Barbour gets five year term

ORLANDO — An Orlando man who described himself as "an anarchist" was sentenced to five years in prison Wednesday by a federal court judge for threatening to kill President Clinton.

Ronald Gene Barbour, 49, was sentenced by U.S. District Judge Anne C. Conway to the maximum prison term allowed by law which will be followed by three years of supervised release. In May, a federal court jury convicted Barbour of threatening to kill the president.

At the sentencing, Barbour, a Rollins College graduate who also served in U.S. Army Intelligence, asked the judge to dismiss his public defender for political reasons. He gave a rambling speech containing government criticisms on topics ranging from abortion to the dysfunction of the federal government during World War II. Barbour suffers from manic depression but was declared competent to stand trial.

A tip to the Secret Service in Orlando led the investigation and subsequent arrest of Barbour. Clinton was in Europe when Barbour reportedly traveled to Washington D.C. allegedly to carry out his threats.

School's overhaul

At-risk students will find new focus at Crooms

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The face of things is changing at the end of 13th Street. The Crooms School of Choice, behind a chain link and barbed wire fence, will be taking on a softer look in the near future.

As renovations to the aging school take place behind the walls of the classrooms, gymnasium, cafeteria and administration/guidance building, the old fence will be coming down and a brick and cast iron fence like the one that surrounds Sanford Middle School will be erected in its place.

"It is the same in terms of security," said principal Karen Coleman, "but I think it is so much more pleasant to look at."

Coleman, who just took over as principal of the school last month, said the fence replacement was to be a part of the third phase of the three part renovation, but she asked that it be done first when she came on board.

Rollover fuels ticket sales

By SANDRA ELLIOTT

SANFORD — Floridians are spending more on extra dollars here and some spare change there pumping up this week's estimated LOTTO grand prize to $31 million.

Lottery Secretary Marcia Mann announced in Tallahassee Wednesday a sharp increase in ticket sales bumped the estimated prize from $29 million to $31 million after no one matched the winning numbers for two consecutive weeks.

"Yes, we've seen an increase in LOTTO sales," said Chuck Martin, store manager of the North French Avenue 7-11. "I would say our sales are up about 12 percent on lottery." He added sales have also increased on the instant game scratch-off lottery tickets.

More shoppers at a local grocery store are also stopping by the lottery ticket counter in hopes of buying that lucky LOTTO ticket.

Lake Mary fine-tunes budget tonight

By NICK PFEIFER
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — City commissioners, staff, audience, and persons watching on cable TV will learn more about the proposed fiscal year 1994/95 Lake Mary budget tonight.

The annual reading of the budget message by City Manager John Litton is scheduled for early in tonight's city commission meeting.

Going into tonight's commission meeting however, there is no immediate assurance that the budget, as presently drawn up, will be approved without possibly adding some expenditures. This may also affect whether the millage rate would remain unchanged, or be forced to be increased.

The possibility of an added expense is because of the concerns voiced by a large group of citizens last month, over beautification plans for East Lake Mary Boulevard, Phase II of the widening is presently underway from Country Club Road, east, to U.S. Highway 17-92. Of that area, slightly more than a mile of the boulevard is actually in Lake Mary city limits, with the remaining area in either City of Sanford or Seminole County jurisdiction.

The commission admitted that no major budget item had been established for beautification of the Lake Mary portion, and indicated that such expense could be given consideration prior to the final budget approval.

Litton's budget message was originally scheduled for the July 21 meeting, but was placed last on the agenda, and due to the extended length of the meeting, no time was available for the budget message.

Commissioners recommended the message be held over until near the beginning of the next meeting (tonight), so that all citizens would have an opportunity to hear it.

Commissioner Gary Brender urged citizens who did not attend the meeting to watch it on cable TV. In Lake Mary, TCI Cable carries the city commission meeting on Channel 9.

At the last meeting however, the commission did approve a tentative millage rate of 3.6991, rather than 3.7648 as Litton had recommended. Until the final budget is approved, the city has made it a practice to begin with a slightly higher

Circuit judge candidate would make victims a part of process

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — As a private practitioner for most of his legal career, Dean F. Mosley has worked in the area of criminal and civil litigation.

Mosley is a candidate for Circuit Court Judge in the Eighteenth Judicial Circuit which encompasses Seminole and Brevard counties.

"I have been concerned for some time now about the perception of justice in the Eighteenth Judicial Circuit as I am concerned about justice everywhere," the 35-year old candidate said. "It is particularly disturbing in its present state because the judiciary seems to have forgotten the people it serves."

"Being a former prosecutor, I know how important it is to make victims a part of the judicial process so that their concerns are heard," he added. "It is also important to demand that parents take part in the juvenile justice process. By making victims and parents a part of the system our judiciary becomes more responsible."

The Altamonte Springs attorney said as a judge, he would work to preserve rights guaranteed by the Constitution, especially the First and Fourth Amendments. Mosley said he would also ensure victims are given the opportunity to be heard, not only about what impact the crime had on them but also during the judicial process, informing them of plea offers and recommended sentences.

Famous stowaway gets jail sentence

FORT LAUDERDALE — The Colombian teen-ager who made national headlines when he claimed he flew to the United States in an airplane's wheel well has pleaded no contest to unrelated theft charges.

Jose Guzman, 18, was sentenced to 71 days in jail — the time he has already served — and, as a convicted felon, ordered out of the country Wednesday.

Guzman was arrested on April 18 at Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport as he tried to purchase airline tickets with a stolen credit card.

In June 1993, Guzman claimed he came to Miami from his hometown of Cali in the wheel well of an Arca Airlines DC-8. Immigration officials were skeptical such a voyage could have been possible.

He was shipped back to Colombia that July but returned in December on a flight from Bogota to New York City, and said he took a bus to Miami. Immigration officials also were unsure that story was true.

Man arrested in execution-style murders

MIRAMAR — A man suspected in the execution-style slayings of a popular bar manager and two young women has surrendered to authorities.

Seth Manolo Penalver, 23, of Fort Lauderdale, was charged with three counts of felony murder, armed burglary and armed robbery in the June 26 killings at the home of Casimir Sucharaki, owner of Casey's Nickelodeon in Hallandale.

"The only apparent motive we have right now is robbery," Detective Ray Black said Wednesday.

Sucharaki, 48, the owner of Casey's Nickelodeon in Hallandale, was fatally shot in the back of the neck. Aspiring models Sharon Anderson and Marie Rogers, both 25, were also shot to death at close range.

Teenager can evict parents

EDGEWATER — A court order issued to a 16-year-old girl gives her the power to evict her parents from their home.

Crystal Courtney says she sought the court order because she was tired of her parents' arguments and brushes with the law. Courtney says all she wants is a normal life. The order was granted late Monday.

"I love my parents to death, considering that I lived with them all my life," she said. "I never thought I'd have the guts to do this. It just works up inside of you until it hurts."

The order, signed by Circuit Judge John Doyle of Daytona Beach, would kick her parents out of their home at least until Aug. 16, if Crystal wanted to live there. But for now, the girl wants nothing to do with her parents or their house. She is living with a friend.

Land donated to deer refuge

BIG PINE KEY — The maze of building regulations in the Florida Keys has convinced a developer to drop his plans to build a home and small hotel, and donate his 137-acre plot of land to a federal deer refuge.

"I don't need it. And I have enough money to last me forever," said John V. Howard, 78, of Miami Beach. "I thought it would be nice to be altruistic."

