County Approves Tax For Jail

Seminole County voters gave a green light to a 1-year, 1-cent sales tax, which will cover the cost of improvements and expansion of the county's correction facilities.

Seminole County Sheriff John E. Polk, who was a major backer of the tax, called passage of the levy, "A victory for the citizens of the county, not just for me."

Seminole County voters approved the tax in a 39,759 to 26,414 vote.

"I'll say I'm happy," Polk said.

"It's a gleeful victory. I think the people got the message. We needed that tax and they believed it. We believed everybody should pay and not just the property owners."

The one-cent sales tax, which will be in effect only in 1985, will apply to the first $1,000 in purchases in any single transaction. The tax is expected to bring in $13.2 million in revenue.

The money can be used only for criminal justice facilities improvements and construction.

Among the planned improvements is jail expansion. Five hundred beds will be added to the jail, more than doubling its capacity. In addition to more beds the jail expansion project will include construction of access roads to the jail from U.S. Highway 17-92 at Five Points.

The tax revenue will also cover costs of courthouse renovations and improvements including the addition of more courtrooms and an improvement in the courthouse security system.

A metal detector for the courthouse and bullet-proof protection for judges and witnesses are planned for courtrooms along with construction of a sally port where prisoners can be transferred into the courthouse without having contact with the public outside or in the hallways of the courthouse.

Polk said the tax will put part of the funding burden on non-Seminole County residents who

Kirchhoff May Be Challenged

Incumbents Keep Commission Seats

By Donna Estes

While Republican County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff was recording a third term election landslide win Tuesday night, an unsuccessful candidate in the September Democratic primary was threatening to challenge his election.

Alfred DeLattibeaudiere said he will go to federal court or wherever is necessary to challenge the election, insisting his winning opponent Sept. 4, Samuel "Sam" Black, who went down to defeat at Kirchhoff's hands, did not properly qualify for the race.

Kirchhoff received 49,328 votes to 17,561 for Black.

Meanwhile, Commissioner Barbara Christensen won a second term against Carl Patin of Casselberry, who was running for public office for the first time. Mrs. Christensen's tally was 45,285 to Patin's 22,819.

DeLattibeaudiere said he found out Sunday that a check for $1,323.30 paid by Black to Supervisor of Elections Sandy Goard as his candidate qualifying fee "bounced."

"That means he didn't qualify properly and on time," DeLattibeaudiere said Tuesday night as votes were being counted.

"Yes, I could have beaten Kirchhoff, if I had been the Democratic nominee," DeLattibeaudiere said.

Black explained that a check his campaign had received was returned for insufficient funds, but he had already used those monies for his qualifying fee.

And Mrs. Goard said when Black's check was returned for insufficient funds, the state elections office, advised her to notify Black to pay the

Speaking of his election defeat, Black he felt "like a winner" even though he lost the election.

Reagan Routs Mondale

From Staff and Wire Reports

Seminole voters preferred Ronald Reagan by a 3 to 1 margin, giving the president 58,229 votes to Mondale's 17,789, a 75.7 percent sweep of the local electorate.

Nationwide the vote was 59 percent for Reagan, 41 percent for Mondale.

The runaway ballot in Seminole County no surprise to the Seminole County Executive Republican Committee.

Jim Wineberg, chairman of the committee, said the large vote for Reagan was just what the committee has predicted. He said the tally comprised of party-following Republicans and Democratic cross-votes.

Riding roughshod over Mondale in 49 out of the 50 states, Reagan won re-election in a record landslide that brought new Republicans to Congress and prompted Reagan to boast to cheering supporters: "You ain't seen nothin' yet!"

Reagan's phrase, like his victory, may haunt Democrats until the next presidential election.

"We lost didn't we." That's how Marvin Meltzer head of the Seminole County Democrats summed up the presidential race.

"We just didn't reach the people. We ran a negative campaign and the President made people feel good. They aren't looking to tomorrow, just to today," Meltzer said.

The Democratic party will have to take a look at itself and make some honest adjustments to dig out from under Ronald Reagan's landslide victory over Walter Mondale, 59-year-old Meltzer of Longwood said.

"The President can make a starving man feel he's on easy street. We were running against an image. If we had told people they were well off, but I think you deserve a little better — a more positive campaign. I don't know if we would have won, but it would have been better than this," Meltzer said.

The Democratic party was unified for the election, Meltzer said, but it wasn't listening to what the people wanted. "We've lost the young people and the coalition that was supposed to be there just wasn't."

"John Glenn could have done better, Mario Cuomo might have won," Meltzer said.

Meltzer doesn't think Mondale's defeat marks the end of his political career. "Remember how many death blows he had. It hard to predict. In four years Mondale could be a hero, depending on how things go for Reagan."

Meltzer who is chairman of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee said that he doesn't believe having a female vice presidential candidate made a great deal of difference in the Democrats' showing. But he said he expects Geraldine Ferraro will return to Congress or will make a try for the Senate. He doesn't expect her to be in the running for president in 1988.

Meltzer does expect the Republicans to be split between the conservative and moderate factions after Reagan's reign. "We won't be running against an incumbent and an image in '88," Meltzer said. He hopes the Democrats will work toward unity and will listen more closely to the people to prepare for the next presidential race.

Meltzer had predicted an 85-percent voter turnout, "especially in Seminole County." He also expected other Republicans to ride Reagan's coat-tails into office.

Though President Reagan was once considered out of step with mainstream America, the 73-year-old apostle of conservative think-

Record Seminole Turnout

Vote-Counter Breakdowns Plague Officials

Exhausted elections officials and canvassing board members certified Tuesday's election in Seminole County at 9 a.m. today after spending the entire night stopping and restarting the tallying when first one and then the other of the county's two automatic punch card vote-counters broke down.

Brevard County election officials came to the rescue with the loan of two of its vote-counters which were picked up at the Seminole-Brevard county line by Sheriff John Polk at 4:30 a.m.

Lines of voters were long at most of the polling places in the county throughout the day. Supervisor of Elections Sandy Goard said, as 75,501 cast ballots in the election, the greatest number to vote in an election in county history.

The voter turnout was 78.3 percent of the 96,401 registered voters. Mrs. Goard had predicted an 82 percent turnout.

In several precincts voters who arrived at the polls after the 7 p.m. closing time were turned away. Those in line before 7 p.m. were allowed to vote.

Precinct 56, Deer Run, in Casselberry, ran out of ballots at 7:18 p.m. with the polling place full of voters who waited while Mrs. Goard sent more ballots by car. In some precincts voters were casting ballots at 8:30 p.m.

Since each voter had at least three ballots to vote on both sides and those voting in the cities of Winter Springs, Casselberry and Altamonte Springs each had another ballot, the vote counters actually tabulated nearly 250,000 punch card ballots.

To avert a possible power outage, Mrs. Goard said she had taken precautions by connecting the vote tallying computer to an emergency generator, but it had not occurred to her that more vote-counters were needed.

"I tried to do everything I could think of," she said.

She began work on election day at 5:45 p.m. and was still at her office after 9 this morning.

Synchronized Swimmers Put Sparkle In Games

By Susan Loden

Skill, spunk and sparkle marked Tuesday's Golden Age Games synchronized swimming meet.

And the sparkle wasn't just from the gold, silver and bronze the winners took home. The 12 women who swam solo glittered in the water with their colorful costumes which were topped off with head-pieces adorned with sequins, shells and bright fabrics.

And lone male in the solos, George Tuttle, 60, of Sun City Center, Fla., added a little humor to the Games when he donned an Army cap and jumped in to swim to the recorded tune of his own military drill-sergeant-type voice ordering him around the Lyman High School pool.

Tuttle a retired U.S. Army colonel said he felt like he was about 90 years old when he climbed out of the pool after his workout, but he added, "Somebody's got to do it."

The swimmer who was really expected to do it was national swimming champ Louise Wing, 66, of Lynn, Mass. Mrs. Wing took the gold in the 65 to 69 age group solos and she teamed up with her husband Fred, 72, to win top honors as a mixed duo.

In a field of five duo swim teams the Wings were the only male and female match, so they had no competition for the gold in their age group for that event.

Wing said he's new at the game having just started swimming with Mrs. Wing one month ago, but he has caught on quickly. He said men are just beginning to warm up to synchronized swimming.

Wing is an experienced long-distance and lap swimmer, but said he turned to synchronized swimming because it offers more variety in the strokes used.

After 33 years of marriage, Wing said, "The secret of working together is I respect her skills and I guess she respects mine. We both have patience and are athletic."

The swimmer who swam away with the silver in the competition with Mrs. Wing is also a model of patience and athletic skill. Eleanor East, 69, doesn't

Man Dies While Right To Die Case Drags On

GLENDALE, Calif. (UPI) — The attorney for a man who waged a lengthy court fight for the right to be taken off life support systems says he will pursue the case despite the man's death so future patients will not have to go through a similar ordeal.

William F. Bartling, 70, died at Glendale Adventist Medical Center Tuesday, the day before his case was to have been heard in a state appeal court. He died of complications resulting from emphysema, and was still on the life support respirator when he died, hospital spokesman Jim Gallagher said.

Bartling had been kept alive on a respirator since his lung collapsed during a biopsy in April.

Bartling was suffering from five potentially fatal illnesses — including emphysema, two types of atherosclerosis, an abdominal aneurysm and lung cancer. He sued the hospital in June to win the right to be disconnected from life support systems and allowed to die.

But hospital officials countered during several court hearings that allowing Bartling to die would be tantamount to aiding in a suicide.

U.S. To 'Attack' Jet Cargo?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The White House is closely monitoring a Soviet freighter believed loaded with "some kind of aircraft" — possibly MIG-21 fighter jets — heading toward Nicaragua, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said today.

Speakes said U.S. officials are not certain what cargo is on board the ship, but said the administration will not tolerate the delivery of MIGs to Nicaragua.

"We're concerned that any escalation of weapons into Nicaragua would constitute an alteration of the balance of power in the area," he said.

A CBS News report Tuesday said the United States may be considering a "surprise attack to destroy" the planes if they are aboard.

Speakes would not comment on what action the United States might take.

Nicaragua's Punta Huete airport, being built 20 miles north of Managua, has been criticized by the Reagan administration for having runways longer than Andrews Air Force Base — 12,000 feet long and capable of landing Soviet MIGs.

Double Execution Off; One Killer May Still Die

STARKE (UPI) — Appeals courts have stopped the nation's first double execution since 1965, but one of the two killers set to die in Florida's electric chair only got a temporary reprieve and may still be executed.

Florida's Supreme Court Tuesday granted an indefinite stay of execution to Chester Levon Maxwell and the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta granted a stay of execution until 10 a.m. Thursday to Timothy Charles Palmes.

But Palmes' death warrant does not expire until noon Thursday, giving Florida officials two hours in which to execute the 37-year-old convicted torture-killer.

Both Palmes and Maxwell had been scheduled to be executed in Florida's "Old Sparky" electric chair 7 a.m. Wednesday.

Maxwell, 29, was sentenced to death for killing a golfer during a Pompano Beach golf course robbery in 1980.

Palmes was sentenced for the October 1978 torture-murder of Jacksonville furniture store owner James Stone.

Layoffs At The Magic Kingdom

LAKE BUENA VISTA (UPI) — Walt Disney World announced it has laid off 100 of its 18,000 employees in the past two weeks to streamline operations in Florida.

Last week, Walt Disney Productions, the parent company of the theme parks, announced it was laying off about 100 people in California. Walt Disney World spokesman Bob Mervine said the Florida layoffs were not related to the California layoffs.

The terms of the Florida layoffs were not disclosed. Disney did not identify what types of workers were dismissed.

Official attendance figures have not been released yet, but a spokesman said Tuesday that attendance has dropped about 7 percent at Disney World's Epcot Center and Magic Kingdom in the last year.

