Business Leaders
 than in Wall Street these days. Stock sales volume down, prices flabby. Emil Schram, president of the New York Stock Exchange, says in Denver that things won't get much better in the matter of getting new capital into the corporate security market until something is done about the federal tax structure.
 Well, things looked a little better today—or at least no worse—to many Wall Street observers. They took heart from Washington reports that congressional leaders apparently had tabled for this year the President's demand for higher taxes.
 And in Illinois, an economist predicts businessmen are going to find a bigger supply of money around this year. In the "Illinois Business Review," R. M. Nolen, associate professor of economics at the University of Illinois, estimates there may be several billions of excess dollars looking for investment chances. Much of this excess money, he thinks, will be for work. Another source will be the banks, who are expected to have even more lendable cash shortly, if bank reserve requirements are lowered again, as seems likely.
 The metals industry is all gloom right now. Copper prices sagged again yesterday in the world market. Zinc dropped to 11 cents a pound. Two months ago it was 17½ cents. Word is going around that no more zinc is wanted for the nation's strategic stockpile. Rumor has it that tin, now set by the government at $1.83 a pound, may lose about five cents next week. Uncle Sam buys it from Bolivia and peddles it out here. Even he is now expected to join in the non-ferrous price slating parade.
 But out in the scrap metal yards the first to turn cheerful. Copper scrap even went up a cent a pound the other day. Some steel scrap men say their goods will be in demand again late this year. And, finally, the Department of Commerce looks at consumer buying. It tells today of the "wakening" of consumer demand in the first quarter, but goes on to say that since then "consumer buying remained relatively steady," however, it notes that "personal income continued to demand again late this year."

Winter Park Woman Is Active At 76

By ANDY ANDERSON
AP Newsfeature

WINTER PARK, Fla.—A woman "too busy entertaining other people's children to have a family of her own" is still pounding her typewriter at the age of 76.

She is Eulalie Osgood Grover, who wrote the perennial Sunbonnet Babies books, and who now is completing a narrative biography on Benjamin Franklin, generally for teenagers as was her first such book-length biography on Robert Louis Stevenson, published in 1910.

She has been at work slowly on the book for several years and says she feels that the great American, who died in 1790, and "I am contemporaries."

But it is "The Sunbonnet Babies" she is famous for and which you yourself probably remember. It was Miss Grover's first book for children and was published by Rand, McNally in 1902. It appeared in trade and school editions simultaneously and the author says she thinks it was the first juvenile book to be issued in that manner.

The school edition has been in print without interruption since then; and the trade edition, was until recently.

During the period, Miss Grover edited one book of poetry and has written nearly a score of other books, simultaneously and the latest one was "Volland Mother Goose," illustrated in four colors, and published originally in 1918. It has been in continuous circulation since.

"Because of my many years of work in the field," she says, "I have sometimes been referred to as the dean of juvenile writers. It has been a happy appointment."

The Sunbonnet Babies and the overall boys books pioneered big print type for small eyes. They were printed with four-color illustrations and have sold over 11 million.

They have been set to music, written into operettas, and one enterprising German mother, like this into German, translated.

"Not long after they first appeared," Miss Grover says, "the publishers suggested I take the characters across the ocean to see how children played in Holland, Switzerland and Italy. The result was a travel story about each of the countries."

These stories, written for second or third grade children, ap-

Rev. Mrs. Saunders Move To Sanford

The Rev. and Mrs. Claude Saunders recently moved to Sanford from Abbeville, Ga., where the Rev. Saunders was pastor of the First Baptist Church, Jacksonville. They have purchased the J. F. Campbell home on the west side.

An experienced and amiable pastor, the Rev. Saunders studied in the Holy Land. He is available for evangelistic work, Bible teaching, supply or pastoral work and may be contacted by telephoning 273-1 or writing at P. O. Box 211, or by calling the Rev. W. P. Brooks, Jr. at the First Baptist Church.

To make a quick frosting for a plain white cake melt three cups of butter or margarine and mix well with a half cup of brown sugar and a cup of moist shredded coconut, spread mixture on an eight or nine-inch cake and broil carefully until coconut is lightly browned.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD May 25 (AP)—How would you like to conduct a school where the students earn more than you do?

That's the unusual occupation of Miss Macdonald, who has been head of the MGM studio school since 1932. Among her student body of eight are such names as Margaret O'Brien, Ivan Stockwell, Claude Jarman, Jr., and the girl we'd most like to stay after school with—Elizabeth Taylor.

