FIRST SESSION OF CIRCUIT COURT DISPOSING OF CASES

JUDGE MAKES A RECORD

PROVES TO BE FAIR AND IMPARTIAL BUT A TERROR TO THOSE WHO TRIFLE WITH WITNESSES

The first session of the circuit court, now being held here by Judge Perkins of the Seventh Judicial District, was called off Saturday on the calling of the first of the twelve cases against Arnold Baxter, charged with larceny of cattle.

Upon the opening of court Saturday morning State's Attorney Landis, prosecutor for the Seventh Judicial District, announced to the court that he had information leading up to the fact that both state witnesses and certain jurors in the Baxter case were being unduly influenced and tampered with.

When apprehended and brought into the presence of the court and after being duly sworn, he was then questioned by the state's attorney and admitted that in the presence of one juror of the panel which was to try Baxter and before several state witnesses, he had "that he, Curry, would be damned careful as to what he testified to in the Baxter case if he were a witness against Arnold Baxter."

After relieving himself of the above admissions which were made in open court, Mr. Curry was severely arraigned by Judge Perkins and censured for his activity in behalf of the defendant Baxter.

BETTER CLASS OF SETTLERS ARE COMING TO FLORIDA NOW

STATISTICS SHOW THAT THE STATE IS FILLING UP

PEOPLE WHO WILL WORK

ARE THE CLASS OF CITIZENS THAT FLORIDA HAS LONG NEEDED FOR VEGETABLE FARMS

Tallahassee, Jan. 19.—Measured by the percentage of increase Florida's population is growing twice as rapidly as that of the whole country, but measured by the character of its population it is increasing four or five times as rapidly as that of the country at large.

Florida is drawing to itself thousands of the better class of American citizens, men and women of education and character, who are seeking this state as a permanent home.

Of late years, however, immigration from northern Europe, has almost ceased, and through the rush of foreigners to this country is on a scale never dreamed of in the past.

The total immigration into the United States in 1913 was 1,100,000. The number of foreigners arriving during the summer and fall months have been very much larger than ever before in the history of the country.

States this year will probably be at least 1,500,000. The number of foreigners arriving during the summer and fall months have been very much larger than ever before in the history of the country.

Fields Hackett

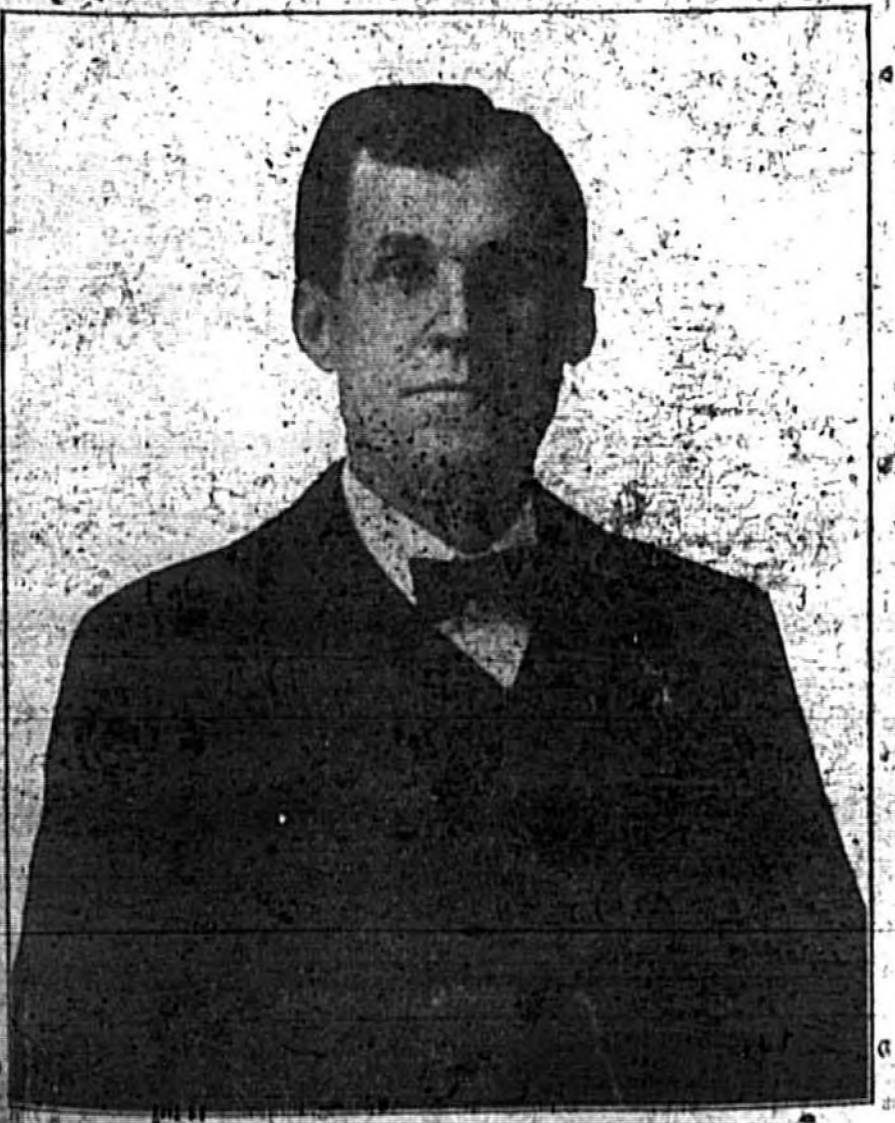

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fields have arrived in Sanford and will make their future home here.

Mrs. Field is the only daughter of Mrs. W. J. Hackett, and is a beautiful and talented being being an extremely charming young woman, and one whose host of friends here regret greatly to give her up to Sanford.

PRESIDENT WILSON RETURNS—RIVERS AND HARBORS APPROPRIATIONS—GOOD ROADS

BY SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—President Wilson, looking "as fit as a fiddle," with eye bright and splendid color, returned from his first vacation at Pass Christian on Tuesday, in time to hold a cabinet meeting, the first in weeks, and in the evening shake hands with twenty-five hundred fellow citizens in honor of the Diplomatic Corps.

It was President Wilson's first diplomatic reception, and judging from the interest displayed the remaining receptions to the supreme court, the army and the navy will be equally as brilliant and the social season of Washington wind up in a burst of glory with the dawning of Ash Wednesday, the inauguration of Lent and the season of sackcloth and ashes.