Gambling Petitions Circulated

MIAMI (UPI) — Workers in 13 of the state's 19 congressional districts appeared at polling places Tuesday armed with petitions to put legalized casino gambling on the ballot in 1986.

Organizers said about 800 people were collecting signatures and hoped to gather about a third of the 300,000 that will be required during the effort.

The effort is being sponsored by the Citizens Committee for Jobs and Tourism, a group of south Florida businessmen headed by hotel owners Stephen Muss of Miami Beach, Bennett Lifter of Sunny Isles and Irving Cowan of Hollywood.

The new proposal would give counties the option of approving casino gambling in hotels with rooms numbering 500 or more. The idea is less sweeping than two earlier proposals — one in 1978 which was defeated by a 2-1 margin and another that failed in the petition stage earlier this year.

Republicans Hold Onto Senate, Democrats Control House

Reagan's 2nd Term May Be Tougher

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republicans maintained a narrow edge in the Senate today giving President Reagan a fragile power base to begin his second term, but Democrats held on to their House majority, denying him a rubber-stamp Congress.

With all the Senate races called, the Republicans suffered a net loss of two seats from their earlier 55-45 majority that helped Reagan press his agenda in Congress.

The new 53-47 lineup — the result of Democratic upsets of Senate Foreign Relations chairman Charles Percy, R-Ill., and Sen. Roger Jepsen, R-Iowa, will provide Reagan with a bare majority in the Senate.

The Republicans won two key conservative races with right-wing leader Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina being re-elected after a tight, expensive and dirty race with Democratic challenger Gov. James Hunt and Democrat-turned-Republican Rep. Phil Gramm beat liberal state Sen. Lloyd Doggett of Texas to fill the seat vacated by retiring Sen. John Tower.

Despite the Senate majority, the president is not likely to repeat the stunning legislative victories of his first term as the House remained in the hands of the

In the House, Republicans, aided by Reagan's dramatic sweep to victory, made inroads into the Democratic majority, but failed to recapture the 26 seats they lost in the 1982 election.

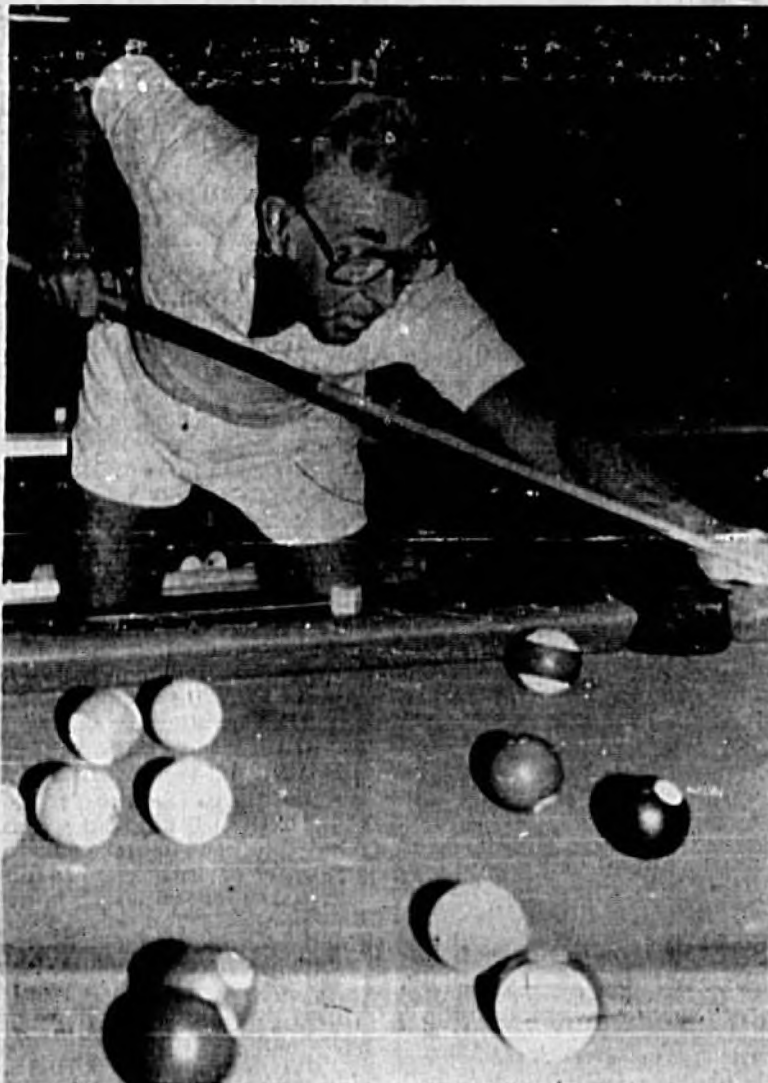

O'Neill, D-Mass., said the returns showed the GOP would end up with no more than 12 new seats. Late counts indicated the gain could be as high as 18 — still not enough to revive the alliance with conservative Democrats that gave Reagan victories on several key issues in the first two years of his presidency.

By 7 a.m., Democrats had captured 248 of the 435 House seats and Republicans had won 175. Twelve races were too close to call. The Democrats needed 218 for the numerical edge required to continue running the House.

Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., 84, the oldest member of Congress, won re-election to his 12th term.

In the showcase Senate contest — the most expensive in history — two-term GOP veteran Helms, the leading spokesman for the New Right, won re-election over Democratic challenger Hunt in North Carolina following a mudslinging campaign that cost a record $23 million.

In other Senate races, Democratic West Virginia Gov. Jay Rockefeller defeated Republican businessman John Raese.

James Wheland, 65, of Orlando, executes a fast move in Monday's slow-paced final round of men's eight-ball billiards. But it wasn't fast enough. Wheland took home the silver medal.

Leach Latches Onto Gold For Second Straight Year

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Three and a half hours after they said, "Rack 'em up," for the Golden Age Games men's billiards competition, John Leach walked off with the gold medal.

Monday's eight-ball competition marked the 70-year-old Leach's second straight championship in that event, but the Fern Park man said this year's competition was tough.

"They're all tough. It could always go either way," Leach said. But at the end when out of a field of 36 players the quest for the gold came down to a match between Leach and silver medalist James Wheland, 65, of Orlando. Leach shut out his opponent in the first of two final rounds. Leach broke for the opening and ran the table (sank all the balls) leaving Wheland without a chance to shoot.

Wheland, who had played aggressively up to the finals, continued to do so into the second game. They played cat-and-mouse, both playing it safe, positioning the cue ball on each shot so the other couldn't get a clear shot at clearing the table when his turn came.

After about 20 minutes of stalemated playing, judge Al Green ordered Leach to make a shot to the rail to open up the game. Leach, who said he started playing billiards when he was in his teens and now plays about three times a week, followed Green's order and went on to win the final heat of the match.

John Eklund, 69, of Wauchula, went home with the bronze medal after winning over Lyle Christensen, 71, of Ellen, town.

In an earlier round, Eklund eliminated the man many considered to be the one to beat when he knocked 80-year-old Mynderse Russell of Eustis out of the game. Russell, the oldest player in the game, had taken home the silver medal in 1983 and had said he planned to do the best he could in Monday's match at Woogie's Pub on U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford.

Another old-timer who had his hopes dashed in his first match of this year's Games was 79-year-old Louis Ambrose, who took the gold in 1980. Ambrose, a 50-year veteran at the billiard table, said before his match that he didn't know how good he would be because he had just gotten out of the hospital and had left his personal cue stick at home.

Many of the other players came prepared with their own cue sticks in hand and all seemed determined if not to win to at least have a good time trying at the Optimist Club-sponsored event.

Why Would Anyone Steal Kids' Retainers?

A thief who broke into Robert Kuhn's Sanford home stole his children's oral retainers.

The Kuhn home was broken into Monday between 8:30 a.m. and 2:45 p.m., the report said.

A suspect was identified in a photo lineup by one of the victims and Tommy Lee Isaac, 24, of 4th Street, was arrested at 2:15 a.m. Monday on Second Street at Cypress Avenue, Sanford.

He was charged with grand theft and robbery and was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

Paramedic Program Wins Big In Casselberry

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer
Casselberry voters breathed new life back into the city's paramedic program Tuesday with an overwhelming passage of a referendum guaranteeing the program's existence for four more years.

By an 88 to 12 percent margin — or 3,905 votes to 530 — the voters said they wanted to keep the $200,000 program through 1988. If the referendum had failed, the program would have expired in December 1985, according to city fire marshal John Tilghman.

He called the immense voter approval "wonderful" and said it enables paramedics to keep providing a needed service to residents of the city.

"We were expecting for it to pass because of the service we've given the citizens in the past," Tilghman said.

Elsewhere on the Casselberry ballot, three city council seats were up for grabs.

In the Seat 1 race, 47-year-old incumbent Richard Russo solidly beat political newcomer William Ritter 3,360 votes to 1,473. Russo interpreted the vote as the people's voice saying, "Yes, we think you've done a good job and we want you to continue."

He said his biggest challenge in office will be finding an alternative for sewage treatment other than the Iron Bridge plant, upon which the government has put a moratorium on capacity.

He also said he plans to push for another form of government to ease tensions and increase professionalism in Casselberry's city government.

Rather than the mayor-council form the city voted for last December, Russo said, "I personally feel we need to have a city manager form of government."

In the race for Seat 2, incumbent Frank Stone had a rematch with Frank Schutte and narrowly beat him, 2,562 votes to 2,228. Stone, a former city firefighter, ousted Schutte, a retired Navy officer, from office in 1982.

Stone said he won because Schutte was too "abrasive" toward Casselberry residents. By contrast he said he "will listen to everyone" before making decisions. He said Schutte's opposition to the paramedic program also turned more voters his way.

"There are people at home ...

alive today because of the Casselberry paramedic program," Stone said.

But Schutte pointed to the difference in campaign contributions and said Stone, because of large financial backing, will "bend for developers." Stone received $773 in campaign contributions, much of which came from developers and homeowners groups. Schutte, whose campaign cost him $500, said he took no contributions from anyone.

In jockeying for Seat 3, incumbent Carl Robertson, a furniture store manager, shut down business consultant Gloria Mae Smith's first bid for public office, 2,972 votes to 1,835. Robertson said he was "grateful to the people" for returning him to office. He said serving his fourth term on the council will bring it "continuity" and "harmony."

Growth management is the biggest issue the council has to tackle, he said. His opponent said she is taking a well-deserved rest after "a very good campaign." But Mrs. Smith said she would remain active in city politics.

In Altamonte Springs, there was a virtual cliffhanger in the District 4 city commission race. Former stand-up comedian and restaurant owner Eddie Rose, 61, edged out the incumbent, 45-year-old businessman Robert Reis by a mere 58 votes. Rose got 3,324 votes, or 50.4 percent, to Reis' 3,266, 49.5 percent margin.

Rose, in a jubilant quip about the results, said he thought "Close only counted in horse shoes and hand grenades."

He said his goal was to be a more "approachable" commissioner who preserves the natural beauty of the city's residential areas.

"I want people to drive by and say, 'Hey, that looks like Altamonte Springs, not Chicago,'" said Rose, the former manager of the city's civic center.

Reis could not be reached today for comment.

Two other Altamonte Springs city commissioners and the mayor ran unopposed. Voters returned Commissioners Lee Constantine of District 2, Bruce Furino of District 3, and Mayor Ray Ambrose to office.

In Winter Springs, the mayoral race pitted incumbent John Torcaso against Marty Trencher, vice president of a Maitland computer company.

Torcaso took 60 percent of the votes, 2,950, while Trencher netted 1,957, or about 40 percent.

Torcaso said he felt "fantastic" and said he now plans to go to work to alleviate traffic congestion in the city and to get it a post office soon.

