

REPUBLICAN HOUSE ACTIVE ON SOLDIER BONUS BILL BUT IS RUNNING WILD

Don't Know Exactly Where They Are But
on Their Way

SALE TAX SLEEPS

AND DEMOCRATS WILL MAKE THEM SHOW THEIR COLORS
NEXT WEEK

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The outstanding development yesterday in the bonus legislation situation was an unexpected announcement in the house by Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee that the bonus bill would be ready for presentation to a caucus of house Republicans within the next ten days.

A moment after this statement was made there was a shout from the Republican side of the chamber when the chairman, lifting his voice to its highest pitch, declared the soldier measure would be passed by a Republican house.

Breaking into the thick of a row over charges by Representative Garner, of Texas, ranking Democrat on the committee, that the bill was being framed secretly with the aid of representatives of the American Legion, Mr. Fordney shouted to the Democratic side that the Republicans did not deem it proper to seek advice on the bonus from those unalterably opposed to it.

While there was no other reference to the bonus on the floor, bonus talk swirled through the corridors, and for the time being discussion of plans for cutting the army and navy appropriation bills was forgotten. Republican members of the ways and means committee, meeting morning and afternoon, went over details of the proposed bill, without giving any intimation as to the exact form of the measure to be reported. The calling in of John T. Taylor, vice-chairman of the Legion's legislative committee, and Richard Jones, representing Veterans of Foreign Wars, provoked the protest of Mr. Garner and his appeal that the House step in and prevent Republicans meeting in secret with witnesses favoring the measure, without admitting Democrats to listen, at least, to the deliberation.

How far sentiment was swinging to the sales tax as a means of raising revenue for the bonus, as advocated by President Harding, was the subject of unending discussion among members. It was evident on all sides, however, that the Republicans were determined to put the bill through the House regardless of what might happen to it in the senate. In the event the bill is in shape for consideration by a Republican caucus within the time set by Mr. Fordney, leaders said it would be passed prior to March 4.

SEVEN SOUTHERN COLLEGE FRAME BUILDINGS BURN

TEMPORARY STRUCTURES WERE DESTROYED AT CLEAR-WATER.

(By The Associated Press)
CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 18.—Fire starting in the boys' dormitory entirely destroyed seven frame buildings of Southern College, at Clearwater Beach, early last night. The main building was not damaged.

The buildings destroyed and the main building, formerly used as a hotel, were turned over to the authorities of the college, a Methodist institution, by their owners last winter following a fire that destroyed the college at Sutherland. They were being used temporarily until permanent quarters now building at Lakeland are ready for occupancy.

Some of the buildings destroyed last night had been used as class rooms, while one had served as a boys' dormitory. A large part of the equipment of the buildings was removed by students. The girls' dormitory was not damaged.

President R. H. Alderman, of the college, who placed the loss at about $20,000, said he was unable to state whether the school term would be completed or the studies suspended for the year. The cause of the fire is unknown.

The fire broke out in the boys' dormitory while the students were at mess in the main building. The flames rapidly consumed this building and advanced to the others.

A hasty alarm was given for the Clearwater fire department stationed across the bay, a distance of two miles. Coming to the island promptly the Clearwater firemen found no water supply adequate to fight the flames so they ran an engine down to the bay waters, whence salt water was poured ineffectively on the blaze.

In the meantime, the toll bridge traversing the bay had lost its ability to collect a fee as Clearwater folk turned out en masse and made for the island.

An unidentified volunteer fire fighter, known not to be a student, suffered the only physical hurts of the fire.

Last night the girl students, not inconvenienced by the fire, were safely stowed away in their dormitory, while the boys who lost their home, took their coats and blankets and went about a quarter of a mile to a large garage which they converted into a temporary dormitory.

INVESTIGATORS IN TAYLOR CASE WANTS SANDS

(By The Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—Investigators of the Taylor murder are waiting today to see if anything will result from the announcement of District Attorney Woolwine that Edward Sands, missing former butler secretary to Taylor would not be prosecuted on embezzlement charge preferred by former employer if Sands could prove himself innocent of slaying Taylor and untangle murder mystery.

SENATOR PARK TRAMMELL AFTER LOWER RATES ON FLORIDA VEGETABLES

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 18.—Senator Park Trammell, who returned to the Capitol the early part of the week from a ten days stay in Florida, has been quite active since reaching the Capital looking after Florida's interests. Today Senator Trammell called upon the Interest Commerce Commission and urged that the Commission endeavor to bring about a freight rate reduction on watermelons, cabbage, cantaloupes and other vegetables. He explained that under the existing rates producers of cabbage in his state were experiencing heavy losses and that the watermelon crop this spring could not be marketed profitably at the present freight rates.

