School Board Set To Decide School Buildings' Future

Will Crooms High School become an elementary school? School Board members are to decide Wednesday.

The controversial question of what to do with the Crooms High School buildings is scheduled to be resolved at the Seminole County School Board's meeting at 3 p.m. Wednesday.

School Superintendent Robert Hughes has recommended that Goldsboro Elementary School be transferred to the Crooms campus and the facility be renamed Crooms Elementary School. But that plan has been opposed by members of the black community who want both the Crooms school and the Goldsboro school to remain intact.

Hughes recommended a work session be held on June 15 to decide what to do with the Goldsboro facility.

Additionally, he wants district officials to study the attendance zones of schools in the Sanford area in an attempt to establish comprehensive elementary schools in the area.

Some students currently attend Goldsboro for kindergarten, then go to Southside Elementary for first through third grades and then return to Goldsboro for fourth and fifth grades.

Originally, Hughes had favored moving Sanford Middle School to the Crooms facility, which will no longer be used as a ninth grade school in 1983-84 when Seminole High School becomes a four-year school.

But there was much opposition to Hughes' plan, particularly from Sanford Middle School Principal Dan Pelham, who said the Crooms facility is not as good as the existing Sanford Middle School.

So Hughes backed off of his position and has proposed instead that property along U.S. Highway 17-92 across from the school be sold by the board and used to finance capital improvements at the school. He said the state Department of Education will be asked to help determine what the school's needs are.

Hughes also proposes to sell 10 acres west of Crooms to fund capital improvements at that campus.

But school board members have not expressed a consensus of support for Hughes' plans.

Jean Bryant wants to use Crooms as a vocational school and other board members have suggested their own variations on Hughes' proposals.

The school board Wednesday afternoon will also try to name a new elementary school planned for construction in Sanford this year.

Mrs. Bryant has proposed the school be named after the late educator Margaret Reynolds. Eight pages of signatures were submitted in support of naming it for Mrs. Reynolds.

Board members received 54 pages of signatures in support of naming the school after former Oviedo and Midway principal William L. Hamilton. He has also been supported by the Oviedo City Commission and the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council.

The names of Mary B. Groome and Velma Mitchell have also been submitted for consideration by the board.

The school will be finished for use in the 1984-85 school year and will replace Sanford Grammar, Hopper and Southside elementary schools.

County Favors Gas Tax

Seminole County commissioners, stymied in attempts to win approval from the county's seven municipalities, may pass a gasoline tax on their own.

Commissioners agreed unanimously Monday afternoon to pass a resolution of intent to levy up to 4 cents per gallon tax which could be used to upgrade county roads.

The proposal would allow county staff officials an opportunity to gather information needed to distribute the tax but would not obligate commissioners to implement it.

In informal meetings with officials from the seven municipalities, Commissioner Sandra Glenn's proposals to divide the county tax have been opposed.

Officials from Sanford have said they favor a plan for a three cent tax to be split between the cities and the county.

The Oviedo City Commissioners voted Monday night to support a 4 cent tax. Lake Mary and Casselberry city commissioners have voted against the tax proposals.

Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff told Mrs. Glenn Monday, "You've done a good job of going out and telling them about it. I think we should pass a resolution of intent to levy."

The statute approved during this session of the Legislature allows the county commission to implement up to 4 cents per gallon gasoline tax on its own if an agreement isn't reached with the cities by July 1.

But they must pass the resolution of intent by July 15 and will make a decision by July 30.

If the county doesn't pass the resolution of intent to levy the tax, cities representing 50 percent of the county's population could put the gas tax issue before the voters.

So commissioners decided to go ahead with the preliminary action and decide next month whether they want the tax.

The public hearing has been set for July 26. If approved, the gas tax would go into effect Sept. 1 and the county would begin receiving funds Oct. 1.

Gas tax could hit gas pumps in Seminole as soon as Sept. 1.

Each penny of the tax would generate $855,000 annually. Commissioners can implement 2 cents of the tax by a majority vote of the five-member commission. Four votes are necessary to levy 3 cents tax and a unanimous vote is necessary to levy a 4-cent tax.

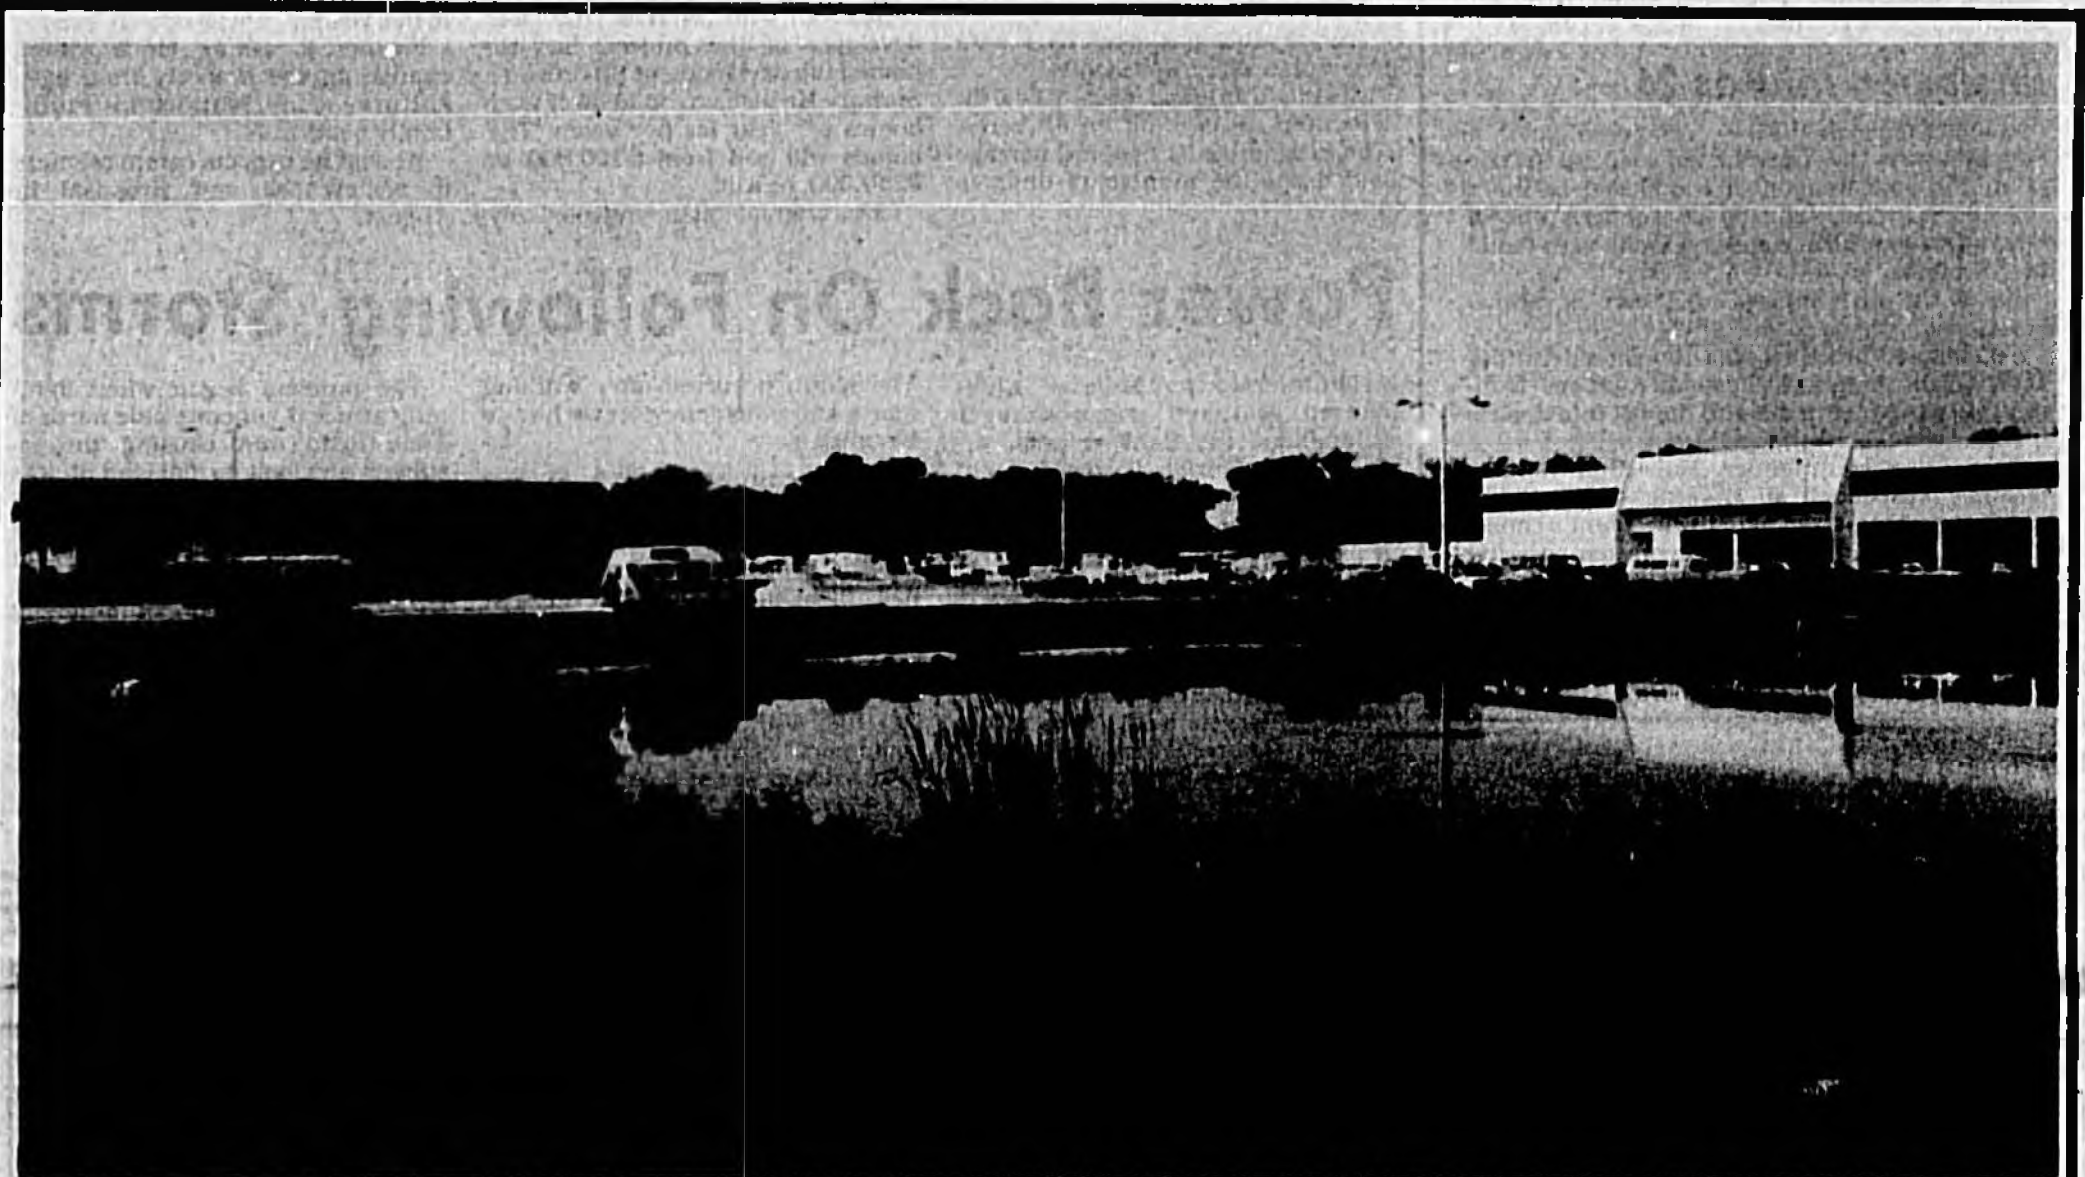

Without an agreement with the cities, commissioners would be able to determine how the tax revenue is distributed following a formula set up by the Legislature. According to the formula, the dollars spent by each municipality and the county on roads and transportation over the past five years will be calculated and each body will get its pro rata share of the total spent in the county during that period.

