Federal Reserve lowers rate

WASHINGTON - The Federal Reserve struggling to bolster an extremely sluggish economy, announced today it was pushing a key bank lending rate to its lowest level in 18 years. The move came closely on the heels of a report showing consumer inflation rose a tiny 0.2 percent in August the decision by the Fed to lower its discount. rate from 5.5 percent to 5 percent was designed to set off a chain reaction of lower interest rates throughout the economy.

Within minutes of the announcment, one of the nation's biggest banks, Morgan Guaranty. said it was cutting its prime lending rate a half percentage point to 8 percent. It was the fourth decline in the prime rate this year and put this benchmark rate for many business and consumer loans at its lowest level since 1987

A cut in the discount rate, the interest the central bank charges to make loans to commercial banks, is the most dramatic signal the Fed can send of its intention to push interest rates lower in an effort to spur economic activity

It was the fourth decline in the discount rate since last December as the central bank began moving with argency to combat the country's first recession in hearly eight years. At 5 percent, the discount rate is now the lowest it has been since February 1973.

Discovery thunders into orbit

By MARCIA BUINI AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CAREVERAL - Discov-ery thundered along the East Coast and into orbit, carrying five astronauts and a complex research satellite that scientists hope will tell them where and why Earth's ozone layer is shrinking.
The 100-ton space shuttle rose from its seaside launch pad at 7:11 p.m. Thursday, piercing a hazy sky as it darted out over the Atlantic Ocean and up the East Coast.

Scientists on the ground cheered as it sped away with the Upper Atmosphere Research Satellite, a $740 million effort to study Earth's deteriorating ozone layer and other stratospheric elements.

It is the first in a series of satellites planned for Mission to Planet Earth, a decades-long probe of the environment from space.

"It's the moment we've been waiting for," said Don Wuebbles, an atmospheric scientist who has been working on the project since 1978. "After 13 years, how can I put it in words?"

Commander John Creighton and his crew have worked after-hours for months, putting in virtually all their flight training at night. Friday's bedtime was, as usual, at dawn. Wakeup was in the afternoon.

The men's primary job after reaching orbit was to check the 14,500-pound observatory and the shuttle's mechanical arm. which astronaut Mark Brown will use to deploy the satellite late Saturday.

This evening, in preparation for the satellite release. Creighton and pilot Kenneth Reightler Jr. planned to maneuver Discovery to an altitude of 354 miles, one of the highest for a shuttle. The sight of Earth was awesome, even from 336 miles

"We are WAY up here." Creighton said as Discovery circled the world for the sixth time. "You look out the overhead window and you can see from coast to coast all the way across Australia." Shuttle cameras beamed back striking images of Typhoon Kinna racing toward the Japa-nese island of Kyushu and the shimmering northern lights.

The observatory is to spend at least 11/2 years studying the ozone layer, located in the stratosphere six to 34 miles above Earth. Scientists believe manmade chemicals are . destroying this band of oxygen. which filters out ultraviolet rays that could wipe out life on the planet.

The satellite also will make the first measurement of stratospheric winds and monitor the atmosphere's chemical composition, solar energy and energetic particles.

Several experiments are on the agenda. Brown sent 10 digital images from a new electronic still camera designed to swiftly provide high-resolution pictures to the ground. Not all the transmissions were good.

Filmmaker Frank Capra, who died Sept. 3 at age 94, was a master at portraying the American Dream because he lived it so fully.

Capra was the son of Sicilian peasants who came to the United States in steerage when he was 6 years old. The youngest of seven children, he sold newspapers, did other odd jobs, went to school in Los Angeles and dreamed of rising above his humble origins. After graduating from high school at 16, Capra worked for a year, saved his money and gained a partial scholarship that enabled him to attend the California Institute of Technology.

To pay his way through college, he waited on tables, oversaw the student laundry and worked nights and weekends in a Pasadena power plant. In addition to taking a full load of classes, he edited the school newspaper and served as captain of his ROTC unit during his senior year.

After a brief stint in the Army during the closing months of World War I. Capra returned to California to discover that there wasn't much demand for chemical engineers. So he drifted across the state pruning fruit trees, inspecting pipes and selling books and magazine subscriptions door to door.

A meeting in San Francisco with an actor changed Capra's life. Given $1,700 to dramatize a Rudyard Kipling poem, the brash young man who knew nothing abut directing movies fashioned a short, silent film that won critical praise. Before long, he went to Hollywood and set about learning how to

During the 1930s and 1940s, no one m them any better. He was the first director to win three Academy Awards. And his first Oscar for the classic 1934 comedy "It Happened One Night" was the first film to sweep all five major awards.

