BUDGET OF OPINION "JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME."

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT.

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH. "HE'LL PRENT 'EM"---SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

Nothing about the postoffice this week as yet and it will probably go by default because there is no one that really wants it. Did I hear any one say anything?

I see by the papers that this is the hottest summer that we have experienced in twenty-five years and I can well believe it for if I ever get any hotter than I have this summer the other place below will be a pre-cooling station to me.

That Sunday school day was a great stunt and should be practiced quite often. I understand that all the churches were filled last Sunday and the attendance was a record breaker. If these same people that attended last Sunday will keep up the gait the churches will be filled every Sunday.

Some of the ladies will edit the Herald on Friday, October fifteenth and I hope they light on some of the evils of the day and raise Cain with everything that needs it. The ladies are unafraid and they ought to be able to stir up enough fuss to keep Hull, and Hayes busy for a week after they return from San Francisco.

Most of the people are talking about a compulsory school law and I believe that it would be a good thing for San Francisco. I don't think that San Francisco has several boys of a school age that are not attending and there are also several girls that should be in school. If the parents will not compel the children to go to school then the law should be made so that they can be made to go. It is optional with the parents whether the child of the state and only needs to be voted up to become a child to law. How about it?

Mayor Thrasher is a good quarter horse. He can start something and run strong for some time and then slow up. Some time since he was stirred up about the depositions of the English sparrows and had the Boy Scouts kill them off. I scared the little pests away for a while but they are back on the job again and I want Mayor Thrasher to have the policemen kill them off in the evenings until they are exterminated. We want Mayor Thrasher to run not only the quarter mile but the entire mile and kill these sparrows off until they are gone from here.

The first guns of the fall campaign in the city officers will soon be fired and unless I am badly mistaken some of the prospects will announce soon. There will be nothing doing in the mayor's race for they all seem to be afraid of J. D. Davison or else they are so well satisfied that he suits them sufficient. There may be something doing in this race but the changes are slim and Davison will just center around the track to show the people how he could have run with some opposition. The aldermanic ticket will also be slim as the ordinary men of affairs are afraid to take this job that promises so much work and pay and no pay. It would be a good thing for some of the kickers and knockers against the city government to take this job for one term and save the city. They are always spouting about how they could give the people better service and yet these same kickers have never held the job of alderman. There is one man in this town in particular who is the champion knocker of Knockersville and if he will only allow his name on the ticket I will support him with all my family and my wife's family and then some. But he is afraid to try it. So much easier to sit in front of the store and kick than it is to get into the game and save the country.

The following well written editorial was furnished the Valley Gazette by one of our readers, who believes with us that the band deserves the support of the public:

What benefit to a community is a band? Of the professional band, whose players are artists and whose playing is a finished product, there is no chance for argument—it bears the same relation to the community that the art galleries and libraries do. So, therefore, take it for granted that the above query refers to the ordinary country or village band, whose name is legion.

I have played in them and I have taught them and I have met in the park evenings and listened to them, and it would take mighty strong financial interests to make me live in a town that could not, or would not support its band.

"Of benefit to the community." As the community is made up of individuals, so anything affecting the individual affects the community. There is in the human breast that which demands amusement, enjoyment, relaxation, and if we cannot get it at home we are going from home to get it.

The Lyceum and Chautauqua, ever alert to help and uplift, has many organizations that are secured in the usual way to fill this desire. This means more progress, for we are now setting up musical standards. Is there a financial side to this question? Yes, two of them. We all believe in advertising our town. Look at Chicago. Her public spirited citizens finance not only grand opera and symphony concerts for the winter, but also an immense band for the summer. One of the reasons they do this they say is that Chicago may be advertised and placed in the front rank.

Well, if a band is good for Chicago, it is good for the smaller community, and I believe it is judged by my own experience.

to take one had a hand, the other had out. The town with the hand

Now, what is the other financial side? If you agree with me that the band is a good financial argument for a town, would it not be a wise move to help that band financially?

We have shown in this word picture that a band is a good thing for a town. It is a good thing for the city, and it is a good thing for the instruments to get the band started, and from a few public spirited citizens whose hands are in their pockets most of the time and are getting the least of the benefits from their expenditures. I look from years of experience that the local band is good for a community as a community. This will not be based on a good business basis as a community institution? You take from the taxes funds to make and keep a park, you furnish the benches, you build a band stand and you pay a caretaker, all from the taxes.

Now do what is right and put in an appropriation each year for $600 to $800 or more, set aside for the band that they can hire a competent director or teacher, buy new music and get new uniforms once in a while.

What a boost to a town is a good band stand, well lighted, well trained band, new clean uniforms. The harmony that they will unfold to that community and the wealth of musical productions will more than pay for every dollar invested.

AT 91 LIKES HARVESTING

Kansas Man Rides on the Rods to Reach Farm Job Promised Him.

Wichita, Kan.—Peter Coughlin is hard at work in the harvest fields, despite his ninety-one years, and likes it. He so wrote to W. M. Woods, superintendent of the Sedgwick County Home here, after reaching Great Bend where a job had been promised him.

Coughlin has a son in Tonkawa, Okla., but refuses to accept aid from him. The old man assumed the name of Joseph Munson to see his relatives from humiliation.

A week ago he went from here to Great Bend on the "rods" of a Missouri Pacific freight.

The Princess Euxodia was born in 1898 and her sister was born the year following. They have two brothers, Crown Prince Boris now twenty-one years old, and Prince Cyril born in 1893. Their mother, now dead, was Maria Louise, daughter of Duke Robert of Parma. Their stepmother was the Princess Eleonore of Reuss-Kostritz, who distinguished herself with her Red Cross work in the Russo-Japanese war.

INDIAN MOUND HAS STORY

Archeologists Will Make Excavations in Order to Study Lives of Ancient Race.

Atlanta, Ga. Dr. L. G. Hardman went up to his Nacoochee Valley farm recently to superintend the work preparatory to the excavation of an Indian mound which possesses an interesting history.

There, Nacoochee, an Indian princess, was buried, and tradition holds a fascinating romance connected with her life and death.

Archeologists, representing a New York museum, will excavate the mound in order to make a scientific study of the lives of the race which once inhabited that section of the country in the years ago.

The utensils used, their war paraphernalia, and even the skeletons of the peoples buried there, will afford interesting research work.

All the interesting excavations will be carried to the New York museum, and the mound will be rebuilt just as it stands today.

WOMAN WORKS IN TROUSERS

Attired Like a Man, Miss Frances Cadero of Pennsylvania Runs 76-Acre Farm.

Connellsville, Pa.—Perry township has a woman who goes about her work in a genuine mannish way. She is Miss Frances Cadero, aged twenty. Alone she manages a 76-acre farm. In addition she cares for six horses and several cows.

This spring she put out ten acres of corn and several acres of oats. Along with this she "breaks" two colts.

Her father ill, her mother unable to look after the farm, and her brothers all away, she shouldered the burden of managing the farm.

She began three years ago. She discards woman's apparel and wears trousers in the field and in the barn. She has grown strong and healthy.

Too True.

Fears exist that Japan is preparing to renew the regrets of the Chinese that they ever invented gunpowder.

Mrs. L. D. Hart of Geneva avenue was the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Maude Powell on the West Side Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Little and daughters entertained Mrs. Little's sister, Mrs. C. W. Biggers and three little daughters and Miss Maude Williams, all of Unionville, N. C. for some time recently. Mr. and Mrs. Little invited a party of friends Friday evening to meet their guests.

LAKE MARY ITEMS

Miss Helen M. Iserman spent the week end at Paola.

Misses Frances and Flora Poston of Paola were early Monday morning visitors here.

Mrs. Frank Evans of Boston, Mass. is the guest of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Evans. She expects to be here for some time besides visiting other parts of the state before returning to her home in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Poston and the five little Postons and Miss Iserman made Sanford a call Wednesday evening.

A number of the young people here attended the surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vihlen on Tuesday night.

The following names make up the honor roll of Lake Mary school for the month beginning Sept. 6th and ending Oct. 1st: Donald Dunn, William Dunn, Theodore Dunn, Carolyn Durant, Melvin Martin, John N. Lund, Reina Poston, Willie Nostrom, Mary Sansveirino.

WEKIWA AND ETHEL ITEMS

The first social of the season was given in Wekiwa last Friday night by Mrs. A. O. Powell at her home to the young people in honor of Mr. Irving Stultz of Roanoke City, Va.

Various games were indulged in also good music was furnished by James and Raymond Boyd and Mr. Crippin on the violin, accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Powell, all having a good time. After which refreshments were served. They then departed, all expressing themselves as having a jolly good time and wishing many returns. Those invited were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vermillion, Mr. Irving Stultz of Roanoke, Va., Mr. Ed. Van Hurlbise, Misses Aibile Minnie and Frances Holaday, Miss Daphna Vermillion, Jas. Boyd, Mr. Al. Van Hurlbise, Rex Holaday, Earl Gowings, Raymond Boyd, W. B. Goings, Frank Powell, Miss Annie Shephard, Mr. Crippin and Mrs. O. A. Powell.

