Seminole High Grid Candidates Are Fast Rounding Into Shape

Coaches Develop Line Averaging 180Lbs.; Reserves Numerous

Bolt Aids Backfield Eight Ball Carriers Show Fine Prospects

BY PETER SCHAAL

Getting in a hard afternoon's scrimmage, which saw the execution of some smooth-running off-tackle and end run plays, Seminole High School griders yesterday afternoon went through their paces under the watchful eyes of Coach Hugh Wheelchell and Tom Bolt, assistant coach.

With the squad weeded down to about 30 candidates, all of them showing excellent form and presenting a formidable array of material, the coaches as well as players are highly elated with the progress made thus far in practice session and are confident that the team will give a good account of itself this season.

With a line averaging 180 pounds from end to end, the Seminole High School eleven faces the prospect of having one of the heaviest, if not the heaviest forward wall of any school in the state. In yesterday's scrimmage and in other classes the line has demonstrated a keen knowledge of football, shown speed, sturdy defensive play and fast charging tactics. It is the same kind of beefy line that one finds in the larger prep schools, and its performance has given Coaches Wheelchell and Bolt great satisfaction in the splendid manner in which the aggregation has been whipped together.

On one team, each Wheelchell placed a line which bids fair to be his starting crew for each game. It was composed of Sneed and Edensfield, ends; Symes and Miller, tackles; Yancey and Ball, guards, and Hansell at center. In addition to this, the team has a world of aggressive performers as substitutes. Included in the list are: Bob Moyer, Doug Echols, Lindsay, Foyde, Hottelaw, Herndon, Howell, Verney, Mims, Waters, George Moyer, Dick Sneed and Aycock.

Only one man on the line has apparently clinched first place and that is "Rare" Hansell, finished center and as aggressive player as will be found in this section.

As the training season opened, Coach Wheelchell was perplexed over the problem of developing a backfield. Two or three backs left from last year's squad, however, had displayed great form and other of the candidates has shown such possibilities that his worries have been lessened somewhat. As a result of some careful attention devoted to the ball carriers, the Coach has lined up eight candidates, who have more than ordinary ability. Backing up these two backfield sets are a number of hard working but inexperienced players, whose development is only a matter of time. Coach Bolt is lending able assistance in handling the backs.

Jack Peters is being groomed for the kicking and the lad is taking to it like a duck to water. Long, lanky spirals varying from 35 to 50 yards are his specialty. Peters has also showed aptitude for hurling a pass and cheered the coaches with his knife-like thrusts at the line.

"Ed" Partin, who hails from Ojeda, seems certain of the full-back berth. Although a freshman Partin has shown a fine attack speed and gameness. He has a natural football sense. George Stinson, brother of the spectacular Jim who finished last year, is also another valuable prospect. George has been somewhat handicapped by an injured ankle but is rapidly rounding into shape. He is of the rangy type, is fast and possesses great endurance.

Hester, fast halfback, who played in several games last year, has shown up well as has Jim Spencer, who is being groomed for the quarterback berth. Kinlaw is making a determined bid for one of the half positions. Kinlaw was a star on the Junior High team last year and before he has finished his high school career he is expected to make a great name for himself.

Martin Smith is another small but scrapping gridder who has fine prospects. Pete Schirard is hailed as the real backfield find. He's a natural born football player and needs only some more experience.

The team has been practicing for more than three weeks and has more than a week to go before playing its first game on Oct. 6, when the Rollins freshmen come here for a tilt. The daily practices have attracted a number of fans and more are expected to watch the boys next week as they put on the finishing touches for the first opponents.

Pajama Clad Body Of Woman Found In California Ranch

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., Sept. 27.—(INS)—With a bullet hole in the back of her head, the pajama clad body of a woman believed to be Cora Meade, and known locally as Mrs. L. A. Thornwell, was found on the floor of her ranch home kitchen here.

An army rifle with one empty shell lay nearby, and under Mrs. Thornwell's bed was discovered a note. "In case of accident to me please notify the Meade Cycle Company at Birmingham," it read.

While police lean toward a theory of suicide, they are at a loss to explain how the woman could have shot herself with a rifle in the back of the head. Investigators said that the note would have indicated that the woman expected violence.

L. A. Thornwell, who was thought to be the woman's divorced husband, was located. He is said to have told the police that they were not married but had recently bought the ranch where the woman was found dead. Mrs. Thornwell is said to have recently returned from a trip to Europe.

Young Mother Burns To Death In Capital

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(INS)—Lucille Burke Schlorb, a 19-year-old mother, was burned to death here today when the stove on which she was cooking breakfast exploded.

Hearing an explosion in the adjoining kitchen of the double frame house, George A. Burke, father of the girl, roused Schlorb from sleep, and the two attempted to rescue Lucille from the inferno caused by the explosion, but were unsuccessful. Mrs. Burke, the girl's mother, had to be held out of the burning kitchen. Remnants of an oil can found after the fire showed Mrs. Schlorb had used coal oil in starting the fire.

University Of Georgia Has Prospects Of Team Equal To Last Year Aggregation

Bulldogs Have Excellent Backfield Players But Are Handicapped On Rush Line By Graduation Of Shiver And Nash

By Ed Danforth
Sporting Editor of the Atlanta Georgian. Written for International News Service.
ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 27.—(INS)—Any one who imagined that the University of Georgia exploded with a dull roar last December when the then undefeated Bulldogs lost to Georgia Tech, a best revise 1928 aggregate hastily. The Georgia Bulldogs as they look right now will be as good as they were in 1927—and perhaps the Bulldogs will perform even better and win the conference championship they missed last fall.

Harry Mehre, the droll son of Notre Dame, who was assistant coach last year, is making his bow before the South as head man. With him are Jimmy Crowles, of four horseman fame; Gene Smith, the great guard of the last Georgia eleven; and "Chick" Shiver. All American end of 1927. These four young men are handling 60 candidates these days on Sanford Field, within sight of the new stadium that is being rushed to completion, and what an eye-filling crew it is.

Georgia undoubtedly will have the greatest single backfield unit in the star southpaw again during the year. New York's two-game lead, however, looms as a terrific obstacle for the A's to overcome. Both contenders are sure to meet with tough opposition. The White Sox trimmed the Yanks twice last week and the Tigers stopped the Macks twice.

The goal of Miller Huggins of the Yanks is to win three of the five games with Detroit. That would give his team an even 100 victories for the season and would clinch the pennant no matter what the Athletics do.

Of course Hug would like to get it over with as soon as possible to give his crippled players a chance to rest before the start of the World Series. With Ruth and Lazzeri badly hurt, Koenig nursing a sore foot, Penneck incapacitated by neuritis, and the other pitchers overworked, the Huggins outfit is but a shadow of the mighty machine that gave the Cardinals such a hard battle two years ago and crushed the Pirates last fall.

Huggins plans to send Hoyt and Heimach to the mound this afternoon. The selections for the following games will be Phipps, Zachary and Hoyt again.

Cards Slip Backward As They Drop One To Robins While Giants Remain Idle

McGraw Outfit Has Excellent Chance Of Passing National League Leaders After Games This Afternoon

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service
Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Half a game, half a game, half a game. That isn't exactly the way Kipling wrote it; it simply is. Bill McKelvie's idea today of how the greatest race the National League has known in 29 years might be reviewed by a critic who knows what it is to have to fight even for a defeat. His Cardinals, having clung grimly to a one-game lead over the Giants since Saturday night, finally faltered under the lash yesterday and lost to Dazzy Vance in Brooklyn, reducing their margin of safety to exactly a half game.