Most of Capira's subsequent films celebrated the fundamental goodness of the common man beset by schemers and cynics. The quintessential Capra hero was James Stewart in "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" and "It's a Wonderful Life." These two magnificent movies resonate with the unabashed sentimentality which his detractors dismissed as "Capra-corn" but which captivated movie audiences worldwide.

Generations of movie buffs will continue to be inspired by Frank Capra's films because they reflect his timeless philosophy that "the world cannot fall apart as long as free men see the rainbow, feel the rain and hear the laugh of a child."

Men may be becoming the latest victims of the fashion industry. Designers are doing their best to make men feel positively dowdy in their inocuous, drab suits. Just imagine the chief executive officer of a Fortune 800 company strolling into a board meeting in a tasteful, pin-striped shorts suit. Would the board members be focused on his sales pitch or his calves, especially when his legs are set off by a pair of open-toeu shoes?

Or imagine a middle-aged lawyer showing up at a neighbor's barbecus clad only in skintight tights in a bold, geometric print and metal-studded, ankle-high, black-leather boots. Would anyone really pay attention to his funny story about torts?

The fashion industry's assault on men may be the best thing that could happen in the battle of the sexes. After a few forays into the land of fashion, men with a less-than-taut abdomen may have a whole new appreciation for what women have long endured at the hands of fashion designers.

Both sexes deserve what men have long received — clathing that's flattering, sensible and reasonably priced.

Judge Thomas goes against grain

The curtain has now risen on the final act in the drama of Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas. The Senate Judiciary Committee has begun its hearings on his nomination, the anti-Thomas lobby has kicked off its $3 million campaign to "Bork him," and conservatives are fighting back as best they can.

Ever since President Reagan's nomination of Robert Bork in 1987, which the liberal left defeated by designing a supremply well-qualified.

defeated by dragging a supremely well-qualified nominee through a barnyard mud-bath unprecedented in the history of judicial nominations, there can be no confidence that the confirmation process, now or in the future, will be conducted with anything approaching the dignity it deserves. The Senate will be a long time living down its disgraceful performance on that occasion, whether Clarence Thomas is confirmed

Luckily, it seems possible that at least a majority of senators, this time, will turn a deaf ear to the snarts of Norman Lear and his left-liberal lobby. If they do, it won't be because they have experienced any belated influx of highmindedness. Rather, it will be because the character and significance of Clarence Thomas will have become unmistakably clear in the Senate hearings.

It isn't merely that Clarence Thomas has suffered, starting his life under circumstances of abject poverty and rising, step by step, to a position of real eminence in American society. Plenty of American blacks have suffered as much, and some have risen as high.

What makes Clarence Thomas so noteworthy is the fact that he did not choose to construct and pursue his career on the theory that, as a black man, America owed him special attention or special help. All he ever asked — and this he demanded was an equal opportunity to compete.

Unless I miss my guess, the dignity and power of that position are going to have a profound impact on the national television audience watching the Thomas hearings. Some of the senators on the committee can hardly be expected to appreciate a sentiment so thoroughly noble But even the Senate's most abandoned opportunists are experts at detecting the way the wind of public opinion is blowing — and acting accordingly.

The real losers, if Thomas is ultimately confirmed, will be the black "leaders" who long ago made a Faustian bargain with America's liberals to be their lifelong political ragbables in return for the right to administer a crippling dole to their fellow blacks.

Even so, Clarence Thomas stands forth as a man who never for a second endorsed such a "solution" to the problems of America's blacks. He has fought flercely for their right to equal opportunity, but has rejected every effort to treat them as cripples. And he has demonstrated, in his own career, the success that can be achieved by an able black who refuses to spend his life as "handkerchief-head" on the plantation of American liberalism.

To liberal blacks, such independence is hugely offensive; for it to be rewarded by elevation to the Supreme Court would be utterly intolerable. Clarence Thomas — and through him, black Americans generally — must be taught that there is no salvation save through liberalism.

Taxing hogwash

The recent increase in property assessments is due to the property assessor trying to follow state law. I have no problem with this.

What I do have a problem with is the various councilmen, commissioners, school board members and taxing district commissioners saying they are not raising tax rates, it is the result of the assessment increases. This is hogwash! A corresponding drop in miliage rates would greatly alleviate a lot of this increase. The base has increased due to the higher assessments and in addition, construction has increased value, so that taxes for those who have been paying for years should not be increasing at such astronomical rates.

What we really need is a California proposi-tion 13 revolt. It is not right for property taxes on residential property to increase so drastically that people are forced to sell their residnices. We need a cap on the amount residential property taxes can recrease on an annual basis. At the time of selling the property or if significant alterations/additions are made to the property is the time to reevaluate the property.

