World War I vets sought

SANFORD — If there are any World War I veterans in the Central Florida area, Uncle Sam wants to know where they are. He wants to give them a special medal.

According to the Department of Veterans Affairs in Washington, the nation is mustering the troops for one last time on the 75th anniversary of the armistice that ended "the war to end all wars."

A special medal commemorating their wartime service is to be given to every living U.S. veteran of World War I, estimated by the VA to be between 30,000 and 40,000.

Designed by the U.S. Army Institute of Heraldry, the medal is sponsored by the Chicago-based McCormick Tribune Foundation, and is being presented under the auspices of the departments of Defense and Veterans Affairs.

The first medals will be presented at ceremonies in Chicago, Aug. 30, during the annual convention of the Veterans of World War I of the U.S.A.

The VA will then distribute the medal to veterans beginning Sept. 1. Officials hope to have the bulk of the medals distributed by Veterans Day, Nov. 11, the actual 75th anniversary of the armistice.

To receive the medal, either in person in Chicago or locally, veterans or their representatives can obtain an application from the nearest VA regional office, or call, toll free, 1-800-827-1000.

Should Seminole school district add $1 million for Orlando project?

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Controversy erupted last night over the school board's possible financial support of the Orlando Science Center's expansion, but the issue is postponed until Aug. 10 so commissioners can think about it.

Board members Larry Strickler and Nancy Warren were at odds over the district's obligation to commit $1 million, $200,000 a year over the next five years, toward building the new science center in Orlando.

"I think we're getting a helluva deal out of what they're asking for," said Strickler. "We need to support it."

Warren was sympathetic, but believed there were more important needs.

"I respect the fact that we should support it," she said. "What I am having a hard time with is taking

Police union rep demands an apology; chief says no

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A police union representative says he wants an apology from the city after being ordered to leave the police station, but Chief Ralph Russell says none will be forthcoming.

Bill Dantschisch of Tampa, who represents the Fraternal Order of Police, was in Sanford yesterday to discuss an unrelated matter with an officer under an internal investigation. "I went to the police station to represent officer John Evans, who was being brought up on a hearing regarding a police car crash," he said. "They wouldn't let me in however, and forced me to leave the station."

"I think Deputy Chief Dillard thought I was there to represent the union," he said, "but I had been called on July 7th, and asked to represent officer Evans in this case."

The unionization of the Sanford police department is expected to come up for voting within the next two months. It is being conducted by Dist. 3 of the FOP, represented by Dantschisch.

Police Chief Ralph Russell explained, "This was an administrative hearing for officer Evans, and he had requested representation. But as of the present time, we don't recognize the union, we refused to allow Mr. Dantschisch to come in."

Power station fire probe continues

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — City fire inspector Steve Peavey was on the scene this morning trying to pinpoint what caused a fire in a Florida Power Corporation substation Tuesday night which knocked out power to about 14,000 customers in southwest Seminole and north Orange counties. It is believed lightning struck a portable transformer at the Magnolia Street substation.

Power was restored by 1 a.m. to all areas when the two transformers at the site were placed back on line.

Altamonte Springs Fire Chief David Halstead said 20 fire units from six area fire departments battled the fire which sent thick black smoke into the evening sky. Fire fighters from Longwood, Sanford, Seminole County, Winter Springs and Orange County assisted See Fire, Page 3A

It's official: water rates in Sanford to increase

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Water and sewer rates will increase in the city of Sanford. An ordinance establishing new rates was approved on 2nd reading during Monday night's City Commission meeting.

Following the unanimous vote, Commissioner Bob Thomas commented, "This is not something that is easy for us to do. I want the citizens to know this has been a very agonizing situation for all of us, but it had to be done."

For water rates inside the city limits, monthly service availability charges will be based on the water meter size, running from $3.14 per month for 3/4 inch lines, to $628.01 for 12 inch lines. Water consumed will be billed at the rate of $1.20 per See Water, Page 7A

Scientists firing rockets to study lightning

By The Associated Press

CAMP BLANDING, Fla.— A team of scientists is trying to learn more about lightning by firing rockets into clouds in hopes of coaxing down the natural, dangerous phenomenon.

Lightning is a major cause of equipment failure, and power companies spend millions of dollars to repair damage, says Martin Uman, a University of Florida electrical engineering professor and lightning expert.

Learning more about the powerful bolts may lead to more-resistant equipment, fewer power outages and fewer injuries and fatalities, Uman said.