It might even be nothing at all or something less than that if tonight's The Giants, in fact, can go the league pace today if they win a pair from the Cubs at the Polo Grounds and the Cards fall to beat the Braves in Boston. Granting that the latter isn't altogether likely, the Giants still have a chance for a tie if they win two while the Cards are winning one.

The Giants have five remaining games to be played, the Cards only four and it isn't possible for both to win all of them for the somewhat more than nominal reason that they will play each other in the final game of the season on Sunday.

If it hasn't already dawned upon you, this game is almost certain to be the great "convincer" of the situation. Just hug that prediction to your heart. The Cards almost declared themselves into the title when they pulled out that 15 inning decision over the Dodgers on Tuesday but the odds are even if you'll raron my hangnails, that they will have to wait for Sunday's finale before their victory is official or the contenders are sent into a three-game play off for the championship.

They are talking today about the improvement of the Braves against the Cubs, Reds and Pirates and how Hornsby would like to do something for good old Sam Breadon, although it is possible, I might mean to or with or both. Anyhow, it all runs for Sweeney's married sister. The best the Braves can hope for is one game of the three, with Alexander and Haines ready to go.

Granting that the Braves might take a single game, that would bring the Cards back to New York for the last show down with 91 victories and 59 defeats. To get a dead heat by Saturday night, the Giants then would have to take three out of four from the Cubs, a no impossible promise in view of the fact that the Cubs have won 11 out of 18 with the Giants this year. The Cubs are a backfire on the road, a fact further substantiated by their record in Brooklyn, Boston and

YANKS HAVE FINE CHANCE TO CINCH LEAGUE PENNANT

To Play Double Header Today In Detroit As A's Meet Chicago

By Les Conklin

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—If the Athletics lose to the White Sox in Chicago today and the Yankees capture both ends of their double bill at Detroit, New York fandom tonight will celebrate the winning of the Yanks' third consecutive pennant. Should these events come to pass, the Yanks could afford to lose the remaining three games at Detroit while the Athletics won their last three games with the White Sox with the final standing as follows:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
New York	99	55	.643
Philadelphia	98	55	.640

But the crippled champions are no cinch to win both games today, and Connie Mack has no intention of losing to the White Sox. He plans to send Bob Grove to the mound today and may pitch the conference on past presidents, H. F. Johnson at Sanford, Bobby Hooks and Frank Smith at halfbacks; Herdis McCarty full back—nowhere in the line can such a combination of passing, punning and kicking be found. They have played together for one season against such major opposition as Yale, Florida, Alabama and Tech and click perfectly in their timings.

However, these gallopers have to work more minutes to accomplish the same results next year. A year ago capable reserves were plentiful at Georgia. The supply is a bit shorter this season. Paris, Butler, McCarty are good substitute quarterbacks but very light. Hill, Cook, Stein and Cox saw service as carriers last year, and so will do many miles this year. Promising sophomores are Johnson, Waugh, Myers and Jackson. Georgia's rush line, in spite of the loss of Nash and Shiver, scintillating pair of ends, will be a creditable unit. Joe Martin, derelict to Tom Nash last year will win the regular assignment this trip. To replace Shiver a young giant, "Red" Smith, punger, is being groomed for average in ability. Another recruit who may catch on later regular is Fred Nixon, 193, a substitute tackle last year and was taught a great deal end play in Spring practice. Kelly, Palmer, Maffett, Kelly, McTigue are other candidates. The coaches spent a busy Spring training and have not caught napping.

Glenn Lautzenheiser is the cran tackle who surprised and him. In all probability will be Theo Frisbie, a substitute this year. Stelling, Bryant at T. Roy Jacobson and Gene Haley veteran guards. Joe Boland is again at his pivot position five pounds heavier and more formidable than ever.

Georgia coaches took no chances having their men go state started practice a week later than the rest of the country. The club will reach an early peak in time for the game in the Bowl Oct. 12. Half dogs years to repeat last year's triumph and to win twice in succession. As a few—assignment Georgia Tech, Auburn, Florida, Alabama and Georgia Tech two games are at once the lion marks and the objective Georgia's campaign.

Norris Reiterates Election Neutrality

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(INS)—Senator Norris of Nebraska progressive leader, said today he was maintaining a attitude of strict neutrality in the presidential election. He said he would never make a statement that I would take the stand Gov. Smith," Norris declared. "I don't know yet what I am going to do."

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 28.

Pope Pius has given five thousand dollars to the relief fund. Hear! Hear! Cries of buying Florida for All!

We can call it a "whispering campaign" if we want to but it begins to sound as if it were being shouted from the housetops.

The Palm Beach Times suggests a good way to remember the hurricane date. "It was the Sunday before Yom Kipper in the year 5699."

The poultry business must be good in West Florida. According to the Miami Herald those people out there egged cats on and then egged him to stop.

The Hastings Herald is bragging about having escaped the storm. If that hurricane had hit near Hastings there'd been potato saffice all over the state.

The Tampa Tribune is urging the Seminole Indians to vote for the Democratic nominee. There's loyal support for you, The Tribune is leaving no stone unturned.

Apparently there is little interest in Sanford in the national election—at least very few are taking advantage of The Sanford Forum to air their views. This column is open to all and we would be glad to learn what more of our citizens think.

Twenty-four more policemen were locked up recently as a result of bootlegging investigations in Philadelphia. But the "nice" people who bought the liquor from the bootleggers who bribed the policemen are still "nice" people.

For our part we can't see that it makes much difference whether they leave Loch and Leopold in prison or give them a pardon. If they are left in prison they will be getting what the court decreed; if they are turned loose, someone will chop their ears off.

Al Capone has given five hundred dollars to the Miami relief fund for the storm sufferers. A few months ago Miamians were about to throw the Chicago gangster out on his neck, but they very graciously accept his check. Which, after all, may be as it should be.

One of the main differences? It seems to us, between an optimist and a pessimist is that the former sees trouble coming and is ready for it when it arrives while the latter doesn't know that trouble exists until it hits him, then he spends the rest of his life griping about it.

They say the fish in the St. Johns near Deland are dying from the tannic acid in the water. Tannic acid is something new in moonshine they're using now over in that section, and we understand there are a couple of fish over there who have been dead for years. Deland is a first class town with a fine college, but those fish ought to know better than to drink tannic acid. Perhaps they're suckers.

Ruth Bryan Owen is pretty busy these days trying to keep her position clear in regard to the national ticket and trying to prevent questionable friends from throwing a smoke screen around it. As a true and loyal Democrat Mrs. Owen will support the Democratic ticket, but she will not take the stump for Al Smith in North Carolina or any other state, a report which is as frequently repeated as it is grievously erroneous.

A local Democratic club will be organized here Monday night. Many loyal Democrats will join and lend their heartiest support. Many others, equally as loyal, would like to join, and probably will, if they are allowed to without being forced to perjure themselves, or otherwise violate their principles or the edicts of their consciences. It should be enough in a year like this to vote the Democratic ticket throughout, without having to shout one's head off for it.