School started this week at Ethel, with 23 scholars enrolled. Miss Annie Shephard being the teacher. While it is quite a walk for the little children dren of Wekiwa yet they are very much pleased with their teacher and are taking quite an interest in their school.

Sunday being the second Sunday of the month we will have preaching at Ethel by our pastor, Rev. Bartlett. We are always glad to see the second Sunday of the month come as we only have preaching on that day each month, although we have a thriving Sunday school every Sunday morning, Epworth League and prayer meeting every Sunday night.

We also have cottage prayer meetings with some of the neighbors every Wednesday night. So you see we are trying to do a good work for the Master in our little feeble way, in which we are very thankful for the interest and progress we are having. It is very encouraging to see the interest the young people take in the work, as well as the older ones. May God bless and prosper our work here is our prayer.

Miss Annie Shephard, the school teacher boards with Mrs. Andrew Rush.

Mr. P. J. Cooter returned home last night after a leave of absence off his homestead at Wekiwa for the past six months. Mr. Coats was almost a stranger when he got home, being gone so long. His many friends were very glad to see his bright, cheerful face once more.

Mrs. Eugene Brown is quite sick at her home, we are sorry to learn.

Mrs. Will Lee returned home yesterday with her little girl from Sanford, who has been very sick with pneumonia under the care of Dr. Denton, and she is very much better.

Mr. Bob Ford still acts cool, also Mr. James Boyd.

There were several hunters, come out from Sanford yesterday searching the woods for game. We do not know what success they had but they seemed to be pretty well loaded when they passed making for the four o'clock train.

Mole Crickets Getting Troublesome

Reports from various parts of the state indicate that the mole cricket has renewed activities. The West Indian species is perhaps the most destructive. It is pale brownish and grows to more than an inch long. Its front legs are adapted to burrowing and like the native mole cricket it spends the days in the ground and comes out at night and preys upon vegetables and seed beds.

The following suggestions for combatting both species are offered by E. R. Watson, entomologist to the University of Florida Experiment Station. Sulphur drilled with the seed is said to act as a repellent. Seed beds may be protected by placing beneath them and at the sides copper or galvanized gauze. Bury the floor about one foot and let the sides extend two inches above the surface.

Plants set in the field may be protected by tin cylinders made by removing the tops and bottoms of tin cans or by cylinders of tar paper set in the ground. Mole crickets maybe poisoned by scattering over the affected area a mixture of at pound of paris green and 25 or 30 pounds of cottonseed meal moistened with cheap syrup. A better mixture is one pound of paris green, 20 pounds of bran, moistened with two gallons of water to which has been added the grated pulp and juice of six or eight oranges or lemons and two quarts of syrup.

The insects may be killed with carbon bisulfide. Punch several holes, one foot deep, to the square yard in the affected area. Pour into each about one ounce of the liquid and cover immediately. Do not apply the liquid near plants, or handle it around fire. It is highly inflammable.

Flow badly infested land deeply several times in spring. Let chickens and turkeys follow the plow to catch the insects. Pasture hogs on the land when possible. The crickets do not fly much except during March or April. At that time a lighted lantern suspended over water covered with kerosene will trap many of them.

Christian Endeavor in October

By the round about route, Winter Park correspondent writing to the Reporter-Star in Orlando, we have heard that the Sanford Endeavorers were, Sept. 24th, to represent "Mr. Bob," proceeds to go for the "Mothers' Aid Association. There are two senior organizations in Sanford, Presbyterian and Congregational, with a children's society in the former church, but we have no press reports yet there. This item, though, shows they are all right.

Miss Noley Sapp is the new secretary for the Congregational society in Miami. She sends a fine letter but says she is "rather young, and it is her first report." How splendid it is that Christian Endeavor shows great gains in Florida in putting the young folks of "high school age" into active training for Christian leadership and proficiency.

Greetings are to be sent this month to several large state conventions which unlike Florida, hold their annual meeting in autumn time.

Do you know your own district convention date? For Central District, Weirsdale, Nov. 8-9th, Southwestern, in Tampa, 9-10th, Kissimmee for South Central, Nov. 10-11, Miami for Southeastern, field, 12-13th Jacksonville at the First Christian Church, entertain North-eastern workers, Nov. 17-18th.

Mr. Lehmann is yet in Tennessee and things are booming. He writes us, "I am glad to learn that C. E. is looking up in Florida. It is all over the southland these days. We are going to put Christian Endeavor on the map down here."

Have you seen Mr. Figg's new leaflet for the State Children's Home? They are feeling "the hard times" in their work more children to care for, less aid in large and small amounts to do with. How are we helping them?

"The Gainesville Sun" and our reporter, Miss Myra McMillan combined in telling this office of the "tacky party" recently given by the Presbyterian young folks of the University City. The guests wore suitable costumes and a prize given for the tackiest also one in a conundrum game. Cream and cake were served and it proved an all right sort of tacky party.

We are sorry that on account of other, earlier dated happenings in Live Oak it is probable that North Central district cannot meet (till) in early December, thus missing the inspiration of Mr. Lehmann's attendance. Miss Myra McMillan, district secretary is doing much correspondence and it will surely be found possible to get other good speakers who will try as far as they can to take the place of Mr. Lehmann at the Live Oak convention. #### Ralph Peters On Railway Mail Pay

A controversy has been raging in the columns of the press between the railroads and the Federal Post Office Department over the question of proper compensation for handling the United States mails. Mr. Ralph Peters, Chairman of the Railway Mail Committee, when asked to state the railroad side of the controversy to the American farmer, said in part:

"The railway mail pay question will be settled—and settled permanently and with justice to all concerned—as soon as the American people realize that the whole subject, while seemingly complicated and technical, boils down to a few simple points of fair business dealing which no one need be a rate expert to understand.

"The first is that the Post Office Department weighs the mails, and adjusts the pay of the railroads, only once in four years. This compels the railroads to carry the increase in the mail tonnage during the intervening years without pay—manifestly an injustice in the case of a rapidly growing business. One consequence has been that last year the railroads carried fully half the parcel post for nothing.

"A second point is this: In addition to carrying the mails, the railroads are required to operate many traveling post offices for sorting and distributing the mails while in transit. But the Post Office Department pays for such post offices only where they occupy whole cars, and pays nothing if the many cases in which it merely requires the use of post office apartments in combination cars, although such apartments differ from the full railway post office cars only in size. More than 4,200 apartments of this character have been fitted up, and are maintained for the exclusive use of the Post Office Department. Failure to pay for them has been an especial hardship to the smaller roads, on which the Department does not find it necessary to utilize whole cars.

"One last point: In thousands of instances (though not in all) the Post Office Department requires the railroads to carry the mails back and forth between railroad stations and post offices, but pays them nothing for this extra service beyond the rates covering the rail transportation. The railroads have no choice but to perform this additional service gratis, or refuse to carry the mails at all.

"Now for the remedies the railroads ask: They do not ask to have the mails weighed daily, or to have each shipment weighed and paid for separately, as is done in the case of private shippers. They merely ask to have the mails weighed, and the pay of the railroads adjusted, at least once a year, instead of once in four years. They also ask that apartment post office cars be paid for, at reasonable rates, according to size. Lastly, they ask that the Post Office Department cease to require of them free messenger service between stations and post offices, and either relieve them of this service or pay fairly for it. These are the reforms the railroads ask of Congress. They gladly lay these reforms before the public, confident that they will appeal to the common sense and fairness of American voters."

About the County Fair

Friend Holly

I am convinced that the editor and business manager of the Sanford Herald evidently wanted to make Seminole county grow faster than the calendar would permit, because I have plenty of time to read all exchanges I discovered, as per enclosed that you quote "Sanford, Fla., Tuesday, Oct. 1st" Our calendar here in the city of signs and news bearing the fact the calendar date of October 1st happened to be on Friday, and according to history was a poor relative of Robinson Crusoe. Your issue previous to October 1st had a great deal of talk about the county fair and after spending ten weeks of a very happy life in your city, I want you to permit me to subscribe my humble self as in favor of the fair. The exhibits were in every way deliberately clever and the fact that one of them took the prize, or I must say first prize at Orlando should prove to your good folks that Seminole is capable herself, with all due respect to other counties mentioned. She is big enough, young enough to have that which she should have. I don't know why I call her she, unless it is that the Woman's Club were most clever in their good work for the first fair in Seminole. I shall look forward to reading about the fair to be held in Sanford this coming winter, and my only regret is that I am not in a position to be in Sanford when the big event comes off.

I do not know of words that could express the shock I felt when reading of my fellowman, J. D. Roberts, who passed away beyond the great divide. While my relations with him were only that of a business one, I found him to be a gentleman, a scholar, a good fellow and a big man in every particular. I want to put myself on record as saying that Sanford lost not only a good citizen but one of its real benefactors.

Let me hope that you will with your good fighting spirit make Sanford all that she is worthy of, and that when the snow storms are sweeping around the corner here, and you folks are enjoying God's greatest gift, good weather, I will be able to read in your valuable sheet, where Sanford has done herself proud again, and made the Semholc fair the fair of all fairs. If there is anything I can do up here for the success of it you have but to command me and I will gladly obey.

