE - A consultant who was paid $7 million to design programs for the welfare department's computer is getting $10 million more to correct its own glitches, state records show.

The consultant, Deloitte and Touche, was initially brought in because Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services' personnel lacked expertise to solve some of the system's problems, said HRS computer division manager John Holland.

"HRS did not have the knowledge in some of the high technical areas, where the contractor did," Holland told The Palm Beach Post in a story published Tuesday.

Delotte and Touche officials wouldn't talk about the work they've done for the state, referring questions to HRS spokeswoman April Herrie.

Under the Deloitte and Touche contract, HRS is paying one senior analyst team leader $250,000; 16 senior programmers, $140.000 each: 10 programmer analysts. $93,100 each; and 19 programmers. $72.200 each.

Meanwhile, state records show, HRS workers doing similar jobs make from $29,000 to $56,000 annually.

provided computers and some software for the project, $9.5 million to increase the power of the main computer in Tallahassee. Under EDS Federal Corp., which won the IBM was paid about $30 million for computers.

Both IBM and Deloitte and Touche were hired as subcontractors to EDS when it built the system for Florida. Deloitte and Touche got a $7 million contract to transfer a similar benefits system from Ohto to Florida.

The firm has gotten two contracts worth $5 million from the state even though HRS officials have discovered problems that may be linked to the work done by Deloitte and Touche while working under EDS.

For example, the system made mistakes when determining the amount of benefits when clients were eligible for Aid to Families with Dependent Children, which can lead to erroneous payments. HRS officials are still trying to fix a glitch that is sending too many electronic messages to HRS workers who are processing claims. The volume is so high that HRS workers have ignored them, which can mean necessary changes aren't made in a client's case and benefits are issued in error. While Deloitte and Touche fine-tunes the computer system so it can pass federal approval and thus qualify for millions in federal dollars, its performance so far has not lived up to expectations in reducing errors in determining benefits and guarding against fraud.

HRS officials have acknowledged software problems contributed to the estimated $263.5 million in welfare overpayments in two federal programs - food stamps and Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

The computer system is also responsible for giving Medicaid benefits to 235,000 people who were not eligible for the program.

Last week. HRS officials learned the computer system had given at least $647,000 in overpayments since 1991 to people who were not entitled to the money.

Employers, students need your help

Almost everyone can remember looking for that first job. Going from place to place and filling out application forms was not easy. Job searching for the younger age group is most active at this time of year. Some seek summer jobs during vacation time at high school or college. Others have graduated, and want to begin full-time employment.

Locally, the Private Industry Council and Job Services of Florida are trying to find employment for this age group. It's not an casy task however, and they need help from area business and industry.

Whether the need is for only one part-time worker during the summer, or several hundred, Job Services, working through the Private Industry Council will be able to help through job-matching.

They maintain informational lists on applicants' interests and experience. Advance screening allows them to provide the most suitable teens for the jobs which might be available.

Many of the older age level can recall one particular individual who was willing to take a chance and hire a teen who may have had little or no experience.

Consider the struggle for the soul of their party now being waged between two apparently similar politicians. Both are Democrats, relatively young, from the Southwest, former governors, married to lawyers, attended Yale and are Rhodes Scholars. There is a difference: One of them won his last election with a 43 percent plurality, the other with an 83 percent majority.

Bill Clinton, the 43 percent man, is now president. It is said that if Congress does not pass his economic program, his presidency will be broken

The 83 percent fellow, Sen. David Boren. D-Okla., has announced against the Clinton plan and come up with an alternative. He believes that if Clinton prevails in Congress, it will be the Democratic Party that will be broken. Boren is right.

What's wrong with Clinton's budget is what's wrong with most everything he's touched: It tilts way over to the liberal side. Clinton's plan yields more taxes, more spending, more government and, consequently, not much deficit reduction. It echoes Clinton's oft-stated high regard for the big-tax, big-spend European social democracies. now staggering under the oppressive weight of encruated government.

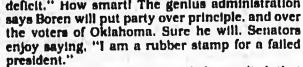

Here's what Boren has been saying to the press: "If this president were to get his wish of passing this budget, it would be the surest deficit." How smartl The genius administration formula for the destruction of the Democratic Party .... ' And: "Those whom the gods would destroy sometimes get their first wishes ... if the president gets this budget passed it will not only hurt the country, but it will destroy him political-

Boren is important. He sits on the Senate Finance Committee, where a single Dem-ocratic "nay" vote can derail the Clinton program.