The Way Of A Democrat

According to an announcement issued yesterday by R. J. Holly, secretary of the County Democratic Executive Committee, Democrats of this county will meet Monday night for the purpose of forming a local Democratic club. As we understand it the club will be similar to Democratic clubs now being organized in other counties, and its purpose will be to aid the regular Democratic nominees in their fight against the Republicans.

That we have need of such a club in Seminole County is shown not only by frequent reports emanating from the headquarters of the "Sitting Sons of Rest," where it seems that a large number of old time Democrats are looking with favor upon the Hoover candidacy, but also, and more conclusively, by the straw vote recently conducted by The Herald which showed beyond all question of doubt the disfavor with which the Democratic presidential nominee is regarded in this county. The vote went nearly two and a half to one against Smith.

We believe that this very obvious advantage of the Republican candidate can be to a large extent overcome by the right kind of work on the part of a well organized and properly managed Democratic club. We feel sure that the proper application of sensible methods will return to the fold many Democrats who have been inclined to stray at the first thought of voting for Al Smith.

If this Democratic club will appeal to the people of Seminole County in the name of party loyalty and party principle, if it will come to them with entreaties to preserve the party of the South, the party of their fathers, the party of Jefferson and Jackson, showing them that by deserting they are forsaking beloved traditions, to align themselves with a party always hostile to the South, we are confident its pleas will be heard and the banner of Democracy will continue to wave triumphantly over this section.

But if the plan of action determined upon by this club is to cut for its members a large number of thoroughly tested rawhide whips, to beat and bully bolting Democrats back into the line, to use coercion instead of persuasion, to threaten instead of plead, we fear it will discover that the bolters on November 6 will be in the majority. This is no time for rabid thoughts or hasty actions, no time for ridicule or condemnation; if the party is to be saved, it must be saved by the appeal of deliberate argument.

The Democratic club must not lose sight of the fact that this is more than just a presidential election. It must remember that there is a Republican gubernatorial nominee, and a Republican congressional nominee in the field. While it is inconceivable at this time that either of them has the slightest chance of election, it is not inconceivable that Democratic threats of excommunication hurled heedlessly against conscientious bolters may result in complete disaster for the whole ticket.

This is certainly the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party, but it is also the time for Democratic leaders to use their heads.

Newspaper Errors

A friend of The Herald writes to say that among misspelled words found in a recent issue were "hte," which our friend informs us should have been "hte," "charga" which should have been "charges," and "attorney," which is properly spelled with two "t's." Needless to say we appreciate these little suggestions, knowing as we do that they come from the heart. By constant reference to Mr. Webster's well known literary work, we hoped to grow better.

Bob Holland, writing in the Miami Herald speaks of recurrent errors in newspapers, and shows to some extent the lengths to which editors go in their attempt to weed out mistakes. Perhaps his article would be interesting to some of our readers who think it would be so easy to turn out a flawless newspaper. It follows:

"Newspapers make errors—too many in fact. Some are purely mechanical like the use of 'prescribe' for 'proscribe' in The Herald editorial mentioned by my correspondent. Some are due to carelessness and some can be attributed only to ignorance. Such was the case in an item a few days ago in which 'balanced' was used in the sense of 'remainder'."

"Most newspapers try to use good language and to use words properly. In metropolitan newspaper offices there are 'style' books that embody the rules that are to be followed in writing and in setting type. Some of these rules are merely designed to enforce a uniform manner of spelling, punctuation and capitalization."

"Some papers spell out numbers less than 10 and others don't use figures except for numbers higher than 100. Some spell out ages and some use figures. Some print it Fourth street, some Fourth Street, others make it Fourth St., Fourth st., or Fourth-St. Any of these forms can be defended by usage but no newspaper wants to have different forms appearing in the same column or perhaps the same item."

"Men who make these rules are merely human and they often make mistakes. James Gordon Bennett was cranky about the use of words in The New York Herald and had a tremendously long list of 'don'ts.' He would not allow many words to be used at all and many others could be used only with a restricted meaning. He would not permit the word 'during' to be used except in the sense of meaning 'the entire time.'"

"To say that one was in Europe 'during the war' meant from start to finish. In this Mr. Bennett and the greatest lexicographers clashed but Bennett won so far as The Herald was concerned. I once knew a new copyreader to be fined $5 for passing the phrase, 'Neither of the three.' The rules said that 'neither' or 'either' could be applied only to one of two. Again the newspaper rules disagreed with the dictionaries."

"Mr. Bennett would not allow the definite article 'the' before a noun telling a man's occupation. It was never Nat Goodwin, 'the' actor, but was Nat Goodwin, 'an' actor."

A CALL TO ARMS

Tuesday morning's Herald carried a news item from Sanford in regard to a straw vote taken there in that city by the Sanford Herald. While straw votes are not conclusive, they are yet indicative, like the proverbial straw, of the direction the wind is blowing. According to this vote, Hoover polled 361 votes, as compared with 165 for Smith, giving Hoover a lead of nearly one-half to one. Of the 516 votes cast, 412 were cast by voters who ordinarily are democrats. Only 96 of the 516 voters were republican. It would appear, therefore, that 275 democrats out of a total of 412, or 66 2/3 per cent of the democratic voters in Sanford, so far as they recorded their votes in this straw ballot, intend to vote for Herbert Hoover. If this

Telling The World

By NEAL O'HARA

The Department of Commerce has received a friendly warning that Hollywood's leading product misrepresents America to the world. It is true that movies made in this country and exhibited abroad create a foreign demand for American goods. But they also cause foreigners to think that all Americans are cowboys by trade and live in marble museums at night.

This complaint is very serious. For if Europe casts up all impressions that are tossed on the screen, then they will naturally think that Hollywood is America, that Yankee damsel year nothing but one-piece bathing suits and John Gilbert in President of the United States.

It is too bad that Europe thinks of us this way. Because the movies do not any more portray America than the Smith Brothers represent our shaving habits.

If foreigners are suckers enough to believe all they see in the movies, they think Americans are cross-eyed like Ben Turpin or wear false glasses like Harold Lloyd. This is not by any means the case, as our opticians are far from doing a rushing business.

If they believe all they see in the movies, Tom Mix's pony is smarter than the average Londoner and Charley Farrell touches off more heart throbs than the Prince of Wales.

If they believe everything they see in the films, an American crook can't make a getaway from the cops without upsetting twenty-eight apple carts, falling into seven manholes and knocking down fifteen ladders with painters on them.

We have been given a raw deal on the celluloid strips. No country could possibly be as rich and tough as we are on the screen and only control one hemisphere.

According to our gelatine output, America is a collection of mob scenes surrounded by megaphones. Forty thousand barrels of glycerine portray our National emotion and the world's supply of oil is in our hair.

You know that this is not so. But what about the Chinese coolie and the Argentine gaucho who pay their yen and pesos this very night to see "Should a Woman Tell?"

If all American ladies are like Clara Bow, that is the reason foreigners can never come to America in business unless accompanied by their wives.

