Lake Mary commissioner named in state investigation

By SHARI BRODIE
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - A Lake Mary city commissioner is being investigated for a possible election violation, while two of his contemporaries stand by their endorsement of him.

Sheila Sawyer has filed a complaint against her opponent in the November 1997 election, Al Crump, alleging that a campaign brochure contained "glowing false statements."

Sawyer has asked the Florida Elections Commission to investigate Crump's campaign literature under a Florida Statute that prohibits "false statements with malice about an opposing candidate."

The former commissioner names Seminole County Commission Chairman Randy Mor-

SANFORD - Seminole County Commissioner Grant Maloy says he believes the commission's effort to clean up adult entertainment and sexually oriented businesses is "going down like the Titanic."

Maloy is miffed that the county has wasted time and energy and spent more than $200,000 in legal fees without success.

"All that's been accomplished is that a few of these clubs have spruced up their outside appearance," Maloy said Friday. "But that wasn't the problem. It's the conduct inside that needed to be changed."

"When we started all this, I thought there was a good chance of cleaning up the county, but it hasn't happened. We've spent like crazy and changed little. It's all a mess."

Benefit concert brings out heart in community, just as teen receives one

By KELLIE WERNER

SANFORD - When people pull together for a good cause, things happen.

In this instance, a life was saved.

Through the dedication and hard work of a local teenage gospel group, AKZ, David Bando was on the operating table at Shands Hospital in Gainesville Saturday morning, getting another chance at life.

"Everything that the community has done for us, especially AKZ has brought an abundant amount of joy to our family," David's mother, Sonja Bando said from the waiting room at Shands. "It just proves that there are still wonderful people in the world and that people still care. I cannot express how thankful I am that people have pulled together for my son."

David has been waiting at the University of Florida medical center for over three weeks for a heart transplant that will keep him alive. He was diagnosed with a rare heart condition several years ago which finally took its toll on the 19-year-old a few weeks ago and put him on an emergency waiting list for the surgery.

There was one problem, however. David's father passed away six months ago from the same condition and he was the sole provider of income and insurance for his family. Sonja, in addition to mourning her husband's death, has been trying to find a way to not only feed her family, but also keep her son alive and pay for his medical expenses.

Sanford may sell land for road extension at 1986 price

By NICK PFEDAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) has increased the offer to purchase city-owned property on Upsala Road. The land is in the line of construction for the extension of the GreeneWay toll road 417 toward Interstate-4.

Described in various documents as a city fire station site, the land has not been developed as such. Sanford Fire Chief Tom Hickson said it was purchased with the intent of building a new fire station facility, but the project was never completed.

Sanford purchased the land for $99,000 in December of 1986. It is south of the present Upsala Road fire station, on land which once was a railroad right of way.

Although not listed on the regular agenda of Monday night's Sanford City Commission meeting, it is expected to be brought up for discussion as a late item during the city manager's report at the work session.

The first offer from FDOT, submitted in December, was $28,100, which the city refused to accept. Following a meeting between City Manager Bill Simmons, and officials from the FDOT and Turnpike Authority, Sanford made a counter offer of the original purchase price, $99,000, which was agreed upon by FDOT according to a letter to Simmons dated Feb. 10.

Winter Springs Town Center feels like home

By TONY TIZZIO

WINTER SPRINGS - Following Sanford's successful rejuvenation of its downtown area, Winter Springs recently unveiled its version of a small town hub, catering to the upscale community.

The 230-acre plan for a Winter Springs

Town Center near Tuskawilla Road will be "our version of Disney's Celebration," said Mayor Paul Partyka.

Others who praised the project included Winter Springs merchant Dick Gudenkauf of Speedy Quick Printing who sat on the original 434 Development Committee. "We have the land, so the time is right," he said.

Commissioner Cindy Gennell acknowledged the efforts of many people to pull the project together. "A lot of us have been working hard for this for a long time."

Represented at the meeting and involved in the process were the many consultants who are concerned with both the overall design of the project, as well as its finan-

Check out self-service at grocery store

By SHARI BRODIE
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - The 21st Century is available in a supermarket near you.

"I love it. It's the only way to shop," said Ginny Peters after her first experience with the self-service checkout system at the Lake Mary Winn-Dixie Marketplace.

The grocery store installed three self-checkout lanes about five weeks ago. Winn-Dixie spokesman Randy Roberts calls the system "one stop shopping at its best."

Customers may choose to use the system whether they have a few items or a larger order. The new system is designed to be easy to use and gives the customer step-by-step instructions.

Equipped with a sensitive scanner and an automatic belt, customers simply scan the bar-code located on the grocery item and place it on the belt. The belt can detect the size and weight of the item; this protects against double-scanning or double-charging. The customer only needs to enter a UPC code for a fruit or vegetable or larger items, such as big bags of dog food. The scanning bed also weighs the produce item.

The order total can be checked at any time during the process. This is convenient for customers who are short on cash. When the order is complete, the customer takes the bagged groceries and the receipt to a special cashier, to pay for the order. Discounts for coupon items are subtracted at this time. The cashier knows which orders have been through the self-service checkout by the plastic bags: white for self-service and brown for full-service.

Safeguards are built into the system, so that minors can not purchase alcoholic beverages.

Winn-Dixie has added the self-service checkout lanes to the Lake Mary and MetroWest supermarkets. The Jacksonville-based chain plans to install more by March, in Ormond Beach, Conway/Hoffner and Waterford Lakes stores. Winn-Dixie is currently the only supermarket chain using the self-service checkout.

Designed to save time for the customer, the system has proved popular in Lake Mary. Shoppers could preview the system four weeks before it

Coldwell Banker helps create new home for the Gordons

By NICK FREIDAU

ORLANDO - Patricia Gordon and her four children, have realized their dream. A new home has been provided by Habitat for Humanity and Coldwell Banker Real Estate Corporation.

A ceremony was held recently at the home located in Orlando, at which time the keys were turned over by President and CEO of Coldwell, Alex Perriello.

"We are pleased to have been able to provide Patricia and her family with this new home," Perriello said, "and proud to support the efforts of Habitat for Humanity International." He added that Coldwell is dedicated and committed to helping family like the Gordons to achieve the dream of owning their own home.

The house was built in just six weeks, in a blitz, through Coldwell Banker employees. Coldwell reportedly has raised over $600,000 during the past four years and helped build over 50 homes in cooperation with Habitat for Humanity.

IN BRIEF

Who opened the flood gates?

LAKE MARY - City Hall was closed for business Friday after the building was flooded as the result of a water main break.

City Manager John Litton said air pressure caused the hydraulic toilets to overflow when water was turned back on after work done on a water main.

A break had been found in a pipe on East Crystal Lake Avenue. The break was caused by a tree root. Public works crews shut down flow to the pipe around 2 a.m. Friday morning to make repairs. When the water was turned back on, the overflow occurred, flooding city hall with 1/8-inch of water.

Some residents experienced a period of no water, but the water supply was never contaminated.

Judicial nominations

In order to fill a vacancy on the circuit court bench created by Judge Pound's retirement, the Judicial Nominating Commission for the 18th Judicial Circuit covering Brevard and Seminole Counties has certified three nominees to Governor Chiles.

The nominees were selected from a field of 16 applicants and are as follows: Judge Lisa Kahn, Bruce T. McKinley, and Pearl Crosby Smith.

Governor Chiles has 60 days to make the appointment from the list of nominees submitted.

Volunteers honored

Sixty-five volunteers were honored Tuesday, Feb. 17 for their dedicated service to the Sanford Christian Sharing Center. The fellowship hall of First Presbyterian Church, Third and Oak, rang with piano tunes by Jeanne Shea; a "Damsel in Distress" melodrama, led by Pastor Lloyd Alamsia with volunteers playing the parts. A table napkin's placement determined whether or not you were the sweet young maiden, the hero or the dastardly villain.

After the energetic thespian lunch breaker, attendees enjoyed lunch provided by Buck's Catering. Jesse Peebles, a one man entertainment center, donated his talents, on the keyboard, fiddle and guitar, playing oldies, but goodies.

President Richard Martin commended the volunteers on their loyalty in staffing the Sanford Christian Sharing Center, now in its 21st year.

The Center is open Monday through Friday (except holidays) 9 a.m. to noon, 515 E. 25th Street.

Heart

Shands Hospital sponsored the $300,000 operation which would give David the heart he needed. That wonderful gesture, however, only covered the astronomical cost of the actual operation. There was still the consideration of the post-operation care in addition to the constant monitoring and testing to ensure that his body recovers properly and doesn't reject the new organ.

That's where AKZ came in. The three teenagers decided that someone needed to help the Bandoos and began informing the community of David's condition and need.

Last night, they held a benefit concert at the New Life Word Center in order to raise money for the post operation expenses, in addition to a trust fund that has been established at Huntington National Bank in Sanford.

"The turnout for the concert was absolutely unbelievable," Patty Hartwig, the mother of one of the group members said. "There were about 120 people who came out and they were all local. The kids sang for almost two hours while the audience danced, talked and sent out their prayers for David. It really was a miracle."

Joining AKZ were two local groups: The Life Savers, a four member Christian rap group and the New Life Word Center choir. Group member Amy Anne Hartwig and Zerimar "ZZ" Ramirez sang solos, a rendition of the popular song "Anytime you need a friend" and "You are my God" respectively. There was music that appealed to everyone, from gospel to rap and pop.

"I am really not bragging, but we sang better last night than we ever have," Amy Anne said. "We had a reason for singing and our voices came out the very best that they ever could. Everyone seemed to enjoy the show and that's important to us."

At the end of the evening, the donations poured in from people who really didn't have money to give. People gave of their hearts instead of their wallets and AKZ raised over $1,300 for the Bandoos family. That is in addition to any contributions that have been made to the trust fund.

"I really believe that God did this, not us," ZZ said. "When I realized what we were able to accomplish, I was completely ecstatic. I cannot thank everyone enough for pulling together and helping David and his mother."

There was one little piece of good news still waiting for AKZ and Sonja.

At 3 a.m. this morning, a heart match for David was found. He was prepped and ready for surgery by 6 a.m.

At 9:45 Saturday morning, Sonja received an update on her son's progress...the heart had just arrived 30 minutes prior and they were getting ready to give it to her son.