In the District 2 city commission contest, Arthur Hoffmann, a 63-year-old engineer, and Larry Cerra, a 27-year-old former student, competed for the seat vacated by Commissioner Buck Adkins. Hoffmann beat Cerra 2,383 votes to 1,359. Echoing Torcaso's remarks, Hoffmann said he wants to help develop a plan for reducing traffic congestion.

"You shouldn't have to wait until you have a serious accident to get something done," he said.

The District 4 commission race saw incumbent Bill Jacobs defeat Ray Bradshaw 2,517 votes to 2,204. Jacobs, bleary-eyed from waiting all night for the returns, said he will "continue to provide the services and keep the taxes as low as they are."

Voter turnout in Winter Springs was good with about 76 percent of the city's 6,805 voters going to the polls. In Altamonte Springs, 64 percent of its 11,612 voters turned out. And in Casselberry, 73 percent of the city's 7,191 voters cast their ballots.

Opening For Mafia Fighters

Recent events in Sicily and Italy provide evidence of strain and convulsions within the upper echelons of the Mafia.

Scores of leaders were arrested after testimony by informer Tommaso Buscetta about the high commission that reportedly controls the Mafia.

This was followed by what was described as the worst gangland massacre since World War II, when eight young men were shot to death in a stable in East Palermo.

Buscetta said a massacre like that could not have happened without the consent of the commission.

The killings could demonstrate that the Mafia families are under pressure, a situation that could work to the advantage of law enforcement agencies.

Because Mafia affairs are so interwoven between Italy and the United States, it is important that law enforcement officers in the two countries continue to cooperate as they have in handling the leads provided by Buscetta.

U.S. Attorney General William French Smith said the case marked the first time the two countries had cooperated in such a project by involving "policy-level officials who have the authority to make decisions."

The impact of the Mafia on the U.S. economy is enormous. The President's Commission on Organized Crime has estimated that the Mafia takes up to $168 billion a year in this country. In recent years the Mafia has expanded its influence on the drug trade and now reportedly supplies much of the heroin brought into the United States.

Buscetta's testimony and the cooperation of U.S. and Italian authorities may have given Mafia-fighters an opportunity to break the sinister grip of the organization.

An Odd Report

Amnesty International served up a mixed bag (as in apples and oranges) of findings in its 1984 annual report on human rights abuses around the world.

The London-based organization got a lot of publicity for expressing concern about an increase in the number of executions in the United States and the number of inmates sitting on death row in American prisons.

We have no criticism of Amnesty International for opposing the death penalty. But it seems a little odd to even mention capital punishment in the United States in the same breath as torture in Soviet-controlled Afghanistan and wholesale executions after "swift trials" in China.

Death penalties are pronounced in the United States only for real crimes and only after exhaustive trials and appeals during which the accused receives all the benefit from both doubts and legal technicalities.

There is a great difference between a death penalty imposed reluctantly and under a system carefully constructed to serve justice and the summary executions motivated in some parts of the world by political expedience, revenge, hatred or simple cruelty.

Amnesty International should understand these distinctions as well as any individual or organization, and we believe it does. We hope it doesn't continue to mix apples and oranges in future reports.

BERRY'S WORLD

DICK WEST

No Respect For Ideally Suited Candidate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bozo the clown may have been a victim of miscasting.

With his orange wig, light bulb nose, floppy shoes and red, white and blue suit, he appeared ideally suited to be a politician.

He was a Tip O'Neill look-alike whose name was tailor-made for a movie marquee at a Ronald Reagan film festival. "Bedtime for Bozo" could have been a big hit.

Moreover, Bozo had that rare gift of making a 30-minute extemporaneous speech seem like it lasted four hours. Yet, in all the pre-election polls, he wasn't even mentioned. Maybe the country just wasn't ready to have a real clown in the race.

Or, with his penchant for verbosity and circumlocution, he probably should have been running for the Senate rather than as a write-in candidate for president.

Near the end of the campaign, Bozo, a.k.a. Larry Harmon, returned to the scene of the crime, so to speak, for a news conference at the National Press Club, where he first announced his candidacy last March.

It took him about 30 minutes to respond to three or four questions. That was truly a virtuoso performance. His act was fully as impressive as any I have seen or heard in the Senate chamber, a.k.a. the Cave of the Winds.

Because he campaigned in a "Bozo bus" and wore a clown's makeup and costume, many voters apparently didn't take his White House aspirations seriously. But not Bozo himself.

He patterned himself verbally, if not physically, after Harry Truman and claimed to have logged more campaign miles than HST did whistle-stopping in 1948.

"The bus stops here," Bozo would assert in a Truman-like manner at cities he visited during the campaign.

(Truman, by the way, served as a U.S. senator before becoming chief executive. You can draw your own parallels from that.)

Bozo's abilities, vis-a-vis Reagan and Walter Mondale, obviously were suspect in polling places where he was registered as a write-in candidate. But I found myself in total agreement with a couple of his campaign promises.

Among other things, he vowed to eliminate the office of U.S. vice president and to support tax reform legislation that would depreciate human beings rather than property.

Both are promises I would make myself, given the opportunity.

The fact that it was legal to write in his name in only 36 states and the District of Columbia became Bozo's biggest campaign issue. He felt that voters in all 50 states and assorted territories where votes are counted should have had the option of casting ballots in his favor.

"Anyone with the ability should have the opportunity" to be president, reasoned Bozo, who apparently had no doubts about his own ability.

But several of the states in which he tried to register his candidacy told him "No way, Jose" when he inquired about write-ins, he lamented.

Perhaps he would have been less offended if they had told him "No go, Bozo."

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Over 70 Not Black Mark

In the final weeks of the presidential election campaign, President Reagan's opponents are pulling out all the stops in asserting that he is too old to be the nation's chief executive.

It is odd that this is the case because the American population is aging and age discrimination is now against the law.

But what about the age factor? Is it true that men in their seventies should not exercise political leadership? To judge whether this is a correct perspective, it's worthwhile to review political leadership in the post-World War II era. Asked to name three of the political giants of the era, one undoubtedly would mention Winston Churchill of Britain, Charles deGaulle of France, and Konrad Adenauer of West Germany.

What do history books tell about these giants? Well, Churchill was reelected Prime Minister in 1951 at age 77. Gen. deGaulle was President of France in 1969 at 79. Chancellor Adenauer held office in 1963 at age 87. No responsible historian has even charged that Churchill, deGaulle and Adenauer were unfit to hold the highest office in their countries when they were in their seventies or, in Adenauer's case, in his eighties.

Congress is also full of older Americans. One of the most active liberals in Congress is U.S. Rep. Claude Pepper who is age 84. Congressman Pepper plays a key role for the Democratic Congress.

Consider the U.S. Supreme Court. It includes a number of justices in their seventies. They give no indication that they can't bear up under the judicial load or plan to retire. One wonders how many citizens realize that federal judges are elected for life.

Many supposedly elderly men are active leaders of major corporations.

The truth is that chronological age is not an accurate indicator of a person's ability to perform his duties. Some people burn out and become incapable in their forties. Others, like President Reagan, have the constitution of people twenty years younger. Anyone who has seen the President close up, as has this writer, knows that he has the manner of a younger man. He took a bullet from a would-be assassin and recovered with amazing speed.

Those who disapprove of the President's policies would do well to focus on those and drop the criticism based on age. Being over 70 isn't a black mark against a candidate. Age is equated with experience and judgment. Gone are the days when anyone over 30 was not to be trusted, or so the liberals said in the 1960s.

JEFFREY HART

Scraping Bottom

There's always a lot of foreground nonsense in presidential campaigns. Whether, for example, FDR bumped a serviceman off a military flight in order to make room for his dog Fala, and whether Pat Nixon wore a Republican cloth coat, and whether Amy Carter was qualified to pronounce on nuclear policy — but this year things seem to be going further than usual, probably an indication of desperation on the liberal-left side.

We have, for example, the End of the World pseudo-issue. Last Tuesday, a crowd of left-wing clergymen, including the Rev. Thomas Gunbleton, the auxiliary Roman Catholic archbishop of Detroit, the Rev. Leroy Mathiesen, the Roman Catholic bishop of Amarillo, Texas, and the Rev. William Sloane Coffin, who apparently will always be with us, called a press conference at the Hotel Washington to warn us that Reagan believes that the end of the world is near.

Gunbleton, of course, is a unilateral disarmament who has urged his parishioners not to pay that portion of their taxes that goes for defense. Mathiesen strenuously objected to naming one of our submarines the Corpus Christi, using the bogus argument that to do so was blasphemous. He had not, of course, demanded that the city of Corpus Christi change its name, indicating that he was not so much against the "body of Christ" language as against the submarine. The Rev. William Sloane Coffin's latest book rocks with hatred for the free enterprise system and for Western civilization generally, and he is apparently comfortable with the paradox that the Riverside Cathedral, in which he holds forth, was largely founded by the Rockefeller fortune.

Reagan's speculations about Armageddon are philosophically respectable. The language of the Book of the Apocalypse tends to be obscure and symbolic, and therefore subject to many interpretations, but the long and short of it is that what had a beginning can also have an ending. The "world," the time-space continuum is finite. It began, according to the current state of knowledge, about four billion years ago in a colossal explosion sometimes called the "big bang." The Book of Apocalypse amounts to a poem about the "last days." There is nothing sinister about a president who takes the Bible seriously and has chatted with his friends about its possible implications.

Meanwhile, Dr. Helen Caldwell is running around the country telling her audiences that it is a mathematical certainty that they will be dead within four years if Reagan is re-elected. When she told some school children in Maine that they would never live to grow up if Reagan is re-elected, the local parents got sore and got into a shouting match with Caldwell, who is enough all by herself to give science a bad name.

Mondale himself has been trying to use this boogey-man tactic, claiming to believe that Reagan thinks that submarine and air-launched missiles can be recalled. Reagan did not and does not believe this absurdity, and Mondale does not believe that he did or does. Reagan meant that you can contact the pilot in the air or the naval commander on station. But Mondale appears to be scraping the bottom of his "issues" barrel, and when was the last time he brought up his plan to raise taxes?

SCIENCE WORLD

Athletes Are What They Eat

By Lidia Wasowicz
UPI Science Writer

Nowhere is the adage "you are what you eat" more applicable than in sport — be it world-class weight lifting or weekend jogging, according to two nutrition experts.

"Next to heredity and effective training, diet plays the most important role in the quality of an athlete's performance — whether he or she be of Olympic stature or just the average American who runs a little, plays a little tennis or baseball, bikes, hikes or hits the health spa a few times a week," says Dr. Peter Van Handel.

As director of the Sports Physiology Laboratory at the U.S. Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo., Van Handel tests the fitness level of some 2,000 Olympians each year.

For optimal performance and health, he and marathon runner Evelyn Tribble, a clinical dietitian at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center in Los Angeles, recommend eating a wide variety of foods from the four basic groups — milk, meat, vegetables and fruits and breads and cereals.

An adult needs a daily minimum of two servings from the milk and meat groups and four from the vegetable-fruit and bread-cereal groups, they said.

"The elite athlete will need extra servings for more calories than the average person because of extended periods of exercise," Van Handel said in an interview.

A weight lifter or a male marathon runner, for example, may require as many as 6,000 calories a day — about twice the norm — to maintain his proper weight.

"For those involved in endurance sports, we also add special emphasis on complex carbohydrates to replace the energy stored as carbohydrates in muscles," Van Handel said. "Intensive exercise depletes those stores, so you want to keep the carbohydrate levels high."

High-carbohydrate foods include lowfat or skim milk, lowfat yogurt, pudding, blackeye peas, navy, pinto and refried beans, bananas, carrots, corn, grapes, peaches, peas, potatoes, raisins, tomatoes, bagels, cornflakes, crackers, hard rolls, oatmeal, pasta, rice, white and whole wheat bread.

