Ickes Cancels Contract With Steel Company

Labor Board Finds 'Unfair Practices' In Use By Factory Furnishing Piling

Three Firms Bid Identical Prices

'Systematic Terror' Is Put Before Door Of Pittsburgh Group

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes today cancelled a $40,000 contract with Jones and Laughlin Steel Company of Pittsburgh because, he said, it had been "found guilty by the National Labor Relations Board of unfair labor practices."

Jones and Laughlin, with three other companies, submitted the bid for steel piling which were used in construction of the Imperial Dam on the all-American Canal in New Mexico. Secretary Ickes said the contract award was cancelled because the Labor Relations Board notified him of its decision that the company conducted a campaign of "systematic terror" against the organization efforts of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of North America. The labor board's suit to enforce the order against the company was denied by the Federal Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Sanford Legion Is Free Of Politics, Commandant Says

Lloyd Boyle, commandant of the Sanford American Legion post, last night declared before Legionnaires that the unit here is free of political affiliations with regard to all elections. He intimated that the organization will continue to be a group which will work for the benefit of ex-service men and would not entangle itself by supporting or condemning any political candidates. The grounds committee last night reported that a quantity of muck is on hand and will be spread soon around the Legion Hut where grass is to be planted. P. A. Marc, director of the Sons of the Legion said 25 of his group had registered to attend camp at Clearwater between June 29 and July 8. Forty-one Legionnaires, attended the session.

Elks' Ceremony Honors National Flag Day Event

Ritual Witnessed By 150 In Fraternity Clubhouse Monday

Nearly 150 persons last night joined the Sanford Elks lodge in ceremonies staged in the fraternity's club house to observe National Flag Day. A stirring patriotic address touching on the significance of the Stars and Stripes was delivered by the Hon. Alto Adams, district deputy grand master of Florida East, a division of the Florida Elks. He recounted the meaning of the flag, bringing out inspirational phrases and retelling deeds of greatness which a national banner will inspire in the loyal. G. W. Spencer, past exalted ruler, made the annual talk on the history of the flag. His comments were interspersed with actual illustrations of the American national emblem from the days of its birth up until the present time. One of the features of the evening was an impressive Liberty Bell ceremony which was staged by the officers of the local lodge. The program was appropriately opened with "Stars and Stripes," an oration presented by Shelley and Reeves musical unit. Introductory exercises were under the charge of Fred Dornier, exalted ruler, and other officers. Immediately following was prayer by the chaplain. Mrs. Roby Laing and Mrs. George Harden provided vocal entertainment in a duet. The audience joined the Elks in the closing song, "America."

Sholtz' Plan Is Vetoed By County Board

Commissioners Refuse To Make Additional Levy Or Allocation For Financing Ads

Seminole County commissioners today went on record as being opposed to levies or appropriations for the All-Florida advertising campaign set forth by Gov. Dave Sholtz. The body had made a definitely negative decision on the matter last year, and today's vote was regarded simply as a reiteration of past action. Under the plan advanced by the governor, each county in the state would levy a tax or allocate an appropriation which would be sufficient to meet per capita cost of publicizing the state in the north and west. While commissioners called Tuesday's session to discuss old age pensions, activities along that line were rather quiet when it was pointed out that the board already is on record as favoring remuneration to the aged. In original plans, the board had planned to be represented in a pension discussion at the state capital but decided no delegate would be necessary since the Seminole sentiment had been expressed previously. Commissioners received and granted an application of Miss Josephine Boydston, county home demonstration agent, for a leave of absence between July 1 and August 15. Approval was given on a bill for $13.50 owed to W. R. Glidwell for work at the County camp.

Julia Sasa drew a $5 fine, suspended, on charges of disorderly conduct. Bessie Andrews, negro, was given $10 or 30 days after being accused of disorderly conduct. George Moultrie was said to have been practicing clairvoyance without a license. His case was continued.

Bonus Payment Activities Move Swiftly In Sanford

Postoffice Is Thronged With Veterans As Immediate Cash-in On Certificates Is Sought By Scores

Just as they stormed recruiting offices to enlist for overseas service 20 years ago, Sanford men today thronged the postoffice to draw their bonus bonds. While no numerical record was kept of the crowd in Postmaster R. J. Holly's office, it was safely estimated that more than 100 dropped in to make negotiations for their certificates. Mr. Holly said his office will close at 5 P. M. today as usual but that it would be open between 7 P. M. and 9 P. M. as a convenience to workers who were unable to leave their employment during the day. The postmaster reiterated a former statement that it would be useless to call for bonus bonds unless one held a registry slip now being delivered by city and rural route carriers. Box owners, he said, may obtain their slips through boxes. With nearly 400 veterans in Seminole County, the amount of money suddenly dumped here totals approximately $300,000. Surveys from other parts of the state and nation show that some nine percent of the bonus will go to pay debts; 18 percent will be used in home building; some ten per cent will be invested in new automobiles. The survey reveals that only a small portion of the ex-service men will hold their bonds and receive benefit of the three per cent interest which the paper bears. Mr. Holly today said persons who did plan to hold their certificates would greatly facilitate distribution if they did not seek to obtain their bonds until the cash had passed.

Tropical Storm G.O.P. Candidate Redevelops Near Okeyed By OARR Wins In Election

JACKSONVILLE, June 16.—(AP)—A tropical storm had developed in the Atlantic Ocean today and at 9:30 A. M. was 400 miles southwest of Bermuda, moving toward the island. Weather Bureau officials said there was almost no chance for the disturbance to recurve and head back toward the coast of Florida. The blow was centered near Miami yesterday morning and resulted in high water in several Florida towns. MIAMI, June 16.—(AP)—The Coast Guard today sent a plane and patrol boat to search for two men missing for more than a week on a pleasure cruise among the Florida Keys. Frank Strand, 24, and Joseph Booth, 25, both of Miami, left here June 3 aboard Strand's 22-foot cruiser. They were last reported on June 8 when they left Key West for Fort Jefferson on the Dry Tortugas, 60 miles to the west. After the passing of a tropical storm Sunday night and early yesterday, relatives asked the Coast Guard to look for them. Persons who plan to be absent from their precincts on June 23 must cast their absentee ballots before Friday, it was announced today from the office of County Judge Sharon. Wednesday night has been set as the deadline for filing applications to vote an absentee ballot, the announcement stated. Judge Sharon's records show that 75 Seminole County residents have marked their ballots and deposited them with proper authorities, indicating they will not be in their precincts for the second primary. Nearly 150 out-of-state absentee ballots have been handled by the judge's office, records show further.