"This is the crucial part for David right now," Sonja said. "Now and of course the post-operation care. We'll just have to wait and see what the ending to this story will be. But I have faith that if we've come this far, anything is possible." Sonja said anything is possible if people care.

AKZ has shown that dedication and that true love for your fellow man can move mountains.

Or at least give people heart.

Promoting good race relations

One of the last forums for segregation is the church. Blacks for the most part worship with other blacks. Whites with other whites.

But for eight years, members of First Baptist Church of Sanford and New Life Word Center have made a point of getting together for the Joint Fellowship and Worship Event. The Rev. Ron Merthie from New Life, and Pastor Dr. Wayne Harvey from First Baptist, see the services as a way to demonstrate in Christ's name that there is no difference in people, they are just different colors.

"This day is a good reminder to us that we all are children of God," Harvey says.

"I am convinced that our coming together as we have is making a difference in the community of Sanford," Merthie says.

We agree. The worship of God is a very personal relationship that transcends our physical being and centers in our spiritual soul. It is the ability to see the world beyond oneself and one's immediate and basic needs. Our connection to a Supreme Being defines our humanity. Harvey and Merthie agree, we are all God's children. He sees us not as having worth because we are a certain color or because we have captured material success. Our worth is measured by our relationships with others. What we put into making the world a better place for the short time we are in it.

Sanford over the years has suffered some from racial tension. Merthie, Harvey, and congregations from New Life and First Baptist are to be commended for recognizing those tensions and doing their parts to ease them and build better relationships with all people. We hope more of these joint services are held, including other churches. More of us must understand that under our skin, pale as snow or dark as ebony, we are not so different in our hopes and dreams, in our human journeys through life.

LETTER

City manager search

To city commissioners, Re: Nine-man search committee for new Sanford city manager. It is my hope that the city make a diligent, nationwide search for applicants to consider for Sanford's next city manager.

Don't be too hasty to narrow the list of applicants before a thorough investigation of all you receive.

It would also be helpful to have a periodic listing in the Sanford Herald of responding applicants.

Hopefully, your final choice will be a top-notch city manager from out-of-state --- or at least one with no previous ties to our area.

BUT, if it turns out that your final selection is one from this area, then the citizens of Sanford can assume the selection process was just a farce.

Another victim of Heavy School Backpack Syndrome

So, she's too old, he's too stupid

It was 6 o'clock when my husband decided he had a ravenous hankering for a big he-man's breakfast. What he had in mind was a typical country breakfast -- a slab of Smithfield ham, two extra-large fried eggs over light, steaming hot grits drizzled with sausage gravy, sugar-cinnamon-coated fried apples and freshly-baked hot buttered biscuits.

We're talking about 6 o'clock in the evening here, not morning. And on top of that, our low-fat and low-cholesterol larder is not stocked with these satisfying staples.

A far cry from our usual boring orange juice and oatmeal breakfast menu. So, off we headed to the Cracker Barrel where a country breakfast becomes a succulent dinner for those who savor eating that high off the hog.

The already dark night was dismal and dreary with a slight mist-a-fallin' while a gusty wind was a-blowin'. My ever-lovin' parked me at the front entrance of the rambling frame building to register on the waiting list while he circled the crowded lot in search of a space to park the car.

Making a mad dash in the rain toward the door, I couldn't help but notice the rustic wide verandah was lined with comfy, old-fashioned rocking chairs filled with hungry patrons a-rockin' and a smokin' while a-waitin'.

Upon crossing the threshold into the overly-packed (with people and merchandise) country store, electronically-controlled green ceramic bull frogs announced my presence with unbelievably-realistic, loud croaks.

Cringing at the unexpected noise while deeply inhaling the permeating fragrances emitting from scented candles and toiletries, I finally mustered enough breath to address the hostess. Smiling, she politely informed me there would be a 30-to 35-minute wait. "Oh, no, and no place to sit," I whined under my breath.

SENIOR EDITOR

Then, I spotted a friend, Doris Gormly, an employee in the gift shop, who was patiently showing two lively lads, about 9-years-old, some exciting toys including a puzzle featuring three rings to be linked. I moseyed over to pass the time of day (actually evening) with her, while loudly moaning and groaning about the long wait with nowhere to sit.

"They will bring you a chair from the dining room," she informed me. I thanked her, but declined. Then I thought to myself that they, I'm not THAT old."

Just about that time, the smaller, slimmer boy, whom I shall call PeeWee, handed me the ring puzzle to solve. The other boy (let's call him Ringo), a bit chubby with round cheeks and wide eyes, loudly declared to the throngs in the gift shop, "She can't work it. She's too old!"

Whoa! "Why you impudent little squirt," I muttered.

An apologetic PeeWee turned to his friend and admonished him with, "You shouldn't have said that. It's not nice to call people old."

I mused, "Atta Boy, PeeWee, sock it to him.

Go ahead and let him have it."

Ringo sheepishly ducked his head, slowly backed off and became totally absorbed with frantically attempting to solve the difficult puzzle. I was gloriously gloating that here was my chance to teach young Ringo a good lesson about life.

"Know why you can't work the puzzle?" I haughtily snapped at the bewildered boy.

"No, why?" he shot back.

"Cause you're too stupid!"

Well, he huffed, he puffed and he swelled up like one of those ceramics bull frogs guarding the entrance and croaked, "It's not nice to call people stupid."

We each apologized at about the same time. Now that we had established such a friendly rapport, there was no getting rid of the youthful worry warts. Ringo and Pee Wee were at our heels as we browsed every square inch of the cluttered store while awaiting our turn for nourishment.

PeeWee bragged to us that he was spending the night with Ringo and had plenty of money to spend. Well, those two boisterous boys tinkered and toyed with just about every plaything in the country store and fingered and sniffed the tantalizing confections neatly on display in the sweet tooth department -- that is, neat until Ringo and PeeWee arrived.

Soon, our name was called and we reluctantly retreated to the dining room while laughing about getting such a big kick out of the two imphah, but absolutely charming, little fellows.

And we are still wondering what PeeWee eventually purchased with the two crumpled dollar bills that were burning a hole in the pocket of his tight, faded jeans.

Heather Kirby is an exuberant 25-year-old Texas-born woman, who greets everyone with a smile and a kind word. Her friendly demeanor makes everyone almost unaware of the fact that she has spina bifida. Spina bifida (or divided spine) is described as a birth defect in which there is defective closure of the vertebral column during prenatal development.

In the U.S., spina bifida occurs in about one out of every 1,000 live births. Because of this condition, Heather was born with an outgrowth on her back caused she says, by a build-up of spinal fluid. She later had this outgrowth surgically removed, thanks to the local Shriners of San Angelo, Texas who helped with about 95 percent of the surgery bills.

In fact Heather was the Shriners poster girl, with many TV and newspaper appearances. Besides the Shriners, she praises the Texas Rehabilitation Commission of San Angelo which helped with her education. Heather also has Osteomyelitis, a bone disease, in her legs. Even with her difficulties, Heather has had a lot of people who supported and encouraged her.

You see, Heather was adopted and raised in a foster family with five other brothers and sisters. They are still very close she says. Growing up, she loved playing sports like football and soccer with her family, even with her wheelchair.

Many times, she forgot that she was disabled and so did her family. A great loss, however, was when her younger brother Ernie, who had cerebral palsy, died in 1991. Heather is especially close to her 14-year-old nephew Ty, whom she says is more sensitive to disabled people because of having had her and Ernie in his family.

Heather's parents were very supportive of her, even when her siblings and she used to play on the monkey bars as children. (Her mother did go ballistic at first.) Heather was a self-described tomboy. Her mother fought with the local school board to allow Heather admittance into the mainstream classes as opposed to special education classes.

Heather moved to Central Florida last October with her sister Naomi, a nurse, specializing in caring for heart patients. They share an apartment with two dogs. She loves animals having been brought up on a ranch. Naomi sees accessibility as a major roadblock for people like her sister. "The saddest thing about accessibility," Naomi says, "is that everything is not accessible."

Continuing with accessibility, Heather thinks one of the most frustrating things for her is that standard housing is very hard for her to adjust to. Controls are always placed too high and out of reach such as on sinks, stoves and washers and dryers. She says Florida seems to be a bit more adaptive towards the disabled than other places she has lived.

Always bettering herself, Heather has taken a couple of correspondence courses in the medical field and plans to work as a medical transcriptionist. A good part of Heather's passion, particularly in Texas, has been volunteering. She has met a lot of people and enjoys learning about their lives.

Well Heather, today we have learned a lot about your life. Thanks.

A wheeling and dealing system

While sitting in the Courtroom for several hours observing and listening to the wheeling, dealing, and plea-bargaining between the State Attorney's Office, attorney's for the defendants, and judges, it makes you wonder why do we need to retain attorneys just to get probation, attend some made-up money-making classes and pay court costs so they can get their share of the purse?

Most of the state attorneys can't win cases without the power of the court. They don't have the quality expertise of common sense to win cases, so they mostly bargain, wheel and deal with criminals. Winning cases requires common sense and this system has immunity from having common sense.

This system doesn't deal with the truth, only rules and laws of criminal and civil proceedings to protect their own system from within, and therefore allowing common sense to be a part of their judicial and other lawful/unlawful process.

Where I'm from all men are truly created equally, but since I've been visiting here I've found all types of divisions amongst people.

Do you realize that if 60 to 75 percent of cases would start going to trials instead of plea-bargaining or dealings, this system would crash faster than a stock market. More courts would be required, more judges, and of course less money to be made. Attorneys are the earth-chose vessels between the state attorneys and judges to assure some form of representation and oversee that the deals are in order and rights are explained to the defendants.

Once in the system, the probation department becomes the vessel and you are a member of the system. Some have life membership, especially blacks and low income white minorities. Anyway, some of you will be getting some relief in a few years, because the system can't last forever plea-bargaining.

Criminals are growing increasingly younger and members of the system are wearing down from fatigue, aging and sin. Some attorneys in court don't even get a good workout or even break a sweat before the game is over. Most of them mean well, but their hands are tied by the system's hands.