Clintonland responded to Boren througha spokesman who said: "While we un derstand his search for alternatives, we know that, in the end, Sen. Boren is a good Democrat who understands the importance of reducing the

It gets worse. Clinton publicly implied that Boren was a meanle whose plan, which includes "entitlement caps," would purposefully short-change the elderly and the working poor in order to serve bad people - "the big oil lobby."

True, Boren's plan eliminates Clinton's Btu energy tax, and inflicts minimal pain at the upper levels of Social Security. It is correct that petroleum is the mother's milk of Oklahoma. But it is also a fact that Clinton's Btu tax hits the poor and seniors, and under the Boren proposal they may get as good a total deal, or better.

The Clintonoids can't imagine that anyone would oppose their splendid plan unless they were selling out to vested plutocrats. (Do 83 percent winners have to sell out to anyone?) Hey Clintonoids! It's not oil! (The Btu tax may be the best part of the plan.) Other Democratic senators have already announced against Clintonomics, and unlike Boren and Louisiana's J. Bennett Johnston, they do not hall from the oll patch. Bob Kerrey and Jim Exon are from Nebraska. Richard Shelby is from Alabama.

JACK ANDERSON Terrorism makes the Cold War seem appealing

WASHINGTON - If this is the "new world order." bring back the bad old days of the Cold War.

The world may be safer from superpower confrontation, but the scourge of international terrorism against Americans is back again with all the horror of past years.

industrial leaders of today will credit one particular person with "giving them that start.'

Now, the teens of today could use similar help. They need an employer who will take them in, offer them training, and possibly supply the incentive for a career. To help build tomorrow's work force or to assist a student in helping finance that next school year, we urge area business leaders to contact the Private Industry Council at 321-5627, and let them know the people you could use.

Specific attributes are essential for those seeking new jobs.

The business or industrial leader is in need of a person who can be trusted, loyal, dependable, and be of benefit. Unless the person asking for work can honestly meet these requests, no matter what the job may be, there is little hope.

A new job, if approached with enthusiasm and interest, could last a lifetime. It may also give hands-on experience which would lead to another job at a higher level.

If a business is willing to give a job seeker that first chance, the person should also be willing to give back the best he or she can offer.

ELLEN GOODMAN Politics: Shoe is on other foot

BOSTON - My friend and I meet on the corner and fall amiably into our usual, laced-up, speed-walking pace. This morning, however, I notice that my fellow traveler is wearing a pinched look.

We haven't gone a mile when she begins to complain, arms pumping and words flying. These are the phrases that I inhale in great aerobic gulps: "President-bashing...media bias...making mountains out of molehills ...give the guy a break."

At a red light, my companion finally stops and says into the city air, "I cannot believe that I am becoming one of those people who complain about the media. I cannot believe that I am becoming one of those people who yell at the television set."

I have logged many miles with this woman and so it doesns't take me long to diagnose the reason for her discomfort. This is the source of her audden pain:

The shoe is on the other foot.

For twelve years, my friend was delighted every time Reagan or Bush stumbled. For four months, she has been appalled every time Clinton stubbed his toe.

When Nancy Reagan bought her high-budget china and found the teacups on page one, she pounced on the first lady's behavior. When Bill Clinton got his Beverly Hills blow-dry, she denounced the stories as trivial.

Last year, when George Bush was shown throwing up at a Japanese banquet, she though the act was symbolic. This year when Clinton's travel agency woes hung the headlines, she pronounced the fuss as silly.

This co-walker is not the only sufferer from shoe-on-the-other-foot syndrome. All around the country, the same people who once praised Congress for beating back Republican legisla-tion are now yelling "gridlock." The people who once enjoyed the skeptical tag lines by reporters on the Bush White House beat, are now calling them anide.

Even Linda Bloodworth-Thomason, a maligned FOB, has discovered some sympathy for Bebe Rebozo, a disparaged FON (Friend of Nixon). And everywhere Democrats are walking and talking about how the country is being distracted from "the real issues." I suppose that any chiropractor could have warned us that a change at the head of the body politic is likely to be feit in the feet. Nor is everyone uncomfortable in their new gear. Robert Dole has fit into his role as happily as if it were a pair of old slippers. Ross Perot has re-emerged from under the hood to pronounce Clinton incompetent with "a learning curve that's like a cliff." And Mary Matalin, the Bush campaign manager, has now gleefully declared that the Democrats are "in a perpetual state of snakebite.'

