$1.8 Million Coming For Sanford City Hall

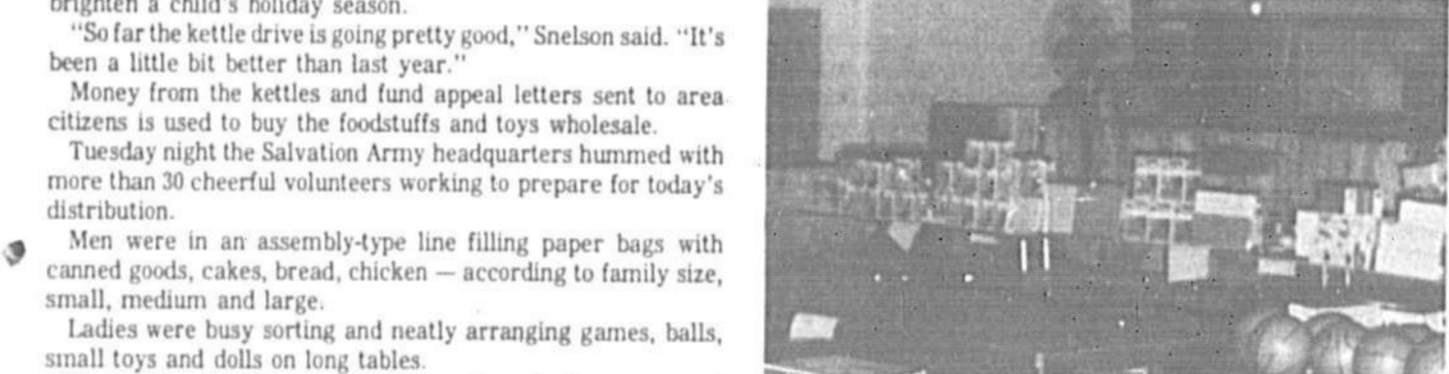

By KRIS NASH
Herald Staff Writer... Mayor Lee P. Moore said today he had received unofficial word that the City of Sanford has won approval of a $1.8 million federal grant which will be used to underwrite construction of the new city hall building... The funds, which were made available under one section of a $3.56 billion public works jobs bill passed by Congress last summer, will cover the entire city hall building project, Moore said... Mrs. Barriner's call finally went through to Internal Revenue Services office in Orlando to learn how much she would receive in a previously undelivered tax refund check... Mrs. Barriner is one of 10 Sanford residents on a list published by IRS of undelivered refund checks... "If they left the building exactly as it was," said the mayor, "why, it would be ready to go to bid. # You Pay Taxes Twice In 10 Depts.

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

"Double taxation does exist in Seminole County," the committee named by the Seminole Legislative delegation to investigate the question, said in its final report approved Tuesday night.

The nine-member group agreed to formally submit its report to the legislators at their January meeting.

The ad-hoc committee said double taxation exists for city residents in the following county departments: building, planning and zoning, environmental services, subdivision street maintenance, traffic engineering, road resurfacing and grading, arthropod solid waste control, public works, refuse and disposal and the sheriff's department.

"The committee does not have the expertise nor the means to pursue the absolute dollar value of those overlapping units," the report said, noting it would necessarily become the responsibility of the separate municipalities to bottom-line the dollar figure and consolidate the amounts to compare against discriminatory expended funds.

"This committee from its study, would make the following observations:

"1. Specific and concrete evidence must be prepared and presented to establish the areas defined as double taxed.

"The guidelines established by the courts that acted upon this matter must be followed in arriving at the dollar amount. The divisions and makeup within divisions, the structure of departments within the policy of the different counties, plus the divergent extent of population lead to the conclusion that double taxation, by its very nature, is a variable applied in different degrees and manner in different counties throughout Florida and thus is and will continue to be an internal county problem. It appears that within the arena the problem is created, it must also be solved," the committee said.

The group recommended to the legislators "should the delegation find that the study and conclusions of this committee are substantially well founded upon discovered facts" that it be prepared upon request or by voluntary action to advise those governmental agencies and interested parties to prepare retrieval data and present it to dialogue between themselves and the county commission.

"It is possible and probably well-advised that legislation will be necessary for the implementation of existing state statutes to bring this dialogue about," the report states. "The other direct recourse is for the aggressive parties to seek redress at law, wherein criteria has been established upon which to act."

Included within the report was a Florida Supreme Court decision which reversed a 1975 court decision. The Florida high court said, according to the report, that other funds, in addition to property tax money, had to be included to determine the amount spent on providing a substantial benefit to only the unincorporated areas.

The committee's conclusion was that in examining county budgets to determine whether double taxation on city residents is involved, all monies generated or provided through whatever the source must be considered.

Members of the committee, signing the report, were: John Krider, former county commissioner and former executive director of the Seminole County and Sanford Chambers of Commerce; Bo Simpson, vice chairman, a realtor; Dick Crenshaw, former Longwood councilman; J. W. Hemminger, Tony Russi, John Evans Jr., attorney William Fernandez, J. Bruce Thorne and Sanford industrialist, Don Rathel.

Food Program Wins County OK

Some 800 Seminole County residents will be eligible to take part in a $100,000 federal program approved Tuesday by the county commission to supply supplemental food for pregnant women, infants and children under the age of five.

But commissioners turned down a $5,500 request for county money to equip the program with a full-time food expert who could offer professional advice to anyone who wanted it.

The federally funded program, called Women, Infants and Children (WIC), is scheduled to begin Jan. 1. It is designed much like the federal food stamp program and is aimed at helping expectant mothers and youngsters up to five years old obtain high-protein food supplements for their diets.

The commission's action was delayed last week because Chairman Richard Williams said then he thought the $5,500 in county money was necessary before the WIC program could be launched.

Punnett expressed an interest Tuesday in having the program monitored to guard against possible abuses.

Commissioner John Kimbrough said last week he felt the state — which administers the program to counties through the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) — should keep an eye on WIC.

7 Escape As Fire Razes Home

By BOB LLOYD

A midnight fire destroyed a Sanford area residence but seven occupants of the house escaped the blaze without injuries, sheriff's deputies reported.

Deputy Fred Johnson said the family's pet dog perished in the flames that firemen said resulted from a possible electrical short circuit.

City and county units contained the early morning blaze that destroyed the residence and contents at 2800 1/2 S. Sanford Ave.

Johnson reported that Mrs. Nellie Roberts, 33, and Raymond, Jr., 18, Craig, 14, July, 12, Candy, 6, and Donald Brockway, 28 are staying with neighbors following the fire.

Sanford police jailed 36-year-old Larry Young, of 1000 W. 13th St., on an aggravated assault charge Tuesday night after Lee Gatlin, 53, of 1518 Southwest Rd. was cut on the back.

Bond for Young was set at $5,000, according to county jail records.

Patrolman Mike Anley reported that the incident occurred while Gatlin was sitting inside the Westside Steak House on W. 13th St.

Sheriff's Deputies have returned a Sanford man from New Jersey to face trial in circuit court on a felony check charge.

Wesley Garmony, 38, of 118 Bethune Circle, was arrested on a circuit court warrant charging the obtaining of property by wrongful check. Bond was set at $5,000.

$54 Million FP&L Refund

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The state Supreme Court Tuesday ordered $54 million to be refunded to customers of Florida Power & Light Co.

In a unanimous opinion, the court said that amount was improperly granted by the Public Service Commission when it awarded an interest rate hike to FP&L in 1975.

The court held that the commission had improperly included costs into the rate base of the giant utility, the state's largest electric firm.

The court order directed the PSC to refund such fuel costs which were imposed on customers in 1975.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Drifting Red Tide Blamed For Fish Kill

ST. PETERSBURG (AP) — A patch of red tide that bloomed off the Central Gulf Coast this fall and drifted slowly southward is being blamed for a fish kill northeast of the Lower Keys.

State Marine officials say thousands of dead fish were spotted floating about 20 miles north of Stanley Key on Sunday.

Water samples flown to the State Marine Laboratory here confirmed Tuesday that low to moderate concentrations of the red tide organism had suffocated the fish.

Pact Proposal Shelved

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — It turns out that Florida won't be able to join an interstate agreement providing for punishment of drivers from one state who violate another state's traffic laws.

Sheepish Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles officials told the Cabinet on Tuesday that they have learned they lack the authority to enter into such reciprocal agreements.

So their proposal that the Cabinet approve the agreement with six states was shelved until the department can get such authority from the legislature.

Firm Must Halt Sales

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A circuit judge has ordered a West Virginia insurance company to halt further sales in Florida.

