Private Problem Needs Looking At

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 57-year-old male with a problem I don't want to take to my family doctor because his name has a big mouth and she's a nurse during all of his consultations.

Over a year ago I developed a lump in my left testicle. It doesn't hurt much but every so often I get a shooting pain there. It drives me crazy because it is very itchy and it seems to sweat a lot. The left side is wet but the right side is not and there's a red spot over the lump but that might be from scratching.

I have an unusual discharge and I do not have any trouble about the office nurse. Even though your doctor may have your professional confidence, it's quite true that other personal around offices do have an opportunity to cause any patient social embarrassment. That's why doctors try to use reliable people who can work in such environments.

I really would like to encourage you to have an examination, though, because you may have a condition that needs treatment. The prostate gland can be infected in young men, enlarge and obstruct urinary flow in middle-aged to older men and, if you live long enough, may develop cancer. Cancer of the prostate is the third most common cause of cancer deaths in men. It can be cured if detected early enough.

Readers who want more information about the prostate gland can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 1-4.

Women Voters Petition County On Library Move

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Ten hours after county commissioners Tuesday hired a chief librarian for the proposed independent Seminole County library system, petitions containing 2,000 signatures urging commissioners to reconsider its plan to leave the Orlando Public Library system (OPL) were submitted to the board.

Judy Knudson, president of the Seminole County League of Women Voters submitted the petitions and protested again the decision of the commission. She called the actions of the majority of the commission "irresponsible" and "ignoring the wishes of the people of Seminole County."

She said the county is "instituting a disservice," insisting the decision was made in haste. Mrs. Knudson pointed to the need for the services provided by OPL by students and the general public. "The problem is not the size of the collection of books but the accessibility to records and reference works through OPL," she said.

Commissioner John Alexander who with Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski voted against continuing the relationship with OPL, agreed with Mrs. Knudson's contention. But he said, "The 'action of the majority of the commission' was not to discontinue, but to develop a system."

HIT-N-RUN VICTIM

The youth, who complained of pain in his foot, was treated at the scene by patrolman Ray Bronson (center) and a member of the Seminole County Fire Department rescue unit and taken to Seminole Memorial Hospital for treatment and released.

Reconsider Library Plan, Group Asks

the DeLand Public Library and formerly with the OPL, was hired by the commission during its morning session to head up the county's independent library system.

Current plans are to split Seminole away from the OPL operation Sept. 20. Mrs. Rhein, 46, who received a high recommendation from Glen Miller, OPL director, is to begin working for Seminole County on Sept. 22.

She will begin interviewing applicants for head librarian posts at the county's two facilities in Sanford and Seminole Plaza, Caswellberry, next week, said John Percy, director of county development.

Percy said a total of 30 employees will man the independent Seminole library system, Percy said. Eleven employees in addition to Mrs. Rhein already have been hired, he said, including three of the five existing employees at the Sanford branch and eight of the 11 at the Seminole South branch.

JUDY KNUDSON

"These employees are really going to help the transition," Percy said. Some of the employees yet to be hired will staff the special-technical services section such as books by mail. The county is seeking 5,000 square feet of office space for library administration at Seminole Plaza, Percy said.

He said that Mrs. Rhein has been with the DeLand Library for about 3 1/2 years and prior to that time was with the OPL for three years. Noting different approaches are taken in the two library systems, Percy said, "Mrs. Rhein is expected to give the best of both to Seminole County."

after the negotiations have been completed. The increments have in the past been automatically given to the personnel as they complete one year's experience and go to another.

The board has offered what it calls its "best offer" of a base of $9,100. The current base for a starting teacher is $8,700.

SEA says there is minimal cost to the school board for SEA to use the system, while the school board takes the stance that it has no obligation to make the service available to a private organization such as SEA.

The independent Seminole County Library system will begin operating independently on Oct. 1. There is planned to be continued service with no break. Percy said that initially it is planned to purchase $150,000 worth of new books the first year of operation. He noted that Mrs. Rhein will be drafting up book selection policy and she will be giving particular attention to the reference and children's collection.

The same amount of money, more than $800,000 has been budgeted by the county commission for the Seminole system as had been paid to the OPL. But while under OPL's operation only $60,000 was spent for books for Seminole, $150,000 of the money in the new fiscal year will be spent for books under the county operation, with about $25,000 for salaries, Percy said.

These are some of the main issues which both sides will tackle when they convene today.