I urge you to let these elected officials know that you know THEY control the miliage rates and are responsible for the tax increases

Airport suggestions

Guite frankly, ian't it time to get off the taxpayers backs with all this (airport building) in this state and nation? Sure, it was badly needed way back in the 40's when we had to have all those flying fields for our war effort.

Now though, I beleive it to be time. reconsider our basic needs plus rethink how we pay for all those things (you, the government) tell us we need, for what reason, and for

Who stands to make millions out of such a project at a time of such high unemployment in the area? I for one feel that I, let alone tens of thousands of other people just like me, must pay large sums of money in taxes for much of our lifetime to support hairbrained projects that don't put a single thin dime in my pocket.

Also, I don't care to hear any more buil about that so-called trickle down effect that is supposed to help us all, no way dude. As for the sounds of a busy new airport. I can do without that too.

As to those provoking thoughts abut whether or not it should be built in an environmentally sensitive area, to my mind, there can only be one answer (No).

Two very good reasons come to mind here:

1) The County itself would be breaking its own long-term rules discouraging such types of development. 2) Let me remind you. The Airport Authority of Greater Orlando, that the planes flying into and out of such an airfield proposed to be built with taxpayer monies. would only serve the growing number of such small aircraft. I. like most people in this Central Florida area, perhaps about 96.9% who would be asked to pay for this airport, quite likely may never even have a chance to ride in such a light aircraft.

Therefore, let me at least propose a much saner course of action, perhaps a much cheaper approach to your problem though I know you prefer to keep all such projects local. Now, first of all, since the distance to or from said eastern airport by car, bus or taxi would be about the same or a bit shorter to another airport, not too far away is the little used up to now (I speak of the Sanford Airport) which also was paid for with taxpayer money. True also, is the fact that it needs a lot of fixing up but then so did the old airport that today calls itself the Orlando International Airport.

I do so remember the old Air Force hangar and runways that looked so pitiful when first turned over to the city of Orlando so many years ago. Do you remember? I might add, too, that it provoked a few questions back then, plus you must consider this, how long do you think you can bleed your victims before they die, or worse yet, have a tax revolt on your hands. A new era is taking shape in this land of ours. The peop don't believe what they are being told anymore. Isn't it time to consider the user fee system, let them that use it pay for it?.

Watt years haunt Yosemite rangers

WASHINGTON — Park rangers in Yosemite National Park got a slap in the face from James Watt last month when they opened their mail — bills for thousands of dollars in back rent for their housing in the park. Now they can either pay up voluntarily or have the money taken out of their government paychecks.

The letters marked the end of a punishing legal battle that started nine years ago when Watt was Ronald Reagan's unpopular Interior secretary. He decided that National Park employees living in government-owned housing in the parks should be paying rent that matched the prices in the surrounding housing market. Up until that point, the rangers had paid below market rents.

The idea may have made sense to Watt, but the rangers it.

amounted to a pay cut. Like the military, the rangers had settled for lower salaries because they knew one of the perks of the job in-cluded breaks on rangers decided to fight back, and sued the Interior Department claiming the formula for the new rents was flawed. In nine years in and out of court, their argument has never been fully explained to a judge.

Their first suit was thrown out of court in 1985 by a judge who said the rangers had failed to bring their case forward quickly enough. During the time that the case was pending, the judge had restrained the government from imposing the rent inuses, so the rangers had a three-year grace

Since the merits of their case had never been heard, the rangers sued again and began paying the higher rents. The govern-ment had offered a settlement — if the rangers would drop the legal battle: They would not be billed for the difference in their rent that was accumulating while the first case was in court. The rangers figured they had a strong case, so they went for broke and rejected the offer.

But the second suit didn't fare any better in court. The judge threw the case out, saying he didn't want to try a case that had already been through the court system once, Refusing to give up, the rangers took their case to a federal appeals court. They lost there too.

The federal government didn't accept victory gracefully. The Interior Department decided to collect the rent increase that was not paid during the three-year court battle when the judge had held the government landlords at bay.

So it was that after nine years and two failed lawsuits, about 300 rangers opened their mail last month to find a bill from Uncle Sam for rent he considers to be aix years overdue. The rangers told our reporter Jan Moller that the bills went from $1,500 to $5,200, and the rangers were given 30 days to pay up or have the money taken out of their paychecks in monthly installments with interest. Many of them canceled vacations and borrowed money.

The fues created at Yosemite may have prompted other parks around the country to modify their own rental formulas for rangers. As a final irony, a recent rent study comparing rents at Yosemite with those in the surrounding area found that the Interior Department was charging too much as the landlord. The buildings were dilapidated and not worth what the government thought they were, so the rents were decreased.

