BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

EVEN WORLD TRIBEAVALS NEED NOT AFFRIGHT US. Have I not commanded thee? Be strong and of good courage, be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest.—Josh. 1:9

Now we know why they call it the goose step. You take one look at it and it makes a goose out of you.

Now if the European countries could develop a World Step of their own, they might really have something to fight about.

The fellow who deliberately refuses to pay his honest debts has no right to expect credit in the future.

Spanish Rebels Bomb British Ships—headline. Gen. Franco just injecting a little "treason" into the civil war.

What's the use of children studying geography these days? By the time they get to lessons "learned," the maps will be changed.

A newspaper is not required by law to publish advertisements and can refuse them without giving any reason, the Key West Citizen insists. That may be true, but in these times there would seem to be much danger.

Hungary taking the cue from Hitler, is considerably excited about the Hungarian minorities in Czechoslovakia. What about the Hungarian minorities in Roumania? About a third of what was once Hungarian territory was given to Roumania after the World War.

Secretary Morgenthau calls the California "300 very Thursday" scheme a "funny money" plan. Coming from one who sells bonds to the banks which are permitted to issue money on their own, it is a little funny.

Said Adolf Hitler entering the Sudetenland: "Over the German, the greater German Reich, the sheltering German shield, and the protecting German sword. From now on the German people will shape its future in this continuity of destiny and will, and no power on earth will be able ever again to threaten its future." Twice marches on.

The Japanese are said to be terrified at reports the Chinese are arming and training battalions of Orange-outangs for the defense of Hankow. The Japanese say the "ape brigades" are contrary to international law which prohibits biting in the cheeks. The Chinese should investigate the possibilities of teaching their apes to fly.

The Herald wishes to commend the County Commissioners for their willingness to call another referendum to be held at the general election on Nov. 8, for the purpose of passing on the proposed bond issue for a County mental hospital. There is no doubt in our minds that if the referendum had been held on a general election day, it would have carried, for the difficulty was not that an overwhelming majority did not favor the hospital but rather a majority of the freeholders, as required by law, did not vote at all. At a general election, when every voter will be urged to vote, the referendum would probably carry. And some day will get the hospital built and so help the afflicted.

Hitler's Latest Racket

In one of his latest demands on Czechoslovakia, made after the Munich Accord, Chancellor Hitler insists that reparations be paid by the Czechs to Germany for "injustices" done the Sudeten people throughout the past twenty years. As if the seizure of the Czechs' rich territory was not enough, a group of German financial experts are now busily engaged in drawing up such a bill for damages.

Just now the Czechs are going to pay reparations, however unjustified, in the circumstances in which they have been left as a result of the Four Power Conference has not been stated, but the impression prevails that Mr. Hitler must have read Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech in Parliament in which he announced the England is preparing a quick loan to the Czechs for $50,000,000.

The purpose of this loan of course is to aid the Czech refugees who have been driven out of their homes at the point of German bayonets, and have been forced to flee for their lives from the Sudetenland, leaving their farms and their businesses, their household belongings, even in many instances, their cows, pigs and chickens behind them. These people are now stranded in Prague with nowhere to go and nothing to do.

Probably no one knows whether the idea of reparations occurred to Hitler only after he learned of this loan, but it is a peculiar coincidence that within a few hours after the loan is announced he makes public his demand for reparations which it would have been physically impossible for the Czechs to pay were it not for the proceeds of this relief loan.

Now it seems to us that here the German dictator has set upon a racket which he can work to a face-on-well of course he has no more territorial demands to make in Europe, but it is a well known fact that financially Germany is broke. It has spent every cent it could fake and scrape together on armaments. And if it doesn't get money pretty soon, there is liable to be financial panic in a hour which will upset many of Mr. Hitler's foreign policies.

What easier way to get it is there than to blackmail, or hijack, those nations which have it, England and France, not to mention the United States, as well fortified with cash reserves and gold supplies. Why not just order them to hand over some of the loot under the threat of airplane raids and bombing expeditions? This little stunt worked pretty well at Munich. May be it would again.