A "lightning corridor" in Central Florida is the lightning capital of the United States, said Uman, whose work is featured in this month's "National Geographic" cover story.

"Lightning causes a great deal of damage, particularly here in Florida. ... Houses can be burned, computers damaged and forests ravaged by fire," he said.

It also kills an average of six people and injures another 30 each year in Florida, he said in a Tuesday news release.

But for as much as is known about its effects, lightning remains a mystery.

Legend has it founding father Benjamin Franklin hung a key from a line of a kite he floated under a thunderstorm. Electricity supposedly came along on the kite line and lit up the key.

At Camp Blanding near Starke, researchers are trying to attract lightning by launching rockets that trail grounded wires behind them. When things work right, a bolt flashes from the clouds down the wire toward the ground.

The primary experiment, supervised by Phil Barker of Power Technologies Inc., is aimed at measuring the voltages and current surges that lightning causes on power lines. The Schenectady, N.Y., company is taking measurements at more than 60 locations on the Camp Blanding site under a contract with the Electric Power Research Institute.

A French group, under Andre Ebert-Berrard, is triggering the lightning with the rockets, and UF researchers are measuring the electric and magnetic fields of the lightning.

"Learning more about the shapes and sizes of the fields is necessary to be able to calculate voltages that will appear and could damage power lines," said Uman.

"We don't know how the cloud produces the high electric fields that can initiate lightning," he added. "At the same time, we don't understand the details of exactly how lightning attaches to the ground, including how it decides what to hit."

Lake Mary may get a new fire truck

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — One of the items in the proposed fiscal year 1993/94 budget for Lake Mary is a new fire department unit. The pumper truck, totally outfitted, is estimated at a cost of $215,000.

"This would be a great help in our work," said Fire Chief Duane Mehl. "It would be used as a replacement for our oldest vehicle, a 1981 unit."

The '81 unit, which Mehl estimated is expected to have a 10 year life span, can carry only two firefighters in the cab. "When this was built," he said, "several firefighters could stand on the back and hold on while the vehicle was responding to a fire call."

He continued, "Now, with the OSHA requirements, all firefighters must be inside a truck's cab and be able to be seated and belted-in during the trip." When built, the old unit did not have seat belts.

The pumper truck he is proposing would have enough space to contain six firefighters in the cab unit.

The newer of the two larger units used by the Lake Mary Fire Department is a 1985 pumper truck, which reportedly has a bent frame, and has had a number of mechanical problems recently.

Commissioner A.R. "Doc" Jore was concerned over the condition of the equipment presently being used. "From looking into this situation," he said, "I think the costs the city has had in keeping the equipment operating is the result of improper maintenance of the equipment, rather than operator problems."

"When something such as a transmission has to be replaced several times in a short span of time," he said, "it's apparent the work may not have done properly in the first place."

Mehl explained that firefighters inspected some equipment on the units daily, while a major check is conducted each Monday by members of various shifts. "This is definitely a good thing," said Mayor Lowry Rockett, "but perhaps we should look into getting an independent opinion on the vehicle maintenance, some form of an outside opinion."

City Manager John Litton determined that the maintenance contract for service on the fire fighting units was up for annual renewal in October.

"Let's put this into consideration," Rockett said, "and look into this situation more thoroughly before we extend any contracts in October."

Beginning July 19, Lake Mary entered into a first response agreement with the Seminole County Fire Department. Lake Mary has been sectioned off, and responses to fire or emergency calls will now be based on the closest units. "This ends any disputes over which department should answer a call," Mehl said. "We shouldn't have any more problems when city or county lines are involved. It's now a matter of the unit which can respond the fastest, being called to the scene."

During 1992, the Lake Mary Fire Department responded to 150 fire calls and 578 rescue calls. With 1993 still not concluded, Mehl estimates the department will have responded to 200 fire calls and 673 rescue calls.

The matter of the requested tanker unit is still under consideration as Lake Mary budget work sessions continue through August.

In the meantime, Mehl has arranged for a new unit, similar to the one he has proposed for purchase, to be on hand at the Public Safety complex in Lake Mary on Tuesday. "I would like to invite all the commissioners to come out and see this unit," he said. "Something like this will go a long way in helping our department provide the best service we possibly can."

The new unit will make the stop in Lake Mary en route to begin service with the Orlando Fire Department.