Block abortion bill, conservatives tell Bush

By ALAN FRAM Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Outnumbered Senate conservatives say they will rely on a promised veto by President Bush to stop legislation that overturns a ban on abortion counseling by federally financed family-planning clinics.

The Senate voted to reverse the ban on Thursday as part of a $204 billion measure it approved, 78-22, to finance the Department of Health and Human Services and other agencies in the fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

But the bill ended up containing a victory for conservatives in another area. Senators voted to transfer $10.1 million that had been intended for a study of adult sexual behavior to a program that counsels youths to avoid sex until they are married.

There was no separate vote on the abortioncounseling provision, which was barely mentioned during three days of debate on the overall bill.

The legislation also contains $25 million for lead-poisoning prevention, more than triple the amount of money for 1991; $2.2 billion for Head Start, $250 million more than the pre-school program received this year; and $4.2 billion for job training, a $124 million boost over 1991.

The House and Senate must next try to write a compromise bill before sending it to Bush for his

With Congress increasingly favoring abortion rights in recent months, opponents in the Senate and House have adopted a strategy of saying little and letting the president block such legislation. Congress still lacks the strength required two thirds majorities in the House and Senate to override a presidential veto on the issue.

"I'd expect them to stick with their position on it." Sen. Dan Coats, R-Ind., an abortion foe, said of White House threats to veto the bill. "I think we recognize there are probably going to be many, many, many opportunities to put up a fight on this issue."

The bill nullifles the Supreme Court's decision in May to uphold a 3-year-old ban against

Other provisions

- Requires girls less than age 18 to notify their parents before receiving an abortion from a federally financed clinic or organization, unless a doctor or counselor decides such a step could be dangerous.
- Makes it mandatory that doctors, dentists and other medical workers who may be exposed to body fluids wear masks, gloves, and take other precautions against the spread of AIDS and other diseases.

Blacks say future looks catastrophic

By WILLIAM M. WELCH Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Black America faces a catastrophe of poverty and neglect, black members of Congress say.

The somber assessment was delivered on the House floor Thursday by the 25 members of the Congressional Black Caucus in their "State of the Union and Black America."

"The message you will hear in our voices will be messages of grief and anger as we portray the catastrophe black America suffers - the poverty, drugs, violence, infant mortality ... the need for jobs, education, hope," sald Rep. Maxine Waters, D.

"Our listeners may or may not be moved," she said. "However, no one disputes the reality."

The black members of Congress spoke at the end of the day's House session in a coordinated series of addresses. It was scheduled in conjunction with. the caucus' 21st annual "Legislative Weekend," a four-day series of policy discussions, social events and other activities culminating with a fund-raising dinner Saturday night.

Rep. John Lewis, D-Ga., said black Americans continue to face discrimination in hiring.

"We as a nation have a long way to go to eliminate discrimination in the work place. Too many of our brothers and sisters ... have been left out and left behind," said Lewis.

Lewis, a veteran of the civil rights struggles of the 1960s, said President Bush has failed to provide moral leadership on civil rights by opposing Democratic-sponsored versions and using the label "quotas" to denounce

He said "it is a shame and a disgrace that in 1991 we are still debating whether or not we should protect our fellow Americans from discrimination."

Rep. Mike Espy, D-Miss., chairman of the caucus weekend events, said blacks have suffered by the Reagan and Bush administration's economic policies - and, he said, so have middleand low-income whites.

Buffalo Soldiers to be honored by a monument

By BARRY MASSEY Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - William Harrington joined the Army in 1913, became a member of the all-black 9th Cavalry and proudly calls himself a "Buffalo" Soldier."

Harrington, 96, of Salina, Kan., retired from the military in 1943 as a sergeant major.

"I wasn't of age. I had the height and the weight, but I had to have my mother's signature to get in the Army," Harrington said Thursday after a visit to the White House to promote a monument to honor black troops, who were called "Buffalo Soldiers" by the Indians in the late 1800s.

The monument, which includes a 14-foot bronze statue of a cavalryman, is being built at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., on the grounds where black troopers were housed in tents because the commanding officer of the base wouldn't allow them to live in the barracks.

Harrington was one of three surviving members of the allblack 9th and 10th Cavalry Regiments who met with President Bush. The others were Jones Morgan, 108, of Richmond, Va., and Elisha Kearse, 97, of Kansas City, Kan.

"Americans have not fully appreciated or recognized the contribution of the Buffalo Soldiers to date. This monument is a start to correcting that void in history," said Navy Cmdr. Carlton Philpot, an instructor at a military college at Fort Leavenworth and chairman of the monument committee.