Commissioner Robert Sturm said the cities have "played politics" by refusing to make an agreement with the county. Their inaction, he said, forces commissioners to make what could be an unpopular decision on their own.

"We have to look at our realities and request the entire 4 cents," Sturm said.

Mrs. Glenn, Sturm and Barbara Christensen have been in favor of a gasoline tax. Robert G. "Bud" Feather has been opposed to a tax unless a priority list of roads to be improved is established. Kirchhoff has not yet taken a stand on the issue.

A construction boom in Seminole County is evidenced by residential and commercial construction throughout the county. A new shopping center is under construction along the west side of U.S. Highway 17-92 just south of State Road 434 in Longwood. According to Seminole County officials, building permits are up by about 30 percent in the county over 1982.

Construction 30% Above Last Year

Boom Under Way Here

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County has shaken free of 1982's recession and is now in the midst of a construction and development boom, according to county officials.

Construction is up by about 30 percent over last year, said Building Official Don Flippin. In terms of dollars, the construction permits have almost doubled over last year's.

Through mid-May, the county had issued $433,987.86 in building permits so far in 1983, up from $253,059.13 during the same period in 1982.

"Most developers held back last year," Flippin said.

All areas of construction including individual dwellings, residential developments and commercial construction are increasing, Flippin said.

The building boom shows no signs of cresting, Flippin said. "We're slowly building up."

There are indications that the boom may not reach its peak until the last three months of the year, he said. An analyst with the state Department of Employment Services has predicted that housing starts will skyrocket in the last quarter of 1983. The boom is expected to last for about five years, according to the analyst.

But Flippin said there are no plans to hire an additional building inspector. "To get new people and train them takes about six months," he said. "By that time the boom may be over."

There is also about a 30 percent increase in the number of developers bringing new projects to the county for approval, according to land management officer Herb Hardin.

Hardin said the most heavily impacted area for new development is along Red Bug Lake Road between Winter Springs and Casselberry. That area has seen tremendous growth over the past few years and the road is described by county and state officials as the top priority for improvement. The corridor along Interstate 4 is also under rapid development.

The rapid development in the county has some negative effects on potential developers, the officials said. The most common effect is delays. It now takes up to a week to get building permits. The lag time is normally three days.

Longer delays are being experienced by developers. Development plans are scrutinized by several county departments and with more projects the delays are longer.

The Seminole County Port Authority, for example, recently reported a one-month delay in getting approval to construct a new building at the port complex west of Sanford.

Another effect of the rapid growth is that more negative recommendations are received, Hardin said. He said the county officials are reluctant to give approval to projects which use county roads, water or sewage systems without developer commitments to pay the cost of new equipment, highway signals or new paving.

Manhunt For Robinson Series Of Dead Ends; Pickup Found

The massive police manhunt resumed today for Clarence Eugene Robinson, a fugitive with a violent past and currently the most wanted man in Florida.

State and federal authorities tracked dozens of leads Monday but ran into dead ends in their search for Robinson, who is charged with wounding two FBI agents last week and is suspected of at least three murders in the last six years.

FBI spokesman Doug Jones said investigators concentrated their search in central Florida, where Robinson's suspected hideout near the site of the shooting in Orange City was uncovered by agents Saturday. Robinson had reportedly lived in the Orlando area for the past year.

A nationwide alert remained for Robinson's arrest, Jones said.

Additional information on Robinson was scheduled to be released at the Volusia County Sheriff's Department

DeLand headquarters today at 2 p.m.

Sheriff's Lt. Ed Carroll said the department hoped to have on display confiscated weapons believed to belong to Robinson.

Early today a man who answered the description of Robinson was stopped by police in Georgia, but Jones said the man only proved to be a look-alike.

FBI agents Monday searched a ranch near St. Cloud and seized a pickup truck and a cache of weapons that they said belonged to Robinson.

Some law enforcement agents have called the stocky, 38-year-old Robinson "the most wanted man" in Florida.

"I guess you could say that," said Jones. "I don't know of a police department in the state not looking for him."

The two agents injured in Friday's shooting at Kitchens' Restaurant in Orange City were transferred out of the intensive care unit at West Volusia Memorial Hospital in DeLand Monday.

Both of the injured agents were reported in stable condition.

Jones said wounded agents Thomas Sobolewski, 40, and Dennis Wicklein, 42, are progressing and said he has not heard at this time that either will suffer permanent damage from their gunshot wounds.

Authorities believed they had Robinson holed up twice in recent days — first in a motel and then at a campground — only to discover he was either gone or was never there in the first place.

Only hours after Friday's shooting, police conducted a room-by-room search of a Deltona motel, where a maid said she saw a man fitting Robinson's description. Authorities found no trace of the man.

SWAT members Saturday surrounded a trailer believed to have been Robinson's residence for the past two months. No one was found in the trailer, but a motorcycle registered to one of Robinson's many aliases was found outside the motor home and authorities were convinced Robinson had lived there.

FBI agents said the pickup truck they seized Monday was on a ranch near U.S. Highway 192 and State Road 15, east of St. Cloud. The truck contained a dozen guns, bulletproof vests, false identification papers and other items.

Robinson is charged with first-degree murder in the 1977 death of a Seminole County reserve deputy sheriff during a drug store robbery in Longwood.

He also is suspected of killing two accomplices in the robbery.

An eighth-grade dropout and a former professional boxer, Robinson has been in and out of jails since the mid-1960s.

IN BRIEF

'It's Time For The Rich To Pay Their Fair Share'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Speaker Thomas O'Neill's proposal to have the rich share "the burden of Reaganomics" by limiting next month's income tax cut to $700 already has been rejected by the White House.

O'Neill, saying the money saved would help reduce the federal deficit, said the plan is an attempt to find middle ground between those who want to eliminate the tax cut altogether and those who want to leave it intact, but the White House said it represents old Democratic policies.

O'Neill said that someone earning $100,000 a year would gain $2,300 from the 10 percent cut in tax rates scheduled to take effect July 1.

"It is time that the burden of Reaganomics is shared by those in the upper income groups," he told reporters before the speech. "For two years, this group has benefited mightily from the Reagan tax program. ... It is time that the rich started to accept their fair share of the burden."

Under O'Neill's plan, every taxpayer would get a 10 percent cut in tax rates, but no one's taxes would be reduced by more than $700. He said the limit, which would affect mainly those earning more than $50,000, would save $6 billion in 1984 and almost $7 billion in 1985.

Explosion Injures 26

EL PASO, Texas (UPI) — The commander of Fort Bliss says the Army should suspend the use of an anti-tank weapon that exploded during a training exercise, injuring 26 soldiers, one of whom was in critical condition today with "total body wounds."

Six of the other injured men were in serious condition.

Officials at Fort Bliss said the shoulder-firing LAW (Light Anti-tank Weapon) exploded Monday, spewing fragments and flames into a class of trainees.

Fort Bliss commander Maj. Gen. James Maloney suspended all training on the LAW pending an investigation of the accident's cause. "I would like to have the weapon (temporarily) suspended across the Army," Maloney said. "We've had the LAW for many years and have had some accidents with it before, but they've all been minor."

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Violent thunderstorms that hurled tornadoes, hail and winds as high as 70 mph from Texas to New York, knocking out power to thousands and blacking out TV stations in the Washington area, moved into the Southeast today. The National Weather Service said the worst storms would be concentrated along the eastern Gulf Coast and into the Florida panhandle, Georgia and the eastern Carolinas. Widespread storms Monday knocked out power in Texas and around Washington, D.C. Thousands of homes in the Washington and Baltimore area remained without power early today. District of Columbia firemen had to rescue people trapped in two elevators at a senior citizens apartment complex. There were no injuries. Tornadoes touched down in central and southern Texas. One twister tore apart farm buildings at Alazan, a tiny town near Nacogdoches. Another snapped off power lines 10 feet above the ground and blew them onto Texas 359 about 40 miles inland from Corpus Christi. A tornado damaged mobile homes at Freer and another touched down at Skidmore, both inland from Corpus Christi. Winds gusted to 70 mph at Laredo, and 4 inches of rain drenched Batesville, 75 miles southwest of San Antonio. In extreme southern Texas, hail the size of baseballs pounded Alice and Kingsville, and golfball-sized hail damaged crops at Cotulla. An evening tornado touched down near Waycross, Georgia, and afternoon storms downed trees and power lines near Binghamton in south central New York. A flood warning remained in effect along the South Platte River in northeast Colorado, where high water closed some roads.

Seminole Board To Spend $60,000 To Find Out

School-Based Management: What Is It?

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

It is expected to take about 18 months and $60,000, but Seminole County School District officials plan to determine what school-based management is and how it can be used in county schools.

"It's going to be a long, involved process that could take as long as three years," administrative trainee Dr. Hortense Evans said.

Funded by a $60,000 grant from the state Department of Education, the district's administrative staff will look at existing policies and determine who has authority for certain functions in the schools, Mrs. Evans said. Those policies will be taken back to the School Board for whatever changes are necessary to implement the school-based management.

Seminole County public schools currently do not have a school-based management program primarily because school officials aren't sure exactly what it is. But by law the district should have such a program, Mrs. Evans said.

The state Legislature required districts to implement school-based management as part of the Accountability Act of 1976.

Mrs. Evans said the philosophy behind the program is that "planning for school needs should be made as close as possible to where the action is." Ideally, principals and citizen committees should meet together to set each school's priorities.

"Our district has never done that," Mrs. Evans said. The prime reason for inaction is because no clear-cut understanding exists of who would be responsible for what function, she said.

"We have 42 schools in this county and there are probably 42 different versions of what school-based management is," she said.

The School Board will be asked to approve the hiring of a program director for the study at its Wednesday meeting and School Superintendent Robert Hughes hopes to hire a director by July 1.

Then the work of examining Seminole County's policies and planning procedures and studying school-based management programs in other counties will begin. But the hardest task will be establishing an individualized plan for Seminole County, Mrs. Evans said.

"School-based management in Orange County isn't what it is in Seminole County. And it shouldn't be," she said. "The needs of the community and the students aren't the same."

Mrs. Evans said district officials want to begin examining programs this summer and by sometime next year establish a school-based management plan in several schools as a pilot project. Several school administrators will also be trained in school-based management procedures.

The study is scheduled to end in January 1985 when district officials plan to begin using the new system.

Commissioner Plans To Try Again For Residential Development OK

It was back to the drawing board last week for Seminole County Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather after a plan to rezone 51.8 acres along the Wekiva River was rejected by commissioners.

And Feather has come back with a new plan with a new name.

Feather's original plan called for 220 units to be built on 43 acres. The new project, ups the acreage and drops the number of units to 180.

His original project, Wekiva Springs Village to be located along Miami Springs Road, was opposed by more than 100 residents of neighboring developments.

Feather, who is now the sole developer of the project, has renamed the development Sweetwater Springs. He plans to build 36 cluster homes per year for five years. The homes will sell from $100,000 to $250,000, he said.

The original plan, rejected by commissioners had Epoch Properties as co-developers and called for apartments to be built on the site. The apartments would have been converted into condominiums in five years.

Feather is asking for a zoning change on the property from agricultural conservation to multifamily residential.

He said he expects commissioners to review the new proposal in August.

Power Back On Following Storms

Thunderstorms Monday night caused scattered power outages throughout the Sanford area, according to Florida Power & Light Co. district manager Bruce Berger.

The largest block of customers were in the Loch Arbor-Idylwild area where the lights were out for an extended period after lightning struck a main power pole at 8 p.m.

Repair crews worked until 4 a.m. in some areas to repair storm damage, Berger said. Areas where outages occurred included greater Sanford, Deltona, and Chuluota.

The storm occurred after working hours and emergency crews had to be called in.

Approximately 4,000 of the company's 21,000 customers were affected by outages of varying lengths of time, Berger said. Most had their power restored in less than 20 minutes, but it took longer for about 500 customers, including about 400 in the Loch Arbor area. Of this 400, all but about 50 customers north of Vihlen Road were back on line by 8 p.m., he said.