With kind personal regards to Mr. Haynes and all Sanford, who treated me most beautifully, I desire to subscribe myself,

Conditions in South Good
Columbus, Ga., Oct. 7.—The Industrial Index says in its issue for this week:

"There are millions more of dollars on the firing line in the Southeast today than there have been in many months before.

"Building permit, valuations show it. Bank clearings show it. Post office receipts show it. Other business figures show it.

"The figures are official and reflect business conditions with absolute exactness. They demonstrate greatly increased activity. They demonstrate that the dealer, the manufacturer and business men generally are beginning in substantial measure to benefit from improving conditions. They demonstrate that conditions. They demonstrate that prosperity is returning.

"A gain of $5,312,371 was made in the clearings of banks of Atlanta, Ga., last week as compared with the corresponding week of last year. The September clearings of Savannah, Ga., banks were greater by $11,960,058 than for September of last year. Building permits in Birmingham, Ala., set a new high record in number for a month. Figures in other cities reflect great growth in the volume of business.

"Not only the present crop of cotton but a portion of that produced last year as well is being sold at good prices. The money that is being received for cotton means more relatively to this section than ever before because less of it will be sent to other parts of the country for products that now are being raised and grown at home, including grain and live stock.

A total of 31 corporations were formed during the week with minimum capital stocks aggregating $703,500.

"The Jacksonville, Fla., district is arranging to erect school buildings for which $500,000 of bonds were voted.

"A New York company which has been buying public utility plants in Mississippi has asked for franchises in connection with the proposed construction of interurban lines north and south from McCombs.

"Among the items of construction work to be done, as reported this week are:

"Church buildings, Fort Valley, Ga., and Oneonta, Ala.; plant buildings, Fort Pierce, Fla.; fair buildings,

Eastman, Ga.; hotel building, Zellwood, Fla., and hotel buildings to be enlarged, Fellsmere, Kissimmee and Tampa, Fla.; office building, Camden, S. C.; roads, Wilcox county, Ala.; school building, Anniston, Ala.

"Construction contracts have been awarded as follows: "Coaling docks, Pensacola, Fla.; court house and jail addition, Coahoma county, Miss.; curb and gutter, Sarasota, Fla.; office building, Eustis Fla.; roads, Wilcox county, Ala.; school building, Sumter, S. C.; street improvement, West Palm Beach, Fla.; water works system equipment, Clearwater, Fla.

"Industrial plants will be established as follows:

"Furniture factory, Birmingham, Ala.; ice factory, Centerville, Miss.; electric light plants, Acworth, Ga.; and to be enlarged, McCombs, Miss., and West Palm Beach, Fla.; laundry and planing mill, Winter Garden, Fla.; turpentine plant, Brewton, Ala.

"DRESS UP, BOYS!"

Why? Because Mr. Prosperity is coming. Dress Up!

Look prosperous and Prosperity will knock at your front door. Dress Up!

When President Wilson about a year ago remarked that such business depression as existed was largely due to pshychological causes, he meant that the fear of hard times was the main factor in causing hard times.

Today we face a situation far different than that of last August. Business has passed through the 'fear' period; lived through it; economized; discounted the worst; seen that the 'fear' boogie was mostly imaginary; and now---

Now we see a great tide of prosperity sweeping strongly and surely upon us. Each week ends with more millions of dollars to our credit in the balance of international trade. Billions of bushels of corn, wheat and other crops ripening into more dollars which will be spent to Dress Up. Two Billions of Dollars in Gold suffocating to get into many times this amount of credit to buy things—fairly bursting is sacks for opportunity to earn its interest in any enterprise.

SCHLOSS BALTIMORE CLOTHES

All this money is seeking business; it must come into circulation to pay its way. And that means business, big business, prosperity, activity in every line. It means busy factories, new industries, busy trade, big prices for farm products; everybody prosperous. "Prosperity is not a prediction; it is a present fact right now. Don't be afraid to recognize it when you meet face to face. What this country needs is One Hundred Million People Unafraid; who can understand the facts, and Dress Up to meet prosperity!"

Start something! Dress Up and every neighbor in your vicinity will follow suit.

The old year policy of retrenchment is no longer wise.

Take that cash you have hidden in a stocking and Dress Up to hasten the new Prosperity which is coming faster every day. Be patriotic; look prosperous; talk prosperity; help the good cause along. It's coming anyway; but you can make others realize it.

THE WOMAN'S PAPER

For the first time in the history of the Herald the editor and the business manager expect to take three days vacation at the same time and while at Jacksonville next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the ladies of Sanford will fill the pages of the Herald with articles especially for the ladies. We feel that this issue will be a relief for the boys who make the paper 194 times every year and a relief for the readers who read the same style stuff 104 times every year. It will give the women of Sanford an opportunity to air their opinions freely and untrammelled by any censorship of the editorial management.

We trust the ladies to wake up the city in many ways and yet expect them to stand by the firm and fixed rules of the paper in publishing only the articles that will build up the city and not tear down. Articles that will assist the people to better and greater things, even though the matter may bring home to them some of the faults of the citizens. The men of the city may be taken to task for their deficiencies but the men will have a come back the week following if they care to rush into print. Even the editor of the Herald will not be exempt and if any of the ladies can see where the paper can be improved we will say a la Shakespeare: "Lay on, MacDuff, and damn'd be he who first cries enough!"

This Women's Edition of the Herald will be issued on Friday, October 15th and will be circulated by hundreds in every part of the state and throughout the north as the Fifteenth is the day set aside by the state of Florida as "Newspaper Day" and the people of Seminole county should send extra copies of the Herald to their friends on that date and thus advertise the county and the state.

Being strictly a woman's paper this issue will be an excellent advertising medium for the merchants who are anxious to please the eye feminine and it is hardly necessary to add that the advertisers will get results in this edition. The ladies will make this paper and they will also take a decided interest in the advertisements.

In conclusion we would add that discretion is the better part of valor and if any of the city or county officials or any other gentlemen wish to follow the example of the business manager and the editor and hike out while the hiking is good, take to woods or fear the worst.

In all seriousness, however, we respectfully commend this edition to the subscribers and those who borrow the Herald. It will be a new departure and of great benefit not only to the ladies of Seminole county but to the men as well.

If it pleases the public and the ladies are anxious to support the performance they will be given a chance on a mammoth special edition of the Herald at a later date at which they will share the receipts of the paper.

Any one wishing to contribute to Friday's paper should communicate with Mrs. Terhoun, the society editor and the copy should be in not later than Tuesday of next week.

SWEET POTATOES

Sweet potatoes are the staff of life. Out of them you can make pone, fried chicken, boiled delights and other things too numerous to mention. Sweet potatoes will grow anywhere and everywhere in Florida and especially in the Sanford district and yet there are very few raised here. They are bringing a good price in the local market now and are very scarce at that price. The Herald has advocated raising more sweets here many times but because we love them but because there is always a safe profit in them. The Miami Herald gives a boost in the following: Why do sweet potatoes sell in Miami at thirty-five and forty cents a peck? Because the farmers of Dade county do not raise sweet potatoes for the home market.

With this information to go on, wouldn't it seem that some of the able bodied young men of Miami who have so much time to devote to pool rooms and cool drink stands loading would raise sweet potatoes? Wouldn't it seem that a young man could get the use of a small piece of land near Miami for a share in the crop he raises, and on that land raise a few hundred bushels of sweet potatoes?

A farmer told us the other day that a dollar a bushel for sweet potatoes is big money, considering the cost of their production. Suppose a man uses his spare time in looking after a crop of sweet potatoes, his health will be better for the outdoor work and his earnings sufficient to make it well worth his while.

We speak of sweet potatoes because of the remarkably high price they bring in the Miami markets, but there are other easy to raise crops that it would pay a man to try. And it is not necessary at all for a man to own a farm before he can be a farmer. Any one with the right sort of energy in him can secure a piece of land to cultivate in Dade county.

CONGRATULATIONS

At last Sanford is to have a Y. M. C. A. After many years of laboring the goal is in sight and what promises more in rich returns than any other institution in Sanford will soon be a reality. In another place in this issue is the glad tidings about the Sanford Y. M. C. A. The editor gave it preferred position in this issue because the importance of the item is sufficient guarantee to the people of this city that the movement should have the undivided support of press, pulpit and the people generally. With two sons growing up in this community the editor personally believes in the establishment of a Y. M. C. A. and aside from the personal reasons for the benefit of every young man in this city we believe in it. Believing in it we shall give it our whole hearted support in money, membership and through the columns of the paper. It is the biggest item in this paper today and being the biggest item it takes precedence even over the war news.

SCHOOL TEACHERS

A school teacher is a person who teaches things to people when they are young.

The teacher comes to school at 8:30 o'clock and when she has gotten enough children for a mess in her room, she teaches them reading, writing, geography, grammar, arithmetic, music, drawing, cooking, board sewing, sketching, deep breathing, bird calls, scientific rating, patriotism, penmanship and fancy bathing, forestry, civics, and other sciences too numerous to mention. When school is out she stays behind with five or six of her worst scholars and tries to save the state the job of reformatory later on. After that she hurries home to make herself a new dress and snatch a hasty supper before going back to attend a lecture by an imported specialist on the history of tribal law in Patagonia which the superintendent thinks may be useful in her school work some day. A great many teachers roam the country, preying on school teachers, and some of them are very cruel, talking to them so long that the poor things have to sit up until morning, when they get home, to get their daily test papers corrected.