Officials with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, which manages the National Key Deer Refuge in the Lower Keys, said they were delighted with the donation.

"It's pretty amazing," said Jon Andrew, head of federal wildlife refuge in the Keys. "It's a great really good deed."

State and federal officials have been buying land on Big Pine Key to preserve the only home of the diminutive subspecies of the Virginia white-tailed deer.

Most years, the federal government buys between 50 and 100 acres on Big Pine Key. Last year, the refuge received no money to buy land. The state so far has bought 70 acres on Big Pine Key for preservation.

Toddler crosses busy highway

MERRITT ISLAND — Officials were looking closely at ABC School here, a day after a 2-year-old left undetected and walked home alone, crossing a major highway by herself.

Ashmia Jay was not hurt on the sojourn. A witness reported the toddler stopped, looked both ways, then waited for a break in rush-hour traffic before crossing heavily-traveled Courtney Parkway.

She reached home just as her startled mother, Mia Jay, arrived home.

The owner of the center, Ginger Jordan, said officials of the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services paid her a visit Tuesday after Ashmia slipped out with a family taking home seven other children.

"HRS came in yesterday and said we needed to put a self-locking latch on the entrance gate," Jordan said Wednesday. "Now, you can only open it from the outside, so the kids can't pull it in."

FBI investigating possible conspiracy

Several anti-abortion militants listed on report

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The FBI is investigating a possible conspiracy to commit violence at abortion clinics by a number of anti-abortion militants. The New York Times reported today.

All 56 FBI field offices received a confidential teletype on Saturday, the day after a doctor and a volunteer escort were shot to death outside a Pensacola women's clinic, the paper said.

Several well-known anti-abortion activists were listed in the teletype, including Rev. David C. Trosch, Michael Bray, C. Roy McMillan, Matthew Trewhella, David Crane and Donald Spitz, the paper reported, adding that the individuals had all signed the "justifiable homicide" declaration that recently circulated among anti-abortion militants. The declaration reportedly supported killing doctors who perform abortions.

Trosch, a Roman Catholic priest in Mobile, Ala., who has been suspended by the church for advocating killing abortion doctors, told the paper that there is no such conspiracy.

"There is absolutely no conspiracy by anyone. I'm sure of it," Trosch was quoted as saying.

But Attorney General Janet Reno, whose Justice Department oversees the FBI, asked the bureau's director, Louis Freeh, to set the investigation in motion just hours after Friday's shotgun slayings outside a Pensacola, Fla., abortion clinic. Dr. John Bayard Britton, 69, and his escort, James Barrett, 74, were shot to death as Britton arrived for work Friday. Barrett's wife, June, was wounded in the attack.

Over the weekend, federal marshals were dispatched to clinics around the country to provide a measure of protection to clinic workers.

In its investigation, the FBI is using information provided by abortion rights groups such as the National Organization for Women, Planned Parenthood and the National Abortion Federation, the paper said.

Investigators are to use techniques including surveillance and interviews, but limit the use of intrusive undercover tactics like wiretapping and searches, the paper reported.

The halls of medicine

The walls of the Seminole High School Academy of Health Careers have begun to go up on the west side of the school's Sanford campus. The Academy, beginning its second year of operation later this month, has been using other areas of the school campus, but the new facility will allow them to become a truly self-contained school-within-a-school. The academy serves more than 100 high school students from across the county who are interested in careers in the medical profession.

Lobster Boy: trial of stepson begins

By JAMES MARTINEZ

Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — A man who was only protecting his mother and himself from abuse when he participated in the contract slaying of his stepfather, the claw-handed carnival performer known as Lobster Boy,

Harry Glenn Newman's murder trial will likely mirror that of his mother, Mary Stiles, who claimed self-defense as a battered wife and was convicted last week of the lesser charge of manslaughter.

The pair paid a teen-age hit man $1,500 to shoot the 55-year-old side-show veteran Grady Stiles Jr. twice in the back of the head two years ago as he relaxed in his underwear in his Gibsons trailer.

"This case is not about the death of Grady Stiles," defense attorney Peter Catania told jurors in his opening statement. "It's about the life of Grady Stiles. He died a violent death — he lived a violent life."

Catania portrayed the genetically pincer-armed, stump-legged man as a drunk-en brute who routinely swatted his wife's buttocks with his head and once threatened to kill his family.

Mrs. Stiles finally went to her son and asked him to do something. Newman, then 18, went to school and found a classmate willing to kill his father.

"Someone was going to die in this household — it was only a matter of when and who," Catania said.

But prosecutors called it a murder of convenience, saying Newman was never in any danger and neither was his mother.

"It was the oldest motivation to end the life of another human being there is. He hated him," said Assistant State Attorney Ron Hanes. "It was as coldblooded and planned murder as can take place."

While Mrs. Stiles claimed she suffered a lifetime of abuse, Newman only lived with his deformed stepfather for about three years.

Phone company blocks lawyers' ad quoting Shakespeare, Dickens

By The Associated Press

FORT PIERCE — Two lawyers intent on getting some literary lawyer bashing into their Yellow Pages advertisement will be in court next week, trying to convince a judge to force the phone book's publishers to print the ad.

They say the ad, which includes quotes from William Shakespeare and Charles Dickens, is designed to poke fun at lawyers.

Law partners Jonathan Jay Kirchner and Jeff Garland filed suit Tuesday in St. Lucie Circuit Court against BellSouth Advertising & Publishing Corp., which publishes the Real Yellow Pages. The company says the ads don't meet their editorial standards, the lawyers say.

"We have alleged damages in excess of $15,000," Kirchner said Wednesday. "But what we really want is for the court to issue an injunction requiring them to print the ad as agreed upon."

Shakespeare's line included in the ad is from "Henry VI, Part II." "The first thing we do, let's kill all the lawyers," it reads. Garland and Kirchner then settled on this quotation from "Oliver Twist" by Dickens: "The law supposes that," said Mr. Bumble, "the law is a ass, a idiot."

"We properly attributed the quotes in the ad itself... so it was clear we weren't advocating anything other than a little light intellectual stimulus," Kirchner said. "But that proved a little too deep for the Yellow Pages."

BellSouth produced two mockups of the requested ad but later notified the lawyers that the finished product would not run.

Greg Artis, a BellSouth attorney, said he couldn't comment immediately on the lawsuit because he hadn't seen it. But he said ad orders taken by sales representatives do not constitute legally binding contracts.

"It doesn't become a contract until it is accepted by our company and complies with our editorial standards," Artis said from his Atlanta office.

Limited Casinos placed on ballot

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The state has decided to include in the November ballot a proposal that would allow 47 casinos in Florida. But that doesn't mean voters will see it on Election Day.

The measure, known as "Limited Casinos," was officially certified Wednesday by state elections officials. However, the Florida Supreme Court has yet to review it for clarity and scope and could decide to remove it from the ballot.

Pat Roberts, chairman of Proposition for Limited Casinos, said the campaign collected more than 900,000 signatures, more than double the 429,428 needed to make the ballot.

The Supreme Court plans to hold oral arguments on the measure later this month. The court does not look at the merit of citizen initiatives but judges them for compliance with two requirements. Amendments developed from petition drives can deal with only one subject and the ballot summary must clearly describe the full amendment.