The problem began when lightning struck a concrete pole north of State Road 46A causing the insulator and bolt to fall, but it was not easily seen, thus it took some time to isolate the cause of the power failure, Berger said, adding that some customers in the area did not have their power restored until 9:22 p.m.

In other areas, outages were caused by such things as lightning striking transformers or striking trees causing them to fall on the power lines.

Video Game Bandits Pull $300 Heist In Longwood

A male-female team is playing video games in Seminole County, but their object is not to put quarters in the machines but to take them out.

In just one afternoon's work Monday, the pair netted about $300 in quarters from Brucato's Deli and Game Room, 1251 North U.S. Highway 17-82 at State Road 434, Longwood, according to a Seminole County sheriff's report.

The pair cleaned out the coin box of a pool table and hit other video games as well between about noon and 3:30 p.m.

"They're real professionals," said Chuck Brucato, owner of the deli.

Brucato said he observed the pair at the pool table and saw the man crouched alongside the coin slot.

The woman, wearing a red dress, was standing partially obscuring his view. But he told deputies it appeared the man was putting something under her dress as she had it "hiked up a little."

When the couple left the deli, the coin holder of the pool table was lying on the floor emptied.

A count of change in the store's video games showed that play was extraordinarily light or the coin boxes had been opened, Brucato said.

He said "street information" tells him that the pair have been working a coin box theft operation all through the state of Florida.

"We believe he (the man) has keys to the video games," Brucato said. "They say his father is a video game distributor in New York."

He described the couple as about 20 or 21-years-old.

"The woman is either pregnant or that's where she stashes the cash," he said.

But there's very little that can be done about them.

"Even if you see an empty coin box as they walk out, you've got to catch them in the act," he said. "It's a hard thing to prove. If you go into their house and find 500 quarters, how are you going to prove they're yours?"

Brucato said he plans to fight the larcenous pair.

His staff will empty coin boxes more frequently. Locks have been changed and they will be watching carefully for any attempts at tampering.

MELEE AT ROADSIDE

Thomas Dion Reichert, 19, of 703 Bongart, Winter Park, was arrested at 8:58 p.m. Saturday and charged with aggravated battery with a motor vehicle.

Here's how a Seminole County sheriff's deputy describes the incident:

Reichert was earlier reported driving recklessly and almost hit a car driven by Bruce E. Connette head on on Stefank Road.

Connette was driving his Volkswagen Beetle down Stefank Road toward Howell Branch Road when Reichert, in his 1976 2-door Buick turned onto Stefank Road from Howell Branch and had to stop to avoid hitting Connette's car.

Connette recognized the Buick as the car that had nearly run him off the road earlier in the evening.

He got out of his VW, walked over to the Buick and said something to Reichert. Connette said Reichert cursed and made threats. Connette then reached into Reichert's car and attempted to turn off the ignition, but Reichert succeeded in putting the car in reverse, dragging Connette, with the car, into a cluster of trees and trapping him between the car and the trees until the car got stuck on a concrete block sign and Connette was able to get away. The door of the car was almost torn off.

The victim and Reichert then got into a fist fight which ended up in the street. Connette knocked Reichert unconscious before a Florida Highway Patrol trooper arrived to break up the melee.

Reichert's Buick was heavily damaged due to the incident, but troopers said they would not consider it an accident scene.

Earlier in the evening, the arresting deputy said, he had been dispatched to the intersection of Eastbrook Boulevard and Astoria in regard to several cars driving recklessly in the area. One of the cars was the same car that the arrested Reichert was driving, the deputy said.

Reichert was released from the Seminole County jail on $8,000 bond.

DRUG ARRESTS

A 33-year-old Longwood man and a 27-year-old Winter Park man were arrested in separate drug busts over the weekend.

Barry Lynn Parsons, 649 Warren Avenue, Longwood, was arrested at 9:13 p.m. Friday at the Scottish Pub, U.S. Highway 17-82, Casselberry, and charged with possession and sale of a controlled substance, Lysergic Acid Diethylamide (LSD).

According to a sheriff's department report, Seminole County Drug Task Force agents made contact with Parsons on May 13 at the Scottish Pub where he was employed as a bartender. At that time, deputies said, Parsons said he would be obtaining some LSD to sell the next day. Parsons and the undercover agents agreed to meet the next evening and a the agents purchased a quantity of the LSD for $4.

A test of the substance showed it to be, indeed, LSD.

On Friday, agents returned to the pub and placed him under arrest.

He was released from the Seminole County jail on $8,000 bond.

In an unrelated incident, David Wayne Lee, 2655 Lakemont Avenue, Winter Park, was arrested at 8:20 p.m. Friday at his residence and charged with sale and possession of cocaine and possession of marijuana.

On Thursday, agents of the Winter Park Drug Unit purchased purported cocaine from Lee at his residence. When a test showed the substance was, indeed, cocaine, the agents returned to Lee's home the next day armed with a search warrant.

Agents found a clear plastic bag containing cocaine in the living room and numerous bags of marijuana in Lee's bedroom, along with a bag of valium and numerous items of cocaine paraphernalia.

Lee was then transported to the Seminole County jail where he was released on $8,000 bond.

BURGARY SUSPECT

Richard Leon Waterhouse, 31, of 318 Oak Avenue, Sanford, was arrested at 12:51 a.m. Monday and charged with the burglary of 413 S. Sanford Avenue, Sanford. He was being held in the Seminole County jail on $8,000 bond.

$18,000 HEIST

A Casselberry pawn shop was ransacked and thieves escaped with $18,000 in goods, Seminole County Sheriff's deputies report.

Entry to Joe's Pawn Shop, 761 N. U.S. Highway 17-82, was gained by someone who cut a hole into the building from a bathroom at neighboring A-1 Auto Parts.

Doctor May Appeal '60 Minutes' Ruling

LOS ANGELES (UPI)

— A jury said CBS and Dan Rather did not show "reckless disregard for the truth" in a "60 Minutes" segment that linked a doctor to a fraud scheme, ruling against the physician in a $4.5 million defamation suit.

"The verdict strikes a blow for the First Amendment," CBS attorney William Vaughn said Monday outside the courtroom after the jurors' 10-2 vote was announced.

Dr. Carl Galloway, who claimed the network and its best known newsmen had damaged his personal reputation and humiliated him, and his attorneys said the ruling may be appealed.

Asked if he felt CBS had been vindicated by the verdict, Galloway said, "If you can vindicate incompetence, if you can vindicate ineptitude, then they have been vindicated."

After three days of deliberation, the jurors ruled the network, Rather and the producers of the highly rated TV program did not act with a "reckless disregard for the truth" when linking Galloway to the scam in a December 1979 segment titled "It's No Accident."

Dan Rather

The burglary occurred between 5:30 p.m. Friday and 8:51 a.m. Saturday, police report.

STRONG ARM ROBBERY

A 23-year-old Sanford woman was knocked to the ground as her purse was grabbed by a man in the parking lot of the Winn Dixie store, 3818 Orlando Dr., Sanford, at 7:40 p.m. Saturday.

Sanford police report the man netted $10 cash and personal items belonging to Donna Schwarting, 120 Borada Road, Sanford.

BATTERY ARREST

A 19-year-old Maitland man, recently moved to Seminole County from Buffalo, N.Y., is being held without bond at the Seminole County jail charged with sexual battery of a 12-year-old boy.

Mark Richard Ehlers, 702 Green Meadow Ave., was arrested at 5:54 p.m. Friday. Police said the man allegedly forced the boy to perform sexual acts on more than one occasion.

6 Die In Plane Crash; FAA Searches For Cause

BAREFOOT BAY (UPI) — Investigators returned today to the Indian River, where a light airplane crashed and killed six Fort Pierce residents.

The wreckage of the single-engine Cherokee aircraft, partially submerged in six feet of water, was discovered Monday resting against a river island.

The Federal Aviation Administration sent investigators to the site, 1 1/2 miles east of the Summit Landing Marina and 2 miles north of Sebastian, to try and determine the cause of the crash.

The plane apparently left the St. Lucie County Airport in Fort Pierce Sunday, traveled about 30 miles and crashed into the Indian River in southern Brevard County, authorities said. The plane's destination and exactly what time the crash occurred were not immediately known.

Will Patients Collect?

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Attorneys for the Insurance Department and two hospital groups have made their pitches to the Florida Supreme Court in a case that could throw into question the ability of people who have won malpractice cases to collect their money.

The Insurance Department was appealing an adverse ruling from the 1st District Court of Appeal in which the funding mechanism for the Patient's Compensation Fund, the pool from which excess malpractice claims is paid, was struck down as an unconstitutional delegation of legislative authority.

The two hospital groups had challenged the statute after hospitals were assessed $10.5 million out of a $17 million total assessment for PCF deficits in the 1977-78 and 1978-79 fund years.

The department had limited assessments against physicians to 100 percent of the premiums they initially paid for coverage but held hospitals liable for unlimited assessments.

Tax Compromise Sought

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — House and Senate conferees on water quality and hazardous wastes legislation return to the bargaining table today to attempt to work out their differences on taxes.

The two sides neared agreement on several minor issues Monday but grew even further apart on their respective proposals for funding of water protection and hazardous wastes cleanup programs.

The key difference involves funding. The House is proposing a 0.75 percent tax on the wholesale price of dangerous chemicals, while the Senate is suggesting increases in the taxes on the generators of hazardous wastes.

In another difference, the House is proposing the state operate sites for the collection and possible burning of hazardous wastes while the Senate believes the state should leave this up to private industry.

Israel General Says War Won't Defeat PLO

United Press International

An Israeli general who helped lead the invasion of Lebanon said Israel cannot defeat the Palestine Liberation Organization or solve the Palestinian homeland problem through war.

"The state of Israel with its large and glorious army cannot destroy the PLO's military arm in a military campaign. It will always have a place to flee to," retired Maj. Gen. Avigdor Ben-Gal said Monday.

"From a political standpoint, I do not think the Zionist-Palestinian conflict can be solved through force," Ben-Gal said on a television special marking the first anniversary of the June 6 invasion.

In Lebanon, the anniversary was marked with mournful black flags, closed stores, a strike in some cities and scattered demonstrations.

U.S. Diplomats Expelled

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — The United States denied charges three U.S. diplomats plotted to kill Foreign Minister Miguel d'Escoto for the CIA, and said said it was considering retaliation against Managua for their expulsions.

The three diplomats left Nicaragua Monday night aboard a plane to Guatemala City. They were scheduled to fly to Washington today.

The Nicaraguan government Monday expelled Linda M. Pfeiffer, political affairs officer, David Noble Greig, first secretary and Emilia Loreta Rodriguez, second secretary, for trying to recruit a Nicaraguan double agent to kill d'Escoto with brandy laced with poison.

Lakeview Students Design Lake Mary Budget Covers

Six budget covers designed by four art students at Lakeview Middle School have been selected by Mayor Walter Sorenson as the best of 17 entries from students in Sharon Thornhill's advanced art class.

The winning covers will grace the city staff's budget recommendation documents to be distributed later in the summer to each of the five city commissioners and the mayor.

The students who submitted the winning entries are: Mark Wolniak, two; Scott Smith, two; Dale Hansen, one; and Robbie Semos, one.

Each of those students will receive a "certificate of appreciation" from Sorenson at the City Commission meeting on June 18.

Much Left Unfinished By Legislature

By Wayne Snow

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Despite a strike by doctors, a year of study, countless hours of committee meetings and lengthy floor debates, the Legislature failed in its efforts to pass medical malpractice legislation this year.

When the bitter doctor-lawyer fight came to an end — at least for this year — it took with it a measure that would have allowed insurance companies to send their policyholders to doctors and hospitals offering lower rates.

The end of the 60-day regular session sounded the death knell for dreams of other once-promising legislation as well.

Reinstatement of mandatory automobile inspections, an increase in the legal drinking age, mail-in voter registration, a local-option sales tax to build county jails, "unisex" automobile insurance rates and hospital rate-setting measures all died with the end of the regular session.