More to the point, walking a mile in the other guy's shoes is probably good for the mind if not for the arches. After 12 years with one party in the White House, we get another, more bipartisan feel for rocky road.

Maybe we are learning that gridlock isn't just caused by having one party in Congress and the other in the While House. It may be paralysis built into the system.

Maybe we're learning that the media isn't just attacking one leader and one set of in-siders. We may now agree that there is too much enter-tainment and too little information. When the shoe is on the other foot, we also learn, painfully, how much easier it is to be a critic than a decision-maker. We learn which troubles come from underwheiming leader-ship and which come from overwhelming problems.

It's the prospect that our problems are overwhelming and don't change with elections that pinches the ideological toes. The people suffering the most discomfort are, after all, those who believed in, voted for, took a chance on, change. That's what is at stake.

This morning,

however, I notice that my fellow traveler

is wearing a pinched look.

There's an uncasy feeling shared this morning by my co-walker that nobody gets enough time or a chance to make a difference. A feeling that the whole country is short-fused and short-sighted. That every change agent gets nibbled to death in the capital, on the tube, or on a tarmac in California.

These are still the opening miles, the warm-up, break-in time. But if the new group is brought low fast, the people who voted for change aren't just going to try on another pair of footgear whether it's labled Republican or Independent. They'll put their feet up on the chairs and join the alienated and the cynical.

That would be more than a little uncomfortable. For a country, that's crippling.

"Terrorism is now back in the headlines, and we see ominous signs that the problem will escalate, compounded by the re-surgence of regional and ethnic conflicts

'new world

If this is the order,' bring back the bad old days of the Cold War. around the world."

Latin America witnessed more terrorism than any other region last year. "Anti-foreign attacks in that region were predominately against American targets," reads the State Department report. "Left wing terrorism, particularly in Europe, is in decline, but ethnic and separatist groups in Europe, Latin America, South Asia, and the Middle East remained active last year."

After our interviews with a wide array of terrorism experts, CIA and other intelligence sources, most trails inexorably lead to Iran as the world's chief bankroller and benefactor of International terror.

The Clinton administration, after a series of secret meetings, has decided to adopt a hard-line, and more confrontational posture toward the Iranian regime. The new resolve comes amid reports that Iran may have had a hand in the World Trade Center bombing. The chief suspects are Jersey City mosque students of a flery Egyptian fundamentalist cleric, Sheik Omar Abdel-Rahman. Abdel-Rahman receives significant secret financial aid from Iran. His efforts to convert Egypt — by force, if necessary — to an Islamic republic like Iran is often hailed by news commentators in Iran.

Moreover, the World Trade Center carbombing bore the Iranian signature. Prior to the Trade Center, the most spectacular recent terrorist attack was the 1992 truck bomb destruction of the Israeli Embassy in Buenos Alres, Argentina. The blast leveled the embassy and and surrounding buildings, killing 29 people and wounding 242. Islamic Jihad, which is a name often used by the Lebanese-based but Iranian-supported Hezbollah, claimed responsibility.

Intelligence sources say that because the Argentine incident was deemed a success, Iranian officials convened a secret four-day terrorist conference in Teheran last January (before the World Trade Center bombing) during which a renewed strategy of targeting buildings, instead of airplanes, was decided

Most of the new measures contemplated by the Clinton administration will take an economic form to isolate the Islamic zealots who rule there. Secretary of State Warren Christopher has branded Iran an "interna-tional outlaw." while his department consid-ers Iran currently the most dangerous state sponsor of terrorism. The State Department is particularly piqued by Iran's use of its diplomate, embassies and diplomatic pouches to distribute explosives and weapons, and plan the attacks under this "diplomatic" COVEL.

Golden. "Everyone knows that. Everyone knows that if they stay 'stop.' though. that they mean it."

Golden said that he would not make such comments or touch a young woman that he did not know. He said that he will joke around sexually with his female friends "all the time," but that he respects their requests if they ask him not to do it.

Nicole Lemon, a friend of Golden's, said that he used to date her cousin so that he is like part of the family.

"If he hugs me or klases me in the hall, it's not sexual harassment," she said.

She added that most of the other young men who make sexually-oriented comments or who touch her "aren't doing it in a nasty way.'

Lemon said that the friendly kissing and touching means "nothing to us."