People are constantly calling me, pouring out regrets about the deal (plea-bargain) he or she made. It is too late then. So when you quickly sign and don't want to bear the load, just trust in God because your case is closed. Stay alert.

You are in battle. In this country you might get stopped for a broken taillight and somehow wind up with five years in prison.

Finally, this month we celebrate Black History Month. Another piece of unrecorded history is that blacks have supported the system of Sanford through faithful employment for over two or more decades, including a black police chief.

Well, I truly applaud all for their contributions and I'm a proud black man to see the many employees in the City of Sanford with accomplishments. However, in a few years when this county and city government get together, buddies and good ole' boys coming in to provide services, you will officially be history.

This system has always been influenced by evils, wrong doings and total sin having no faith in God and very little in man. People are not concerned with each other anymore. Most of the people in this system don't even know what is right. They are just following the crowd knowing not where it is going.

God bless you all.

Tribute

McKenzie left behind the safety of his home and his newly wed wife, Gretchen, when he was shipped overseas in preparation for the Normandy invasion.

He was never to return home or to see the daughter born 10 months before his death. His daughter, Gretchen McKenzie Schapker, would only know her father through the memories of others and by his heroism.

Schapker has never visited the Rhone American Military Cemetery in Draguignan, France, where CPT McKenzie is buried, but through the efforts of Seminole County Sheriff's Office Deputy Tim Glascock, school resource officer for Seminole High School, she has finally seen her father's grave.

Deputy Glascock is a commissioned officer in the National Guard reserves. Motivated by his own sense of patriotism and his deep respect for Schapker as a leader and mentor, Glascock contacted the Battle Monuments Commission in Washington DC.

Through the commission, responsible for American Cemeteries outside the continental United States, Glascock was able to acquire a color lithograph of the American military memorial and a photograph of McKenzie's grave.

Schapker was surprised with the framed lithograph during a presentation by Seminole Battalion Commander LTC Andrew Verrett in recognition of Seminole High School's support of Lt. Glascock and the Florida National Guard.

During the presentation, Verrett recognized the great sacrifices of soldiers such as McKenzie. Verrett speculated that were McKenzie to ask today "Was my sacrifice worth it?" he would only have to look to the accomplishments of his daughter to know that it was.

The lithograph and photo were "furnished by authority of the Congress of the United States as an expression of sympathy and gratitude of the American people," explained Verrett.

Glascock had also arranged for Schapker to be presented with a set of the National Colors that had flown over the Rhone Cemetery, and that Glascock had had encased in a shadow box. "It was a fun thing for me to do," said Glascock.

"I was extremely moved by the tribute to my dad and to all fallen soldiers," commented Schapker. Schapker recited from memory part of a letter received by her mother from President Roosevelt following her father's death.

"He stands in the unbroken line of patriots who have dared to die that freedom may live, grow and increase its blessings. Freedom lives, and through it he lives, in a way that humbles the undertakings of most mankind."

As an infant Schapker had not known the comfort of a memorial service or visiting her father's grave. For Schapker the presentation provided a missing sense of closure to her father's death. "He (Glascock) is a special guy in a lot of ways," said Schapker, thanking Glascock.

ris and Lake Mary City Commissioner Gary Brender in her complaint, stating that Morris and Brender helped develop Crump's brochure.

Brender said Saturday morning that he could not speak to the complaint, but "I gave Al an endorsement for use in his brochure." He said he did not work on the brochure and did not know who did. The endorsement was used in Crump's last brochure of the campaign which included statements from Morris, former Lake Mary Mayor Lowry Rockett, Sheriff Don Eslinger, the Sanford Herald and the Orlando Sentinel.

Morris also said he could not speak to the complaint, and added, "Yes, I endorsed him."

"I'm glad I endorsed him."

Sawyer's complaint stems from a brochure mailed by Crump one week before the Nov. 4 election.

In his brochure, Crump said that Sawyer opposed supporting economic incentives and the funding of a traffic light for Lake Mary Elementary School.

Sawyer voted in favor of the incentive package for AT&T's relocation to Lake Mary in 1995, and while she spoke against the commitment of $25,000 by the city to help pay for the traffic signal at the July 10 city commission meeting, she did vote affirmatively.

Sawyer also cited other inaccuracies in the brochure. Crump had publicly apologized in November for his errors, stating that he did not mean to personally attack his opponent.

In Sawyer's complaint, she states that Crump's false information was used "as a means to turn voters against me, and win."

Sawyer told the FEC, "Presently, the voters are upset and shocked to see this behavior."

Crump could not comment on Saturday, saying he is prohibited by state statute from discussing the complaint before the investigation is completed.

The FEC has assigned an investigator to the case. If Crump is found in violation, he could be fined as much as $5,000, but would not be removed from office.

cial impact. Included were: Dover, Kohl & Partners, Gibbs Planning Group and Michael's Design Associates. The consultants have been brought in from places such as Detroit and Miami.

Winter Springs City Manager, Ron McEmore, talked on the importance of this project and its impact on the city. He also thanked the commissioners for keeping the project going. "We're going to be moving forward to make this project happen for the city," he said.

Consultant Victor Dover stated, "A center is where a town actually comes together. It is where we communicate, buy things from one another and gather. It's an architecture of community, not just of design."

It was also mentioned that the quality of the scenic open space and the lake are important. Aspects of a town center should be maximized for their gathering quality. Although officials admitted that the price for the consultants was not cheap, they hope it will bring in many shoppers to the area. These consultants take the information that they get from meeting with the local business owners, city staff and residents to get their feedback.

The community itself was praised, particularly by consultant Forest Michaels. Michaels said that with the 40 percent higher than average income and the home prices being higher than Seminole County's average, that it was a developer's dream.

The home run of the evening was hit by Bob Gibbs who specializes in analyzing retail sales and figuring out what makes shoppers tick.

Gibbs brought out many of his statistics, thoughts and general trends about the retail shopper, downtown and town center:

- Shoppers are mostly women between 25 and 45 years old.

- There are higher profits in downtown areas.

- Stores in town centers have 15 percent higher sales volume.

- Sixty percent of all sales are after 5 p.m.

In the final analysis, it all came down to what the consultants said. People are more geared toward a small town atmosphere today. That's why new shopping centers and homes are designed to look like small towns.

County

Commission Chairman Randy Morris doesn't agree. "The county has circled its wagons for the fight against adult entertainment," Morris said Friday. "Apparently, Mr. Maloy only is shooting his gun inwards. We thank him ever so much for his support."

On Tuesday, Maloy and Morris are headed into a formal discussion that leads to one of the biggest decisions the county commission will make (March 10) about the adult entertainment industry.

Will the existing, legal adult businesses (3 nude dancing clubs, 2 book stores) be "grandfathered" by the county? Some say it's a done deal.

One reason is that the county would have to spend several million dollars in legal costs if it doesn't grandfather - allowing the businesses to remain where they are located along U.S. Highway 17-92 in the Fern Park area.

A second reason is the county's agreement with the City of Sanford to identify multi-jurisdictional parcels where adult businesses could come. Sanford will pull out of the interlocal agreement if the commissioners don't grandfather the businesses. Otherwise the clubs would relocate in Sanford by 1999.

"It's obvious where this is headed," Commissioner Dick Van Der Weide said Friday. "Three commissioners decided that sometime ago. Like it or not, these guys are going to grandfather."

With Maloy and Van Der Weide opposed to grandfathering, Morris, Darryl McLain and Win Adams have indicated they were for it. On Friday, Adams wasn't saying how he would vote.

"I expected we would know what happens in the Sasey Merlot's case before we made our decision," Adams said. Sasey Merlot's is one of two nude dancing clubs that the county says is operating illegally. There was a 5-hour hearing this past week but the case won't be continued until April 6.

By that time, Adams said, the commission will have made its grandfathering decision and the interlocal agreement between Sanford and the county will be in effect.

"This will be done before we find out if our new adult code is constitutional," Adams said.

Hugh Trees, attorney for Sasey Merlot's, said the month and a half wait was better for his client than the county. "The longer this goes, the more opportunity we have to prove the county did not have sites available," Trees said. "I would think the county would want to go right away."

If Sasey Merlot's wins the case, Trees said it also would have to be grandfathered with the other businesses.

Deputy County attorney Lonnie Groot said he didn't believe the April 6 date would interfere with the county's plans. He reasoned it was the first day Judge Alan Dickey had to give enough time for the debate.

"Everything's going to fall into place," Morris said. "Some of the testimony in the Sasey Merlot's case this week will have to be reheard."

The Board of County Commissioners will discuss the adult entertainment issue at a 1:30 p.m. meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 24, and at 7 p.m. on March 10.

The Sanford City Commission will evaluate the joint planning interlocal agreement with the county at a work session Monday afternoon.

The Planning & Zoning Board of the county meets Monday night at 7 p.m. to make its recommendation on land use for the adult entertainment issue.

If the current businesses are grandfathered, the county will have to change its zoning regulations. The businesses are in commercial zones not industrial or M-2 zones as cited in the new adult entertainment code.

Da' Bomb hears all...

Da Bomb sez Lake Howell has the loudest fans in the county

Don't no matter what you do, regardless, under any circumstances (got all that?) schedule a meeting at Lake Brantley anywhere near the time school lets out. Da Bomb made that mistake the other day and is still in a traffic jam

It's kinda cool the way so many kids have come together for projects celebrating Black History Month. To think that only 30 years ago, most blacks and whites didn't attend the same schools because of some silly laws. Da Bomb's been meeting with kids all week and hasn't yet found even one elementary school student who understands the need for segregation. Throughout the county, blacks and whites teamed up on school projects with some awesome results. The kids and teachers should be proud.

Way to go AKZ at Seminole High. You guys really have a heart. Da Bomb sez, more on that later.

While Da Bomb's in a good mood, how about a thumb's up to peer counselors at middle schools and high schools all over the county. More on that later also.

Want to check out something about a million times for exciting than soccer? Check out lacrosse which is makin' its debut at some schools this season. There's actually scoring. It's faster and much more violent. Da Bomb's played a lot of lax and sez it's da best.

Da Bomb sez great job with your winter carnivals, Lake Mary and Lake Brantley.