County schools ready to kick off gridiron campaign

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - 1011 be nice to list someone else for a change

After nearly a month of practice. Semmole County high school football teams will finally lineup for the start of the 1991-92 varsity campaign this evening.

All six county schools will be in action. Lyman visiting Seminole. Lake Mary hosting Jacksonville-Ed-White, Oviedo playing at DeLand, Lake Brantley going to University and Lake Howell taking on Winter Park.

Each game is scheduled to kirk off at 7:30 p.m.

The Lyman-Seminole game features a slew of subplots. For starters, it's the only game of the evening featuring two Seminole Athletic Conference teams

Also, it's been at least seven years since the Lyman Greyhounds have opened the season with anybody but Boone. Not only that, but the Greyhounds have won their last six season-opening games.

If that weren't enough, new Seminole High School printerpal Gretchen Schapker came from Lyman. where she was an assistant prin-

Other key matchips tonight pit the Oviedo Lions against the De-Land Bulldogs at Spec Martin Stadium in the first 5A-District 4 game of the season while the Lake Howell Silver Hawks and Winter Park Wildcats continue their neighborhood rivalry at Showalter

As far as the Lake Mary Rams and Lake Brantley Patriots are concerned, tonight's contests could best be described as adventures into the unknown. This will be the first meeting between Lake Mary and Jacksonville-White while this will be the first time any Seminole County school faces University, which is in its second year of existence.

This evening's games will mark the debut of five new starting quarterbacks: Seminole's Vashaun Williams, Lake Mary's Jason Rasmussen, Lyman's Todd Cleveland, Lake Howell's Paul Thompson and Oviedo's Dan Hargrave.

While Thompson and Hargrave did see action at quarterback last year, the only returning starting signal-caller is Lake Brantley's Rob

For the last 30 days, high school football players around the state have been preparing for the start of the 1991 season which, for a majority of Florida high schools including the six in Seminole County, is today.

Since learning that two returning senior starters were ineligible on Tuesday, Coach Beth Corso and the Seminole volleyball team have been scrambling to ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - As it turned out. nobody was really pleased with the Lake Brantley Patriots' 15-4, 15-3 win over the visiting Seminole Fighting Seminoles in varsity girls' volleyball action Thursday night.

Gabbard thought her team gave an adequate if not inspired performance. On the other hand, Seminole coach Beth Corso was frustrated beyond words. 'We did OK," said Gabbard, in her second year coaching the Patriots. "We didn't play as well as we've been practicing. But they did well." Early on, the match was more a battle of attrition than anything else as points were given on unforced errors rather than being won. Playing in its first match of the season Lake

Brantley took advantage of three Seminole passing errors before a Carol Rabaja ace gave the Patriots a 4-0 lead. The Tribe crept back to within one as Charlene Guy served three consecutive points, two coming on kills by Catherine Foye. Then things got ugly.

Exploiting Seminole's trouble getting anything going on offense, Julie Helmers served nine consecutive points for Lake Brantley, including a pair of aces.

While there wasn't anything quite so dramatic in the second game. Lake Brantley steadily pulled away by scoring points in bunches. Helmers served a trio of points that put the Patriots up 4-0. Meggen Breen served Lake Brantley out to 7-0 before Shelly Davis upped the lead to 11-0.

"There weren't that many balls returned that we could play," said Gabbard, "We did serve a lot better than we have been. But there were times when they weren't thinking about what they were doing."

As far as Corso was concerned, there was nothing positive about the performance.

"It was just awful." she said. Corso did explain that the Seminoles have been in disarray since learning Tuesday that a pair of returning senior starters were ineligible. Since then, See Volleyball, Page 3B

Lake Mary takes it to ake Howell

By DEAN SMITH Herald Sports Writer

WINTER PARK - Sometimes even coaches are unable to explain why a match between two evenly matched teams turns out to be lopsided.

Thursday night at Lake Howell High School, the Silver Hawks and Lake Mary Rams squared off in a girls' volleyball match that figured to be a barn burner. And while the play was exciting and closely fought, Lake Mary walked away with a fairly comfortable 15.5, 15.11 victory.

"I don't know how to explain it," said Rams coach Cindy Henry. "This was such a good match between two real good teams. Before the match, I had a feeling we had the edge over them. I don't know where the spark comes from. but all coaches wish they knew."

The opening game was pretty much all Lake Mary as the Rams jumped out to a 4-0 lead behind the serving of Melissa Man before the Silver Hawks could get on the board. Two quick Lake Howell points cut the lead in half but the Rams scored 11 of the next 14 points to take the first game.