Most anyone can benefit from increasing the intake of complex carbohydrates — which are a good source of energy, vitamins and minerals, Van Handel said.

The most neglected nutrient among athletes is water, the experts said.

At its most serious level, dehydration can cause hallucinations, deafness, visual problems, a swollen tongue and kidney failure.

JACK ANDERSON

Envoy Used Clout To Keep Help

WASHINGTON — As anyone at the country club can tell you, good help is hard to find these days — especially help willing to work for the minimum wage.

Perhaps that's why William A. Wilson, a millionaire member of Ronald Reagan's "kitchen cabinet" and now U.S. ambassador to the Vatican, was not at all reluctant to use his political clout to retain the services of his longtime housekeeper, Zolla Esperanza Gomez.

When Wilson hired Ms. Gomez eight years ago, he was unaware that she had immigrated to this country illegally from Guatemala. She had a Social Security card, which was enough for Wilson. He broke no law in hiring her.

Not until 1982, when she hesitated to return to Guatemala to attend to a family matter, did Wilson realize that she might have an immigration problem. He later learned from his attorney, Ronald Bonaparte, that Ms. Gomez was "an undocumented worker within the United States in violation of the immigration statutes."

Wilson immediately set out to get his housekeeper legal status. The best way to do this is for an employer to build a case that the illegal alien is doing an essential job.

"Because of my role as envoy to the Vatican, it is absolutely essential that we employ a large household staff" at the Wilson estate in Bel Air, Calif., he wrote to state officials. Wilson explained that his 12-room home, pool house and cabana "clearly require a great deal of attention and upkeep and the continuous presence of a domestic staff."

In case the officials didn't recognize the exalted status of the man they were dealing with, Wilson reminded them: "I was heavily involved in the presidential campaign for the election of President Reagan and was an active member of President Reagan's unofficial Kitchen Cabinet."

The state officials duly forwarded Wilson's application to the Department of Labor, where a slight hitch developed. The law requires that an illegal alien's job be offered to American citizens and legal aliens on the same terms.

Wilson filed an employment contract agreeing to pay $600 a month plus room and board. Though the pay was only $10 a month above the minimum wage at the time, Labor Department officials told my associate Tony Capaccio that that was the prevailing compensation for live-in housekeepers in the Los Angeles area.

But Wilson wanted to set a minimum experience level of two years, instead of the Labor Department's standard three-month minimum. To justify the higher experience level, he suggested that "an individual with only three months' verifiable experience could pose a serious security risk" because of "the possible access to sensitive documents and conversations in our home...."

The Labor Department waived the three-month minimum and Wilson ran the required three-day help wanted ad in the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner in July 1983. There were no takers.

Now certified as an essential worker with a job waiting, Ms. Gomez is currently in Guatemala, awaiting final processing of her entry visa.

Footnote: Bonaparte said that Wilson's involvement in the case was limited to filing "standard paperwork."

12-Year-Old Thinks He's Richard Petty

MADISONVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The parents of a 12-year-old boy who destroyed their sports car in a high-speed chase could not retrieve their son from jail because he had wrecked their other car in a similar accident two months ago.

When informed their son had been arrested Tuesday, the parents, who live in Newburg, Ind., said they had no way to get to Kentucky to bail the boy out of jail.

The youth, who picked up the keys to his parents' Datsun 280Z in the living room of his home, led police 70 miles on a high-speed chase from Evansville, Ind. to Madisonville, in western Kentucky. During the chase, the boy was traveling at more than 100 mph with five police cruisers in pursuit.

One Evansville policeman said during the chase they covered 9 miles in four minutes, an average of 135 mph.

The youth was finally caught by authorities after he crashed into a roadblock.

Black Voc Ed Teacher Wins School Board Seat Outright

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County voters supported the second black member ever on the county's school board.

Joe Williams Jr., who since July 13 has served on the Seminole County School Board after having been appointed to the office by Gov. Bob Graham, won his seat outright with 32,757 votes to 28,787 votes for Altamonte Springs homemaker Joanne Braheny.

Williams, 38 of Longwood, said today that he was "numb" after having waited all night to hear the verdict. With a slight lead all night you never know what precincts might come up and balance it out and make it a real war."

Williams had replaced Roland Williams (no relation), who resigned from the board after accepting a job in Atlanta. Roland Williams was the first black ever to be elected to the Seminole County School Board.

Joe Williams Jr. said he has a special interest in improving education of black students. Being black, Williams said, adds dimension to his understanding of the problems of black students, although he said he recognizes that a person doesn't have to be black to see the effects the environment some black students grow up in has on their education.

"This (his election) said that the county as a whole sees a need to have total representation. If it had gone the other way there would have been one male and four females on the board, with no black representative. Blacks do make up a part of the community," he said.

Williams, a vocational instructor at Seminole Community College, said his interest in vocational education carries over into his position on the school board.

He said he sees vocational education as a realistic alternative for students who will spend their lives in jobs that do not require advanced academic education.

Mrs. Braheny said that her experience as an lobbyist on educational issues in Tallahassee gave her a broader perspective on education than Williams expressed. The 39-year-old former nurse and businesswoman said if she had been elected she would have been the only full-time member on the board.

"I won't run again," she said today. "I was doing it for the Seminole County school children and parents who were having difficulties. In four years I won't have a child in the school system." Mrs. Braheny has a 15-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Braheny said she went to sleep at about 1 a.m. today without thinking about what the outcome of the then-close race might be.

Williams said the delay in receiving the final vote tally had left him with no opportunity to evaluate his showing, because he did not know what areas supported him.

Long-Time Clerk Beckwith Out; Suber Retains Appraiser's Post

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Behind from the beginning of Tuesday's vote count, Clerk of Court Arthur H. Beckwith Jr. lost his seventh bid for office to Republican challenger David Berrien by a vote of 39,117 to 30,358.

In the Seminole County property appraiser's race, incumbent H.W. "Bill" Suber was re-elected for another four years.

Beckwith, who has held the clerk's job for 24 years, ran on a record of what he termed was the efficient administration of his office.

Both men said they were concerned about the high turnover rate in the county clerk's office, almost 83 percent in 1983.

Berrien said that among his first actions upon taking office will be to determine if the Clerk of Court's office needs to be reorganized and the work load more evenly distributed.

Berrien said such a reorganization would not mean a reduction in positions.

"The majority (of workers should) have no fear of losing their job," he said.

He said while President Reagan's re-election bid may have given him a few votes, he said it was hard work by many people that helped him take his victory.

Beckwith had clung to hope throughout the night and early morning. With less than half the precincts in and the counting slowed by mechanical difficulty, he said the job was "still up for grabs."

"I'm not discouraged. Whether I win or lose, there will be a victory in my house," Beckwith said, explaining that re-election would mean four more years on the job and a loss meant retirement.

Either way, he said, he was satisfied.

During the campaign, Beckwith told voters the employment problem in his office, and county government as a whole, is being studied by a consultant who is to submit his findings to the county commission in January. He said improvements in the employment situation would probably be implemented then.

Berrien too said that if he were elected he would work to improve the pay of his workers and the efficiency of the office. Berrien said different sections of the clerk's office were not adequately staffed.

In the property appraiser's race, Suber, 39, easily beat challenger M.L. "Sonny" Raborn, 56, of Sanford, carrying the election 48,419 to 19,337.

Suber, Republican and property appraiser since 1980, said he felt "really good" about retaining his position.

Suber said his plans for his new term include updating some of the office's data-keeping equipment and trying to make the salaries of office personnel more compatible with those in private industry.

Lady Lions Destroy Vanguard

'Sockless Wonder' Keys Regional Win

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

An Ocala Vanguard fan was livid. She just couldn't understand. And she let it be known by an ear-piercing screech. Why were officials calling illegalities against the Lady Knights and not Oviedo's Lady Lions?

If she was following the game, though, she would have understood that Oviedo was just not doing anything wrong. The Lions' serving was hard, the passing was right on, the setting was excellent and the hitting was devastating.

Oviedo took control early in the match and never looked back as the Lions destroyed Vanguard, 15-6, 15-3 in the 3A-3 Regional Volleyball Championship Tuesday night at Oviedo High.

The Lions now advance to the 3A-2 Sectional Championship against Brooksville Hernando, which beat Auburndale Tuesday night. The site and time will be determined today.

Oviedo snapped a three-year drought in regional play with the victory. The Lions also avenged a loss to Vanguard in last year's regional.

"We were on," Oviedo coach Anita Carlson said. "The serves were good and the hitting and setting were exceptional. And we returned serve well too. I was surprised Vanguard didn't spike it more. They didn't set up much of an attack and gave us a lot of free balls."

The Lady Knights won the coin toss, but it was all down hill from there. With the score tied at 1-1, Oviedo took a 4-1 lead with three points on Mary Lokers' serve. Stephanie Nelson's aizzling spike off a nice set by Kim Beistel highlighted the rally.

Vanguard regained the serve but couldn't score as Nelson dropped a dink over the Knights' blockers. Each team missed a serve before Oviedo reeled off four points on Nelson's serve to take a 8-1 lead. A pair of spikes by Fran Foster off Tina Pauldo's sets highlighted the rally.

The Lions refused to let Vanguard tear into their lead as Evonne Bartels smacked a spike into the Knights' defense to give Oviedo the serve. The Lady Lions then made it 11-1 as Bartels served three points. Lokers' spike and an ace by Bartels were key plays in the rally.

Vanguard then broke Oviedo's scoring streak at 10, but the Knights only scored once to make it 11-2. Oviedo then took a 13-2 lead on Foster's serve.

Vanguard pulled to within 13-6, but the Lions regained the serve and closed out the first game as Pauldo drilled a pair of serves that the Knights couldn't return.

Oviedo kept right on rolling through the second game. The Lions took an early 4-1 lead behind the impressive play of Amy Busse and Marilyn Francis. Busse provided the fourth point with a nice block. Vanguard stayed relatively close, 5-2, but Oviedo score a pair of points, one coming on a beautiful spike by Lokers, to make it 7-2.

Another Lokers spike enabled the Lions to get the serve back and the senior standout then put Oviedo in command as she served six straight points for a 13-2 lead. An ace by Lokers ignited the rally and a spike by Nelson off Beistel's set kept it going.

The Knights score once more to make it 13-3 and, after a couple side outs, Oviedo put the finishing touches on as Nelson served the final two points of the match.

The regional victory was a first for the Lady Lions and the players were ecstatic and looking forward to the sectional and a shot at the state tournament. "All the way to state," said Nelson, a junior. "We can do it with teamwork and communication."

"We should have won (regionals) before," Lokers said. "But this is our year and we've got the jazz." Lokers is one of four seniors, along with Foster, Beistel and Pauldo, who had outstanding matches Tuesday.

Oviedo will go through its basic routine in preparing for the sectionals, and the Lions have the routine down packed.

"We're really superstitious," Nelson said. "We do the same things every game. We always play the song 'Dove's Cry' (by Prince) before we play. And, when I don't wear socks, we win. I've only wore socks three times this year and we lost all three."

Alumni Looks For Revenge

Talk about a long count. Seminole Assistant Principal Lamar Richardson (no. 57) has been waiting since Friday for Tom Ball to snap the ball. So you can't blame Richardson for his move into the neutral zone while teammates Bobby Lundquist, left, and Mike Ferrell hold their positions. Richardson, Lundquist and Ferrell form the nucleus of the Seminole faculty team which will try to protect its modest one-game winning streak Thursday night in the second annual Alumni-Faculty game at Seminole High School. Quarterback Brent Carlil, behind center, however, said the alumni has loaded up this year with the likes of Ball, and Mike Good, a pair of former Florida State standouts, which should bring them the victory. Carlil said the alumni will also have Tim, Levi and Ned Raines on the roster. The proceeds go to the Seminole athletic department. Admission is $2. Kickoff is 7:30 p.m.