In the last year, the Supreme Court has rejected three proposals and approved two. Attorney General Bob Butterworth, who prepares advisory opinions on citizen initiatives for the court, has pointed out many potential problems with the Limited Casinos proposal. But Roberts expressed confidence the measure would go before voters and be approved.

He said his casino amendment would generate $700 million in new revenues for the state, create 67,000 new jobs and bring an additional 1 1/2 million tourists to Florida.

"What 'Limited Casinos' is doing is the right way for Florida to economically develop," Roberts said, estimating there would be billions of dollars of new construction. "Very importantly — and sometimes left out — is people will have fun in these places, and they'll bring world-class entertainment."

The measure would permit casinos at each of the state's 30 parimutuel facilities as well as 12 additional casinos and five riverboat casinos.

John Sowinski, campaign director for the group No Casinos, said all of the promises made by casino supporters will turn out to be empty.

"Make no mistake, if casino gambling is legalized, the only winners will be casino owners — and the losers will be those of us who call Florida home," he said.

Limited Casinos would be the eighth amendment on the ballot if the Supreme Court approves it.

The first two proposed constitutional amendments were placed on the ballot by the Legislature.

Lawmakers want their annual two-month session to start in March rather than February and have proposed a spending cap linking growth in the state's budget to growth in average personal income.

The third amendment, a citizen initiative to ban commercial fishing nets, has been approved by the high court.

But the next four amendments, like Limited Casinos, have not yet been reviewed by the court and could be removed. Amendments four, five, six and seven all try to limit the taxing authority of government and broaden the rights of property owners.

Two other casino drives are still trying to meet the signature requirement. They have until Tuesday. Both are also pending before the court.

Deputies Investigate shooting

From Staff Reports

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Seminole County sheriff's deputies are investigating a shooting into a car yesterday afternoon near Altamonte Springs. No one was reportedly injured.

According to sheriff's spokesman Lt. McDonough, Willie Burgess of Altamonte Springs, was driving his Buick on Jackson Street near Altamonte Springs at approximately 2:35 yesterday afternoon, when he reported seeing his path blocked by a brown Chevrolet.

At that point, McDonough said, one of the two men in the Chevrolet reportedly opened fire with a semi-automatic handgun. Five of the shots hit Burgess' car.

McDonough continued, "Burgess gunned his car down Jackson Street. At the corner of Jackson and Plum Streets, he struck a utility pole knocking an electric power line into Jackson Street."

McDonough said Burgess tentatively identified his two assailants and indicated the two had accused him of ripping them off in a recent drug deal.

Deputies are now searching for the two men named by Burgess.

Blacks drop blas suit against Dillard's

By The Associated Press

TAMPA — Three black women have dropped their lawsuit claiming Dillard's department stores targets black shoppers for surveillance.

But the attorney for the women, Bruce Kleinberg, said Wednesday the case was withdrawn only because his clients plan to refile the action as part of a class-action lawsuit.

"This is by no means over. We're just getting started," Kleinberg said. "We just want to start fresh with a class-action case."

In the suit initially filed in Hillsborough Circuit Court last year, two University of South Florida students and a friend alleged security guards followed them without reason as they shopped for jeans at a Tampa store in November 1992.

The women got into an argument with the officers and were charged with trespassing and disorderly conduct.

Ted Gastman, chairman of Dillard's Florida division, said in a statement Tuesday the lawsuit was without merit.

"We value all of our customers, regardless of race, color, sex, religion or national origin, and we have no discriminatory policies," Gastman said.

Never stop learning

There are many TV and radio commercials about learn-to-read programs. For people who can afford to buy tapes or cassettes, and are willing to become involved in the learning process, they can be helpful.

Even though the urge to learn may be there however, the cost is prohibitive at times.

The cost of education however, isn't as expensive as some people may believe. It is possible to improve oneself without spending so much money.

Seminole Community College and Midway Elementary School are both providing free classes at this time every Tuesday and Thursday evening from 5:30 until 8:30 p.m.

Adult or advanced teenage students can learn to improve their reading and math skills, study for a GED test, or parents can receive information on how to help their children become better students in school.

In conjunction with the adult offerings at Midway Elementary School, 2251 Jitway, there is also something for the children to do while mom and/or pop is attending classes. Midway, through its business partnership, this week started a special Outreach Library program for children ages three through nine.

Organizers say it isn't a baby-sitting service, rather it will have video tapes and instructional lessons to help the youngsters improve their education.

Don't let the GED idea frighten you off. That is only one of the skills a person can work on. There is much more to learn. So, .... what's stopping you?

Didn't sign up on time? No. People can start these classes at anytime, and continue taking them for as long as they want.

Can't afford the textbooks or supplies? No, you can't use that as an excuse. All that, as well as any class fees, are free of charge.

Don't know who to talk to? The answer is Irene Paine or Ed Rouillac at Midway Community Learning Center, or call the SCC GED office at 328-2007.

Can't take the time? That's why they are being conducted from 5:30 until 8:30 at night, two nights a week. Most people have that time free.

We've already discussed what to do with the children. What other excuse can a person have for not wanting to improve themselves?

Midway Elementary and SCC are giving people this opportunity. Take advantage of it. It may be one of the best decisions you have ever made.

Politics of race

I'm tired of the way Congresswoman Corrine Brown and her liberal power structure continues to exploit the politics of race.

The latest example stems from the Larry Colleton fiasco. Brown and her cronies in the NAACP sent a letter to Attorney General Janet Reno prior to his reappointment. It stated, "Mr. Colleton is the first African-American to ever serve as U.S. Attorney in Florida" and "it would be a disservice to our communities to remove (him)."

If Martin Luther King Jr.'s dream was to "judge people based on the content of their character, not on the color of their skin," then I believe those words should be applied to Colleton.

Colleton showed a lack of character when he shoved a local TV reporter by the throat. Furthermore, Colleton's suspect job performance includes possible misconduct in the prosecution of former Duval County Judge Richard Kreidler, and resigning a top drug prosecutor in the midst of a case, a move frowned upon in the legal profession.

Race has nothing to do with the way Colleton has conducted himself, both on and off the job. Yet, Brown arrogantly played the race card and portrayed Colleton as a victim. Then, recently on a talk radio show, she denied using race as a defense for Colleton.

Meanwhile, Brown would better serve District 3 by finding tougher ways of punishing guilty criminals than lining up behind a failed prosecutor.

Will Big Government ever go away?

One of the complaints forever being heard in conservative circles is that Ronald Reagan "failed" to turn Big Government around. Sometimes it's said critically, sometimes sadly, but the point is always the same: Look at how huge and intrusive government is today, after Reagan — and it's still growing!

In the June issue of Commentary, David Frum, one of our brightest young conservative journalists, has an article to this effect, excerpted from his forthcoming book, "Dead Right." He correctly identifies the fundamental problem: the deterioration of the old American virtues (prudence, thrift, hard work, self discipline, etc.) in a liberal welfare state:

"Why be thrifty any longer when your old age and health care are provided for, no matter how profligate you may be in your youth? Why be prudent when the state insures your bank deposits, replaces your flooded-out house, buys all the wheat you can grow? Why be diligent when half your earnings are taken from you and given to the idle?"

Forecasting a backlash and the collapse of the welfare state under the ever-growing burden of its benefactions, Frum counsels conservative intellectuals (he knows better than to tell politicians) to "(discard) all consideration of what the public at the moment wants to hear, and (try) to prepare its mind to respond intelligently to the crisis ahead.... Copy-right conservative intellectuals will have to care less about the immediate electoral aspects of the Republican party and more about telling unpalatable truths — in the hope of making those truths prevail to the point of becoming the conventional political wisdom of the future."