She added, however, that in the business world, such behavior would be unacceptable. The behavior, she said, was a part of school but would be acceptable only in that context.

But I think a lot of times. people are blowing this all out of proportion," she said. "This is not like Clarence Thomas and Anita Hill. This is much different.

The students said that teachers do not admonish them for their behavior, though they will discuss the subject if it comes up In the news.

'We talked about it a little after the Clarence Thomas thing." said Matt Freeman. "But it's never really addressed other than that."

Freeman said that he also tends to "play around" with his female friends in a sexual manner. He said he jokes with them and "grabs them," but they all "know I'm just joking around."

He said that he would not grab a young lady he did not know or one who he knew would be upset by the action.

He admitted, also, that some of he young ladies are probably othered by the sexual teasing,

Carolyn Gatch said that she and her friends do joke in a sexual manner, but when such comments or actions take place outside the context of a friendship, it can be "scary."

She said that earlier in the year, four young men approached her in the hall and began pushing her and making rude comments and requesting sexual favors.

"I was really scared," she said. "They were big boya."

She said that she reported the incident to school administrators and the young men were suspended from school. She said they have not bothered her since the incident.

"I hope they learned their lesson," she said.

Still, Gatch said, she and her friends continue to "joke around and pop each other on the butt." She said she is not afraid at school, though she sometimes feels "a little scared" when she attends night functions at the school. The incident with the four boys took place in the hallway at school during school hours, but she believes it was an isolated incident.

'My mother tells me to not walk in the hallways by myself," she said, "but I don't think it's that bad a problem."

Nationally, 39 percent of the victimized girls said they were afraid in school: 8 percent of the boys said they were. Twentyeight percent of the victimized girls said it was harder to pay attention in school, and 18 percent of the girls said the harassment made them think about changing schools. Gatch concluded. "It's really not sexual harassment when it's between friends." Some of the other findings of the aurvey were:

•Nearly four out of 10 students who did the harassing said it's "just part of school life," that "a lot of people do it" and that "it's no big deal." Two-third of the boys and more than half the girls admitted they have sexually harassed someone in school.

•One in four girls who said

Midway problems along with needs in 10 other low-income neighborhoods in the county. Another $7 million will be needed to correct the immediate needs in Midway alone, the county officials said. Estimates to correct problems in all 11 low-income areas of the county exceed $60 million, they said.

Sanford officials told Mica they had a plan to correct flooding problems in Goldsboro, but the $10 million to $12 million would require them to encumber the city's stormwater drainage fee charged to households for 15 ycars.

"As you can see, our needs are great both in the city and the county." said county commission chairman Bob Sturm in closing the 90-minute presentation.

Mica told county and city officials his staff would seek for other federal grants and programs to help speed drainage and other projects in both neighborhooda.

Midway activist Johneli Jackson said he was disappointed with the outcome of the meeting.

"It's great he will help us with infrastructure and roads and things like that, but we need development," said Jackson.

Jackson was also critical of county commissioners for looking to state and federal assistance to correct Midway problems. Commissioner Daryl McLain had noted commissioners recently committed $8,000 to a street lighting project in Midway.

"CDBG, that's the main thing." said Jackson. "CDBG, CDBG, CDBG, That's all we hear,"

Jackson said he planned to contact Senator Bob Graham for assistance.

Although Mica called for the meeting to discuss Midway and Goldsboro, county commissioner Pat Warren sought to expand the discussion.

"I've got two target areas in my district," said Warren. "I would expect Tony (planning director Tony VanDerworp) to ad lib some of the information on the other areas."

County officials told Mica nearly $2 million from federal Community Development Block Grant funds had been appropriated for Midway projects been spent on completed projects.

VanDerworp cited a host of complications in correcting Midway's drainage, water and roadway problems. Boundary lines are difficult to find because many lots are not officially recorded, he said. Also. roadways are not always on paths indicated by official records, VanDerworp said.

Recently, VanDerworp said residents are asked to grant the county permission to replace county. water lines crossing their property because county right-of-way could not be determined.

Sanford commissioner Bob Thomas told Mica Goldsboro problema were great, too.

"It is the most neglected area In Sanford," said Thomas. "I am here to say 'Help,' with many 'Let's start with these two exclamation points.'