Beginning more than a year ago his fight to bring a freight rate reduction, Senator Trammell has never lost an opportunity to actively urge better freight rates for the citrus fruit growers and truck farmers of his State. To his activity is due a large part of the credit for the ten per cent freight rate reduction on fruits and vegetables in carload lots. He was the first member of either branch of Congress to urge the repeal of the revenue tax on transportation charges and he was largely instrumental in bringing about the discontinuance of this tax on January first of this year. Senator Trammell is of the opinion that the freight and express rates should be further reduced on citrus fruits and vegetables and he is now actively working to that end.

QUARTER MILLION LOSS IN OCALA BY BIG FIRE RETAIL BUSINESS DISTRICT

Furniture and Hardware Stores of MacKay are Gutted

(By The Associated Press)
OCALA, Feb. 18.—Damage estimated at the least at a quarter of a million dollars resulted in a fire in the retail business district here early today. The flames are believed to have originated from a short circuited electric wire and destroyed a furniture store and adjacent warehouse of George MacKay & Company, gutted the drygoods store of Parker & Guyan, caused heavy damage to the furniture store of Theus Brothers. Everything owned by MacKay & Company destroyed but some stock of the other two concerns was saved. The loss was partially covered by insurance. Later estimates placed the total loss at $350,000, which was little more than half covered by insurance. The fire apparatus from Leesburg came forty miles to fight the flames but arrived too late to assist. Gainesville's apparatus was placed aboard a train but was not brought here. MacKay & Company will rebuild immediately. The fire was on Magnolia street immediately north of the court house square.

LODGE FACING HARDEST FIGHT OF HIS CAREER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—One of the most bitterly contested senatorial campaigns this fall will be fought out in the conservative state of Massachusetts, political observers here agree.

Henry Cabot Lodge, leader of the Republican party in the senate and five consecutive times victor in the state's senatorial campaigns, faces what may believe will be "the battle of his career."

Although the election is nearly nine months away already the fight against the veteran statesman, whose service in the senate exceeds that of any member, is waxing warm.

Seeking vengeance of Lodge's successful fight against the Versailles treaty and his caustic attacks on former President Wilson, the Democrats are determined to give him a dose of the same "political downfall medicine" which he was instrumental in administering to Wilson.

At present Lodge has an advantage through a division in Democratic ranks as to how the attack of revenge shall be launched against him.

James M. Cox, Democratic presidential nominee in the last campaign who bitterly assailed Lodge as "the arch conspirator of the ages," favors attacking the Massachusetts senator because of his work in defeating the League of Nations, and plans to make a personal campaign of the state.

Senator Walsh, Democratic senator from the state, who is in close touch with the political situation there is unalterably opposed to a revival of the league of nations issue in the state campaign. Walsh has let it be known he believes Cox would not take any votes from Lodge by taking the league in the state.

Lodge's position in the state probably will be strengthened should he obtain prompt ratification of the arms conference treaties in the senate, observers believe. Should any of the treaties fail, Lodge could be charged with failing to provide a sub for the Wilson League.

BAKER COUNTY SHERIFF APPEALS FOR ASSISTANCE TO COPE WITH SITUATION

The Packard was placed on traveling jacks and towed to Sanford Wednesday morning.—Winter Park Post.
Neither of the cars were insured.

It could not be ascertained who was the owner of the Packard, as the occupants did not care to talk. Immediately after the accident, Claude Hincheliff of Longwood contracted with the party in the touring car to convey them to Eastis. Upon reaching that town one of the party went into a barber shop and got $10, supposedly from the cash register. The others gave checks for $2 and $3 respectively. The check for $2 came back to Mr. Hincheliff today marked "insufficient funds."

There are conflicting stories as to who was to blame for the accident. As the Packard passed the home of R. A. Jenkins in Longwood, the party was singing. Another man who arrived at the scene shortly after the wreck stated that he did not believe the truck had any lights burning at the time of the crash. When both cars came to a dead stop the truck was clear off of the road and the touring car had both of the right hand wheels on the brick.

TRIM THE ARMY TO SUIT BUDGET IS SUGGESTED

MAKE LUMP SUM OF APPROPRI-ATION AND CUT ARMY
TO SUIT

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—A suggestion that congress fix upon a lump sum appropriation it is prepared to vote for maintenance of the regular army for the next fiscal year and then ask the war department to work out an army plan that would yield the maximum of military efficiency within that expenditure was laid yesterday before the house sub-committee on army appropriations at its initial consideration of the 1923 army budget. Major General Harbord, deputy chief of staff, was the only officer heard as Secretary Weeks was still at his home, indisposed and his appearance with General Pershing has been deferred until next week.

Committee members said General Harbord had advanced the lump sum appropriation suggestion in view of the evident desire of the committee to obtain an idea of what would be done with the army in event of reduction of the authorized enlisted strength below the present 150,000 figure. It was indicated that the officer had pointed out the difficulties of shaping a well rounded military program on the basis of authorized strength alone and urged that it would be more sound procedure to state the sum that would be available and then cut the army cloth to fit that material.

Back of the suggestion lies a hope in military circles that congress will work out a continuing financial policy for the army covering a period of years.