Oviedo Man Sought In Wife's Shooting

By DENNIS FEOLA
Herald Staff Writer

Police are searching for an Oviedo man who shot his wife and a friend in Oviedo Tuesday evening.

The incident began at 4 p.m. at the Tiger Service Station on Route 428.

Detective Sgt. Tom Hennigan said John Henry Mobley, 43, followed his wife, Geraldine, 29, as she pulled into the service station.

Mrs. Mobley was in a car with her mother and children and her husband was being driven by Robert Bonner, 61, of Oviedo.

The couple got into an argument, apparently over her decision to leave him, Hennigan said, and Mobley pulled a .38 caliber pistol and shot her in the stomach.

Bonner struggled with Mobley in an attempt to get the gun away from him and Bonner was shot in the hand. Hennigan said the shot ricocheted off Bonner's hand hitting him in the leg and foot.

Mrs. Mobley drove away in her car and Bonner headed for the Oviedo police station in his car. Mobley walked to a friend's home, and unaware of what had happened, the friend drove Mobley to Winter Park, police said.

Hennigan said Mobley jumped out of his friend's car on State Road 17-92 just inside the Winter Park city limits.

Mrs. Mobley has been transferred out of the intensive care unit of Winter Park Hospital and is reported to be in satisfactory condition.

Bonner was treated and released Tuesday night at the hospital.

Hennigan said the couple live at apartment six at Smitty's Grill on Route 419 in Oviedo.

In Defense Of The U.S.

The Carter administration has come to agree with the critics of its defense policies on at least one vital point: the United States' land-based intercontinental ballistic missile force will be vulnerable to destruction by a Soviet missile attack no later than the early 1980s unless preventive steps are taken.

Because these 1,054 Titan and Minuteman missiles, housed in underground concrete silos, are this country's chief deterrent against a nuclear attack, national survival may depend on taking these steps.

By implication, the administration has also conceded that nothing in the terms of a prospective SALT II treaty would significantly lessen the growing Soviet threat to land-based missiles.

No doubt, this was the rationale for Secretary of Defense Harold Brown's recent statement that the United States would insist the SALT treaty permit mobile missile launchers.

These mobile launchers — tracked, wheeled or mounted on rails — would vastly complicate the task of targeting and destroying ICBMs in a surprise attack.

What worries the administration is the increasing number, power and accuracy of the super-heavy Soviet missiles.

While SALT II would limit the overall numbers of missiles, it would leave the Soviets with a 3-1 superiority in total missile throw weight by the early 1980s.

Indeed, the Soviet Union's absolute refusal to agree to terms that would significantly reduce its first-strike threat of U.S. land-based ICBMs is just one reason to question Soviet motives in the SALT deliberations.

But, whatever Soviet motivations, any genuine threat to the deterrent value of U.S. land-based missiles must be countered.

President Carter has four basic options: 1. Defend the missile silos with an anti-ballistic missile (ABM) system. Anything other than ABM systems were banned by a 1972 treaty and such a system would be enormously expensive in any case.

2. Adopted an announced policy of immediate launch of ICBMs the moment radar and satellites indicate a Soviet attack. This is too dangerous a policy on which to rely although keeping the Soviets guessing about launch policy would have a deterrent effect.

3. Phase out the land-based missile force and rely on bombers and submarines. This would recklessly reduce our military capabilities.

4. Deploy some or all land-based missiles on mobile launchers.

The mobile ICBM system provides the best alternative.

Mounting even a few hundred ICBMs on mobile platforms would deny the Soviets fixed targets and do so at a very acceptable cost.

And deployment of mobile platforms would not violate the conditions of any existing or prospective arms control agreement.

Last, because mobile missiles would constitute a purely defensive system, the Soviets could have no valid reason to object — unless, of course, they contemplate a first-strike attack against the United States.

Around

The Clock

By JIM HAYNES

Who says lightning doesn't strike twice in the same place?
Don't try and convince the Irv Meyers Family this edge isn't true.
Just about a year ago, Steve Meyers suffered torn knee ligaments in the Lyman High football opener against Bonaventure.
Just last Thursday night, Jeff Meyers was lost to Lyman for the season after suffering a separation of the clavical and sternum.
"I thought I was dreaming when they told me Jeff might have broken his shoulder," said Irv Meyers after being called out of the stands at Thursday's jamboree in Longwood. "First Steve... and then Jeff."
The injury was painful to Jeff. But not as painful as the realization that he will miss his senior year.