Circuit Judge Ben Willis issued the order Tuesday after Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter claimed that the George Washington Life Insurance Co. was bankrupt, with liabilities exceeding assets of $2.4 million.

Willis granted Gunter's motion to temporarily halt the company's Florida operations.

Analysis The City, County And Jail

The addition to the county jail is going to be built with or without a building permit from the city of Sanford, County Commission Chairman Dick Williams said this week.

His remark was not made with malice toward the city, he indicated, but is a statement of fact.

Knowles and Williams agree a solution would be for the Florida Legislature to amend state law to either say that the county government is exempt from city building regulations or to say that it is not.

In any event, Williams said the county jail addition construction cannot wait while the legislature makes a determination.

According to Knowles, the problem was "forcibly brought to our attention," when the City of Sanford was named along with the County of Seminole in the multi-million dollar works of lawsuits over the county jail fire and the resulting deaths.

"Everytime a suit has been filed against the county in the jail fire, the city also was named a defendant," Knowles said. "I feel that sooner or later the city can be dismissed as a defendant in the suits, but the city is being held to spend money defending itself," the manager said. "And the only ones getting rich are the attorneys."

When a request was made to the city to exempt the county from paying building permit fees for the jail addition construction, the city questioned who permit should be issued when the county will ignore city regulations on planning and zoning requirements, parking, building, mechanical and plumbing inspections.

"The county got a building permit to build the courthouse, then moved in without a final inspection or certificate of occupancy," Knowles said.

There is really nothing for the city to hang its hat on and yet a person can't sue the city for the jail fire. Both ways, it's a complicated legal problem.

"The county wants a building permit for the jail addition, but doesn't want to pay the cost. The city is being held accountable, yet the county is not abiding with the city regulations. So, why issue the permit at all and then there will be no cost," Knowles said.

CAIRO (AP) — Two months ago Egypt and Syria weren't speaking. Now they're engaged again.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy announced Tuesday that President Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Syrian President Hafez Assad agreed in talks here Sunday and Monday to make another attempt at a political union of Israel's two chief adversaries.

The late Gamal Abdel Nasser organized the first Egyptian-Syrian union in 1958 and called it the United Arab Republic. Carter Faces A Rough Path

President-elect Jimmy Carter's appointment of Michael Blumenthal as secretary of the Treasury and Rep. Brock Adams as Transportation secretary is politically and pragmatically sound. The appointments would induce colic in the stock market, but we have a hunch that the appointment honeymoon is about over.

Mr. Blumenthal is an American as apple pie. He is an immigrant who reached the top rungs of the corporate ladder through brilliance, dedication and personal effort. He and Rep. Adams both are intelligent, articulate, experienced in and out of government, and Establishment with a capital E. Like the previous appointment of Cyrus Vance as Defense secretary and banker Thomas Bertram Lance as director of the Office of Management and Budget, they are not likely to begin their new careers by rocking the boat.

The boat, however, is sailing on a tempestuous sea. On the basis of the economic goals that Mr. Carter outlined during his recent press conference, the sea is not likely to become more calm.

Essentially, Mr. Carter confirmed that he plans to approach the problems of inflation and unemployment by offering "quick fixes" — federal spending programs that provide immediate jobs, followed, if necessary, in his estimation, by tax cuts that are likely to be spent immediately.

That might improve things for a while, but it is not a long-range solution for the economic problems that were outlined in part by Mr. Carter. As he noted, the federal budget already has a built-in deficit of $60 to $65 billion. Adding to it by temporary palliatives worsens the long-range outlook.

And our national experience in recent years has exhibited that political solutions to economic problems eventually create even larger political and economic problems.

We wish Mr. Carter and his advisers luck — and believe that he will need a good measure of it to achieve his aspirations.

Mr. Carter is expected to complete naming members of his Cabinet before Christmas. He will likely encounter more episodic problems such as defense and intelligence, most of the high level positions that require a depth of experience and expertise soon will be filled. For another, Mr. Carter has raised high expectations among minority groups, Democrats, organized labor and others. He insists that he has made no promises and owes nothing to anybody. Nevertheless, the political process itself creates obligations, whether or not they are fulfilled. For another, Mr. Carter has specific commitments he made or not. In his future appointments, Mr. Carter will have to consider the IOUs on his desk whether he realizes it or not. Thus, the mosaic of the coming appointments will tell Americans a great deal more about Mr. Carter's political acumen than the first four have. So far he has walked on familiar paths in the political thickets. Now he will begin to venture into uncharted areas in which the success or failure of his efforts to pioneer in the federal wilderness may well be mapped.

Win By Losing

The battered British pound isn't worth much on the money exchanges these days. We have been informed of one gentleman, however, who successfully unloaded his pounds for $45.56 each — the kind of pounds, that is, that most of us carry around in excess supply.

That was the record amount John Williams of Rochester, N.Y., raised for each pound he lost in a project called the Loss-A-Thon for charity.

The project began last February when members of the Diet Workshop, a chain of weight control classes were weighed in their respective communities around the country and then set about seeking pledges from family, friends and business associates.

All told, more than 1,000 participants in the Loss-A-Thon dropped a total of 40,423 pounds, which was translated into a check for $60,000 recently presented to Car to be used to aid starving children in countries served by the international relief agency.

This is one case where everybody gained by losing.

Capitol Hill Badly Needs Real Reform

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — He's a young idealist of proven ability. He first ran for Congress two years ago because of his concern that the Senate and House had fallen into disrepute. And because he believed that, in his small way, he ought to do what he could. In November he was again — by a landslide.

Today I find him despondent. He's more convinced than ever that Congress is in a bad way — lacking respect, in need of reform.

He has asked to be relieved of a committee assignment in an area he believes tremendously important. What that committee decides is routinely turned over to another committee, which then begins again on the problem from scratch. So what's the point?

There's such a jumble of conflicting jurisdictions on the Hill whether in energy, welfare, health, or what have you — that it's impossible to get workable bills through. What come out of the pipeline in too many cases are hedgehogs, self-contradicting laws which may intensify the problems they were intended to correct.

Rivalries between conflicting committee and subcommittee chiefs add to the burden. There are bribes. And the cozy relationships between congressmen and special interests. Take the Korean scandal — the lavish gifts and entertainment to influential congressmen. It's merely a sensational example of what's all too common.

There's the misuse of congressional funds and private office accounts available to senators, representatives and, indirectly, to their staffs. And don't forget the conflict of interest typified by the case of a congressman with major banking investments who votes on banking legislation which benefits him personally.

Put all the above in a basket and the top priority of this incoming Congress should be clear. It's not new laws we need. But reform on the Hill.

There's a widespread view among those who know the sprawling executive bureaucracy needs an overhaul that this is impossible, or if achieved, would be unworkable unless there's a comparable reform of the maze that passes for organization in the Congress. The average representative has five to six committees and subcommittee roles, the average Senator 10 to 20. Major government agencies must report and be accountable to up to 50 or so committees, subcommittees and special investigative groups.

My friend may be wrong. I hope he is. But he sees few signs that any significant group in Congress is interested in reform — except in public speeches and press releases.

He finds reform apathy prevalent even among the large class of eager men and women first elected two years ago as an aftermath of Watergate. He finds it true among Democrats and Republicans. Though the Republicans talk more about the problem, being in the minority has been enough to put up a fight for change, whether through discouragement or cynicism.

Dead Exile Had Cuban Connection

WASHINGTON — Secret papers found in Chilean exile leader Orlando Letelier's attaché case after his assassination show he had been collecting a mysterious $1,000 a month through a "Havana connection."

The papers also reveal that Letelier's office had been in close contact, perhaps innocently with a top Cuban intelligence agent named Julian Torres Rizo.

The respected Letelier, a former Chilean foreign minister, was blown to oblivion on September 21 as he was driving down Washington's tranquil, tree-shaded Embassy Row. Accompanying him in his blue Chevrolet were two passengers, Mike Moffit and his wife, Romi. The bomb blast also killed Romi, but Mike miraculously survived.

He telephoned us afterward in anguish and pleaded with us to investigate the assassination. Our preliminary findings indicated that Chile's dread secret police, known as DINA, probably had been behind the bombing. Now our investigation has turned up some unexpected developments.

The blast that killed Letelier, we have learned, revealed that he had been leading a strange double life. The evidence was located in a San-sonite attaché case, which investigators salvaged from the wreckage.

The briefcase was returned to the murdered man's family. But first, intelligence agencies copied the contents for possible clues that might lead to the assassins.

They found some unsuspected clues that were even more fascinating. The briefcase contained papers so sensitive that Letelier probably carried them to prevent their theft by CIA housebreakers. We have now seen some of these hush-hush papers.