During the congressional recess, a large force of painters, decorators and mechanics, under the direction of Elliott Woods, the superintendent of the capitol, were at work beautifying the senate chamber and the house and senate office buildings, the first real small of paint, soap and water these quarters for the law makers of the nation have experienced for upward of a year, on account of the almost continuous session of congress. Later on, by the middle of February, the enlargement of the house office building, now in progress to accommodate the increased membership will be completed. These alterations will afford all members of the house quarters there or at the capitol. Without the enlargement of the building, new members would continue to occupy an old office building occupied by the senate and outside the capitol groups.

A new dark green carpet has been put on the floor of the senate chamber to harmonize with its mahogany decorations. Additional lights have been put in the cloak rooms of both houses, the lobbies have been embellished as well as the press galleries, so that when congress re-convenes on Monday there was a sense of cleanliness and brightness present in harmony with the spirit that pervaded those who are back to work again after a short visit to the home folks.

At least four and probably six new projects will be provided for in the forthcoming river and harbor appropriation bill which is now under consideration by the river and harbor committee of which Representative Sparkman of Florida is chairman.

The chief of engineers in his annual report estimates that about thirty-four millions of dollars will be needed for rivers and harbors for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914, in addition to $7,317,000 which will be needed to take care of continuing contracts, which amount will be included in the Sundry Civil Bill.

These estimates, according to General Blahy who made the report previous to his retirement as chief of engineers, are intended to cover only the minimum requirements for the prosecution and maintenance of the various improvements, such estimates having been made up from estimates prepared on the same basis by the various district officers. This was done in order to keep within the limited total estimates deemed available for the next fiscal year.

(It is very generally agreed that the river and harbor appropriation bill, which Chairman Sparkman hopes to report early in February, will carry at least thirty-four millions and this, with the amount in the sundry civil bill, will bring the total for the waterways of the country to the neighborhood of forty-two or forty-three millions, which is only a few millions short of the plan adopted by the national rivers and harbors congress, "fifty millions for our waterways annually.")

Over 480,000 square yards of different types of roads for experimental and object lesson purposes were constructed during the fiscal year 1912-1913 under the supervision of the Office of Public Roads, U. S. Department of Agriculture, according to Bulletin 53 of the Department, making a total of over 4,000,000 square yards of road constructed under the supervision of this office since 1905.

The types of roads built were brick, concrete, oil cement-concrete, bituminous concrete, bituminous surface concrete, bituminous macadam, surface treatment, asphalt slag, oil asphalt gravel, oil gravel, oil coralline, gravel macadam, gravel, slag, sand clay, sand gumbo, burnt clay, shell and earth. The object lesson and experimental work during the past year was done at a cost to the local communities of $139,341.89. This does not include the salaries and expenses of the department engineers.

THE STATES FINANCES

Report of State Treasurer will be interesting to People of Florida

The Herald has just received a copy of the annual report of Hon. J. C. Luning, treasurer of Florida, which gives a detailed account of the financial operations of the state government for the year 1913. The report shows the state to be in the finest condition financially. The Herald doubts if there is another state in the Union which can show such a satisfactory balance sheet.

Every one of the state funds, save two, has a balance to its credit. The exceptions are the Indian war claims fund and the Peabody building fund of the University of Florida. These balances range from $496,668.59 in the pension-tax fund to $9.70 in the incidental fund of the Agricultural and Mechanical College. The school fund has the handsome balance of $397,286.44 principal and $33,744.07 interest to its credit. The total balance on hand Dec. 31 was $1,467,836.84, which is an increase of $466,000 over the balance on hand at the beginning of the year.

The state's largest item of general revenue as shown by the report, during the year was the general license tax, which brought in $449,000. The state derived $200,000 from general revenue taxes during the year, and $136,000 from the two per cent tax on the gross receipts of insurance companies. The charter tax on corporations yielded $67,000.

Among the general revenue fund expenditures of the year, the largest item is the maintenance of lunatics, which cost the people of Florida $223,000. The fees of jurors and witnesses is second on the list, costing $144,000. Expenses of the collection of revenue is the third largest item, $112,000. The famous legislature of 1913 cost the state $102,000. The Railroad Commission required $27,000. The State Board of Health cost $99,000.

The total receipts of the state government during 1913 were $3,681,298.19 and the total disbursements $3,224,999.84. The public debt of the state consists solely of refunded bonds amounting to $601,567, bearing interest at 3 per cent, all of which are held by the educational funds of the state.

The state's finances have been admirably handled and this report is one which can be published to the world with credit to Florida.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

McCuller Gets Reply in His Advertisement in Herald Many Miles Away

Some people there are who do not believe in advertising. They can see the results and have it demonstrated every day by the largest firms in the country who absolutely laid the foundations for their fortunes on newspaper advertising and yet these same merchants go on from day to day refusing to take space in the medium that will bring them results just as sure as they use such space judiciously.

Not only are good results achieved locally by the advertisers who use The Herald but people from afar who read

The Herald respond to the advertisements and The Herald probably has as good a foreign list of subscribers as any other Florida weekly.

A few weeks ago L. P. McCuller, the well known groceryman who believes in the efficiency of The Herald advertising placed an ad in the paper concerning case syrup and received the following reply from Kansas City:

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 9, '14.

L. P. McCuller, Sanford, Fla.: "

No to your ad in Sanford Herald. Ribbon Cand Syrup 60c gallon. I quote me price on one gallon can (jug) expressed to Kansas City, Mo. Yours, B. H. WILSON, 101 New York Life Bldg. Kansas City, Mo.

Baltimore Americans— "A fine ad to keep a diary?" "I'm not giving that away"

THE SANFORD COUNTRY CLUB

The Club Grounds Have Been Donated by Mr. Palmer and Work on the Club Will Start Before Season is Over.

Sanford has always needed golf links and a Country Club as badly as a new tourist hotel—in fact the city could get along better without a new tourist hotel than golf links and a Country Club. With the erection of suitable buildings and the arrangement for the golf links the people will come to this city in such numbers that a substantial tourist hotel will be necessary and the men to build it can easily be found. But the tourists who do not like to fish and hunt and ride in automobiles past Sanford up at the present time because we have no golf links and the man who is really a bug on golf there is no attraction in the world that will take the place of golf. Knowing this the editor of The Herald has made strenuous efforts for the past two years to interest some one in the golf link proposition but every one seemed too busy raising money to take any time off for golf, and nothing was ever done toward getting the links in shape or getting land suitable for the club.

Knowing that a Country Club and golf links were imperative to the settlement by tourist Mr. E. H. Palmer has donated forty acres of land in Sanford Terrace, the new sub-division that will be sold at auction next Tuesday and will give the land free of charge for the Country Club and the golf links and no better place could be secured in this section. The land is all that could be desired for the links and, if the right distance from the city, being located on the brick road that will be built between this city and Orlando. The land is high and is suitable for winter homes and the announcement that Country Club and golf links are at their very door will induce many northern golf enthusiasts to turn to Sanford Terrace and build homes and spend the winter where they can play the game to their best advantage.