School teachers' salaries range from $30 a month up—but not far enough up to make them dizzy. On her salary, the teacher must dress nicely, buy herself things for her work which the city is too poor to get, go to twenty-nine lectures and concerts a year, buy helpful books on pedagogy, pay her way to district, county and state institutes, and enjoy herself during a three months' vacation which her salary takes every year. In addition the teacher is supposed to hoard away vast sums of money, so that, when she becomes too nervous and cross to teach, at the age of fifty or thereabouts she can retire and live happily ever after on her income. Philadelphia Bulletin.

FARMERS' DAY

Today is Farmers' Day. All honor to the men behind the plow, the most independent man among us and the man who makes it possible for the rest of us to live. It was William Jennings Bryan who rightly said: "Burn down the cities and leave the farms and the cities will grow up again but burn down or destroy the farms and the grass will grow in the streets of every city in the union."

We owe much to our farmers, especially our farmers of this great section of Florida, the Winter Garden of the United States. We owe more to them than we give them credit for and today the Herald wishes them greetings and long life and prosperity.

Every day can be "Farmers' Day" if we will but remember all that the farmer means to our community.

What has Bob Holly got against the ladies of Sanford that he proposes to turn his paper over to them while he goes on the State Editorial Jaunt? Orlando Citizen.

Nothing. But we may have after the edition is out. However, they have our permission to do their worst.

ST. JOHNS RIVER FOR INLAND WATERWAYS

(Cuts Obtained Through Courtesy of C. E. Howard, Editor Orlando Citizen)

The above cuts represent the St. Johns river as the upper end of the Florida Inland Waterways, showing the cut from Salt Creek into Indian river. Glancing at the map will convince the most skeptical of the many advantages of the St. Johns river over the east coast canal that now appears difficult of navigation for freighters and that the company are endeavoring to have the government purchase. Since the government at this particular time is taking advantage of every protection afforded in time of war the St. Johns river is the best route for war vessels, submarines and transports if the Inland Waterways is made navigable for the larger vessels. The east coast canal would never afford the shipping the protection afforded by St. Johns river. Another thing that will strike the observer at once is the thickly populated districts to be benefited by the St. Johns river as against the barren stretch of the east coast canal with but few towns on the west side of the canal and the sheer ocean on the east side. The dredge boat in the lower picture is the one used by the government several months ago in straightening the bends in the St. Johns from Palatka to Lake Harney. The government has already improved the St. Johns river and made it navigable to Lake Harney and this great natural waterway has a dozen advantages to one of the east coast canal.

Having received a favorable report from the government engineers on the Salt Lake cut off connecting the upper St. Johns river with Indian river and making one of the finest inland waterways in the United States, it hardly seems right for the same government to throw aside the project already built for one of unknown possibilities and pay a large sum for the privilege of ownership. The St. Johns river is already government water and one of the finest inland waterways in the state. Use your influence in having it designated by the government as the Inland Waterway through Florida.

Mystery Club. The Mystery Club disbanded on Tuesday afternoon in a blaze of glory. Mrs. T. L. O'Connor entertaining the members and a number of other friends most agreeably. The Mystery has been one of the most congenial of the afternoon clubs that contributed its quota to the social life of Sanford during the summer, and it is with many regrets that the members of this lively little organization discontinue their pleasant meetings to take up the more formal pleasures and serious work of the winter months. The meeting at the home of Mrs. O'Connor was a real delight and full of interesting surprises. A guessing contest, "Planting," afforded much merriment and was the prolific source of many questions and queer answers. Mrs. LaVerne Hurt made an unusually clever guess, answering correctly the entire twenty questions. She was presented with a pair of dainty orchetted sachets. Attractive little favors for each guest were hand-painted bon bon boxes, containing chocolates. The artistic work in a variety of lovely flowers was done by the clever hostess herself. Punch was served throughout the afternoon and a delicious refreshment course at the refreshment hour. Enjoying the charming hospitality of Mrs. O'Connor were Mesdames W. J. On Wednesday afternoon at the respective homes of the brides occurred the marriages of two of the most popular girls of Sanford, that are surrounded with a cordial interest both here and elsewhere. A charming bit of sentiment prevailed in the wedding arrangements and subsequent plans of these life long young friends. Both weddings were pretty home affairs characterized by a charming simplicity. There were no attendants at either wedding, and only the families and intimate friends of the contracting couples were invited to witness the ceremony.

At two o'clock Miss Ruby, Katherine Betts was united in marriage to Mr. Robert Lee Rowe, Rev. George Hyman officiating, using the beautiful hymn ceremony. Alamanders were effectively used in the living room, where the marriage ceremony took place, and the details of the decorations were all carried out in a color scheme of yellow. In a corner of the room an arch of bamboo was erected, from which was suspended a big white wedding bell. Beneath this the young couple stood to be married.

In the reception hall in which the wedding presents were displayed, the white star jessamins, ferns and love's wreath harmoniously blended in graceful profusion.

Upon the dining table rested a lovely basket filled with roses and asparagus fern and tied with a huge bow of pink tulle.

The wedding music was played by Miss Margaret Davis. The bride entered the room with the groom to the strains of the wedding march. Continued on Page 8

SYNOPSIS.

The New York police are mystified by a series of murders and other crimes. The principal clue to the criminal is the warning letter which is sent the victims, signed with a "clutching hand." The latest victim of the mysterious assassin is Taylor Dodge, the insurance president. His daughter, Elaine, employs Craig Kennedy, the famous scientific detective, to try to unravel the mystery. What Kennedy accomplishes is told by his friend Jameson, a newspaper man.

After many fruitless attempts to put Elaine and Craig Kennedy out of the way the Clutching Hand is at last found to be none other than Perry Bennett, Elaine's lawyer and the man who is engaged to marry Bennett's fiancée, the daughter of one of his Chinese criminals. The Chinamen forces from Bennett the secret of the whereabouts of $7,000,000. Then he gives the lawyer a potion which will suspend animation for months. Kennedy reaches Bennett's side just after he has lost consciousness.

TWENTIETH EPISODE

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION.

Wu Fang sat at a table in his apartment, hidden behind the squalid and balconied exterior of a Chinatown tenement. Before him were a glass dish and a bottle, which contained several pills of phosphorus immersed in water, and a small capillary glass tube.

For a moment, however, he had laid aside the strange paraphernalia and was writing a note. As he finished he tapped a bell and silently a Chinese servant appeared in answer.

"Take this letter to that white woman, Inez," directed Wu, adding, "Give it to her yourself—and if she is there return with her."

The servant bowed and Wu returned to work on the curious machine he was devising.

He had completed his labors when his trusted lieutenant, Long Sin, entered.

"For what did the master summon me?" asked Long Sin, deferentially.

"Come here," beckoned Wu. "Behold this."

With a pair of tweezers he seized a small stick of the phosphorus under water and slowly brought it to the surface. Almost instantly the dangerous element burst into flame, giving off a dense white smoke.

"Here I have a capillary tube, as the white devils call it in their science," went on Wu, pointing out the glass tube. "By carefully bending it and arranging the outlet of the water I can set a fire anywhere at any time I choose."

Even while he was showing the devilish invention to Long Sin, his servant had sought the elaborately furnished apartment of the white woman to whom the note had been addressed.

She was an attractive young woman, known as Innocent Inez. Except for a certain coarseness, she strongly resembled Elaine, both in features and figure.

Inez turned languidly as her colored maid ushered in the servant of Wu, took the note and read it with interest.

"Well," she said with a sudden accession of energy, nodding at the same time to her negro maid to bring her hat and coat. "I will go with you."

Thus a few minutes later Inez entered the secret den of Wu Fang.

"Ah—this is the young woman," introduced Wu to Long Sin.

Carefully planning each detail down to the smallest possibility of need, Wu Fang and Long Sin completed their arrangements and, finally, with Inez left the apartment. On the street an automobile was waiting at the curb, while not far away two toughs from the neighborhood stood.

As the Chinamen and the woman came out Wu beckoned to the waiting roughnecks. "Come—get in—hively," he ordered.

They climbed into the car and the five criminals whirled rapidly downtown.

Kennedy had often been amused at my never having a match when I needed it, and it had occurred to him to devise a very novel cigarette lighter for my benefit.

It was simple enough, consisting of a small battery connected by small wires to one of a pair of thin links. One link had in its face a very fine wire, only a fraction of an inch long. To the link Craig had soldered the wires from the battery, and arranged them so that they ran up under his coat sleeve through the armhole of the vest to the battery, which he carried in his vest pocket.

He had just completed his work when he heard me coming and hastily drew on his coat.

"Well, what's new?" I greeted.

"Nothing in particular," he replied. "Have a cigarette?"

He handed his cigarette case to me and I took one. Then, unsuspecting, I began to search my pockets for a match, but, as usual, could not find one.

At last, half mockingly, he lighted his cigarette apparently on his cuff link.