Late in the first game, Silver Hawk coach Jo Luciano started making substitutions in a hope of slowing down Lake Mary.

'I was out of time outs," said Luciano, "And it (the substitutions) was the only way left to try and stop their momentum. I was also hoping maybe one of the subs would step forward and give us a spark. It's happened in the past."

While the strategy didn't help in the first game, it appeared early in the second game that benching the starters may have inspired the Lake Howell players as the Silver Hawks ran out to a 6-2 lead and appeared to be in control.

But oh what a fickle thing is momentum.

With Lorrie Boger serving well and Diane Duber dominating the net, the Rams scored three points to get back in the game only trailing

Hurricane defense disarms Houston's run-and-shoot attack

By STEVEN WINE AF Sports Writer

MIAMI - Houston's run-and-shoot did neither against the Miami Hurricanes. who disarmed quarterback David Klingler by storming past his porous offensive line on every play.

"What could we do?" Klingler said after Miami's stunningly easy 40-10 victory on Thursday night. "Our receivers were getting open. We were just struggling to get time to find them.

They've got a great pass rush." The second-ranked Hurricanes (2-0) limited Houston's vaunted point-a-minute attack to one touchdown, which came with three seconds remaining. Klingler, who averaged 467 yards passing per game last year, managed just 216 in a rout that was supposed to be a high-scoring shootout.

So much for the offense that can't be stopped.

"On paper, technically it can't," Klingler said. "But that's like saying if the Boy Scouts run the run-and-shoot against the New York Giants, it's going to work. No matter what, it still comes down to personnel." touchdowns in a season-opening 73-3 victory over Louisiana Tech. But against Miami, five sacks and six holding penalties kept the 10th-ranked Cougars (1-1) in retreat. On one series, they faced a second-and-54 situatlon.

"I was so pumped up, I felt like lightning," Miami defensive end Rusty Medearis said. "We knew the way their offense is set up, we each had one man to beat. There are not too many people that can stay with our defensive linemen that way."

Klingler, whose Heisman Trophy chances may have been ruined by the loss, completed 32 of 59 passes but rarely had time to throw downfield. Unheralded counterpart Gino Torretta, meanwhile, hit 16 of 35 passes for 365 yards and touchdowns

Lamar Thomas and 51 and 33

yards to Kevin Williams.
"Everybody asked how we'd stop Klingler," Torretta said. "Nobody asked how they'd stop us. Usually everybody talks about our offense. It was nice being the underdog." "We knew we were going to move the ball," Thomas said. "Their whole team is offense. I don't know if they even practice defense." inflammatory remarks by the Hurricanes about Houston last week had prompted Miami coach Dennia Erickson to order his players not to talk to the media before the game. The barbs apparently resumed on the field.

"There was a lot of trash being talked," Miami linebacker Micheal Barrow said. "This was the bad-boys bowl game. It was a lot of fun. That's what the game's all about - if you dominate someone, you talk trash to them." Miami dominated from the outset, scoring on three consecutive possessions to take a 21-0 lead 90 seconds into the second quarter. At that point, Houston had one first down.

"it's got to be as great an effort Klingler threw for nine as I've been around in my coaching career," Erickson said. Houston coach John Jenkins attributed the trouncing to Miami's talent and his team's 17 penalties for 158 yards. "We're not going to swim around in tears and self-pity." Jenkins said. "We can't afford to with another big road game at Illinois (Sept. 21) staring us in the eye. We've got to close ranks and march on."

The Hurricanes led 30-3 at halftime and coasted to their 39th consecutive victory at the Orange Bowl, tying Notre Dame for the second-longest home winning streak in NCAA history. Miami also kept intact a streak of 11 consecutive wins over Southwest Conference teams. including a season-opening 31-3 victory at Arkanase and a 46-3 rout of Texas in the Cotton Bowl covering 2 and 71 yards to last season.

owners put off decision on WLAF

GRAPEVINE, Texas - The World League of American Football will still be around next year - if it can survive next month in one piece. NFL owners on Thursday discussed the viability of the spring league, but deferred a decision on the 1992 season until its Oct. 23-24 ownership meetings in Dallas.

There had been published reports this week that the NFL-sponsored league would be suspended in 1992, largely because it lost an estimated $15 million in its first full season with European and American teams. The league was a huge success in Europe, but struggled in the United States.

Still, Dan Rooney, chairman of the new league's board of directors, said "there was overwhelming support by the league's shareholders to go forward.

"I'm pleased with the way it came out," Rooney said after Thursday's day-long meeting. 'We feel people feel it's a good league and we are moving torward."