City Manager Bill Simmons said the city is committed to correcting drainage problems in Goldaboro but it will take 15 years. Rain storms last year forced many residents to wade since 1986, primarily for from their homes in waist-deep drainage projects. Of that water. Mica said his staff would amount, less than $700,000 has seek federal dollars to speed work on the project.

> 'We have started the solution, but we badly need to accelerate this," said Simmons.

Simmons said the city also needs help to improve housing in Goldaboro. Charles Rowe, city community development officer. said the city once received $100,000 to $200,000 in federal grants to repair housing, but now the city must share $300,000 with other areas of the

"We're doing a lot of band-aid -stabilization work," said Rowe.

Simmons said the city has also run into banking regulation roadblocks in creating housing assistance funds. Mica directed his staff to review a new banking regulation relief proposal to see if the changes would help the city.

Overhauling the system

Reformers eye welfare limits, guaranteed child support benefit

By JENNIFER DIXON Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - President

Clinton's overhaul of the welfare system is likely to include limits on the time a healthy parent can collect benefits, experiments with guaranteed child support payments and greater efforts to collect such support.

"Our assistance programs should help people become economically self-sufficient, not locked on welfare doing nothing," says David Ellwood, n former Harvard University professor tapped to help draft the reform.

Ellwood, in an interview Tuesday, detailed the options under consideration.

The main focus of Clinton's reform is on healthy recipients of Aid to Families With Dependent Children, a $22 billion, statefederal welfare program for single parents and a small number of unemployed couples.

The program reached a record 5 million families in March, work on the overhaul is under according to the Department of Health and Human Services.

Clinton health plan may cover prescription costs

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - President Clinton's health reform plan will try to give Americans Increased protection against the one medical cost that many people mustpay out of their own pockets: prescription drugs.

A new drug benefit under Medicare could help the White House marshal support for its package from the elderly, a potent lobbying force.

But experts say it also makes sense from a cost-control viewpoint, because even expensive drugs can be a lot cheaper than letting someone get so sick they require surgery or extensive hospitalization.

Clinton has yet to make the final decisions on how to pay for the sweeping reform package heplans to send Congress later this month.

Consumers are almost certain to have to pay certain copayments and deductibles before their drug benefit kicks in.

White House advisers have examined various arrangements. including the possibility of making the elderly - who use the most drags - pay more out of pocket for prescriptions.

Drug coverage will be part of the basic benefit package guaranteed all Americans under Clinton's plan. But it is not clear. whether the prescription drug benefit under Medicare will be the same as the one for the under-65 population

When Ira Magaziner, the president's senior adviser for domestic policy development. was asked that question at a meeting with consumer groups. tast month, he replied only The intention is to give a drugbenefic to Medicare people which: they on thow have.

John Rother, the legislative director for the American Assoclation for Retired Persons, said: "The elderty will want preity much the same benefit that everybody else has. The problem Is, you can finance it off the books for everybody else, but when you're talking about Medicare that has to be onEndget linancing."

In the standard benefit package, the drug benefit may come with a $50 annual deductible and an "unusually high co-payment" of 40 percent. Rother predicted. That deductible night go as high as $250 for the elderly, although the copayment would stay the same. he added.

But the White House will find a "hard to explain why the population group that needs the coverage the most has less coverage than everybody else," Rother said:

John Coster, a senior health polley analyst and pharmaceutical specialist for Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark., on the Senate-Aging Committee, said 70 percent of those under 65 now have some prescription drug coverage, compared with just 46 percent of the elderly.

Drug benefits added to Medicare could cost from $8 billion to $17 billion a year. depending on the co-payments and deductibles, Coster said.

Five years ago, when Congress enacted the short-lived Medicare catastrophic coverage plan. It included future drug coverage with deductibles so high - $800 or more - that only one-sixth of the elderly would derive any benefit from them.

Study relates vegetables, booze, cancer

By PAUL RECER AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON - Fresh fruits and vegetables protect against colon cancer but not if the daily diet includes two or more alcoholic drinks, scientists said today.

Researchers, reporting in the Journal of the National Cancer Institute, based the finding on a study of 16,000 women and 9,500 men who underwent medteal screening for precancerous polyps in the colon.

Dr. Edward Giovannuci of Brigham and Women's Hospital th Boston and the Harvard Medical School said the study found that people with high levels of folate, a nutrient common in fruits and vegetables, were much less likely to have polyps.