Miss Macdonald's is no little red schoolhouse, red being an unpopular shade in Hollywood these days. It's a cream-colored of sturdy structure, located but a year's throw from the stages where the students toil in their non-studying hours.

The film star students are required to attend school from nine to 12 in the morning. High school pupils, like Miss Taylor, have to do homework as well. "Humm, would it be nice if she needs any help with her English?"

Miss Macdonald, who formerly taught in Philippine and Los Angeles schools, looks young, having instructed child actors for 18 years. She has seen such students as Lana Turner, Judy Garland, Mickey Rooney, Freddie Bartholomew, Jackie Cooper and Jane Powell come and go. I asked her which were the brightest.

"Now? she replies with school-taught me to say that. Think how the ones I didn't name would feel?" She also declined to name the dumbest.

Does she think actors are smarter than ordinary students?

"Not necessarily. They are about the same as other children, except in one regard. They have more presence and meet people much more easily."

Does she have any unusual disciplinary problems?

"No, the students are generally cooperative. Sometimes there are those who get some bad advice, from people who might say, 'Why do you mind her?—you're making more money than she is.' But most of our problems can be worked out. I have never had to use force yet."

Young Jarman, who was perusing his algebra nearby, suggested a sure way of disciplining the studio students—"Put 'em on suspension."

Miss Macdonald tries to keep the school like a normal one. Generally a graduation class consists of one, but there is a class will and pro-

Scouts Move Morgan To West Palm Beach
DAYTONA BEACH, May 24.—(Special)—Resignation of Harold E. Morgan, field scout executive of the Central Florida Council, Boy Scouts of America, was announced here today. Morgan accepted a position on the staff of the Gulf Stream Council in West Palm Beach and will begin his new duties shortly after the first of June in order to direct the summer session of Camp Lake Osborne.
Morgan came to the local council in September 1947 from Toledo, Ohio where he was director of senior scouting. A graduate of the National Training School for Scout Executive at Mendham, N. J., he also served as field scout executive and assistant scout executive in Steubenville, Ohio.
The 45-mile-square glacial area of Mount Rainier, Washington, is greater than that of any other peak in the United States and includes 28 ice streams.

Pilot Meet
that they make a canvass of the houses in their own neighborhoods. Over $200 has thus far been collected, it was reported.
The club voted to sponsor a high school student fir Girls State in Tallahassee in June. Three girls were selected, one of whom will be chosen by the student body to represent the Pilot Club.
In response to an appeal made by Recreational Director Mrs. P. M. Gingles, members voted to sponsor a "Hobby Show" with the time and place to be selected by Mrs. Gingles.
Mrs. Scott extended an invitation from Roy Holler to attend the Rotary sponsored Junior All Stars baseball game at the Municipal Park tomorrow night. She also urged as many as could to attend the meeting of the Seminole County Tuberculosis and Health Association in the City Hall at 8:00 P. M. tomorrow.
Mrs. A. B. Peterson reported on the recent drive for funds for the American Cancer Society, sponsored by the Pilot Club and carried out by students in Sanford, Oviedo and Longwood. She commended Arnold Harrington, president of the senior class of Seminole High School, and his corps of workers for the splendid work they did in collecting $1,013.65 which has been forwarded to Dan McCarthy, state campaign chairman.