They show that Letelier received $1,000 a month through a "Havana connection." His contact was none other than Beatrice "Tati" Allende, daughter of Salvador Allende, the Chilean president who was slain in 1973 by a military junta. Tati now lives in Havana with her husband, who is a Cuban official.

In a May 8, 1975, letter to Letelier, she notified him that he will receive $5,000 as an advance "para apoyar tu trabajo" — "to support your work." This was to be followed by the monthly $1,000 payments. The money would come, she said, from the Chilean Socialist party in exile. The disbursement had been approved, she explained, by the party's leader, Carlos Altamirano, who is reported to be living in exile in East Berlin.

The Chilean Socialist Party has offices in East Berlin, Havana and Rome. Intelligence sources contend that money couldn't have been transmitted to Letelier without the Cuban government's approval.

Another letter in Letelier's briefcase was written on Sept. 14, 1976, by one of his young colleagues. It tells of a meeting in Havana with

"When it's time for you to go, the good Lord will take you. And it's a whole, beautiful life after that."

The words of Frank Wilkenson of Sanford, Fla., "They think I've killed five people. I didn't do it. I'm scared." The words of Robert Wilkenson of Philadelphia.

Two different commentaries. Two different reactions to the exigencies of life. But both spotlighting for all of us the tenuous and unpredictable nature of life — and death.

And both from men for whom life has taken a unique twist.

For Battle, the uniqueness is his longevity — he is on the brink of commemorating his 106th birthday anniversary.

For Wilkenson, the uniqueness is his suffering of the past 438 days, since he was arrested and subsequently convicted of firebombing in which five persons were killed.

For Wilkenson, it has been his inability to find anyone to furnish him a hearing aid so that he can enter his 107th year on Jan. 10, 1977, with a little more understanding, dignity and clarity.

For Wilkenson it has been his inability to get anyone to hear him when he was declaring from his October 1975 arrest on: "I didn't do it..." Until, that is, last Thursday when he was freed thanks to new witnesses and clarifying testimony.

For Battle the future must be a day-to-day proposition. His philosophy of and approach to life should stand him in good stead in his remaining time.

For Wilkenson the future depends on how he can adjust to life as he tries to get it all together in the outside world.

And one must wonder, when pondering Wilkenson's dilemma, if there ever was a better argument against capital punishment than what happened to him. So to Frank Battle a wish for continued life and clear thought.

To Robert Wilkenson a wish for a chance to recover from the injustice he has been dealt. The stories of both these men — which appeared on the front page of Monday's Evening Herald — should give all of us pause during this holiday season.

We should take stock. We should count our blessings. We should think more about the sanctity and meaning of life and figure out how better to appreciate and cope with it.

And we should think about and appreciate some of the trials, tribulations and deprivations that must be tolerated by our fellows.

And, having done all that, we should sit back and enjoy the festive season, looking forward to an even more rewarding and contented new year.

Privacy Laws Pending

NEW YORK (AP) — The possible extension of privacy legislation to include the business industry, at a possible cost of many scores of millions of dollars, will be a vital and painful issue for businessmen in 1977.

If enacted, privacy laws would require industry to maintain records of individuals in such a way that they could be easily retrieved and possibly challenged by the individuals involved.

At present, only government agencies are covered by the Privacy Act of 1974, which permits individuals the right of access to records in more than 8,000 systems.

However, that same act provided for establishment of the Privacy Protection Study Commission, charged with determining if the law's provisions should be extended to state and local governments and to the private sector.

Since the commission is scheduled to submit its report to the president and Congress no later than next June, it hopes to receive comments from industry by January, which means some companies will have a headache right from the beginning of the year.

Coopers & Lybrand, the public auditing firm, has told clients the extension of privacy laws "could have a stunning effect on many companies and their information systems."

Perhaps most directly affected would be mailing list companies and direct-mail marketers, credit card issuers, lending institutions,

Don Oakley Moving Patterns Constant

Another idea that Americans have about themselves has succumbed to scientific scrutiny. This is the notion that the rootlessness of people in modern society is to blame for much of today's unrest and social ills.

The American population is not moving any more than it used to. In fact it could probably solve many of its problems if it were more willing to accept moving as a solution, argue University of California sociologists Claude Fischer and Ann Stueve.

After reviewing many studies and reports on moving patterns, they suggest it is only a historical myth that most of our ancestors lived and died in a single place, amid relations and neighbors.

Research into parish records, tax registers and census data indicates that the trend — if there is any long-term trend over the last two centuries — has either been no increase in mobility or a decrease, they report in the social science magazine New Society.

Although about 90 to 95 per cent of an average American town's population leaves every 10 years, this figure has remained roughly the same for more than 150 years. What has changed is the type of person who has been moving.

Previously, movers were most often poorer people who were "pushed" from their homes by economic failure, social unrest and other difficulties.

Today, however, movers are more likely to be wealthier people who have been "pulled" from their homes by opportunities for economic advancement, better housing and more pleasant surroundings.

Dramatic accounts of the problems of "nomadic" executives and their families have misled us, say these researchers. For the most part, moving does not have ill effects. Instead, it is usually a positive, freely chosen change in people's lives.

In worse straits than movers, they say, are people who should and would move but cannot — for example, unemployed people in economically depressed communities, elderly homeowners in deteriorating neighborhoods or overgrown families in cramped quarters.

John F. Kennedy once said that failure is an orphan, but success has a thousand fathers. We can recall only one presidential election which elicited more expressions of paternal pride than the one just past.

For instance, the National Education Association tells that the victory of Jimmy Carter in 1976 "is now a political factor. It is reckoned with by the organization that endorsed the Carter-Mondale ticket, the first such endorsement in its history."

On the other hand, any number of commentators have pointed out — with quite compelling statistics — that Carter carried the South, and hence the nation, by virtue of the overwhelming percentage of blacks who voted for him. The Southern white vote was much, much closer.

What we recall all too often is Jimmy Carter's victory in the South, and hence the nation, by virtue of the overwhelming percentage of blacks who voted for him. The Southern white vote was much, much closer.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized crime may be making larger profits from such "victimless crimes" as prostitution, gambling and pornography because of moves to decriminalize the offenses, a federally funded study says.

In a report released today, the National Advisory Committee on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals, a government-sponsored advisory panel, urged states to go slowly in cutting criminal penalties for "victimless crimes."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Richard Hongisto, the "flowerpower" sheriff, is on trial for refusing to evict 70 tenants from a low-rent residence that new owners want to tear down. If convicted, Hongisto and his assistant could spend five days in their own jail.

The demise of the Chinatown hotel has been hotly opposed by community activists, who contend that the needs of the residents are being ignored.

Carter Ruling To Be Appealed

CANCER THREAT: The Environmental Protection Agency has discovered potent, cancer-causing chemicals being pumped into the air by the Eli Lilly pesticide plant in Indiana.

The dangerous chemicals, known as nitroaromatics, are considered unsafe for human consumption. "All three of the nitroaromatics found in your discharges have been shown to be powerful carcinogens (cancer causers)," the EPA wrote Lilly.

Yet, incredibly, the agency is allowing Lilly to keep discharging the chemicals into the river. "There is a problem," an EPA spokesman conceded. "That present level of discharge is not an imminent hazard to human health."

A Lilly spokesman agreed that there is no danger.

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP) — Heavy winter seas today threatened Coast Guard efforts to sink the front half of a Liberian oil tanker that broke apart, unleashing one of history's worst oil spills.

Officials, meanwhile, watched helplessly the progress of the spreading oil slick amid a report that some of the 57 million gallons dumped into the Atlantic had reached north-eastward to the Georges Bank commercial fishing grounds.

Massachusetts waited for word from officials in Washington, D.C., on the state's request for federal aid for businessmen whose livelihoods might be damaged by the spreading oil.

2 Famous Gifts Lose Value

NEW YORK (AP) — Gold, frankincense and myrrh, the precious gifts of the Magi to the infant Jesus, would draw mixed reviews as presents this Christmas.

Gold has retained some of its glitter through the ages. A volatile commodity reacting to market forces, gold now is selling for about $133 an ounce, down from $200 an ounce two years ago.

But frankincense and myrrh, among the oldest known aromatic substances, have fallen greatly in value since biblical days and now cost less per pound than supermarket coffee.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A disgruntled airline mechanic surrendered today after taking two persons hostage and commanding a DC8 jetliner almost 18 hours before, authorities said.

Officials did grant one of his demands, that a ground power unit be hooked up to the plane's engines. Such a unit could be used to start the engines of the freshly fueled plane, or it could supply some heat in the chilly morning air, and Hinant's motive was not clear.