In a nutshell, Frum believes that the public still "rather likes" the liberal social programs, but that if they are told the grim truth about them they will, over time, turn against Big Government. With all due respect, I disagree on both scores.

I believe that the American public understands full well the baleful consequences of liberal welfare. I think most voters would vote, today, to jettison the whole shebang and return, as a nation, to the old American virtues if they could.

But there's the rub. As a practical matter it is impossible to run modern America the way it was run (say) a century ago.

In Chronicles, the lively journal of the "paleoconservatives," one can read every month long diatribes to the America of the 1890s, or even to remote regions of the West today. As exercises in nostalgia these essays are commendable, but as practical prescriptions for the nation's future they are about as useful as liver pills.

America today is a nation of upwards of a quarter of a billion people of widely varying ethnic and cultural backgrounds, staggering under the burden of a government whose leaders' only dependable impulse is to pile more straws on the camel's back. The public is not suffering from a reluctance to change things, but from a bewildered and total ignorance of how to get from here to there. And that, it seems to me, is the job of conservative intellectuals to tell them.

But be it will use the word once more! practical. We must and can find ways to cut welfare without precipitating mass starvation.

Whom, really, do we know?

WASHINGTON — An hour after I saw "True Lies," the Arnold Schwarzenegger hit about a woman stunned to discover that her dull salesman husband is actually an international spy and explosives expert, a friend called to drop his own bombshell.

"Did you know that your ex-boyfriend is bisexual?"

I did know that "Bill," whom I'd dated for several months in college, never married. I remember his challenging intellect, macho swagger and booming laugh, and that he moved from the Midwest to a large Northeastern city.

Bill is still living there, said my pal — with his boyfriend.

I hope they're happy. But I won't pretend that learning about his sexual orientation wasn't a bit startling, especially after the movie. I mean, there just wasn't a clue.

It's like hearing that the nerdiest guy in your high school class just married Janet Jackson, or being the dumfounded neighbor of a convicted killer and insisting, "But he was the nicest guy."

Who hasn't been stunned when the apparent actions of some famous person — a U.S. senator or sitting president or even a star athlete-turned-actor — reveal that he or she isn't the person we "knew"?

Whom, really, do we know? The woman we lunch with daily at work? Our oldest friend? Our lover, siblings, spouse?

Ourselves? If it were multiple-choice, I'd check "None of the above."

Still, I thought about Bill for a long time after I hung up. This man's chief appeal was his openness — his frankness about his heart's inner workings. Sleeping with other men never came up.

Of course not. One of my most embarrassing memories is of having dinner with a younger male friend during grad school, a guy whose many visits made me sure he had a crush on me. Playing the tease, I leaned over and cooed, "What would your parents say if they knew you were gay?"

His face went so gray that the only life in it was two moist, terrified eyes. In despair, he croaked:

"How did you know?" I didn't. But to have so cruelly and casually exposed such pain was mortifying. We both looked ready to flee. But what happened next was that we talked.

Drop by drop, it flowed out of him: growing up feeling disconnected; yearning to be drawn to girls; wondering whether his attraction grew out of his father's inability to hug him. "I've never told this to anyone," he said. Of all the sad things he told me, that was saddest.

But was it really sadder than the other myriad drops in the bitter ocean of secrets we swim in? I think of the astonishing things I've learned about friends and strangers. And of how I too am a dwelling with many rooms — some under lock and key, others concealed even to me.

Psychologists say we are only as sick as our secrets. But secrets are like navels — we all have them, and for good reason. If we all came clean, a million marriages, not to mention film, novel and soap opera plots, would disintegrate.

Watching my children, I wonder what secrets they're already hoarding. Pierce the public shell presented by any family and something ugly will seep out. And romance?

Some secrets we'll never know. Perhaps it should be enough to know they exist in everyone.

Three little clear-cut words

Let's chit-chat a bit more about the First Amendment, specifically about "not abridging the freedom of speech or of the press — both included in the Bill of Rights."

Freedom of speech! Three little words, each clear-cut and concise, and in no way could they be misunderstood or misinterpreted. Right? Don't bet the farm or your life on it. You'd lose both.

First off, let's go way back in time and meet an old gent by the name of Webster. He's got a slew-and-a-half of books named after him. They're called — surprise, surprise — "a dictionary," each and every one of 'em. As most literate and some illiterate people acknowledge, Mr. Webster is and has been the absolute authority on word spelling and word definitions, past, present, and future.

OK! Whip open my trusty Webster's Seventh New Collegiate Dictionary to page 840 and find the word "speech." (fooled you — I even spelled it correctly) and read Mr. Webster's definition which follows:

"Speech": the communication or expression of thoughts in spoken words, exchange of spoken words, something that is spoken, language dialect, individual manner or style of speaking, the power of expressing or communicating thoughts by speaking.

Now, that's clear enough, isn't it? To me, that means the "sounds" created by the controlled flow of air over one's vocal chords which creates words, sentences, and paragraphs except, of course, when you hit your thumb with a big hammer. That produces "dammitallohell'n'backagin."

"Speech": the noise created by we humans when we chat with each other. Not so to the jurisprudence system. Yup! Some of our infinitesimally intellectual judges have by their court decisions and edicts broadened the word "speech" to include (as a "form" of speech) just about every form of "physical action" (not spoken sounds, mind you) known to mankind. And that malady goes all the way up to the "Supreme Court."

Now let's take a quick peek at the word "action" and a few of the many definitions listed on page 9 of that very same book.

"Action": a proceeding in a court of justice. The bringing about of an alteration by force, the manner of method of performing, an act of will, a thing done, an engagement between troops or ships, an operating mechanism, and more.

I sure hope that a whole big bunch of you good folks out there in never-never-land immediately noticed what is not included in the definitions of "action." Not one stinking peep in there about "speech." Not even a damn reference to it. No way! Yet our alleged "Supreme Court" as well as a bunch of lesser courts, seem to feel at least by so many of their idiotic decisions, that the two words are synonymous in use and meaning.

SEMINOLE OPINION

It's been said that justice is blind. More and more people are getting to feel it's also deaf and dumb too.

The last six (6) words of the Pledge of Allegiance to Our Flag are: "With liberty and justice for all." A growing number of people are wondering where all the "liberty" went and is it really "justice" for the select few only?

Puff on that for awhile.

P.S. In reply to my column on the U.S. Constitution, a young lady in Winter Springs by the name of Maryann B. Adams wrote with her most kind comments. Hopefully we shall delve into the U.S. Constitution and its very specific contents from time to time. It is, you know, a masterpiece of guidance.

Eager Breyer sworn in at Rehnquist's summer home

By LAURIE ASSESS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — New Supreme Court Justice Stephen G. Breyer was so eager to get on with the job that he drove to Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist's summer home in Vermont to get sworn in.

Breyer and his wife, Joanna, traveled from their home in the Boston area to Rehnquist's house in the mountains of Greensboro, Vt., on Wednesday.

There, Mrs. Breyer was the only witness as Rehnquist administered the oaths that made her husband the nation's 108th justice, said court spokeswoman Toni House.

A public swearing-in is scheduled for next Wednesday at the White House, and another investiture likely will be held in the high court's stately courtroom before the fall term begins Oct. 3, House said.