Mr. Palmer is to be commended for his donation of this fine plot of land for this purpose and that now all that the people of Sanford have to do is to organize and push the country club to completion.

Let here Mr. Chick, very prominent and he has often said that a golf links and Country Club would do more for the city than anything else and he can be counted upon to come into the club if a sufficient number of others can be induced to join the club. The expense of making the links will be very light as the grounds are especially adapted to the play and arrangements could be made at once to put the place in shape for the tourists who are flocking to Florida in such numbers. They are alighting here every day on the Clyde boats and going south to play golf and they can be induced to stop here on their way back in the spring and thus Sanford will appeal to them as never before in the way of amusements.

Help in Your Maps

Editor Herald, Sanford, Fla.

Seminole county is handicapped for maps of any kind relating to the various city and farm sub-divisions in those portions of the county that have thus been divided. Also we have no maps of the sub-divisions of the grants in Seminole county. It is possible that many persons who reside in the county have maps covering every sub-division that has been made of city, farm and grant lands, said maps being little or no use to them. If those persons will kindly send or bring or notify me here these maps they be obtained and will loan them to the county for the time it will be a very great favor and facilitate the handling of business in this office to a great extent and I shall be pleased to call for said maps.

Yours very truly,

Industry Coming Into Its Own

Guyula was for years overlooked or despised, its rubber content was considered of little or no value, and when at last acknowledged this was said to be due to its being rubber because it did not come from the tropics. Yet in spite of all Guyula has become an important source of rubber supply. Millions of dollars have been invested in the industry, extensive plantations have been opened close to the Guyula fields and towns have grown up for the operatives and field workers.

THE COUNTRY EDITOR

In reply to those who have ridiculed the policy of President Wilson of appointing country editors to important diplomatic posts, J. M. Pierce, editor of the Iowa Homestead, defends the members of his craft in a recent editorial.

A few misguided people are making fun of the President for appointing country editors to important diplomatic posts. To my mind, they might far better be otherwise engaged.

Do you remember back to the Spanish American War? And do you recall whom President McKinley found most able in the country to head his cabinet?

If a country lawyer can succeed as Justice Day has succeeded, why not the country editor? I cannot think of any man who keeps better posted on the history of the past and the happenings of the present.

And after all, who is closer to the farmer who is torn by the real pillar and foundation of America? No daily newspaper, however well edited, can take the place of the country weekly.

It is the personal friend of every man, woman and child. It supplies the first reading lesson for the toddler; its columns report his progress through life; his departure for college, his marriage, his first child, his death that plunged him into an abyss of sorrow, his sorrow, his success at last—his death. Do you want to tell me that the country editor—the man who knows every farmer in his community by name, who knows how many acres each has in corn, the names of every farmer's children, the kind of stock he keeps, who follows the life history of the common people year after year, from the cradle to the grave—is not a typical American enough to represent his country abroad?

STATE SENATORS

Hon. W. E. Russell, editor of the Palatka News, member of the state legislature, president of the Florida News Association and affectionately termed "Bill" by the boys who know him best will be a candidate for the state senate for Putnam county in the primary and it goes without saying that he will be elected for no better man or one more honest in his convictions ever attended the Florida legislature than Bill Russell, and Putnam county will make no mistake in electing him to the senate.

Hon. Forrest Lake, the present representative who has the experience and the ability to make a good senator and one who will shed honor and lustre upon the Nineteenth district. It is early to make predictions, only it is a fitting time to make comparisons and the idea of The Herald is to make senators out of good representatives and send men to both houses who will experience in governing not only good laws but from them in the proper manner which means something to the tax payer of Florida.

PAPERS WITH A PUNCH

A paper that has "punch" in it, that has a punch that goes with it, or to be polite, a paper having distinctive individuality is one which readers like best. A colorless sheet, however newsworthy, loses its charm and influence, just as a table of egg, glass and fine lines loses its beauty the moment Florida has more good papers and more better papers than any state three times its size.

Ordinarily Bob is a mighty careful man. I don't know what conditions he was laboring under when he wrote that stuff. It was dedicated to the Knights of the Golden Fleecy—but I think he meant "Nights With the Roaming Fleas."

A SAD CASE

R. J. Holly, the man who runs a paper at Sanford and fills nineteen columns out of each twenty with boasts for the city evidently fell off the water wagon last week. I am led to believe this because he not only wrote some poetry but actually signed his name to it.

Why $1.50 PER YEAR? Ten years ago, one year's subscription to the News at $1.00 per year and 25 cents bought a strand of wood now it takes two years and a quarter.

Ten years ago, one year's subscription bought seven dozen eggs; now one year's subscription buys two dozen eggs. Ten years ago, one year's subscription bought two bushels of potatoes; now one year's subscription buys one bushel of potatoes.

Ten years ago one year's subscription hired a day laborer for a whole day; now it takes two years' subscription—add even then the nigger says: "I don't want to work."

Ten years ago, the News employed as the help it wanted at $12.00 per week for the best men, and the writer himself, when a boy, went into the office to "learn the business" at $1.00 per week, for which he worked for the first three months; after this his wages were raised 50 cents per week every three months. Now we have to pay our man $18.00 per week, see that they get full time and have to pay a boy 10 cents an hour.

Ten years ago, we bought all the white paper we wanted at 2 1/2 cents a pound. Now it costs 3 cents.

All things that go to make a newspaper or a square meal cost more today than ten years ago. The newspapers are the last to recognize the increased cost of living and participate in the same.

The News is worth 50 per cent more now than it was ten years ago.—Delland News.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS

From January 1st, 1914, the active reporting of births and deaths is being undertaken in Sanford. This work was inaugurated and is being carried forward by the State Board of Health with the cooperation of the city council and physicians of the cities of Florida whose population is two thousand and over, and it will prove of more benefit to the state at large than the much talked of State Highway—not that the State Highway would not be worth millions, but at present this seems impossible of accomplishment, while the gathering of vital statistics is not only possible but is already in operation.

location of dangerous diseases, and in this way enables physicians to take the proper precautions.

It reduces the likelihood of the commission of certain crimes. It furnishes legal proof of life or death.

In conclusion, we hope that every person in Sanford will study this matter and cooperate in the work. It means a great deal for our financial as well as physical welfare.

Why We Dodge Jury Service. Probably the total punishment inflicted on injuries in the United States nearly equals that inflicted on convict felons.

Unfamed, defamed, unsung suckers Who take our lettuce and other things And all the calumny of the muckers.