There were others, many of them possibly significant, that also failed but in the confusion that accompanies the end of a session even legislative leaders aren't quite sure what made it and what didn't.

"I haven't had a chance to stop and assess and see what did not pass that should have passed," House Speaker Lee Moffitt, D-Tampa, said at the conclusion of Friday's session.

All that remains now as legislators go into a 10-day extended session are budget, education and water issues.

The malpractice issue died when the relatively pro-lawyer House and the relatively pro-doctor Senate could not agree on a final bill.

The House version lowered coverage limits in the state's financially troubled Patient's Compensation Fund, established a system for closer regulation of doctors and provided an arbitration mechanism to reduce the number of malpractice suits.

But it did not include any of the changes in the legal system pushed by the Florida Medical Association or South Florida Physicians United, the group that struck briefly last summer when faced with soaring malpractice insurance rates.

The doctors liked the Senate version — which included limits on general damages, restrictions on punitive damage claims, structured payment of future claims and an elimination of the doctrine of joint and several liability — but the House found it too radical.

In a final effort, the Senate repassed its main malpractice bill Friday minus the cap on general damages and then amended the bill onto the hospital cost containment measure.

All that did was kill both bills.

In the end, the only malpractice legislation that passed was a remedial bill aimed at addressing constitutional problems in the funding mechanism for the state's largest malpractice insurance pool.

Rep. Fran Carlton, D-Orlando, made a final stab at raising the drinking age from 19 to 21 when she tried to amend her bill onto a minor Senate bill Friday morning.

Opponents raised parliamentary objections and Rules Chairman James Harold Thompson, D-Quincy, called for a delay until he could rule on the points of order. He has yet to rule, thus killing that effort.

Mandatory auto inspections went out at the midpoint of the session when the House transportation committee killed a bill by Rep. Betty Easley, R-Largo. It failed again later in the session when Senate backers tried to amend it onto another bill.

So did Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter's proposal to prohibit insurance companies from using sex, marital status and scholastic achievement as factors in setting automobile insurance rates.

Opponents said the Gunter plan would result in unfairly high rates for women and unrealistically low rates for men. The bill never got out of the House commerce committee.

Gunter also wanted to allow the Hospital Cost Containment Board to have the authority to approve or reject hospital budgets. The best he could get was an amendment to another bill that would have his proposal studied for the next year.

Ironically, a rival cost containment measure that was more favored by the Legislature died under the weight of the Senate's malpractice bill.

Rep. Al Lawson, D-Tallahassee, saw his proposal to allow voter registration by mail, a bill backed by minorities, voted down in the House. Efforts to revive it as an amendment to another bill died moments later in the Senate.

The Senate amended onto a minor sales tax bill a local-option sales tax that would have given local governments money to build jails and other law enforcement facilities, but the House refused to go along.

Another bill, hailed by environmentalists as the worst environmental legislation of the session, died in the Senate after winning approval in the House.

The measure, which would have allowed industries to renew their water discharge permits if they could show that the installation of pollution control equipment was not cost-effective, was labeled as a "keep on polluting" bill by opponents.

A Clearer View Of U.S.'s Future

If one listens to some commentators, America's industrial heartland will become a rust bowl by the end of this century, if not sooner.

They envision a "post-industrial" society in which mature industries will have withered away and been replaced by new high tech businesses in the information field.

In all likelihood, this is a misreading of the future. At any rate, that is the view of E.G. Jefferson, chairman of the DuPont Co., a company that has been one of the nation's leaders for decades.

Americans should heed what Mr. Jefferson has to say.

In a recent speech to the International Petrochemical Conference, Mr. Jefferson said that the narrow "post-industrial" view distorts the situation with respect to basic goods-producing industries — often called smokestack industries.

He said that the notion that the core industries — steel, autos, machinery, textiles and apparel — are destined to decline "strikes me as a case of running away from our problems rather than facing up to them."

He noted that "We hear calls to accelerate the pace of transition, abandoning mature capital and labor-intensive industries as 'losers' while more aggressively concentrating on emerging 'winners,' whatever they may be." He added: "I find such views misleading."

Mr. Jefferson called for a clearer understanding of what high technology means, saying that "a highly automated steel plant with the most modern instrumentation, controls and use of robots is clearly 'high tech' and should be recognized as such."

He urged that the public recognize that the choice before us is not between declining smokestack industries and so-called high tech industries. "Rather than abandon core industries," he said, "We can and should make them as advanced as we can. We should bring modern technology to bear on all manufacturing."

Mr. Jefferson favors adoption of an industrial policy for the United States.

What he has in mind is a policy that encourages improved manufacturing methods, promotes industrial research in colleges and universities, and favors more investment in industrial modernization and growth.

At this time, the United States lacks a clear-cut policy of this sort.

Mr. Jefferson is a missionary for a new awareness of the needs of U.S. basic industry.

If the American people are to be prosperous and fully employed in the future, his advice should be heeded by Congress.

Pac-Man At Harvard

You aren't going to find obscurantism ("opposition to human progress or enlightenment") at Harvard University.

A three-day conference on video games was held recently at the Harvard Graduate School of Education in Cambridge, Mass. It was partly financed by the Atari Corp., makers of Pac-Man.

Educators at the conference agreed that video games have a positive effect on children's learning. Worries that such games would have a bad effect are totally unfounded, the experts decided.

Communities around the country have tried to close down video-game arcades, arguing that they corrupt youth. That argument has been heard before. First, it was pool halls, then pinball games, and now it is video games that are blamed for leading youth astray.

Nothing to it, said the educators, who came from campuses all around the country. Video games teach intellectual skills in addition to developing hand-eye coordination, they said.

Anyone who has played Pac-Man and studied the strategies for winning free games would agree. The computerized logic involved is intricate. Those who master it must have a respectable ability in inductive reasoning.

Television may have a dulling effect on some children, when the tube is used as an electronic baby-sitter hour after hour. But interactive video games, at home or in the arcade, are another matter — challenging, not soporific.

John Harvard was born nearly 350 years too soon. Otherwise we might have seen him welcoming Pac-Man to the Yard with approbation.

JACK ANDERSON Teamsters Boss Has Bad Image

WASHINGTON — Jackie Presser, the beefy, street-smart, 56-year-old newly-elected president of the Teamsters Union, has promised to run "an open, honest administration." He'll be given a chance today to reveal his plans for cleaning up the mobster-infiltrated union when he testifies before Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, on proposed anti-racketeering legislation.

Justice Department files paint an unflattering, though possibly unfair, portrait of Presser. They also provide background material the senator might want to quiz the new president about. For example:

— An April 28, 1977, Intelligence report titled, "Labor Racketeering in Ohio," contained a list of alleged mob-related figures, including "Jackie Presser, a well-known corrupt union labor leader (who) has continued to build his public image in the (Ohio) area. His goal is reportedly the presidency of the International."

— Another department report, "Organized Crime and the Labor Unions," written by attorneys Douglas Roller and Peter Valira, states, "The organized crime affiliations and involvement of Presser through and independent of the Teamsters Union are well documented."

However, a source close to Presser told my associate Tony Capaccio the report provides no evidence of this supposed documentation. "You don't have even one guy saying, 'We have Presser playing golf with a known mob member,'" he said.

— According to a still-secret document, informant James "The Weasel" Frattinno told federal investigators that "through the intercession of Cleveland organized crime group members, Presser agreed to allow (Frattinno) the use of a mob financier to set up a union dental plan in Warren, Ohio."

The Presser associate said that while Presser and Frattinno's financier met briefly, "Jackie threw him out of his office," and the mobster never "received such a contract in Ohio."

— Another informant, Comilio Molinaro, a go-between for Ohio and New Jersey mob families, told New Jersey state troopers that Presser was his contact in about 1975 for arranging loans through the Teamsters' Central States Pension Fund.

Presser's associate said that no loans were made from the fund in that period.

— In March 1979, eavesdropping FBI agents heard Kansas City mob chief Nick Civella voice his desire to get Presser's approval for Roy Williams — later convicted of bribery — to succeed the union's then-president, Frank Fitzsimmons. If Presser's position was "positive," an FBI affidavit states, "Civella wanted to see him" about Williams.

Williams did in fact succeed Fitzsimmons, but Presser's associate said: "Jackie Presser has never met Nick Civella or dealt with him in his life."

— A Labor Department affidavit states that its investigators are currently looking into "allegations that Jackie Presser did embezzle the funds" of two Teamster locals by paying "no-show" employees.

Reagans Made Of The Right Stuff

Tears are not my ordinary reaction to a page of prose, but I felt my eyes filling when I read Lawrence Leamer's words on the assassination attempt upon Ronald Reagan in his new book, "Make Believe."

Mr. Leamer's account tells us more about the horror and pain of those days than has been generally available. The president was within minutes of death. He suffered horribly. He behaved with almost unimaginable courage and grace, as did his wife Nancy.

The title of the book, "Make Believe," is something of a puzzle. Mr. Leamer seems to have the intention of showing that the Reagans live in an artificial world of rich people — the millionaire kitchen cabinet, the spectacular inauguration, etc. — but the book fails to bear out this notion, and, indeed, its most compelling chapter, the one on the assassination attempt, tends to demolish it entirely.

At first the Secret Service did not believe the president had been hit. "Rawhide not hurt, repeat, not hurt," the limousine radioed, using Reagan's code name. When he began to cough up Rhonda Vazquez and Bill Brucato were honored as the top athletes at Lake Brantley High School recently for the 1982-83 sports season.

Vazquez, a senior basketball and softball standout, was one of the best all-around eagers in Seminole County this past winter. Vazquez received the Guy Garrett Memorial Female Athlete of the Year award. Garrett was a well-respected coach and teacher who passed away last year.

Another honor to come the blonde-haired senior's direction was the Stayfree Wade Trophy Medals Club bronze medal. The Stayfree Wade Trophy Medals Club was instituted in 1981 to provide both honors and inspiration for the younger stars who aspired to become a Wade Trophy winner after their prep career was over. The Wade Trophy is given annually to the top female collegiate eager. Vazquez scored 1,023 points in her prep career for an average of 11.8 points per game.

Brucato, meanwhile, capped a brilliant wrestling year by winning Lyman Christmas Tournament, conference, district and region championships at 149 pounds. Although wrestling was the lone sport Brucato competed in, his accomplishments were so overwhelming he was an easy choice for the Guy Garrett Memorial Male Athlete of the Year award.

He finished with a 24-3 overall record which was quite an improvement from the past three years. "Billy was more serious about wrestling this year and he was very determined," said Kevin Carpenter. Brucato was 7-9 as a freshman, 12-3 (mostly JV) as a sophomore and 13-7 as a junior.

College football season is still a few months away, but the University of Central Florida Knights have a pretty good package deal for their season ticket-holders.

The Fighting Knights, who petitioned for I-AA reclassification already this year, feel they have the program on the upswing with athletic director Bill Peterson and new head coach Lou Saban at the controls. UCF suffered through a miserable 0-10 season last fall under interim head coach Sam Weir, who is now at West Orange High School in Winter Garden.

Regular season tickets for just six home games are going for just $27. UCF students and booster club members will only have to pay $13.50. Local corporations can buy block seating (minimum 25 seats) for $17 per ticket.

For information concerning season tickets, call 275-2139.

Democrats Face Early Elimination

By Clay F. Richards
UPI Political Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Before the first vote is cast in the first caucus or primary, events are piling up that could eliminate one or more of the six major contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination.

By the time Iowa Democrats cast the first caucus votes and New Hampshire the first primary ballots, there may be only two or three candidates around to consider seriously.

Ironically, this early demise for some of the dark horse contenders comes in the year Democratic National Committee figures struggled to rewrite the calendar to shorten the primary season and keep all the action in a few short months of 1984.

But state political parties and labor unions, battling for a bigger share of the limelight, are stretching the presidential political season into the longest one yet.

There has been almost no change in the public opinion poll standings among the Democratic candidates in the past several months, except for an expected rise in Sen. John Glenn's rating against front-runner Walter Mondale.

The others — Sens. Gary Hart of Colorado, Alan Cranston of California and Ernest Hollings of South Carolina and former Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida — are little more than a blip in the polls. None draws more than 5 percent.