Breyer replaces Justice Harry A. Blackmun, whose retirement took effect when Breyer took the two oaths required by the Constitution and the federal Judiciary Act of 1789.

House said Breyer decided to go to Vermont because he wanted to begin work and hire his law clerks as soon as possible and because he wanted the chief justice to administer the oaths.

Breyer is scheduled to appear Monday at the American Bar Association's annual convention in New Orleans.

Breyer is President Clinton's second high court appointee; Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg, a former pioneering women's rights advocate, joined the court last year.

Breyer is far from the first Supreme Court justice to take at least one of the oaths in private. Ginsburg and Justice Clarence Thomas both took the judicial oath in private and the constitutional oath during a public White House ceremony.

In 1941, Harlan Fiske Stone took the oaths to become chief justice at Rocky Mountain National Park after learning by telegram from the White House that his commission had been approved.

Breyer, 55 and a longtime federal appellate judge, was confirmed by the Senate 87-9 on Friday. Senators from both parties praised him as a man of high qualifications and integrity, as well as a practical problem-solver who addresses issues with a non-ideological approach.

In replacing Blackmun, the generally conservative court's most liberal member, Breyer is expected to find a home among the moderate justices. During his Senate Judiciary Committee confirmation hearing, he said he considered a woman's right to have an abortion to be "settled law."

enough," Publix office cashier Holly Silver said. "But when it hits $29 million people really start buying tickets." Two new instant winner games have also been added to sales. "It seems like when a new game comes out, everybody wants to play that game."

Florida's jackpot is the highest in the nation this week, according to lottery officials. On Sunday alone, sales jumped 56 percent over the previous week.

Fueled by purchases from late summer vacationers and other players who only buy tickets on large lottery prizes, the potential jackpot keeps growing.

"We know that some players join the fun only when the jackpot gets above $20 million," Mann said. "It looks as though Florida has a touch of LOTTO fever this summer."

High sales have been recorded along routes to popular summer vacation spots such as Panama City and Destin, according to lottery officials.

If this week's jackpot is won by a single ticket, that winner will receive more than $1.5 million annually, which works out to about $29,400 per week, 52 weeks a year, for 20 years.

Although tickets for this week's drawing can be purchased until 10:50 p.m. Saturday, lottery officials are urging players to buy early to avoid a last minute rush and possible long lines at ticket outlets.

If there is no winning ticket, it will be the first time in over 70 straight weeks that the jackpot rolled over three times. The last triple rollover was in March 1993.

A 1994 graduate of Deltona High School, Prealey, 17, will enter the U.S. Air Force in December. Following basic training at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas, he plans to specialize in law enforcement. He is the son of Sgt. Darrell Prealey who has been with the police department since 1978. The youth's older brother, Kevin, 19, recently completed the SCC police academy.

"I've wanted to be a cop for a long time," Prealey said. He has not decided if he plans to make a career in the Air Force.

Speaking about the "Best Tactical Explorer" award he received at the Explorer academy, Prealey said instructors made the selection based on his performance and skills in the areas of firearms training, defensive tactics and traffic stops.

"I've wanted to be a policeman since I was about three," Brewer said. An Explorer for four years, Brewer is the top ranked Sanford Explorer officer.

The Explorers provides youths ages 14-21 a first-hand look at the daily challenges of law enforcement officers.

"We ride with them (police). Basically, do traffic control around the city and crowd control with them," Brewer explained. "We fingerprint kids and assist them in almost anything they do."

Proceeds from the sale of 100 abandoned bicycles at 10 a.m.,

Aug. 20, at Sanford Middle School will help fund Explorers programs.

Prior to entering the police academy, Brewer is working at a local food store where he has been employed for two years while completing high school.

"When you come on at the end of a projects planning stage you kind of hesitate to ask for changes," she said. "But we asked to put the fence in Phase 1 because it is really a sense of pride in the neighborhood."

Coleman believes the community will feel more positively about the school when it appears more inviting.

Meanwhile, behind the fence, the dust is beginning to rise from almost every building.

The ceilings are being lowered in most of the classrooms where ancient lamps hang from far above. New, more energy-efficient lighting fixtures will be installed once the new ceilings are in place.

Out-moded windows will be taken out and replaced with energy-saving windows in all the classrooms.

The gymnasium, which Coleman says has "needed renovation since I don't know when," will be updated and brightened.

The school's cafeteria, which has never been air conditioned, will become a cool oasis for fine dining.

And, finally, the administration building will be remodeled allowing for private offices for guidance counselors.

"That's important in ensuring privacy and confidentiality for our students," Coleman said. "We want to be able to provide them with the confidentiality they deserve."

In addition, a conference room will be placed at one end of the multi-purpose room, so that parents, teachers, students and counselors can meet in private when the need arises.

The only new construction taking place at Crooms is the building of a restroom complex.

"We're all really excited," Coleman said. "Everyone is so excited about all these changes."

The physical changes are not the only ones happening at the school, however.

While the school has been an excellent learning facility for some of the district's most difficult to teach students and students facing the adversity of competing against a "Chalukah" has renewed the school's commitment to excellence in education.

"It's going to be a very exciting year at Crooms," she promised.

A new reading program will involve every student in a program designed to improve skills and enjoyment in reading.

Teachers are volunteering their time this week to learn the skills needed to implement that program when school starts on Aug. 22.

Next week, they will be attending a five day efficient teaching techniques seminar on their own time as well. They will be learning how to better impart their knowledge to their students.

"This is going to be a very interesting and rewarding year at Crooms," the principal promised.

Coleman said the school will also be installing a new 30-station computer lab and undertaking a new pilot program in the science curriculum.

millage rate.

Litton had explained earlier, "If we start at a higher level, the commission can lower it with just a vote. But if we start low, and it is deemed the millage rate should go higher, it's difficult, and requires a great deal of complex paperwork and citizen approval."

The rate of 3.7648 is the same as Lake Mary has used in the past several years, but is still slightly higher than the rolled-back rate of 3.6519 mills, calculated by the county appraiser's office.

The roll back rate is determined as the level of millage which would generate the same tax income to the city as the previous year.

By adopting the Litton's recommended, (the most voters approved) millage rate of 3.7648 there would be no tax increases for Lake Mary residents caused by the city's budget, but because of new units entering the tax rolls and some increased evaluation, the city would receive $508,578 in tax money during 1995 as compared to $481,987 in 1994.

If a boulevard beautification issue is added to the proposed budget, it could bring about a change in the millage rate.

The Lake Mary City Commission meeting begins at 7 p.m. tonight, in Lake Mary City Hall, 100 N. Country Club Road.

WORLD BRIEFS

Yugoslavia cuts ties with Bosnian Serbs

BELGRADE. Yugoslavia — Yugoslavia severed all political and economic ties today with Bosnian Serbs, who have relied on Belgrade for military and other supplies during their 28-month-old war against Muslims and Croats.

The announcement of the immediate cutoff came after Bosnian Serb leaders rejected the latest international peace plan for a third time Wednesday.

President Slobodan Milosevic of Serbia, the region's main power broker, is widely viewed as the chief instigator of the war in Bosnia and the earlier war in Croatia.

But Serbia, the dominant state in Yugoslavia, faces a tightening of 2-year-old trade sanctions punishing it for its role in the war. Milosevic apparently wants to stave off further economic ruin that could jeopardize his hold on power, even at the price of abandoning his Serb brethren in Bosnia.