Besides, it wouldn't be the first time the French and English have paid tribute to keep from going to war. It was only a little more than a hundred years ago that the ruling powers of Tripoli, Tunis and Algiers on the North African coast, disguising themselves as "pirates," developed an unusually lucrative racket by exacting annual subsidies from the British and French in return for permitting their ships to ply the Mediterranean lanes.

That was the time, remember, when the United States sent Stephen Decatur, then a young lieutenant in the newly young American navy, clear across the Atlantic to protect American shipping regardless of consequences, and an American Ambassador at Paris, Charles Cotesworth Pinckney of South Carolina, was telling the French government that the United States was prepared to spend millions of dollars for the world's peace.

What the world needs today is another Stephen Decatur who would send Hitler back to his paper-hanging.

Hail, Doughnut-Dunkers!

With farmers now looking to Washington to find out whether they will be allowed to plant celery this year, how many acres they can plant, what kind of fertilizer they may use, and whether they will be able to market it even if they succeed in producing a crop, and with business men still uncertain whether they are engaged in inter-state commerce and if so how much of their business management will be left after Oct. 24 in their own hands, if any, it is encouraging to note that doughnut-dunking at least is legal.

We have this from no less an authority than Emily Post who is a one woman Supreme Court of the United States wherever the constitutionality of social manners and customs are questioned. Mrs. Post in an interview yesterday declared that dunking is all right at any place where doughnuts may properly be served providing you hold the doughnut between the thumb and third finger of your right hand.

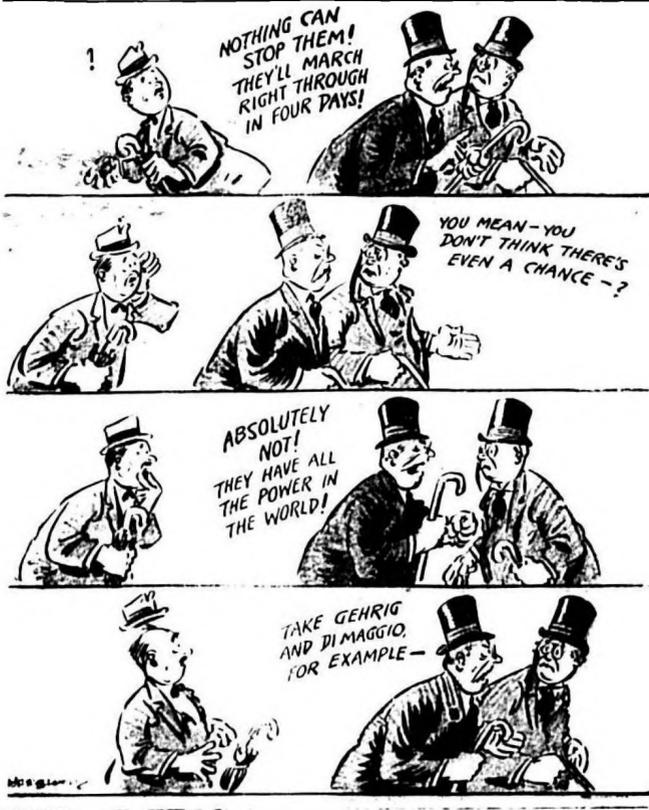

Of course that business of holding the doughnut between the thumb and third finger may produce far-reaching reverberations. It's like plucking up every third row, which is all right in principle, but suppose the third row happens to be your best fellow. Now what we would like to know is what is a fellow going to do who has lost his third finger in a sawmill accident, or like "Lefty" Gomez, happens to be a left-handed dunker.

However all this may be, we can only rejoice that in a world where power-mad dictators are ruthlessly crushing individualism right and left, and personal freedom seems destined soon to become merely another relic of the dim forgotten past, doughnut-dunking is still legal, even though it must be done between the thumb and third finger.