Booker T. Washington, the first black player to play organized professional baseball. He was in six world series in 10 years. Jordan said he couldn't believe that blacks had to play in their own leagues because of racial prejudice. "It was wrong," Jordan said. "The people that did that didn't know what they were talking about."

Jade Golden wrote about a famous poet from Eatonville, Fla. who ran off after her mother died and wrote some of the greatest American poetry of all time. "That was so stupid," she said. Corey Fey learned all about Paul Dunbar. "He was the first poet to express the feelings of Negroes in poetry," Corey said. "He best represented the sense of humor and their expressions and language."

Joel Salva wrote about Frederick Douglass, the ex-slave who led the emancipation movement in the north while still a fugitive. "He didn't even know when he was born because he was a slave," Alexis said. "He never knew his own parents, but he published a book and led the fight for anti-slavery."

Princeton James wrote about someone familiar to a lot of kids these days, Colin Powell. Princeton said he was the first black to assist the president in national security affairs and that he was Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Powell, Princeton added, did two tours of duty in Vietnam. When Princeton said that Powell might run for president, all of the kids, of all races, said it didn't matter what the color of the president was.

Oviedo to celebrate diversity

By COURTNEY LEFFEW
Herald Staff Writer

Oviedo High School is celebrating the cultural diversity among their campus this month.

Despite the fact that February is Black History Month, Oviedo is holding its third annual International Festival Day on Feb. 28. The event is sponsored by the Oviedo School Advisory Council.

This festival will showcase and celebrate the varied cultures represented by the student body as well as ethnic dances, ethnic music, crafts, artifacts, folk art, story telling, ethnic food and historical displays.

The festival will be held at Oviedo High from 9 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. The admission is free and open to the public. The function is to recognize the different cultures at the school and to see how much they have to give to our society.

This is just one part of the Oviedo's School Improvement Plan. The event drew 200 people last year and the school hopes that number will continue to increase.

Many organizations and clubs are assisting the celebration including Spanish Club, German Club, Sign Language Club, Art Club, Humanities Club, French Club, and the Spanish Honors Society.

The ROTC will be performing the opening colors along with the jazz band.

In addition to the festival, there will be speakers coming to the classrooms to educate the students all next week.

SHS shows its soul all month

By AMY HAWKINS
Herald Correspondent

Seminole High School is a very active participant in Black History Month.

There are many different activities happening in this month of February in celebration of the African American race.

The most prominent of these activities is a "soul food" luncheon.

The soul food luncheon is a multicultural meal where the faculty and staff each bring in a dish for their particular culture.

The soul food will be provided including fried chicken and everyone's personal favorite collards.

The food will be served during lunch to the faculty and staff on February 27.

This luncheon is not the only peak of participation at Seminole; in fact there are many other things that occurred in support of Black History month.

There were dress up days where students attempted to outdress each other in a contest for a pair of Orlando Magic tickets.

The first dress up day had to be decided by a lottery with the judges just too overwhelmed by the active participation to make a decision.

There was also a predominantly black college day.

The idea behind this was for students to show their encouragement of predominantly black colleges.

Students took part by wearing hats, shirts and other attire of many well known colleges.

There was also an interesting intellectual competition on black history.

Most of Seminole High School's black history month activities were sponsored by Mr. Richardson, a man looked up to by many of the African-American students.

Richardson said that he was pleased with the turnout for the activities.

Not only African American students participated in most of these competitions and events, numerous students of other races found the activities enjoyable and decided to take part.

The message here is what? High School students can get along and even celebrate the differences in each other's heritage.

Maybe the rest of the nation should take a lesson from the diversity of Seminole High School.

Milwee Middle kids are color blind

By VICKI BELLUCCIA
Herald Correspondent

Black history month was designed to make everyone, not just African Americans aware of the contributions of blacks to our country's culture and history.

Students and teachers of every ethnic background are being encouraged to take part in the celebrations at Milwee Middle School in Longwood this month. From music to dance to food there has been something for everyone who has wanted to partake of the events.

"We started off the month with a presentation by the gospel choir from Seminole High School," said Linda Gaines of the school's guidance office, who helped organize Black History Month at Milwee.

From there, there was a luncheon for the faculty and staff which featured a "soul food" menu. Soul food, she explained, is the hearty home cooked foods often found on the kitchen table in African American homes.

The menu, which included turkey and dressing, fried chicken, collard greens, green beans, yams, macaroni and cheese and sweet potato pie, was a hit with everyone in attendance.

Just this week, one of the most popular events of the month-long celebration took the school by storm, exploding the gym into a boisterous, colorful celebration of traditional music and dance.

"I think this is so cool," said Markie King, who had just viewed the exhibition. "I didn't know what it was going to be all about, but it was really cool."

Students said they have enjoyed studying about the contributions made by African Americans to the history of this country. Some said that a lot of emphasis is put on men like Martin Luther King and Malcolm X, but some of the others are lost in the shuffle.

"I have found out a lot about people I never heard about in no other classes," Sarah Hilder said. "I didn't know that black people did so much even like right after slave times. We learned a lot about them this month."

Black history lessons have made their way into all parts of the curriculum, students said. They have learned about the contributions made by African Americans in areas ranging from science to literature.

Gaines said the celebration of Black History Month grows every year as more of the students and faculty are excited by the opportunity to learn and participate.

This week, everyone will have the chance to dress up in traditional African garb, a style that is gaining popularity among both African Americans proud of their heritage and others interested in the bold, beautiful fashions.

"This isn't just a black thing," Gaines said. "We have everyone involved."

This year's celebration will conclude on Feb. 27 with a series of presentations by students and faculty members on the contributions made by African Americans to our society.

"It will be an exciting day," Gaines said. "Everyone is looking forward to that."

Spider veins can be treated with surgery.

Before and after: Sclerotherapy

She's (or he's) got legs

Medical procedures can get you ready for shorts weather

By ALYCE KLEIN, RN
Special to the Herald

The warm spring weather is approaching Central Florida and soon it will be time to bask in the sun at local pools and nearby beaches.

For some people the shedding of a few pounds before wearing summer clothes and bathing suits is not the problem. What causes these people to cringe at the thought of baring their legs are distended, tortuous varicose veins and telangiectasias, commonly referred to as spider veins, that form the purple, red or blue discoloration resembling spider webs and short unconnected lines that appear on the face and legs. Bathing suits, shorts, and miniskirts put these unsightly venous invasions of the skin in plain view.

Spider veins that form on the nose and cheeks are often the result of years of alcohol abuse or an over exposure to sunlight. Blood pooling in the legs due to venous valves that are no longer functioning properly causes varicose veins. Multiple pregnancies, heredity, prolonged standing or sitting, age, trauma, estrogen, and leg crossing are all causes of both spider veins and varicose veins. Preventative measures are walking and other moderate exercise, consistently wearing prescription support hose, applying sun screen, and abstaining from alcohol.

While practicing preventative measures can save some people the agony of suffering from the physical discomfort and unsightliness of varicose veins, others must resort to medical treatment to correct the problem. Fortunately, treatment can be a relatively simple procedure.

Dr. Richard Bragg, member of the North American Society of Phlebology and proprietor of Florida Vein Care in Lake Mary since Jan. 1 of this year, believes that sclerotherapy is the safest most effective way to treat both superficial varicosities and telangiectasias. "This is a very affordable, relatively painless medical treatment that involves injecting a small amount of sclerosing solution through a very fine needle directly into the veins, causing the walls of the vessel to adhere together. The vein is still there, but it has become invisible, and circulation is unaffected," said Dr. Bragg.

"Insurance companies generally do not cover cosmetic treatment, but in some cases they will pay for surgical treatment of varicose veins," said Dr. Bragg.

A complete Doppler exam of the leg is performed before treatment in order to determine if there are any deep vein valvular defects that have caused the varicose or spider veins.

Dr. Roger Murray of Central Florida Vein Care Specialists in Altamonte has practiced vein care for the past 10 years, and has performed more than 1,200 surgeries to correct these serious problems.

"The Doppler is like a stethoscope. It provides me with a window to the veins," said Dr. Murray.

Dr. Murray stated that he treats approximately 20 percent of his patients surgically, 60 percent of his patients with sclerotherapy, and another 20 percent of his patients with laser. During the spring he performs mostly sclerotherapy for patients who want cosmetic correction of visible, ugly vessels.

The solutions used for sclerotherapy include hypertonic saline, polidocanol, and sodium tetradecyl. Following support hose are worn during the day so that the walls of the vessels continue to stick together. Patients are also encouraged to take a mile long walk after sclerotherapy in order to increase blood flow through other veins, and to resume normal, but not vigorous, activity.

Other clinical therapies offered in the outpatient setting are ambulatory phlebectomy and laser treatment.

Ambulatory phlebectomy is a method of surgically stripping varicose veins in the physician's office. "When done properly, there is little or no scar left after this procedure, and healing occurs within six months," said Dr. Murray.

Laser is an effective treatment for veins on the face, neck, shoulders and chest. According to Dr. Murray, "Laser typically does not work on the legs, but can be used to clean up tiny veins (telangiectatic matting) that are left after others have been treated by injection." The highest venous pressure is located in the legs and feet, because blood flow is going against gravity back to the heart, whereas veins of the upper body have very little pressure and are therefore able to be treated with a laser.

Before choosing laser as a treatment for any cosmetic correction be sure that the person performing the laser surgery is well trained. This treatment can lead to permanent unsightly scars if done incorrectly.

Lake Howell's Reggie Kohn shows he has what it takes to be a leader

WINTER PARK - It was difficult to watch Lake Howell's Reggie Kohn walk off the court Friday night.

After all, he had almost single-handedly kept a struggling Lake Howell basketball team in the state playoffs, completely taking over the game when his team needed him the most.

It's the mark of a true leader who can take charge, almost will his team to victory, when it looks hopeless.

Last night was one of those times. Things weren't going well for the Silver Hawks as they looked to go somewhere no lake Howell team had ever been. Never before had the Silver Hawks hosted a regional playoff game. Never before, in fact, had they ever won districts, been ranked in the top-five of the state, or headed into late February with dreams of a trip to the state finals.

It wasn't all Kohn. He had plenty of help from teammates Brad LeCore, Rikki Williams, Ryan Smith, Robert Jordan and Shawn Braddy all season. That was some bunch of seniors, a group that dominated every front line it faced and made the end of the season the most special in school history.