Drive Begun To Clean Out Black Legion

Public Payrolls Are Found Packed With Members Of Secret Terrorist Racket

DETROIT, June 16.—(AP)—A drive to purge public payrolls of all members of the Black Legion was begun today in three communities, including Highland Park where officials described the situation as "most serious in the city's history." Three firemen and two policemen were suspended there and two other firemen accused with ten other men in a Black Legion conspiracy to murder Arthur F. Kingsley, Highland Park editor, previously had been suspended. In familiar every officer and employee of the city and county will be required to appear before a grand jury investigating the Black Legion terrorism and swear he is not a member of the night riders' organization. Dayton Dean testified Monday that N. Ray Markland, former mayor of Detroit, had completed a "pledge" that he would be ruined politically, unless Dean and other Black Legion gunmen succeeded in their persistent efforts to kill the fighting editor of the community newspaper. Markland is one of 12 men charged with conspiracy to murder Arthur F. Kingsley, the editor, whose newspaper helped defeat him for re-election in 1934. Dean, the Black Legion's confessed "executioner" in the slaying of Charles A. Poole, calmly told a packed courtroom at the examination of 11 of the 12 defendants yesterday of signing in blood an oath with other members to carry out the plot. "We were told there would be three other men who would see that if we didn't do the job we would be taken care of ourselves," Dean testified. Several attempts to kill Kingsley failed, and the editor once outdistanced the "death squad" in a wild night automobile chase before Markland was defeated in the election and the death plot was dropped, Dean testified.

Ray Markland, former mayor of Detroit, had completed a "pledge" that he would be ruined politically, unless Dean and other Black Legion gunmen succeeded in their persistent efforts to kill the fighting editor of the community newspaper. Markland is one of 12 men charged with conspiracy to murder Arthur F. Kingsley, the editor, whose newspaper helped defeat him for re-election in 1934. Dean, the Black Legion's confessed "executioner" in the slaying of Charles A. Poole, calmly told a packed courtroom at the examination of 11 of the 12 defendants yesterday of signing in blood an oath with other members to carry out the plot. "We were told there would be three other men who would see that if we didn't do the job we would be taken care of ourselves," Dean testified. Several attempts to kill Kingsley failed, and the editor once outdistanced the "death squad" in a wild night automobile chase before Markland was defeated in the election and the death plot was dropped, Dean testified.

Steed Sees Danger Of Race Riots If OARP Becomes Law

W. J. "Funie" Steed Congress Candidate Denounces Plan To Pay Everyone Over 60 $200 A Month

Discussing the Townsend Plan before a large audience in downtown Sanford last night, "Funie" Steed, candidate for Congress, predicted chaotic conditions with possible race riots and bloodshed if the proposal to pay $200 to everyone past 60 years of age should ever become a law. Steed advocates sound pensions. Says district needs representative who is loyal to party. Chaotic conditions involving riots and bloodshed and a country where it would be practically impossible to get anyone to do the necessary common labor were pictured to a Sanford audience last night by W. J. "Funie" Steed, candidate for Congress, if the Townsend Pension Plan should be enacted into law. Making his last appearance before a local crowd until after the June 23rd primary, Mr. Steed, who is opposed for re-election by "Little Joe" Hendricks, the candidate of the Townsend Club, asked his audience what would happen here in Sanford if every negro man and woman past 60 years of age were to receive $200 a month each? "Why, you couldn't get any of them to work for you, young or old," he said. "I've lived in the South all my life, and I know that niggers look after each other and that you can't get one of them to work as long as he has a dollar in his pocket." "What would be the result in this town, or any town in the South," he asked, "hard working white men, who don't make more than $50 or a $100 a month, when a negro man and his wife just turned 60 began receiving, between them, as much as $400 a month?" Mr. Steed further pointed out that Dr. Townsend is "raging war" on the present Administration in Washington, that he has even gone so far as to propose a third party in order to defeat President Roosevelt for re-election. "Lines 'Little Joe' Hendricks want to be the candidate for the Democratic party... or of Dr. Townsend?" "It looks to me," Mr. Steed continued, "as if he is the candidate of the Townsend Club, because they have all endorsed him and that is all he can talk about. New let me ask you this. EXPERIMENT TOWARD RAIN

The covered grass was strewn along the field. White scythes had laid it low, and golden stubble pointed toward the swift white thunderheads that loomed over the evening hill and faintly rumbled.

We climbed to meet the lightning, while the slope stretched upward paling green and yellow-brown; we shied from thickets and their scanty shelter—with the scent of drying hay and wild, fat down. And restless cattle-bells from distant hollows changed a low hum, and no brief word was said: the rain blew over us in gusts, my fingers shaped to the beauty of your drenched dark hair. The tumult trumped up, the earth was rough, the swallows shuttled close with stormy cries...

Japan has landed Marines in South China... just to make sure they aren't attacked, of course.

Some of our newspapers, as well as some of our office workers, are having a tough time trying to decide which is the best band wagon to climb aboard.

The Fort Myers News-Press, which was supporting Jerry Carter during the first primary campaign, says Jerry had 80,000 votes signed by citizens pledged to vote for him.

The hurricane season is beginning too early this year. How can we find space in our paper for a tropical blow, with all these political wind bags spouting off all the time?

All the political experts assure us that Fred Cone is going to be the next governor, that Pettway hasn't got a chance. Well, we're going to keep on being for him anyway. He never had a chance in the first primary.

As a fellow told me the other day, he was on the verge of climbing in to the Cone bandwagon when he suddenly discovered that every seat had already been occupied by someone looking for a state job.

Another thing about this business of electing a governor is that the governor has the power to appoint the members of the board of education in the event of the death or retirement of one of the present members. It is a mighty big power to entrust into the hands of any governor.

Of course, "Little Joe" Henderson probably didn't know that in making the Democratic congressional nomination by opposing the Townsend Plan, he was working against the head of his own party.

Fred Cone, according to news items from Miami, has a lot more out against the slot machine. On his recent trip to the slot machine city he has discovered that the majority of the slot machine people down there do not want slot machines. So he condemns them. But that does not do away with the fact that he has already been chosen by the slot machine men as their candidate.