Dummy Scrimmage Featured Florida To Play Drill Yesterday Afternoon Suwanee Tigers Saturday Night

Mentors Stressing Timing And Deception With Celery Fed Offensive; Lake City Squad Experienced

Head Coach Leonard L. McLucas of the Seminole High School Celery Fed's sent his 1938 practice session through a tough dummy scrimmage yesterday afternoon which was featured with a dummy scrimmage in order to check poor timing which occurred in the last Friday night with Kutsis.

Coach Melness and his assistants Woody Riser and Russ McCracken worked the Fed's in their block, which is still poor to some extent and also on the tackling which was not up to par last week.

RICK GILLESPIE - BACK

The session opened yesterday with the usual individual coaching with Melness leading the backs and Riser and McCracken on the line. Both blocking and tackling were stressed in these preliminary drills.

The description in the Celery Fed night will be much left to Friday night when the local delegation to the State Football High School League of Lake City as the coaches drilled the entire squad on double wingback plays during the dummy scrimmage.

Head Coach Robert Hooper of the Lions will bring an experienced squad to Sanford tomorrow night. However, no report was received from Lake City pertaining to a starting lineup. It is expected that the Hooper outfit has changed its offensive methods to a certain extent this year and that it will be entirely new to the Fed's.

Coach Melness has not announced any starting lineup for the battle tomorrow evening but he stated Wednesday afternoon that there would be plenty of changes in the starting lineup which he will announce immediately before game time as he did last week.

Farm Boy Has Bright Future In Sports Line

Corn Husking, Hog Calling Attract Thousands Yearly

By DILLON GRAHAM NEW YORK (AP)—After years of sports writing I find I am greatly handicapped because I wasn't reared as a bare-footed farm boy.

It has suddenly become evident, too, that my choice of a college journalism course instead of majoring in agriculture was a youngster's foolish whim. What the sports writing profession needs is a study of agriculture to the tap roots of agriculture.

Some of us will report the national corn husking championships out near Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 3. Now there's an event. The best shuckers in the grain belt step to the barrier on the edge of a corn field, slip palm hooks on their pitching hands and get set like a bunch of crack sportsmen awaiting the starter's gun.

For 80 minutes longer than a football or basketball game, they move down aisles between rows of corn, snatching ears from stalks, ripping husks with palm hooks and slamming the ears against a wagon bang-board. No timeouts or rest periods. These are Iron Men and they even take their gulps of water on the fly.

The bang-board rises high on one side of the wagon, like a basketball backboard. These lads play a swing tune tattoo against the board that jitterbugs could hustle to.

Penalties often decide the victor. Judges trail the contestants, blowing an ear of corn in an ear. So it isn't the guy who husks the most ears who always wins.

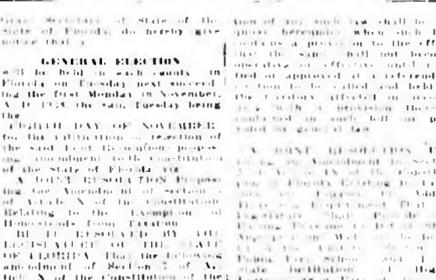

These huskers went particular about the weather. Last year they hiked in a cold, driving rainstorm, slushing about in slippery mud. This year it may be a dry, wintry day that almost kills for oxygen tanks as the contenders kick up suffocating dust.

Draft Horses Compete The plowing horse championship was held a short time ago on a Plainfield, Ill., farm. Paul Steinhilber, of Naperville, Ill., won a 10,000-pecuniary watched.

Draft horses get together for their annual pulling spree at Columbus, O., Oct. 8-15. These big steeds dig their hoofs into the ground, whip up power in the hindquarters and transmit it to the shoulders, through strong fore and back muscles. It's a swell tug-of-war show.