The Game Battle In Pit Looms Pivotal For Seminole

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Most coaches believe the line of scrimmage is where most games are won or lost. If that adage proves out Friday night, expect a tenacious battle in the pit between Seminole's super-quick linemen and linebackers and Lake Mary's massive offensive line.

Although Lake Mary won last year's game — the initial meeting between the two schools — Seminole has two added incentives for this year's contest. One, it is homecoming and the Tribe would like to make it a success before the year's biggest crowd. Two, a loss would keep Lake Mary from winning the Five Star Conference and District 4A-9 titles, forcing a two-or-three-week deadlock which would be decided Nov. 19 by a playoff.

Defensive coordinator Dave "Mr. Intensity" Mosure said the Seminoles' biggest concern in Lake Mary's size. "I think Lake Brantley has the best offensive line in the conference with Appoka probably second," he said. "But Lake Mary is not far behind. They have real good size and execute very well."

Lake Mary offensive line coach Al Parker has had two years with this group and he's turned it into a proficient one. "Al's done a great job," raved coach Harry Nelson. "They're been a consistent group all year."

Mosure said another element which makes tackles Mike Galvani, David Cox and Jay Gilliland, guards Jeff Reynolds and Tony Del Rocco and center Scott McCaskill a solid group is the Ram backfield. "The backs are all quick hitters," said Mosure. "The line doesn't have to devastate you with a block. They just shade you out for a count and the backs are gone."

"That line doesn't leave people untouched." Mosure's defensive seemed to be in the shade all night against Lake Brantley, something he hopes to correct before Lake Mary comes to town Friday. The

Dave 'Mr. Intensity' Mosure

"Last year, I thought the Seminoles would be out of their minds for this game, but they weren't. I don't know if the players are going to get pumped up or not. If I thought it would mean anything, I'd slice open my forearms in pregame. The kids have to be emotionally prepared for Lake Mary. — Dave 'Mr. Intensity' Mosure

Patriots pulled an option out of their offensive bag and some nifty engineering by quarterback David DeLiaacco had the Seminoles running around like a band of wild Indians.

"We knew that they had the option in their offense," Mosure said about the Lake Brantley attack. "But not as their bread-and-butter. Their coaches (Brian Smith and Glenn Preising) called a helluva game."

Mosure, for the most part, has put "the Lake Brantley nightmare" to rest. He does, however, see some similarities between the Patriots and the Rams. "Lake Mary has the same kind of size, maybe a little bigger," Mosure said. "Lake Mary's backs are quicker and the line won't use as many traps. They go straight at you more often."

"With their size, we can't afford to make a mistake. We're got to work through them, they're too big to go around."

Not facing an option may solve part of the problem. Lake Mary pretty much tries to run the ball down the opponents' throat, with a few traps for Lucarelli sprinkled in.

Nelson, who was getting himself in game-day form as early as Monday, said he was relishing the situation Friday. "This is it. We're going against 'Mr. Intensity's' defense," Nelson exclaimed. "No tricks. We're just lining up man-to-man and blowing across the line of scrimmage, it's toe-to-toe and chest-to-chest time."

Dave 'Mr. Intensity' Mosure

Asked if he would try to copy what Lake Brantley accomplished, Nelson was livid...then pensive. "Lake Brantley? We're not doing anything like Lake Brantley," screamed Nelson. "Lake Brantley did it with sound coaching. I have to do it with yelling."

"Seriously, I'm worried about their defensive line and their speed. I don't care how they looked against Lake Brantley. This is a dogfight. A neighborhood gang war. We want them and the we want the district title."

The speed Nelson was concerned with is applied by ends Fred Brinson and Walt Lowry along with defensive tackles Brian Brinson and Anthony Hall. Lowry's nine sacks lead the county while Brinson has been a consistent 10-plus tackle man every time out. He has six sacks.

Hall, a 6-0, 260-pounder, fools offensives with his quickness. Brian Brinson, nephew of Fred, has been the surprise of the year. Wrapped in a small, tight package (5-7, 190), the muscular junior has been too quick and too strong for offensive lines to handle. Brinson had 10 tackles and six assists against Lake Brantley.

Since Mosure's linebackers spend most of the game near or on the line of scrimmage, count the "DeBruise Brothers" — Bryan and Mike DeBose — and Jerry Walsh among the linemen.

Teague Has Easy Day At Office With Raiders

By Rick Crawford
Special to the Herald

Saturday at Lake Sylvan Park. It was the battle of the winless.

The Teague Tigers took on the Raiders from Rock Lake in what everyone thought would be a dogfight between two cross-town rivals. But it turned out to be just another day at the office for Teague.

Teague rolled over Rock Lake, 25-0, in Seminole Youth Sports Association Midget Division football.

Teague used a balanced ground attack to dominate the game. The first score came when halfback Dwayne Rackard took a hand-off from quarterback Jeff Stanphill and bulled his way in from the one-yard line to take a 6-0 lead at the end of the first quarter. The Tigers upped the score to 12-0 in the second quarter when Clegg Ivey dashed 16 yards for a touchdown. The score remained the same until midway in the third quarter when wide out Bobby Morehead caught a three-yard scoring strike from Stanphill. The point after was good and the Tigers led 19-0 after three quarters of play.

The Tigers put the ball in the end zone one more time in the fourth quarter when tailback Randy Upson scampered 45 yards to pay dirt. That made the final score Teague 25, Rock Lake 0.

On the day, Upson rushed for 64 yards on eight carries. The Tigers had 193 yards rushing on 28 tries. Clegg Ivey contributed 91 of those yards on 9 carries. Dwayne Rackard finished the day with 36 yards on 10 carries. Stanphill was 4-of-10 for 35 yards in the passing department. Backup quarterback Danny Pterro was one-for-one for 15 yards. Steve Bingley caught two passes for 29 yards.

Defensively, the Tigers were led by the outstanding play of the two defensive ends Tony Lamagna and Ray Carter. Lamagna was in on four tackles while Carter was in on five tackles, and had two assists. Ivey also had five tackles and two assists.

In other Midget action, Jackson Heights downed South Seminole, 34-14. Milwee scooted by Tuskawilla, 28-16.

JUNIOR PEE WEE: MILWEE GETS BLANKED

Tuskawilla, who is still without the services of running back Mike Bergondy, continued their winning ways by downing Milwee, 22-0. Tuskawilla jumped to an early lead when quarterback Mike Brooks scored on a two-yard run. On the day, Brooks accounted for all the Warriors' scoring. He had two other touchdown runs of 20 and 42 yards. He rushed 13 times for 113 yards also.

The Warrior defense limited Cleveland and company to only 42 total yards. Contributing were a host of warriors led by Ryan Dailey, Robby Wilson, and Scott Byerly.

Rock Lake used scoring from both offense and the defense to notch their second victory of the season, by downing Teague, 26-0. The defense scored first when Kevin Collins picked up a lateral and raced 30 yards for a touchdown. The Raiders picked up two offensive scores on runs of 15 and 35 yards by Patrick Peterson, who also was the Raiders leading rusher. The last score came when the Tigers were forced to punt. The snap was high and went into the endzone where defensive end Dal Dorato fell on it for the Raiders.

Colby Sims made his debut at quarterback for the Raiders. Sims had one completion and one interception; he also rushed for eight yards.

Division-leading Jackson Heights trounced South Seminole, 35-0. The Bobcats wasted little time getting their scoring machine in gear. McGill Hodges returned the opening kickoff 55 yards for a touchdown.

On the next series for the Cats, Eric Bryant dashed 50 yards to pay dirt and the Cats' lead was 14 at the end of the first period. Quarterback Terry Smith scored next on a 52-yard run. Then Smith hit Bryant on a 69-yard scoring strike. At the half it was 28-0, Jackson Heights. The Bobcats used a 48-yard third quarter score by Steven Whittey to ice the victory. On the day the Bobcats used eight different rushers to gain 325 yards.

Walker, Wimberly Put Double Whammy On Rock Lake, 20-6

By Rick Crawford
Special to the Herald

Jackson Heights used 145 yards on 14 carries by Isaac Walker and Kevin Wimberly to down Rock Lake, 20-6. The Bobcats opened the scoring on a quarterback sneak by Andy Hynes, 7-0. Rock Lake pulled within a point in the third quarter, 7-6. On the ensuing kickoff, the Cats' Brian King returned the kick 60 yards for a touchdown. The Cats shut the door early in the fourth quarter, when Hynes dashed 55 yards to pay dirt.

Defensively, Walker had 10 tackles, Kevin Erwine and Ronnie Davis were in on three tackles each also Michael Goodall and Larry Choice played important roles on defense.

In the surprise of the day Teague played Lakeview to a 6-6 tie. The first time these two met the Dolphins rolled to a 33-0 victory over the Tigers. The Tigers were on the board first with a 65-yard touchdown run by Jason Jallet, who on the day rushed for 80 yards on 6 tries. The Dolphins knotted the score in the fourth quarter and that's the way the game ended, 6-6.

South Seminole was off this week and will take on Jackson Heights Saturday.

another day at the beach. The Warriors drove down to the Spartans' two-yard-line, where Jon Machules took a hand-off from Thadd Wallace and plowed his way in to the endzone. The point, failed and the Warriors' led, 6-0. That was all the scoring 'till the fourth quarter when Rodnick Rioux of Milwee threw a 50-yard scoring strike to Marcus Randolph to knot the score at six. The try for point was good, and the Spartans held on for the victory.

For the Warriors, Machules rushed for 58 yards on 14 carries and the lone Warriors score. Frankie Sales had eight tries for 24 yards.

Defensively for the Warriors, Sales had 11 tackles followed by Lee Wallace with 10, Mark Arnold and Anson Watts were in on nine tackles apiece.

For the Spartans, Scott Yurchison carried the ball 18 times for 68 yards. George "Bim" Majors had 42 yards on 11 tries. Defensively, Greg Gouch and Mike Graham led an inspired Spartan defense.

In other action Rock Lake upended Teague, 12-0. Jackson Heights was defeated by South Seminole, 28-0.

Colbourn Decides To Open Search For Football Coach

Acknowledging the fact that a national search will solidify his selection of interim coach Jerry Anderson, University of Central Florida President Trevor Colbourn Tuesday gave the go ahead to the search committee to open the door for applications nationwide.

Colbourn, who was assured by the committee that the search wouldn't cost the university a dime, had endorsed Anderson for the job, said the coach will be named by the first of the new year.

"We want to be able to say to everyone that this is the best person for the job," said Colbourn. "The search process is the only way to be sure we get the best possible leadership for the program."

"And Anderson's position would be substantially strengthened if he is the choice of the committee."

Colbourn cited a need to trim UCF's current budget ($800,000) by $200,000 as a prime consideration. He said all the assistant coaches would have to be retained until Aug. 31, the length of their contracts. The only way a new coach could be added, he said, is if an assistant resigned.

Anderson, who has coached prep football extensively in the Miami area and coached as an assistant to Lou Saban at West Point and Miami University, is reported a popular choice with Colbourn, athletic director Bill Peterson and the players.

Overtures from some big-time coaches throughout the nation, however, has caused some of the people of the search committee to take a second look. Tony Martin, executive director of the Knights Boosters, indicated that strong financial support from some of UCF's biggest boosters could be withdrawn if the job was not opened up nationwide.

Anderson took over for Saban three weeks ago when Saban resigned. The Knights lost to Eastern Kentucky, but then came back to upset nationally-ranked Illinois State in Anderson's first game.