Los Angeles Raiders owner Al Davis reiterated his support for the WLAF, although he said it could scale down its gimmickry, like the helmet minicama. "It's the product on the field that makes for great football," Davis said. "We need a forum for young players to grow and "The consensus was by far to go ahead with the league. It wasn't close at all for suspension. There is no question the league has great viability."

Rooney, president of the Pittaburgh Steelers, said there was some concern expressed about finances. "There was some talk about the economy and television," he said. "But most of the talk was about our long-range plane."

The WLAF has one year left on its contract with ABC-TV. The ratings during the inaugural season this spring were much lower than ABC had expected. But, Rooney said, "ABC's been very supportive."

The WLAP had 10 teams. three based in Europe. Those teams — the champion London Monarche, Barcelona Dragone and Frankfurt Galaxy — had better attendance than most of the six U.S.-based teams.

Shula: 299 and counting

AP Sports Writer

MIAMI - For Don Shula, the ultimate gauge of success is not his 299 NFL victories but peace of mind.

"That comes from the satisfaction of feeling you've given everything you have to give to your responsibilities," the Miami Dolphins coach says. Peace of mind can't be measured with numbers. "But if the numbers are there," Shula says with a smile. "that helps your conviction that you're doing the right thing."

Shula's nunbers are there. With a win Sunday at Detroit, he would become the only NFL coach other than the late George Halas to reach the 300-victory mark. But Shula would rather be on the practice field or in the film room than back in anticipation of his achievement.

Now is not the time for me to enjoy it." he says.

There's too much work to do. At 61, Shula remains one of the most intense and organized coaches in a league known for

His record in 29 NFL seasons at Baltimore and Miami is 299-138-6, compared with Hales' mark of 325-151-31 in 40 seasons. That means Shule is perhaps within two years of becoming the winningest pro coach ever. "That's a record that I'd like to someday have." Shula says, "but I'm not going to spend a lot of time today and tomorrow thinking about it. It has to happen the same way the other wine have happened, and that's by being ready each week. Then the numbers take care of Shula will be the last NFL coach to reach 300 wins for a while. Pittaburgh's Chuck Noll is second on the list of active coaches with 203. "It shows tremendous perseverance and success over a long period of time," anys Hall of Fame quarterback Bob Oriese, who helped the Dolphins win the Super Bowl in 1972 and 1973. "A lot of conches are good for 10 years, but times change. He's won through all of them."

With co-captains Diann Lowe and Jennie Yearick winning two service points each, the Silver Hawks took what appeared to be a commanding 10-5 advantage.

But just an quickly as they gained the momentum, it was gone. With Tara Calvin serving. Lake Mary scored seven straight points to back shead 12-10. Ardell Delts nased an ace for Lake Howell to cut the edge to 12-11, but that would be the Silver Hawks' last hurrah.

Jennifer Greissing gave the Rams a two-point lead, and after six side outs. Lake Mary took the win with Calvin spiking home a winner on a set from Greissing and Michelle Ball hitting an unreturnable serve for the win-

"Us not being able to hold that 10-5 lead was indicative of the whole match," said Luciano. "Mostly unforced errors got us behind and once we lost the momentum that was it.

"But give them credit. Overall, they played an excellent match and we didn't. They played way above us tonight. (Melisea) Mau's setting and their passing was the difference. They deserved to win. It was a very poor showing for Henry gave the credit to her front line defense.

"Our blocking at the end was fantastic and kept us in the match," said Henry. "We missed a few serves at match point because we got a little anxious, but it was really close match. This was just good, fun volleyball."

Colostomy doesn't cause impotence

surgery due to a cancerous polyp, and I question whether a colostomy will automatically cause me to become impotent. Would a colostomy bag interfere with sexual activity?

DEARREADER: Malignancies of the bowel can. if discovered early, be removed with very little disruption of intestinal function. This is particularly true of polyps, growths that extend out from the intestinal wall like a mushroom growing on a log. Therefore, you may not have to worry about a colostomy.

On the other hand, once malignant cells have invaded the bowel wall - or worse, the tissue and lymph glands near the intestine - more extensive surgery is required: Along with the cancer, some normal bowel tissue has to be removed to ensure that hidden cancer cells do not remain. In this circumstance, provision must be made for alternative methods of evacuation, while the injured area of bowel heals.

The most satisfactory method is to reroute the intestinal contents through an abdominal opening, into a collecting apparatus. Such a colostomy may be temporary or permanent. In the former, patients undergo re-operation, after the original surgery has healed, to return the intestine to normal. In the latter, patients have to use an external collecting appliance indefinitely.

Except in highly unusual cases, colostomy surgery does not interfere with the circulation and nerve supply to the penis. Thus, impotence should not appear as a consequence of surgery alone. Obviously, all bets are off in the presence of extensive surgery (for widespread disease), bowel cancer that is near to (or has spread to) the prostate gland, or the need for radiation therapy.