But something went wrong, terribly wrong, against Edgewater Friday in a 79-75 loss in the state regionals.

The rebounders weren't rebounding, the scorers weren't scoring and a wonderful forward named Marquis Daniels was doing what ever he wanted on his way to a 30-point night for the Eagles.

The scoreboard showed a 16-point deficit and then Kohn started to take over.

He'll be playing for some big-time college in a couple of years and return as the most valuable player in Seminole County next season, but it was his performance Friday night that should stand out as his shining moment of an already stellar career.

Remember Ernie DiGregorio at Providence College in the early '70s?

No look passes. Scoring from anywhere on the court. A raging intensity when he needed it.

That's Reggie Kohn, the Ernie D of the 90s.

Kohn did all that as he did everything he could to pull the Silver Hawks of out a canyon and back into the game. The deficit was 16 points. After a few Kohn bombs from the outer lands of the court, combined with some sweet no-look passes that led to easy scores, it was cut in half. Then it was five. Then it was three.

Somehow, Kohn pulled Lake Howell from the depths and gave his team a chance to win.

Down the stretch, Lake Howell, especially Kohn, came up short. Shots rimmed out and the clock ran out.

Lake Howell's season ended far too early. The Silver Hawks were supposed to be making reservations for Lakeland sometime this week, after an easy win at home this Tuesday.

Instead, they will think about a season which came up just short.

But after a few weeks, they'll think about all that was accomplished during the most successful season in school history.

They will remember getting carried off the court after beating Oviedo on Senior Night.

They'll remember winning districts over Lake Mary.

And mostly, basketball fans will remember Reggie Kohn's shining moment, when he almost willed his team to win. He ended with 28 points, 23 in the second half, a handful of assists and left everything he had on the court.

The whole team had heart and Reggie Kohn's beat louder than anyone's.

Last Second Shot: Keep Wednesday marked on your calendars. Lake Brantley hosts Oviedo at 7 p.m. in baseball and the probable pitchers are Robbie Sitz for the Patriots and Ben Knapp for Oviedo. Who's the best hurler in the county? Find out Wednesday.

Panthers put an end to Lake Mary run

By DEAN SMITH Herald Sports Editor

ORLANDO - Athleticism told the difference in this one.

Friday night in the first round of the Class 6A-Regionals in Orlando, homestanding Dr. Phillips took advantage of its big guards and outstanding quickness to slowly but surely pull away from Lake Mary for a 78-46 victory.

"The game got pretty physical," said Lake Mary head coach Mike Gaudreau. "But the bottom line is they are really good."

"But I thought we were pretty good too. We hoped to keep the game tight and make something happen at the end, but it didn't work out that way."

The Panthers, the 6A-District 4 champions, came out hot on their home floor, jumping to a 12-4 lead

Howell rally comes up a little short

By JEFF BERLINICKE Herald Staff Writer

WINTER PARK - The basketball season had to end sometime for Lake Howell, but it wasn't supposed to end this quickly.

The Silver Hawks hosted Edgewater in the opening round of the Class 6A state regionals last night and walked off with a stunning 79-75 loss. It was a disappointing way to end the most successful season in Lake Howell history.

It could have been worse. Lake Howell trailed by as much as 16, getting dominated on the boards throughout the first three quarters, before charging back with a chance to win at the end.

Steve Kohn, head coach of Lake Howell said he was disappointed but happy with the comeback.

"I told them if the game was over at the half, I would have been ashamed by the way we played," Kohn said. "After the comeback and the way we played in the second half, I was just disappointed."

Seminole softball nine opens with win

From Staff Reports

DELTONA - Maria Duvall hurled an eight-hitter and Amanda Mustakas doubled in the winning run as the Seminole High School girls' softball team its season with a 4-3 victory over Pine Ridge in a Class 5A-District 5 contest in Deltona Friday afternoon.

The homestanding Panthers took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning, but the Fighting Seminoles of head coach David Rogers came back to grab the lead with two runs in the top of the fourth inning.

The score remained 2-1 until Pine Ridge put two on the board in the bottom of the sixth inning and looked to be headed to victory only needing three outs.

Mustakas, a junior, then doubled in Bryant with what proved to be the winning run.

Duvall, a junior, did a good job of scattering the eight hits and also pitching around four errors to pick up the win.

Bryant led the offense, going two-for-four with an RBI. Sophomore Angela Keefer also had a pair of hits in three at bats and drove in a run, while Mustakas had a double and an RBI in were Sleep and senior Sherri Eiland (both 1-for-3), Duvall and senior Kelley Langton (both 1-for-4) and Garcia (sacrifice bunt).

Sleep then stole third base and sophomore three at bats.

Friday's game was originally scheduled for Tuesday but was rained, as was Thursday's game with Mainland.

Seminole will play a pair of games this coming week, hosting Winter Springs in a Seminole Athletic Conference game on Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. and traveling to Deltona High School for another 5A-5 game on Friday at 4 p.m.

Oviedo boys win sixth straight

From Staff Reports

OVIEDO - The Oviedo Lions boys' soccer team closed out the regular season on a strong note Friday night, blanking Colonial, 5-0, at John Courier Field.

The Lions are now 18-5-2 on the season and have won six in a row heading into next Wednesday's Class 6A-District 3 Tournament. Oviedo will host Lake Brantley in the opening game starting at 7:30 p.m.

Lions head coach Joe Avallone had high praise for his defense.

"We scored 96 goals this year and only allowed 31," said Avallone. "Ben Luker really anchored the middle, while Mike Rubin, Brian Cain, Brenton Coln and George Munroe held down the back."

Oviedo led 3-0 at halftime, more than enough for Victor Panos, who recorded yet another shutout in goal.

Duda led the Lions attack with a pair of goals, while Justin Cook, Mitchell and Sergei Kolometts added one goal each.

The goal by Cook was his 35th of the season, extending his own area record for goals scored in one season that he broke last week.

Mike Zigler chipped in with a pair of assists, while Cook, Dan Dyke and Dennis Panos contributed one assist each.

Lake Mary soccer star going 'West'

By JEFF BERLINICKE Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - On a team with tons of firepower and several players who can light it up at any time, Lorieza Bazile has been one of the most consistent of the Lake Mary soccer season.

While leading scorer Aly Benitez and goaltender Jordan Keilgren grab most of the headlines, Bazile has been a model of consistency for the Lady Rams, number two in the state and number nine in the entire nation.

Bazile settled on her college plans last week, signing a letter-of-intent to play at the University of West Florida in Pensacola next fall. She said she was told she would have a good chance to start immediately.

"They told me I could start right away if I worked hard enough," Bazile said.

For now, Bazile is just concerned with helping lead the Lady Rams to a state title. If they get it, they could join the girls basketball team as the first duo in state history to win state titles in the same season.

"I think we can win states," Bazile said. "We started thinking about it when we walked off the field after we lost at the end of last season."

She's referring to a tough loss to Winter Park that ended the 1997 season earlier than anyone expected. It was a bitter loss for a team that challenged the state powers and came out ahead all year. This season, the Lady Rams fell early to state champion Spanish River, but avenged that loss with a 4-1 win three weeks ago. Except for that early season loss, Lake Mary has been unbeaten and has only settled for ties in the last three weeks against Oviedo and Bishop Moore.

Bazile has been one of the keys for the past several seasons.

"She's one of the best players we've ever had at Lake Mary," said Lady Rams coach Bill Eiselle. "She has a great transition game and she knows how to utilize her speed. She's also excellent at crossing."

Bazile said she knows the Lady Rams have a strong chance at districts and regionals but also know it won't be easy to bring the trophy back to Lake Mary.

Robbie Sitz posted a 12-1 record as a junior to help Lake Brantley win the Class 6A State Championship last year. The nighthander will be counted on heavily to lead a young staff as the Patriots go after another ring.

Patriots set 'Sitz' on another state crown

By JEFF BERLINICKE
Herald Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — It wasn't enough to strike out against Robbie Sitz last season.

Lots of batters throughout the state did that against the Lake Brantley ace as the Patriots marched to a Class 6A state championship.

It was even further humiliation as they looked out to the mound on the walk back to the dug-out and saw the back of Sitz's head.

Engraved into his haircut were the letters "C-YA," short for "see ya."

If he took off his cap, you could see on the top of his head, the letter "K," the universal baseball symbol for strikeout.

A look at the sides of his head would have shown an LB (Lake Brantley) on one side, and "24" his number on the other.

Sitz said it took about two hours to get his hair done last season, so the look is gone for now. His arm isn't and that's one reason Lake Brantley should be favored to make a strong defense of their state title.

Sitz doesn't look as impressive on the radar gun as county rival Ben Knapp of Oviedo, but his breaking stuff made him the ace of one of the best staffs in the history of Florida baseball last season. The staff racked up numerous no-hitters and Sitz led the way with a 12-1 record and a 1.15 earned run average. Two of his fellow Patriot missiles went to Mississippi State on baseball scholarships and Sitz is the only one left from the Four Aces.

Still, he thinks Lake Brantley can repeat. "Last year we got everything we worked for," Sitz said. "With everyone gone, I feel it is my responsibility to be the ace but I love to pitch with the game on the line."

Even though he was the youngest of a senior starting staff, it was Sitz that Lake Brantley coach Mike Smith went to for the state championship last season in Tampa against Apopka. Sitz came through and brought Lake Brantley its second state title of the 90s. Ironically, Sitz' brother, Billy, played for the 1990 team that featured future College Player of the Year, Jason Varitek.

After leaving Tampa, Sitz struggled with injuries to his foot, but still found time to pitch summer ball and he said he's getting to nearly 100 percent.

As the leader of a young pitching staff, Sitz said he can handle the responsibility. "There's pressure on us to repeat," Sitz said. "Our goal is to win it just like it was last year. Last season we expected to win it all and we thought last season would be the year since I was a freshman. We new by my junior year, we'd be pretty good."

If the Patriots are good, it will be because of a stronger hitting attack. Except for Sitz, the staff is young, but the everyday lineup is a monster. "This year, it will all come down to hitting," Sitz said. "We don't have a lot of depth but we'll be able to hit the ball."