A Sound Argument

That "Funtle" Steed's prediction of race riots and bloodshed if the Townsend Plan should become a law is not overdrawn in the slightest, is recognized by every thoughtful person who has given a moment's consideration to the consequences of paying EVERYBODY over sixty years of age pensions of $200 a month.

There are 12,000,000 negroes in the United States, most of them in the South. In many Southern cities, such as Sanford, for instance, there are as many negroes as there are whites. If there is the same percentage of people 60 years old, and over, among negroes as there is among the general population, about 1,000,000 of these negroes would be eligible, under the Townsend Plan, for $200 a month pensions.

Now everyone knows that most negroes subsist on about $20 or $30 a month. It is extremely rare that a negro averages as much as $50 a month year in and year out. What would be the effect upon a negro who had never actually earned more than $50 a month when he was working? Or, if he happened to be married, $400 a month, or $4,800 a year, without either one of them working?

Everyone also knows that negroes tend to support each other. If one negro happens to have ten or fifteen dollars, it will not be long before other negroes will have "skinned" it away from him. And if an old negro happens to have $200, he can divide it among his ten or fifteen children and all of them live comfortably for three or four weeks. Then by that time, if another $200 is due from the government, would it be possible to get any of them to work at all?

Can you imagine a negro getting $200 a month working on a celery farm? Can you imagine a negro, whose father or mother was getting $200, working in celery fields? Can you imagine a negro, whose aunt, uncle, grandfather, grandmother, brother, sister, cousin, or "friend" was drawing a pension of $200 a month, doing any work for anyone? And can you imagine the crisis such a situation would create for local celery farmers, and other employers of common labor?

Furthermore, when you consider that the money to pay these negroes $200 a month would come from taxation levied against the negroes of the white race, the reaction to the Townsend Plan would be. It is proposed to raise this money by a two per cent sales tax on all the commodities of trade and every living person would have to pay his proportionate share of the costs.

These costs, figured for the entire country, would be tremendous. It is estimated that some 24 billion dollars would be required annually in order to pay $200 a month pensions. Twenty-four billion dollars is approximately half of all the money which every man, woman, and child in the entire country can make in a whole year. In other words, those who did not receive pensions (that is, the younger workmen) would have to contribute about half of their total annual income in order to pay $200 a month to those past sixty.

And a very large percentage of these pensions would be paid to negroes.

New Housing Needed

New homes constructed in the last five years in 310 leading cities of the United States were not sufficient to house quite half the bare increase in population of those cities. J. R. Ridgway, president of Investors' Syndicate, Inc., says this statement is based upon a survey of a group of cities containing more than one-third of the country's population.

"These 310 cities, located in 41 states and the District of Columbia, constitute an accurate index to the national home building situation," continued Mr. Ridgway. "New housing constructed in these cities in the years 1931 to 1935 inclusive, was sufficient to take care of only 49.15 per cent of the actual population increase. When it is considered that there is a still greater shortage of homes than this figure would indicate, because of necessity for replacement of houses torn down or destroyed by fire and flood, the seriousness of the shortage becomes still more apparent."

The Investors' Syndicate survey shows that in the five years prior to 1936 new houses were built for 239,606 families in the 310 cities included in the study. These houses furnished shelter for 958,424 people. During this five year period, however, the survey shows that the population of these cities increased 1,959,691, or a little more than twice the capacity of all new housing provided.

During the five years ended Dec. 31, 1935, new residential construction approximated only five billion dollars in value as contrasted with approximately $20,000,000,000 during the previous ten years.

"If the people of the United States are to be housed with no greater adequacy than they have been accustomed to, new home construction on a substantially greater scale will be required in the next five years than during the similar period just closed," said Mr. Ridgway. "As large as the sum required may be, more than ample funds are available at low interest rates through private and corporate lending sources which are able and willing to release this money."

SANFORD TWENTY YEARS AGO

C. M. Berry, the well-known grower on the West Side and county agent for Seminole, suffered a serious accident Wednesday afternoon when crossing the A. C. L. tracks at Beck Hammock Station. It seems his car was making so much noise that he could not see the train coming up on the opposite side of a string of cars and he was struck before he knew the train was anywhere near him. He was badly bruised and his car was wrecked but the chances are good for his recovery and he is now resting easy at the Orlando Hospital.

DIRTY POLITICS

MIAMI TRIBUNE

Is the governorship of Florida a bauble which Dave Sholtz can deliver to his acolytes on a silver platter? This is one of the most important questions to be decided by the voters in the second primary June 23.

The carpetbagger from Brooklyn, through a series of astute political trades consummated during the last three weeks of the first primary campaign, succeeded in pushing Fred P. Cone into the runner-up position. True, it was necessary for the Velt machine in Jacksonville to throw ballots in the covers, count contenders out and perform other little duties which fell to the lot of Florida's political juggernauts in such emergencies, but the Sholtz-appointed Cone squeezed into the runoff just the same. And results are all that count in Florida politics.

Cone poses as a "man of the people." He is a wealthy banker, and also a lawyer, acting as counsel for the Atlantic Coast Line. He has the backing, not only of Sholtz, but also of the vested interests—the railroads, the utilities and the slot machine syndicate. He has already promised defeated candidates the world with a fence around it if they will rally to his banner and the Sholtz machine has instituted a whispering campaign in Dade county to the effect that if Judge W. Raleigh Pettway is elected, Miami and Miami Beach will be cleaned tighter than the proverbial drum.

Florida's lower East Coast showed what it thought of the Sholtz regime by piling up huge totals for the candidates of the state administration during the first primary campaign. The strategy of the Cone forces, directed by Lieutenant-Colonel (Mex) Frank B. Shutta and Gov-much better for him and his chance for election had he not touched upon that (so kind) dangerous topic. Anyone speaking on the Townsend Plan these days has to know what he has taken on and be able to use arguments that carry conviction, because no opponent yet has ever brought up any phase of it but what has been alluded to most peremptory fashion. The old stock argument that it is "impractical, uneconomically unsound and impossible of fulfillment" without telling us why, convinces no one. That argument has been shelved by sensible speakers long since. The Townsend Plan will accomplish all that is claimed for it, and we've got any opponent who can prove otherwise.

Any speaker who brings up the negro question today is surely not very well equipped with arguments against the Plan or he would be, it seems to us, a little solicitous about the hundreds of thousands of fine American citizens who, once well to do, educated, refined people now dejected through no fault of their own, and to whom the present Administration intends to brand as paupers before they can be accorded the munificent monthly dole under the outrageous Social Security Act!