But from the view of many Democrats and much of the media, the difference is more distinct. Cranston is seen as waging — and so far winning — a fierce battle with Hart for third place.

Cranston first won the straw poll at his home state party convention in California, then finished ahead of Hart and Glenn in the straw poll at the Massachusetts state convention.

He is spending heavily to make the same kind of result in the Wisconsin convention this weekend. Even if Mondale wins in Wisconsin as expected, Cranston finishing ahead of Hart would be significant because it would be viewed as one of the most liberal Democratic groups saying which Democrat is more liberal.

The straw polls will go on over the summer, fall and winter. A pattern of Cranston finishing ahead of Hart could pretty much soften up the Colorado senator — and leave him broke — going into Iowa and New Hampshire.

Likewise, the straws could pretty much finish off what little chance Askew and Hollings have. There were 4,000 delegates to the Massachusetts convention and Hollings got 17 votes and Askew 12.

The National Education Association — the nation's largest union — picks its candidate in the fall and in December the AFL-CIO is likely to pick a candidate. If Mondale sweeps those two big union votes, it could be a signal to liberals to abandon a long-shot Cranston or Hart for a sure-shot Mondale.

Likewise, if Cranston or Hart get enough union votes to block a Mondale endorsement, it could boost either one of them at the expense of the other.

ROBERT WALTERS

Everyone's A Winner

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (NEA) — If misery loves company, here's good news for those who regularly experience the frustration of sitting through long, tedious meetings that invariably produce only inconclusive results:

The self-proclaimed "leaders of the free world" conduct much of their business in that same fashion when they gather once every year for the highly ballyhooed Summit of Industrialized Nations.

The heads of state and their most senior cabinet ministers spend countless hours haggling over the language of draft communiques, a process that virtually guarantees the final version will be a least-common-denominator document which offends nobody — and contains nothing of significance.

In this country, the post-summit analysis offered by the White House emphasizes that President Reagan got almost everything he sought at this year's meeting and considers the four-day session to have been a major success.

But the citizens of Great Britain, West Germany, Canada, France, Japan and Italy have been regaled with similar accounts of significant coups and important victories achieved at the summit by their respective heads of state.

If everybody is as happy as claimed, it's probably considered churlish to disparage the process — but surely there's something slightly dubious if not highly suspicious about an all-winners, no-losers result.

To understand what occurs at such events, it's necessary to keep in mind that the principal participants are all highly ambitious, very successful, especially strong-willed people representing nations and cultures which often embrace radically disparate perspectives and priorities.

They are also, however, seven of the world's best politicians who are fully cognizant of the cardinal rule at such events: Everybody can reap considerable benefits from the prestige, glamour and hoopla surrounding the summit as long as nobody creates annoying distractions, usually in the form of tendentious policy disputes.

"Honey, I forgot to duck," he said, the words muffled by the mask.

"It was a phrase that would have broken many wives up, but Nancy remained composed. As she held Ronnie's hand it was as if she were the one transfusing him with lifeblood, not the bottles hung above him..."

Reagan had lost a large quantity of blood and it was filling his chest cavity, making it difficult to breathe. He was drained, given transfusions and placed on a breathing apparatus that made him feel that he was suffocating. After the operation, his recovery was also an agony, during which he continued to show tremendous courage and dedication to his job!

"As for Ronnie, he was putting up with enough to make a Quaker swear. Another bronchoscopy had to be performed. Typically, when this procedure is done, the patient is given Valium intravenously. But because of trouble in the Midwest, the triumvirate (Meece, Deaver, Baker) asked that the president not be given any sedatives. 'He didn't bat an eye,' said (Dr. David

Gens. "Most wouldn't have been able to tolerate it..."

If courage is grace under pressure, both the president and his wife surely exhibited it during these harrowing days, and the same qualities appear elsewhere in their lives. What Mr. Leamer has actually given us is a portrait of a thoroughly admirable couple who love each other extravagantly.

I would like to return for a moment to the theses suggested by the title, "Make Believe." About all it amounts to is a lot of cooing and ahing over Nancy's dresses, table settings and the like.

But the truth is that the Reagans are rich people and they behave like rich people: isn't Gucci supposed to have any customers?

Most Americans are not envious people, and I doubt that this theme in the book will cut much ice, especially in view of the fact that the book's page-by-page detail — especially the parts dealing with the shooting — demolishes any notion that these are insulated or plastic people.

Sanford Lassies, Juniors Pursue State Championships At 5 Points

No 2nd Guesses: L.A., Expos, Angels, Yankees

As the major-league baseball season passes the first-quarter pole, two of my horses are in the lead, and the other two are within striking distance.

Out West, the Los Angeles Dodgers are doing a good job of holding off the Atlanta Braves (until tonight, anyway) in the N.L. while the California Angels aren't having much trouble in the A.L.

In the N.L. East, St. Louis holds a one-game lead over my choice — Montreal — while my A.L. East pick, the New York Yankees, trails Boston by 2 1/2 games in baseball's toughest division. Only 5 1/2 games separate the seven teams as of Monday.

AMERICAN LEAGUE				NATIONAL LEAGUE
East				East
Boston	20	22	.300	St. Louis	27	31	.563
Toronto	19	22	.260	Montreal	26	32	.453
Baltimore	19	23	.280	Philadelphia	21	34	.382
Milwaukee	15	24	.210	Chicago	22	30	.429
New York	16	25	.240	Pittsburgh	18	29	.382
Detroit	15	25	.230	New York	18	31	.367
Cleveland	15	26	.231
West				West
California	20	22	.377	Los Angeles	25	16	.609
Oakland	16	26	.269	Atlanta	24	18	.556
Kansas City	15	24	.269	San Francisco	20	24	.458
Texas	14	26	.230	San Diego	24	27	.471
Chicago	14	27	.207	Houston	24	28	.464
Minnesota	13	27	.222	Cincinnati	23	28	.454
Seattle	13	27	.218

As the Dodgers surmised, Brock has more than adequately replaced Garvey at first base. Despite hitting just .236, the left-handed slugger has 10 home runs and 32 RBI. Complementing Brock is Guerrero who made the move to third to replace departed Cey. Guerrero had 11 homers and 31 ribbies. That's a pretty good 1-2 punch. It'll be even better when Baker comes around.

The reason the Dodgers reign, though, is pitching. With Fernando, Welch, Hooton and Reuse, they throw an ace at you everyday. Howe was having a great year until his drug problems, but Stewart and Pena more than take up the slack. The team earned run average is 2.79, more an a 1/2 run better than anyone in baseball.

The Braves, meanwhile, are just a pitch or two (1 1/2 games) behind. Their pitching has surpassed expectations. Garber, Forster and Bedrosian comprise the best bullpen in the game. Any one of them could be the main stopper on any team in baseball. Atlanta couldn't have expected the contribution (13 wins) of McMurtry and Perez. Maybe one of them, but not both. Murphy is the best player in baseball. He's settled into center field and his 12 homers and 44 RBI are tops. And, he can steal you a base and run down everything around him.

Homer (9, 31, .304) has regained his stroke while Ramirez (.295) and Hubbard (.300) are hitting out of their minds, along with the best up-the-middle defense in the league.

The Giants and Padres are being hurt by L.A. and Atlanta's blistering pace, although San Diego's Garvey (9, 31, .316) has held up his end of the deal. They have good clubs but its tough to keep up when the people in front of you don't ever seem to lose. Houston and Cincinnati cannot contend this year. Houston is really a sorry bunch of banjo hitters whose pitching staff is growing old. The Reds have some good youngsters (Redus and Householder), but their pitching will have to come around. They have the arms with Soto and Price.

In the N.L. West, the Angels and Carew could make a shambles of the division as soon as Reggie starts hitting. DeCinces (13, 31, .308) and Carew (.437) are carrying the load. One look at the Angels' team batting average (.272) and that of the White Sox (.246) tells the difference. And the Pale Hose pitching is not up to par either. Still, the White Sox are only 5 1/2 in arrears.

Kansas City, despite spectacular starts by George Brett (11, 34, .369) and McRae (3, 25, .342) is no better than third place. Pitching, once again, will be the Royals' problem. Stopper Leonard is out again.

Oakland has pulled up to the .500 mark and just four games back. The A's, however, are not as deep as the Angels. Texas, after a brilliant beginning, has started to recede. It will continue. Minnesota and Seattle are much improved. If either plays .500 ball this year, break out the champagne. If the Twins don't draw what they're supposed to in the next two years, look for the Tampa Bay Twins in '85. The last major stumbling block was hurdled and the old Al Lopez Field will be razed and construction on the new, 48,000-seat Al Lopez Field will begin after the Super Bowl in 1984, according to an article in the Miami Herald Sunday. Now, those people are serious about baseball, right Orlando?

The Toronto Blue Jays are also serious, especially Stieb. The hard-throwing right-hander has won eight of 11 decisions with a nifty 1.66 ERA and 72 strikeouts. He's the prime reason the Blue Jays were in a three-way tie for first as of Monday.

Baltimore, the soundest organization in the A.L., and Boston are right there, too. Look for the Orioles to break away. Murray is starting to crank up and when the pitchers get healthy, the Birds are really tough.

The Yankees are in another transition period. This time it's back to power. The power, nevertheless, hasn't come at home where Winfield has just one homer and Kemp doesn't have any. Griffey, after a year's conditioning, is hitting .331. Cerone stinks and so does all of the pitching except Quidry, Righttini and Rawley. All of whom happen to be left-handed. The Yanks ran off six in a row, but then were swept by Seattle.

Cleveland, which acquired "Stormin' Gorman" for Manning Monday, has a solid club, but it'll probably take it another year to mesh. Milwaukee is lost without Fingers as it found out in the World Series. Detroit has Sparky Anderson who needs the Big Red Machine or he can't win. Potential (Synonym: Wasted) superstar Kirk Gibson is turning into a Danny Ainge. He's talking about giving football another try. He was an All-Big Ten receiver at Michigan.

The Expos, meanwhile, continue to mystify their fans. Dawson (8, 36, .332) carried the team the first month. Oliver (.304 but less than lifetime average), Raines (.282 and just 13 steals), Wallach (7, 18, .266) and especially Carter (7, 20, .250) have not played up to snuff. When they do, Montreal will be awesome, as predicted. The Cardinals, of course, are World Champions. But, the Expos match up well with them and have better power and starting pitching.

The Phillies are hanging in there, but Morgan (.202), Rose (.258) and Perez (.286) aren't getting any younger.

The C.L.B. Pirates and Mets should have a nice fight for fourth place.

No second guesses; Angels, Dodgers, Expos and Yankees in October.

Tonight's State Softball Tournament at the Five Points Softball Complex

12 and under
Sanford vs. Freeway Oil, 5:30 p.m.
15 and under
Sanford vs. Haines City, 7 p.m.
Sanford vs. Haines City, 8:15 p.m., if necessary

The Sanford Junior (15 and under) and Lassie League All-Star (12 and under) teams have both advanced to the finals of the 1983 State Recreation Softball Tournaments tonight at the Five Points Softball complex near Winter Springs. The Lassie League All-Stars go up against powerful Seminole Freeway Oil at 5:30 p.m. The Junior League stars face Haines City at 7 p.m. If Haines City beats Sanford, it will be the state champ. However, a Sanford victory would force a second game which will also be played tonight.

The Junior League squad upended East Volusia Halifax, 17-11, in the opening round of the tournament this past weekend in Ormond Beach. Sanford then dropped a 12-0 decision to Southwest Volusia in the second game, sending Sanford into the loser's bracket.

Sanford came back with a 27-12 rout of Southeast Volusia in its third game of the day on Saturday. A 9-7 victory over Ormond Beach on Sunday advanced Sanford into the loser's bracket final, a rematch against Southwest Volusia. Sanford got revenge on Southwest Volusia by pulling out a 6-5 triumph and advancing into the finals against Haines City, which has yet to lose in the tournament.

The Sanford Lassie League All-Stars and Seminole Freeway Oil have already played each other twice in the state tournament and split. Freeway Oil rolled to a 19-7 victory in the first meeting while Sanford came back for a narrow 3-2 victory in the second meeting.