Honest to Christmas, ain't that the limit? But you ought to hear the others' Friends of the poetariat have taken him in charge and hope that after a rough house massage he'll be all the better.

Ah, Holly, you rare journalistic old pointer. Each Herald you issue is surely a boaster.

You're keen and ever alert to the times—But stick to your prose—and waste no basket your rhymes.

BAD PRIMARY LAW. The new primary law will weaken the Democratic party. We know many men who would vote for John Stockton in the primary if they were permitted to do so, who are not Democrats, but they will not obligate themselves to vote the whole ticket.

Editor Holly resorts to my reference to his blow over the new jail at Sanford that it was county pride, that caused him to brag about it, and that he would not care to talk about it if it was the kind of structure that Orange county has. Neither do we, it is an eye sore, but we can always find something better to brag about than a county jail.

Editor Holly resorts to my reference to his blow over the new jail at Sanford that it was county pride, that caused him to brag about it, and that he would not care to talk about it if it was the kind of structure that Orange county has.

NEW STEAMER ARRIVES

The new river steamer recently built by the Clyde Line for the Jacksonville-Sanford run swept majestically up to the dock at Sanford yesterday and marked an epoch in the commercial life of the city, for when the elegant new steamer is in perfect shape to begin the regular run it is the intention of the Clyde Line to make a daylight run between Sanford and Jacksonville. The St. Johns river trip is said by travellers the world over to be one of the finest in the entire south and the new steamer making daylight trips will be an added attraction on the river.

The Osceola started out from Jacksonville several days ago but did not get to the Sanford dock on account of an accident that happened to the upper deck when one of the sharp bends caused a palm tree to fall upon the deck. The Osceola came through yesterday without a scratch despite the low water in the river and was received by a large crowd here. Among the passengers were Capt. Ripper, the general superintendent and Joseph Raymond, the assistant general manager of the Clyde Line, who expressed themselves as perfectly satisfied with the showing made by the new boat, but they could not state just when the regular schedule would be started.

The Osceola is 180 feet long with a 40 foot beam and is 188 feet over all. She will carry 350 tons cargo and will accommodate 80 first class passengers. The boat is much larger than either the Fred Deltary of the City of Jacksonville and is fitted up in an elegant manner and the very latest furnishings. The interiors are done in pure white and mahogany and the boat is a model of neatness in every way. The boat was built in Jacksonville at the Merrill-Stevens ship yard and is a credit to the designers and builders.

The officers of the Osceola at present are Capt. T. W. Lund, Edward Hallowes, First Officer; Frank Bröck, Chief Engineer; Marion Payne, Asst. Engineer; Mr. Robbins, Steward.

As soon as the Osceola is thoroughly tested on the river run she will start making the regular trips and Sanford will be greatly benefited by the increase in passenger traffic and the better facilities for handling freights and the new boat will be another notch in the progress of a greater city at the head of navigation on the St. Johns.

That Basket Ball Game

The local High School basket ball team journeyed to Sanford last Friday, and engaged in the controversy as to who could make the larger score, and when the smoke of battle cleared away, the Sanford bunch had rung up 22, while Kissimmee had to content with only nine. The boys report a good game, however, and state that every courtesy and kindness was paid them by the people of Sanford. The game was a lean throughout and fast. Our boys did well, but owing to the lack of practice they were unable to get the larger end of the deal. Sanford has perhaps the strongest team in the state. If the local team could be given more moral support both of a moral and financial nature, there is no doubt but that the boys could equal any team in the state. Interest in sports of this kind ought to be at high pitch and encouragement of every kind ought to be given those who try to keep athletics before our young people. It seems that for the lack of proper encouragement our boys are not getting into those matters with the vim necessary to make winning teams. Klammies should be in the forefront on such matters. Those who played on the team Friday were Edward Newton, center; Nash Cannon, right guard; Don Beuter, left guard; Will M. Tiller, right forward; Arthur Jarrell, left forward; Nathan Bryan, left forward. Klammie Gazette.

That means that every member not only has the privilege of attending but is cordially invited to be present Thursday afternoon.

Our City Beautiful

Dear Mr. Holly:

I want to ask you to give publicity to the resolution passed last night by the city council in which we requested the Welfare Department of the Woman's Club to send a committee from their membership to confer with the council at their next meeting relative to the beautification of the city's parks and parkways.

In making this request of the ladies it is not with the request of burdening them with the execution of this work, but to obtain their cooperation as to the better way of executing the proper results.

A significant feature in the present power of advertising, the writer wishes to assert that there is no better manner of advertising her city than to show our individual pride in her appearance, and while the city has no funds to lavish, I do not believe there is a tax payer in the city that will raise an objection to a nominal expenditure for park improvement and beautification.

To accomplish the best results will of necessity require an official gardener whose compensation might be met by both the city and the civic improvement organizations.

The ladies can be assured that while the council may not be able to contribute greatly in a pecuniary way, yet there are many ways in which we will cooperate to the fullest extent.

Yours for Sanford Beautiful, H. E. TBLAR.

The Coming Show

"Paid in Full," the most successful of all plays, will be presented at the Imperial Theatre for one night only, Wednesday, Jan. 21. Paid in Full is from the pen of Eugene Walters and is considered by all who are competent to judge, as the best play ever written by an American playwright. It has the distinction of making the longest run of any play ever presented in New York, being played for over two years at the Astor Theatre on Broadway, winter and summer without the loss of a night; over one year in Chicago. Over six million pleased playgoers have laughed and cried with Jimmie and Emma, have despised Capt. Williams and felt sorry for Joe Brooks. Every intelligent playgoer or magazine reader knows the worth of "Paid in Full," and in the hands of this pleasant company, headed by Elley O'Connor, a performance worth while is guaranteed. Extra for this engagement will be 50c, 75c and $1.00. Seats are now on sale at Maxwell's store. Curtain will rise promptly at 8:30 and ear-rings and autos may be ordered for 10:50.

GOOD BASKET BALL GAME

The Sanford High School Basket Ball boys played an exciting game with Daytona's team last Friday at this city and won, the score standing 15 to 15 at the close of the game. Daytona played a good game but can't come up with Sanford.

Sherman Smith and Joe Fields are the steady Sanford guards. They have stuck to that position and know their business. They are quick and clear-headed and it is a pleasure to see how they work together in keeping the ball from the opposing forwards. The center is Howard Gilbert. He has held that position from the first and a player that will fill his place as efficiently next year will be hard to get.

On the gold and black jersey of each of these three players the S. H. S. basket ball monogram is conspicuous. It is a large black letter S with a small B on each side set in the gold band of the S. H. S. jersey. It is an honor awarded by the school to players who have been successful. To qualify for a monogram a player must participate in a certain per cent of the number of games played in a season and reach a certain standard in basket ball efficiency, as well as in school work. So far only three programs have been granted, but at the end of this season there will be more.