One of the hostages, Richard Funk, was rushed to Peninsula Hospital. The 38-year-old United Airlines shop manager earlier told authorities over the airplane radio that Hinant had slashed him several times after forcing the two hostages to board the empty airliner.

The other hostage, United Airlines mechanic Jerry Dusenberry, 42, was released unharmed by Hinant about an hour earlier after two of the hijacker's friends boarded the aircraft.

"Everybody's coming off and we got the gun," Lincoln Jones, one of Hinant's friends, told authorities shortly before the hijacking. "Where will we be going from here?" Hinant asked authorities as he left the plane. "I'll be going to jail, right?"

Published reports said Hinant had been informed Tuesday before the hijacking began that his paid sick leave with United had run out.

Shortly before he had released Dusenberry, Hinant declared: "It's too late for me now. I'm just trying to get away from who's bagging me."

Authorities had unsuccessfully tried to persuade him to surrender, but Hinant, armed with a Lager-type automatic handgun, had continued to issue demands over the craft's radio and to intimidate his captives. His key demand was for another jet and a flight crew to pilot it to an unknown destination somewhere eastward.

Officials did grant one of his demands, that a ground power unit be hooked up to the plane's engines. Such a unit could be used to start the engines of the freshly fueled plane, or it could supply some heat in the chilly morning air, and Hinant's motive was not clear.

One of the captives, Richard Funk, said he had been cut twice when the gunman's several deadlines were not met. It was not known how seriously the hostage was injured, although Hinant told officials that Funk needed medical attention.

"Please give us some kind of help, any kind of help," Funk pleaded while officials discussed the demand for the ground power unit.

His fellow captive, mechanic Jerry Dusenberry, took the microphone to add: "Get the damn thing started out here. You're going to get this man out up there and I'm out of striking bag in a way," he said.

The drama began at 4:20 p.m., PST, when Hinant, a divorced father of two, forced his captives aboard the empty aircraft at gunpoint, including to officials, and began issuing a series of demands, including the fuel, food, clothing, brandy, and the flight crew.

Do Steelers Have 'Away-Field' Advantage?

By The Associated Press
The home field advantage in sports has been well publicized. But what about the "awayfield" advantage?

That is what the Pittsburgh Steelers think they have in Sunday's American Football Conference playoff game against the Oakland Raiders.

"There's nothing we like better than going against a team that's biting at the bit, with the crowd hollering obscene things at you," says Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw. "Then you go down and score, win the football game and get out of there."

Coach Chuck Noll agrees with Bradshaw.

"Our team reacts to the crowd noise, whether it's for or against us," noted Noll. "That kind of thing excites our football team. Our history shows it."

The most recent example, of course, is Pittsburgh's 40-14 humiliation of the Baltimore Colts in last week's American Football Conference playoff opener at Baltimore. The Steelers have won more than one National Football League game in intensely hostile territory en route to two straight Super Bowl titles.

The Steelers could be exactly in their element, then, because the crowd in Oakland figures to be very hostile. The fans have been waiting impatiently for a Super Bowl participant ever since the 1970 series of football games in which the Baltimore Colts in last week's American Football Conference playoff opener at Baltimore.

Boos For Marquette?

By The Associated Press
At Marquette, they are not used to getting booed. But it is happening there.

They are not used to losing two games in a row at home, either. But that has happened, too.

The six-ranked Warriors found themselves in that unenviable situation after a 66-59 loss to No. 20 Minnesota Tuesday night.

The defeat, following Saturday night's 78-74 loss to Louisville, marked the first time since the 1966-67 season that Marquette lost two in a row at home.

The defeat, following Saturday night's 78-74 loss to Louisville, marked the first time since the 1966-67 season that Marquette lost two in a row at home.

The Warriors were beaten in succession by Toledo and South Carolina Tuesday night. The Warriors helped beat themselves with a poor 20 per cent shooting average from the field and an unimpressive defense. Marquette's net used to be that, either.

"The first half was a complete embarrassment," said Coach Al McGuire, pointing to a 37-18 halftime deficit. "Sometimes the shots don't go in for you. But it's not so much how you do on offense. It's letting the other team score. That was our problem."

In other college basketball games, top-ranked Michigan routed Central Michigan 104-63; No. 2 Notre Dame demolished Vermont 84-83; No. 3 San Francisco trounced Oral Roberts 88-76; No. 9 Wake Forest romped over Fairleigh Dickinson 99-63, and No. 19 Tennessee tripped Xavier 87-73.

American Ski Team Does Well

ROME (AP) — The American World Cup ski team led Europe Wednesday, bringing home for Christmas their largest haul of World Cup points in years.

The American team, improving steadily, has 104 points so far and trails only Austria, Switzerland and Italy, with such celebrated couriers as France, West Germany and Sweden trailing badly.

Above all, however, the Americans have shown their ability to threaten the leading positions of both the men's and women's standings, with the death and youth for future improvements.

Phil Mahre, a 19-year-old slalom specialist from White Pass, Wash., was the No. 1 on the men's team. He was third in the World Cup with 40 points, trailing Olympic special slalom champion Piero Gros of Italy, 51 points, and Austrian downhill star Franz Klammer, also a gold medalist at Innsbruck, with 50.

Cindy Nelson, a 21-year-old veteran of four World Cups, was the leading American woman. The skier from Lutsen, Minn., was sixth with 41 points.

Other American girls in the 1977 standings were Abbi Fisher, South Conway, N.H., 21 points; and Becky Dorsey, Wenham, Mass., and Val Fleckstein, Syracuse, N.Y., one point each.

Last winter the American team had picked up only 45 points between Christmas and New Year's.

"No Americans, with few exceptions, have stayed with the team that long," Tauber said. "We can't blame the kids. They had the ability and desire to do well, but they were let down by our organization. They had lousy uniforms, bad transportation, poor hotels and they didn't know what to do for the lack of proper instructions."

Tauber said his first aim when he took over the team in 1974 was to create "the proper environment" for his team's skiers, "as close as we can to U.S. standards."

CHICAGO (AP) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley was scheduled to take the stand today and tell his side of his $13 million sale of three star players voided by baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Finley's attorney, Neil Pappano said he would call Finley as his first witness. Finley contends that Kuhn unfairly voided the sale of the three players because the commissioner has not got the power to do anything but regulate honesty of the game.

New York Yankees President Gabe Paul testified for Finley Tuesday and disclosed for the first time that he was in Finley's office June 15 and heard both sides of a conversation the A's owner had with pitcher Vida Blue's agent.

So far, trial testimony has indicated that the Detroit Tigers and Texas Rangers made bids of $1 million or more for Blue's services, but it was Paul and the Yankees who finally convinced Finley to sell — for $13 million.

Besides Blue, Finley sold Joe Rudi and Hollie Fingers to the Boston Red Sox for $1 million each within a few hours of the midnight June 15 trading deadline. Both clubs were named as defendants in Finley's action, and both have lawyers present.

Ralph Stanek, the team's executive coordinator headed by the U.S. District Court proceedings that began last Thursday.

Pappano asked Paul if he thought Kuhn had power to void sales which did not break any rules if the commissioner thought they were not in the best interests of baseball. Paul replied:

"I don't see how he can, if it's consistent with the rules."

Paul said he would not seek advice of the commissioner in advance of trades if he did not think the trades violated the rule book. He said the commissioner should have no power to regulate the business of baseball but except to make sure it complied with the game's rules.

Paul testified that Finley convinced Blue to sign up his free agent status and give up a new

Buckeye Key: Re-Establish Ground Game

MIAMI (AP) — Jim Pacenta, the man who quarantined Ohio State in its stretch run to a Big Ten victory at Minnesota, is a 22-2 crunching from Michigan, the Buckeyes could gain only 104 yards in 34 rushes.

"That surprised me," said Pacenta, an Akron, Ohio, senior who replaced the injured Rod Germano in the first quarter of the sixth game against Purdue. "The week before against Illinois (42-10) we had done so well offensively. You have to give credit to the Minnesota and Michigan defenses."

Jeff Logan, who accounted for 179 of his 1,169 yards in the last two games, supplied a couple of reasons for the offensive bogdown.

"We just stood around at Minnesota," said the 182-

The Devine Word: Learn, Fun, Winning

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — Football Coach Dan Devine of Notre Dame is preparing for Monday's Gator Bowl game against Penn State with three goals in mind: For his players to learn, have fun and win.

"I always try to have a three-pronged tactic for a bowl game," he said Tuesday after arriving in Jacksonville for an educational experience for the players; I want them to enjoy themselves, and we all have to work toward winning. They all go together."

Making certain he wasn't misunderstood, Devine cautioned against any impression that the game wasn't important in his mind.