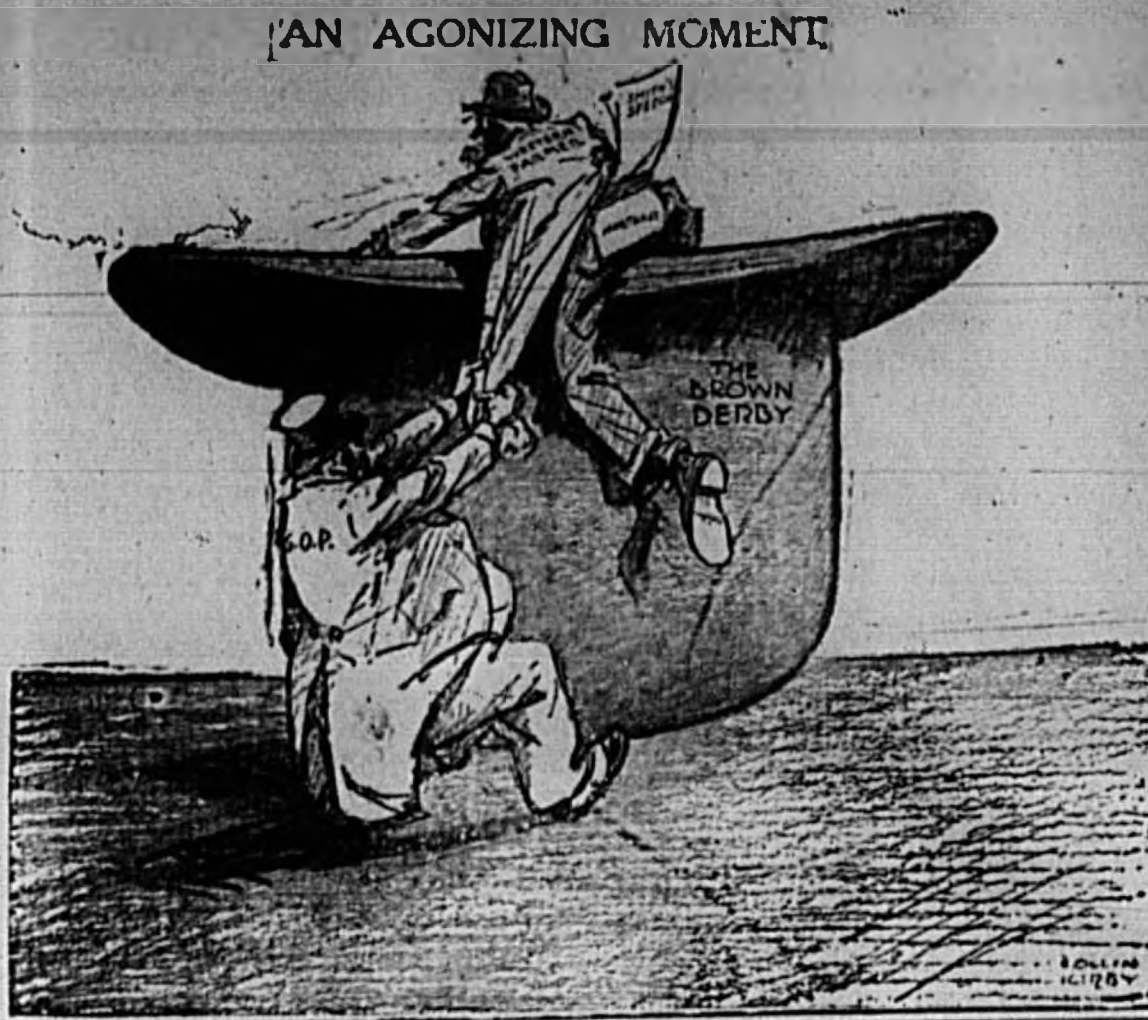

This matter of misrepresentation is well worth thinking over. Let's not have outside nations think we live in limestone mansions with twenty butlers until they've got their debts paid.

It is really dangerous to let the movies misrepresent us so. Our pictures prove we are the smartest people on earth. And then our subtitles prove we are the dumbest. That is all wrong. Or is it?

Our photo plays undeniably give the wrong impression of American life. In the films they always get the right telephone number the first time. They always get a taxi cab the first time they hail one on a rainy night.

All these things stretch the credence of us native borns, but think what they do to foreigners. It makes them think this is the promised land and they pack their trunks to come here. And every foreigner that crashes the gate at Ellis Island makes one more wrong number you're liable to get, one more waiter that's liable to insult you and one more guy to step into a taxicab ahead of you.

The movies are certainly to blame for what ails us.

New Penney Store Draws Big Crowd On Day Of Opening and was gratified at the large number of orders.

"We are most pleased with the response to our invitation to the people of Sanford and Seminole County to visit our new store," Mr. Penney said. "We are delighted with the reception tendered us, and we appreciate the many kind greetings that have been extended."

The first Penney store was opened in 1902 at Kemmerer, Wyo. J. C. Penney, who had a cash investment of $500, and $1,500 obtained through a loan. The growth in business was phenomenal. The business in the first year equalled 37 times the cash investment. In 1927 the cash capital was turned over 300,000 times.

In 1934 the store was in operation. From 1913 the number increased from 34 to 127. The company continued to branch out until now it has more than a thousand branches, the Sanford store being number 977. From a business of $28,000 in 1902, the company's volume for this year is expected to reach $12,000,000.

GOVERNOR NAMES
KNOTT TO FULFIL
PLACE OF LUNING

Treasurer's Death Deprives State Of 1
Nominee In Election

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Sept. 28.—(INS)—Death which Wednesday removed John C. Luning as treasurer and insurance commissioner also deprived the Democratic Party of a nominee in the general election. Governor Martin last night named W. V. Knott as state auditor to fill Luning's vacancy but this only holds good for the present term.

Knott, R. A. Gray, assistant to Comptroller Ernest Ames and R. Hudson Burr, former chairman of the state rail commission are certain to seek the place. They must act quickly, however, as Secretary of State Crawford announced today that petitions in every one of the 67 counties, and bearing the names of 25 voters must be filed in the counties within the next six days.

Attorney General Davis holds that the candidates have until within 20 days of the general election to do this. Governor Martin in appointing Knott issued a statement saying he regretted acting so soon after Luning's death and before his funeral, but that further delay would deprive the Democrats of the opportunity of filling the treasurer's office. F. A. Stroup, prominent fish merchant of Kissimmee, is the Republican nominee for the place.

Florida's officialdom today mourned the deaths of two of the state's servants, one of them inactive in recent years, who died yesterday.

A few hours after a telegram notified Governor John W. Martin of the sudden death in Rapid City, S. D., of State Treasurer John C. Luning word was received of the passing of Judge William Bailey Lamar, 75, congressman for three terms and former state attorney general.

Strangely enough, both, apparently, were victims of a failing heart, although Judge Lamar had been in serious condition at his winter home at Thomsville, Ga., for several weeks. He had foregone his usual summer in Washington, D. C., because of the ailment.

Judge Lamar was born near Monticello, and was graduated from the University of Georgia, entering the practice of law in his home town. He served the state as attorney general for 14 years, and from 1904 to 1912 served as representative in the national congress.

He returned to Atlanta, the home of his wife, who was Mrs. Ethel Toy Healey, to live for several years. While there he served as United States commissioner to the Pan-American exposition in San Francisco. Since 1914 the Lamars had made their home in Washington and Thomasville, alternately. Besides Mrs. Lamar, the jurist is survived by a brother, Jefferson, of Athens. Funeral services will be held in Atlanta, although complete arrangements have not been made.