Albert Fry is the star right forward. A good number of the points made were due to his basket shooting. Griffith Herring playing left forward the first half of Friday's game and Frank Costes played that position through the last half. Both of these players are now on the team this year, but they have shown themselves equal to the place.

The line-up of Friday's game was as follows:

Daytona	Sanford
Each	Gilbert
	Herrin
Branch	Costes
Hawn	Fry
Milligan	South
Thornton	Fields

The Sanford team will play at Daytona February 13th.

Aviator Killed in Tampa

Tampa, Jan. 18.—Arthur E. Perry formerly a member of the army aviation corps and known in army circles as Capt. Dick, fell into the Hillsborough river here this afternoon after making a parachute leap of 1,000 feet and was drowned. He was an expert swimmer but became entangled in the ropes of his parachute and could not swim out.

Perry was accompanied on the flight and parachute jump by Manuel Perez, leaving an ambulance park at 4 o'clock. Two parachutes were used and Perez made a successful landing, about fifty feet from where Perry landed in the water. Perez called to a party in a motorboat nearby and efforts were at once made to rescue Perry; but the river current was swift and the spot where Perry fell was filled with debris from a fallen tree in which the ropes of the parachute became entangled. It was several hours before Perry's body was finally recovered. The body is being held until his relatives can be communicated with. Perry was in the army aviation corps at Omaha.

Little is known of either Perry or Perez. Perez is said to be from Georgia but no one here knows exactly. Perez arrived here recently from Spain and could not speak English. A search of Perry's room failed to disclose further information as to his identity.

Orange County Jail Empty

Yes, the world is growing better. Sheriff Frank Gordon says so, and it must be admitted that Sheriff Gordon occupies a point of vantage which gives him an angle on affairs not held by everybody.

For the first time in twenty years the Orange county jail is empty. Sheriff Gordon was rearred up around (not in) the jail, and he can't remember the time when the county bastille was free of occupants before. He places the estimate crudely at twenty years, that being the length of the sheriff's memory, but it may have been even a longer period. Circuit court was held in December and disposed of all the capital criminals WW disposed of all the capital prisoners and the session of criminal court held this week got rid of all the petty criminals, and that left the sheriff without anybody to detain behind the grated windows, except one small negro girl had on request for the sheriff of Osceola county. But the jail does not contain a single prisoner for Orange county, not one.

Sheriff Gordon and Deputy Lawton were wondering yesterday what would happen; they regard the condition too good to remain so for many days. Neither would say however, that the creation of Seminole had anything to do with this serene status of affairs.—Orlando Sentinel.

This will be a rare treat for the piano lovers of Sanford and a good attendance should expect, noted musical fans.

A Play of Real Merit

The dramatic crest of the year, "Paid in Full," will be presented at the Imperial Theatre for one night only, Wednesday, January 21. "Paid in Full" is the best play ever written by an American dramatist. The story is a profoundly moving one yet not without its lighter touches, and it is portrayed with an unerring realism that shows the author's thorough comprehension and understanding of the conditions he has thus ably depicted. Through it all runs a vein of sentiment that tugs at the heart with almost irresistible appeal. The acting company is headed by Elley O'Connor, a Miss not yet out of her teens, but who has won her spurs on Broadway, and she has the support of one of the best acting companies ever in the south; each member being entirely adequate to the requirement of the various roles. The play is for well known to intelligent people to need comment, and the management guarantee a high class, clean, clever production of this great play. Prices for the engagement are 50c, 75c and $1.00. Seats on sale at Maxwell's store.

SANFORD LETTUCE IS FINE

Heavy Shipments Due to Start Next Week—Cash Buyers on Ground Sanford, Fla., Jan. 19.—The cold weather is fine for lettuce and it is heading up in nice shape and a better quality is now being shipped. Celery has started to move in car lots while express shipments have been going forward for the past three weeks. There is an immense quantity being boarded now and the movement will be quite heavy next week. The quality is fine and there is practically no blight shown.

Cabbage also is moving in express shipments and there is quite an increase in acreage here and the bulk of the crop will start to move later. Cauliflower is moving by small express shipments. The acreage is small and there probably will be no solid cars of flower here.

There are many cash buyers on the ground and much of the produce is being sold f. o. b. but still many of the growers ship on consignment.

Some Irish potatoes are being planted now and the indications point to a large acreage put in in lettuce and celery for spring crops. The Parker.

New Express Rates

The Southern Express Company is preparing to place in effect the new rates and practices recently prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The order will become effective February 1, 1916, and it is stated that it will materially reduce express charges, the reduction in many instances being as much as 50 per cent.

The rates are divided into three classes: First, second and third.

First class rates apply on merchandise.

Second class rates apply on all articles of food or drink. This rate is 75 per cent of the first class rate.

Third class rates apply on almanacs, books, calendars, etc.

A Trades Display is the Thing

Directors of the South Florida Mid-Winter Exposition, to be held in Orlando February 17 to 21, are getting their plans worked out along various lines, and everything points to a success such as never before known. Among other details discussed at a recent meeting in Orlando was the substitution of a great trades display for the usual automobile parade on the first day. The idea had been approved wherever spoken of and it will surely be more generally interesting. A trades display will secure the attention and interest of all visitors, while the decorated automobiles chiefly interest the owners and their intimate friends. There are many entries for the races to be held at the fair grounds, and it would seem that this feature of the exposition would be excellent.—Reporter-Star.

MISHAPS OF MR. HAP

By AUGUSTUS G. SHERMAN.
 By the banks of a Sylvan stream, gazing vacantly into the far distance, stood Hapgood Dorsey. His friends called him Hap for short, and he needed those friends sorely just now, for all that Hapgood Dorsey wore on the present occasion was an umbrella.
 "I'm done for," he stated lugubriously, using the umbrella as a shield. "What in the world am I to do?"
 It was a serious question. Hapgood Dorsey, a young bachelor on his annual vacation outing, two miles from his country hotel, might come out of the water after a vigorous swim to find his clothes missing.
 "It was that tramp I saw lurking around in the distance," Hap now told himself. "I don't care for the clothes—it was an old suit, and nothing of value in the pockets, but—how am I going to get to shelter?"
 Hapgood Dorsey did not rage or swear. He was a sensible, reputable young man, rather shy and reserved, especially with the ladies, but manager of a large manufacturing establishment and on the way to further business promotion.
 "It's a mean trick, was the hardest thing he could find to say. 'I can't go back into the water and stay all night, I can't walk into town in this plight. I'm up a tree, or, rather, I wish I was!'"
 It was some time before Hapgood Dorsey could make up his mind what to do. He had a dim idea that in his stroll from town to the present spot he had passed a farmhouse. He finally started in the direction of the hotel, dodging past the open spots between trees and bushes and the umbrella in constant play.
 Never was a man more thankful than he that it was growing dusk. Somewhere, he vaguely remembered, he had read a poem on "The Dybbal Day." He wished this one would stay dead, with no afterglow. Ah, there was a line or two about "the sable garments of the night." Hap wished they might become tangible.
 "What luck!" "What luck!" he chirped, as he struck a barb-wire fence and made out a barn and a house beyond it. The place had a tenant—Hap was assured of that as he noticed a great washing out on the line in the yard.