"I've never played or coached a game that wasn't important," he said.

Penn State Coach Joe Paterno has a similar approach, mixing a good time with hard work on the practice field.

This is Notre Dame's first trip to the Gator Bowl. Penn State has played here three times and has a 1-1-1 record.

contract with the A's. The Yankees' president said purchase of Blue's contract rather than an uncontracted player was part of a conference record to 52-13 against outside foes, an 800 percentage.

Yates said his team learned of Gabe's death about 40 minutes before the start of the game. Gabe, 29, entered a Memphis hospital Dec. 11 with an illness diagnosed as Stevens-Johnson syndrome, a condition that attacks the body's mucous membrane.

The hospital said he suffered a collapsed left lung Monday night and a tracheotomy was performed Tuesday morning. Doctors said he died from complications resulting from the collapsed lung.

"There's no any way you can prepare for something like this," Yates said. "You say bidding for underestimation of the year."

In Game Three of the McAdoo Era, the Yankees' star pitcher, Steve Carlton, was hit by a pitch and had to be removed from the game. Carlton, 30, had been in the game for 5 1/2 innings, but he had to be removed because of a back injury.

Carlton's injury occurred in the top of the third inning of the game. He was hit by a pitch from the Mets' Tom Seaver. Carlton was hit in the lower back area.

Carlton's injury is not expected to keep him out of the game for more than a few days. He is expected to be back in the game by Saturday.

Coach Wayne Yates of Memphis State to his players the decision to play or cancel Tuesday night's basketball game against Mississippi after learning of the death of Tiger center John Gunn.

"They wanted to play and win the game for John," Yates said. "Had they not wanted to play, we would have canceled the game."

Dexter Reed scored a career-high 34 points to lead U-Tigers to an 88-83 victory over Ole Miss in one of three games involving Southeastern Conference teams.

In other action, 19th-ranked Tennessee destroyed Cincinnati 97-73 and Vanderbilt nipped Iowa State 69-68 on Dicky Kellef's two free throws with 17 seconds remaining. Those two victories lifted the conference record to 52-13 against outside foes, an 800 percentage.

Touring Baseball Team Back Friday

TAMPA (AP) — "I can't describe the experience. It's been great, first class all the way," said Pete Mulry as his high school baseball all-stars from Florida ended a 10-game tour of Australia today.

The team, comprised of Stanford and Central Florida players, ended with a 6-1 record, including a 4-1 closing loss Tuesday to Australia's national team.

Mulry, coach of Tampa Catholic who served as coach of the all-star delegation, said in a telephone conversation with the Tampa Tribune that the team had a 2-1 record against the national team and 4-1 record against an Australia all-star unit.

He said his team due to arrive back in Tampa Friday morning, was led in the series by centerfielder Marty Garcia of Tampa Catholic, right basemen Donnie Scott of St. Petersburg Catholic, left fielder Charlie Smythers of Bradenton Bayshore and pitcher Rick Fann of St. Petersburg Northeast.

rebound past former long-time teammate Gerry Cheevers for the game's closing goal.

In Tuesday night's other NHL game, the Chicago Black Hawks and Minnesota North Stars shared a 3-3 tie.

The Bruins, turned back 30 times by New York goalie Billy Smith, mounted their best serious attacks in their period. Then, 30 seconds after Islanders left Gerry Howe, Westfall scored against his former mates.

"I got the greatest compliment any athlete can be paid is to put into a game in key situations, like killing penalties," said Westfall, who played for Boston for 19 years before becoming a member of the Islanders. "I like to think I'm needed, just like anybody else does."

The Bruins had no need for J.P. Parise in 1967. They left him exposed in the expansion draft when the league went from six teams to 12.

He repaid Boston by scoring the game's opening goal — all the support Smith needed in producing his first shut-out of the season and New York's first victory over Boston since March 15, 1975.

"They could have been had," added Boston Coach Don Cherry, whose Bruins have won just three of their last 12 games.

"That was one of our better road games in a long time. It's an old excuse, but their goaltender played very well."

'Star Tilt' Given Up

CHICAGO (AP) — Higher costs and uncertainties about recruiting players have brought an end to the annual midsummer football game between a team of college all-stars and the champions of the National Football League.

"We regret the end of a traditional sports classic which has provided substantial aid of assistance to the needy in Chicagoland," he added.

A spokesman for the sponsors commented, "The game simply has proved itself out of existence." He also said 26 of the 52 college players reporting to All-Star camp last year had not signed with an NFL team.

"They just came in on their own and this made their status shakier. Our contract is with the National Football League, and the All-Star players always had been tied to their league clubs when they reported. Also, there is no (scheduled) playoff draft next year and that adds to the uncertainty."

Celery-Feds Pitcher Meyers Dies At 71

HERMAN O. (H.O.) Meyers Jr., 71, a member of the 1927 Florida State League championship Sanford Celery-Feds, was buried in Savannah, Fla., this week. He died last Friday of a heart attack.

Meyers, known as "Lefty" Meyers, Sanfordeans and his baseball colleagues, had a 9-9 record in that championship year, recalls Floyd Palmer of Sanford, who was president of the 1928 Sanford Celery-Feds, was a "great clutch pitcher" who, in addition to his 9-9 record that year, won at least 10 extra games with his effective pitching out of the bullpen. His salary, $145 month.

Palmer also remembers Meyers as an effective pitcher who won several games with his bat.

Directors of that 1927 team were J. Lee Sanfordites, H.R. Stevens, G.W. Spencer, R.C. W.C. Hill.

Meyers, also a pitcher with the 1928 Sanford Celery-Feds, was a retired railroad machanic. He is survived by his widow at 305 Duchs De, Savannah.

JoAnn Saunders Suit Dismissed

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A federal judge today upheld the state's right to require congressional candidates to file financial disclosure statements, dismissing arguments raised by defeated candidate JoAnn Saunders. U.S. District Judge William Stafford of Tallahassee ruled that the state's requirement that candidates for Congress file financial disclosure forms did not create an additional qualification for office that was prohibited by the U.S. Constitution. However, Mrs. Saunders obtained an order from Stafford preventing the panel from acting. Stafford said in today's ruling that he took that action because of Mrs. Saunders' name had been removed from the ballot it could have been corrected if he later had held the state law unconstitutional.

FP&L Hit For 100Gs In Accident Suit

A Sanford construction worker, disabled in a 1972 accident at a construction company yard, has been awarded $100,000 damages by a circuit court jury. Hurlis Hayes, 54-year-old father of 10 children, was an employe of Pamar Construction Co. when he was helping unload a dump truck at the firm's Rand Yard Road location west of Sanford on Sept. 21, 1972, and a crane being used in the operation came into contact with high tension electrical wires and the current flowed through the crane to the truck and Hayes' body. Hayes and his wife filed a civil suit alleging Florida Power and Light Co. was negligent in not moving the high tension electrical lines as earlier requested by Pamar officials because the lines were in an area where steel beams were loaded and unloaded. The jury in Circuit Judge Dominick Salvi's court also awarded Mrs. Hayes $10,000.

Lady Bartender Mayor Of 'Town Too Tough To Die'

TOMBSTONE, Ariz. (AP) — Some residents think Wyatt Earp and "Doc" Holliday rolled over in their graves as the first woman was sworn in as mayor of the town too tough to die. Mayor Jack Hendrickson, didn't think a woman would fit in with the historic image of the southeastern Arizona town. But enough of the 1,600 residents disagreed to choose Mrs. Colvin over the town magistrate by a 72-vote margin. The inauguration was held Monday night in the 1882 city hall, next door to the OK Corral, where Exp. his brothers and Holliday gunned down Billy Clinton and the McLaurie brothers in one of the most celebrated shootouts of the Old West. The campaign for mayor of the 98-year-old town was as colorful as the characters who now are buried on Foot Hill. Mrs. Colvin said she spent between $50 and $60 on a few posters and spoke at three meetings. "My opponent spent a fortune and said publicly that we shouldn't let a bartender run town," said Mrs. Colvin, who tends bar and manages the Tombstone American Legion Club. "That's ironic, since the outgoing mayor owns the Lucky Cuss Saloon and one of the council members owns Johnny Ringo's Bar."

