Noted French Ace
Dies From Injuries
Received In Crash

PARIS, Aug. 9.—(INS)—Maurice Drouhin, noted French aviator, died today from injuries received when the tri-motor monoplane
"Rainbow" in which he was to attempt a trans-Atlantic flight
last week crashed to the ground
at Orly flying field during a trial flight.

Drouhin's mechanic, Lanet, was killed outright in the crash. Two others aboard the plane, Gianni, an engineer, and Manu, a radio operator, were injured. Gianni is said to be in a serious condition.

The crash was viewed by Rene Cousinet, designer of the plane
and Joseph Laheur, French world flier, who was to have accompanied Drouhin on his trans-Atlantic attempt as navigator. Cousinet had been aboard the plane on all of its previous flights and had stayed on the ground this time "because he wanted to see the plane
in the air."

Seminole County's Farm Income $365 Per Capita; $26 An Acre; Leads State

Seminole County's agricultural income per person and per acre is greater by two to one than the similar incomes of the other leading agricultural counties of the state, according to figures obtained from the annual report of the State Department of Agriculture.

For every person in Seminole County agricultural and farm products bring in $365.40 income, according to census and survey figures. Polk County, which has the largest total agricultural income, obtains $192.80 per person for agricultural products. Hillsborough County, which ranks second in total production, gets on $164,000, according to the state's report. This includes the sales of the Royal Fern Company, reputed to be the largest establishment of its kind in existence.

The other minor items range
from a few hundred dollars to $25, 000, estimated by the Chamber of Commerce as income from milk,
butter and other dairy products.

Incomes from poultry raising and eggs total, according to the state survey, approximately $33,000.

Income from cattle slaughtered and sold amounts to $17,500. The revenue from slaughtered pork is placed at $3,200.

Reports from various shipping organizations indicate that the revenue from agriculture in this county will show another decided increase during the approaching season. The entire income from the seaboard was submerged and nine trading vessels were sunk.

The quake threw up mighty waves which rolled shoreward leaving destruction in their wake.

The volcano had long been grumbling but the eruption developed with suddenness and violence.

Huge clouds of ashes, masses of molten lava and a veritable avalanche of rocks shot from the crater.

Volumes of smoke and steam blazed upward while the flames flashed through the mark and loud
rumbling came from the bowels
of the mountain.

The earthquakes shocks were believed to have rocked the bottom of the sea for they were followed by a tidal wave which rolled along the coast increasing the havoc.

The island is one of the group
near the Dutch East Indian archipelago.

His death, from a complication of

to pay their final respects. But wishes of the family that Brennan

MILLER HUGGINS VILL GIVE YANKS TOLENTSHAKEUP

Koenig, Robertson And Dugan To Be Benched In Favor Of Durocher And Gazella; Catching, Pitching Is Poor

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—(INS)—Despite of the fact that the finale of the western invasion saw the Yankees blow one while Yanks were winning, thus widening the gap between this pair to 4 1/2 games, word comes east today that Professor Miller Huggins will give his ball club a violent shaking up. The "perfect ball club," they liked it when it was 13 1/2 games from early last month and concerned only with the hardship of finishing out an ordained but perfunctious schedule. Today, having won exactly two series in the 10 contested, they are just so gromed perfect that the Professor means to fire half of the bunch.

He probably would be quite content to fire all of his catchers, too, if he can't do that because the dials are most finical about having no men on the dial at all times. The Professor has tried to oblige this respect but eight men and a catcher has been his limit in the past five weeks.

Anyhow, he feels he has plenty of able infield reserves and so, they're on the left side of the present latter's life removed to a spot where the sun will no longer affect.

Those to be demoted are Mark Koenig, shortstop and Gene Robertson and Joe Dugan, compensation third basemen. Those to be retained are Leo Durocher and Eddie Gazella at second and third base respectively. Part of the proposed alteration went into effect yesterday with Gazella at third.

The full remodelling will be completed as soon as Lazzeri is free to return to second base, Durocher being occupied at that position in the meantime. On paper, he new infield lacks the punch of its predecessor—but only on paper.

Koenig isn't hitting the size of his wedding finger; Robertson is doing slightly better if at all. There is nothing the matter with Dugan's hitting—but plenty the matter with Dugan's legs. He probably is putting it in his last season as a regular. Robertson, however, is losing a lot of balls at third base and Huggins is faced with the necessity of doing something about it, even if he has to return the spavined Dugan to the position.

As for Koenig, he has made 11 errors of this trip, more than the Giant team put together on their last western invasion and if any of them weren't costly, Huggins would like to know whose money is being used to pay the bill.