A Statement of Public Policy

by The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company

The Honorable Wright Patman, representative in Congress of the first district of Texas, has announced that he will introduce in the next Congress a punitive and discriminatory tax bill frankly designed to put chain stores out of business.

In arriving at a decision, the interests of several groups of people deserve consideration—the management, the 85,600 employees of the company, the consuming public, the millions of farmers producing the country's food, and labor.

1. The Interests of the Management

The interests of the management can be dismissed as of very little importance. The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company is managed by George L. Hartford and John A. Hartford under an arrangement made by their father, George Huntington Hartford, the founder of the business.

2. The Interests of the Employees

The interests of the employees of the company are, however, a matter of very grave concern. It is simply a statement of fact to say that the employees of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company generally throughout the United States receive the highest wages and have the shortest working hours of any workers in the grocery business.

3. The Interests of the Consumer

Since this business has been built by the voluntary patronage of millions of American families, we believe that we must give consideration to their interests in this matter. Millions of women know how acute is the present problem of providing food, clothing and shelter for themselves, their husbands and their children out of their present income.

This food was sold to the public at prices averaging from eight to ten percent lower than the prices of the average individual grocer. Literally, millions of sales were made at prices twenty-five percent lower than those of the average individual grocer.

In the last 10 years during the greatest period of chain store growth, the number of individual dealers has increased rather than decreased. We maintain that there is nothing wrong when these dealers charge more than we charge.

If some customers can afford and voluntarily elect to pay a higher price for groceries and meats because they want credit or because they want delivery to their homes it is quite proper that they should pay an additional price for such service.

4. The Interests of the Farmer

Eight million farm families are engaged in producing the food consumed by the American people. All of the farm homes in America, therefore, comprising one-fourth of all of the population of the United States, have a direct interest in the methods of distribution by which the products of their labor and of the soil are marketed.

Approximately 40% of their production is marketed through the chain food stores, about 70% through individual grocers. Then fruits, vegetables and other foodstuffs are sold through the chain stores at prices averaging 8% to 10% cheaper than the prices at which they are sold by many grocers.

In other words, the farmer's problem is to sell his products at the cost of production plus a fair profit and to get them to the public with as few intermediate costs and profits as possible.

It is therefore obviously unfair to the farmer to propose legislation which would, at a single blow, wipe out 40% of his distributing machinery—and that 40% the part which maintains the price to the farmer, not to be paid by the public at low cost because of normal distribution.

5. The Interests of Labor

Very business in this country has a vital interest in the purchasing power of labor. When labor has high wages and great purchasing power, everyone is prosperous.

It certainly seems strange that it should now be proposed to destroy a group of businesses for the frankly admitted reason that they furnish the necessities of life to the wage earners and their family at low prices.

We believe that our organization has rendered a great service to the American people and that it is as a result of that service that we have prospered.

As we have said, Mr. Patman is an able politician, an able lobbyist and an able propagandist. In that field he is an expert. We are experts only in the grocery business.

Since the task we have set before us is one involving the widest dissemination of complete information to all of the American people, and since this is a profession in which we are not experts, we have engaged Carl Byoir & Associates, public relations counsel, to do this work.

We believe that when the American people have all of the facts they will make their decision known to their representatives in Congress. As Americans we will be content with that decision.

Signature of George L. Hartford, President of the company.

CONVENTION HALL, HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor yesterday imposed another $100,000 assessment on its members and compromised a bustling dispute with the International Typographical Union in a twin-

There was not a dissenting vote as the committee on organization recommended that the federation convention approve the recommendation of the executive council that the 1 percent per month per member assessment, levied in Denver, Colo., last October, be extended another 12 months.

This union, one of the oldest and wealthiest in the federation, had refused to pay the assessments voted last year on the ground that it constituted a "tax chest" to be used against other unions—those affiliated with the C. I. O. head of the Typographical Union at that time was the late Charles Howard who also was secretary of the C. I. O. and one of John L. Lewis' shrewdest and most trusted advisers.