Cook Of The Week Touch Of Old England In Holiday Fare

By ELDA NICHOLS Herald Correspondent
A traditional English Christmas is being celebrated in Winter Springs this year by Marguerite Hastings. Born and raised in England, Marguerite brought many of that country's customs along with her when she moved to Winter Springs. "Food is very important at Christmas time in England. On Christmas Eve, there are late night parties where mince tarts and wine are served. In fact, mince tarts have a story attached to them. If you eat them each month, it means another month of happiness. So you see, everyone tries to eat quite a few of them each month," she said with a chuckle. This year's higher cost of fruit cake ingredients makes it harder to bake the cakes, according to Marguerite. "We used to make a fruit cake for about five dollars, but now it's about doubled. You can hardly afford to bake them this year." Marguerite is treating her friends and neighbors to a Christmas party in her home. "I will serve all the goodies from the recipes that I am giving you," she said. Laughing, she added, "Baking is my life. I get fat just cooking!" Always busy, Marguerite loves to sew, and has made robes and other gifts for her friends. She has also made crocheted gifts and ceramics. "I like to make the gifts I give," she said. Splurging on food is fine, when it's holiday time, according to Marguerite. "It's fun to cook fancy things at Christmas. My father always made a big plum pudding, but I don't do that here," she said. Some of her family recipes are here for her friends to try. CHRISTMAS EVE MEAT PASTIES

Wish On Star Tonight

By MARYLYN TIPTON Herald Writer
Wish I may, wish I might Have this wish I make tonight... so do wishing stars. The skies over Sanford tonight will offer about 15 wishes an hour to anyone who wants to go outside and watch for the falling stars. "A meteor," says Bruce Salmon, planetarium director at the John Young Museum and Planetarium, "is a flash of light in the night sky caused by friction vaporizing bits of stone or metal or both as they enter the atmosphere of the Earth." It is these objects on which generations of children (and many gentle, childlike adults) make their secret wishes. Tonight's meteor shower will be most visible just before dawn. Coming from the vicinity of the Big Dipper, the meteor shower can be seen at about 45 degrees above the horizon as you face north-east. "A dark night is necessary for watching meteors," says Salmon. "If you live right in the city you might want to drive into the country nearby where there are fewer lights to interfere with your sky-watching." Salmon suggests that sky-watching is greatly enhanced if you are not confined to objects you can see with the naked eye. "Inexpensive binoculars are a tremendous help," he says, "and if your child has a forty or fifty dollar telescope you are really on the way." Some of the falling stars tonight will be visible to the unaided eye, but Salmon emphasizes that inexpensive binoculars can make a big difference. "The magnification

DEAR DR. LAMB

DEAR DR. LAMB — Could you please let me know what effects taking two Catapres pills for blood pressure plus two or three Valium pills a day would have on a man's sex life? My husband is taking this medicine for high blood pressure. Is he too related or too tired? After supper he just falls asleep and sleeps all evening, then gets up to go to bed and sleep again. DEAR READER — Valium as you probably know is a tranquilizer. Catapres does cause drowsiness. I am not surprised that the combination makes your husband so sleepy. Catapres also makes some men impotent. When that occurs there is little else they can do in bed besides sleep. These effects occur with some other medicines used in the treatment of high blood pressure. There are good reasons why some doctors think treatment with some of the high blood pressure medicines can be worse than the disease. I agree with treatment for elevated blood pressure, but whenever possible I do think it is better to use mild medicines — just enough to do the job — or lower the blood pressure by changing one's living patterns. That means any with any elevation of blood pressure should eliminate any body fat they can. Every ounce of fat under the skin should be eliminated by weight control programs. When this is done and the salt intake is reduced, the need for powerful medicines with undesirable side effects can often be reduced or eliminated. So I think your husband should eliminate any fat deposits he has. And a word of caution, if a person is taking Catapres and stops it suddenly there may be a severe sharp rise in blood pressure. If his doctor decides to eliminate it he should be gradually withdrawn from the medicine to avoid this dangerous response.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-B, Blood Pressure, to give you more information on the problem. Others who want this in-

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDEOSOL

For Thursday, December 23, 1976 ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be sure to include old friends as well as new in any social activities you're planning, so nobody's feelings will be hurt. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Although you may achieve them, goals not in accordance with your highest ideals will prove hollow victories today. Set lofty standards. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may suffer some disappointment regarding your original plans today, but the alternative will prove best in the long run. CANCER (June 21-July 21) Your shopping logic today is governed by the thought that a gift must be expensive to be appreciated. This could lead to some hefty bills. LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) There is a strong possibility that you will prejudice the good intentions of an associate wrongly today and cause an embarrassing situation. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) While the means are at hand it would be wise to clear up old debts. They can't be rationalized away too much longer. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Usually you're a sociable, outgoing person but today you're likely to be a bit slow in warming up to others. However, you do let your hair down later. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you're entertaining at home today, limit it to guests whose company you truly enjoy. Inviting someone out of obligation may spoil the fun. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You may have to deal with someone today who is a trifle cantankerous. This person can be won over by not responding in kind. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Financial conditions arranged for two years, but we didn't get really serious about each other until seven months ago. I'm 18 and he's 19. He kept asking for a soft touch for a bum asking for a handout, but many people say that giving a bum spare change does him more harm than good. What do you say to your readers? Well, I was wrong. After that evening I didn't hear one word from him. Finally I ran into him by accident three weeks later, and his attitude toward me was completely different. He acted like a stranger. I feel so cheated and cheap. If I had known then what I know now, I never would have given in. But now it's too late, and there's nothing I can do about it. I wanted something very precious on someone who wasn't worth it and didn't appreciate it. Please keep telling girls that way to keep a guy is by NOT giving in to him. I wish I hadn't. FOOLISH IN FLORIDA DEAR FOOLISH: I will. And maybe your experience will help some other girl when she has that decision to make. DEAR HOTEL GUEST: I am not working here because I want to earn money. I just enjoy emptying wastebaskets full of peanut shells and stale beer. "Black Lung" is a small thrill of pursuing those elusive little hairs all over the bathtubs. So, you see, that lip really wasn't necessary. Please accept my deepest thanks for your generosity. The penny you left will go towards furthering my college education. ## 6.7 Million In Grants

U.S. Gives Seminole Yule Present$

$4.6 Million For Jail

$308,000 For Lake Mary

$1.8 Million For Sanford

Rep. Richard Kelly (R-Holiday) notified Seminole Sheriff John Polk at noon today that a $4.6 million federal grant has been approved for construction of a new county jail-sheriff's department complex at Five Points, south of Sanford off U.S. 17-92. Details were unavailable.

County commissioners have contracted with Gutmann and Dragash, a Sanford firm, for design of the new central facility and planning is underway on the project.

Earlier today, Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson confirmed that the city has received unofficial word that a federal public works grant of $308,000 has been approved for improvements and expansion of the city's water system.

Sorenson said official word is expected to come sometime next week or soon after the first of the year.

The approved part of the project calls for expansion of the distribution system to include most of the city's populated area and will dovetail to a degree with improvements to be undertaken under a $354,000 loan from the U.S. Farmers Home Administration.

Approval was not received for a new water plant for the city. Under the FHA loan the city is to connect with the City of Sanford water plant on Country Club Road.

On Wednesday, Mayor Lee P. Moore announced that Sanford had received unofficial notice that a grant under the public works law for nearly $1.8 million had been approved for construction of Sanford's planned new city hall complex.

City Manager W. E. Knowles said today the grant includes not only the $1.3 million for construction of the planned "L"-shaped facility, but also necessary funding for architect's fees, engineering, site preparation, parking, paving, utility connections and furnishings—the entire project.