Mr. Steed should have absorbed the fact that the pension phase of the Plan is only a means to an end, and that the amount to be paid monthly is not handed out unconditionally, but to be used as specifically directed and to which each annuitant must take oath, so that it would go at once back

COLIN ENGLISH'S VOTE

OCALA STAR

A study of the available election returns shows that the people of Florida evidently want to replace the present state superintendent of public instruction with a younger, more aggressive man. The popularity of Mr. English, on a state-wide basis, with four other men making a bid for the office, is rather remarkable, as he is a newcomer to state politics and not a politician or vote-getter as we measure those seeking public office.

But Mr. English's popularity in those counties where he is best known, is the best gauge of his worth as an educator and school executive. In Lee county, where Mr. English held the position of high school principal before coming to Ocala, he received 3008 votes to 358 for his leading opponent, or a ratio of nine to one, and in Marion county English received a total of 3703 to 801 for Cawthon, or a seven to one plurality.

There is no question in the minds of the people who know Colin English best that he is equipped by training and experience to take over the superintendency of their school affairs at Tallahassee. They have expressed their confidence in him at the polls in language that every one understands.

BOSTON, June 16.—(AP)—The Rev. Charles F. Coughlin, Detroit radio priest, Sunday night intimated possibility of a coalition of his national union for social justice and followers of the Townsend Old Age Pension movement. At the same time, he said that "neither of the presidential candidates to be voted for this fall is worth a plugged nickel" and charged that Rexford Guy Tamm "is the real Boss of the White House."

as buying power to increase business, absorbing the unemployed, give real social security and a decent standard of living to our fathers and mothers in their declining years—in fact if he had studied the Townsend Ready Reference booklet carefully, he would have been better posted. Congressman Mark Wilcox, a cleverer man, we think, than Mr. Steed, was quite successful in his attempt to tell the man on the street why the Plan would not work, so perhaps we should not have expected too much from Mr. Steed. The Townsend Plan is now "first page stuff." It is the issue of the day, and since the outrageous developments, as evidenced in the Inequalitarian Ball committee at Washington, it is indelibly fixed in the mind of the common man as his only means of changing the chaotic conditions obtaining in his country today.

Fred Cone Comes Out Against Slot Machine Statute

MIAMI, June 16.—Striking out boldly for the first time during his campaign for the governorship of Florida, Fred P. Cone on Saturday answered his critics and defied comparison of records of service for the Democratic party.

Speaking here to an overflow audience in the assembly room of the Hotel Halycon he accepted the challenge thrust at him here, by departing from a discussion of his platform, to give his views on legalized slot machines, racing and conduct. Mr. Cone declared that slot machines must be driven from the state and that his first act if elected will be to aid in nullifying the act of the last Legislature, which made their operation legal.

He also declared that as governor he would act as his own chairman of the Highway Commission and promised at least an additional $3,000 a year to each county from the state's share of the race track revenue, which he claims rightfully belonged to them for the past few years but was wastefully spent in expenses of the board.

Mr. Cone again pleaded for a strict business administration of state affairs and a budget based on the income of the state, without an increase in taxation.

"I guarantee to you now that as your governor," he said, "I will see to it that instead of raising taxes to balance the budget I will lower the budget to balance the taxes."

Financier Urges Home Investment For Bonus Money

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., June 15.—The song with the most lasting appeal to the World War veteran is "Home, Sweet Home," said A. K. LaRue, president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Winston-Salem, this morning in expressing the hope that many veterans will invest their bonus funds in homes.

True veteran sentiment in the mind of LaRue was expressed in a young man's home investment plan. The fact of home ownership is a solid asset and a source of pride. It is the only investment that will pay for itself in the long run.

LaRue said that the Federal Home Loan Bank of Winston-Salem is now offering a special plan for veterans to purchase homes. The plan allows veterans to purchase homes with as little as 10 percent down.

'Green Rainbow' Solar Mystery In Near Solution

American Scientists Journey To Russia For Eclipse Study

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLER
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 18.—(AP)—The end of the "green rainbow," a mystery that has puzzled astronomers for 50 years, will come within the possible reach of two young American scientists with the total eclipse of the sun in Russia and Siberia on June 19.

The "green rainbow" is the green lines of the spectrum, made by the sun's pearly corona during eclipses. What these green lines are made of and what the whole corona is made of are long unsolved mysteries.

The two young men who bid fair to end the puzzle are Dr. Donald H. Menzel, of Harvard, and Dr. Joseph C. Boyle, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. They head a joint expedition to observe the eclipse at Ak-Bulak in the Ural mountains. They carry the most superb equipment—eight spectrographs, mostly automatic—ever made for a solar eclipse.

This pair probably came closer, two years ago, to solving the mystery of the corona substance than anyone else. They announced evidence that oxygen in a metastable state (in a peculiar kind of excitation unknown in oxygen on earth) was responsible for much of the mysterious coronal glow.

They had previously, although as solving one of astronomy's major mysteries. But most astronomers preferred to await further eclipses.

One of the numerous subjects of study at Ak-Bulak will be the infra-red, or heat, spectrum of the corona. These tenuous heat rays, it is hoped, will yield the additional information necessary to identify the stuff that makes the corona.

The corona has never been seen except during the few moments of total eclipse. So there literally are only a few minutes in a century to study it.

Its white streamers shoot millions of miles outward from the sun. Yet they seem to be almost complete vacuum. An evidence of their thinness was the great comet of 1843, which passed at a velocity of 550 miles a second through at least 300,000 miles of corona.

Had the corona been anything like earth's atmosphere, astronomers point out, it inevitably would have consumed the comet as meteors are burned in the air's resistance.

The June 19 eclipse will last two and a half minutes. Its path is 75 miles wide. It starts in the Mediterranean near Tripoli, passes over Athens soon after sunrise, very northeastward until well across Siberia and then turns southeast to end in the Pacific ocean about 400 miles west of the Midway islands.

It will not be visible anywhere in the western hemisphere. Near its path are the cities of Omsk and Tomsk in Siberia.

Wilcox Prepares Bankruptcy Bill For Court Okey

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18.—(Special)—In connection with his new municipal bankruptcy bill made necessary by the Supreme Court decision declaring the old one unconstitutional, Congressman J. Mark Wilcox has made the following statement: "In its decision upon the municipal bankruptcy law the Supreme Court of the United States held that the act as previously passed usurps the rights of the states and is therefore unconstitutional.