He had worked particularly hard all summer running, lifting weights and throwing the football. Steve's senior year lasted five plays before he was knocked out of action. Jeff executed six plays in the first quarter of the jamboree against Wildwood before lightning struck. Jeff was trying for a first down on a third down play when a defender grabbed him by the jersey and flung him to the ground.
"It is one of the most ironic things I have seen happen in football," said Lyman coach Bill Scott. "Injuries pop up every once in a while, but for brothers to be wiped out at the start of back-to-back years is hard to realize."
It was even tougher for Scott to lump the back. He was even tougher for Scott to lump the back. Irv, an Orlando attorney, has been following his son's football steps since they were in fifth grade.

Pop Warner League followers will recall the great Spring Lake Yellow Jackets team of a half a dozen years ago. Comprised of 10, 11 and 12-year-olds, Steve and Jeff were stars of that team.
In fact, Jeff made the Pop Warner League All-American team when he was in seventh grade.
Jeff expressed appreciation for the many well-wishers who called to inquire of his condition.
"He heard from people he didn't even know," said Irv early this week. "And he has really appreciated everyone's concern."
Steve's plans are clear. He will attend Seminole Community College this year, continue to work out, and try and play football at a four-year college next season.
Jeff is still pondering his situation.

ANGLE-WALTERS Licking A Litter Problem

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Most taxpayers know that the largest single portion of almost all municipal budgets is earmarked for education, but few people can identify the second most expensive item financed by local government.
It's waste collection and disposal. Americans each year produce a phenomenal total of 150 million tons of refuse, garbage and trash, which must be hauled away at an annual cost of approximately $8 billion.

Moreover, waste generation has been growing at 4 percent annually in recent years, while the country's population has been increasing by less than 1 percent each year. Finding new landfill sites has become increasingly difficult in many urban areas.

But a promising solution to the problem of coping with the ever-growing mountain of waste has come from an unlikely source — the coalition of beer, soft drink, aluminum, glass and steel industry groups that for years has related public pressure of mandatory deposits on beverage containers.

In an effort to promote an alternative to the bottle and can deposits they loathe, those groups first conceived a public relations concept known as Keep America Beautiful.

That approach was a disaster — and justifiably so, because it was designed to convince the nation that litter was the sole responsibility of slovenly consumers, not the industries that increasingly were marketing their goods in "disposable" or "throw-away" packages.

The industry groups then banded together to form the National Center for Resource Recovery, a body charged with convincing the nation that expensive and complex recycling of municipal dumps or incinerators could efficiently separate recyclable materials from waste garbage.

Faced with mounting public opposition to non-recyclable beer and soda bottles and cans, the business groups finally have unveiled a workable proposal — an industry-financed, broad-based program of litter control, recycling and resource recovery.

Voters in the state of Washington endorsed that approach in 1975, with similar programs subsequently approved in Colorado, Virginia, Kentucky, Connecticut and South Carolina. The most recent and comprehensive law was approved last year by California's legislature.

In California, retailers of any item likely to end up as solid waste — food, tires, paper, cans, glass — are assessed $10 to $20 annually, while manufacturers and wholesalers of those items must pay a yearly fee of up to $2,000.

Those levies are expected to produce as much as $13 million in yearly revenue, with another $5 million annually to come from a 3-cent-per-gallon surcharge on materials that can be recycled but instead are buried in landfills.

About 25 percent of those receipts will be turned over to local governments for expansion of existing community recycling centers and creation of new facilities.

Oil Counselor May Be Tied By Past

WASHINGTON — This is a well-told-yesterday about an oil attorney who joined the government on his solemn word that he would keep his oil ties. We warned that the appointment of Texas Lyman Coleman as general counsel of the Energy Department would lead to inevitable conflicts of interest.

He came out of Houston, a city governed by oil fortunes. He was a law partner of ex-Treasurer Secretary John Connally, the darling of the oil industry. This law firm, Vinson and Elkins, represents the giant oil companies, including Exxon, Mobil, Shell, Texaco and Union Oil.

The firm not only litigates but lobbies for its oil and gas clients. Coleman was a registered lobbyist himself. Nor did the firm merely represent oil companies; it got into bed with them. Its partners served on the boards of oil companies.

Coleman is the able attorney, who can argue a case like the champion chess player he once was. He persuaded the White House with a written promise that he would step aside if any issue involving his former clients cropped up. He similarly pledged to the Energy Energy Committee that he would divest himself of such cases.