It is argued that if the army could know just what funds would be made available each year for the next three or four years it would be possible to frame a constructive program and to lessen the apprehension among commissioned and enlisted personnel as to their future in the service.

NEGROES LYNCH ONE OWN RACE WHO HAD SLAIN TWO CHILDREN

(By The Associated Press)
VALDOSTA, Ga., Feb. 18.—John Glover, a negro, was shot and killed by a mob of his own race yesterday at Indiana, seven miles east of here, after he had shot up a negro school-house, killing a little girl and fatally wounding a boy.

Glover, who was said to have been intoxicated, forced an entrance into the school, after the teacher had barred the door. He was armed with a pistol and shotgun, firing both in the schoolroom.

Negroes of the neighborhood formed a mob and surrounded the school-house. Glover was shot three times and finally was beaten over the head with a shovel. No arrests were made.

Looks Like Civil War Will Culminate from Shooting

MAN IS KIDNAPPED

OTHERS SHOT AND KILLED AND
OLD FAMILY FEUDS
ARE REVIVED

(By The Associated Press)
JACKSONVILLE, Feb. 18.—The sheriff of Baker county appealed shortly before noon today to Duval authorities for help in coping with the situation at MacClenny, thirty miles west of Jacksonville, which he said threatened to develop into civil warfare as culmination of the shooting there this morning of Jake Wilkinson, and the kidnapping of a man named Robinson and the recent mysterious disappearance of T. R. Henderson, former banker and wealthy naval stores operator, the trouble is believed to be a flare up of a feud between the two pioneer Baker county families which existed about twenty years ago.

JACKSONVILLE, Feb. 18.—One citizen of MacClenny stated over the telephone shortly after one o'clock, "Hell will break loose here tonight," and that he was preparing to move his wife and children from town to a place of safety. Governor Harbord at Tallahassee, said he had heard nothing from Baker county officials but declared if troops were requested he was prepared to act immediately. The Duval sheriff said he couldn't send deputies into another county without orders from the governor. Henderson's automobile was found at the bottom of the St. Mary's river Wednesday and the stream is being dragged in the belief that his body would be found. His wife several days ago offered $1,000 reward for the recovery of the body if her husband was dead. It is believed the kidnapping of Robinson and the shooting of Wilkinson was the work of Henderson's friends who acted in the belief they knew something of his disappearance.

LOVELY BRIDGE PARTY

Entertaining in her usual charming and gracious manner, Mrs. C. E. Henry was hostess at one of the most delightful pre-lenten parties, when she entertained at bridge yesterday afternoon at her home on Magnolia avenue, honoring Mrs. Carl Hartdegen, of New Jersey, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. George Knight. There were eleven tables of players and a number of tea guests.

The various rooms of this spacious home were opened en suite and beautifully decorated. Quantities of exquisite, fragrant roses in the varying shades of pink were used, forming a veritable bower for this pretty party. The Valentine idea was artistically carried out with festoons of red hearts, and lights shaded in red, and tully cards. In the reception room bowls and hanging baskets of bright lined nasturtiums were effectively used.

Cut glass nappies filled with bonbons were placed on the card tables and refilled during the game.

The first prize, in the card game was an exquisite hand embroidered pillow, this being won by Mrs. E. P. Morse, and the second prize, a lovely pottery fern dish, was won by Mrs. F. E. Roumillat. Mrs. G. D. Bishop was the fortunate one in cutting for the consolation, and was given a silver cream ladle. The honoree, Mrs. Hartdegen, was presented a silver sandwich tray.

Mrs. Henry, the charming hostess, received her guests wearing a most becoming frock of brown embroidered net over satin, and the honoree, was attired in black satin combined with black silk lace. Mrs. Henry was assisted in entertaining and serving by Mrs. George Knight, Mrs. S. Paleston, Mrs. J. N. Tolar, Mrs. Archie Betts, Mrs. Harry Lewis, Mrs. Don Whitcomb, Misses Ruth and Florence Henry.

Delicious refreshments consisting of an ice course, the cream being frozen heart shaped, with individual cakes iced in pink and white, coconut kisses, strawberries and coffee were served at the close of the card game. On each plate were pink and white rose buds.

TAYLOR'S MONEY AND OIL STOCK GONE, REPORT

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 17.—Oil stock and money, believed to have constituted part of the estate of William Desmond Taylor, murdered film director, are missing, according to Charles A. Jones, investigator for the district attorney. Jones made this statement after checking up Taylor's personal papers and belongings, and then conferring with Mr. R. M. Barger, an income tax expert, with whom Taylor is said to have discussed his 1921 income tax report a short time before he was killed.

From this it was learned, according to Jones, that Taylor was prepared to pay a tax on securities and money which have not been located.

Further investigation into the murder was planned for today. Thomas Lee Woolwine, district attorney stated witness would not, however, be summoned to his office but would be questioned at their homes by his agents. It was believed the publicity attending their visit to his office frightened persons in keeping to themselves what might prove valuable clues.