In view of ineffectual hitting and pitching, the 50 per cent collapse of the infield and clownish catching, the abiding wonder of the day isn't the fact that the Athletics were able to pare down the Yankees lead with their inspiring rush through the field, but that the Yanks have any lead at all. They have played exactly .45 baseball since knocking the Athletics off in that series at the stadium during the first week of July.

Immediately thereafter, they broke even in a series with Washington and St. Louis, dropped a series to Detroit, won five straight from Cleveland, took a series from the White Sox, broke even with Boston and then were taken in succession by Detroit, Cleveland and St. Louis and finally got a stand off with Chicago yesterday.

Contrast this record with the set that the Athletics have played at a clicking pace of .826 over the period and you have half the answer to the present situation. The other half is those five straight the Yanks took from the Indians in mid-July. That circumstance alone has served to keep a ball club hot temporarily or otherwise, has eased to be a ball club, in first place.

Influx Of Immigrants Is Changing Whole Character Of Scotland, Say Natives

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Is Scotland and the great Scotch race in danger?

It was pointed out by the delegation that between 1901 and 1921 the Irish population of Scotland increased by 30 per cent, and the native Scottish population by only six per cent; also that the Irish represented 25 per cent of the population of Glasgow, and it was computed that they received 70 per cent of all relief funds that are distributed.

The religious leaders involved also pointed out that Scotland is in danger of being both religiously and racially overrun by Irish people who are set of the best type.

Other arguments put forward by the delegation were:

(1) The birth rate of the Irish in Scotland is much greater than that of the natives.

(2) The Irish work for less wages and have a lower standard of living.

(3) Their political sympathies, generally speaking, are Communistic.

EDUCATOR SAYS STUDENT SHOULD PAY SCHOOL COST

Trevor Arnett Thinks Public Should No Longer Be Required To Support Any Of The Higher Institutions

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(INS)—Undergraduates students should bear the full cost of their college education, and universal application of this principle should be made as soon as conditions permit. Trevor Arnett, president of the General Education Board, told the educators at the annual Institute for Administrative Officers of Institutions of Higher Learning at the University of Chicago. Statistics quoted by Arnett showed that students fees at present constitute 32 per cent of the income of the country's institutions of higher learning.

"A college education now is primary for the benefit of the individual, and for that reason he should pay its cost," Arnett said. "Our earliest colleges were founded in Colonial days for the purpose of providing an education for those intending to become ministers and teachers or to enter the other professions where they would render a great service to the public at very little pecuniary reward to themselves. The public, therefore, was asked to provide the means of educating these students with practically no expense to themselves. The appeal was perfectly right and proper since the public received most of the benefit."

Supported By Public

Through the succeeding centuries the public has been asked to give largely to the support of college education, on the principle that the public is the chief beneficiary, although statistics show that the purpose of college education has almost completely changed. An inquiry conducted by one of the old established colleges in the East makes the change of purpose evident. It developed that 68 per cent of the present graduates go into business and commercial pursuits."

"The public responds generously to the appeal for funds, for we are informed that college endowments in 1926 were over $78 million dollars and now are without doubt over a billion dollars, whereas in 1900 they were approximately 177 million, a growth of six times since 1900. I would not suggest curtailing the generous impulses of the public toward higher education but I would suggest directing them into other channels in that field, and ask them to provide endowment for graduate and research students and for scholarships and loan funds for the college student whose financial resources are meager."

Would Aid Poor

The student of restricted means would not be excluded from college if tuition is made high enough to meet the entire operating cost, Mr. Arnett said. In his belief, all students should be made to pay the full cost, but those unable to pay at the time they were in college could be aided with loans or scholarships.

"Under the plan which I am proposing, many students would find it necessary to secure loans," Mr. Arnett told the meeting. "I see no objection to this method of financing one's college education. The public might well provide the funds to be loaned and make possible a low rate of interest and a sufficiently long period for repayment. A self-respecting student conscious of his own purposes and intellectual ability, and appreciating the advantages of a trained mind, would welcome the opportunity which is already so abundant if provided for self help and would gladly assume a loan for the sum which he might need in addition to his earnings. The amount involved for tuition is not much greater than at present—probably $700 to $1,000 in all for the four year course."

"Advantages of the pay-as-you-go principle would be many. The institutions would need to appeal to the public for funds chiefly for graduate instruction and research and for plant and equipment for undergraduate work. Colleges would need to operate on an efficient and economical basis, otherwise their fees in comparison with those of others better administered would be looked upon unfavorably and they would suffer from competition."