Legislature Action
never came to a vote.
The House put the axe to its version of the bill to regulate private gas and electric utilities. The opponents succeeded in postponing the proposal indefinitely, which means sure death to a bill.
The House delayed action on its top calendar bill to designate Gainesville as the site for a State Medical College.
The Senate's principal action was upholding Governor Warren's veto of a local bill to permit the city of Palm Beach to levy unlimited license and excise taxes.
The resolution to delay tax talk by the Finance Committee was drafted by Rep. Fuqua of Manatee.
Instead of voting to deny, however, the committee agreed to dispose of all bills formally pending before it tomorrow. The big new transactions tax bill supported by Governor Warren has not been introduced and will not be expected to action tomorrow.
Even before the special session resolution came up it ran into opposition from Governor Warren, who alone can call a special session—and from Senator W. A. Shand of Gainesville, head of the powerful Senate Finance Committee.
If the Legislature should decide to meet only the primary appropriations, it would take $52,046,000 in new taxes for the next two years. The House Appropriations Committee bill, still to be introduced, is expected to carry a much smaller total.
There is nothing in the big Senate bill for construction of buildings. Senator Leroy Collins, appropriations chairman, said construction money will be covered in a separate bill. The Budget Commission recommended $11,000,000 for new buildings.
Generally, the Senate committee trimmed appropriations of administrative agencies below what the Budget Commission recommended and boosted the funds for colleges and custodial institutions.
It gave the institutions of higher learning $9,558,692 more than the Budget Commission recommended—raising them almost to the amounts they originally requested.
It put in the full $90,000,000 recommended for public schools, plus $1,566,000 additional State contributions for county school construction. That allows a State building contribution of $554 per unit—half way between the $350 now available and the $400 recommended by the Education Advisory Council and approved by the House.
There were no salary raises provided for justices of the Supreme Court, circuit judges nor Cabinet officers.
The entire $14,600 fund requested for the new job of Coordinator of Higher Education was eliminated. The position was created soon after Governor Warren took office and given to Galt English, former school superintendent and defeated candidate for governor.
The committee also eliminated an $800,000 item which for the

Davis Named
were nominated at the same time, as follows:
Joseph Plack, now ambassador to Bolivia, to be ambassador to Costa Rica, succeeding Davis.
George P. Shaw of Texas, to be ambassador to El Salvador, succeeding Albert Nuffer, resigned.
Pete Jarman of Alabama, a former member of the House, to be ambassador to Australia. The post is now vacant.
Chapin was recalled from Budapest for consultation following charges that Hungary made against him during the treason trial of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty last winter.
The Communist-dominated Hungarian government contended that Chapin had worked with Mindszenty in various offenses against the Hungarian government. The Cardinal was sentenced in February to life imprisonment.
The United States denied the charges against Chapin, but when the Hungarian government said that Chapin was persona non grata, the United States ordered him to Washington while formally "reserving its position" in respect to Hungary's action.
Today's announcement of Davis' appointment meant that the State Department had finally decided to end the resulting extraordinary situation in diplomacy.
In this situation, the Department insisted in retaining Chapin as minister even though the Hungarian government said that he was no longer acceptable to it.
Hungary, like other Balkan countries, is supposed to be controlled by a peace treaty enforced mainly by Russia, the United States, Britain and France. This fact caused the State Department to consider making an issue over Hungary's right to eject a minister of one of the nations responsible for supervising Hungary's conduct.
But the issue was never formally drawn and would have come to nothing anyway, officials privately agreed, because of support for the Communist government in Budapest by the Soviet Union.
However, the Ministry case has been put before the United Nations. The United States also is making an issue of Hungary's violation of human rights guarantees in the peace treaty.
Davis, 54, is a diplomat of wide experience who has been in foreign service since the end of Western sectors.

The 12,000 Western sector employees left their jobs Saturday, causing a complete halt in the all transportation within the city.
The Russians threw a new, disorienting note in the rail situation by demanding custody of locomotives in American sector railway yards. Forty Soviet soldiers entered the Anhalter station shortly after noon and insisted on permission to take Communist workmen with them so they could remove locomotives which had been tied up by the strike.
Ruether Shot

footprint found in the yard of his home.
State police also entered the investigation. At an early hour today there were no further clues.
Dr. Lam said that Ruether was hit by "at least" six pellets, most in the neck and face.
Several hours after the shooting Dr. Lam said Ruether's condition was "favorable for ultimate recovery" but that there was "serious danger" he might lose the sight of his right eye.
Ruether did not lose consciousness. He was given four pints of blood in transfusions, doctors said.
The medical report said that one shotgun pellet entered the eye and a second fractured Ruether's right collarbone. Two caused "minor flesh wounds" in the soft side of his neck and two others struck him in the right cheek.
Police said the gunman fired from a range of about 15 feet.

Congress Action

joined by Senator Finlender (R-Vt.) in that proposal.
They offered a series of amendments to pending legislation to revise the law that unified the Army, Navy and Air Forces.
One would give the commandant of Marines a place and vote on the joint chiefs of staff whenever that top-level agency was considering a matter involving the Marine Corps or their specialty of amphibious warfare.
Another amendment would spell out functions of the Marines and eliminate a present requirement for coordination with the Army and Air Force now written into law.
A third amendment appeared to take a slap at the Air Force and give a boost to the Army.