The white prisoner in the convict camp at Palatka that allowed the negro prisoners to whip him and who seemingly enjoyed it must have been a bird. He should be sent up for life where he could enjoy the company of negro prisoners to his heart's content.

The question of an abattoir and cold storage plant for meats was brought up in Orlando at a meeting this week and it went over big with those present at the meeting. There were not many at the meeting on account of the fair in progress but the idea has taken root and will be put in shape or long. And speaking about an abattoir and cold storage plant for meats there is no better location in the state than at Sanford where there is everything in transportation facilities by rail and water and we are the gate way for the big cattle ranches of South Florida.

We don't mind having editorials copied from The Star and run without a credit at all or even swiped but we have got to give our friend Bob Holly a close shave of some kind or get him a good pair of glasses if he don't quit using our edits and giving some one else the credit. We have three framed that were used that way in the last few weeks. This is one thing we are old maidish about and crabid as a setting hen because Star editorials are an effort to produce and cause a lot of brain fog even though they may not appear to be so deep as to drown anyone, yet we nearly get submerged some times in producing them.

Lynn, old sport, we can't explain how it happened. We are almost sure we said Lakeland Star instead of another paper but maybe we did not. It is certain that the Star editorials are in a class by themselves and we like them, otherwise we would not reprint them so much and the readers of the Herald like them also. If we ever make a mistake in your name again you can buy the drinks for us the first time you get a chance—maybe at Daytona.

WONDERFUL. WONDERFUL.

Last night at the mass meeting to discuss the water and light question, Mayor John Martin, of Jacksonville, and Senator Overstreet, both prominently mentioned as gubernatorial timber, sat on the same platform advocating the same question, the purchase of Orlando's utility plants.—Reporter Star.

STEPPING STONE TO WORLD

One of the greatest of Florida's assets is the sublime confidence of its people, those who are responsible for its development and in whose care the future is entrusted. And this confidence is worth as much as the agricultural or mineral resources, for without this quality, efforts at accomplishment are futile.

This confidence reflects itself in the state press, which, also, is a valuable asset to the state. The Fort Pierce News-Tribune, one of the enterprising daily publications of the state, sounds a high note of hope in these words:

"Florida has to overcome no natural opposition. It lies on the highway of the world. Its people will soon see passing through the state peoples from fifteen nations—people of many tongues and peoples with a high future before them on account of the storehouses they own on the earth. Florida has the opportunity offered once in a thousand years.

"This is not false optimism, for it is justified by cold facts. It is commendable that the people of Florida should think of their state in sentimental terms, since nature has surrounded our territories with wonders that arouse and stimulate sentiment, yet, too much emphasis can be placed upon this feature of confidence and devotion. Take Florida as a strict business proposition, place it in the hands of disinterested parties to analyze and it stands up on firmly established merits.

"Consider natural location—that is, Florida's relative position to the commercial activities of the world. The state is the hub of a great system of economic intercourse, by land, and especially by sea. In the course of a few years, Florida should be a stepping stone to the largest centers of supply and demand. Geographical position is never unimportant in a general consideration of assets and possibilities. And this position is supported by untold strength in the things that determine prosperity and its permanency. Herein, Florida is in a class all to itself."

PATRIOTISM SHALL NOT BE PENALIZED, SAYS CAPPER

Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas voices the sentiment of millions when he writes:

"I believe that for every dollar the country spends under the productive feature of the Adjusted Compensation Bill, particularly the land and home aid feature, we will reap ten-fold in national prosperity and good citizenship. And I believe that the larger part of the money that will be expended under the bill will go towards carrying out the productive features, being persuaded that only those who actually need money and need it direly will take their compensation in cash. Instead of breaking the Treasury, in my opinion, the bill will bolster the Treasury. Instead of setting a price on patriotism, in my opinion, the bill simply recognizes that patriotism shall not be penalized."

We agree with the Senator that the county still has a chance to redeem itself and to make an investment in national prosperity if Congress passes the Soldiers' Adjusted Compensation bill.

There is a way to get the bill through and the committee handling the matter must find a medium course of procedure. Cutting down army and navy expenditures and slashing the cost of governmental operations will provide funds for a bonus.

There should be no difference in war and peace patriotism, but there is a difference in the bonus question being settled promptly many months ago there would be no hysteria now. We are for the ex-soldier boys, rich or poor. Let the nation give the fighters the compensation they deserve and pay less attention to the "compensations" secured by political influence, and unnecessary squandering of Federal funds for large appropriation measures which can wait indefinitely for financial aid.

WITHOUT A NEWSPAPER

What happens to a town that loses its newspaper was most graphically portrayed to the Commercial editor on the occasion of his visit a couple of weeks ago to the town up in Indiana where he spent the greater part of his boyhood. The illustration is so vivid that it is worth offering our readers.