Catcher Justin Smith, shortstop Felipe Lopez, center fielder Justin Harris, second baseman Chad Hall and Brian Chancellor are just a few of the bats that will back up Sitz this season.

Sitz himself pulled in plenty of hardware last season, earning all-state honors and honorable mention All-America. Still, with a fastball that only reaches 84 miles per hour, the scouts haven't come clamoring. Sitz signed to play ball for Rollins College next season, but he said he knows few scouts look at a prospect who can't reach at least 90 on the radar gun.

He will have his first big appearance at Lake Brantley next Wednesday at 7 p.m. when he and Knapp are expected to face off in each team's first Seminole Athletic Conference matchup.

Scots sweep Raiders in conference opener

From Staff Reports

DAYTONA BEACH — It was not the start they hoped for.

The Seminole Community College softball team again struggled with its offense and dropped a doubleheader, 2-1 and 3-0, to Daytona Beach Community College on the opening day of Mid-Florida Conference play Thursday afternoon in Daytona Beach.

"The first game was a heartbreaker to lose," said SCC head coach Courtney Miller. "Except for one defensive play that resulted in two unearned runs we played pretty well."

Rene (Hooper) pitched a great game, but our offense has to kick it in gear. We aren't going to win many ballgames with only three hits. Overall our defense is keeping us in the games, but some kids have to step up and do their job at the plate also."

The Raiders fell to 4-5 overall and 0-2 in the conference and will return to action tomorrow (Sunday) with a doubleheader in Bradenton against Manatee Community College. The games are set to start at 2 p.m. and 4 p.m.

DBCC scored both of its runs in the first game in the second inning. Miller led off with a single and moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Hutchinson. Merrill then reached on an error with Miller moving to third. The next batter grounded with Merrill moving up a base, but Miller holding at third.

Miller then scored on a wild pitch and Merrill scored on a single by Gonzalez.

SCC got its run in the fifth inning. Diane Macaluso doubled and Lyman's Jamie Sharp reached on a dropped third strike. After a pop up, pinch-hitter Marnie Bernstein (Lake Brantley) forced sharp at second, but Macaluso scored on the play.

Blatney was the winning pitcher, striking out six, walking none and allowing no earned runs.

Hooper (1-3) gave up seven hits, but no earned runs, while striking out four and walking only one. Gonzalez and LaGatta were both 2-for-3 for the Scots, while Macaluso doubled and Sharp and Candice Hays had one single each for the Raiders.

DBCC again broke on top in the second game with two runs in the bottom of the second inning.

White singled and scored on a triple by Lambier (who was the winning pitcher in the second game), who in turn, scored one out later on a squeeze bunt by Merrill.

The Scots added an insurance run in the third inning as Carolyn Crager (a Lyman graduate) singled with two out and scored on a double by Miller.

Lambier made the lead stand up, scattering four singles, while striking out two and walking none.

Freshman Traci Miller suffered her first loss for SCC after three wins. The lefthander from Greenfield, Indiana allowed six hits and three earned runs.

Miller had two hits, both doubles, to lead DBCC.

Oviedo graduate Desirae Schwartz was 2-for-2 to pace the Raiders, while Hays and Macaluso added one single each.

Silver Hawks

The comeback started after Lake Howell found itself in a 40-28 hole at the half. The Silver Hawks had made it 26-22 midway through the second quarter before Edgewater went on a run, scoring the final 10 points of the quarter. Daniels had eight of those points during the run.

Lake Howell's all-anything Reggie Kohn had only five points at the half but had a team-high 28 for the night.

Edgewater came out smoking again in the second half, but then Reggie Kohn started to heat up. He began hitting from all over the court and Lake Howell trailed only 57-45 after the third quarter.

In the fourth, Lake Howell continued to charge. Down 67-61 with under four minutes to play, Kohn scored on a layup to lead the Silver Hawks to a five point deficit.

Edgewater responded with a pair of free throws, but Smith followed with five straight points.

Daniels and Kohn exchanged jump shots, but Lake Howell missed potential game-tying jumpers as Edgewater held on.

It was the rebounding that put an end to the Lake Howell season.

"We just got torn up inside," Steve Kohn said. "We gave up 16 points on offensive rebounds in the first half. We just didn't expect them to come out strong."

Lake Howell was ranked as high as fifth in the state this season and won its first district title, but of the six-man rotation that gets most of the playing time, only Reggie Kohn returns next season.

The Lake Howell front court of Robert Jordan, Brad LeCore, Ryan Smith and Rikki Williams were manhandled by the physical and quick Edgewater team. Kohn went to his bench often, but he couldn't find the right equation until late in the game.

"The problem was we concentrated too much on one player (Edgewater's Marquis Daniels, game-high 39 points), LeCore said. "We were nervous before the game but when they threw the ball up, we just settled down. We have our heads high after the comeback."

Rams

12-4 lead behind guards Calvin McCall and Mike Shipp.

The first quarter ended with Dr. Phillips on top, 19-11, but the Rams scored the first four points of the second quarter to close to within 19-15 and appeared to be ready to make a game of it.

But Shipp hit a three-pointer to stretch the lead back to seven and the Panthers never looked back, scoring seven of the next 10 points to take a 29-18 lead with 4:23 left in the first half and 14 of the last 20 to take a 36-21 advantage into the locker room.

"We needed to rebound with them and be calm on offense," said Gaudreau. "They made that first run, but then we looked like we were going to settle in. But we never did calm down enough on offense and we didn't rebound at all."

Randy Abrams hit a couple of three-pointers early in the second half to give the Lake Mary fans, which far outnumbered the Dr. Phillips fans, hope, but Shipp answered with a "three" of his own and the Panthers widened the lead three more points, to 48 (52-34), entering the final quarter.

The fourth quarter became a little bit of showtime for Dr. Phillips as former Lake Brantley standout James Gilchrist, who transferred to Dr. Phillips two years ago, got three nasty dunks off alley-oop passes.

Gilchrist, whose father, James, was a Junior College

All-America at Seminole Community College back in the early 1970s, finished with 13 points and eight rebounds.

But it was the big guards, Shipp and McCall, that led the way for the Panthers with 27 and 23, respectively.

Lake Mary (21-10) got 17 from Abrams.

Dr. Phillips (24-7) will host Jacksonville-Sandalwood in the Regional Quarterfinals on Tuesday.

Humans should take care in what kind of fish we eat

SANFORD - What makes two fish, one with a large mouthful of razor sharp teeth and the other with a much smaller and basically toothless mouth, worthy of a listing in the dangerous plants and animals section? Rest assured it's not because the fish gobble humans whole. Actually, these fish are potentially dangerous because we might eat them. Both species, especially barracuda, can have high concentrations of ciguatera toxin, which is passed on to people who eat the meat of these fish. Actually, more than 400 species of fish can carry ciguatera; snapper and grouper are also high on the list of culprits.

Ciguatera toxin is produced by microscopic organisms that live around coral reefs and other hard submerged structures. The toxin accumulates in the tissues of fish feeding around the reefs.

The problem is that ciguatera has no taste or smell, you can't see it, and it isn't destroyed by cooking or freezing the meat. There's no simple way to tell if your catch of the day will make you sick. And the price for such uncertainty may be high. The toxin attacks the nervous system and intestinal tract. Symptoms include vomiting, diarrhea, and numbness or tingling around the mouth and in the arms and legs. A few people have a more severe reaction with muscle pain, dizziness, and sensations of temperature reversal. Most cases last two to three weeks, but some poor souls suffer for years. A doctor can help ease the symptoms, but there is no known cure. Consequently those who know about ciguatera don't eat barracuda and amberjack, especially ones caught in the Florida Keys.

FISHING FORECAST
Stuck to the Wekiva River and local lakes if you want to catch bass. They are almost impossible to find in the river due to abnormally high waters. As usual, large shiners are producing most of the bass over 5 pounds. Some of the best fishing in the river is taking place in Lake Monroe. There, the fish are confined by distinct boundaries, such as the sea wall.

Sebastian Inlet is featuring fair action with snook to 15 pounds, large flounder, and medium-sized bluefish. Large live shrimp and finger mullet are top baits.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that giant seas have kept boats in Port. Call Jack to find out if there is any clean water before venturing out. Inside the Port, there is spotty action with snook, along with sheepshead and flounder. Trout and redfish are scattered in the Banana and Indian Rivers.

Bluefish and sheepshead are keeping anglers busy at Ponce Inlet. Also expect drum, redfish, and jack crevalle. Live or dead shrimp is the top bait. Redfish and trout are rated as fair in Mosquito Lagoon.

Chatty employees steal work hours

DEAR ABBY: I recently filled in for my husband's receptionist when she was ill. My husband owns the business and I know most of his employees, but this was the first time I had spent any time there.

Abby, doesn't America have a work ethic anymore? What happened to "a day's work for a day's pay"? I was astounded at the number of personal phone calls the employees received while on the job. I am not talking about short calls on breaks. There were as many as three calls in one day for a particular employee. Those were the incoming calls - I have no idea how many personal outgoing calls the employee made. Not only was that employee's time used for personal business, but the receptionist had to take the calls, refer them and/or take a message. These employees do not consider how much of the receptionist's time they waste, not to mention time for which the boss is paying them.

Abby, this is plain stealing! Had they been emergency calls, I wouldn't have minded - but calls to plan a party, discuss the highlights she wanted her beauty operator to put in her hair or to make a dinner date are out of line.

I can no longer feel friendly toward some of my husband's employees because of the way they are treating him behind his back. I told my husband, and he was appalled by what I observed. He said his receptionist had already mentioned it, but he had dismissed it and put off checking it out. After my report, he kept tabs on his staff for a while.

I hope my letter makes some employees see how they are hurting their companies. And I hope it alerts bosses to a potential waste of time on the job that robs customers of service and shareholders of fair profits.

BOSS'S WIFE IN TEXAS

DEAR WIFE: Using the telephone for personal business on company time is not uncommon. It is, however, dishonest and unethical. In a sense, taking time off the job to conduct personal business is theft - since the employer is paying the employee for his or her time as well as effort.

If personal calls must be made during business hours, the honest thing to do would be to make them during the lunch hour or on break time.