Whether a colostomy bag will interfere with normal sexual

Why are people superstitious? Often those who claim not to be avoid walking under a ladder, or dread seeing a black cat cross in front of them, or throw spilled sait over their shoulders.

Well, on this most superstition-filled day, Friday the 13th, I present a hand that probably resulted in East's wishing he hadn't left his four-leaf clover at home. As you can see, the final contract was seven hearts doubled. What do you think was the outcome? South, an expert, trusted his inexperienced partner's bid of seven diamonds, probably because South would be playing the hand following his one-ace Blackwood response. But when West made his greedy double, South preferred to rely on his eight-card heart suit. It was a wise decision, since seven diamonds is impossible to make. West led the club king. Declarer won in the dummy and called for the diamond ace. East ruffed low. After overruffing. declarer went to dummy with a spade and led the diamond king. Again East ruffed low. Declarer overruffed, again crossed to dummy with a spade and led the diamond queen. For a third time East ruffed low and declarer overruffed. Finally South cashed the heart ace, bringing down both the king and the queen. "We were lucky the trumps broke evenly, partner," quipped

a happy declarer. South was Englishman John Collings, a mercurial player whom I have always looked on as the Bobby Fischer of bridge.

Son should be told about 'real' father

DEAR ABST: Ten years ago, became pregnant with "Joe's" baby. We were going to get married, but Joe got into a jam (armed robbery) and was sentenced to 10 years in prison. Joe is due to get out in two months. Now the problem.

When my baby (I'll call him Gary) was 8 months old, I fell in love with a man I'll call Tony. Tony and I were married, and Gary was raised to believe that Tony is his "real" father. My family and Tony's family know the truth about Gary's "real." father, but nobody ever talks abut it. Joe's mother and sister also know the whole story.

My question: Should I tell Gary who his real father is? Tony says he will support my decision.

I'm afraid I will lose Gary's trust if I tell him I have lied to him all these years.

What do you think? SILENT FOR 10 YEARS DEAR SILENT: You had better tell Gary who his real father is before someone else does. It won't be easy, but it's far better that he hear it from you than from someone else, and when three people, know a secret, it's no longer a secret.

DEAR ABBIT: My beloved wife of 32 years just died of colon cancer, which had spread to her liver. She was 51 years old, healthy and beautiful. My two sons and I are in total shock. My wife had some colon cancer symptoms and was examined by a colon cancer specialist. The doctor proclaimed, "No problems." (She had cancer of the colon at the time of the examination.)

Eight months after the examination, the cancer had spread to local newspaper that her liver. It was finally discovered one year later! She lived with intense chemotherapy and pain for 14 months.

Abby, tell your readers that if they suspect that they have colon cancer, they should demand a complete colon exami-nation, a blood test and a second opinion.

ADVICE ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

In my wife's case, the window of life was only eight months. America's dirty little secret is that there are about 1 million new cancer patients, and over half a million deaths from cancer every year.

Abby, please let the common people know. No one else will.

DEAR ABBY: Two weeks ago my husband and I were brows-ing in an antique shop when we came across a white porcelain figurine. On the bottom was stamped "MADE IN USA" — and in even finer print were the

God's work in nature

The other merning, before the sun peeked over the trees. I sat on our screened porch and watched the world awaken.

The birds were singing their morning songs and beginning the search for the daily food that mother earth supplies.

Fish were stirring the pond's surface making it look like a giant cup of coffee just after the spoon is removed, while turtles slowly made their way across the yard to the water's edge as if to take the first sip.

A Great Blue Heron flew in for an early morning visit and walked that funny walk around the rim of the water till it stood under the graceful, long arms of the majestic oak.

It was a magnificent awakening!

in a way, it was more an awakening for me, for the world performs this ritual every day, but it has been a long time since I have noticed. I recognized once again that I've become so preoccupied with my own agenda, with doing "Dog's work," that I have failed to notice God's work in nature.

Surely it is a sin to abuse the beauty and resources God has given us in the earth, but equally sinful is to take it for granted, to ignore the richness of the gift of nature.

The first step toward faithful stewardship of God's good gift of nature is to notice and appreciate what we have been given. Then when we practice recycling, environmental protection, and using biodegradable products it will not be from a sense of duty or rules and laws, but from a grateful heart.

This process of recognition, acceptance and appreciation followded by responding through grateful living is good Biblical theology, not just in the stewardship of the earth, but for all of life.

May we not only take time to smell the roses this fall, but to recognize and give thanks to the Master Gardener.