"Although we may not agree with its reasoning, we must accept the pronouncement of the court as final and the reasons assigned by the court as being sound.

"The respective states may enact bankruptcy laws, but there is a prohibition in the Constitution against the enactment by any state of any law impairing the obligations of contracts. Reading these two provisions together it would appear that the states may deal only with debts to be hereafter created and that they may not enact bankruptcy legislation dealing with existing debts. If the Supreme Court's decision is correct in holding that the old law infringed upon the rights of the states, then it must have based upon the theory that the bankruptcy law in dealing with future debts is unconstitutional.

"I have therefore redrafted the act and made it applicable only to debts in existence upon the date the new act takes effect. This cannot interfere with any right of the states because the new act specifically prohibited the states from enacting laws in such manner as to impair the obligation of contracts. Therefore, when the court said that the act interferes with the rights of the states, it could not have meant to say that it usurps the right of the states to deal with existing debts.

"In other words, the act could not interfere with a power of the state which the Constitution prohibits the state from exercising. The states have no such right. The Constitution prohibits it. What the court is obliged to have meant, therefore is that the old act usurps the rights of states, only as it attempted to deal with future debts. In view of the Constitution and the decision of the Supreme Court, it would appear that a new act limiting its applicability to existing debts would be constitutional and I have so prepared and introduced the new act."

James Jones, head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is understood to be greatly impressed with the merits of Wilcox's new bill and to have urged it upon President Roosevelt during the cross-country trip.

geographic society, will observe from Kustanal, also in the Ural. Both Kustanal and Ak-Bulak are more than 700 miles southeast of Moscow. This expedition also will make study of the corona, one of its objectives.

The annual turnover in the retail fur trade of this country is said to have shrunk from $250,000,000 in 1929 to $150,000,000 in the last year.

Frank Knox: Republican 'No. 2 Man'

Boston Red-Head Goes To War With Teddy Roosevelt

By ARTHUR KINSLEY
CHICAGO, June 18.—(AP)—Frank Knox, Republican nominee for vice president, was born red-headed, of Scotch-Irish parents, in the midst of an economic depression.

That trio of circumstances offers a key to the career of a man who has swung his fists for principles and who campaigns for public economy on his business record.

His father, William Edwin Knox, was a small Boston merchant who believed debtors' penalties. His mother, Sarah Collins Burrows Knox, had the Scotch insight to teach her son lessons from his father's plentitude of business and shortage of income.

They had come from St. Johns, N. B., to Boston as children, and there on Jan. 1, 1874, their son, William Franklin Knox, was born. Almost from the first the William in his name was forgotten, and the boy became Frank.

After a succession of financial reverses, William Knox moved his family to Grand Rapids, Mich. Frank became a wage earner at 11, making $1.25 a week delivering copies of the Grand Rapids Democrat to 100 families before breakfast.

He quit school in his junior year and went to work at 15 as shipping clerk for a Grand Rapids wholesale book and stationery house, helping his father support a family that now included four younger sisters.

In four years he was a traveling salesman for the firm. Then, in the panic of 1893, he lost his job.

He enrolled in Alma college, Alma, Mich.

Working part-time to earn the $200 a year necessary for tuition, food and clothing, his first job was spading gardens.

In his sophomore year he and another student, whose father loaned them a horse and buggy, plastered barns and fences along roads leading into Alma with signs advertising local merchants, at $10 per 100 signs.

Later Knox, a brawny young fellow who had been captain of Alma's football team, earned a flat $5 a week as director of physical education at the college.

War between the United States and Spain broke out late in his senior year of college. With 15 other Alma students, Knox enlisted in Theodore Roosevelt's Rough Riders.

Champ Clark Sees End Of 23 Rule

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP)—Senator Champ Clark, Missouri, whose father was defeated for the Democratic nomination for president in 1912 after having a majority of nine ballots, predicted today the party would rescind the two-third rule at the Philadelphia convention next week.

Clark, slated to be chairman of the committee on rules and order of business, said the administration wants the change and it is sure it will be made. The two-third rule goes against every Democratic principle of government. I am vitally opposed to it.

Clark said he canvassed party leaders and found no opposition to the change.

MERRY BEDLAM TOUCHED OFF BY NOMINATION OF LONDON

The nomination of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas as the Republican presidential candidate was the signal for an uproarious demonstration on the convention floor in Cleveland. The great mass of cheering, marching delegates is shown at the peak of the ovation. Nineteen votes were cast for Senator William E. Borah in the only ballot taken, but the convention later voted to make Landon's victorious. That placed him in the select company of Grant, McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt. (AP Photo)

Labor Law Held Extortion Plan Invalid By Rule Against Morgan, Ford Is Blasted In Lower Court

New Orleans Appeals Court Throws Out New Deal Labor Act

NEW ORLEANS, June 16.—(AP)—The Wagner-Connelly Labor Relations Act, President Roosevelt's New Deal for the working man, was declared unconstitutional Monday by the U. S. fifth circuit court of appeals.

Bluntly, in a two and one-half page opinion, the court ruled: "The Constitution does not vest in the federal government the power to regulate the relation as such of employer and employee in production or manufacture."

It was the last major enterprise of the New Deal left on the statute books that applied to labor, and the decision came in the face of labor unrest, particularly in the coal fields and tenant farms of the South.

Antique Dealer Under Arrest For Sending Letters Of Threats

NEW YORK, June 16.—(AP)—An American antique dealer was arrested and arraigned Monday night charged with having sent threatening letters to J. P. Morgan and others, including Edsel Ford.

The prisoner, Gregor Aharon, 52, was arrested on the street by city detectives and post office inspectors, who said that the man had attempted to induce Morgan to pay $1,000,000 for a statue Aharon had attributed to Michael Angelo.

At the arraignment before Judge Caffey, assistant United States Attorney Dowling said the antique dealer "had dogged Mr. Morgan's footsteps for years, at home, at his office, and in the Metropolitan museum of art."

Dowling said Aharon had mailed Morgan many letters, to many of which were affixed the Swastika symbol as well as his name. He declined to make public the contents of the letters.

"He asked $2,000,000 for the statue," Dowling said in court. "He had paid $500 for it. He advised Mr. Morgan that unless he sold the statue, Mr. Morgan would face the consequences, 'pay the penalty' or be punished in some way by steps that he would take that would not be favorable either to Mr. Morgan or the Metropolitan museum of art."