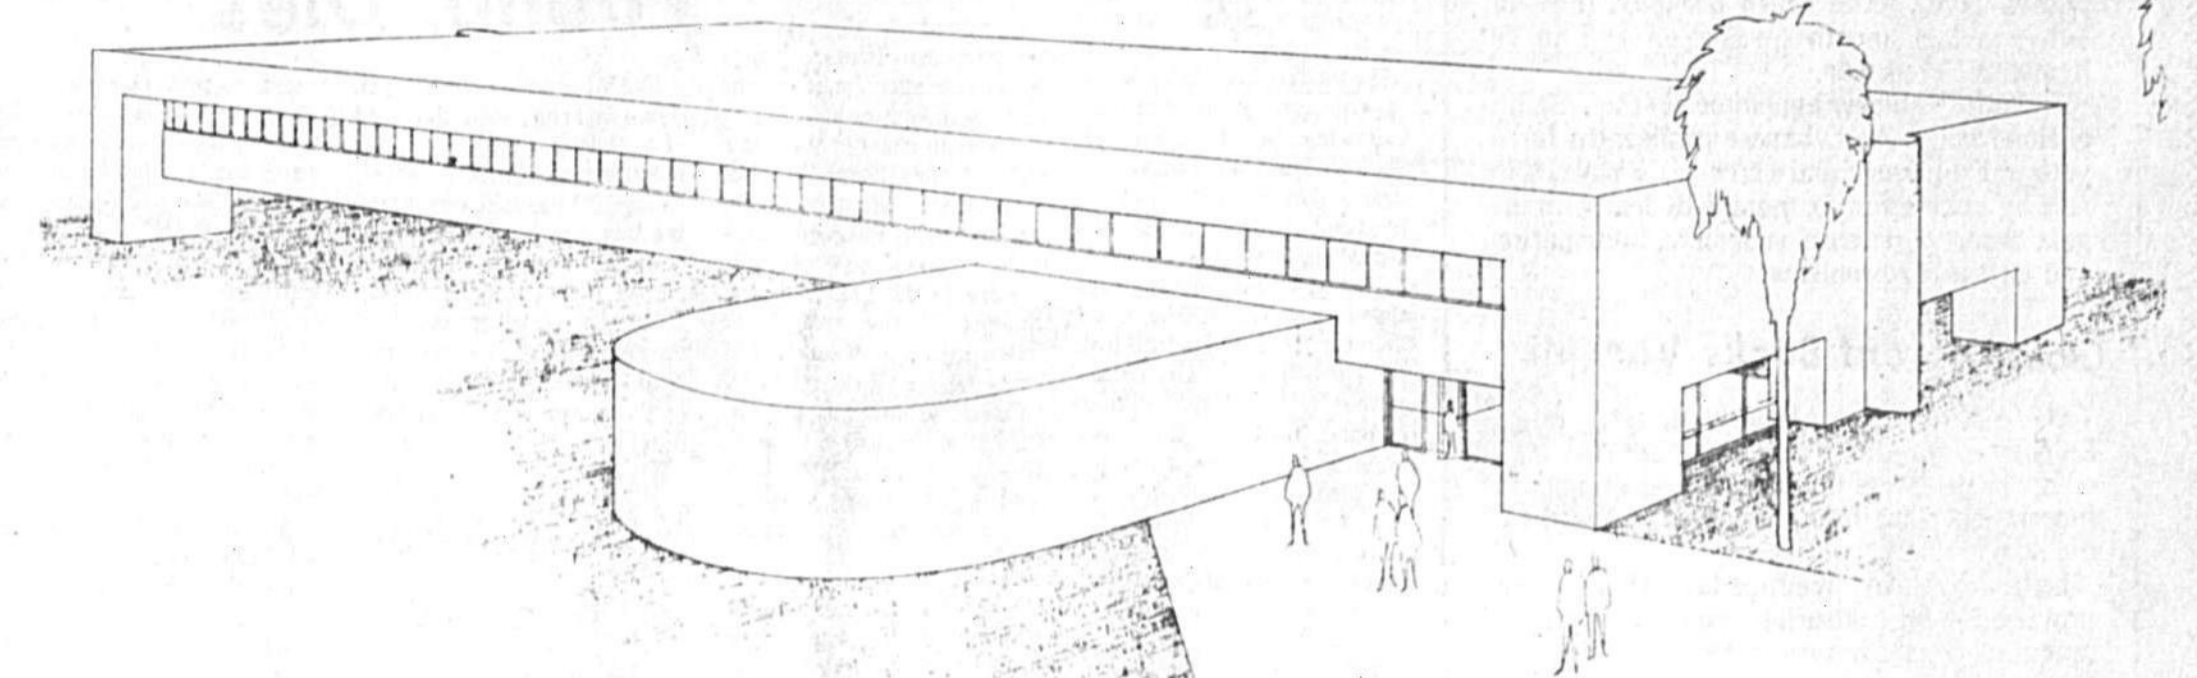

The site of the complex will lap over into the area where the old zoo stood. Construction is to begin within 60 days after the city receives formal notification and is expected to take 12 months, allowing for a May to June, 1978 completion date.

Knowles said he does not anticipate any real delays as a result of the city commissioner's change of plans for the complex earlier this week.

Much of the credit for the approvals of both the Sanford and Lake Mary projects is being given to Jess Paulucci, who is said to have pushed the projects through the federal Economic Development Administration (EDA).

He is said to have kept the projects high on the priority list because of his continued interest and concern for the Sanford-Seminole area.

Paulucci came into the Sanford area in the mid-1960's when he owned the Chun-King food enterprise because of the celery grown here. He has a home here and owns property in the north end of the county, while his major business operations are in Duluth, Minn.

Only Life Left For Family After Fire; 4 Flee Trailer Flames In Nightclothes

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

The Robert F. Kay family was just getting up this morning about 7:45. Roberta and sons, Robby, 3, and Tracey, 1, were already in the living room of their rented trailer home. Minutes later the young family was fleeing in their nightclothes as fire raced through the trailer.

They escaped injury but lost everything in the blaze except the pickup truck and boat rig that Robert Kay uses in his work as a commercial fisherman.

Furniture, food, clothing, Christmas gifts . . . all went up in the Midway county fire station could get to the trailer site on Sipes Avenue south of SR-415.

Kay, 29, said he was still in bed when his wife went to the bedroom toward the rear of the 54-foot mobile home and ran screaming back to their bedroom as smoke and flames poured from the rear bedroom the boys had been sleeping in a short time before.

Kay ran to the door to get a fire extinguisher from his boat outside.

"When I grabbed the door I got shocked," he later told a reporter. "I think the fire may have been caused by the electric heater in the boys' bedroom."

He managed to get his wife and children out of the flaming trailer. Then Kay attempted to get to the fire with the fire extinguisher but the flames and choking smoke by then had raced throughout the metal trailer.

"I'm glad that I went by the law and had the fire extinguisher in my boat," Kay said as he sadly watched county firemen put out the last smoldering remains of the family's possessions in the charred trailer, its sides melted by the heat and interior gutted.

Neighbors and firemen rounded up some clothing for the little boys and Kay. His wife stood sobbing in her nightgown and a fireman's coat as she told her husband, "Everything's gone . . . our furniture . . . everything."

Kay said he's thankful that his family escaped injury and they'll be staying with friends in the area during the holidays.

As fire department investigators began probing through the wreckage and uncovered the blackened electric heater in the children's bedroom, County Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser told Kay that a Red Cross disaster relief worker was on the way to offer whatever help possible to the burned out family.

Later a Sanford-based public assistance agency said a case worker was being sent to the fire scene to assist the Kay family who had been living in the trailer for two months.