"I'm a Thankful Man."
 It required skill, bravery, and the stoicism and endurance of a North American Indian to get over that barbed wire fence, but at length Hap negotiated the adventure successfully. He started a leap with an "Ouch!" and he ended it with a "Grumble!" but he was now on its field side and made tracks for the shelter of the barn.
 Slipping through the open doorway, barricading himself behind a heap of hay, Hap proceeded to carry out his plan to secure attention and succor.
 "Oh-hoo! O-hoo!"—all the halls Hap had ever heard he now proceeded to deliver, first in a feeble, venturing voice, and then more audibly, and with some irritation.
 "There's nobody at home in this house, that's surr," he decided at last. "I'll investigate. Maybe I can find some door or window open. Just let me get some clothes—I don't mind whose they are; I don't care what they are—jumpers, overalls, tennis or bathing suit, I'll grab them quick. This is a horrible predicament, and I am a desperate man!"
 Hap and his umbrella made the tour of the vicinity. No one was in the house, as he had surmised, nor was there any avenue of inlet easy of access.
 "I'll do it, I've got to do it!" decided Hap grimly, as he stood looking over the line of family washing hanging up to dry. "There's a white one—no, that would be too prominent. The blue one is bigger and becomes me better." Yes, the problem is solved, and I am saved. Hal ha!"
 Hap became, tragically jolly and the oddity of the occasion helped to make him so. He almost chuckled with relief as he took a blue dress and a sun-bonnet from the line, and he smiled as he thought of how he would recite his unique adventure at his club in the city.
 Then Hap repaired to the barn. When he came out he carried the umbrella closed. The dress was roomy and long, the sun-bonnet was comfortable and sheltering.

"I'm a thankful man," he said devoutly, and started down a traversed country road carrying the spot of his ruthless pillage well in his mind.
 "This outfit looks as if it belonged to some old farm dame," he mused. "All right. She shall have the finest silk gown and Sunday bonnet in town tomorrow for this timely accommodation. Hello!"
 Hap dodged behind a tree. The moon had come up and just then with a vivid scream a young girl turned a curve in the highway. In hot pursuit was a brawny, bold looking individual, whom Hap at once recognized as his despoiler at the brookside.
 "Give up that watch!" he was shouting. "I'm going to have it."
 The terrified girl must have made out Hap. She ran frantically up to him.
 "Oh, lady, save me!" she pleaded, clinging frantically to Hap.
 "Hah! an old woman!" roared the tramp. "I'll demolish both of you if you don't give up that watch!"
 "Let go, please," pleaded Hap in an embarrassed way, and at his masculine tones his charge uttered a new shriek.
 "A man!" she quavered.
 "Lucky for you, and something of an athlete," vaunted Hap, rather proudly—biff!
 Down went Mr. Tramp, scientifically bowled out and gasping for breath, prostrate on the ground.
 "Run for some help," Hap directed the bewildered miss, and we'll put this bold highwayman where he belongs."
 He stood valiant guard over the discomfited thief with a club until the young lady, running back to a neighbor's, returned with two men armed with pitchforks. In the meantime Hap learned from the thief where his clothes had been hidden.
 "Why, say, Miss Rose," proclaimed one of the men, pointing to her rescuer, "this one can't be right, either a man dressed up in a woman's dress!"
 "Yes," stammered Miss Rose Barton, "and it looks like mamma's dress, too!"
 "I will explain," observed Hap, and he did.
 And then, blushed in his slight mind and in his own attire, Hapgood Dorsey felt it a duty to pay a visit to the Barton household the next day.
 "I've come to return what I borrowed," he reported, handing a neat package to Rose's mother after an introduction from his blushing hostess. "You will find a silk pattern, also, Mrs. Barton—a slight acknowledgment of your kindness in unconsciously assisting my escape."
 "Young man, you did bravely last evening," observed the practical housewife, "and I want to thank you."
 Only one thing could come of a bright, sensible young man like Hap meeting a lovely, affectionate country maid like Rose.
 It was an engagement, and the silk pattern came in handy for a gown for Mrs. Barton at the wedding.

Here's That Exercise.
 According to Samuel H. Mahan of St. Paul, Minn., the egg yield of a hen can positively be increased if means are taken to give her plenty of exercise. A dispatch the other day related that Mahan had established a sort of treadmill in connection with his chicken coop, says the New York Sun, and compelled his hens to walk the rungs constantly for ten or fifteen minutes at a time, so that exercise approximating two hours daily was attained. A 50 per cent increase in egg laying was reported within a period of nine days.
 When news of the achievement reached some of the college analysts, they began to figure on the likelihood of change in the component parts of the egg. What the result will be, assuming the hen exercise, is to be true, leaves all kinds of room for speculation. It is a well-known fact that cattle worked hard make tougher eating when killed. Building up of muscle gives greater strength, but the tenderness vanishes.
Old Passion Play.
 Since 1801 the passion plays of Vorderthiersee, a remote village in Tyrol, have had a passion play of their own. Its text dates, however, from the middle of the sixteenth century. The last performance was given in 1905; the next one will take place in 1915. In preparation for this coming production, these peasant players reached the conclusion early this year that they needed new scenery, a new stage and also a new road that would bring visitors in greater numbers to their mountain festival. To raise the amount required they gave during the months of July and August a series of performances of the drama, "Juda Ben Hur," drawn from General Lew Wallace's famous novel by one of their members, a peasant who appears to have produced an altogether satisfactory dramatization.
Sulgrave Once Robbers' Nest.
 Sulgrave, whose manor house, the ancestral home of the Washington family, the Peace Centenary committee desire to purchase as a place of pilgrimage, has associations not entirely of a peaceful character. For the smiling Northamptonshire village toward the end of the eighteenth century was the headquarters of a gang of highwaymen, known as the "Culworth gang." Chief of the band was the parish clerk of Sulgrave, who always went to church fully armed, lest justice should catch him unaware. The booty was stored in the church, so that the bold, bad clerk might be at hand to protect it. But treachery stepped in, and four of the gang were hanged in 1787 at Northampton.—London Chronicle.