In its opening game of the tourney, Sanford trailed, 8-5, going into the fifth inning but erupted for four runs to take a 9-8 lead and never looked back, rallying to a 21-11 victory over Southwest Volusia.

Lakoscia Kennon got things going for Sanford in the fifth inning as she belted a two-run home run with one out and Renee Ware on base. Laticia Strickland followed with a single and Patrell Pinkney stepped up and smashed a two-run homer to give Sanford a 9-8 lead.

Southwest Volusia tied the game with a run in the bottom of the fifth, but Sanford came back with six runs in the sixth and added six more in the seventh to put the game on ice.

In its second game, Sanford met Freeway Oil and dropped a 19-7 decision. Sanford scored six of its seven runs in the top of the first inning. Key hits included a double by Lovetta Brown and singles by Renee Ware and Chinita Gilchrist. Seminole Freeway Oil shook off the shaky start and held Sanford scoreless until the top of the seventh while taking a 19-8 lead. Tonya Colvin and Shannon Kennedy had two hits apiece to lead Freeway Oil which also capitalized on eight Sanford errors.

Sanford came back in its third game with a 14-6 victory over East Volusia Halifax. Katrina Shuler, Laticia Strickland and Ann Perry had three hits apiece to lead Sanford at the plate and, after committing five errors in the first three innings, Sanford went the rest of the game without a miscue.

In game four, Sanford's bats exploded for 34 hits as Sanford hammered Southwest Volusia, 32-8. Strickland and Shuler had five hits apiece. Strickland with a pair of homers, two triples and a double and Shuler with a home run and four singles. Tina Roberts and Tracey Mitchell added four hits each. Roberts with a homer and a double and Mitchell with four singles. Melinda Jackson, Tewana Chisholm and Adrian Hillman had three hits apiece and all added a homer as Sanford collected six home runs in the game.

A six-run second inning propelled Sanford to a 14-5 victory over Haines City in game five. Strickland went 3 for 4 and clubbed another home run while Shuler, Jackson, Chisholm, Perry and Hillman added two hits each. Roberts also homered for Sanford.

In game six, Hillman scored on a RBI groundout by Kennon in the bottom of the sixth inning as Sanford edged Seminole Freeway Oil, 3-2. Sanford scored its first two runs in the bottom of the fourth as Strickland laced a one-out single and scored on a double by Shuler. Shuler came around to score on a sacrifice by Roberts. With the score tied at 2-2 in the bottom of the sixth, Hillman reached on an error with one out and scored on Kennon's grounder to shortstop to set up tonight's championship game.

Home Run Smile

Big Tony Curry is all smiles after clubbing a three-run home run off Sunniland's Mike Merthle last week. The round-tripper, though, was the only hit Merthle gave up as Sunniland knocked off Rinker Materials. There weren't any home runs or 1-hitters Monday night in Sanford as rain showers washed out all baseball and softball action. The Sanford Little Major American League has three games slated for tonight as Butch's Chevron takes on Seminole Ford, Adcock Roofing battles Famous Recipe and Flagship Bank goes against Seminole Petroleum. In Sanford Men's Softball League play, Uncle Nick's Oyster Bar-S & H Fabricating, Central Florida Regional Hospital-Mobility and Harcar-DeLuxe Bar are the matchups. Action begins at 6:30 p.m. at Pinehurst Field. Little Major plays starts at 5 p.m. at Bay Avenue Field, Fort Mellon Park and Westside Field.

Falcons Bolster Team With 7 Silver Hawks

If you're going to put together a championship softball team — there's no better place to procure your talent than a proven commodity.

With that in mind, manager Mike Averill and coach Rodney Metz plucked seven members of Lake Howell's district champions for their 16-player Seminole Falcons' 18-and-under tournament team.

Leading the way are four Five-Star Conference First-Team selections. Senior Erin Duffy, who will play at Lake City Community College next spring, has been a four-year starter for Lake Howell. She is an excellent outfielder and hits with power. Junior shortstop Mary Johnson has been the top shortstop in the area for the past two years. She, too, has started every year at Howell. Sophomore second baseman Sandy Gillies is one of the top young players in the area while junior pitcher Barbara Heim is a steady veteran on the mound.

Other additions include sophomore Eileen Thiebaut, junior Judy Millholen and senior Stacey Carpenter. Thiebaut has a cannon for an arm and covers a lot of ground in the outfield. Millholen can handle either third base or catching. Carpenter is another solid outfielder who will continue her career at Valencia Community College.

While the Lake Howell talent is rich, it doesn't drop off any when you move on to the other schools. Lyman first baseman Michelle Kuhlert was a four-year starter for the Lady Greyhounds and a four-time Five-Star, First-Team choice. She will play at Western Illinois University or Appalachian State next spring. Greyhound teammate Kathy Richardson has been a standout pitcher for the last couple years. The cagey left-hander will attend Pfeiffer, No. Car. next fall. Senior catcher Kim Gilliam is the third Lyman player on the roster. She will go to St. Francis, No. Car. to continue her career.

Averill and Metz reached into their backyard for four players from Lake Mary. Leading the way is sophomore Kim Averill, Mike's daughter, who is one of the better all-around athletes in Central Florida. The strong-armed shortstop had a superb prep year this spring, but is expected to rebound this summer when most of her concentration will be on softball. She ran track and cross country, played basketball and softball for the Lady Rams.

Fellow sophomore Andrea Fenning is a spray hitter who will be used in the outfield and second base. Sophomores Liz Stone and Stacey Adams will provide outfield depth.

One player each from Seminole and Lake Brantley was selected. County Basketball Player of the Year Mona Benton will vie for an outfield spot. Benton didn't play softball this past spring, but did play as a freshman at Crooms. Lady Patriot Michelle Brown will play outfield and infield. The versatile sophomore is a product of the Five Points' softball program, as are many of the girls, although she didn't play for the Patriots last spring after playing as a frosh.

"Our team is strong defensively," said Averill. "If we can increase our hitting proficiency, we will be able to be competitive with most of our opponents."

The Falcons played in the Tampa Invitational Tournament this past weekend and finished second to the host team. It was a round-robin tournament in which the only Falcon loss was a 5-0 setback to the Tampa club.

"We had played two great games and we just came out flat (in the loss to Tampa)," said Metz. "But we did beat the Satellite Beach team, which had some of the players from the regional championship team (which beat Lake Howell)."

Averill and Metz has set up a rigorous schedule which they hope will lead to the Falcons toward qualifying for the Metro, Regional and National tournaments. The Falcons will take on Bradenton Saturday for a double-header beginning at 1:30 p.m. at the Five Points complex on County Road 419 near Winter Springs.

The next weekend (June 10-11), Seminole competes in the eight-team Conway Invitational in south Orlando. The following weekend (June 25-26), the Falcons will play in the eight-team Merritt Island Invitational. The Orlando Metro (July 18-19), Tuscaloosa, Ala. Regional

Gorman Gone, Brewers Still Bangin' Walls

Molitor's 4 Hits Drive Milwaukee Past Angels

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Gorman Thomas may be gone, but Harvey's Wallbangers are still potent.

The Milwaukee Brewers traded Thomas, who tied for the American League lead in home runs last year with 39, to the Cleveland Indians Monday but the Brewers didn't seem to lack any punch, collecting 16 hits in a 9-7 victory over California.

Paul Molitor went 4-for-4 — including two doubles and a home run — as Milwaukee raced to a 9-1 lead after seven innings.

"We got a lot of hits and runs and we needed every one of them," Brewers manager Harvey Kuenn said. "This game went from being a laugher to a nail-biter."

Angels manager John McNamara said, "We made too many mistakes at the beginning of the game. But we came back in the last two innings and showed that we don't roll over and die."

Bob McClure, 2-7, the Brewers starter, worked 7 1-3 innings to earn the victory. Tom Tellmann picked up his fifth save. Dave Goltz surrendered six runs in five innings suffering his fourth loss in as many decisions.

It was a busy day for the Brewers. They traded center fielder Thomas, as well as pitchers Jamie Easterly and Ernie Camacho, to the Indians for center fielder Rick Manning and pitcher Rick Walls.

The club also announced that relief pitcher Rolfe Fingers, who has missed the entire season, will undergo surgery Friday to remove a bone spur from his right elbow.

But the high-scoring game still managed to raise eyebrows.

"There were a lot of stats out there; a lot of cumulative career base hits and RBI," said Brewers catcher Ted Simmons. "When these teams meet there is the potential for an offensive show, and when it's realized you get 9-7 ballgames."

The Brewers took a first-inning lead when Molitor led off with a single, stole second and scored on Cecil Cooper's double.

California tied it in the third when Bob Boone led off with his third homer of the year, but the Brewers went wild, scoring two runs in the fourth and five in the sixth.

A.L. Baseball

Molitor, who has hit safely in eight of nine games despite a nagging hand injury, homered off reliever John Curtis in the seventh to give Milwaukee its 9-1 lead, but California came back with six runs in the eighth.

With one out, Tim Lincecum, Reggie Jackson and Doug DeCinces all singled and Fred Lynn walked to force in a run before Ron Jackson followed with a grand slam. Bobby Grich then belted a solo homer for the Angels' final run.

Tigers 11, Red Sox 6

They say a baseball team is only a reflection of its management, so it was no surprise that the Boston Red Sox looked like a bunch of displaced persons Monday night.

Early Monday the long-simmering internal squabbles in the Red Sox' front office surfaced when Edmund G. "Buddy" LeRoux seized control of the team and ousted his one-time friend and partner, Haywood Sullivan, as general manager. LeRoux then named Dick O'Connell to replace Sullivan as general manager.

Sullivan, who with LeRoux and Jean Yawkey had run the Red Sox for the last five years and served as general manager, challenged the change, calling it "illegal and invalid" and added he'd fight it in court.

LeRoux announced at a news conference that the team's eight limited partners, upset by the bickering in the front office between LeRoux and Sullivan-Yawkey, had voted to change the partnership agreement which had been in effect since they bought the team in 1978 for about $15 million. The change, voted Monday, made LeRoux, a trainer on the 1967 Boston championship team, the newly created managing general partner.

"The whole thing stinks," Sullivan said. "So did the Red Sox, who played like a bunch of sandlotters in losing to the Detroit Tigers, 11-6. The Red Sox made three errors, including two that led to runs, and their best pitcher, Bob Stanley, was tagged for seven runs and seven hits in 12-3 innings."

"I guess I fell out of my tree," said Stanley, whose earned run average soared from 1.04 to 1.88. "Things have been going pretty good. Tonight it didn't."

The Tigers pounded out 18 hits, including four each by Enos Cabell and Lou Whitaker, and won at Fenway Park for the fifth time in their last 35 games. Cabell and Whitaker each hit a homer and Alan Trammell added a three-run blast.

Yankees 6, Mariners 2

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steve Kemp wore a relieved look on his face Monday night after the New York Yankees avoided a four-game sweep by the Seattle Mariners with a 6-2 victory.

"I misplayed two flyballs earlier, especially the one by (Domingo) Ramos in the eighth," Kemp said after hitting a three-run, inside-the-park homer to highlight a five-run eighth inning that enabled the New York Yankees to snap a four-game losing streak with a 6-2 triumph over the Seattle Mariners.

"It was hit right at me," continued Kemp. "For some reason I didn't think it was hit that hard. I took a step in then couldn't get back fast enough."

"People in New York let you know when they are happy with you and when they are unhappy. They let me know. I was glad to get the chance to redeem myself."

"I don't want to make this an excuse but with my shoulder hurt all year I have not been able to drive the ball until recently when I began to take certain exercises which have increased its strength."

"I felt good in batting practice today, but when I came up in the eighth, I just wanted to get a single and keep everything going."

Kemp's blow off Bill Caudill made Ed VandeBerg, 1-2, the loser. Gaylord Perry went seven innings, scattering seven hits, and had only thrown 76 pitches.

Perry's seven innings gave him 5,248 for fourth place on the all-time list, passing Warren Spahn who had 5,244.

Ron Guidry, 8-3, allowed six hits, walked two and struck out seven in going the distance for the fifth time.