Carl Williams Will Leave Police Forces

After serving for three and a half years as a member of the Sanford Police Department, Carl E. Williams, motorcycle officer, has tendered his resignation to take effect on Oct. 1, according to an announcement today by Chief of Police Roy G. Williams.

Mr. Williams leaves the police force to engage in private business, having leased the Used Parts Service Station, Sanford and Geneva Avenues. He will act as manager of the establishment.

Mr. Williams came to Sanford four years ago from Jasper, Ala., his home. Shortly afterwards he joined the Police Department, serving first as a patrolman and later transferring to the traffic division.

said he had no suspicions as to the identity of his captors.

According to a story obtained by the authorities from Morella, a large touring car, said to have been a Packard, stopped in front of his place of business shortly after 8 o'clock last night. A man jumped out of the machine, entered the stand and purchased a package of cigarettes. Four other men followed and ordered Morella to get into the machine. He resisted and said he was hit across the head with a blunt instrument.

The man is believed to have been taken into the woods somewhere in the vicinity of Longwood although Morella could offer no accurate information as to the place. After being kept in custody for more than two hours, he was left on the highway and told not to move or make an outcry until the car was out of sight. Morella said he made his way to Longwood, where he caught a ride to Sanford.

Returning home about 11 o'clock, Morella said he went to bed in the rear of his shop. Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning another car, said to have been a Chevrolet, stopped for an instant in front of the place while its occupants emptied five charges from an automatic shotgun. Police believed this was an additional warning for Morella to leave town, although they expressed the belief that occupants of the second car were not the men who composed the kidnaping party.

Plans 310-Mile an-Hour Flight

by George H. Witte
A "windmill" has flown across the English Channel.

Senor de la Cierva has been experimenting with his autogyro airplane for ten years, and made his first test flights at Farnborough, England, in 1920. These test flights aroused skepticism among the aviation experts who witnessed them. But the young Spaniard persevered, receiving support from some powerful British financial interests, and a short time later the Cierva Company was organized.

Cierva continued his tests, and eventually the attention of the British Air Ministry was drawn to the autogyro. Military experts went to attend these tests in 1925 and were so deeply impressed and their reports on the new invention ordered several machines.

In August, 1925, the first of the autogyros ordered by the Air Ministry was given its official test at Hangle Aldrome, near Southampton, with Capt. Frank T. Courtney who recently attempted to fly the Atlantic from east to west, acting as test pilot.

The fuselage or body of this autogyro was that of a standard Avro, which, however, was equipped with a reinforced undercarriage to enable it to withstand the heavy landing if the plane should settle down too suddenly. The plane was a one-seater and equipped with a 100-horsepower Clarkett aircooled rotary engine.

Instead of having one or two sets of wide wings, such as every normal airplane has, the autogyro has a small wing resembling a large paddle on each side.

But the outstanding features, and that which gives it the name "windmill" plane, are the four narrow wing sections revolving horizontally about a central pivot mounted on the fuselage behind the cockpit at a point corresponding to the thorax of an insect.

The area of the four blades is 160 square feet, and the rate of revolution about 135 per minute.

Making the test, Capt. Courtney climbed into the seat and started the engine. Then a crew of mechanics pulled a wire cable, causing the blades to revolve. When the blades were in motion, Courtney began to taxi across the field, just lifting his tail skid, clear of the ground. As the forward motion multiplied the revolution of the windmill, a run of approximately 120 yards is required to bring the windmill to a speed sufficient to make flight possible.

The first test showed that the blades do not draw the machine upward as a helicopter is supposed to do; they merely take the place of wings, and the pilot is enabled to climb or dive by manipulating an ordinary elevator hinged to the tail plane.

When Courtney undertook his second flight, a newspaper was spread on the ground and he attempted to light upon it. When he came down, he missed this mark by about ten yards only.

Capt. Courtney said afterward that the machine was practically "fool-proof," that it was almost impossible to crash it and equally impossible to wreck it through a "fall" due to loss of flying speed. He was emphatic in his praise of the facility with which the autogyro could be flown. He explained that no delicacy of touch was required to keep it balanced, adding: "All the pilot has to do is to steer it in an up or down direction with his horizontal tail planes or to right or left with his vertical tail planes."

"One of its chief qualities is that it cannot stall, and if a reverse gear were fitted to it, it would fly backward just as easily as it would fly forward."

The young inventor himself explained that he had first conceived of the plan for the autogyro in 1920.

"I was then studying a means," he said, "by which might be eliminated the risks which, in certain circumstances, are connected with a loss of speed in ordinary planes. It was my conclusion that before flying could become really safe, it was necessary to build a machine automatically stable, one which could descend, shortly after engine failure and land on a very small field or even on a house top."

"With these objects in view, I built six machines. At first I found difficulty in attaining stability and it was not until I was engaged upon the design of a fourth machine that I hit upon the idea of using articulated blades in the lifting windmill. Not only did this increase the efficiency of the gyro to an extent beyond my expectations, but it gave automatic stability."

"It is my belief that my method of flight in heavier-than-air craft

RAINS IN GLADES RETARD WORK OF REPAIRING FARMS

New Towns Are Rising On Shores Of Lake In Okeechobee Area

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 28. (INS)—With the extension of the continuing the emergency period following the Florida hurricane virtually has passed, A. Schafer, director of relief for the American National Red Cross, declared today.

One of the principal problems in relief organizations are facing is the question of the length of time before farmers can return to their farms.

The rains have been much heavier than evaporation lately, and the situation is worse rather than improved. It may be weeks or months before the farmers can be sent back to work, Schafer admitted.

On the shores of Lake Okeechobee, however, new towns are rising through the smoke of the funeral pyres, and as far as possible repairs and reconstruction are under way.

Searchers for bodies now are rendering their efforts toward the search the inundated lowlands have been pretty well covered.

The first step in the rehabilitation of the area, since the work was hampered by the national organization will be the investigations of reports for aid, and a survey of necessities, Schafer said.

The Red Cross chief here said reports from Washington indicate that money is not coming in as fast as expected. He attributed the situation to the fact that many persons apparently believe the damage confined to the winter season, Palm Beach. The storm damage, he pointed out, is heavy dollars but the burden of that rests on the owners of the extensive homes. However there are thousands of persons from the farm industrial area in and around Palm Beach and Lake Okeechobee who have lost virtually everything they own. Even outside Palm Beach the damage is estimated at more than $55,000,000. And the number of lives lost is near 2,000. If this fact is realized, the people of the nation may loosen their purse strings to a greater extent Schafer believes.

HIGH SCHOOL HAS HARD SCHEDULE FOR THIS SEASON

Another Fast Practice Session Is Held On Thursday Afternoon

By PETER SCHAAL. Yesterday's practice session at Seminole High field was one of the brisk and snappiest of the season. Coach Welch sending the boys through an afternoon of intensive signal drilling, introducing a couple of new plays also for the first time, giving them a touch of forward passing.

Tackling and clipping also came in for considerable attention as the mentor opened the session with Jack Peters kicking them high and Peters kicking them high and handsome to a string of fast backs down the field who were to recover and bring them back against the efforts of two tacklers. From some of the vicious tackling made yesterday at least some of the boys are learning how to return punts despite enemy tacklers.