But the good effect was lost among heavy drinkers, he said. People who consumed two or drinks daily were at increased risk of polyps. We speculate that alcohol may have an effect on folate metabolism," said Glovannuel. The research follows two other recent studies on alcohol's effect. Dr. J. Michael Gaziano, also of Brigham and Women's Hospital. reported last month on a study that found drinking three beers or three glasses of wine daily raised levels of the "good" cholesterol and seemed to give some protection against a type of heart attack. Another study, also published in the Journal of the National Cancer Institute, searched for the reason that women drinkers tend to have more breast cancer. It found that women who drink 30 grams or more of alcohol daily – equal to about two drinks – increase their levels of the hormone estrogen by up to 31.9 percent. High levels of estrogen have been linked to breast cancer. In his study, Giovannuci and his colleagues used people who had been medically screened for polyps, called colorectal adenomas, that are associated with the development of colorectal cancer. Some of the people who had this medical test had polyps and some did not. By examining the dictary differences between the group. Glovannucl said he and his researchers were able to determine a link to colon cancer. and diet. The researchers divided the people into five groups depending on their consumption of folate. The study then compared the incidence of adenomas in the top 20 percent of folate consumers and the bottom 20 percent. Giovannucl said that among women, the group with the highest level of folate consumption had a 34 percent lower incidence of polyps when compared with women with the lowest level of folate consumption. For men, there was a 37 percent lower incidence. This changed, however, when alcohol was factored in, the researcher said. Women who drank more than 30 grams of alcohol daily were at an 84 percent increased risk of having polyps. Men were at a 64 percent greater risk.

"It has been well known that high levels of alcohol intake, over two drinks a day, affects folate levels in the body." said Glovannuci.

Raines' perfect night helps Chisox end skid

By HARRY ATKINS

AP Sports Writer

DETROIT - Tim Raines was sending a message to Detroit center fielder Milt Cuyler as he raced around the bases Tuesday night: Give it your best shot.

Cuyler never came close and Raines scored the go-ahead run, helping the Chicago White Sox break a six-game losing streak with a 4-2 victory. over the Tigers.

Raines, a native of Sanford, was a major factor all night. He went 3-for-3, including his fourth home run. Raines has reached safely in the first inning of his last five games.

"Tim was great all night." White Sox manager Gene Lamont said. "On the play that Cuyler bobbled, he scored because he busted his butt all the way around."

With two down in the White Sox seventh, Ozzie

Guillen doubled and Bill Guilickson (2-2) walked Raines. Joey Cora singled to drive in Guillen. But that wasn't the end of it.

"You could see Tim handing it." Lamont said. 'I don't know it Cuyler saw Tim hauling of not. But you preach to put pressure on the outfielders, and that's what he did tonight."

Raines, who never hesitated, scored all the way from first to give the White Sox a 3-2 lead when Cuyler bobbled the ball in center for an error. "When I rounded second, I saw hum hobble it."

Raines said, "So, I knew I had a chance, I didn't slow down at all after that. I knew if he was going to throw me out, it would have to be a great throw. The throw was nowhere close to great.

"It's been a hard losing streak." Lamont said. "It's hard to have a live bench when you're not scoring runs. But that picked us up. Our bench really came alive after that."

Raines, who had a single, a double and walked twice, hit his fourth home run in the ninth and Buddy Grooms relieved Guthelsson

Alex Fernandez (6.3) who pitched aver innings, matched a season high with musstrikcouts, Roberto Hernandez got the binal six outs for his ninth save

"Against the better pitchers, two or three manis all you're going to get," Detroit manager Sparky Anderson said Against second finers you'll get more but not against gave like Fernandez.

The White Sox, who were 10.2 against Detroit last year, now have won their last six games at Tiger Stadium.

Guttlekson, who came within two outs of giving the Tigers their first complete game of the season, gave up 11 hits, two walks and had two strikeouts in 81-3 innings.

The White Sox took a 1-0 lead in the third when Raines doubled, moved up on Cora's bant and scored on an RBI grounder by Frank Thomas.

Homemaker sets pace for a relaxed, summer picnic

By Rence Keith Herald Correspondent

As "Cook of the Week" Alberta Hamrick put it, "I enjoy my chosen career as a 'professional homemaker.' I happen to come from a long line of professionals, such as wives, moms, cooks and best friends just to name a few. Anyway, we're all real happy doing what we do best, taking care of our families."