IN BRIEF

Robertson's Defensive Infusion Helps Spurs Cleat SuperSonics

United Press International
The San Antonio Spurs' defense used to be sacking, but the infusion of Alvin Robertson has given it new life. The ball-hawking rookie guard from Arkansas was part of a mainly second-unit team which harassed the Seattle SuperSonics and ran off a 10-0 spurt early in the fourth quarter that ignited the Spurs to a 99-91 victory. "When Alvin comes in, he really sparks us," forward Fred Roberts said. "He gets our defense going. It was a lot of fun tonight in the fourth quarter. The whole team did the job on defense."
Robertson's clawing defense was contagious to Roberts and fellow second-stringers John Paxson and Edgars Jones. They teamed with starting center Artis Gilmore to cause headaches for the Sonics.
It was Robertson and company which caused most of those turnovers. After Wood gave Seattle its first lead of the second half, 82-81, the Spurs went on their 10-point run. Paxson hit a 3-point shot and a field goal. Robertson scored on a layup and then made a steal and dished it to Gilmore, who put the Spurs ahead 90-82.
Elsewhere in the NBA, Houston dumped Kansas City 108-94, Dallas edged New York 107-104, Denver out-gunned Los Angeles 146-130 and Portland crushed Phoenix 116-99.

Gretzky, Lemieux Break Even

United Press International
Hockey's biggest star orbited into the galaxy of the newest star on the NHL horizon Tuesday night when Wayne Gretzky's Edmonton Oilers visited Mario Lemieux's Pittsburgh Penguins and drew Pittsburgh's first sellout crowd in more than two years.
Both sparkled as Edmonton struggled from behind for a 3-3 tie to remain the NHL's only unbeaten team. Gretzky scored the tying goal with four minutes left to play in regulation, and Lemieux, the league's top draft pick, set up Warren Young with a nifty pass for Pittsburgh's 3-2 lead.
Young, a 28-year-old rookie, scored twice to bring his season goal total to 11.
The battle between Gretzky and Lemieux drew an Election Night crowd of 16,033 to Civic Arena, the first hockey sellout there since Oct. 9, 1982.
The Stanley Cup champion Oilers, 10-0-3, are one game away from tying the Montreal Canadiens' league-record start of 14 games without a loss, set in 1943. The much-improved Penguins are 5-5-1.

NOC Meets To Discuss Future

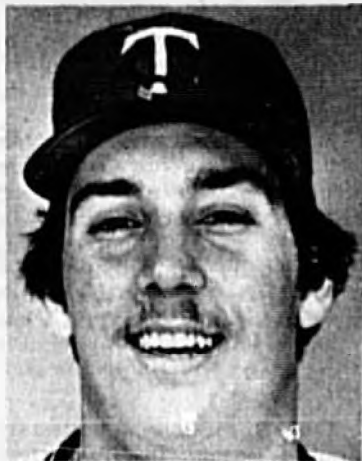

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — More than 150 delegates representing National Olympic Committees from around the world will meet in General Assembly today to discuss the future of the increasingly boycott-plagued Olympic Games.
The executive committee of the National Olympic Committees Association and the Olympic Solidarity Committee met Tuesday to prepare the agenda for the general assembly of world delegates.
The most pressing concern before the delegates is to ensure that the Summer Olympic Games which have been plagued by boycotts since 1978, should no longer be affected by political conflicts.

Hernandez Is AL's Best

Baseball

NEW YORK (UPI) — While America was casting a vote to decide who would be the president, the results of another election were announced.
The Baseball Writers Association of America named Willie Hernandez, the left-handed reliever ace of the World Series champion Detroit Tigers, as the American League's Most Valuable Player Tuesday.
Kent Hrbek, Minnesota's hard-hitting first baseman, was a surprising second.
Hernandez is the fourth American Leaguer and the seventh pitcher overall to win his league's MVP and Cy Young Awards in the same season.
"I wasn't very sure of winning this one," the 28-year-old native of Aguada, P.R. said. "I had been pretty sure of winning the Cy Young, but for the league's Most Valuable Player, I thought there was better competition."
"But it turned out to be the other way around and I got more votes for this one than I did for Cy Young. For the Cy Young Award, there had been only one other strong candidate, Dan Quisenberry of the Kansas City Royals, but for MVP in the league, there were a lot, like Eddie Murray of the Baltimore Orioles and a lot of others."

Hernandez received 16 first-place votes and was named on 27 of the 28 ballots, winning with 306 points. Hrbek, who was named on all 28 ballots, had 247. Hernandez and Quisenberry, who had 235 votes, were passed over because of a belief that an everyday player, rather than a pitcher, should receive the MVP Award.
Murray, the first baseman for the Baltimore Orioles, finished fourth followed by the New York Yankees' Don Mattingly and Hernandez' teammate Kirk Gibson.
Fourteen points were given for a first-place vote, nine for a second, eight for a third and so on down to one for a 10th-place vote for the annual award.
Hernandez, who started the season with a 34-32 lifetime record, had a 9.3 mark, a 1.92 earned-run average and accumulated 32 saves in 33 save situations.

Kent Hrbek, Minnesota's slugging first baseman, was a surprise second in the American League most valuable player voting behind Hernandez.

Hernandez, who was acquired by Detroit along with first baseman Dave Bergman from the Orioles for catcher John Wock and outfielder Glenn Wilson on March 24, 1984, played a major role in the Tigers' 35-5 start which left their AL rivals far to the rear early in the season.
Tiger manager Sparky Anderson, nicknamed "Captain Hook" for his quick reliance on relievers from the seventh inning on, campaigned openly for Hernandez during the World Series.

Witness Claims Loan To McLain Led To His Ruin

TAMPA (UPI) — A federal witness against Denny McLain testified the $40,000 loan he received through the former Detroit Tiger pitching star led to his financial ruin and threats against his life.
Alton Dale Sparks of Sebring, a disco owner, testified Tuesday he paid McLain $2,000 interest just three days after receiving the loan.
Sparks testified he earlier had received a $145,000 loan from the Sarasota branch of First Fidelity Financial Services Inc., a now-defunct company which had a Tampa office that McLain managed.
McLain, a pitching ace for the Detroit Tigers in the 1960s, is charged with racketeering, extortion, conspiracy, possession of cocaine and conspiracy to import cocaine. Sparks testified he met McLain and co-defendant Sher in Hollywood, Fla., in March 1981, when Sher agreed to make the $40,000 loan. He said no paperwork was signed and Sher warned him not to discuss the loan, which had weekly interest payments of $1,000.

Swing And Miss Is A Hit If Ball Goes Long

In a recent column we included several common questions that arise concerning rules and regulations and their interpretations. Many tennis fans and players from the area commented favorably about this column and had more questions of their own. The following are some of the questions asked and the proper rules that govern the situation.
Question: During a rally my opponent hit a ball to me that I swung at but missed. The ball then landed about a foot behind the baseline. I, of course, called it out. He said that it was his point because I had swung at it. Who's point was it?
Answer: The point belongs to you. Even though you did actually try to hit the ball, you did not and the fact that the ball landed out makes it your point. If you had touched it with your racket or any part of your body or clothing, it would have been your opponents point.
Question: During a long point I hit a ball that was out of the reach of my opponent. He lunged at the ball and threw his racket at it. The racket hit the ball and the ball came back over the net. I was so surprised that I did not try to hit it back. Whose point?
Answer: The point belongs to you. The rules state that the racket must be held in the hand (or hands) when the ball is hit and cannot be thrown or hurled at the ball to make a return. If it is and the shot is successful it is disallowed.

Larry Castle Herald Tennis Writer

Question: My arm was very sore and painful during the late stages of a long match recently, so I began to serve the ball with an underhand motion. My opponent said that this was not legal and that I must serve with an overhand motion, who was right?
Answer: You may serve the ball with an underhand motion if you wish. However you cannot bounce the ball on the court and then hit it for a serve. The ball must be hit in the air on the toss. In fact, I know of one area senior player who has a great underhand serve and uses it quite often. His name is Levan DeWalle and he is from Mt. Dora. He has a great deal of spin on the shot and uncanny accuracy. Only the most experienced players can return it well.

Question: While playing in a tournament recently, my opponent kept taking more and more time between points. He would towel off, walk around and even get a drink between points. It really put my timing and rhythm off. Was this legal?
Answer: The rules state that from the time one point ends until the next one starts a player only has 30 seconds. Indeed there is a move on to shorten that time to 25 seconds or maybe even 20 seconds. Your opponent was stalling which is an unfair and illegal tactic.
Question: During a rally, which by the way happened to be set point, I hit a ball very hard and the ball broke. It landed in the net for what was apparently set for my opponent. I argued that because the ball broke the point should be replayed. He said no that the point should stand. I gave him the set. Who was right?
Answer: You gave him the set is the right terminology. Actually you were had. When the ball broke regardless of who hit it, or what the score was, the point must be played over. If a string on either of your rackets had broken, however, the point would stand.

Moore, nevertheless, said his corps of LBs, which also includes Jerry Littles, may have been too active against the Patriots.
"We'll still penetrate against Lake Mary, but we'll do it with more caution. Our defensive ends just can't fly in there."
The Lake Brantley failure can be measured in sacks. Seminole has been known to get as many as seven a game, yet the Patriot offensive line protected its quarterbacks so well that Seminole (Lowry) had just one sack to show for 48 minutes of work.
Although Moore said he can understand his 11 being a bit down after the loss to Brantley, he said he doesn't understand the lack of fire around the school this week. He said it's an attitude which better change before Friday.
"A teacher came up to me and said, 'It's homecoming, isn't it. It seems like everybody is dead around here,'" said Moore. "I don't know what is wrong. I'm not from around here, and I'm fired up for this game just by the pure sake that Lake Mary is our biggest rival."
"Last year, I thought the Seminoles would be out of their minds for this game, but they weren't. I don't know if the players are going to get pumped up or not. If I thought it would mean anything, I'd slice open my forearms in pregame. The kids have to be emotionally prepared for Lake Mary."
Although Moore may be exaggerating his blood-letting act a bit, he said he hopes his point is well taken. The Seminoles better come out with tomahawks and warpaint Friday night.

ing captured 49 states Tuesday to clobber Mondale in the GOP's biggest electoral victory ever. Mondale led only in his home state of Minnesota and the District of Columbia.

"This is not the end of anything. It's the beginning of everything," Reagan told loyalists in Los Angeles as they celebrated the overwhelming vote that gives him four more years for his conservative agenda for America.

"You know, so many people act as if this election means the end of something," Reagan told his cheering partisans. "But the vision that we outlined in 1980, indeed the passion of the fire that we kept burning for two decades, doesn't die just because four years have passed."

Reagan, the oldest man elected president, closed by telling the throng, "You ain't seen nothin' yet!" — a slogan that became the trademark of his campaign.

At 3:25 a.m. EST, with 88 percent of the vote counted nationwide, Reagan had 46,133,859 votes and Mondale had 32,009,461 votes. Reagan won 525 electoral votes from 49 states. Mondale captured 13 electoral votes by winning his home state of Minnesota and the District of Columbia.

Mondale's loss was worse than the previous record Democratic debacle — the 17 electoral votes George McGovern gathered in his 1972 loss to Richard Nixon. Republicans retained their control of the Senate, apparently headed for no worse than a loss of one seat of the 55-45 majority they enjoyed in the last session of Congress.

The Democrat graciously praised Reagan for his victory and confidently predicted "that history will judge us honorably."

"We rejoice in our democracy; we rejoice in the freedom of a wonderful people and we accept their verdict. I thank the people of America for hearing my case," Mondale told his supporters in a St. Paul, Minn., hotel.

Referring to his precedent-shattering selection of Ferraro, Mondale said, "We didn't win, but we made history and that fight has just begun."

Mondale, considered the underdog even before he won the Democratic nomination in July, urged his young supporters: "Do not despair. This fight didn't end tonight; it begins tonight... In every defeat are to be found the seeds of victory. Let us fight on."

Ferraro, a three-term member of Congress, appeared at her New York headquarters and told loyalists: "We gave it our best and we made a difference."

"My candidacy has said the days of discrimination are ending," she declared. "American women will never again be second class citizens."