Hester was back in uniform after an absence of several days due to a boil, and was as fast as ever. He is certain to be one of the most valuable men on the team. For the benefit of the fans who haven't seen what sort of opposition the team has this year, here is the schedule:

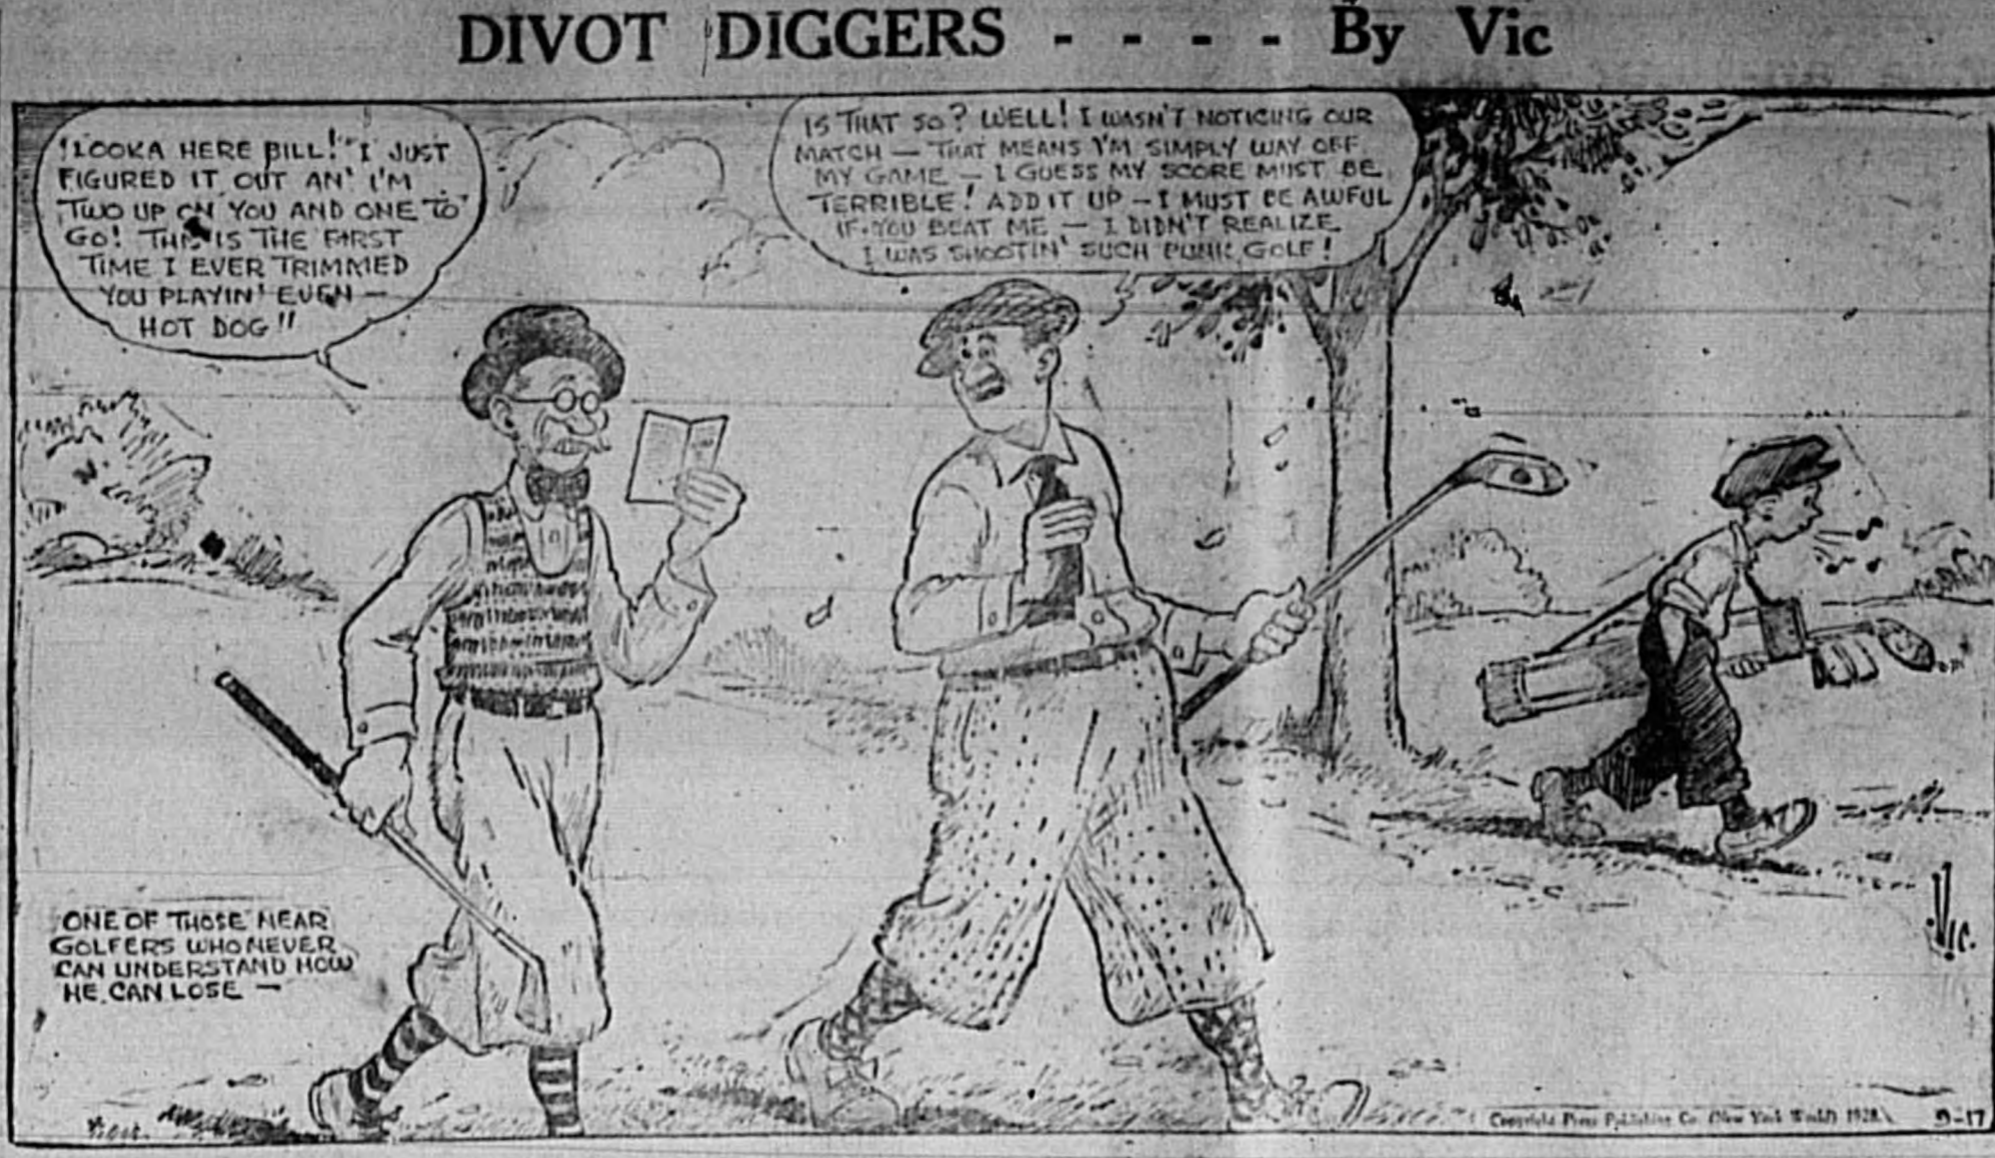

Oct. 6 Rollins Rats Here
Oct. 13 Winter Garden There
Oct. 20 Mt. Verde Here
Oct. 27 St. Cloud There
Nov. 3 Deland Here
Nov. 10 Orlando Here
Nov. 17 Palatka There
Nov. 24 Kissimmee Here
Nov. 29 Leesburg Here