In the early days of our newspaper experience, in partnership with a good printer, we purchased a weekly newspaper in that town. It did not pay enough for both of us and our partner remained while we went "out into the world" to get experience and make a living while getting it. After knocking about the world a few years, going as far as California, where we remained a year in newspaper work, we returned to the Hoosier town, repurchased the paper and made it over into about the same form and style as the present Commercial. True, there were some fancy "doo-dads" in the various departments that are missing in the Commercial, because they have gone out of style along with basques and long trails on skirts.

It was then that the merchants of that town learned how to advertise. They used fairly generous space and those who followed it religiously are still in business. Honestly, that is true. The ones who advertised with us the heaviest, except in two instances where death has intervened, are today occupying the largest stores in the town, while most of the non-advertisers have gone out of business.

But from that time when there were two papers, finally dropping into one by consolidation, to a few months ago, the newspaper began to lag behind, lost its support and finally expired. Now that town is without a newspaper.

The result is seemingly out of all proportion to the value of the little newspaper or the money necessary to keep it going. The president of the bank where we used to borrow money even before we became of age, declared himself thus: "Gilbert, you know we never appreciated a newspaper before like we do now. The little sheet had become so shabby that we thought it no loss at all when it finally quit, but I want to tell you right now that our bank and most of the business houses would give a good little sum to get back even a fairly decent paper and I believe every family in town would subscribe for it right off the bat."

After this remark we broached the subject to a number of our friends who are still in business and we learned that some of them have begun to really appreciate advertising for the first time in their lives. Even those who used it did not realize its full value to them until there was none to use. We found in at least two stores a very concrete situation that proved the loss was nothing theoretical. On the shelves were goods that were becoming unseasonable and would not be sold readily next season because of probable changes in style. Advertising had always disposed of these goods in season, especially when sales were held just after the middle of the season, but without newspaper advertising and a printing plant where posters could be printed these sales were much of an expense for the amount of goods to be disposed of. So they stood as distinct loss, staring the merchant in the face, and plainly crying out for printers' ink.

As a town there is nothing wrong with the one we are writing about. It is about the size of Leesburg; its homes are kept nicely painted; it has the most shade trees we have ever seen in a town of similar size; its people are in the main well to do. But they are not buying at home since the merchants lost their touch with them through printers' ink. They are buying in one of the three cities that lie within a radius of twenty miles.—Leesburg Commercial.

MAKING AN IDEAL NEWSPAPER

We believe it is perfectly safe to assume that the ideal in newspaperdom is what every editor, owner or publisher is earnestly trying to achieve. That so many of them fail to reach the summit of their aspiration should not be held against them. It is the common lot of all mankind. How many of us can look back over a bridge of fifty years, and not see many instances of failure to our highest aims. But there is a wide difference of opinion as to what the ideal newspaper should contain. What pleases one man may be displeasing to another. The editor himself as he looks over the clean, well arranged pages of his sheet, may feel a sentiment of pride in its appearance, and that he is making progress toward the ideal which he has always had in his mind's eye. But self-congratulation may be knocked higher than Gilderey's kite if the next mail should happen to bring him a letter of harsh and possibly vituperative criticism from some angry subscriber. Then, if he is wise, he will resolve not to use everybody, but to go ahead on his own judgment, keeping as close the right, and trusting to the good sense and fairness of his readers, to give him due credit for good intentions at least.

There is an old story that used to go the rounds about a certain editor, who did conduct his paper in a way, to please everybody. In the fullness of time he died and—of course—went to heaven. When he reached that abode of the best, it was found that he had no need of wings. He was such a rare specimen that the angels took him up and carried him about to exhibit as a curiosity.

Many an editor has endeavored to discover what the average reader of his journal liked, despairing of his ability to please all, and hoping to strike the happy medium of tastes. But, alas, his questionnaires have only brought to light the fact that there is "no such animal" as an "average reader." Each individual reader has his likes and dislikes, and turns first to that page of the paper which most interests him. All the rest is mere "junk" to him, and he wonders why it is ever printed.

We give below the result of a symposium which an enterprising publisher once conducted in his desire to make his paper an ideal one.

It follows: Mr. Arthur H. Fowell in a recent number of Leslie's Weekly, was of a newspaper publisher who decided to make his paper one which "everybody would read."

So he sent out a query, "How can I make mine the 'ideal newspaper?'" To which he received the following interesting replies:

"Cut out the crimes, the murders, the sensational divorce case reports, and the nice people."

"Cut out the accidents, the railway and steamship disasters," said the one who "couldn't bear" to read such things.

"Cut out the politics," said the old-timer woman. "I don't understand it, and haven't time for it."

"Cut out the League of Nations and that heavy stuff," yearned the lappers of both sexes. "What's it about, anyway?"

"Cut out the so-called funny pictures," said the careful mother. "Such pictures aren't funny and they are bad, very bad, for the children." "Cut out the ponderous editorials," snapped the man who merely scans the headlines. "Nobody reads 'em nowadays."

"Cut out the woman's page," said the female with the strong mind. "It's mushy, trashy, trivial; and an insult to our sex."