Orioles 6, Blue Jays 1

At Baltimore, Cal Ripken hit a two-run homer and Leo Hernandez cracked a three-run shot to lead the Orioles to victory. The Orioles collected six hits, including five extra bases, off Luis Leal, 5-4, and helped Scott McGregor to his seventh victory in 10 decisions. McGregor allowed five hits, struck out two and walked none. Cliff Johnson hit his 10th homer for Toronto.

There were no games scheduled in the National League.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Boston Globe — Garvey Will Resign From NFLPA

BOSTON (UPI) — Ed Garvey, the controversial executive director of the National Football League Players Association for the past 12 years, is going to resign this weekend, the Boston Globe said today.

The newspaper, said Garvey already has told some of his close associates of his plans to resign, and he will be replaced temporarily by Gene Upshaw of the Los Angeles Raiders, who has been union president the past three years.

Upshaw would become executive director until a fulltime successor could be selected.

Garvey plans to make his resignation public at an awards banquet of the players association Sunday in Chicago, the newspaper said. Garvey will return to his native Wisconsin to work as a deputy attorney general.

Chicago Lassos Loughery

CHICAGO — The Atlanta Hawks and the Chicago Bulls have made a deal that will give the Bulls their fourth coach in five years.

The Atlanta team has given coach Kevin Loughery approval to sign a contract with the Bulls today in exchange for one of the Bulls' second-round picks in the upcoming NBA draft.

Bulls general manager Rod Thorn, who was Loughery's assistant when the latter coached the New York Nets of the defunct American Basketball Association, said Monday he was optimistic Loughery would sign the three-year contract, reportedly offering him $250,000 a year.

"We don't anticipate any problems, but that's what San Antonio thought about their coach," Thorn said, referring to the Spurs' problems with current coach Stan Albeck.

Belcher's Next Pitch Tests Calvin's Pocketbook; Ex-Sooner Lifts Texas

Baseball

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tim Belcher's next pitch will be to his toughest opponent, Minnesota Twins' owner Calvin Griffith.

Annually undermined by the major league's most feeble pitching staff, the Twins opened Monday's regular phase of the summer free agent draft by selecting the hard-throwing junior right-hander from Mt. Vernon (Ohio) Nazarene College.

The Twins also owned the No. 1 selection in the secondary phase — for players drafted previously but not signed — and they chose Arizona State outfielder Oddibe McDowell, who led the Sun Devils into the College World Series by blasting seven homers and knocking in 50 runs in 63 games.

Under the stern hand of Griffith, the Twins have developed a reputation for frugality and it's questionable whether the club will offer Belcher a six-figure signing bonus, usually tendered to the No. 1 player selected.

"I'm happy for the Twins and I'm happy for me," said Belcher, a 6-foot-3, 210-pound junior who struck out 93 batters in 66 innings this spring. "I had a pretty good indication the last few days that the Twins would draft me No. 1. I know they'll make an honest attempt to sign me."

"Everyone's intention starting out is to make it to the top and I know if I show them enough, the Twins will move me along up the ladder."

Minnesota's club ERA of 4.72 last season was the poorest in the majors and the Twins' staff is last again in 1983 with a 4.84 ERA. Belcher, whose fastball has been clocked at 95 mph, was 5-4 as a junior with an ERA of 2.86. He pitched a no-hitter and a pair of one-hitters.

The selection meeting began with the first two rounds of the regular phase, a special draft for clubs which lost Type "B" ranking players through the Re-Entry Draft and the entire secondary phase. The remainder of the regular phase will be conducted Tuesday and Wednesday.

In the regular phase, teams selected in reverse order of their finish the previous season, with the leagues alternating choices. The Twins picked first following their 60-102 mark in 1982. The selection order for the secondary phase was determined by lots drawn by the league presidents.

In the special draft, the Mets selected pitcher Cal Schiraldi of the University of Texas and the Chicago White Sox picked Wichita State outfielder Russell Morman. Schiraldi won his 13th game and lowered his ERA to 1.74 Friday, blanking James Madison 12-0 in the Longhorns' College World Series opener.

Cincinnati, selecting second in the regular phase, chose shortstop Curt Stillwell, a switch-hitter from Thousand Oaks (Calif.) High School who batted .552 this spring. The Reds announced Stillwell had signed less than 30 minutes after he was chosen.

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Jamie Doughty went to junior college in Oklahoma and seemed set to continue his collegiate baseball career at Oklahoma State.

But no sooner did Doughty look to be headed for the Cowboys, he was no Sooner. period. The infielder chose to attend Texas, and Oklahoma State now wishes he had decided otherwise.

Doughty doubled to right center field in the 11th inning, scoring Mike Trent with the winning run and leading the top-ranked Longhorns to a 6-5 College World Series victory over Oklahoma State in a second-round winner's bracket contest.

The Cowboys sent the game into extra innings Monday night when pinch hitter Kevin Jagielo started a two-out ninth-inning rally with a single to left. Kevin Fowler pinch ran for Jagielo and scored on Scott Wade's single, tying the game at 5-5.

Texas, 63-14, Thursday will face the winner of tonight's meeting between Michigan and Alabama. Oklahoma State, 48-15, will meet Arizona State on Wednesday in an elimination contest.

Trent reached on a walk from Oklahoma State reliever Gary Kanawisher. Doughty, who came in to play third base in the eighth inning, followed with his game-winning hit.

Texas coach Cliff Gustafson was proud of his infielder and said, "I didn't think Jamie Doughty was an unlikely candidate to be a hero. He played in Oklahoma and that had a little extra incentive."

Right Way To Get GIs To Write

DEAR ABBY: "Empty Mailbox in Yorba Linda" enlisted your help to get sons and daughters who are far from home in the military service to write home. All the parents wanted was an occasional note assuring them that their children were alive and well.

Your "To Whom It May Concern" message, addressed to those in the military, was fine, but I submit some additional advice:

Parents not receiving mail from their sons or daughters in the military may write to the command chaplain or commanding officer at the military member's address. The chaplain will "unofficially" counsel the serviceman or woman regarding family responsibilities and encourage him/her to write the parents. The commanding officer will "officially" counsel the member and "strongly" encourage family correspondence.

Writing these officers will not result in any trouble for the service member, unless he or she persistently refuses to follow the counsel given.

A CHAPLAIN IN OKINAWA

DEAR CHAPLAIN: I cannot imagine a more effective way to "encourage" our men and women in the military to write home. One "official" counseling session with the commanding officer should be sufficient.

Now let's hear it from a chaplain in Korea:

DEAR ABBY: I sympathize with "Empty Mailbox in Yorba Linda," but what's wrong with the parents? Abby, soldiers have told me that their parents didn't even send them a Christmas card, but their pen pals came through!

Tell Mom and Dad that their child away from home needs their letters even though the young men and women in the service don't write home much. Being away from home is a new experience for most of them. Their days are often boring and monotonous; there isn't much to write about because they've said it all in the previous letter.

I've had many soldiers tell me they hate to write home because they're trying hard to act grown up, and they don't want to depress their parents by telling them they feel homesick and blue, so they just don't write at all.

So, have a heart, you folks at home, and write anyway.

HUBERT WADE JR.,

CHAPLAIN, KOREA

DEAR ABBY: "Been Through the Ring" complains because concerned friends telephone constantly to inquire about the condition of a seriously ill family member. Because I have also been through the ring, I offer this solution:

Rent, borrow or buy a telephone answering machine. Record your message on the tape. It should be brief. Example: "I'm condition is unchanged, and we are still greatly concerned. No visitors at this time. When we hear from the doctor, we will update this message. Please leave your name and phone number so we will know that you cared enough to call. We'll get back to you as soon as possible. Thank you for understanding why we are not taking personal calls at this time."

Abby, you'll probably get a thousand letters with this same suggestion, but by publishing just one, you could lighten the burden of thousands of exhausted people.

SMARTER NOW

DEAR SMARTER: Thanks for a helpful suggestion.

In And Around Longwood

Sertoma Goes All Out For Gala Charity Night

The Longwood Sertoma Club has special plans for a "Charity Night" program to be held on June 17. Members are raising funds to benefit local children with speech or hearing impairments.

The charity night program will be held in the Matland Civic Center, beginning at 7 p.m., and will include dining and dancing.

The Sertomans are asking for a donation of $125 for the night, and it will include cocktails, hors d'oeuvres, the buffet dinner and musical entertainment by the Crossroads band.

Master of ceremonies night will be State Rep. Art Grindle. Highlights of the program will be the presentation of a fully equipped 1983 Cadillac Coupe de Ville to one of the couples in attendance plus at least 16 door prizes to be awarded.

On a nationwide level, the Sertoma organization emphasizes speech and hearing impairments as its major philanthropy. Locally, funds raised from this charity night program will go toward helping to defray the medical expenses of 6-year-old Jake Allen and his family.

Jake, who is both legally blind and deaf, recently underwent costly surgery to help correct his medical problems. Jake, his parents, and a therapist will travel to Los Angeles in June for another operation to connect a coil that will allow him to hear for the first time in his life. Then Jake will begin the long process of therapy to teach him what to do with the sounds he will hear.

Proceeds from charity night will also be used to provide special camp scholarships for several Central Florida hearing impaired children.

Due to space, the charity night program will be limited to the first 300 reservations. All donations are tax deductible, and receipts and formal invitations will be sent upon request of the donor.

For more information, call 869-4634, or mail donations to the Longwood

Sabal Point Elementary School has elected the following persons to serve as PTA officers in 1983-84: Denise Gittings, president; Arliss Turner, first vice-president; Cathy Wise, second vice-president; Robert Adams, treasurer; Joan Palmer, recording secretary and Joan Nodzon, corresponding secretary.

The PTA has recently sponsored a Teacher Appreciation Day with a shrimp salad luncheon. Teachers were relieved of the usual lunchroom duties by PTA moms, so they could go to the luncheon. All the school's teachers, staff members and custodians were honored for their outstanding work throughout the last school year.

Sabal Point's kindergarten class has a water day party planned for the last day of school. Children will be allowed to play in the sprinklers and romp through mounds of shaving cream.

The youngsters also put on a play and sing-a-long for their parents on June 6, and took a bus trip to the Central Florida Zoo.

Other end-of-year highlights were a softball game between faculty and the fifth grade all-stars, a fifth grade science and ecology trip out to Discovery Island at Disney World and the school's gifted children "Book Awards."

This week, children will be delighted to attend two movies that the school will run in the auditorium, "Cinderella," and "The Apple Dumpling Gang."

Second Image Has Clothing For Women

Second Image consignment shop, located in the Pine Crest Shopping Center on Highway 17-92 at 27th Street in Sanford, now specializes exclusively in fashionable women's merchandise including beautiful new and like new wedding gowns in a variety of styles at affordable prices.

Co-owners Margie and Aubrey Combs celebrated the second anniversary of Second Image in April. Originally located on South Sanford Avenue, they moved the shop last year to its present location next to Medco Drug Store and Jewel T to better serve their customers. There is plenty of convenient parking space available.

Margie is now featuring summer clothing such as bathing suits, shorts and sun dresses. She is accepting new and "like new" warm weather merchandise for women on consignment from local individuals and retailers.

The price is agreed upon by the consignee and Second Image, which receives 60 percent of the sale price after the sale. Any items not sold may be picked up at the end of 90 days by the consignee. Consignment items are reduced up to 25 percent after 30 days and up to 50 percent after 60 days.

Second Image has women's clothing from size 8 to 56. Fashions range from long and short formals to sportswear, including famous name brand dresses and designer jeans. They also have maternity clothing.

The shop also has lingerie, jewelry and accessories, such as shoes, handbags, hats and scarves to complete the outfit.

Margie has a good selection of nice costume jewelry including crystal and rhinestone jewelry.

Be sure to check the dollar clearance rack and the "vintage" 1940s-50s style clothing, which is presently on sale for half-price.

Visa and Master Charge cards are accepted and Second Image offers a convenient lay-away plan. The store is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. For further information, call 323-9421.

What Is It?