Our forebodings about Coleman so unfortunately were wrong. An Energy Department investigation is being run on at least three Vinson and Elkins clients. Not only has

Train Travel Reply

In response to the letter "Our Train Travel," I also saw the recent T.V. report questioning the safety of local railroad tracks.
However, the report was a travesty because it showed trucks used only for very long hauls of 10 m.p.h. or less, and used for parking of freight cars, without differentiating these from those used by through trains, both freight and passenger.

The trucks used by through trains are regularly inspected for condition, and repairs are quickly made to correct defects. At this time, a track resurfacing crew can be seen at work on the S.C. main track south of Sanford.

I travel by rail several times each year, and seldom experience any difficulty that could be attributed to bad tracks. There are differences in maintenance between various railroad companies, however the maintenance of track by the S.C. is, in the best, should have no quarrels about traveling over it.

First Things First

The interested Sarah to Change the City Slogan from the "Friendly City" to "The Best of USA" is a new idea that interests a few but concerns everybody, and I don't mean the has been.

Sanford's city commissioners are good commissioners and are trying to gratify the people of Sanford, but in this case they do not have the right to change the Sanford slogan.

We have prior projects that are already on the agenda and need community support and this is not on wheels for a lawn.

A. Every Civic Club and the Churches are making an effort to support "The Meats On Wheels".

B. The Downtown Development Corporation needs our support and this has been on the agenda for many years.

C. The pet holes in front of the Post Office need attention.

D. And the projects started several years ago needs better care, so let's put first things first.

On Dog Laws

The director of the Orange County Animal Control has proposed a new ordinance that places more responsibility on dog owners. If the Commission approves — and let's hope they do — dog owners can be fined for second-degree misdemeanor, if they let their dogs out on the public.

Some animal control laws are selective. If the dog is in his own yard, though there is no fence to keep him there, and the owner may be miles away, he is safe from the animal control officer. If the dog goes across into the neighbor's yard to leave his filth and the neighbor calls Animal

Control

Control, by the time the complaint is answered the dog is back in his own yard.
If by luck, the dog is caught trespassing, the fee to get him back is so small the owner hardly notices. With laws like this the control officers must waste an enormous amount of gas. And they must suffer from frustration.
A young bicycle rider in Orlando was attacked by several dogs recently. Bicycle riders, joggers, and neighbors of dog owners should band together and demand that adequate laws be passed and enforced.
I hope there are not many people like the father I know, who when his young daughter was bitten by a neighbor's dog, told his wife not to make a complaint. He did not want to be a "bad neighbor".
He lives by one. Name Withheld

RONALD REAGAN Intelligence Capability Is Impaired

Not long ago Philip Agee, the former CIA agent who decided to make his life's work the destruction of that organization, showed up in Havana to take part in a propaganda "seminar" on the crisis of U.S. intelligence-gathering. He discussed plans for publishing the names of CIA agents and their contacts in country after country. When that happened to the CIA station chief in Athens in 1975 he died in a hall of assassins' bullets.

What motivates a man such as Agee to turn against his country is unclear, but whether his dark plan will be effective will depend in part on whether there is a change of attitude toward intelligence-gathering in official Washington. So far, the Carter administration has failed to stop the erosion of the U.S. intelligence capability or to undo the damage that Congress has inflicted in recent years.

Without good intelligence we cannot monitor arms control agreements; we cannot assess the military threats for which we must be prepared; we cannot combat terrorism at home. Yet, Congress has taken steps to weaken our intelligence organizations over the last few years.

It imposed a web of restrictions on the collection of vital information and made it easier to leak, or to discover, how and where our intelligence-gathering is taking place. It has also funded criminals at home and adversaries abroad to deceive and evade our collection efforts. At the same time, Congress — egged on by some of our own liberal members — has reduced our own intelligence services.

The Freedom of Information Act is being abused by critics and organized crime and unduly by Soviet agents, too. Under this act the foreigner can file the requests for reams of data in the files of U.S. departments and agencies (you the taxpayer, pay for the service).

There is evidence that racketeers and drug traffickers have used this act to discover sensitive law enforcement techniques that might ferret out their misdeeds; to track down and threaten citizens who inform the police about their activities; to bottle up judicial proceedings against them.

Because of this act (and poorly drafted portions of the Privacy Act), the exchange of intelligence between local police departments and federal agencies has been sharply curtailed. One result: KGB agents can operate in the U.S. with increasing freedom.

This congressionally-mandated assistance to criminal elements and foreign spies doesn't come cheap, either. Last year the FBI, alone, had to spend $13 million to counter Foreign Information requests, not counting costs of litigation.