Whether Milosevic and Yugoslav authorities are serious about enforcing the cutoff remains to be seen. They are under intense pressure to do so even from Russia, the outside power with most sympathy for its fellow Orthodox Slavs.

The statement announcing the severing of political and economic ties said the border between Yugoslavia and Serb-held Bosnia would be closed immediately for all supplies except food, clothes and medicine.

The statement was the first indirect admission that Yugoslavia did supply the Bosnian Serbs with fuel and other military supplies. Belgrade constantly denied doing so.

The Yugoslav government, which represents Serbia and tiny Montenegro, also said all Bosnian Serb leaders would be banned from its territory.

A similar ban was announced in May 1993 after Bosnian Serb leaders rejected an earlier international peace plan, but was barely enforced.

Yugoslavia denounced the Bosnian Serb leaders for rejecting the peace plan that would reduce Serb holdings in Bosnia from 70 percent to 49 percent of the republic. A Muslim-Croat federation, which has accepted the plan, would get the rest.

Governing party courts women voters

MATAMOROS, Mexico — Facing perhaps its toughest elections challenge in 65 years of power, Mexico's ruling party is campaigning harder than ever to reach a long-overlooked group of voters: women.

Steeped in machismo, the Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, counts few women in top government echelons, and some question whether that will change if the party wins again.

Nevertheless, the PRI's presidential candidate, Ernesto Zedillo, is courting the women's vote more aggressively than any of his predecessors — or his two main opponents in the Aug. 21 election.

In messages recalling 1992's "Year of the Woman" campaign in the United States, Zedillo is running TV ads promoting the dignity of women, while PRI banners trumpet equality for working women.

"We women are gaining ground," said Bertha Delia Garcia, a schoolteacher and PRI activist from Matamoros. "I believe that Zedillo has taken notice that women are a great support. And because of this, his campaign is focused on the women's vote."

Zedillo, a 42-year-old economist untested in electoral politics, has made high-profile appearances before women's groups. He has promised to fight for gender equality and tougher laws against rapists and abusers of women.

Huge marijuana seizure

MEXICO CITY — Authorities are calling it one of the most important drug seizures in Mexican history.

Federal agents seized and burned more than 3.6 million marijuana plants from a 220-acre field in the northern state of Chihuahua, the Attorney General's Office said Wednesday.

It did not say when the seizure occurred or when the plants were destroyed.

Agents were tipped off by an anonymous telephone caller, and eight suspected drug traffickers were arrested, authorities said.

Federal agents last month seized more than 26 tons of marijuana in northwestern Sonora state after surveillance pilots flying over the area spotted fields where the drug was being grown.

Agents in Sonora also seized weapons and arrested nine men suspected of growing and packaging the drug for transport to the United States.

Seoul agrees to buy Russian weapons

SEOUL, South Korea — South Korea has agreed to accept Russian high-tech weapons such as jet fighters and missiles as partial payment for a $1.47 billion debt, a news agency reported today.

The deal would be worth at least $100 million, the South Korean national news agency Yonhap said in a dispatch from Moscow, quoting unnamed Russian defense industry officials.

South Korea's Finance Ministry would not confirm the report but said officials were to leave for Moscow this month for continuing negotiations.

In 1990, South Korea agreed to lend $3 billion to Moscow in a deal tied to establishing diplomatic ties with the then-Soviet Union, a close ally of Seoul's rival, communist North Korea. Only about half that amount was actually loaned.

Russia took over the loans with the fall of the Soviet Union, and terms of repayment have been under negotiation since then.

South Korea was reported to be considering industrial goods, fishing rights or land leases in Siberia in lieu of cash. But it recently said it may consider purchasing some Russian weapons to study North Korean military capabilities.

Russian Orthodox priests sell blessings

MOSCOW — They're blessing businesses, marketing mineral water — even taking money for sprinkling holy water over cars.

The Russian Orthodox Church, short of funds after decades under the thumb of official Soviet atheism, has found the capitalist spirit. While some priests object to selling their authority on the street, others are reaping rubles blessing apartments, bars, even casinos.

"Many churches are in great need of money for renovation," one priest, Father Alexander, told The Moscow Times in today's editions.

Another priest does a brisk business blessing cars with incense, prayers and holy water along a road near a used-car market, the report said. He charges 30,000 to 50,000 rubles ($15 to 25) — depending on the car's make.

"We bless cars," reads his sign, posted on a lamppost.

A church spokesman, Father Matvei, told the newspaper that priests are authorized to perform traditional rites blessing homes, businesses, even cars, but that "to ask for money for each blessing is not appropriate."

Floods kill nearly 1,900 in China

BEIJING — Floods in wide areas of China have killed 1,846 people, injured thousands more and caused an estimated $8.7 billion in losses in the first half of the year, an official report said today.

More than 100 million people in flooded areas in six southern provinces and several northern ones were affected by floods caused by torrential rains in June and July, the official China Daily reported. More than 1.6 million houses were destroyed and millions of others damaged.

Rejected for U.S. asylum
Haitian activist meets local sheriff—and death

By DAVID BEARD
Associated Press Writer

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — After boarding the same bus home as the local sheriff, the 33-year-old supporter of exiled President Jean-Bertrand Aristide never had a chance.

While U.S. immigration officials reconsidered Naastal Jerome's application for political asylum, he was arrested, imprisoned and hit on the head and ribs, sending him into a coma and death last week.

His case, relayed Wednesday by his widow and by officials of the New York-based National Coalition for Haitian Refugees, shows the risks taken by tens of thousands of Haitians in hiding following Aristide's 1991 ouster.

The United States on Sunday won U.N. approval to lead an invasion to restore Aristide to office if the military coup leaders don't step down.

Since the U.N. vote, soldiers have beaten residents and made arbitrary arrests to enforce an undeclared nighttime curfew, witnesses and army sources said on condition of anonymity.

The bodies of two men, both shot and with straps cinched around their necks, were found dumped in a busy street Wednesday.

White House press secretary Dee Dee Myers said the violence was "part of a broader pattern" of abuse by military leaders. "It does, certainly, underscore our point that the ... de facto government there must go."

Jerome, a teacher, farmer and coordinator of a pro-Aristide economic development group near the Artibonite Valley town of Devarye, lived on the lam for the past three years.

He died Saturday of internal wounds at Port-au-Prince's General Hospital. His wife, Margaret Regis, stayed by his side, and now must navigate an unfriendly world alone.

"My husband worked for change and for the future of the country, and that's why he's dead," Regis, 28, told The Associated Press from a safehouse two days after burying the man she said she had loved since she was a teenager.

Only 20 people came to the funeral held in the town of Thomazeau, just north of Port-au-Prince, to avoid possible problems with security forces.

Jerome had been detained and beaten twice before, prompting him to seek U.S. asylum. Like more than 95 percent of 55,000 Haitians who have applied, he was turned down. He met later with refugee advocates who re-submitted his application a month ago.

On the new application, a copy of which the AP obtained, Jerome said he was determined to make it out of Haiti alive.

Regis said Jerome was heading home from the capital, Port-au-Prince, to see his children, 7-year-old Mackinson, 6-year-old Sophia and 15-month-old Astrid.

"He got on the same tap-tap (bus) with the sheriff, but he didn't know," Regis said. In the valley town of Mirebalais, he was taken to the army barracks and severely beaten.