Judge Caffey set bond at $5,000 and declined to grant Dowling's request that the prisoner be sent to the psychopathic ward of Bellevue Hospital for observation.

Dowling said that the statue which Aharon attempted to sell to Morgan was of marble about four feet high and represented the Madonna and child. He said Aharon told him he had exhibited the statue abroad.

Dowling said the prisoner had also written similar letters to Edsel Ford and to Pope Pius.

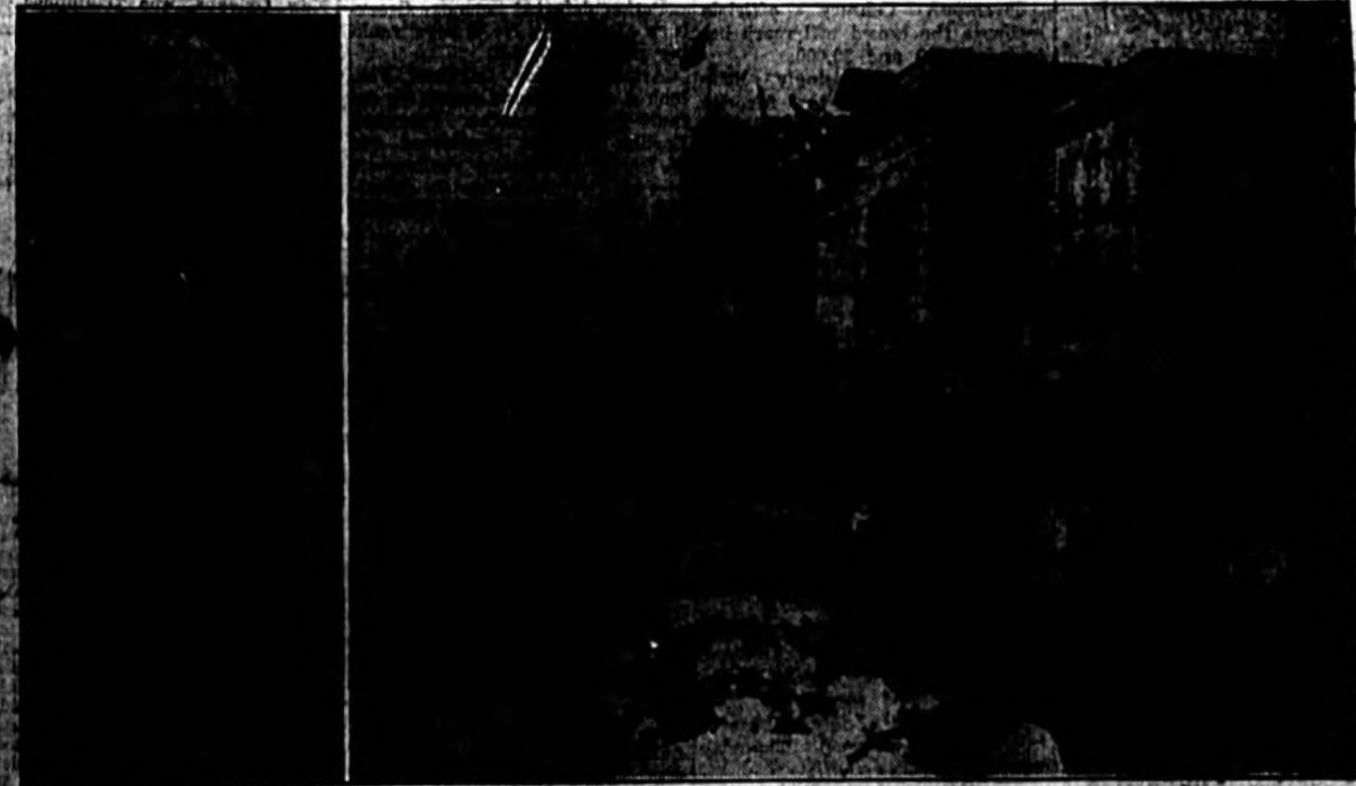

He would visit the Metropolitan museum during directors' meetings, Dowling said, in the hope of selling the statue.

Governors' Race In Indiana Sees Coercion Charge

INDIANAPOLIS, June 16.—(AP)—Charges of attempted coercion of WPA workers in connection with the nomination Tuesday of a Democratic candidate for governor enlivened the final hours of one of the most bitter political contests in Indiana tonight.

The party, which swept into power in the state four years ago, was divided into three parts, with Gov. Paul V. McNutt supporting Lieut.-Gov. M. Clifford Townsend, United States Senator Sherman Minton backing Pless Greenlee, and United States Senator Van Nuys giving his aid to E. Kirk McKinney.

Harris Myers, manager for Greenlee, exhibited an affidavit signed by Harry H. Baker of South Ellettsville, a WPA worker, who said he had been threatened with loss of his position if he voted in the state convention against Townsend.

The citrus industry was described by the court as of such importance to the entire state that the Legislature had authority to regulate it for the protection of growers, shippers and buyers. Such laws, however, must apply alike to all persons in the same business, and any discrimination would make them invalid.

Bill To License Fruit Dealers Is Passed By Court

TALLAHASSEE, June 16.—(AP)—A 1935 legislative act providing for licensing and bonding citrus fruit dealers passed Supreme Court inspection Monday.

The court unanimously upheld the law, and at the same time it ruled firms engaged in processing and canning citrus must abide by it.

The decision reversed a Leon county circuit court injunction which the Folk Company of Lakeland obtained to prohibit Nathan Mayo, commissioner of agriculture, from requiring it to comply with the law. The company contended it was not a citrus dealer, because it is engaged in canning citrus.

Canning or processing, the court said, is a part of the business of citrus dealing, even though the fruit may be bought outright by the canner. Justice Terrell wrote the opinion.

a man to Washington as your representative who is fighting President Roosevelt and the Democratic party and, who is a member of a 'third party'? What will he be able to do for our district?"

Declaring that he is now, and always has been in favor of adequate, reasonable old age pensions, Mr. Steed told the elderly people in his audience that he could do more for them in Washington than Mr. Hendrick could because I will not be deflected with the Administration before I arrive there.

Mr. Hendrick promises you $200 a month, but he won't be able to do anything for you. I make you no such promise, but I will do more for you than he will."