There are nine games against as representative a list of high schools as can be found in this section, and six of them to be played in Sanford. It is the best rounded out schedule the local team has ever had, and they are determined to make a clean sweep of it. Sounds ambitious and is ambitious, but prospects were never brighter to do just that thing.

The opening game next week against the Rollins Rats should prove one of the most interesting of the entire series as in it Coach Welch will do his experimenting, trying out new formations, pairing some of those backs into smooth running teams, and in general getting them into line or the season. Then come three fairly easy games, although the hard-boiled Winter Garden boys always give a scrappy fight and Mt. Verde and St. Cloud live up to the reputation of Sanford. Those games should see the team round into shape for the final drive against the five remaining strong opponents.

Deland returns to the schedule after a two-year absence and reports are that the Volusia boys have their best team in four years. Then comes the annual big battle of the season, the Orlando game. This year it will be the hardest one of all. This hard struggle, however, leads right into another following week as the boys journey to Palatka to tackle Coach Cecil Beck's Maroons, always a thorn in the side of ambitious teams. This is Beck's first year in Palatka, but he has most of the last year's team back and enough new men to give him two teams scrimmaging on the field each day.

The team then comes back home for an affair with the Cowpunchers of Kissimmee, and that game is always a terror. They host two of the fastest backs ever seen in Central Florida and are out to win every game on their schedule. And to close the season, the Leesburg Yellow Jackets visit here since their schedule includes such games as Lakeland, Gainesville, Jacksonville, and other strong teams. Local fans are sure to see a tough struggle.

Yanks Take Two Straight To Strengthen Hold Upon American League Pennant

Giants Break Even While Cards Are Winning From Boston Braves To Increase Their Lead Over McGraw's Men to 1 Game

By Davis J. Walsh. International News Service Sports Editor. NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Just between one blindfold tester and another, it is the writer's disquieting story this morning that five things, still can happen to the conical situation in the National League before its conclusion, three games and two days hence. It simply isn't my fault, either that about six or seven of them can happen to John McGraw.

He clocked his own "counter" very deftly with his countenance yesterday. He failed to bring his Giants home to anything better than a cut down the middle with the Cubs while the Cardinals were running all over the Braves up in Boston. As a result, the Cards again were one game in front this morning, this time with only three to play. The Giants now find that they must take the next two from the Cubs in order to be certain of making Sunday's finale with the Cards mean the slightest thing at the pay off.

So much for the National League. The Yankees twice defeated the Tigers yesterday, so little for the American. The circumstance just about paced the Yanks in the position of being dormant two and a half. If I fail to make myself clear, this ordinarily means about six and seven cents in American money. However, it will mean a quarter of a million to the Yankees for it almost assured them of the pennant.

Two and a half games in front, with only three to play; they are in the unnumbered position of needing only one more victory for themselves or one more defeat for the Athletics to make the matter definite and official.

But the National League stretch drive still goes merrily onward and quite possibly will be at it still by Sunday morning. There are several eventualities that can produce this effect. One of them would make the two contenders win both of their remaining games against outside opposition and then play each other to the death on Sunday. The same thing can happen if each win and lose a game, en route also, if each lost two. In each of these surmises, however, it may be noted that the Giants must give the rap to the situation all the way. From now on, they merely are fighting for a tie.

They could get it by Saturday night by breaking even in the next two with the Cubs provided the Cards lost two to the Braves. And they even could go into the lead by winning two while the Cards were blowing two. You don't want to cry yet, either, that Florida might be very good for that school girl complexion. All we know is that stranger things haven't happened and won't until the Cards lost two straight to the Braves.

BABE RUTH GETS 2 HOMERS WHILE YANKS WIN AGAIN

Crippled Home Run Hitter Slams Ball For 2 Circuit Journeys

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The American League corner may perform an autopsy upon the Philadelphia Athletics this afternoon. Cause of death, if the patient succumbs, may be a New York victory over the Detroit Tigers today. A Chicago triumph over the A's or both.

Which is to say that the Yankees will clinch their third successive pennant race and in the World Series, the club's hospital list was augmented by an injury to Earl Combs, center fielder. He crashed against a concrete wall and sprained his right wrist.

The Yanks took 12 out of 22 games with the Tigers this year and have captured their season's series with every club in the league. No team in the National League can boast of a similar record.

New projects in India are expected to increase the total area under irrigation in that country to 40,000,000 acres.

President Doumergue Finds Joyment In Quiet Sojourn at Rambouillet, Near Paris

French Executive Keeps In Excellent Form With Long Rambles In Woods; Maintains Strict Schedule Of Daily Activities

Sept. 28.—(INS)—President Doumergue head of the French government is once more spending his days at Rambouillet, a few miles from the capital. Prisoner of business, he is not allowed to go far from the center of his seven long years' reign.

He keeps himself in the pink of health by long rambles through the forest which he knows better than the other. Every day he rises early and starts off on his paths, invariably winding through the woods where he chats with his friends.

At 10 o'clock sharp "Gaston" and his friends all call him to the chateau. He is back at the chateau, and with a cold bath and a cup of coffee and a slice of bread with butter. Then he reads the mail-bag from the Elysee and he retires to his little study which was once a boudoir of the Empress when she had the chateau to live at Rambouillet.

At the midday meal, which he takes with his private secretary, the President retires to his study where he spends the afternoon. He is an insatiable reader on the table there is always a paper-cutter and a pair of scissors. He reads the news, together with two or three of the most important papers of the day. He reads the radio, and he reads the newspaper. He reads the newspaper, and he reads the newspaper.

There is some special business to do. He finds the President in the morning, for "Early to bed and early to rise" is the motto.

At the Premier, Monsieur Poincaré, also taking a much-needed rest after steady work for two years. He has gone to his residence at Sampigny, in the Ardennes.

Prime Minister is just beginning to feel the effects of the great depression displayed since he took office in 1926 and was urged to resign for at least three years.

He remains within his private quarters practically all of the time. The fact that curious visitors are ever awaiting a glimpse of the President, even his own family, are not idle ones. He is saving the Budget to be presented to Parliament next fall.

The person in the entire Paris who does not have a holiday, no matter what the occasion, is the President's valet. Small cobblers who have a hole in the wall have signs to indicate they will be open for a fortnight. The dentist of town, trusting no one else, has a sign for a few days. Shops of all kinds have boarded up their fronts one of the city authorities. All along the ordinary business of the city is being conducted as usual. The Pantheon is open to the public. The Pantheon is open to the public. The Pantheon is open to the public.