"Cut out the sports and theaters," said the intellectual. "Both are bad influences, and both have received altogether too much notice."

"Cut out—" began another and still another, but the publisher beat them to it.

"Stop, all of you he cried. "On second thought, I have decided to cut out myself. It is no use trying to publish the ideal newspaper until I can come across the ideal reader."

Saying which, according to Mr. Fowell, he shut up shop and went into the wholesale saxophone business for rest.—Tampa Times.

STAYING QUALITIES

Address Given by Dr. C. J. Marshall at the Congregational Men's Club, February 16th

We have learned to do almost everything at high speed in this modern world. We manufacture some things a thousand times as fast as our ancestors could, and transmit messages through space ten thousands times as fast. Yet there is need today for some of the slower-going virtues of the past. Not all of the worth-while things in the world can be done by high gear machinery, at lightning speed.

To bring a flower to maturity,—to grow an oak tree from an acorn, to develop a child to the full stature and strength of mankind, still takes time. Character cannot be builded over night. In fact it would seem that the things most worth while in the world are still to be attained only by long processes and steady, persistent effort. We need staying qualities.

Even inanimate objects attract us if they have lasted a long time. To visitors in Rome, an obelisk is pointed out. It is tall and straight, and the hieroglyphics carved upon it are well preserved. The guide announces that the obelisk was first set up in Egypt, 1000 years before Christ. Then the traveller is taken into the suburbs of Rome, and he sees the old aqueducts leading into the city from various directions. These were built centuries ago, and still some of them are in active use. One of them was completed by Agrippa, 27 years before Christ,—it is fourteen miles long, and it still supplies the city with thirteen million cubic feet of excellent water each day. It has shown staying qualities. It has been a steady, sturdy old worker throughout the ages. It is a prosaic and hardened sightseer who does not pay some homage in his mind to the gray old aqueduct.

We human folk have a mighty short span of years allotted to us, and yet how we do lack staying qualities, even for our little day.

We sometimes have the experience of returning to the places of our childhood, where everybody knew everybody else. We inquire as to what has become of our boyhood friends. Many of them have not been stayers. In business, or profession, in church or social life, in civic affairs, in their own characters, they have lacked determination, constancy, firmness, solidity. They are not where they were when we knew them in younger life. They started their work well, but faltered in the heat of the day. They went strong in the first lap of the race, but are lagging at the finish. The exceptions to the rule are, of course, the shining lights in the community. They have held their course. They started well, and are going stronger every day. They took a straight course, and never wobbled. They took an early stand for the right things in life and they continue with firmness in the right, as God gives them to see the right. They are the salt of the earth.

Shakespeare puts the following words into Caesar's mouth: But I am constant as the northern star, of whose true fixed and resting quality there is no fellow in the firmament.

It were well if more of us could say as much for ourselves. What polestars we might be for the guidance of other lives, if we were thoroughly grounded in the principles of right living. I am thinking especially now of our obligations in civic life. A man said to me recently that he considered democracy a failure. Judging by the world war, and the spectacle of Europe going from bad to worse since the war, he felt that the democratic method had been weighed in the balance and found wanting. Much can be said for such a conclusion when we examine the government of our modern cities. I do not think that democracy is a failure, but I am entirely convinced that it is not a proven success. It is still an experiment in the world. It is strictly on trial as yet. And it was never more true than today that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. The question for each individual is whether he has the metal to be eternally vigilant.

Fortunately, this matter of staying qualities is one in which everybody can make some progress. By giving thought to it we can add some cubits to our stature. It is splendid exercise to practice daily the fine art of constancy in our better resolves. Even in little things, indeed especially in little things, it is worth while to become accustomed to holding our course, if we believe our course is true. The grain of character, the bent of instinct, is thus formed. Then when the big questions arise, we find ourselves unexpectedly equipped with solidity of purpose. The man who wavers in the great emergency is the man who has acquired the wavering habit in a thousand little matters that seemed of slight importance.

In the Mariposa Grove of big trees in California, there is an enormous tree, called "Grizzly Giant." It is 224 feet high, and has a circumference at the base of 104 feet. By counting the growth rings on trees of similar size that have fallen, scientists estimate that this tree is 3,000 years old—some say 5000. At any rate, it is probably the oldest living thing on the earth's surface. Its crown has been shattered by the storms of the ages. Great hollows have been burned in its base by forest fires, so that only a few strips of sap bark reach into the earth for nourishment. Yet the tree still lives, and adds a new ring of growth each year. The old tree has shown staying qualities par excellence. One may learn many life lessons from this tree: Early lay hold on some enduring foundation; grow straight, without gnarls or crooked places; do triumphant battle with every storm, and thus get strength and give shelter to your fellows. Bear heroically the searing fires of sorrow, and wait patiently for Time's healing hand to close the deep burned scars. Grow old cheerfully, and keep your head well up toward Heaven's sunlight. Stoutly your time has come. Then fall bravely and without complaint.