"What new-fangled sort of thing is that?" I asked in surprise.

"I thought it might amuse you," he smiled, explaining the arrangement as he opened his vest and showed me how he made the electric connection by a mere pressure of his arm. "I'll give it to you some day."

Naturally I was delighted by the novelty of the thing.

Elaine was reading to Aunt Josephine in the library when, not long after Wu's car slid out of the maze of streets of Chinatown, it stopped a few blocks below the Dodge house. With Long Sin, Wu got out and assisted Inez out.

"Walk up the avenue—you know the house," he directed Inez; then, turning to the roughs inside the car, he added: "You will calculate to catch up with her directly in front of the house. After that, meet us just below, around the corner."

Wu and Long Sin quickly walked downtown again, while Inez went on up, followed shortly by the car with the two toughs.

Elaine had just finished the book and laid it down.

Suddenly, almost underneath the library window, she heard agonizing screams of "Help! Help!"

An instant later Jennings came rushing into the library from the hall and threw open the window to look out.

Inez had been just about to pass the house when Wu's car drove up and stopped. Without warning, apparently, two toughs had leaped out and seized her.

"Oh, they're trying to kidnap that poor girl!" cried Elaine, remembering her own terrible experience.

Jennings was out of the door in a moment followed by Elaine and Aunt Josephine in a great state of excitement.

But the moment the toughs saw aid coming from the Dodge house they ran to the car as if thoroughly frightened and drove away as swiftly as they had come, while Inez sank down on the sidewalk, seemingly overcome.

"Take her into the house, Jennings," directed Elaine, soothing Inez, who by this time had faked a perfectly convincing case of hysterics.

In the library, where she was placed in an easy chair, Elaine, her aunt, Marie and Jennings gathered about, while between smelling salts and cold water Inez weeping and trembling like the good actress that she was, managed to tell a pitiful story of how she was just a poor lady's maid who had lost her position and now was pursued on the streets by white slavers.

"Oh, please, miss, may I stay here a while till I feel better?" she pleaded. "Oh—if I could only work for you and the kind lady who is like a mother to me, she sobbed, turning from Elaine to her aunt.

It was a touching story, and it reached the hearts it was intended for.

"Don't worry; I'll see you through this affair," nodded Elaine, wiping away the girl's tears and smiling bravely at her. "Take her upstairs, Marie. She can find plenty to do in this big house, I'm sure."

Even while Inez was looking her thanks from her swollen teary eyes, already the car containing the toughs had drawn up around the lower corner, and Wu and Long Sin had taken the places of the thugs.

"Everything worked fine, master," reported the gunmen.

I had gone over to the apartment after Kennedy had perpetrated his little joke with the new cigarette lighter, and there I found several letters waiting for him.

Having nothing better to do, I decided to go back to the laboratory, where I left him at work, and take along the mail in case there might be something important in it for him.

I opened one or two letters, then came to one which I had laid on his desk in a plain envelope, addressed evidently in a disguised hand. It tore it open and read it with a scowl.

"Well, Walter, what do you think of that?" he remarked, tossing it over to me.

I read it in astonishment.

Another attempt is about to be made to kidnap Elaine Dodge.

A FRIEND.

I looked at him and shook my head blankly, while Craig took up the telephone and called the Dodge house.

"No one answers," he muttered, working the telephone hook up and down, "but I'm sure someone took off that receiver over there and tapped in. Operator—will you ring that number again?"

Unable to get any reply over the Dodge telephone, Kennedy thought a moment, then scrawled in his familiar hand on the bottom of the anonymous note, scrawled it in another envelope directed to Elaine, and called a messenger.

Inez, meanwhile, had transformed herself into a full-fledged maid, looking very pretty in her neat cap and apron, and making herself useful in a hundred ways about the Dodge house.

Without being obtrusive she was seldom out of hearing of the telephone, however, and it happened that at just the moment when Craig called up she was there to intercept the call, taking off the receiver, but not answering. Instead, she hung up and wedged the telephone bell with a piece of paper so that it would not ring at all.

"She was about to move away from the desk when Elaine entered the library.

"Didn't I hear the telephone bell ring?" she asked.

Inez was quick. "Yes," she replied, "my former mistress telephoned that she is sending my trunk today."

"Oh, very well," smiled Elaine, passing on through the library with an encouraging nod to the girl.

Inez had killed two birds with one stone. Not only had she disarmed suspicion about the interrupted call, but she had laid the foundation for the delivery of a trunk which at that moment she knew Wu and Long Sin were preparing and packing.

It was a large trunk, and in it the two wily Chinamen were packing a chair, as well as the phosphorus machine.

"Once Mistress Inez induces Elaine to sit in this chair," observed Wu, tapping it significantly as he closed the trunk, "half our work is completed."

Uptown Inez, always on guard, was watching for the safe arrival of the trunk, when she saw a messenger boy coming up the steps of the house.

"Perhaps, it flashed over her, it was some message from Kennedy. She must get it, whatever it was.

Without hesitating a moment she slipped back into the library while the boy was still at the door and wrote a note of her own at the desk. She had thought out beforehand just what plan she was to adopt and the note read:

Dear Miss Dodge:

The ladies of the First Baptist church will send a collector for our rummage sale this afternoon. We thank you for whatever you can give him.

Yours truly,
Miss Ella Burns,
Secretary, Woman's Guild.

Inez read over the note she had written herself as the messenger boy continued ringing the bell impatiently. Then she hurried into the hall to open the door.

The boy came in and Inez took the note he had brought, signing Elaine's name for it in his book. She had acted not a moment too soon, for Elaine had heard the bell and was now coming downstairs herself.

"Was it anything for me, Inez?" she asked.

Inez deftly palmed the letter and substituted the note she had written.

Elaine, down in the library, that she had done nothing yet about the letter from the Women's Guild.

"I wonder what there is upstairs that I can give them," she thought, as she re-read the letter. "I think I'll see."

She started up, just as Inez was leaving.

The adventuress in the attic heard Elaine coming and quickly slipped behind a door, letting Elaine pass her, without being seen.

In the attic Elaine started to take down and examine several dresses for the rummage sale, laying them aside one by one.

An attic is always a place that calls up memories of the past, and Elaine soon began to think of things that were suggested by one after another of the discarded dresses. Besides, some of them were scarcely worth sending, anyway. She sat down, absent, in the chair to think it over.

Suddenly a secret spring released a set of bands that automatically and swiftly clamped over Elaine's arms and about her body and neck, holding her in a grip of steel. At the same time a vapor bulb in the back of the chair shot out its smothering fumes, rendering her unconscious.

Elaine was caught in a trap.

Inez in silent exultation opened the attic door just a trifle. Then her slender hand reached in and took the key from the inside, shut the door and locked it from the outside.

Stealthily Inez crept downstairs from the attic and into Elaine's room. There, taking care that neither Marie nor Aunt Josephine was about, she opened the closet and took out the dress, coat and hat which Elaine had worn when she was kidnaped by Wu and stuffed them into a suitcase. Inez closed the suitcase quickly, threw on her own hat and coat and left the house unobserved.

Half an hour later she entered the opium joint on Mott street.

There were both Wu and Long Sin carefully examining a blonde wig made up as closely as possible to resemble the golden masses that were the crown of Elaine's beauty. Four or five other Chinamen sat and stood about at a respectful distance.

"Have you the clothes?" asked Wu, greeting Inez.

"Yes," she returned. "All has been done exactly as you ordered."

"Good," complimented Wu. "Then you may prepare yourself immediately."

In the meantime a second trap was Elaine's Double Receives the Note From Wu.

"Yes, ma'am," she replied, handing Elaine the faked note.

Elaine read it. "I didn't know about the rummage sale before," she commented, as she went into the library, "but I guess I'll have to give them something."

She sat down for a moment to look over a new fashion magazine. Outside in the hallway Inez was reading the note which the messenger boy had brought, with the warning postscript written by Kennedy underneath. She knew, as she destroyed it, that it was only a part of Wu's subtle plan to alarm Kennedy and start him on a false scent.

It was not many minutes later that the bell rang again, and this time Jennings answered the door, disclosing the expressman with a heavy trunk.

"Oh, I guess that's my trunk," Inez exclaimed. "May I have it taken up to the attic, out of the way?"

The men carried the big trunk upstairs into the attic, a large room full of trunks, some old furniture and a great many old dresses hanging up. As they sat it down she signed the receipt for it, and the expressman clumped downstairs.

For a moment she leaned over the railing and looked after them to make sure that she was alone, then hastily locked the door and ran back to the trunk to unlock it.

First she took out the chair, which Wu had devised and placed in the closet, hanging up. Next she removed the phosphorus mechanism and placed it in the shadow back of the chair, plugging up some excelsior, and other dry stuff over and around it.

Inez had scarcely completed her arrangements when it occurred to Wu that Kennedy would be prepared to warn Elaine was merely the first step in the entanglement.

"We were in the laboratory and Craig was at work testing some chemicals, about to pour a liquid from a beaker into a test tube. He paused, pointing both in his hands, listening. Outside we could hear what sounded like scratching at the door.

"Be quiet just a minute, Walter," whispered Craig, moving on tiptoe toward the door.