Sept. 28.—(INS)—The shooting of a woman in the street has been the person who was shot by a Belgian soldier at face value where they are only a few cents.

Power And Light Company Performs Big Feats After Storm

WEST PALM BEACH, Sept. 28.—Throughout the storm area the Florida Power and Light company is getting results. A large force of trained linemen and trouble shooters from many parts of the south are working night and day to recondition lines damaged or destroyed by the storm Sunday.

One of their greatest achievements from a public standpoint was that of reaching the West Palm Beach water company Monday with an emergency line, thus providing pure water to all parts of West Palm Beach and Palm Beach without delay and avoiding much danger of disease.

According to Clarence H. Ellis, division manager of the company the following has been connected by the company to date:

West Palm Beach: Water company, hospital, Red Cross, hotels, churches, apartment houses, relief stations, stores, restaurants, railroad stations, ice plants, creamery and a number of residences. City inspector is accompanying crews connecting with private systems to expedite service and prevent fires through short circuits.

Delray: Lights in business section, hotels, city building and cession in residences.

Oklawaha City: Lights in business section. Power to waterworks but unable to operate because of the mud covering machinery. Power company employees were assisting the city in removing the mud and expected to have the plant in operation by midnight last night.

Stuart: Court house, water works hospital and major portion of downtown business section connected.

Boynton: Lights in business section and nearby residences.

Palm Beach: All larger hotels and a number of residences connected.

The large crew of men already on hand here is being augmented with reinforcements every day. Experienced linemen are being mobilized in Georgia, New Orleans, Alabama, Tennessee and the Carolinas, according to E. P. Johnson, assistant chief engineer of the general office of Miami who is now in charge of reconstruction work.

Mr. Johnson stated that word was dispatched to Joe H. Gill, vice president and general manager, who just prior to the storm went to North Carolina for a brief vacation that the tropical storm was heading for the West Palm Beach district. Mr. Gill proceeded to Atlanta and immediately communicated by wire with utilities executives to mobilize and send to West Palm Beach every available linemen with the result that every day is bringing into the territory additional crews.

C. H. Ellis and L. K. Doutrick were on the job at the beginning of the storm caring for refugees. Despite the fact that Mr. Doutrick was hit on the nose by a flying missile he had only eight hours sleep in snatches since Saturday night. "This is the spirit with which employees of the Florida Power and Light company have rendered service to those in distress and in reconditioning service," Mr. Johnson stated.

The company warehouse was transformed into a refugee camp. About 165 women and children have found shelter there while D. P. McKinnin, head of the right of way department acted as chief cook and head waiter. The refugees were fed and given dry clothing brought from Miami and then turned over to the Red Cross.

Miss Pauline Fletcher, the company nurse from Miami gave first aid and inoculated hundreds with anti-typhoid serum. S. R. Inch, president, G. C. Estell, general superintendent, D. H. Watson, chief engineer, Ralph V. Pool, head of the ice department, J. H. White power department, E. H. Reynolds safety department, E. E. Grove claim department, commissary chief, F. M. Demo, distribution department, all high officials in the company were on the job from the first.

FOR PICTURE DRESSES Printed tulle and lawn over with flowered motifs is included among the fall silks intended for the picture-tricks now favored by the youthful women. A second quite different fabric also suitable to this type of dress is a new soft-yet-stiff silk velvet.

THE SANFORD ATLANTIC NATIONAL BANK
Bakers of Kew-Bee Bread
ABC BAKERY

The thought we want to drive home to you in this letter is: The Quality Products of QUALITY BAKERS ARE GENERALLY WORTH MORE THAN THE PRICE CHARGED FOR THEM, BECAUSE THERE IS A GREAT DEAL MORE PUT INTO THEM THAN THE MERE THOUGHT OF HOW MUCH MONEY CAN BE TAKEN FROM THE PUBLIC FOR THEM.

Quality Bakers of America, representing as they do, the combined knowledge and experiences of 30 wholesale bakers, are the last word in production, we firmly believe.

Who will deny the result that must come from the united BEST EFFORTS of 30 GOOD BAKERS!

Does it not stand to reason that these united efforts will produce a better quality than the best efforts of any one individual no matter how skillful he may be?

You know, out of your own experience, what you get in confidence called for the purpose of doing upon some course of action that will best put over something in which all of you are greatly interested—whether it is a plan for a big church or social function, or some civic movement that will help your community.

You know that one person, no matter how wonderfully gifted for leadership he or she may be, is absolutely helpless without the hearty co-operation of his or her followers, as expressed in sincere, earnest work.

We 30 members of Quality Bakers of America are in touch with one another continuously through our Central Service Bureau, which is maintained to keep all of us on our toes in conducting our plants so to be able every day to serve the public through the grocers in our respective territories with a Uniform Quality Product.

We thus keep ourselves in the position of knowing at all times that we are serving Quality Product, which is not excelled in any particular by that of other good bakers. Result: We do not have to worry about competition. The only man in any line of business that has to worry about competition is the one who is not sure of his own products.

Quality always stands every test as you know, and it is always accepted by the people on its merits without regard to price.

Do a little thinking on your own account about the paragraph printed at the top of this column. Find out from yourself whether you are really interested more in Quality and in honest prices than you are in something that is cheap, and which is often bought on the theory that IT WILL DO, even though in your opinion you know you are cheating yourself.

The little things

AWAY back in the year 1757, in his maxims prefixed to Poor Richard's Almanac, Benjamin Franklin said: "For want of a nail, the shoe was lost; for want of a shoe, the horse was lost; and for want of a horse, the rider was lost." So you see the importance of a little thing like a horse-shoe nail!

If you are disposed to neglect the smaller advertisements in this paper, you are making a mistake. You are missing money-saving opportunities. You are missing important information about something that some day you are going to buy. You are throwing away your road-map and following your nose.

The big stores of today were little stores years ago. They used advertising space judiciously and became large. At first, their announcements were smaller than they are today. But these small advertisements told about real values, real savings for their customers.

In other words, the size of an advertisement is no indication of its importance to you. The message is the thing. Some of the most important merchandise news is often printed in tiny type. Even in the largest advertisements you will find small type. Read the small type as well as the big black type. Read the little advertisements as well as the large ones. It pays.

Advertisements come in all sizes—but the smallest one may carry the biggest news for you. Read them all.

The first thousand miles

This year . . . your choice of motor oils is second only in importance to your choice of cars.

For engines of 1928 are faster . . . they "turn over" more times in a given second. They run hotter . . . more explosions . . . higher compressions. Only a motor oil with full viscous body can "stand up" under this high-speed heat; only a motor oil as fine as golden Texaco can give your new engine the thorough lubrication it must have at all times . . . under all circumstances.

More than ever this year, the first 1,000 miles . . . and the oil you use . . . will determine your engine's performance during each of the thousands of miles to come.

From the first mile on, use Texaco Motor Oil. Free of tars, of paraffin wax and cylinder stock, Texaco flows in coldest winter . . . lubricates thoroughly and dependably at all temperatures.

Wherever you see the Red Star and Green T, ask to see the Texaco Lubrication Chart. It will specify the grade of Texaco Golden Motor Oil authorized for your new engine.