"They accused him of being Lavalas," she said, referring to the grass roots movement that backed Aristide in his overwhelming victory in Haiti's first democratic elections in 1990. The accusation was ironic, she said, because the sheriff, Kebreau Thezan, was himself a former Lavalas member before switching sides after the coup.

Sheriffs, known here as section chiefs, exercise feudal control over their rural areas. They are judge, jury and tax collector, at the door to get a fee whenever a baby is born, a pig is sold, a couple marries or a person dies.

Aristide cut off their power in his brief term in office, but the sheriffs returned after his ouster, settling scores and hiring gunmen they armed with M-1 carbines from the neighboring Dominican Republic.

The sheriffs have worked hand-in-hand with soldiers and pro-army paramilitary units to hunt down prominent Aristide supporters following the coup. Up to 3,000 political killings have taken place.

"My life is in danger," Regis said. "I can't return to my house."

She is applying for political asylum for herself and her three children but remains defiant.

"I don't believe that the military will win," she said. "There's a lot of people in the fight."

IN BRIEF

AROUND THE STATE

Bucs, Dilfer come to terms

TAMPA — Trent Dilfer, the highest NFL draft pick who remained unsigned on Wednesday, agreed to terms of a contract that will pay him an average of $2.47 million per year in his first four seasons with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Although financial terms of the agreement were not revealed by the team, Bucs vice president Rich McKay said the former Fresno State quarterback, who had considered re-entering the draft, would sign an eight-year deal and end an 11-day holdout on Thursday.

Dilfer was the sixth pick overall and one of only two quarterbacks selected in the first round. His contract is similar to one Heath Shuler, the third pick, signed with Washington in that it includes voidable years and provisions for Tampa Bay to buy back years five through eight.

The eight-year, $18.5 million package includes a $4.5 million signing bonus and a base salary of $800,000 for this season. The agreement leaves Errict Rhett, a second-round pick, as the club's only unsigned rookie.

Rhett has been seeking about $600,000 for this season, but the signing of Dilfer will leave slightly less than $400,000 available to the Florida running back in the rookie salary pool.

Marino eager to play

DAVIE — Dan Marino and his worrisome right leg are ready to take the next step in his comeback from a torn Achilles' tendon.

The Miami Dolphins' quarterback, eager for his first taste of action since the injury last October, hopes to start Saturday in a preseason game against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"It would help me from the standpoint that it's been a long time since I played a game," Marino said Wednesday. "It would help me to get back in the flow."

With Miami's first regular-season game a month away, the disclosure that coach Don Shula plans to play Marino came as a surprise to some. The quarterback still walks with a limp and admits that his right ankle hurts.

But playing Marino now would provide a chance to gauge his progress and adjust his playing time accordingly for the rest of the preseason, Shula said.

AROUND THE NATION

Marlins get past Cubs

CHICAGO — Benito Santiago's sacrifice scored Jeff Conine with the go-ahead run in the ninth inning as the Florida Marlins beat the Chicago Cubs 9-8 Wednesday.

Conine doubled to open the ninth and went to third on Greg Colbrunn's single. Santiago then hit a medium-range fly ball, and left-fielder Derrick May did not make a throw home.

Kurt Abbott added a pinch-hit, RBI-double later in the inning, giving the Marlins an insurance run they ended up needing.

Santiago went 3-for-3 with two doubles and Conine and Gary Sheffield hit two-run homers for Florida, which won its second straight game following a seven-game losing streak.

Rich Scheid (1-2) pitched 1½ innings for the victory, giving up just one hit. Robb Nen got 13th save in 13 opportunities despite allowing a solo homer to Sammy Sosa with two outs.

Greenville edges O-Cubs

GREENVILLE, S.C. — First-inning home runs from Mike Warner and Ramon Caraballo helped push the Greenville Braves past the Orlando Cubs with a 3-2 win Wednesday night in Southern League action.

The Braves increased their lead to 3-1 in the third inning when Kevin Grijack hit his 10th homer of the season.

The Cubs closed out the scoring for the night in the fifth, when Cesar Bernhardt doubled and scored on a Doug Gianville triple.

Smokies eclipse Suns in 12

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Felipe Crespo's RBI single in the 12th inning lifted the Knoxville Smokies to a 6-5 win over the Jacksonville Suns Wednesday in the Southern League.

Knoxville tied the score 5-5 in the ninth off a Sharnol Adriana ground out and a Jacksonville error.

Craig opts for retirement

ROCKLIN, Calif. — Roger Craig, who helped the San Francisco 49ers win three Super Bowls, retired one day after signing with the 49ers so he could retire as a member of the team he started with.

In 11 seasons, the first eight with San Francisco, Craig, 34, became the career leader in pass receptions among backs with 566. He is 13th in career rushing, gaining 8,189 yards.

His retirement opened a roster spot for linebacker Rickey Jackson, who signed with San Francisco earlier this week.

Seminole All-Stars survive late error-fueled rally

From Staff Reports

TAMPA — That was a big one that almost got away.

Three seventh-inning errors led to five unearned runs for Tampa-Forest Hills, but the Seminole Pony 14 All-Stars managed to hang on for 9-7 win in the first round of the South Zone Tournament being hosted by the North Tampa PONY League at Lowery Park.

Seminole, 11-0 in tournament play and 1-0 in the South Zone Tournament, must come back tonight to play Mesquite, Texas, which had a first-round bye, at 8 p.m.

The winner of the South Zone Tournament advances to the Pony World Series, which is scheduled to begin Saturday, Aug. 13, in Washington, Penn.

Winning pitcher Ben Knapp hit a grand slam in the third inning to give the Seminole All-Stars the lead for good Wednesday night. Seminole stretched its advantage to 9-2 in the bottom of the sixth inning. Then things almost got out of hand. Jeff Monaco, Seminole's fourth pitcher of the game, went to the mound to start their seventh inning. And while he gave up three hits, it was the three errors that were Seminole's undoing as Forest Hills rallied for five runs.

With only one out, Scott Ferrell came in to pitch. After striking out the first batter he faced, Ferrell induced Brian Colter (the No. 3 hitter in the Forest Hills' line-up) to hit a ground ball to Monaco, now playing first base. Monaco made the play cleanly to close out Seminole's victory.

Seminole spent all night dodging bullets. Starting pitcher Jeremy Frost gave up singles to the first three Forest Hill hitters of the game but managed to escape the inning with allowing just one run (on a bases-loaded walk).

Mike McCarthy relieved Frost in the fourth and walked the two batters he faced. Knapp came in and gave up a single to Jarod Lynch. Matt McCleary tried to score from second on the hit but Seminole center fielder Alex Gonzales made a strong throw to Frost (who had moved behind the plate) to nail McCleary.

An out later, Lou Martin singled to left field and Terry Meyers tried to score from second. But Tarik McCall duplicated Gonzales's effort, throwing out Meyers at the plate to end the inning.

Seminole managed some offensive fireworks of its own. In the bottom half of the third inning, Scott Hilkinaki hit a two-out single before Ferrell and Frost both walked to load the bases. Knapp

Unknowns end volleyball frustration

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Finally. After five weeks of constantly coming close but always coming up just short, persistence paid off for the Unknowns Wednesday as they posted their first win of the Sanford Recreation Co-Ed Power Volleyball League season, sweeping past the Bad Apples 15-5, 15-5 at the Sanford Middle School Gymnasium.