"They are aware of the rankings and they know they have to step it up," Elissele said. "We play good teams and every game teams play against us is one of their big games of the season. That's how it has been all year against us."

Bazile maintains a 3.0 grade point average at Lake Mary and is looking forward to moving on to college.

"It's exciting," she said. "I really liked the area and it's a small school. They have the kind of class sizes I like and they're a great soccer program."

That's coming from someone who already knows what a great soccer program is all about.

30th gala captures the magic Rosa turns 90, Phyllis crowned BSP queen

"Capture the Magic" represented 30 years of utter enchantment that Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole has been bringing to the community since its inception in 1968.

The dazzling performance took place on Feb. 14 in the Performing Arts Center of Winter Springs High School. It was truly an evening to remember as 50 guild and guest dancers performed par excellence.

Before the magic of the evening got under way, Sally Sawczuk, president of the board of directors, spoke briefly and introduced the artistic directors, Miriam Doktor and Valerie Weld, who made several presentations.

Angela Baragona was the recipient of the Walter L. Rye Silver Slipper award for securing the most sponsors. John Ferguson and his son, Scott, honored the late Nola Ferguson with an award presented to April Michels who also received honors from the board as the only high school graduating senior. She has been accepted to the Florida School of the Arts.

It was announced later that Caitlin Valentine who was observing her birthday on Valentine's Day was notified that day that she has been accepted to North Carolina School of the Arts.

A special guest was Jackie Caolo who flew in from Dallas for the event. Jackie heads the Betty Williams Foundation which assists deserving, talented dancers.

About 25 alumni dancers attended the 30th gala performance. Seated near us were Mary Ann Grover Duxbury, Sara Lee Roberts Smith and Lealie Whittum Welmer.

The performance was dedicated to Suzanne (Suzy) Dickey for her generous and tireless efforts to Ballet Guild for 20 years.

As the show got under way, a cast of special actors provided between-acts capers including: Lloyd Wall, High Wizard of Drofnas; Mark Taricano, Low Wizard Scruff; Foreman Heard, movie director Bendar Dundat and also Zeldia; Mike Farella, camera man Grip Glitch; Bob Meyers, Witchie Poo; Daniel Hunlap, leprechaun; Bob Valentine, press agent Barry Slickgulre; and a representative for the Orlando Magic.

The show opened with magician John Cattiller and the dancers performing several amazing feats of magic followed by the beautifully staged "Phantom" featuring Matthew Twilleger doing credit to "Phantom of the Opera." "The Grand Tarentella," a fiery Gypsy favorite repeated from yesteryear, nearly brought the house down. The show ended too quickly with "Keep On Movin'," a spirited jazz number.

After the performance concluded with a richly deserved standing ovation, patrons were ready to leave the auditorium when Bob Valentine strolled on stage swinging a mop which was unrehearsed. While he presented his monologue, the dancers quickly dressed into T-shirts and drifted back on stage to honor Miss Miriam and Miss Valerie who were totally surprised at the exciting grand finale congratulating them on their 30 years of overwhelming dedication.

The magical evening ended at a reception in the lobby of the theatre when old friends greeted each other with lots big hugs and a few tears of happiness.

ROSA TURNS 90

Rosa Bennett Masey was queen for a day on her 90th birthday, Jan. 31.

Her three daughters, Lorraine Oillyard of Sanford; Elizabeth Willis of Orlando; and Shirley Chase of Middleburg honored her at a birthday luncheon at noon at Rosa's home on Chapman Avenue.

Others joining the birthday girl were her two sisters, Zola Davis and Edith Cason of Sanford, five grandchildren, three great grandchildren, two great great grandchildren, other close family members and friends.

The luncheon was served outside during which time pictures of the five generations were snapped.

At 2 p.m., friends and other family members dropped by to help Rosa celebrate to the tune. See Dietrich, Page 48

Twenty-three dedicated members of the Young Women's Auxiliary have chosen to become young missionaries for the Master's Word and work.

The elegant evening was held at the Sanford Armory. Valentine's Day was indeed the great day in which they chose to select as their theme 1 Corinthians 13.

Scouts' International Day a big hit

Every year, in honor of their sister Girl Scouts and Girl Guides around the world, the Stardust Service Unit of Girl Scouts in Lake Mary holds an International Day. Each troop selects a different country, learns about the country and shares what the scouts have learned with the other troops.

Weeks of practice for the entertainment portion of the day precede the event. Each troop presents a skit, song or dance it has learned from the country. This year, dressed like mummies and pharaohs, Egypt danced to Steve Martin's King Tut. Other dances were from Argentina, Polynesia, Mexico (the Mexican hat dance) and Senegal. All of the troop leaders were impressed with Senegal. The leader and the co-leader of Troop 796 were both dressed in costume and danced with the girls. It will hopefully encourage more adults to join in with the girls. Troop 262, who represented Saudi Arabia, was also fortunate enough to have a leader who dressed in costume and joined in with the girls.

Troop 1397 found someone from South Africa to teach the troop how to say a few phrases and sing a song from that country. Sweden, the birthplace of many of Sanford and Lake Mary's original settlers, was presented by Troop 1512. They sang "Santa Lucia" for the audience.

The most anticipated part of the event is the food. This year, the favorite food was the baked ziti from Italy, courtesy of Troop 1592 and the Swedish meatballs from Sweden. The least favorite was the herbed tofu dip from China.

The event is only open to Girl Scouts, but each year, judges decide whose entertainment is the best. Those troops will be performing at Olde Lake Mary Days on March 28 around 11 a.m. Don't miss it!

AARP LUNCHEON

There was an excellent turnout at the February meeting of the Lake Mary chapter of the AARP. The guest speaker was food, and the topic was a deliciously plated, Valentine's luncheon.

Before members could actually get down to the business of eating, several AARP officers had a few words to say. Vice President John Schetman reminded members about the Lynx bus now coming through Lake Mary five times daily. He also passed around an article about Social Security. AARP is against its privatization and John encouraged members to stay current on the subject.

President Jim Carmona reminded members about the free tax help that is being offered for seniors in Sanford. The help is available five Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. For more information, call 628-4381.

Cynthia Pitcock, the Community Services chair for the AARP, gave out volunteer sheets so that members could keep up with their volunteer hours.

Current members were congratulated on their recruitment efforts. There were several new members at the February meeting.

CIA HOLDS FIRST CONCERT

Due to the threatening weather, the crowd at the Community Improvement Association's first Valentine concert was lighter than expected. But the crowds who did show had a wonderful time.

Music was provided by the Golden Tones and the SCC Symphonic Band. The CIA did take the time to present some very special awards. Lillian Griffin and Tom West both received the CIA's Outstanding

The CIA has always been a supporter of education. At the concert, President Sheila Sawyer presented Dr. Bill Hinkle with a $500 scholarship for the SCC Symphonic Band.

The Lake Mary Woman's Club provided a delicious array of Valentine cookies for concert goers. Roses were given to everyone by Country Club Florist. The concert was such a success that the CIA plans to hold another one in the future.

Rosa came to Sanford when she was 12 years old and married Reggie Masey in 1926. She has lived in the same house on Chapman Avenue for 59 years.

During the early years, Rosa was a homemaker until she raised her three daughters. She later went to work at FMB Dime Store on Sanford Avenue where she remained for 15 years. She has been a member of Central Baptist Church for more than 50 years.

Rosa is a very spry and chipper lady with a wonderful sense of humor. She contributes her longevity to: "I never took a drink of liquor in my life and never smoked a cigarette. I drink a little coffee sometimes, but never drink tea. I just don't like it." Period.

PHYLLIS BENKARIK NAMED BETA SIGMA QUEEN

The Sanford chapters of Beta Sigma Phi held the annual Valentine luncheon at Deltona Hills Golf and Country Club on Feb. 14. Every year, each chapter selects a Valentine Girl who is in competition for the queen title.

Following the social hour, Phyllis Benkarik of Laureate Gamma Delta was crowned the 1998 queen by the 1997 queen, Amore LaRosa. Phyllis took the traditional queen's walk and received a beautiful vase as a gift along with a dozen yellow roses and a sparkling crown

Avocation: Do unto others... Youths provide free home assistance

By SUSAN WENNER Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - According to Bruce Moser, coordinator of WPA (We Provide Assistance), at least 50 individuals are standing by for an opportunity to assist the public in whatever way they can help. After a mission trip to Tennessee almost one year ago the group became excited about serving their own community and now they are just waiting for the phone to ring to provide needed assistance to anyone and everyone in this community.

effort to build a shed and a ramp. The wonderful thing about this endeavor is that it is free for the asking. No payment is necessary. Participants are working out of the goodness of their heart. No strings attached and nothing but a thank-you need be mentioned. "Our whole purpose is to reach out," said Moser. "We want to improve and clean up Sanford. I have 50 people just treading at my heels to get things moving. We are striving for sharing Christ and aiming for telling people about the gospel. We want to do the work and be nice. We have a good reason for the work and that is working for God. We want to share that reason."

"About a year ago we went to Tennessee for Mountain Top," said Moser. "During our stay there we helped people in the Appalachians. Some of these people didn't even have running water. They were so happy to get help. It was such a touching experience that we got fired up to come back and get busy here in our own community. We felt it made a difference there and we could make that same difference here."

Most of the work is accomplished on Saturdays. Either morning or afternoons or both may be booked. For those in the community wishing to utilize these workers services one may call the church at 322-4371 and leave the name, address, phone and work needed with the church secretary. The information will be passed on to Moser and he will be sure that the job is filled.

Lunch consisted of fruit cup, chicken or beef, a vegetable medley and red and white cake. Entertainment was provided by Seminole County's dazzling "Happy Hoofers," a dance and lyrical troupe, directed by Evelyn Chester, consisting of about 30 women and three men ranging in age from 50 to 80.

Terri Millikan won high score, Theima Smith, second, and Helen Ernest, third. Others attending were: Carolyn Cornelius, Betty Halback, Rose Jacobson, Peg Jones, Selma Newman, Shirley Mills, Doris Stein, Frances Webster, Shirley Schilke, Alice Potter and guest Elizabeth Dunn of Indiana, Penn.