This month, the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance act may be added to the restrictions that hamstring our intelligence organizations. It has passed the Senate and House. It is expected this month, pending disposition of amendments introduced by a group of Republican representatives.

Dogs Who Killed Infant Are Ordered Destroyed

ORLANDO (UPI) — Authorities say they will destroy today four dogs quarantined following a fatal attack on an infant as her 14-year-old mother stood talking with friends.
Police said Danielle Nicole Russell died of head and stomach wounds Saturday. Her mother, Donna Knight, was on the porch and did not learn of the attack until a friend went inside the house.
Blood was found on two of four family dogs, but investigators took all of the pets to the Orange County Animal Control unit.
"They all were picked up that night because there was some confusion as to which dog did what," said Animal Control Director Jay Keathley. "All four had to be quarantined because all were exposed if one had rabies. The owner elected to sign all four of them in."

Disclosure Law To High Court

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Five state senators challenging the Sunshine Amendment take their fight now to the U.S. Supreme Court.
The senators were notified by the 5th U.S. Court of Appeals Tuesday it is standing by a June 30 ruling that Florida's financial disclosure amendment is not an unconstitutional invasion of privacy.
The case will be taken to the Supreme Court, said Richard McFarlain, the senators' lawyer. The appeal must be filed within 90 days, but probably will come sooner.

Airlines Merger Meet Set

MIAMI (UPI) — Directors of National Airlines, Inc. meet at an undisclosed location today "to consider definitive merger terms" negotiated with giant Pan American World Airways, Inc.
Pan Am and tiny Texas International Airlines of Houston are locked in a battle to gain control of Miami-based National. TXIA has been buying all the National stock it could find for sale in the past few weeks.

Eastern Cutting Fares In Half

MIAMI (UPI) — Eastern Airlines plans to cut in half its regular coach fares Oct. 16 on short haul extensions of longer flights in 14 market areas, including some flights in and out of New York, Philadelphia, Houston, Boston, Toronto and Miami, the airline announced Tuesday.

In an official vote, David Evans won his second term on the city council by leading write-in candidate Jack Callahan. Evans finished with 120 votes in Callahan's 28 votes.

Gallbladder Surgery Generally Good Idea

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 28-year-old female who is interested about an upcoming operation to remove my gallbladder. In light of the following information, perhaps you can give me your opinion as to whether such an operation is necessary or not.

Dr. Lamb

During the past two years I've experienced three attacks of overindulgence in alcohol and greasy food. For example, at Thanksgiving and at Christmas. A normal daily diet cannot be maintained whatsoever. I have also observed the presence of two malignant moles on my neck. My doctor's recommendation, along with that of a surgeon, is to have the gallbladder removed. However, since I have experienced no discomfort for the past month, I question the necessity of surgery.

COUNTY IN BRIEF

Public Hearing Sept. 12 On Proposed Budget

The Seminole County Commission will hold its final public hearing at 7 p.m., Sept. 12, before adopting a budget for the 1978-79 fiscal year totaling $37,271,164.

Center Rezoning OK'd

County Commissioners voted to rezone 25 acres exclusive of two acres bounding Tusawilla Road and Red Bug Road from agriculture to commercial to permit construction of a shopping center in the southwest quadrant of the intersection.

Family Dispute Settled

Called on to settle a family dispute between an uncle and a nephew over whether a paint and body shop should be allowed to locate off Grandview Avenue, the commissioners voted 3-1 in favor of the uncle.

Fee Set For Legal Services

Commissioners agreed to pay Harry Stewart, who finished his last day with the county Tuesday, at the rate of $25 per hour for legal work pending appointment of a permanent county attorney.

Appeal Made For Funds

Dr. Luis Perez appealed to the commission to reconsider its decision to deny funding in the new budget year to the Drug Action Committee. In a prepared presentation, Dr. Perez noted that hundreds of Seminole County young people with drug, alcohol and related problems are being helped by the committee's programs.

Paycheck Schedule Rapped

Willie Fossett, an equipment operator with the county road department, submitted petitions containing the signatures of 75 fellow employees telling commissioners his plan to go to bi-weekly rather than weekly paychecks will create a real hardship for the workers.

No Contest Plea Expected

Eloise Warren will enter a plea of no contest to a charge of manslaughter in connection with the June 16 stabbing death of her husband, Eddie Ray Warren.

Bridges said the plea agreement was reached late Tuesday evening. Judge Robert McGregor decided on accepting the agreement possibly Thursday.