The fact was that a young Chinaman had crept up cautiously and was crouching there in a position like that of a runner about to start in a race. Actually he was merely waiting for Kennedy to open the door, but it looked as though he were listening.

As Craig threw open the door he started off like a racer, apparently dropping a piece of paper in his hurry.

I dashed out after him, while Craig stooped and picked up the paper, then stood gazing after us.

Down the hall the young Chinaman dashed until he came to the back entrance to the laboratory. There he turned and crouched again in the darkness.

A moment later I came after him. As I passed the door he seemed to rise up, unexpectedly and I stumbled headlong over him, almost stunned as I hit the floor. He rose again and criss-crossed around the corner of the building before I could pick myself up. It was of no use now to chase him further, and I limped back into the laboratory.

"He got away in spite of me," I managed to blurt out as I rejoined Kennedy in the hall. "What's that?"

"A note of some kind that he dropped," replied Craig, passing over to me the paper he had picked up. I read in English: "See what he is doing and report to me in the basement below 116 Mott street."

Beneath the few words, evidently orders, was that mystic sign of the serpent—the mark of the arch-criminal, Wu Fang.

"It's a clue, Craig!" I exclaimed. For a moment Craig said nothing, as he turned to go back into the laboratory. For some time he continued to study the note, as though revolving something in his mind.

"Whatever it is," he remarked at length, "I'm going to look into it, anyhow. While I'm gone, Walter, I wish you'd just go around and see if Elaine is all right."

At last Kennedy sauntered in casually to the hop joint on Mott street, his collar still up and his hat still over his eyes.

He lounged across the floor among the smokers and picked out a bunk, while Hop Sing, the proprietor, brought him a pipe. Kennedy pretended to light it, but in reality did not.

In the back room, by this time, Inez had completed her disguise by placing on her head the wig and had given the little finishing touches to her make-up. Wu was giving final instructions to Long Sin and the rest, and the four Chinamen ranged themselves in groups of two on either side of the door.

Finally Wu paused and whispered something to Inez. Then both he and Long Sin seized two glass globes that stood on the table. They raised them high over their heads and smashed them on the floor, at the same time stamping their feet terrifically. Inez screamed as if a murder were being committed.

Outside in the den Kennedy heard the scream and the crashing of glass, muffled by the door. He straightened up in his bunk, now all attention.

Was it some white woman calling for help in this sinkhole of iniquity?

The door flew open. Sure enough, a woman appeared, still screaming, and did not even get across the threshold. With a low guttural exclamation Long Sin pulled her back into the room and slammed the door she had opened.

It was all done so quickly that Kennedy could catch only the most fleet glimpses of her clothes and features that glimpe he saw enough.

It was apparently Elaine!

Craig sprang up instantly drawing his revolver, and threw himself against the door, recollecting the warning message that had come through the mail.

The door yielded and he rushed through in an instant the four Chinamen crouching on either side leaped on him.

The struggle was terrific. He downed two and seemed in a fair way to win against even such odds, when the disguised Inez turned with a mocking laugh, pulling off both the hat and wig.

Kennedy's amazement gave the Chinamen a chance. Before he realized it in his complete surprise, he was forced back on the post and held there just long enough for Long Sin to wind a rope around him, binding his arms, legs and body to the post.

Then Wu Fang walked over before him and faced him.

"Come over here, my dear," he called to Inez. "Let me introduce Prof. Craig Kennedy to you—Innocent Inez."

By the way," he went on to Inez, "how did you leave the real Elaine?"

Inez looked at her watch. "She is locked in her attic," she replied with evident enjoyment. "The house will start to burn by spontaneous combustion in exactly twenty minutes."

Upstairs in the attic of the Dodge house Elaine, in the queer chair, was just recovering a bit from the effects of the vapor.

Still, as the minutes lengthened she began to breathe more regularly as the stupefying effects of the vapor wore off, and was just beginning to move her head in the first unconscious endeavors to grasp at consciousness.

It must have been just at this point that, following Kennedy's instructions, I arrived at Elaine's house.

As Jennings led me into the library I was met by Aunt Josephine.

"Craig has gone off on a clip," I explained, "and has asked me to drop in to see how things are. Is Elaine all right?"

"Why, I haven't seen her for an hour or more," answered Aunt Josephine. "I think she must have gone out. Won't you sit down?"

There was nothing else to do. On the chance that she might come back, I sat down, considerably worried now, about the note and her absence.

Upstairs, if we had only known it, Elaine had now regained consciousness.

Worse than that, the time was up for the water to be drained off the phosphorus.

As the last drop was siphoned off the vessel by the capillary tube, the deadly element seemed to burst into flames and white fumes. Instantly the dry underlie excelsior and other stuff caught fire.

Helpless, tied to the post, Kennedy had not ceased struggling to free himself, though without avail.

Suddenly an idea occurred to him. He gazed down at his hands and wrists. Suppose they were not free? Was there no way to use them?

Slowly he turned his arm around until the outside of his wrist pressed on a rope. Then he drew his upper arm tight to his side, still with his wrist pressing on the rope.

His heart fairly leaped. It worked! The cuff link which he had devised as a cigarette lighter was a joke on me was burning the rope.

Then he pulled at the weakened ropes as he had before in his futile struggles.

They broke.

Just on the other side of the door he could hear the low buzz of the argument as Long Sin urged Wu to allow him to kill Kennedy.

"Very well, then," Wu at last agreed, looking at his watch and nodding to Long Sin and the others who sprang forward.

Free from his bonds, Kennedy had been standing a second wondering how to escape from the room. Just then he heard footsteps outside. Quickly he replaced the ropes about him so that they looked as if he were still bound by them.

The door opened, and Wu and Long Sin entered, each with a knife, which he held in his right hand.

Wu advanced. Slowly he raised his knife to strike.

"The white girl is slowly being buried to death," he hissed, brandishing the knife. "The allotted time is spent."

As he poised the knife in fiendish glee, Kennedy leaped forward from his hunched bonds and knocked him to the floor.

So unexpected was the assault that before he knew it Long Sin was also sprawling beside his master.

Craig seized the only weapon at hand, a taborer, and brought it down with smashing blows on the heads of the other astounded and unnerved Chinamen.

Once on the street, even in China town, he was safe.

But it was not his own safety now that had moved up his strength to escape from the unescapable.

Was he in time?

"I think I had better go back to the laboratory and wait for Craig," I said at last to Aunt Josephine after waiting for a time that seemed like hours. "Please let me know the moment you hear from Elaine."

I was about to turn from the foot of the steps to the Dodge house, when a taxicab came dashing up almost on the sidewalk urged on by some maniac inside. Imagine my surprise to see Craig, wild and dishevelled, leap out.

Is Elaine here—safe?" he demanded.

"She isn't home," I managed to reply.

"Are you sure?" he repeated. "Did you search?"

He uttered a sudden cry, pointing up at the roof.

"Look!" he gasped horrified.

I stared in blank amazement. Smoke was pouring out of the attic windows in dense black columns, lighted by an angry flame.

"Fire!" shouted Kennedy, dashing instantly into the house.

As we mounted the stairs now we could hear muffled screams from the attic.

Smoke was pouring out from under the door, and even through the key-hole. Jennings had heard Kennedy's call and was now dashing up after us with a fire extinguisher. Back of him came Aunt Josephine and Elaine's maid, Marie, screaming for help.

Like a humming battering ram we went through that door. A sheet of flame shot out at us with the draft. But Kennedy stopped for nothing.

There was Elaine in a chair which the devilish mind of Wu Fang had devised to imprison her while the flames lapped at her beauty and life. Instantly Craig understood and acted.

"Carry her out!" he cried, gasping for breath himself.

The door was seized the chair and its precious burden. Not a moment too soon we set the chair down outside in the hall, ourselves scorched and blistered.

It was as though Craig had accepted the challenge of the fiery monster. He seized the extinguisher from Jennings and attacked the flames.

By this time Jennings, Marie and Aunt Josephine had succeeded in unfastening Elaine, as our sudden onslaught with chemicals and force brought the fire demon under control.

"Are you—all right?" gasped Craig, stooping over Elaine as she leaned back half-fainting in his arms.

"Are you?" she murmured heroically, forgetting her own hurts in her fear for him.

"Are You All Right?" Gasped Craig

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Music was played softly throughout the ceremony.

The bride was married in a handsome coat suit of dark blue wool poplin, cut military fashion and finished with black braid and buttons, the black velvet collar a chic finish. With this was worn a stunning black velvet toque with white and black ornament. A cream lace blouse completed the stylish costume. At the waist was worn a corsage bouquet of bride roses.

The sweet and winsome young bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Betts. She possesses a charm of manner that has endeared her to a large circle of friends.

The groom holds a responsible position in the office of M. F. Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowe left on the afternoon train for Norfolk and other points in Virginia.

Out of town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Betts of Winter Park.

Connelly-Getzen

The marriage of Miss Linda Evans Connelly to Mr. Thomas Getzen was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents at half past two o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Geo. Hyman officiating.

Here too the house decorations were very lovely. In the reception hall vines of the white star jessamine in flower was entwined in the balustrade and used effectively in the overhead decorations, intermingled with quantities of the pin vine.