These are the qualities of character that I still crave, and that we should all seek after. The world calls us today, as Lincoln did in his day, to go forward with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right.

CLASSIFIED ADS MUST BE PAID IN ADVANCE ON THE HERALD

The new rule regarding classified and local advertising made on January first holds good and the public should be governed accordingly. It was not made for one but for all and will be carried out to the letter. These ads are of small amounts and the price of one cent a word did not pay for the bookkeeping and the time and annoyance of collecting them. Taking them over the phone has always been unsatisfactory resulting in mistakes, confusion and misunderstanding. Bring them into the office or send them in and pay for them in advance at the rate of one cent a word. It is the best advertising in the world and the cheapest, therefore it must be cash in advance. All sales of all kinds regardless of who are giving them where something is being sold must be paid. Church notices, school notes, and all matters of public interest are free as usual. We hope the public will be governed by these rules and remember at all times that advertising is the newspaper's stock in trade and cannot be given away. 281-3tc

MARION COUNTY AWARDED FIRST PRIZE AT FAIR

VOLUSIA COUNTY COMES IN SECOND WITH SEMINOLE THIRD

With more people than have ever witnessed the fair in any one day during its twelve years of existence the judges this afternoon announced the awards for the exhibits as follows:

Marion county, first.
Volusia county, second.
Seminole county, third.

On a basis of 500 per cent, Marion county got 415 points; Volusia county 370 points and Seminole county, 175 points.

The three judges that made the awards were S. E. DeBusk, Lake county; A. C. Brown, Gainesville; C. D. Kime, Orlando. The following opinion accompanied the awards. From the standpoint of representative exhibits well displayed of the horticultural and agricultural products of the counties and disregarding space given to the exhibits the Marion county exhibit is superior.

Space considered, there arose considerable doubt as to the actual superiority of the Volusia county arrangement over that of Marion, the general impression being a decided lack of unity to a less extent and lack of arrangement within the various units.

There was a community competition with Orange county. Gotha winning first place, 464 points; Conway, second, 434 points; Windermere, third, 327 points; West Orange, fourth, with 193 points; Lockhart, fifth with 100 points.

Scored with reference to advertising value of exhibit to that particular town, Apopka, first, 400; Winter Park, second, 300 points; Pine Castle, third, 350 points.

The judges were: H. A. McDonald, of Gainesville; Leo Wilson, Kissimmee; A. C. Brown, Gainesville.

The following judges of individual entries, W. W. Youthers, Orlando; J. R. Winston, Orlando; H. M. Self, Orlando and C. D. Kime, Orlando.

The awarding of first place to Marion county came as a surprise to many, as there seemed to be quite a sentiment among the people in favor of Volusia.—Orlando Reporter-Star.

CITY MANAGER FORM OF GOVERNMENT FOR FT. PIERCE

FORT PIERCE, Feb. 18.—Petitions are again being circulated here looking to the calling of a special circulation to determine whether the citizens of Fort Pierce want to adopt the city manager commission form of municipal government.

Should the required number of signatures be given the petition the next step would be the appointment of a charter board to draw up the new charter for presentation to the voters.

A proposal to adopt the new form of municipal administration failed of passage by three votes at a referendum several months ago. A last moment claim by opponents of the proposal that adoption of the new charter would nullify a contemplated bond issue of $80,000 caused its defeat by the scant majority, according to the proponents of the proposal.

Southern Railway Conductor Has Lease to Play Checkers

Will Engage in Tournament of Slipper Blammers at St. Pete.

(By The Associated Press)
ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 18.—Capt. F. B. Fishburne, of Columbia, S. C., Southern railway conductor but better known as the champion checker of the South, has obtained a brief leave of absence and is here demonstrating his skill for the edification of the thousands of checker players among the winter visitors and home folks.

One day last week Captain Fishburne played twenty-nine games simultaneously, won nineteen, lost two and drew eight. Saturday night he played a series of games blindfolded.

A resident here recalls that Captain Fishburne has a son who is almost as good a checker player as his dad. The St. Petersburg met Captain Fishburne about seven years ago on a train bound from New Orleans to Atlanta. Captain Fishburne and his family, who had been visiting relatives in Texas, were on their way home and the Fishburne "kid" then about thirteen or fourteen years of age, stacked up against his dad in game after game all day to pass away the time. The board used was one of the small pocket variety with slashes on the squares in which strips of celluloid represented the checkers were inserted. Captain Fishburne did not see the board all day but let his son make all the moves for him. The lad would call out his plays and his father would call out his moves instantly, the boy making them. The lad even then was an expert player and defeated his father, or drew games frequently.

FREIGHT CARS LEFT TRACK AND TOOK TO STREET

(By The Associated Press)
ORLANDO, Feb. 18.—Pedestrians on Central Street near the Seaboard Air Line tracks were startled here recently to see a string of freight cars led by a refrigerator car, rolling merrily along paths intended for conveyance of lighter weight.