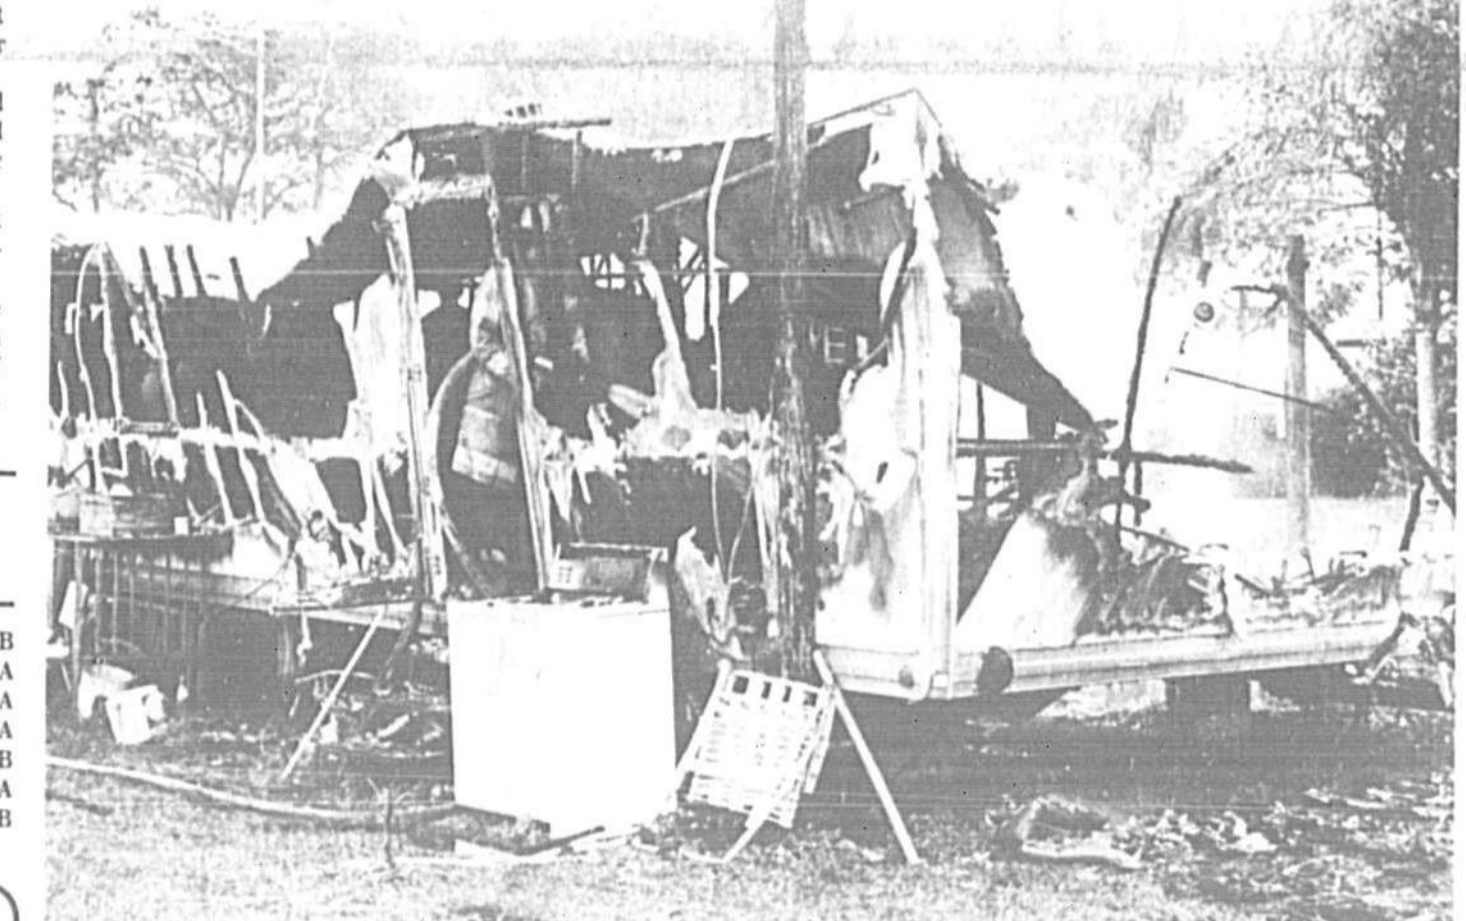

"There's probably nothing we'll be able to save," Kay said as little Robby hugged his daddy's neck as they sat shivering in borrowed clothing in the drizzling rain in their remaining possession — the pickup truck.

Sheriff's deputies reported another early morning fire damaged the residence of Curtis Grant Logen at 2209 Winnebago Trail, Fern Park. Logen, 40, and his wife Dolores, 36, escaped injury following an apparent gas furnace explosion and flames damaged their residence.

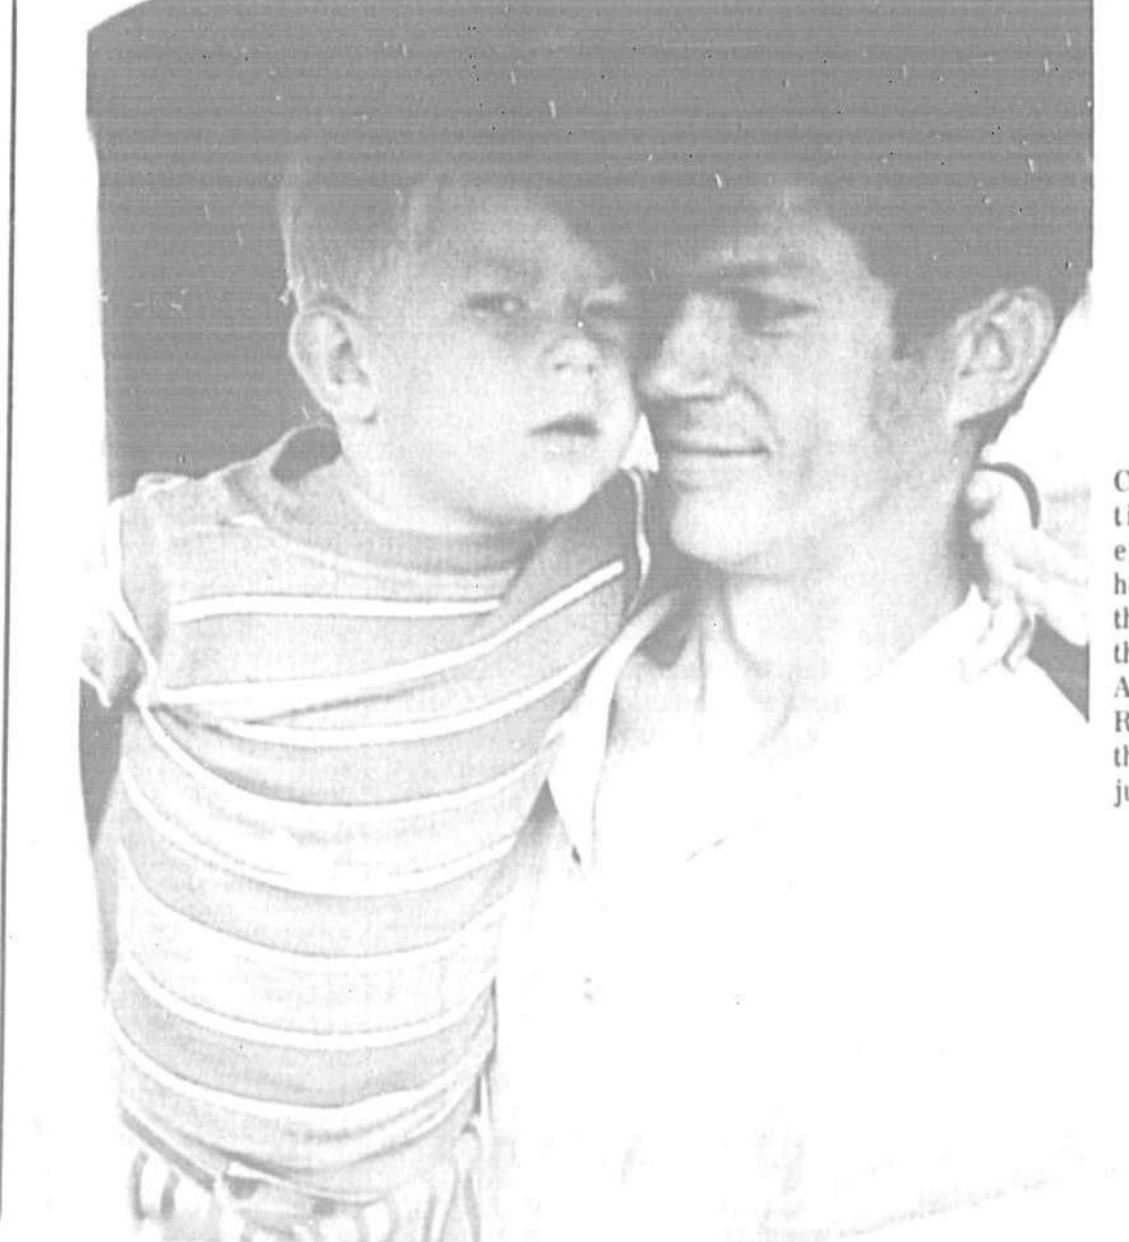

Deputy H. W. Gregory reported that Logen told officers that his wife awakened him about 2 a.m. saying she smelled smoke. Logen investigated and found smoke pouring from the garage which was followed by an explosion.

Deputies said the couple ran from the house and called the sheriff's department to report the fire.

Gregory said firemen reported the blaze apparently originated in the furnace. An estimate of damage to the residence was not immediately available.

Deputy Safe After SOS

A radio message from a Seminole County sheriff's deputy returning a prisoner to a south Florida prison this morning touched off an air and ground search by law enforcement officers before the deputy was located and found to be safe.

Sheriff John Polk reported at noon that deputy B. K. Jernigan, of Sanford, was located by state troopers on the Florida Turnpike north of Del Rio Beach.

Jernigan had found a heart attack victim on the turnpike and radioed for help, Polk said. His radio message calling "for anyone" on the statewide sheriff's departments frequency was picked up by the Harvey County Sheriff's office at Wauchula, 19 miles west of Avon Park, on the opposite side of south Florida and authorities there notified Polk's office that "it sounded like he needed help" but Wauchula was unable to make further contact.

Polk said when no contact could be made with Jernigan, traveling with one prisoner in a green and white marked Seminole Sheriff's station wagon without flashing blue lights, he called for assistance from central and south Florida sheriffs departments and put a search airplane in the air from Sanford.

"We weren't sure what route he was taking back to Florida City (a state correctional institute south of Miami)," Polk said.

Uneasiness and concern over Jernigan's whereabouts heightened when the Florida Highway Patrol's turnpike toll booth officers at I-4 south of Orlando reported they couldn't remember the sheriff's station wagon getting on the turnpike this morning after Jernigan left Sanford at 8 a.m.