Fire

Altamonte Springs units fight the blaze, Halstead said. The initial fire call was received shortly before 7 p.m. but there was an hour and a half delay before the power was turned off until fire fighters moved in. They waited while power company officials verified PCBs (poly chlorinated biphenyls) were not present. PCBs are carcinogens which are now banned. Mineral oil replaced PCBs in the power equipment years ago. FPC spokesman Bill Warren said, "Mineral oil acts as a lubricant in the transformers to keep them cool."

"We haven't used PCBs in decades," Warren said. "That's never going to be a Florida Power story, because we don't have any (PCBs). Part of our work was delayed because they wanted written verification of what was in there. They just wouldn't take our word. We had to pull the files and get the information for them."

After the power was cut, it was another 45 minutes before the fire was under control. Halstead said fire fighters used foam to control the blaze. The foam was used to reduce the heat of the mineral oil below its ignition temperature.

The portable transformer which burned was being used at the site while one of the two main transformers was being repaired. Warren said crews were already scheduled to put the permanent transformer back on line at midnight when fire broke out in the portable unit. About 150 to 200 residents in the direct path of the smoke were told to evacuate in the area of Hermits Trail, Florida Avenue and out to Seminole Avenue. Halstead said he ordered the evacuation because the smoke initially was low to the ground and fire fighters did not know whether there were toxic substances burning. Mineral oil from the transformer fed the flames. Halstead also said the smoke might have caused difficulties for individuals with respiratory problems.

Halstead said residents were advised to go to the Altamonte Mall, which had some emergency power. Businesses in the mall closed early when the power went out. Only one or two people went to Lake Mary High School which was opened as a Red Cross emergency shelter. Many residents went to stay with friends or went out to dinner, while others simply opted to stay in their homes.

"It was very difficult getting them to leave," Halstead commented.

Potato salad opens eyes

By MARIALISA CALTA

It's time to face a sad truth of summer: There are a lot of really bad potato salads out there. Our local supermarket, for example, offers two truly terrible varieties, one with mayo, one with vinaigrette, both with an awful aftertaste. So does my favorite diner, which is a real disappointment, as their coleslaw is excellent. Sudden spuds, drowning in mayo, make an appearance at nearly every potluck supper and community picnic. Cookbooks offer such unappetizing-sounding combos as warm mussel-and-potato salad, and ultratrendy versions with walnut oil and chevre. But this summer, I've made a vow. I'm out to find a simple, perfect potato salad. Here are some pretty good variations that I've encountered along the way.

Note: Although I've given the recipes as they appear in their cookbooks, I agree with Lydie Marshall (author of "A Passion for Potatoes," Harper Perennial, 1992) that potatoes should be cooked whole, in their skins, and peeled or cut (if necessary) while hot (use thick oven mitts) and dressed immediately to absorb flavors.

ALEXANDRA'S BACON AND POTATO SALAD

2 pounds small red potatoes, well scrubbed
5 strips bacon, diced
1 large red onion, thinly sliced
2 cloves garlic, thinly sliced
1/2 cup balsamic or cider vinegar
2 tablespoons butter

1 large ear of corn, kernels only (or 1 cup frozen kernels)
1 cup fresh or frozen peas
1 tablespoon mixed chopped fresh herbs such as parsley, basil and tarragon salt and pepper to taste

Love with married man is mostly pain and little gain

DEAR ABBY: Five or six years ago, you printed two letters in the same column dealing with the hopelessness of being in love with a married man. Will you please print them again? I carried them in my wallet, but my purse was stolen.

NEEDS REINFORCEMENT
DEAR NEEDS: Wise is the woman who admits that she needs reinforcement; here they are:

DEAR ABBY: This is probably just like a million other letters you've received from women who have had affairs with married men. But this one contains a piece of advice that hasn't been emphasized nearly enough.

Last year I started seeing an absolutely fantastic guy from work. I knew he was married, but we played it cool and thought we could handle it. It was terrific while it lasted, but it had to come to an end. (The old story: We got too serious. He didn't want to hurt his wife and kids. Then he got "noble" and told me he couldn't allow me to invest any more time in a man who couldn't marry me.) I'm not blaming anybody but myself. I'm a mature woman

Never depend on him in times of personal crisis.

Don't believe him when he tells you his wife is a shrew, cold, homely, too fat (or too thin) and hasn't slept with him for 10 years.

Don't ever expect his wife to divorce him — even if she catches him. She knows you are not his first and won't be his last. Also, she is not about to give up her social status, financial security and retirement income because of you.