Alberta was born as raised in Kentucky. Her family ties there are strong, however, the job climate was not. "It's an ad-justment I think, for most people when they have to move away from their families or their friends, but so far, it has turned out to be a good one for us," she said. "We really don't have any complaints."

Alberta and her husband Ralph moved to Sanford six months ago. Ralph was very fortunate in that he was able to gain employment almost immediately. With JMC Inc., he was able to stay within his line of construction work.

The Hamricks commented that they're the "parents of three fine children." Jennifer is 12 years old and currently is atten-ding Lakeview Middle School. This school year she has been very active with the school chorus. Johnny is 10 years old and just happens to think that his mother is the greatest cook in the world. "I just love every single thing she makes," he said. Johnny strends Coldsborn Ele-Johnny attends Goldsboro Ele-mentary School along with his 9-year-old brother, James.

In her spare time Alberta can get quite involved with her craft work. She makes beautiful lace and wicker baskets that can be Tasty Turkey Roll combines good tasts and good nutrition.

Enjoy down-home values with traditional turkey

One of the most important ways to keep those family values alive is through traditions. Many traditions, of course, center around food. At such special Pineapple Sauces occasions as Easter brunches, Independence Day cookouts. Christmas and Hanukkah dinners, we enjoy getting together with family and celebrating with a feast.

There is a way you don't have to choose between good taste and good nutrition. By making recipes such as this Tasty Turkey Roll with turkey ham and ground turkey, you can have the best of both worlds. By using ground turkey, you can enjoy good, old fashioned, down-home, hearty taste, yet meat thermometer reaches 160 still be serving food that is degrees F., julces run clear and nutritious. Ground turkey has meat is no longer pink. Drain 50 percent less fat than other juices and unmold turkey loaf ground meats. By substituting onto platter and turn right side other low-fat ingredients such as turkey ham in your traditional family reunion recipes, you can reduce the fat, cholesterol and calories even more. Ground turkey is also quite economical - something that's especially important when feeding a crowd. It offers a high proportion of protein compared to other ground means. In addi-tion, turkey ham and ground turkey is guite convenient. You can use it to prepare recipes that lets you save time in the kitchen to enjoy more time with family. readers gave their opinions on whether an office worker should inform the boss that a colleague was going through the boss's wastebasket. Two of the writers who responded asserted that the courts have held that the police cannot search an individual's trash without a search warrant. Abby, in a 1988 case, the U.S.

Supreme Court held that the police did not need a warrant to search garbage that was placed in opaque bags at the curb for collection. The rationale was that the defendants did not have a reasonable expectation of privacy in the garbage, so a search warrant was not required under the Fourth Amendment.

It is possible that some state constitutions provide greater protection. Moreover, the police certainly cannot search garbage that is inside a person's house. since they normally need a warrant to enter a house. But under the U.S. Constitution, garbage left at curbside is fair game for the police.

Making sense out of diet advice

diagnosed with diverticulitis and using moderation, of course. In a hiatal hernia. For the first condition. I was told not to eat much fiber and to take Metamuell at night, I phoned a medical information line and found I should cat more roughage, but should avoid spley foods because of the hiatal hernia. I'm confused.

DEAR READER: Opinion is divided about whether people with diverticulosis (harmless, outpouchings of the intestinat lining) should follow specific diets to prevent these sacs from becoming infected (diverticulitis).

In the past, roughage was considered harmful, but this prohibition has been discarded. Now, many doctors advise patients with diverticulosis to avoid small indigestible seeds, such as those contained in figs and berries. Perhaps this prejudice will someday fall out of favor, too.

Metamueil (psyllium fiber) is used as a stool-bulking agent. By increasing the size of the feeal residue, if aids elimination -- and may also reduce serum cholesterol. It has no effect on hiatal hernia.

To my knowledge, it is neither advisable nor madvisable in the presence of diverticulosis; although some people are clearly helped by it, others aren't. Therefore, use your own judgment in this matter; there's no hard and fast rule.

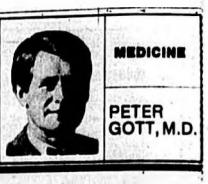

Hiatal hernia, on the other hand, causes heartburn and bloating that may be aggravated by spicy foods. Again, there is no clear-cut recommendation against ALL spices. Patients with this condition, which is a weakness where the stomach meets the esophagus, usually learn by trial and error which foods to avoid.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been can experiment with your diet. the process, you'll soon learn which foods worsen your symptoms.