Reagan rolled up huge victory margins across the country. The South and the West generally voted for him by 60 percent; the big Northern and Midwestern industrial states that traditionally make up the Democratic base fell only slightly behind that.

Reagan's popularity cut a wide swath across the electorate, according to network exit polls that showed him winning over both young and old, men and women, and even Ferraro's Italian-Americans and voters who share Mondale's Scandinavian heritage.

The only groups that supported Mondale were blacks, Jews, the jobless, the poor and, by a narrow margin, union families.

Even farmers, a group Republican strategists feared would vent their frustrations on the GOP ticket, went for Reagan over Mondale, whose family for generations has tilled the soil.

Montye Beamer, the county's director of computer services, who had also worked since early Tuesday morning, said today it appeared at least one of the vote counters became clogged with some type of string or a collection of lint from ballots. The substance was retrieved by two computer specialists called by Mrs. Beamer for assistance. Repairs on one vote counter were completed just before the Brevard County equipment finished the job.

And one of Brevard's vote counters also stopped for a time. Repairmen found a rubber band in it.

Kirchhoff received 73.7 percent of the votes cast in his contest. He had run a low key campaign, accepted only one campaign contribution, a $500 donation from the Seminole County Republican Executive Committee and put up only one campaign sign which was promptly stolen.

Kirchhoff said he appreciated the support given him by the citizens of Seminole County.

"I will do my best to keep their trust and will continue to work to make Seminole a good county in which to live."

Mrs. Christensen said she is pleased with the results.

"I think it showed the voters are not unhappy with their commissioners as one poll suggested. My opponent said voters were unhappy while a GOP poll said just the opposite and this confirmed it."

"All the voters gave me a warm reception and I really enjoyed campaigning in Sanford," she said.

Patin, noting this was his first campaign, said the election loss was yesterday and this is today.

"I will continue to be active in the Democratic Party," he said. He added he will continue to attend county commission meetings and remind Mrs. Christensen that the main issue in the election was controlled growth. "I will also remind her of her promise to uphold the county's land plan," he said.

In the legislative contests, incumbents, state Reps. Carl Selph, Casselberry, won three and term, and Tom Drage, R-Orlando, won a third term.

State Sen. Richard Langley, R-Clermont, also won a third term. All three are members of the Seminole Legislative Delegation.

Langley, whose district includes 29 precincts in Seminole County, won approval of local voters by 21,192, to Jim Martin, D-Eustis, 7,237.

Selph received 18,053 tallies in the 25 precincts he represents in Seminole County for 69.7 percent of the vote over Joy Anderson, D-Tanglewood, in her first bid for public office. Mrs. Anderson received 7,832 votes.

And Drage, who represents only seven southeast Seminole precincts, was given 5,519 votes to 1,994 for his Democratic opponent, Donald E. McKenna of Orlando.

Before all the election returns were in Tuesday night, Selph was on a plane flying to Tallahassee for a conference with Republican Party legislative officials for discussions on the minority party viewpoint on legislation.

"It was a good, clean, aboveboard campaign; I ran on my record in the Legislature and my service to my constituents who apparently were pleased with the job I was doing," Selph said.

let the fact that she is diabetic and has been deaf for more than 20 years keep her out of the game, where most swimmers depend on the ability to hear background music to help keep them in sync.

Mrs. East, who began swimming in 1965 because she was lonesome after retiring, takes her cues from a coach who keeps her on the right course with hand signals.

The swimmers were judged on execution (how they swam and moved), content (creative action), how they utilized the space in the pool, how well they interpreted the music and their ability to make their performance appear effortless.

The duos gave the added element of coordinating their efforts with their team mate and in Tuesday's meet an almost perfect matching pair from Orlando also went home with gold medals.

Emily Tinsley, 64, and Anne McColley, 67, in their red and white swimsuits and white caps mirrored each other's efforts as they glided, splashed and swirled through the water. They have been swimming together for about 18 years and although Mrs. Tinsley was concerned about the chill in the air and

Mrs. McColley was worried about the bright sun keeping her from seeing where she was swimming, they turned in a stellar performance, as did all the mermaids and two men who took the plunge.

The county will accept bids for construction of the jail addition in February, Polk said, and he expects the job to be completed 16 months later. "I'm really proud of all the work everybody did to put this thing through," he said. —Susan Loden

Church Ceremony Unites Miss Pope, S.H. Milsom

Mary Virginia Pope and Scott Howard Milsom, both of Sanford, were married Nov. 2, at 7 p.m., at the Nativity Catholic Church, Lake Mary. The Rev. Father James C. Setheri, CPPS, performed the candlelight ceremony.

Wedding music was presented by Sandy Dooley, organist, and her husband, Jerry Dooley, soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Pope of Newnan, Ga. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Milsom Jr. of Sanford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal white bridal taffeta gown fashioned along the slim silhouette with a lace-trimmed sweetheart neckline. The short puffed sleeves were enhanced with two taffeta roses on each. Seed pearls and and reembroidered Venice lace motifs embellished the fitted bodice. The flowing train, bordered in Venice lace, gently cascaded into a graceful chapel sweep. A scalloped crown of Venice lace and seed pearls held her tiered fingertip veil of imported illusion.

The bride's only ornament was a pearl and diamond brooch handed down to her from her mother, which was a gift of the bride's maternal great grandfather, the late Thomas J. Coker, to his bride, the late Lillian Singleton Coker on their wedding day, Dec. 2, 1908.

The bride carried a cascade of white miniature roses interspersed with lily-of-the-valley and entwined with bell flowers and streamers of white lace with burgundy centers.

Mrs. Gene (Donna) Feuerhahn attended the bride as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Mark (Debbie) Smith, Mrs. Richard (Cheryl) King, Sherri McCarron and Sandy Stocksett. Each wore a frost rose tissue taffeta gown styled with a sweetheart neckline and short puffed sleeves. They carried arm bouquets of burgundy roses showered with baby's breath and white lace streamers.

Michael Aiken served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Jerry Kaiser, Keith Ellis, Allen Pope, brother of the bride, Richard King, Nicky Whitehead and Steven Miller.

The reception was held at the Garden Club of Sanford. Mrs. John Demshock, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of the gift table. Mrs. Sarah Schwartz presided at the bride's table and Jessica Feuerhahn, Ryan Pope, cousin of the bride, and John Demshock, nephew of the bridegroom, distributed the rice bags. Following a wedding trip to St. Augustine, the newlyweds are making their home in Sanford.

The bride is employed as a nurse in the office of James E. Quinn, M.D. AAFP. The bridegroom is a medical sales representative for Owens & Minor.

Annual Corporate Reception

The Wekiva Ballroom of Longwood's Quality Inn North was the posh setting of activity and festivity when M.M. McCullough, general manager, was host to the annual corporate reception for about 250 guests.

Appetizers To Stuffing

Oysters Are At Their Finest During Holiday Season

By John M. Leighty
INVERNESS, Calif. (UPI) — Holiday-conscious cooks show up at wind-swept Tomales Bay in large numbers each year to pick out "home-grown" oysters for use as festive appetizers or for stuffing the traditional turkey.

"Business is very brisk around the holidays, especially Thanksgiving," says Ben Johnson, who has been "growing" oysters commercially for almost 28 years. "A lot of people, they like oysters to stuff that turkey."

Johnson said extra shell-shuckers are often put to work during the holiday buying spree at the bayside "farm" that grows and sells six million oysters a year. He said business is up 20 percent this season because of the popularity of oyster dishes.

For one thing, oysters have virtually no calories but are rich in vitamins, phosphorus salts, chalk, iron, copper, iodine and magnesium. They have been eaten to combat anemia and were hailed for their aphrodisiac qualities by the ancient Greeks and Romans.

Mountains of discarded shells dot the rugged landscape at Johnson's Oyster Co., near Inverness in northern Marin County, where for $20, a visitor can buy 100 small oysters. Large oysters are $28 per hundred.

"It's a good deal," said Johnson. "We're selling roughly 50,000 oysters a week in the shell right here on the bay."

He also sells shucked oysters in jars for $6 a quart and $3.25 a pint. If things get really busy, he can put a crew of 15 openers to work knocking the shells off 22,000 oysters a day.

"About 80 percent of our business is drive-in customers," he said. "We sell everything we can produce all year round."

Johnson said there are more than 300 varieties of oysters worldwide. Most popular varieties can be used in just about any recipe — from California's own "Hangtown Fry" to a classic oyster stew.

For an appetizer, oysters can be eaten raw on the half shell by serving them chilled with a cocktail sauce, pepper and lemon slices.

A popular use for oysters in the shell, especially along the Northern California coast, is in barbecue pits. During the winter, barbecued oysters are a big seller in local restaurants.

To prepare oysters, always start by washing the shells thoroughly. For opening or "shucking," a hammer can be used to chip away the thin end of the shell. A sharp knife is then forced between the two shells, severing the muscle.

Another method is to place the shells in a hot oven (375 degrees F) for about a half-hour. The shells will open by themselves, but the oysters won't be chilled and raw.

Visitors to Johnson's can buy fresh oysters cheaply enough to try many of the recipes from a pamphlet available at the farm.

For stuffing a 12-pound holiday turkey, the following recipe is recommended:

OYSTER TURKEY STUFFING

Melt one cup of butter in a saucepan. Sauté one cup of chopped onions, adding two cups of fresh bread crumbs, one-half teaspoon of thyme, a tablespoon of chopped parsley, salt and pepper to taste. Cool and add two stalks of celery, chopped and stewed in a little water until tender.

Roll one dozen small oysters (Pacific recommended) in flour, dip in a dish with well-beaten egg and roll in cracker crumbs. Sauté in hot butter for one minute on each side.

Stuff bird with alternate layers of bread mixture and oysters. Other recipes for oyster lovers include the infamous "Hangtown Fry," a term originating in California's Gold Rush days and purportedly ordered as a last meal by at least one outlaw before he went to the gallows in Hangtown, which later changed its name to Placerville.

THE HANGTOWN FRY

(Serves three hungry gold miners)

 6 eggs
 1/2 cup ale
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco
 1/2 stick butter

12 medium oysters, well drained.

Beat eggs thoroughly with ale, salt and Tabasco. Melt butter in a large skillet, add oysters and sauté until edges begin to curl. Pour in egg mixture. Stir over low heat until eggs are slightly scrambled.

A simple oyster stew served with french bread and salad can make a complete meal.

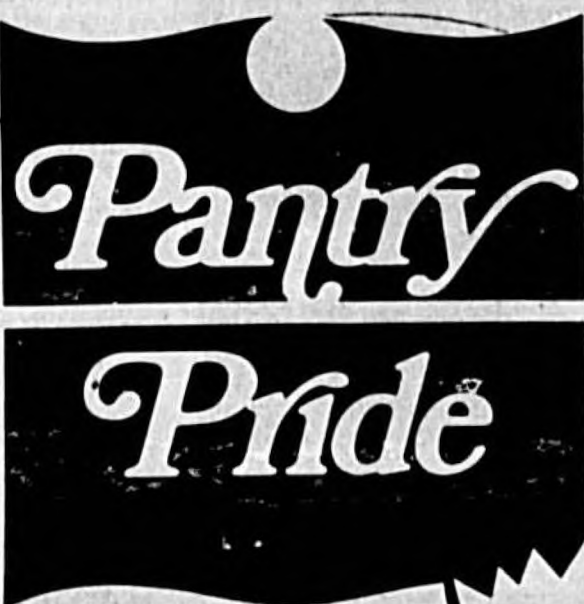

CLASSIC OYSTER STEW

(Serves four)
 1 dozen medium oysters

2 cups milk
 2 cups light cream
 2 tablespoons butter
 salt, pepper and celery salt.