The evening's schedule opened with league-leading Tim's Team sweeping past the Bad Apples 15-4, 15-11 on the stage court while the second-place Young Guns were getting the best of the Unknowns 15-6, 15-8 on the lobby court.

While the Unknowns were upending the Bad Apples on the lobby court, the Young Guns created had a chance to gain some ground in the standings by outlasting Tim's Team 16-14, 12-15, 16-14 on the stage court.

But the Bad Apples, determined to avoid a winless evening, came back from a 15-9 loss in the first game to win the last two games, 15-4 and 16-14, of the best-of-three match and defeat the Young Guns on the lobby court.

Meanwhile, Tim's Team rebounded from its loss to the Young Guns to sweep the Unknowns 15-9, 15-2 on the stage court.

Through six weeks, Tim's Team (14-4) continues to hold a two-game edge over the Young Guns (12-6). They're trailed by the Bad Apples (9-9) and the Unknowns (1-17).

Lead-off hitter leads Marlins to win

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Tony Lewis couldn't have done his job any better Wednesday night.

As the leadoff hitter for the Aviation Blade Services Marlins, Lewis' primary offensive task is to get on base any way he can so that the following batters can drive him in.

And that's Lewis did last night at Zinn Beck Field, hitting three singles and drawing a walk in his four trips to the plate, scoring a pair of runs, and driving in a run to help the Marlins knock off the Metro Sewer Red Sox 11-6 in a Sanford Recreation Senior Baseball League contest.

Meanwhile, the undefeated Nobles Construction White Sox continued their march toward perfection with a 5-1 win over the Cline's Painting/Good News Gang Royals at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

With two games left in the season, the White Sox (8-0) have already wrapped up the league title. They're followed by the Marlins (4-4), Royals (3-5), and Red Sox (1-7).

The campaign wraps up Saturday at Zinn Beck Field, where the White Sox will meet the Marlins at 10 a.m. before the Royals and Red Sox battle at noon.

Anthony Alameda contributed a double, single, one run, and two RBI to the Marlins' 11-hit attack Wednesday night. Anton Grooms added two singles and an RBI. Fred Bradke singled and scored two runs. Chris Denman singled, scored a run, and drove in a run. Jason Thorton also singled and scored a run. Mario Alexander hit a single. Bobby Loveland scored two runs and had an RBI. Kevin Whittington and Joel Bell each scored a run.

For the Red Sox, Deon Daniels had two singles, two runs, and an RBI. Don Kramer added two singles, a run, and an RBI. Mike Hawkins also singled twice. Don Carter had a double, one run, and an RBI. Albert Harris singled and scored a run. Lawrence Mason scored a run. Michelle Satterthwaite drove in a run.

The league-leading White Sox managed just a pair of hits — one single each by Curtis Peterson and Tommy Raines — against the Royals but took advantage of nine walks and ran the bases with abandon to score a 5-1 win.

Walter Bryant, Cedric Williams, Peterson, Raines, and Derrick Quinn each scored a run for the White Sox. Craig Merkerson contributed the only RBI, the other four runs scoring on wild pitches, errors, or stolen bases.

Nat Cline singled and scored the only run for the Royals. Jason Compton hit a double. Jeremiah Cline added a single.

Samaritan gets surprise of his life

By CLARA PALMER
Special to the Herald

SANFORD — In years past Denver Cordell has hosted many fish fries and celebrations for neighbors and friends at his Elm Avenue home. The tables were turned on him recently when his neighbors, friends and family surprised him on his 88th birthday.

"They shocked me," said Cordell, surprised on returning to his home late Wednesday afternoon, July 27, to find it draped with a huge birthday banner, balloons waving in the breeze and a large group of well-wishers gathered in his spacious backyard. His son, Jim, daughter-in-law, Lorie and grandsons Mike and Terry, visiting from Jacksonville, had taken him off for the afternoon, on a wild goose chase.

A serving table was spread with Cordell's favorite foods; chicken and dumplings, ribs, pot roast, fried chicken and all of the trimmings, including a large sheet cake inscribed with "The Good Samaritan."

Cordell is famous in the community for his good deeds and kind acts. He spends much of his time helping those in need, visiting shut-ins and doing repairs. He was also once the mayor of Sanford, the sheriff of Seminole County and a owned a car dealership.

The organizers decided this would be a great way to honor Cordell and began preparations several months ago. Cordell said, "I've never had a birthday party like this in my life."

Involved in the organization was Clara Palmer, Cordell's sister, Sue Koke, Ray and Doris Beauchene, Pauline Madden, Carl Windham, Mr. and Mrs. William Forbes, Audrey Jack, George and Patsy Smith, Sam and Alice Dunn, Bill and Ruth Wieboldt, Bess Swallow and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Barton.

Others who attended the party included Cordell's daughter, Sue Ranger and husband, Tex, from Brunswick Maine, Mayor Bettye Smith, Sheriff Don Eslinger, Dorothy Gatchel, Bonnie Johnson, Charles Coke, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Hunter, Mrs. Tad

Hasty, Susan Rogers, Gene and Mary Estridge, Charles, Barbara, Jason and Julie Cizek, Brett Bullamore, Ernestine Westphal, Gary and Bonnie Taylor and Richard and Mona Walker.

Of the celebration, Cordell said, "I really appreciate what they did for me."

Two inducted into Kiwanis

Bill Frasse (center), past lieutenant governor of Kiwanis Clubs of Florida, was pleased to induct two area business professionals into the Sanford club. Marge Hill (left) is an assistant vice president of Security National Bank and Gretchen Schapker is the principal of Seminole High School.

Furious mom tells off wedding no-shows

DEAR ABBY: How rude and ignorant can people be? My daughter was married 10 days ago. Despite the fact that both sets of parents are divorced, everyone got along (as it should be) and had a wonderful time.

My complaint concerns "no-shows" — people who RSVP'd in the affirmative and failed to appear. We had the reception at a nice hotel, and limited our guest list to the number of people we could afford to have. We made individual favors for each person, and went to a great deal of trouble and expense to make this day one my daughter and her new husband would remember forever.

Abby, a full one-quarter of the confirmed guests did not show up! Don't people realize that we had to provide the hotel with a guaranteed number of guests two days before the reception, and had to pay for them regardless? If these people had bothered to call and let us know their plans had changed, we could have saved $400.

Abby, please tell your readers to seriously consider their plans before responding to an RSVP, and if circumstances change after accepting, to at least give the concerned party the courtesy of a telephone call as soon as possible.

Please use my name. I am so angry with these people, maybe they will see this letter and know how much hurt they have caused by their lack of common courtesy.

ARLENE E. DIFFERDING, SUMMERVILLE, S.C.

DEAR ARLENE: Please be assured that you are speaking for many who have paid a tidy sum for "no-shows." Such insensitivity is inexcusable.

DEAR ABBY: In regard to the letter questioning which side of the bed folks sleep on, and how the baby, or the telephone, may produce that decision:

During a recent visit to the Vatican Museum, our guide informed us that in ancient Rome, the man always slept on the right side in order to have access to his sword for protecting himself and his family.

So, this is not a "silly" question, nor is the question of why men's and women's clothing button from opposite sides. The answer can be found in history, as well.

LESLIE BARNES, DALLAS

DEAR LESLIE BARNES:

Now I am intrigued. Why do men's and women's clothing button from opposite sides? Please write again and let me know.