Mr. Steed declared that if he were elected he would devote his energies to the establishment of a sound and adequate pension system which would bring functioning immediately without a paper's oath.

Among other issues which the candidate discussed and favored were reimbursements for fruit fly damage, adequate sufficiency legislation, improvement of working conditions for skilled and unskilled labor, better coastal harbors and inland waterways, a higher standard of education.

The speaker pointed out that he is familiar with the problems of the citrus grower, farmer and shipper, since he now owns a large grove and has, for some time, represented a Kissimmee packing house in a legal capacity.

Mr. Steed affirmed his belief that President Roosevelt will be re-elected in November.

Rogers Begins Work Of Reinforcing Lookout Ball Club

New Chief Signs 'Raw Meat' Comes Pair Of Hurlers; From Retirement Others To Arrive To Manage Team

Tores, Kirby Bolster Staff Of Pitchers; Engle's Friendship Is Factor In Manager's Sanford Assignment

Bill ("Raw Meat") Rogers, new Lookout manager today went about reinforcing the ranks of Sanford's ball club by importing a couple of pitchers and some performers for other positions.

In the crop of hurlers there are right handers and left handers. The new outfield patrolmen are said to boast that trait, peculiar to some ball players, of being able to get base hits.

The recent acquisitions, too, will include a replacement for Stuffy McCrone, ex-Lookout manager who performed creditably around first base but who got his unconditional release yesterday.

Meet the new boss, Bill "Raw Meat" Rogers, in whom is vested the high command of Sanford's Lookouts.

Bill was drifting around town yesterday afternoon and this morning getting acquainted with the folks for whom he hopes to produce a winning ball club.

Mild of manner and soft of speech, Rogers has the reputation of doing through persuasion what many men cannot do through force. To put it simply, a player will work for Bill because he is a likeable fellow.

Behind the bespectacled and chubby fact of Rogers lies a brain wherein is stored the experience gained through 27 years of professional baseball.

Bill had retired from the game at the close of the 1935 season, but because of his close friendship with Joe Engle, the Chattanooga mogul, he returned to diamond wars and will devote his entire efforts to Sanford.

The new manager is a former big leaguer, having cavorted on the infield for Cleveland and Boston in the American League, and for Cincinnati in the older major circuit. That was back in 1915 and 1916 before rumblings of European guns, and the sport of Europe, temporarily interrupted the sport of America.

Between 1918 and 1921, Rogers was with Sacramento in the Pacific Coast League. His hat rack and dining table was in Denver, Col., through 1922. In 1923 and 1924 he continued the eastward jaunt and stopped at Albany, N. Y., Peoria, Ill., gave him the call in 1925-26-27.

The lure of the Pacific Ocean caused Rogers to succumb to another trip to the coast in 1928 and 1929, and he camped at Port and Chattanooga, claimed him in 1930, and Des Moines, Iowa, utilized his services for the following two years.

Bill dug down in his jeans in 1933 and 1934 to buy a slice of the Kansas City nine. Last year he helped Joe Engle with the club at Panama City when retreated to his Texas ranch where he raises cross-bred, white-faced cattle.

Rogers yesterday expressed his satisfaction with the layout here. He is impressed with the team and believes he can whip it into shape within ten days or two weeks.

He promises that win, lose or draw, anybody who pushes his fan under the tills will get full returns in action.

So here's to you, Bill. The town's behind you. That's sure.

There's Gilberto Tores, who crossed the Florida Straits in coming here from Cuba, to offer "cogonella" and "cogonella" balls and fast ones. Gilberto, they say, gets into hot water when he's trying to talk English but knows what he's doing when standing on a pitcher's slab. He is right handed, over six feet tall, scales 155 pounds and saw light for the first time 21 years ago.

Another lad who should occupy the ant hill with considerable frequency is Kirby Hayes hailing from Ft. Pierce. He is 18 years old, leaves from the port side, stands five feet, 11 inches, and reads 185 after dropping a penny in the slot.

One of the willow-wielders and pasture pounders is Jimmy Powell who has seen 22 summers roll by. He hits and throws right-handed and learned his baseball in Selma, Ala., where he grew exactly as tall as the six-foot, two-inch sugar cane stalks and would balance a 179-pound bale of cotton.

There are others, too, who probably will be added very shortly to the outfit, although Rogers wants to look 'em over before moistening the pen with ink and obtaining the X mark.

Released along with McCrone yesterday was Gardner Barnes whose arm troubles made it necessary for him to retire to Chattanooga where the physician of the senior Lookouts will treat the ailing wing.

New York Feels Fight Fever As Thursday Nears

Schmeling And Louis Finish Training; Big Gate Assured

NEW YORK, June 16.—(AP)—Fight fever gripped the big town today as the advance guard of an anticipated 75,000 fans rolled in for the Max Schmeling-Joe Louis heavyweight show Thursday night.

Mike Jacobs, head of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club which is staging the outdoor extravaganza in the Yankee Stadium, said the weather man stands in the way of another certain million dollar gate.

Showers yesterday followed two days of almost continuous rain, but Weather Bureau officials assured the anxious Jacobs the outlook for the last half of the week is for fair and warmer weather.

Meanwhile, all was hustle and bustle at the stadium. Four hundred men, working around the clock in eight hour shifts, last night tackled the big job of erecting the ring, placing seats, numbering sections and otherwise whipping the Yankee hall park in shape for the big fight.

There was the usual belated scramble for tickets when they finally called it a day. The advance sale passed $500,000.

"It can't miss doing a million, inclusive of the picture and radio rights, if we get a break from the weather," said Jacobs. "I've never had such a big advance sale this far ahead of a fight."

Twentieth Century officials estimate the crowd will reach between 75,000 and 80,000.

There is surprisingly little betting. Louis is a 2 to 1 favorite around the Broadway spots with indications that the odds will jump to 4 to 1 unless there is a sudden influx of Schmeling money.

The weighing in ceremonies will be held at half noon Thursday at the Twentieth Century Club.

All was quiet on the fronts at Lakewood and Napanoch. Their hard work over, Louis and Schmeling loafed about their camps, Louis as bored as ever with the world in general, but Schmeling was a bit irritable for the first time since pitching camp.

"This was entirely all right with his handlers. It shows he wants to get in there," said Trainer Max Metchon.

Each boxer is scheduled to take his last workout today. Schmeling will break camp Wednesday and come to New York that night. Louis will motor in from Lakewood Thursday morning.