Blue Book Value

What is Blue Book value? If you should need to buy, sell, trade, rent or service an automobile, Jim Lash's Blue Book Cars is all you need to know.

Blue Book value is Blue Book Cars offering 100 vehicles in stock ranging from $199 to $1,500 so that there is a car for your pocket book and taste.

Because Jim Lash has been in the automobile business for 28 years in this area and has operated his used car sales from the same location at 4114 S. Orlando Ave., (Highway 17-92 south of Lake Mary Boulevard), Sanford, you can be sure he is not a "here today and gone tomorrow" dealer. You can depend on him to offer the best in service and quality used cars.

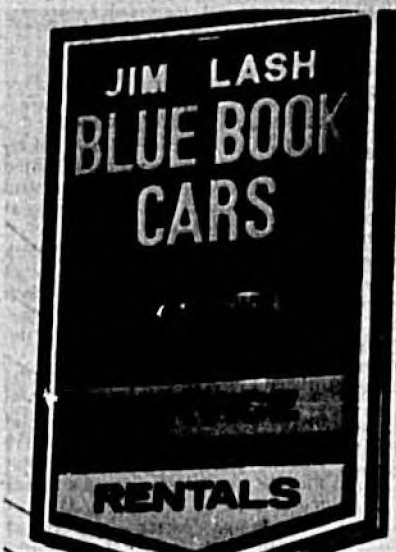

His experience buyers hand pick his used cars from new car dealers, fleets and private individuals, not in large lots. They are then checked over by the service department prior to selling and must pass rigid inspection. They are then reconditioned appearance-wise as well as mechanically. The detail shop thoroughly cleans the interior, waxes, and buffs the cars and even paints the engine before they go on the lot.

"We warranty our used cars for 30, 60, or 90 days depending on the make, model or year," said Steve Lash, general manager of Blue Book Cars.

Blue Book value is the Blue Book Service Center with diagnostic equipment utilizing the latest in electronic systems for wheel balancing, engine testing, alignments, electrical and other major car components.

Now is the time to bring in your car to the experienced mechanics in the service center for a check if you are planning a summer trip.

Blue Book value is Jim Lash Rent-a-Car from $9.99 a day and up. These cars come equipped with automatic transmission, air conditioning and 100 free miles each day. If your car is in the shop for repair or you are temporarily in need of a second car, Blue Book Cars offers economical alternative transportation.

Jim Lash Blue Book Cars employees ready to serve you.

Chamber Chief

Dennis Courson, president of Flagship Bank of Seminole and chairman of the board of Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, has been elected 1983-84 president of the Central Florida Association of Chambers of Commerce. Courson was installed at the association's quarterly meeting held last week in Mount Dora. The group includes chambers from Seminole and five other counties.

Court Reinstates Windfall Oil Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The oil industry reacted angrily to a unanimous Supreme Court decision reinstating the windfall oil profits tax that will cost producers tens of billions of dollars.

The justices, voting 9-0, Monday reversed a Cheyenne, Wyo., judge's ruling striking down the tax because its exemption for Alaskan oil discriminated against other states.

H.B. Scoggins, general counsel for the Independent Petroleum Association of America, vowed to continue the fight to overturn the levy, passed in 1980 to curb oil producers' profits stemming from decontrol of oil prices.

Describing the ruling as "a blow to the energy security of the United States," Scoggins warned it will "cause marginal oil wells to be abandoned."

"We won't accept it," he said, explaining that other legal questions remain at issue and may prompt other suits.

Association Chairman Kye Trout said from his home in Bismarck, N.D., the decision was "a major blow to an already hard hit industry."

"The continuation of this tax is only going to make it more difficult for domestic producers to expand domestic production. It virtually guarantees that we will be hooked on foreign energy for a long time to come."

An opposite view came from Edwin Rothchild, assistant director of the Citizen-Labor Energy Coalition, who praised the ruling because it shows "the government has every right to tax the windfall profits earned by oil producers."

In a separate decision Monday, the high court said when licensing a nuclear power plant, the government does not need to consider what environmental harm the reactor's radioactive waste would cause if it leaked from storage.

The ruling, also unanimous, enables the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to bypass concerns about dangers from permanent waste disposal when it licenses an atomic plant. This provoked a favorable reaction from that industry, with an Atomic Industrial Forum spokesman saying a "cloud has been lifted" from licensing decisions.

While the windfall profits tax ruling was being appealed, the U.S. Treasury continued collecting the tax, reporting net revenues through 1982 of $27.4 billion. But falling oil prices and business tax breaks in 1981 reduced the government's projected take of $66 billion through 1988 to $58 billion.

The government had fought to have the tax restored on grounds the revenue is crucial to controlling federal deficits.

Justice Lewis Powell, who wrote the high court's opinion, accepted the government's arguments, saying Congress could not be faulted for determining that Alaskan oil needed favorable treatment.

It had before it "ample evidence of the disproportionate costs and difficulties — the fragile ecology, the harsh environment, and the remote location — associated with extracting oil from this region," he noted.

"Nothing ... suggests that Congress intended to grant Alaska an undue preference at the expense of other oil-producing states," Powell wrote, noting that less than 20 percent of Alaskan oil escapes taxation.

The exempted oil is produced in Alaska north of the Arctic Circle, which was spared from taxation by the Crude Oil Windfall Profit Tax Act of 1980.

In other action Monday, the court:

— Unanimously struck down a Tennessee law that required mothers to file paternity suits against the fathers of illegitimate children within two years.

— Agreed to examine whether financially pressed Memphis, Tenn., could lay off white workers with seniority to protect the jobs of newly-hired minority workers.

Way To Go

The 1983 recipient of Stetson University's Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award is Russell D. Crumley, a senior from Sanford. The award is given to seniors who represent the most outstanding qualities of leadership and Christian faith at Stetson. Presenting the award is school provost Dr. Denton Coker.

Beach Boys Get White House Gig

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Beach Boys, who embarrassed Interior Secretary James Watt and won friends in high places, will play at the White House this weekend, not far from where Watt once wanted to have such performances barred.

The White House announced Monday that the group, known for its close harmony and lyrics of California summers, will play on the South Lawn Sunday during a reception benefiting the Special Olympics program for handicapped young people.

The contact was initiated by officials of the Special Olympics, but White House officials said the final decision was up to the president and Mrs. Reagan, who stood up for the Beach Boys in an earlier feud with Watt.

"The president and Mrs. Reagan thought it would be a grand idea and extended the invitations," said Sheila Tate, Mrs. Reagan's press secretary.

The appearance will be a fitting and somewhat ironic encore to the unrelated controversy generated this spring when Watt ordered rock groups banned from this year's Fourth of July celebration on the Washington Monument grounds.

The conservative interior secretary said past performances by rock bands on the grassy mall, which have included the Beach Boys, attracted drug and alcohol abuse and other undesirable behavior.

Watt said this year's traditional observance would be more family-oriented, with patriotic music, fireworks and Las Vegas singer Wayne Newton as the headline performer.

But his view of the Beach Boys was disputed in short order by a succession of administration officials — from presidential assistant Michael Deaver to Vice President George Bush and finally the president himself — and prompted a quick reversal of policy.

Watt, smiling broadly if somewhat sheepishly, emerged from an April 6 meeting with Reagan carrying a plaster foot with a hole in it that he said symbolized how "I shot myself in the foot." Watt told reporters he looked forward to having the Beach Boys "in Washington to entertain us again."

Up to 1,000 people — including members of the Cabinet and financial supporters of the Special Olympics for handicapped children — are expected to attend the reception, similar to one held last year at the vice president's residence. It was not known whether Watt will be among them.

The program begins with a brunch for individuals who contribute at least $500 to the Special Olympics program, then moves on to the world premiere of the movie "Superman III" at 8:25 a ticket.

Those attending the premiere will travel on to the White House for a picnic, exhibition and remarks by Reagan. "Superman" star Christopher Reeve and Special Olympics President Eunice Shriver.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
JUNE 8, 1983

Do not give up on things for which you have worked long and hard. They could come into fruition in the year ahead. Keep plugging along familiar lines.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Normally you are not disturbed by outside influences, but today you will be able to get more accomplished if you work in a quiet environment. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $1 for your Gemini Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Involving yourself in new projects today will help refurbish your outlook. The more practical they are, the more successful you are apt to be.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Others may be overwhelmed by challenges today, but this is not likely to be true in your case. You'll welcome situations which test your mettle.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Critical developments can be dealt with successfully today if you keep your cool and use your common sense. Take time to deliberate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're likely to be better at managing the affairs of others today than you will be at handling your own. However, this will work to your advantage.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Where important decisions are concerned today, you're not apt to be wishy-washy. You'll know exactly where you stand and so will your associates.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Being restricted or staring at the same four walls could depress your spirits today. Plan activities which constantly keep you on the go.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The art of accumulating should work to your advantage today in material situations, as well as in other areas. Use your Midas touch.

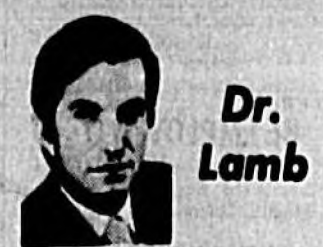

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Sometimes it's essential to focus on your personal interests. In order to advance your cause it may be necessary for you to do so today.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Running: What's The Heart's Role?

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am really into running and am very interested in how it affects the heart and circulation. I know you are a consultant to the President's Council on Physical Fitness & Sports. Could you give me some specifics on how running affects the heart?

Dr. Lamb

I know it makes your heart beat faster and it increases the work of the heart but how does this relate to how fast or how far you run? People call running an aerobic exercise. Why? What does the heart have to do with air? I know your legs have to be built up for good running but how about the heart? Is it built up too? Can it be over built? Can you have a muscle bound heart?

DEAR READER — I am glad to hear you are following a good exercise program. Exercise is really for everyone who does not have a medical problem that prevents it. But running is not for everyone. You have to build up to it and a good training program should include training for the heart itself.

Yes, the heart muscle is developed and responds to increased exercise much like the skeletal muscles do to increased effort.

There is a connection between the heart and aerobics. You must have oxygen for your muscles to break down basic nutrient blocks such as glucose and fatty acids in the muscle fibers. The muscles need this energy to work. For each calorie your body uses, 215 ml. of oxygen must be provided. That oxygen is delivered by your circulation. As your oxygen requirements increase from exercise, the heart must pump more blood and that means more work for the heart.

The work is healthy if it is not overdone in the wrong way. It strengthens and even improves the metabolic efficiency of the heart muscle. It helps improve the blood flow through the small arteries

In the heart muscle itself.

I have discussed the specifics of how exercise affects the heart in The Health Letter 14-10, Exercising Your Heart, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My mother and father are constantly arguing about sex. He wants it every other night and she'd prefer not to have any. She's in her 50s and he is in his 60s. She says he's oversexed and he says she doesn't love him anymore.

Could you please help because I'm really worried it's going to cause them to separate. Is there a pill he could take to calm his sex drive or vice versa?

DEAR READER — Surveys show that your father's request is not unreasonable and is well within the average range. It is not normal for a woman in her 50s who is married not to be interested in or engaged in sex. There is usually a reason.

The reason could be the way your father treats her. Or your mother may feel degraded rather than loved depending upon what really happens. Or your mother could have a medical problem because of insufficient female hormone production which occurs in her age. She should go see her doctor for an examination and ask him about the problem.

If she doesn't have a medical problem, they could both profit from counseling to try to resolve their differences.

1932 team match. He sat South and decided to try to deprive his vulnerable opponents of bidding space by his jump to four spades — not that he didn't expect that he might bring it in, giving his partner a major-suit ace and third-round diamond control.

The rest of the bidding is almost self-explanatory. East's bid of six clubs was an attempt to get Ely to bid six spades. East wanted to extract a bigger penalty than he expected against just five spades, and East was sure that Ely would not let his vulnerable opponents play in six clubs.

So poor East doubled, and as you can see, all East could score was his ace of trumps.

In 1932, matches were scored in total points, and Ely's score for making six spades doubled was 1210.

At the other table East decided to take the expected profit at five doubled. The score for five doubled making six was just 750 points, so Ely's net gain was 460 points.