LIBBY ON MEND In last week's column, we were given information that Libby Prevatt resigned from the Sanford Woman's Club. Actually, she resigned her office of corresponding secretary only. Libby has been a sick chick with heart and other complications for several weeks, but she hopes to be out and about real soon and back at the club where she is a mixed, vital member.

After Hours

Dinner and a movie

Some big moments in this film about little people

The Borrowers (PG): They live slightly beyond the walls of a home. They keep to themselves mostly, but there are subtle ways they let you know they're around. Looking around the house, you may find things mysteriously missing. You could have sworn an item was there a few minutes ago.

And later, the item is back as if it had never vanished. Is it rats? Think not. They are called Borrowers, and they are the little stars of a new family film called The Borrowers.

Based on the children's books by the late Mary Norton, The Borrowers follow the adventures of these Lilliputian-like characters as they face a daily challenge of going through their lives avoiding contact with "beings"- humans in other words.

When we first meet them, they appear in the kitchen of an old house owned by the Lenders, a middle class in jeopardy of losing their home to a treacherous lawyer named Ocius P. Potter (John Goodman). In order to foil Potter's plans, the Lenders have to come up with their grandmother's will or face eviction.

The grandmother willed the home's deed to the Lenders, but, without knowing the location of the will, the family is forced to move. In come the Borrowers, who end up being Potter's worst nightmare.

The children of the Clocks — the Borrower family that co-habitate with the Lenders—are able to snag the will from Potter's possession. And the rest of the film is a race to get the will in the hands of the Lenders, who now live on the other side of town from the old house, and stop Potter's self serving scheme. However, the other side of town is like the other side of the world to a Borrower, and a lot could happen.

In the translation between literature and film, something has been lost. The Borrowers is a spirited film, and you can see how this is a wonderful story for children and their parents. But, frankly, the humor is what turned me off. You have the villain being electrocuted, doused with cheese sauce a la Nickelodeon, and sprayed in the face with some hair-removing substance. There is even a flatulating dog — it seems like there is always something flatulating in kid pictures nowadays. But this humor doesn't seem to mesh with the rest of the film. So what you end up with is lame laugh-getters holding back an otherwise fun adventure.

David Frazier

I could have known more about the Borrowers as well. What are their backgrounds? Where are they from? Have they always been around? We learn mainly about their characteristics and the relationship they have with humans, but that's it. (It was neat, however, to learn that there are two different classes within the Borrower community). It is not important that we fully acquaint ourselves with the Borrowers, I guess.

Vital to keeping The Borrowers afloat is a good performance by the busy John Goodman, who is starring in his third film in less than two months with another film set to come out after this, and the miniature effects.

Goodman makes a caricature out of the lawyer, Potter. He is effective in the slapstick scenes, and he makes his villain memorable even though there is not much to the character in the first place. Goodman is better playing cartoonish here than he was in The Flintstones.

The effects are jaw-dropping. One sequence, in particular, where father Clock and his children raid the kitchen of food and supplies, is quite special. The kitchen seems like some vast obstacle course the Borrowers have mastered with ease. Jumping from the table to chair and climbing the magnets on the refrigerator look as though they are breath-taking perils, but our microscopic heroes breeze it. The sequence is my favorite out of the whole film.

The Borrowers could become a series of family films if the filmmakers are up to it. I see promise in this first outing... if nothing else.

GATOR LANDING RIVERSIDE GRILLE
4255 Peninsula Pt.
Sanford, Florida
(407) 330-1612

While everyone in the area knows that there is a wonderful marina at the St. Johns River in Sanford, some may not realize that there is also a wonderful restaurant.

Hidden in the back corner of the city, right on the river, is a small restaurant that offers delicious seafood and the best atmosphere... Mother Nature.

Bob Hopkins, who also operates St. Johns River Cruises and Tours and was born and raised in Sanford, had a problem a few years back. After his tours, people were hungry and were consistently asking where they could go to eat. It dawned on Hopkins that if he opened a little restaurant of his own, he could feed his tour patrons himself.

Four years ago, Hopkins leased the old Osteen fish camp and after a year of hard work and patience, turned it into Gator Landing.

Although a lot of the decor is University of Florida oriented, Hopkins said that he will serve Seminole's also.

Patrons can enjoy the best in Florida seafood while sitting inside and watching a game or sitting outside on the deck. Gator, and not the frozen stuff, is definitely a specialty along with fresh catfish fingerlings, grouper cooked anyway imaginable and snook. Of course there is also shrimp, baby back ribs and a variety of sandwiches, appetizers and desserts to tempt the palate. The gator and the fresh fish are a must try on a first visit, however.

On weekends, there is live music on the deck and customers can spend all day listening to beachy music while watching the activity on the St. Johns River. If it's a little cloudy or cool, the deck is enclosed with see-through shields so the view isn't hindered, just the conditions.

Gator Landing is laid back, where everyone gets to know everyone. No tie required, just the desire to have a good time eating good food while enjoying the beautiful St. Johns River.

38 Special's new album misses its mark

By SHARI BRODIE
Herald Staff Writer

The south will surely rise again, but probably not on the heels of the latest release from southern boogie/pop band 38 Special.

Resolution, the 11th album in 20 years for the band led by singer/songwriter Don Barnes, is set to be released on the Razor & Tie label.

In a publicity release, Barnes said the album "emphasizes where we've arrived creatively without forsaking what got us here." What seems to have gotten 38 Special "here" is a re-hash of some good Doobie Brothers and Eagles music, from more than 20 years ago.

MUSIC REVIEW

The single, "Fade To Blue" has reportedly garnered air play at rock stations in Los Angeles, Minneapolis, Indianapolis and St. Louis. While full of the "new energy and enthusiasm" the band claims to have underscored in the new album, this cut and the second on the album, "Just Can't Leave You Alone", are reminiscent of an early Doobie's album, The Captain and Me.

Go from Doobies straight into the Eagles with the third track, "Deja Voodoo". Its scary how much this song sounds like "Witchy Woman".

Donnie Van Zant (brother of the late Ronnie Van Zant, of Jacksonville's Lynyrd Skynyrd) is lead vocal for four songs on the album, including "Deja Voodoo" and "She Loves To Talk", where the influence of his brother really comes through.

The balance of the album is rather soft for rock and roll, with ballad cuts like "Miracle Man", "Shelter Me", and "Saving Grace". There is good guitar and harmonica work on "Finding My Way Back" and the mandolin, played by Barnes, is nice on "Changed By Love". "Shatter the Silence" is a message song, speaking out against child abuse.

There is no mistaking the similarity between the rock standard "House Of The Rising Sun" and ninth track, "Homeless Guitar". You can even detect a little James Taylor on "Saving Grace". With all of that musical influence, the album should soar, but it just seems to sit there, snaggled on the remnants of a sound that ruled the 1980s.

Publicist Marc Fenton said, "The collaboration resulted in a stripped down 38 Special...remarkably contemporary." Why? What was wrong with the old 38 Special?

Rounding the vocal of Barnes and Van Zant are Danny Chaucer, who plays guitar, keyboards and fretless bass, and Larry "LJ" Junstrom, bass. Barnes also plays slide.

The album is produced by Joe Hardy (ZZ Top, Steve Earle) and Barnes and Chaucer.

Best known for favorites such as "Hold On Loosely" and "Caught Up in You", the band has had several Central Florida engagements over the past couple of years. In fact, THE band has toured exhaustively, said Fenton, since its last album, Bone Against Steel, was released in 1991. Fans can catch the band at Bike Week in Daytona Beach, on Tuesday, March 3.

HOROSCOPE

Your Birthday

Sunday, Feb. 22, 1998

Last year, some of the things you have done left a good impression on your peers. As a result, more social and commercial partnerships are indicated in the year ahead.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) General conditions look rather good for you at this stage of the cycle. Be alert for an arrangement that could turn into a joint endeavor. Pisces, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10158. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A short, unplanned jaunt to someplace fun and different today will help quell your restless spirit. Get on the road early and take a happy friend along.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Something worthwhile that will awaken your expectations could happen for you today. Others will be involved, but you'll be the principle initiator.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your status in the eyes of your contemporaries is starting to curve upward. Nice things of which you were unaware will be said about you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You are operating on a very imaginative level. It is important that you follow through on your newly inspired ideas today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today, you'll be lucky for others and they, in turn, could be lucky for you. New joint endeavors could put you ahead of the pack.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You may continue to be more fortunate in achieving your aims when involved in partnership arrangements. Each party will reinforce the other's position.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do not be reluctant to talk about career developments with big shots who may be entertaining today. They will be responsive to what you have to say.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A repeat performance of something that turned out well for you in the past is probable today. Follow the same script to achieve the same results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Beginning today, your material aspects should start to look more encouraging.

You will recognize this, and so will your associates.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You are apt to be luckier today dealing with larger issues than you will be with smaller ones, so schedule your day accordingly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A special friend wants to do something memorable for you today, so don't impede his or her efforts. Everyone knows you're not looking for a free ride.

BRIDGE

Heart healthy

Benjamin Franklin advised, "Take counsel in wine, but resolve afterwards in water."

Well, supposedly red wine is good for the heart — something to do with cleaning out the arteries. Let's hope it's true! And the secret to this deal is handling the heart suit correctly. Yet leave the wine until after working out your answer, as imbibing alcohol isn't recommended when you're playing bridge.

South did well to remove three no-trump to four hearts. The former should be defeated, but four hearts made with careful declarer play.

West led the spade queen: ace, three, four.

Faced with a spade loser, declarer could afford only two trump losers. What did he do?

Well, if the hearts were 6-0 or 5-1, South stood no chance. Alternatively, if they were 3-3, everything would work. But what if they were 4-2?

BRIDGE

PHILLIP ALDER

South unblocked dummy's heart ace: six, two, four. Then he played a diamond to his ace and led a low heart. When the queen had to win the trick, South could get back in, use the jack-10 to drive out East's heart king, return to hand, and draw East's remaining trump.

Leading the heart jack (or 10) on the second round is all right if the nine is doubleton. But it is twice as likely that an opponent will hold honor-doubleton than nine-doubleton. So, it is clearly right to lead a low heart on the second round, rather than an honor.

South, a young up-and-comer, took a celebratory drink from his glass of tap