The refrigerator car left the track where it terminated in the sand and continued its course across Central Street, onto the sidewalk and barely stopped at the entrance to an automobile garage. An automobile awaiting its owner in the path of the runaway was torn almost to pieces, while several posts fared similarly. The cars became detached from a switch engine and when engineer Watson noticed their freedom he attempted to catch them but each time the coupling failed to work and the switch engine only served to accelerate their flight. Traffic on that part of Central Street affected was tied up for several hours while the wrecking car struggled to the wayward car home.

Well-lighted, good stages, plenty of seats at the shows of the K. of C. Carnival. 276-8tc

TWITCHELL FUNERAL SERVICES SATURDAY

Walter Hawes Twitchell, Worcester, Mass., who has been for a number of years a winter resident of Florida, suffered an attack of angina pectoris about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, and death came within the hour. The sudden summons created a profound impression throughout Daytona where he is well known and great sympathy was expressed for the deeply bereaved wife and son, over the sudden shock and separation.

Mr. Twitchell was in his usual health; he had spent the evening Tuesday with some friends. He ate a light breakfast as was his custom, and refused to go on a hike with a group of men, with whom he had been walking each morning, saying he had some other things he wished to do. When the men returned from their walk, they found a desolated home, for their friend had passed on. Funeral services have been tentatively set for Saturday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock at the Bingham & Maley chapel.

Mr. and Mrs. Twitchell for the past three years have been occupying one of the Rutter apartments on North Palmetto avenue. Last winter they took a motor trip to California, but were glad to return to Florida again this winter. Mr. Twitchell would have been 69 years of age on February 23, and Mrs. Twitchell had invited some friends in for that evening to help pass the milestone. He was born in Brookfield, Mass. He founded and was the head of the W. H. Twitchell Plating Company, of Worcester, Mass., retiring from business in 1913. Twenty-five years ago he was married to Miss Lottie Wright at her home in Tangerine, Florida, who with their one son, Richard H. Twitchell, survives. The Twitchells made their home at 9 LaGrange street, Worcester, where Mr. Twitchell was a member of the Congregational Club and a life member in the Worcester Mechanics Association. He was a member of the Old South Congregational church for years.

The family has been spending the summers at Oak Bluffs, Martha's Vineyard Island, and the winters in Florida since Mr. Twitchell retired from business.

On the streets Wednesday the announcement of his passing brought many expressions of appreciation of his sterling worth, and manly character and deep regret over his passing. Mrs. Key, of Sanford, a sister of Mrs. Twitchell, and A. R. Key, a nephew, arrived as soon as they could reach Daytona after the news of his death had been received, and will be with her for the present.

Following the services on Saturday the body will be laid away in the chapel here until spring, when it will be taken north for burial.—Daytona Journal.

Mr. Twitchell, with his wife and son spent the winter of 1914 in Sanford, and at that time, and since, having made other short visits to our city at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Key and made many friends who will regret his passing and sympathize deeply with the bereaved family.

R. J. Holly and R. E. Pearman were among the visitors to the fair at Orlando yesterday, going down for an hour in the afternoon. They were agreeably surprised at the showing made by Seminole county after the difficulty experienced in getting up the material for the exhibit.

Dr. S. W. Walker has returned after spending a week with his old friends at Huntington, West Virginia, where he preached to a church filled with people last Sunday. He enjoyed his visit very much and will tell you something about it tomorrow at the Methodist church.

TEX RICKART SAYS HE WILL LEAVE NEW YORK GOES TO ST. LOUIS

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Tex Rickart, the sporting promoter who resigned yesterday from the management of the Madison Square Garden sporting club after being indicted on the charge of assaulting two small girls, has leased the St. Louis coliseum for twenty-five years and has arranged for the erecting there of a modern sport amphitheatre similar to the Madison Square Garden.

MONDAY NIGHT PAY DAY FOR COMPANY G

Capt. Geo. A. DeCottes is in receipt of government pay checks covering the armory drill pay due the men of Company D, 154th Inf., F. N. G. for the semi-annual period from July 1 to December 31, 1921.

These checks aggregate several thousand dollars and no doubt the receipt of the same by the enlisted men of Company D will add much "pep" to the organization. It is needless to say that when "pay call" is sounded Monday night no enlisted man of this organization will be late for the formation and will be in line to answer "Here, sir," when their names are called.

Captain DeCottes has ordered a drill for Monday night at 7:30 p. m. and during this drill period the men of this organization will receive their armory drill pay for the period ending December 31, 1921.

THE WEATHER

For Florida: Cloudy with moderate temperature tonight and Sunday.

SANFORD'S TEMPERATURE

It looked like rain yesterday and it looked like rain today but up to date we have not had it although a few showers would be most grateful to the farmers. It is fair weather when the fair is in progress at Orlando and now that Seminole county has taken third prize with three counties in the race we know that Seminole is the greatest county in the state as well as in Orlando and other foreign countries. Have you a little fair—y in your home?