BEEF PRODUCTION IN FLORIDA

(By Prof. John M. Scott)

A great many people are of the opinion that beef cannot be produced in Florida at a profit, due to the fact that we have such a poor grade of cattle. This may or may not be true. But just stop and think for a moment how many thousand head of our poor grade of cattle were shipped into the corn belt during the past year. Now, if the farmer in the corn belt can handle these cattle at a profit why cannot the southern farmer do as much? There must be a reason. Think about it. The corn belt farmer buys our cattle, ships them north, fattens them, and then sells them back to us as finished product. In other words, we pay freight both ways, and in addition pay for feed used in fattening these animals.

It is quite true that we have a poor grade of cattle so far as quality of breed is concerned. Under the present conditions and methods of feeding it is little wonder that the Florida pine woods cattle are no better than they are. If we hope to improve the live stock we must supply them with nutritious feed during the winter season, when pasturage is short. At present few farmers provide winter forage for their cattle. However, there is hope for the pine woods cow.

Experiments have been conducted at the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station which have demonstrated without doubt that even with our poor grade of cattle a much better beef animal can be produced than has been produced in the past. The improvement is entirely the result of supplying the animal with sufficient feed from birth until ready for market.

In a feeding experiment conducted some time ago at the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station, very satisfactory gains were obtained and the cost per pound of gain was about as cheap as beef can be produced in any other state. The steers used in this feeding test were of native cows and got by a purebred Shorthorn sire. At the time the experiment was conducted the steers were about three years old.

When the ration consisted of corn 10.0 pounds, cottonseed meal 3.75 pounds, and crabgrass hay 13.50 pounds, the average daily gain per 1,000 pounds, live weight, was 3.55 pounds, and the cost per pound of gain was nine cents. When the ration was made up of corn, 6 pounds, cottonseed meal 5 pounds, sorghum silage 20 pounds, and cottonseed hulls 14 pounds, the average daily gain per 1,000 pounds, live weight, was 3.71 pounds. The cost per pound of gain was 10.5 cents.

When the ration was composed of corn, 8 pounds, velvet beans in the pod 12 pounds, and cottonseed hulls 10 pounds, the average daily gain per 1,000 pounds, live weight, was 4.14 pounds, and the cost was only 7 1/2 cents per pound of gain.

When the ration was cottonseed meal 6.5 pounds, and cottonseed hulls 25 pounds, the average daily gain per 1,000 pounds, live weight, was only 2.87 pounds and the cost was 22 cents per pound.

These steers were fed for a period of 84 days. At the close of the feeding test the steers that were fed corn, velvet beans and cottonseed hulls were better finished than were any other lot of steers in the test. Those fed cottonseed meal and cottonseed hulls would have required thirty days more feeding to put them in as good condition as were those fed on corn, velvet beans and hulls.

It is quite probable that if Japanese cane silage or sorghum silage had been used to replace a part of the cottonseed hulls that still better gains would have been obtained.

In another experiment in which native calves were used, the calves, at weaning time, averaged over 300 pounds per head and when one year old they averaged 450 pounds. These same animals, when two and a half years old, averaged over 700 pounds. These cattle were not given any better care than any farmer could supply. During the winter they were given the run of a velvet bean and Japanese canefield.

The small size of our native cattle is due very largely to the lack of sufficient feed to nourish the animal so that it will develop as it should. At the present time too many farmers expect their cattle to eke out a living during the winter season from the summer range. There are very few parts of Florida that supply live stock with good grazing twelve months in the year. In most parts of the state it will be necessary to supply forage to tide them over the winter season, which may extend from December until March. When this is supplied a much better grade of live stock will be produced, the beef will be produced at a much smaller cost, and the animals will be ready for market at a much younger age. All of which means a larger net profit from the investment.

Important Facts to Remember
Here are some important things for live stock men to remember:

Take more pride in your business and give your live stock more personal attention.

See to it that your cattle are supplied with sufficient nutritious forage during the winter season.

Japanese cane will supply an abundance of good pasturage during the time of the year when this is most needed.

The velvet bean is an important protein feed for the production of beef and furnishes excellent winter forage for cattle.

A combination of velvet beans, corn and Japanese cane will give most excellent results in feeding for beef production.

The average yield per acre of corn in the state has increased five bushels per acre during the past five years.

Florida farmers can produce good beef with Florida grown feeds.

Rev. Waldron in Tampa

"The World's Best Century" was the subject of the address at the Young Men's Christian Association Sunday afternoon.

Rev. George B. Waldron, superintendent of Congregational work for Florida, was the speaker.

"I shall not contend that this country is the only truly great one the world has known," said Mr. Waldron. "The first century, which gave us the World's Redeemer, was a great century. The fifth, in which the church which He came to establish came into great prominence and power, was also truly great."

"The nineteenth was indeed a wonderful century in the world's development, but the men to whom I shall speak Sunday afternoon are finding the twentieth century their great century. After all it is the only they shall ever see. I have a message for the men of this day and age, one I am sure which will help any man."

Rev. Waldron has sixty Congregational Churches in Florida under his supervision. Under his wise guidance they are accomplishing a good work. He has come to Tampa to look after the affairs of the Congregational Church here, and will have personal charge of the work until early in February.

He is establishing a model Sunday school, equipped with sand tables and all the latest equipment for Bible teaching. He is a specialist in this line.

Mr. Arthur D. Anderson is associated with Mr. Waldron in the work. Rev. Anderson will look especially after the boy's work, a feature under the new management.

A religious census of the surrounding territory will be taken by Rev. Anderson, and every effort made to interest a large number of boys and girls. These gentlemen will add a great deal of strength to the religious forces of the city.

Mr. Waldron has labored in the State for more than twelve years. He is a graduate from Oberlin College, class of '84, and of Hartford Theological Seminary, class of '87. He is not only a very able speaker but is also a writer. His articles on economics and general sociology are in such publications as the Literary Digest, Munsey's, McClure's and other magazines. He is the author of a book on "Currency and Wealth" and the "Prohibition Handbook."

Y. M. C. A. Secretary Graham urges the men of the city to hear the address this afternoon at 8 o'clock, preceded by the usual concert by the association orchestra, beginning at 7:45 o'clock.—Tampa Tribune.

Push Cart Fortune.

The proprietor of the finest cafe in Los Angeles formerly sold "hot tamales" from a push cart, and although he is now wealthy, he still preserves this old vehicle. In erecting a business block to house his modern restaurant he built a cupola just large enough to contain the old tamale cart, and it may be plainly seen from the street.