However, her discovery will probably terminate his affair with you, so be prepared to get some new clothes, circulate, and find another married man whose wife is a shrew, cold, homely, too fat (or too thin) and hasn't slept with him for 10 years. Sign me...

Anti-cancer drug has few side effects

DEAR DR. GOTT: I recently underwent breast removal because of a tumor. My doctor indicated there is an anti-cancer drug called Nolvadex to help prevent recurrences. I understand the drug is very expensive, yet would like your opinion. Are there side effects?

DEAR READER: Fatigue and stress may cause darkening of the tissue under the eyes. The reason for this is not known, but the condition may be inherited. With rest and a return to a less demanding schedule, the darkened areas vanish.

DEAR READER: Many breast malignancies are estrogen-sensitive, meaning that their growth is accelerated by female hormone.

Nolvadex (tamoxifen), an estrogen-antagonist, is now standard therapy for certain women who have had such breast cancers removed. The drug appears to prevent the appearance of new breast tumors as well as inhibiting the growth of malignant cells that may not have been identified at surgery -- and, therefore, remain hidden.

Tamoxifen pills virtually cause an early menopause because of their anti-estrogen effects, so the principal adverse reactions are hot flashes, nausea and vomiting, which ordinarily disappear as the drug is continued. Other, less common side effects are depression, dizziness, fluid retention and headache.

I cannot comment on the cost of the drug, which varies from one area of the country to another. However, tamoxifen seems to offer such significant benefits that expense should be a secondary consideration.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Breast Cancer and Disorders." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have dark circles around my eyes, especially during the week before my menstrual cycle. What causes this, and is it a sign of a health problem?

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Voltaire, in "Zadig," suggested that "the opportunity for doing mischief is found a hundred times a day, and for doing good once in a year." Well, at the bridge table, it would be disappointing if we could make a good play only once a year. However, when opportunity knocks, it would be even more disappointing not to know how to open the door.

South's response of two no-trump showed a balanced hand with 13-15 points. Yes, there are some traditionalists left. In the modern game, most treat this response as invitational, showing only 10-12 points.

West led his fourth-highest heart. South saw that if the diamond finesse was working, he was in clover. But in case East had the diamond king, South started by applying the Rule of Seven. He had five hearts between his hand and the dummy. Deducting five from seven told South to hold up his heart ace for two rounds.

After winning the third heart trick, South took the diamond finesse. It lost, and East defended well by returning a low club.

Now South's nerve failed him. Seeing several undertricks in his future, South played the club six. West gratefully scooped up the trick with his queen, cashed two heart tricks and led another club to his partner's ace: three down.

South, of course, should have realized that he had to try to prevent West off the lead. He should have risen with the club king. True, if West had the ace without the queen, this would cost a lot of extra undertricks. But they would be a small price for South to pay for the opportunity of making his contract.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
 YOUR BIRTHDAY
 July 29, 1993

In the year ahead you might resurrect an old endeavor that almost got off the ground but didn't. Your chances for making it work with what you know now are very good.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today if you get involved in a friendly, competitive game with a pal such as golf, tennis or handball, don't make winning too important. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Guard against inclinations today to do things that make you look good at the expense of someone else. Unfortunately, if you do fall into this pattern you might not even be aware of it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Usually you are a very diplomatic individual, but today this splendid quality might desert you and you might either use excessive flattery or treat others arrogantly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions that have an influence on your material security could be a trifle unsettling today. Be alert for uncertainties and be protective of your interests at all times.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This might not turn out to be such a nifty day if you and your mate can't agree upon which playmates to spend the day with. Don't make this something too difficult to resolve.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be wary of patterns today which could be self-defeating and make easy matters complex. Figure out effective shortcuts, not frustrating detours.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A well intentioned friend might not be the one to whom you should go for constructive business advice today. Talk to someone who understands matters as well as you do.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Noteworthy achievements will not be denied you today if you have the fortitude and tenacity to attain them. If at first you don't succeed, regroup and charge again.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Strive to be tactful today if you're subjected to an awkward position where you might have to make a decision that will affect friends with opposing opinions. Where is Solomon when he's needed?

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In order for a joint endeavor to work at this time, there must be parity between the principals. If one contributes and the other doesn't, it could be a no-go.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In an important partnership arrangement today, you and your counterpart must strive to be objective and not to deliberately veto what the other has to offer.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't expect co-workers to do things for you today you're capable of doing for yourself. This is a very tender spot and it could ignite a conflict.