Ohio State's two outstanding college teams, Southern California and Ohio State, divided the honors in a dual meet in the regional Olympic trials at Palo Alto, Calif., and at Milwaukee and Grand Rapids, Mich., important performances were marked up.

Ohio State's great negro star, Jesse Owens, whose place on the Olympic team is regarded as certain, equalled the world record of 24 seconds for the 100-yard dash in addition to winning his usual victories in the 220 dash, the 220-yard low hurdles and the broad jump. Roy Stanley, the Trojan three-topper, equalled the world record of 14.3 seconds for the regular 120-yard high hurdles race then clipped one-tenth of a second off that mark in an exhibition race against Dan Calkmeyer, Phil Cope and Jack Keller.

CHICAGO, June 16.—(AP)—Frankie Parker of Milwaukee, top seeded star, won his opening match in the national clay courts tennis championship yesterday.

Parker defeated Seymour Greenberg of Chicago, No. 2 boys' ranking player, 6-0, 6-2.

Arthur Hendrix, Lakeland, Fla., took a second round match by default from Alexander Pearson, Boston. Hendrix, considered one of Parker's foremost challengers, won his first round match, defeating John Foreman of Chicago, 6-0, 6-0.

The third seeded Charles Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla., eliminated Eugene Gackl, Chicago, 6-0, 6-1.

In a first round match, Burts Boulware, Jacksonville, Fla., defeated Arthur Chensavie, Chicago, 6-3, 6-3; Vernon Marcum, Lakeland, Fla., won from Marvin Wackman, Evanston, in the second round, 2-6, 2-6, 6-3.

Dixie Golf Stars Throng Memphis For Links Matches

Half Dozen Conceded Chance To Capture South's Big Title

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 16.—(AP)—An all-star cast of golfers from Virginia to Texas tested the Memphis Country Club course yesterday in final tune-ups for the thirty-fourth renewal of the Southern amateur championship.

On the eve of the tournament, no less than a half dozen club wielders were conceded excellent chances of lifting the crown from youthful Bobby Riegel of Richmond in what stacked up as a "wide open" battle for the 1936 crown.

In addition to Defending Champion Riegel, the field included five former titleholders and a scattering of state and section winners.

The veteran Sam Perry of Birmingham, Ala., twice triumphant in the Southern and only two-time victor participating, was establishing a favorite over the field. Wessinger found him quoted a 5 to 1.

Respected Jack Munger of Dallas, Texas, found favor in advance speculation at odds of 6 to 1. From the remainder of the field of approximately 160 entries, you can bet your money on a close contest.

Aside from Perry, former champions entered are Freddie Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, the Southern intercollegiate titleholder who won the Southern two years ago; Glenn Crisman of Houston, the 1925 winner; Chaspen Harris of Memphis, victor in 1931, and R. G. Bush of New Orleans, who triumphed at Dallas back in 1916.

SPORT SLANTS

Training camp stories that emanated from Bradenton, where the St. Louis Cardinals are getting into shape for the current season, did not mention the presence in camp of one Stuart Martin. Much less did they sing the praises of the rookie infielder. He was completely overlooked. Yet today he has "arrived" as the Cards' regular second-baseman and has kept the veteran Frankie Frisch in the dugout. At last the baseball observers have noticed him.

"That's all right with me," drawls the slender youth from North Carolina. "I'd rather have them saying nice things about me now in the regular playing season than when I was at camp."

Probably that was the longest speech Stuart ever made. He is as close-mouthed as his teammate Dixie Dean is talkative.

At camp, Branch Rickey was singing Martin's praises but it all fell on unappreciative ears. Martin had come up from Asheville of the Piedmont league, but what of it, Rickey argued—the lad was good enough to play ball on any club in any league. What's more, he added that Stuart would prove it before the season had run its course.

It took some stretch of imagination to visualize the 155-pound, quiet youngster taking Frankie Frisch's place at second. Rickey could see it, but he was pretty much alone in the respect. Yet that is exactly what has happened and, unless all signs are wrong, Stuart Martin is destined to become one of the outstanding infielders in the game.

He is far from a finished product—after all, Martin has had only a few weeks of contact with the game in the major leagues. He has

Lash Shatters Record For Mile Formerly Held By Flying Finn

NEW YORK, June 16.—(AP)—The dazzling and totally unexpected feat of Don Lash in shattering the great Paavo Nurmi's record for two miles in the Princeton invitation meet over the weekend just about assures Uncle Sam of his best-balanced Olympic team in a good many years.—If everybody retains his form until August.

Running over a rain-soaked track and practically without competition after the first few laps, Lash dashed the crowd of 30,000 which braved a stormy weather to witness the first no-admission "big time" meet by finishing the two miles in 8:53.2. That was more than a second faster than Nurmi's world record of 8:59.6 and has been surpassed only by the Phantom Finn's indoor mark of 8:58.2 made in 1925.

In leaving Norman Bright considered the best of America's 6000 meter Olympic prospects, fully 15 yards to the rear, Lash completely befuddled the critics who had been going on the premise that there were no American distance runners who could give Europe's best a run for their money. The Indiana star's best previous time this year was 9:10.6, considerably faster than the accepted American outdoor mark of 9:12.5, held by Bright.

While Lash's feat was by far the best of the day and probably of the whole spring season, which progresses this week to the stage of semi-final Olympic tryouts, it was by no means the only one which promised good things for the Olympics.

"But there is something about a party in Fuddle Muddle that makes us all forget what we have to do. We are all so fond of parties."

"How can Mrs. Quacko be ashamed of us," particularly of you?" asked Christopher Columbus Crew eagerly.

"It is she feels that why don't I give her a big idea with my own 'braved' theory?"

"I'll knock her into the ground with a good theory," said Willy Nilly.

Success Trails Noogan Gardner Across Diamond

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 16.—(AP)—Big Freddie Singleton is Exhibit A in proof of the professor's old saw:

"If you're a success on the campus, you'll continue to be more than likely, after you leave."

Singleton starred in the classroom and on the athletic field while at the University of Alabama.

In sports he shone most brightly in football, earning all-American honors. But he was no slouch as a baseball player.

Scholastically, he was a gem. He was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity.

As a lambasting outfielder for the Chattanooga Lookouts (Southern association) club, he hit at a .422 clip for the first 96 games of the season. His fielding average was .982.