The ceremony was performed in the parlor amid the pretty charm of ferns and roses. The mantel and fireplace were banked with ferns with quantities of the asparagus plumosa trailing in graceful profusion, over walls and doorways.

The dining room where refreshments were served was charmed with quantities of asparagus spengerea and roses. Upon the table which was covered with a handsome luncheon cloth in drawn work stood an immense cut glass vase filled with a variety of exquisite roses. In this room the wedding gifts were displayed.

Miss Ouida Getzen, sister of the groom rendered a program of music. To the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin the bride descended the stairs with her father, Mr. H. B. Connelly, and was met by the groom at the door of the living room. During the ceremony, "O Thou Sublime Sweet Evening Star" was softly played and "at the close Mendelssohn's wedding march.

Miss Connelly was a charming, attractive bride in her travelling suit of tailored duck like wool poplin, which was worn with a dainty blouse of satin, to pink crepe de chine and cream lace. The pretty black velvet hat, with slightly rolling brim, smartly turned up at the left side was finished with a handsome beaded ornament. She carried a bouquet of bride roses.

A pretty feature of the wedding was the throwing of the bride's bouquet among the nine girl friends of the bride. It was caught by Miss Clarissa Stirling.

Mrs. Getzen is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Connelly, a girl loved and admired by friends and associates.

Mr. Getzen is a popular conductor of the Atlantic Coast Line.

Out of town guests for the wedding were Miss Ouida Getzen of Oxford, sister of the groom; Miss Eugenia Maulden of Washington, D. C., a cousin of the bride and Mr. M. Crown from Jacksonville.

Other guests were the girls from the "gang," life long chums of Mrs. Getzen and the immediate relatives and close friends of the families.

Mr. and Mrs. Getzen left immediately after the ceremony for New York, where the honeymoon will be spent.

The two young couples will reside together on Laurel avenue, north of Ninth.

Notice to Drivers

The parkway in front of the Herald office has been replanted in St. Augustine grass. It was killed out before by the careless drivers horses, mules and goats who seem to think they can pasture their stock on this place. It is being eaten off again by the same stock and if it is continued the drivers of the teams will be arrested and there is no city ordinance that will give them a jail sentence there should be one. There are other complaints over the city on this same offense and the city officials should see that it is stopped.

SANFORD Y. M. C. A. CHARTER LIST IS GROWING RAPIDLY

STATE ASSOCIATION OFFERS HELP AND INDUCEMENT TO ORGANIZATION

Let every public spirited and Christian spirited and any other spirited citizen be at the Imperial Theatre Tuesday night, Oct. 19th—that is next Tuesday night—don't forget. Sanford people are going to organize a Young Men's Christian Association, and the people want everybody in Sanford and Seminole county to be there.

The committee on securing charter members have been doing a good work and for the past few days have been buying and now there are more than thirty of our leading young men on the charter list, and among these leading young men are those of business and profession, those of trades and laborers and those that call themselves as farmers, in fact every walk in life is now represented on the charter list, and the committee say there are over a hundred that have promised to join in the next two months.

Now this means that every one must do his share and that every person must be at the Imperial Theatre Tuesday, Oct. 19th. The committee on entertainment have arranged to have a number of good speakers at this meeting—men that are public spirited and that are up on Y. M. C. A. affairs and men that are able to give any information necessary, and further than that, men who are entertainers within themselves. After the regular program has been disposed of there will be an open meeting and any one there is at liberty and has the right to speak right out in the meeting and express himself. So be there and let the folks hear from you.

A letter from O. E. Maple, the secretary of the state Y. M. C. A. offers much help and assistance in the matter of organization, this letter will be read in full from the stage of the Imperial. Be there Tuesday, Oct. 19th at night and join the movement.

Prof. Nehling of Gotha was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wight.

BUILDING IN JACKSONVILLE COLLAPSED

Jacksonville, Oct. 12.—One man dead and two are perhaps fatally injured as a result of the collapsing of the new addition being constructed for the Elks Club just north and to the rear of the main building, shortly after 11 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The dead man is Boice McGhee, a negro, who was employed as a plasterer. The injured were George Ray, white, and a negro laborer named Simpson. Several others were imprisoned in the debris but these were soon extricated by the fire department and members of the police department who had been rushed to the scene by a large number of volunteers. According to information secured by Fire Chief Haney, all of the men at work on the building had been accounted for, but several laborers and others were of the opinion that several were imprisoned beneath the brick which fell when the west wall fell in. The annex to the Elks building had been in course of construction some weeks and a large number of men were employed on the work. It is believed that the cause of the collapse was in a defective foundation, but the exact cause has not been ascertained.

Football Season Starts Friday

Next Friday, Oct. 16th the local football season will open by the Sanford High School in a game against the Kissimmee High School, on the local gridiron, Holden Park. The boys of the High School, under the direction of Prof. Hutchinson have been putting in some hard practice and are confident that they will carry off the honors this season. The boys have a good team this season and have been in hard practice since before the opening of the present school year. The game Friday will be called at 3:30. It is hoped that the people of Sanford and vicinity will turn out at this first game and root for their home team. Admission 15 and 25c.

THE CANAL A SAD DISAPPOINTMENT

The Herald has heretofore commented on the disappointment the Panama Canal, with its slides and cave-ins has thus far proved itself to be, and has speculated as to the possibility of the government making a serious and costly mistake from similar causes on a small scale, if it could ever be brought about that the Florida East Coast Canal should be purchased and made a part of the Maine to Key West Inland Waterway. The below, from the Jacksonville Times-Union is right to the point in proof of the practicability of the natural St. Johns route, rather than the excavating and filling East Coast Canal.

The canal has been officially completed and turned over to the use of commerce, but the end is not yet, and the worst of it is we do not know when the cost of the canal will cease and it will become a reliable waterway. The last slide was the worst, and the engineer in charge recommends the closing of the canal for the balance of the current month, because he thinks it will be impossible to remove the slide before the first of November, if by that time.

Canal officials think eventually the danger of the slides will be overcome. "Eventually" is an indefinite word with an ominous sound. It may mean that the slides will be overcome this year or next or in ten years. Surely, if they keep up for many years, Cuba will widen out into a lake and quit sliding, but in the mean time the Panama route will not be a desirable one for commerce and the cost of clearing it will add immensely to the original cost of the canal.

Vessels will use the Suez canal, even if the route through it is somewhat longer, because of the fact that it can be relied on. It is much better to take a route a little longer than run the risk in choosing another of finding it closed after miles of the voyage have been made only to find that they have to be retraced.

World's Series in Sanford

The World's "series" is on again and Philadelphia and Boston are working for the championship. Any one in Sanford these afternoons would think that all the people here either lived in Philadelphia or Boston, for the excitement at the Imperial Theatre is almost as great as it is in those cities where the "serious" is actually taking place. Manager Herndon of the Imperial and LaVerne Hart with their customary progressiveness would not listen to letting the games go by without a look in and having inaugurated the usual matinee every day at one o'clock and with the electric score board the plays are made almost as realistic as the real thing being enacted a thousand miles north of Sanford.

The Bostonians have won two games and Philadelphia one and the local fans are fanning every hour here about the eventual results of the games. If Philadelphia wins today's game there will be some excitement tomorrow but if Boston gets today's game all will be over and the boys are hoping that Boston will win today, if for no other reason than prolonging the excitement. Go to the Imperial and help the boys along in this enterprise.

FACTS AND FIGURES ABOUT FLORIDA AS INFORMATION

STATEMENT COMPILED BY THE MANUFACTURERS RECORD IS MOST FAVORABLE TO STATE

The following simply stated facts in the Manufacturers Record make additional comment unnecessary: Report of the Commissioner of Agriculture for the years 1913-14 contains a record of advancement rarely equalled and of interest to many. These figures answer numerous questions arising in the minds of prospective homemakers and investors. They tell the truth about the actual live conditions in this state of wonders, with its variety of soil and agricultural production, where the possibilities for future advancement and extension of profitable endeavor attract so many.

The value of all farm products: 1909-10, $56,712,734. 1913-14, $83,937,135. Increase, $27,250,000. Now, observe some of the items which go to make up this advancement:

Fruit products: 1909-10, $5,905,727. 1913-14, $13,447,435. Increase, $7,500,000. And by comparison it is seen that this increase is steady and consistent, as the value for 1911-12 was $10,025,163. These figures afford direct proof of the citrus fruit advancement, and, consequently, the proof that here is the citrus center of the United States.

Live stock raising and dairy products show gratifying increases and are typical of the various profitable pursuits which can be made sources of wealth:

Live stock value: 1909-10, $23,967,501. 1913-14, $29,541,931. Increase, $5,500,000. Dairy products: 1909-10, $2,851,479. 1913-14, $4,130,925. Increase, $1,250,000.

For many years its large open ranges were profitable. The breeding of better stock—cattle tick eradication the growing of the many varieties of economically produced cattle foods on its variable lands, with 350 days growing season, has given this industry an added attraction, which bids fair to become one of the foremost in the state. The splendid efforts of the experiment station at Gainesville, liberal transportation arrangements for dairy products, and the awakening of the people to its values are factors of interest in observing this path of advancement. Cheap lands combined with cheap cows for foundation stock made it possible to start in the south with an outlay of far less capital than in most other sections of the country.