CURBSTONE GLEANINGS

BUDGET OF OPINION "JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME"

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH. "HELL PRENT 'EM"—SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

There is every reason for the cheerful mind in business, even if there are some departments in which business is very dull. The basis of prosperity, in any great country is the output of the farm and, as the bureau of statistics proves by its latest bulletin, the values of crops in 1913, at the farm, have never been equaled.

It is true that the quantity has been equalled and once or twice a little surpassed and that fact is to be kept in mind, for value this last year was along the high plane which makes the cost of living so burdensome, but it means such returns to the producer as surely to encourage a continuance of production on a great scale.

The details given in the bulletin with reference to separate crops are of interest, but need not be rehearsed here. The most striking thing about it all is that, in spite of the very high prices in our own country, the farmers of the country are also producing enormous quantities for export to foreign countries. That is, they produce so great a surplus as to find a great market abroad. Exports of agriculture for the last fiscal year exceeded $1,100,000,000, an amount never before equaled.

Though our imports of like goods were very large, the balance of trade in favor of the American farmer alone in farm products was nearly $300,000,000. Even of pork and its products, we exported last year nearly a billion pounds in spite of the high price in our markets, which would seem to attract pretty nearly the entire pork product of the year.

The slightest review of agriculture leads to the one conclusion at least, namely that this is a great country. Especially here in Sanford are the prospects bright for a good vegetable season and good prices, and every one should put on a glad face and push for a bigger and better city.

General Foss, of Massachusetts would pay convicts a certain sum of money for work that they do in prison. The plan has been tried to some extent and as far as report has been made the results appear to be fairly good, perhaps good enough to justify extending the system to prison life generally.

It has seemed to many thinkers on the subject that to withdraw a man from the support of his family without making any provision as an equivalent for his wages was making imprisonment a double hardship, that in fact, would be more severe upon the family outside than upon the convict himself.

With the modern idea of having a prison a place for reformation more than of punishment, a place where society would take a wrong floor in order to help him get control of himself and learn to respect the laws and rights of others, rather than a place where vindictive feeling should find expression, it is only natural that the next step should be considered and that many should advocate the idea of a moderate rate of wages.

owing to the fact that the convict can earn more than his own keep.

It used to be the case that prisoners were all self supporting, but their products were sold in competition with the products of free labor and that seemed unfair, chiefly perhaps because products were sold at a much less rate than it cost to produce them in ordinary shops, owing to contractors getting prison labor at an absurdly low rate.

When that system was ended, the next step taken was to have the prisons supply all public institutions with such things as they might need and a great deal has been done in that direction, though not as much as many think might be done with justice to the state and all its citizens.

The idea of paying the convict is to see that when he shall come out of prison he may have some small saving to his credit that shall, for the moment at least, put him on his feet rather than throw him out into the world without a cent and with an ill name.

The subject will perhaps sometime go into practical politics, just as for many years it has been the theme of discussion at the meetings of the penologists.

The political jack pot seems about to be opened in Seminole and the braves have hardly finished talking of the war paint of county division before they will be summoned in council to elect the big chief again. I note in last week's paper that F. K. Bates had reconsidered his action of cutting loose from the office of tax assessor when his term is out and will be a candidate. Mr. Bates figures that the assessor should have some experience and that after he has gained that experience he ought to at least serve the people for one term. This is laudable and if also Democratic to return an officer another term after he has made good. There is nothing else stirring in the office of assessor at yet, but I understand that at least two other men will measure swords with Mr. Bates for this position. Although what they want with it or any other man is more than I know, unless it is the determination to see that the taxes of the new county are levied in the proper manner and that all pay alike, something that has not been done heretofore. However, I will have nothing further to say on this subject until later on, for all the present talk is mere hearsay and there is nothing to it.

There is some wild talk about ten men running for the office of county treasurer and if this is true the office must be a profitable one, or else there is no work connected with it, for never before have there been so many candidates for one single solitary little office and really it would be a shame to take the money. Anyhow the present incumbent is entitled to another look-in if he wants the office again, and is qualified to hold it, as far as I know the only hard work of this office being the drawing and signing of checks.

There is scattering talk of other places that will be filled by the patriots who are willing to risk life and limb for the dear people and I will take them up in another issue.

Mainwails, tango, slit skirt, moko-boos, diaphanous waists, padded radiators and tight garments notwithstanding—we remain a pretty good set of folks after all. Look at 'em out every street corner. Not one in ten passing would assume a character; not one in fifteen would overthrow the government; not more than one in seven would turn talebearer; and inform on a grafter for the purpose of keeping politics clean; not one in twenty would steal chickens or take the brick road from Park avenue on Sanford Heights. True, we sometimes get pessimistic, but we rapidly come back to a state of trust and belief in everybody.

The Modern Blacksmith

Beneath the eucalyptus tree
By Sanford's bulkheaded strand
The village blacksmith sits and holds
His blushing soul-mate's hand,
And whispers his affinity
Love's bromides old and canned.

The passer-by who hark to them
Can hear them laugh with glee
At how they planned their getaway
At night from Tallahassee.
This heartless village blacksmith and
His soul's affinity.

They also talk the moral side
Of these "soul-mate" affairs.
But in the end the smit poop-poops
It all and says "Who cares?"
We'll live like kings on what I've saved
From fouring car repairs.

The point is this: that nowadays
The smith has lost his brigade
The smith, that once the post-rhymed,
Has turned a dashing rogue
His morals all have gone to pot
Since autos came in vogue.

Building in Constant Motion.

There are many in New York who regard the Flatiron building not only from the standpoint of a curiosity, but from that of beauty, as the eighth wonder of the world. In the top stories of this building the pendulum of office clocks swings so far over that it cannot come back of itself, only when aided by the return movement of the great structure. Ink is applied from the walls with this ceaseless movement, for, like the prow of a ship, the Flatiron swings and gives with the elements.

Practical Joke Caused Death.

A wealthy resident of Newburgh, N. Y., died as the result of a prank perpetrated by a frolicsome friend. This friend, holding a lit cigar near the victim's face, suddenly asked him to turn around, and as this was done the cigar lightly touched the victim's cheek. Both gentlemen enjoyed hugely the merry jest. In a few months, however, a cancerous growth appeared on the spot where the flesh had been burned and, growing rapidly, caused the man's death.

Extreme of Adoration.

The admiration entertained by a French boy for his uncle included all the latter's attributes, and even possessions which the uncle himself is not wont to deem desirable. "Uncle," said the lad one day after he had been studying his uncle in laughing conversation with his father, "I don't care much for plain teeth like mine. I wish I had some copper-toed teeth like yours."