Maintain Democracy

Independent pedagogues say: "Parents and students would get a clear understanding of what a college education costs, and since they would have to pay the full cost, would appreciate it more. The colleges would be quite as democratic as they are now, and no one excluded for financial reasons if sufficient loan and scholarship funds were provided as the plan contemplates."

The graduate student would not be required to pay the full cost of his education, Arnett said, because of the contributions to costs although, in some professional

"I find good music can keep people in good humor, better than any other device," he declared. "None of our bands ever stopped playing in war time; there never would be any fighting. I have had people from around the country come up and tell me that they came to such a happy prosperous country."

Show Interest

"The questions foreigners have asked and the interest shown in American music is amazing. Everyone here wants to know how we write our music. Last night I was playing one of my favorite numbers, 'Say Yes' Today' and an Indian chief came over after I had finished, and wanted to know all about the song. He was interested in knowing how it was written and trying to be accommodated. I gave him this year."

SUFFERERS from diabetes, tired berries, rhubarb, spinach, tomatoes, cauliflower. Here are recipes for using some of these specially prepared fruits and vegetables.

Some Diabetic Recipes

Smoothie of Fresh Rhubarb. Beat the whole in one egg, add crushed fruit. Get the fruits canned without sugar; saccharine and lemon juice to taste and beat again. Serve very cold.

Fruit Salad. Place sections of canned fruit (get the ones canned without sugar) on crisp lettuce leaves and serve with diabetic dressing. Small balls of cheese, either plain or cottage, in canned walnuts, may be added to this. Diabetic dressing is made by combining olive oil and sunflower oil and saccharine in the same recipe for smoothie.

Scalloped Tomatoes. Mix tomato and add cracked chicken, salt and pepper, then the typical diabetic wine. Brown in oven.

High cost of college education is present in due to the increased cost of living, which requires higher faculty salaries, although the real value of the salary is not greater than it was in pre-war times, and to the great increase in the number of college students, on 767,203, and between 1920 and according to Mr. Arnett. The total college attendance in 1920 was 1,200, the average annual increase in students being 10%.

The graduate student would not be required to pay the full cost of his education, Arnett said, because of the contributions to costs although, in some professional

The impression left on a letter used by a married young man who was writing short in the lobby of one of the world's largest banks was the inspiration for this song, I explained.

Valuable Diabetic Foods

SUFFERERS from diabetes tired of a restricted diet thought that when Dr. F. C. Banting of Toronto, Canada, discovered insulin, they would be able to eat what they liked. Instead, Dr. Banting says that he is even more important when insulin is used.

In diabetic cases the body is unable to utilize the carbohydrates properly, and the amount a patient is able to take care of each day must be scientifically weighed and measured.

Pure carbohydrates are sugars and starches. Because fruits and vegetables contain very small and dilute amounts of carbohydrates, due to the large proportion of water and fiber content, they are of great value in feeding the diabetic. Canners are putting fruits without sugar, and vegetables without salt. Some that are prepared in this way are beans, apple sauce, blackberries, cherries, peach peels, peas, raspberries, straw-

MAN THOUGHT TO HAVE BEEN SLAIN IS FOUND ALIVE

James H. Lawrence Reveals Story Of Being Tricked By Can Men; Wandered For Days With His Mind Blank

DENVER, Aug. 9—(INS)—

After spending seven and a half years in prison and private detective for seven years James H. Lawrence, who was thought to have been killed in Kansas City seven years ago, proved himself very much alive here yesterday.

"I made a mistake, we all make mistakes," was his explanation.

Lawrence once a wealthy factor of Edinburgh, Texas, disappeared when he left his wife and four children, to make a business trip to Kansas City. Insurance companies and police departments sent their best detectives to solve the mystery but all the could find was his hat and coat on the bank of the Missouri River.

Seven years passed and Lawrence was pronounced legally dead. Proceedings were instituted to settle his estate.

But, a few days ago, Harry Blanchard, upon entering a hotel, thought he recognized a clerk, known as J. H. Lee. He called his wife and they both decided that Lee was Lawrence, the man they had known in Rockaway City.

Adults. Identity.

Detectives and reporters rushed to interview the man, whereupon he admitted his identity and told a story always before a secret.

"I had been in financial difficulties in Texas and had made a deal with Kansas City lawyers men which I hoped would adjust things," he said.

"I had hoped that no one would know," he continued with tears in his eyes. The Kansas City men tricked me. The last thing I remember is walking out of the lobby of a Kansas City hotel. I know that I was very angry.