The summer climate of Florida is equable. The extremes are lacking. You can find it pleasurable and profitable to make use of the reasonable priced homeseekers' rates and make your selection during the coming months.

The ridiculousness of "carrying coals to Newcastle," which said city is situated in the midst of a famous coal mining district appears to be a very mild piece of stupidity compared with the shipment into Florida of millions of dollars worth of pork and beef every year. It has proven beyond all doubt that both pork and beef of satisfactory quality can be produced in Florida cheaper than in any other section of our great country, but Floridians have been a long time waking up to the realization of the fact and the necessity of adjusting the operations of the Florida farm thereto. The adverse weather conditions as to the production of high priced truck crops during the past two years, however, together with the one general unfavorable market conditions, is doing much to bring this "consumption so devoutly to be wished," and in order to do our part in hastening a saner attitude of the Florida farmer toward hogs and pork and cattle and beef as well as to give the prospective homeseeker from the north some idea of how much easier it is to produce pork and beef here than there, we quote in this and the adjoining column some interesting correspondence found recently in the Tampa Times.

"When a Gainesville shipper a few days ago forwarded a car load of hogs from that town to a packing house in Georgia, the incident was considered worthy of a place in the news columns of newspapers throughout the state.

While the fact that a shipment of this character should be the subject of news dispatches and editorial comment is in a degree humiliating, it is true also that, not despising the day of small beginnings, it ought to be a source of inspiration and gratification.

Florida has shipped a car load of hogs to another state for slaughter, and they were pretty good porkers by the way, of an average weight of 200 pounds, just the size and quality to make a streak of fat and a streak of lean which is sought by those who cure and prepare the breakfast bacon which pleases the appetite of the epicure who dotes on side meat and baked beans.

Directly beyond the city limits of Bradenton, an old settler owns a pen of hogs of Jersey red variety, which would be eligible to enter in any sweepstakes class at a county fair in the west. They were produced on the nutritious grasses which grow in profusion all about him, on the products of the small tract of ground cultivated there and at a large profit.

INSTANTLY KILLED BY AN AUTOMOBILE

Apopka, Oct. 11.—At about 7 o'clock Saturday night B. W. Hull, sixty-two years old, a resident of Apopka and that section for twenty-eight years, was struck by an automobile driver by an unknown party just within the city limits of Apopka, on the Apopka-Orlando road and was killed instantly.

Whoever hit the man drove on and left him to his cruel fate. When discovered by Mrs. O. W. Conner of Tangerine, first, and a few minutes later by Leslie Waite of Apopka, who were returning to their home from Orlando, the dead man was lying face downward in a pool of blood, his head was smashed to a pulp and unrecognizable, his body was still warm, and for the moment it seemed as though life was still coursing through the mangled frame of the old, unfortunate gentleman. Hull had been visiting his brother, S. M. Hull, who lives within 150 yards of the scene of the tragedy. He stepped out of his brother's house, and it is supposed he was blinded by the lights of the approaching death-dealing automobile.

CHICAGO HAS SUN-DAY CLOSING LAW

Chicago, Oct. 12.—The closing of Chicago's 7,182 saloons Sunday, for the first time in forty-four years, resulted in the city, passing with the latest crime record in the history of the police department, Chief Haeley announced. Twenty-eight saloons were found violating the closing order. There were only sixteen arrests for drunkenness yesterday, and forty-seven Saturday, compared to an average of 243 for the two days for several months past. $8000 keepers claim to have lost $400,000.

Mr. Hyman in Dade City. There is being conducted in the city of Dade City this week an Institute along Church Development lines. There are a number of prominent speakers on the program of instruction. Among them is Rev. George Hyman, pastor of the Baptist church of this city, who is to deliver six addresses on organization. Mr. Hyman for a long time has studied this question and for three years worked as a specialist for the Baptists as Field Secretary, assisting children.

CHEAP RATES TO PRESS MEET IN JACKSONVILLE

A. C. L. AND CLYDE LINE HAVE MADE VERY ATTRACTIVE OFFER

The result was to a considerable extent the depletion of Florida's supply, an increased price for the cattle which remained on her ranges and the calling of attention to the money to be made in raising cattle. Since that time more and more men have gone into the cattle business, some of them the state's best men, men of foresight, who have put cattle raising on more of a business basis, who have paid some attention to improving the grade of cattle, who have raised the level of prices to that of the west. And since

This will make effective from all interior Florida points, rates via Jacksonville and the Clyde Line, differentially under all rail rates, in cents per box as follows:

Table with 3 columns: City, C. L., C. L. Rates listed for New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Providence, and Fall River.

Special Handling: Inspectors, who have had thorough experience in the handling of perishables are employed for the purpose of seeing that all fruit is carefully handled and properly stowed in ships so as to give the best ventilation. All bulked packed fruit is positively stowed on side.

Ventilation. All ships have been recently equipped with the most modern system of forced ventilation which is capable of changing the air in the fruit compartments every ten minutes and will insure all perishables reaching destination in a most satisfactory condition and with a large saving in freight charges. Soliciting your shipments, I am, Yours very truly, L. S. Seible, Commercial Agent.

Ramsay in Charge

G. R. Ramsay, the expert road engineer, who was employed at a salary said to be $10,000 a year to superintend the building of the system of hard surfaced roads in Orange county, will oversee the building of the first county built brick road in Ocala county.

The board of county commissioners by resolution at their meeting held Monday agreed to his proposition to handle the work for 8 1/2 per cent of the contract and Chairman Lesley was authorized to sign a contract with him for the work. Engineer Ramsay is one of the most famous road engineers in the country and road contractors know that when he is on the job every item of the work must be up to the specifications. He will have the use of the Orange county testing machine and will test all brick before they go into the pavement.

This action of the commissioners was taken on the advice of Chairman Lesley, who stated that he would rather the work could be handled by some local man, but that for the best interests of the county he felt that a man of experience such as Mr. Ramsay should be employed. "Every county in Florida," said Mr. Lesley, "has the reputation of having squandered the first money it spent for hard surfaced roads. We want to escape this reputation in Ocala county and for that reason, I believe we should have a man of experience to see that we get all that we pay for."—Immokalee Valley Gazette.

A. C. L. AND CLYDE LINE HAVE MADE VERY ATTRACTIVE OFFER

The railroads and the Clyde Line have met the Press Association meeting in Jacksonville nobly and make the very low rates of $5.25 round trip on the A. C. L. Ry. from Sanford and the Clyde Line makes the extremely low rate of $5.75 for the round trip which includes the berth and meals. This is indeed gratifying to the newspaper men of this section and as the rates have been made very low over the state there will be many hundreds take advantage of this rate and go by boat and rail.

Here in Sanford the trip by boat appeals to the folks from this entire section as there is nothing finer than the St. Johns river trip from this city to Jacksonville and the extremely low rate will cause many other people than the editors to take advantage of the cheap rates and visit Jacksonville for the three days.

Those who have but little time will take the trains and also enjoy a few days in the metropolis.

The excursion rates will start on Wednesday and are good returning until Monday the 19th. The occasion is the meeting of the combined press associations of Florida in Jacksonville for three days and also the national guard rifle matches at Black Point. This is the time to take advantage of the low rates and visit Jacksonville in the best time of the year.

Congregational C. E. Notes

This society held its usual meeting Sunday evening at 6:30 under the able leadership of Miss Clarice Hand. In addition to the usual features the Misses Ellen Randall and Margaret Strong sang a duet with feeling and artistic effect. Another Endeavorer recited that beautiful poem "My Creed" by Emma Dee Randle who, by the way, will be heard at the Lyceum Course to be held this coming season at the Baptist Temple.

Next Sunday Mrs. Harry Kent will be the leader. All are welcome.

Morr Fine Apples

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Davison received a shipment of fine apples this week from their Connecticut friends and with their usual generosity scattered some of them among their friends here. The editor of The Herald received some fine apples of the Greening variety that makes pies fit for a king. Connecticut apples must all be good ones, for 'tosses received here this fall are beauties.

LITTLE GIRL WAS BITTEN BY RATTEN

Little Minnie Beck, the five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Beck while picking guavas at the home of her grandfather, A. F. Westerdick was bitten by a rattlesnake on her foot. It was a very close call and for several days she lay in a very critical condition, but her many friends are glad to know she is now slowly recovering, under the skillful treatment of Dr. Neal.

Funeral of Jesse Morrison

The funeral of Jesse Morrison occurred from the old home at Barberville last Friday and was attended by many of his friends in Seminole and Volusia counties. Those attending from this city were: Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Mahoney, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Britt, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Betts, Mrs. Ernest Betts, Miss Daisy Betts, A. R. Key, W. I. Tyler, Norman Swanson, R. R. Deas, Ed. Rourke, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Keely. He was buried in the family burial lot at Barberville, beside his father and mother. The floral offerings were very pretty, attesting to the love and esteem in which he was held by his many friends. Rev. George Hyman of this city preached the funeral sermon.