Scald milk and cream together (do not let boil) and keep at a simmer. In a separate pan, cook oysters in their own juices until edges curl and combine with scalded mixture. Add butter and seasonings.

And, if the weather's warm enough to barbecue, an easy treat is to place unshucked oysters on the grill over hot coals. The oysters will open enough in about 10 minutes to slip in a knife and pop up the shell. Add barbecue sauce, each shell until it sizzles. Serve hot on the shell with french bread.

Get A Taste Of The New Fall Colors

Football. Fashion. New cars. Autumn leaves. It's an exciting time. A season that never just passes without being noticed. Everywhere you look, color and change seem to get all the attention.

You can get some attention of your own by bringing color and excitement to mealtime planning with new recipes that will turn a dinner table into a festive harvest.

Recipes that are fast, easy-to-fix, and would convince anyone you wrote the book on creative cooking.

Sweet and sour sausage is a new and different idea. It's so good you'll be tempted to take all the credit for yourself. The sweet comes from tart cherry pie fill combined with pineapple chunks. Together with naturally seasoned Eckrich smoked sausage, made with fresh beef and pork. It's a pleasure to prepare — the influence, definitely Polynesian. Serve this right from the range because glass cookware retains heat, keeps food warmer longer, and looks smart on any table setting.

We've prepared our recipe in Corning's new Visions glass ceramic cookware. It's not only energy efficient, but because it's beautifully transparent, we never miss seeing a thing, when cooking, serving or storing in the refrigerator or freezer. And best of all, the smooth glass surface is nonporous so it doesn't retain odors or flavors.

Try this for a hearty change...Reuben Sausage. Inspired by the popular sandwich, you can prepare it as a complete meal with potatoes, sauerkraut, shredded Swiss cheese and America's favorite family recipe smoked sausage from Eckrich. Use your imagination and arrange ingredients to capture the eye and the appetite. As an accent we've topped ours off with red tart cherries — the bold little fruit that adds so much. Somehow, sandwiches will never seem the same.

Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl. Wednesday, Nov. 7, 1964—5B

Still another way to put more dazzle in dinner is Eckrich smoked sausage with biscuits. Convenient and satisfying, this hearty new offering is certain to become a year around request.

The splash of color comes from a side dish of cherry honey relish — a perfect taste combination with smoked sausage and biscuits and a marvelous accent for meals anytime.

For dessert, the distinctive color of Queen Anne cherries is matched with dark sweet cherries and peaches, then topped with coconut. It's as exciting to prepare as it is to see the pleased expressions when it's served. Clear glass cookware keeps visibility high during the entire process.

Enjoy these new recipes. Enjoy the color of it all. And best of all enjoy the compliments you're sure to get from your family and friends.

With little effort, the fall colors this year will be more spectacular, much tastier and certainly remembered for a long time to come.

Early Election Calls Opposed

LAKE BUENA VISTA (UPI) — A survey of visitors to the Walt Disney World Epcot Center found adults overwhelmingly opposed to television networks projecting election results before polls close, TV Guide magazine says.

The survey found 69 percent of respondents felt the networks should not project election outcomes before balloting ends, compared to 19 percent who favored early calls, the magazine said in its Nov. 10 issue, released Sunday.

About one-third of respondents said early predictions could persuade people to change their votes and 36 percent said it could discourage voting altogether, the magazine reported.

TV Guide acknowledged the poll was not "truly scientific" nor "representative" of a cross-section of the American public.

It was based on questions written by the magazine's editors. Two questions per week were posed between June and August to some 5,000 Epcot visitors weekly, for a total survey population of about 47,000 adults.

Epcot visitors "tend to be more affluent, better educated and more conservative politically" than the general public, the magazine said. In addition, participants opted to be surveyed and were not randomly selected.

Cheshire Loses, Russo Wins; Races Not Close

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole-Brevard State Attorney Douglas Cheshire was ousted from office Tuesday by his first challenger in eight years who won approval from the voters to take over the investigation-haunted agency. In the public defender's race, incumbent James Russo fended off a weak challenge from a former assistant public defender.

Norm Wolfinger, 39, a Republican running on a dual platform of maintaining tough prosecution standards and cleaning up administrative blunders by the 48-year-old Cheshire, took the election in Seminole County by a 2-to-1 margin. In Brevard County, Wolfinger beat Cheshire 46,935 votes to 23,063. In Brevard County, also part of the 18th Judicial Circuit, Wolfinger won with 73,141 votes to Cheshire's 49,439.

In both counties, Wolfinger took every precinct.

"There is so much to do," Wolfinger said as the results began to show he was going to take the office away from Cheshire.

He said he will use the time between now and January when he takes office to begin laying a foundation on which to improve relations between the State Attorney's Office and police agencies and "get some organization" in the office.

Wolfinger said the proper management of cases so they are efficiently handled will be one of the areas he will be reviewing in the interim.

He also said a training program for attorneys and the creation of a liaison with law enforcement agencies will also be among his first actions on taking office.

Cheshire, who could not be reached for comment, was first elected to the office in 1976 and re-elected without opposition in 1980. He was not supported in his re-election bid area lawmen reportedly because of poor communication between himself and police who repeatedly complained cases they considered important not being prosecuted, and the increased use of plea bargaining.

During Cheshire's tenure, his office came under investigation twice, once for spending practices, and currently for the practice of using testimony from inmates against other prisoners, so called jailhouse confessions.

The current review by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement will not be concluded for several weeks but was prompted by a letter written by a circuit judge in Brevard County to the Florida Bar questioning the jailhouse confession practice.

In the spending audit, released in March, 1982, the state found that while Cheshire did not violate any laws, he did not follow state spending guidelines and in some cases kept such sloppy and incomplete office records that it was difficult for the auditors to determine if Cheshire had followed the guidelines, particularly in granting raises.

Douglas Cheshire

Wolfinger, from Melbourne, was an assistant state attorney for 7 years and an assistant public defender for 4 years. He said among his goals is bringing the office under control by hard-nose management procedures and reducing plea bargaining. He said if plea bargaining is to be used in a case, the police and the victims will be consulted for their opinions of the proposed plea. He said he will support efforts to make third-time DUI convictions a third-degree felony — it is now a misdemeanor — lessening the avenues for last-minute appeals based on procedural issues, and create a mandatory sentence for trafficking marijuana in excess of 50 pounds. Currently possession of 100 pounds of marijuana constitutes trafficking.

In the public defender's race, Russo, 34, easily fended off Democratic challenger Leon Watts of Titusville.

Russo took 74.1 percent of the vote in Seminole County, winning 50,850 to 17,745. In Brevard County, Russo collected 84,570 votes to Watts' 35,036.

Russo won all the precincts in both counties.

"I think things are going super well. I'm glad its over and with the results."

Russo, first elected to office in 1980, ran on a platform of maintaining a fiscally conservative office while providing quality full-time legal representation to indigent defendants. During his four years, Russo, in part with administrative help from Wolfinger, said he reorganized the mostly part-time office into a well run agency. He said he has returned $100,000 in office funds to the taxpayers since 1981. He too approved limited use of plea bargaining.

Russo has had 4 years experience as the public defender, 3 years as an assistant state attorney and 2 years of private practice.

Watts, a former public defender now in private practice, said that if elected he would have hired fewer but more qualified lawyers for the agency.

Watts could not be reached for comment following the election.

Youngest Republican

Although he won't be old enough to vote until 2002, Reagan-Bush supporter Michael Williams, seven-week-old son of Paul and Kathy Williams of Forest City, was wide-eyed as his candidate's landslide victory was reported on television Tuesday night.

MM's Husband Wins Seat

SABATTUS, Maine (UPI) — The first husband of legendary sex symbol Marilyn Monroe will take his own place in the spotlight now as a county commissioner.

James Dougherty, 63, lives in the central Maine town of Sabattus with his third wife, Rita. Tuesday he won his first bid for public office in an uncontested race.

He admitted that folks in the town of 2,000 residents know of his four-year marriage to the world-famous model, but said that had nothing to do with running unchallenged for the commissioner's seat of Androscoggin County.

World's Fair Ends With A Whimper

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The World's Fair, already anticipating debts of $140 million, filed for bankruptcy six days before its scheduled closing to ensure and "orderly" liquidation of revenues from the final crowded days of the exposition.

Fair officials had predicted they would seek bankruptcy soon after the exposition's closing Sunday so federal courts would be responsible for disbursing sparse fair funds among creditors.

But an attorney for Louisiana World Exposition said the fair could not afford to wait until Sunday to file court documents seeking Chapter 11 bankruptcy.

"The reason for not waiting until the fair closes is to enable the fair to free up for use in winding up its affairs the gate receipts from the last few days," said lawyer Edward Heller.

"It prevents creditors from coming in on the last day and trying to get what is there," added fair president Petr Spurney. "The courts will decide how to handle the creditors."

Fair spokesman George Williams said bankruptcy would ensure "a liquidation of the assets in an orderly fashion."

Fair officials said they had considered bankruptcy since June — when low attendance began to lead to huge deficits — but "to have sought this protection earlier would have adversely affected attendance and revenues."

Bankruptcy would allow the courts to implement a reorganization plan that can begin while the fair is phasing down its operations, Williams said.

Meanwhile, fair officials said last weekend's attendance set three records — busiest single day, busiest Sunday and busiest full weekend.

Boarding House Reflects Bygone Era Of Simple Southern Fare

"About 15 years ago, American housewives wanted to learn how to prepare classic French dishes. Then Chinese cooking became the rage. Since then, Nouvelle Cousine, fresh Italian pasta and the foods of about a dozen other countries have come and gone as passing fads. Today, lots of people are realizing that the traditional cooking of America has a great deal to offer."

So states Lynne Tolley, the proprietress of Miss Mary Bobo's Boarding House in Lynchburg, Tennessee. From 1908 until her death in 1983 at the age of 101, Mary Bobo ran a boarding house that was almost as great an attraction as Lynchburg's other famous landmark — the Jack Daniel Distillery. When the boarding house closed after "Miss Mary's" death, everyone who had ever dined there, family-style at one of the big round tables, mourned its passing.

But recently, the house has been reopened by Lynne Tolley, who has roots going back in the town of Lynchburg further than anyone living there today can remember. Long before her grand-daddy (for whom the little corner of Lynchburg known as Tolley Town was named) was born, there was the Tolley and Eaten Distillery. In its day, the now long closed-down producer of Tennessee Whiskey was even bigger than Jack Daniel's.

Lynne is proud of the fact that as much as possible has remained the same at Miss Mary's. "Miss Mary really cared about the people who came to dinner," stated Lynne. "She wanted to make her guests feel welcome and to please them. This is typical of the way just about everyone acts in the South. And it's a tradition I try to carry on, too."

"We still serve what we call 'dinner' at the noon-hour (one o'clock, to be precise.) And the food is still dished up 'family style.' Guest sit down together, and plates and bowls of food are brought to the table. The dishes have always varied from day to day, depending both on Miss Mary's mood of the morning and on the season — what was fresh and available. And I continue to do that. One day we'll have pot roast with carrots, another day I'll serve meat loaf."

The food at Miss Mary's is Southern fare at its peak. Traditional dishes, like fried chicken dipped in a rich egg batter, golden biscuits or cheese grits, appear often and are accompanied by plenty of fresh pies, rolled-up pies — just about any kind of pie you could imagine. This was typical of Southern cooking a hundred years ago...and it's the food Lynne Tolley serves at Miss Mary's today.

"Southern cooking is just native American food that's prepared very simply," says Lynne. "It's hearty and satisfying and makes people feel comfortable in ways that foreign cooking just can't match. Take, for example, Skillet Corn with Bacon. The only ingredients are corn that's picked fresh from the garden and cooked in a cast iron skillet with bacon and a tiny bit of salt and sugar. It sounds plain, but when you taste it, it's real special."

Lynne reports that she was very involved in helping an author research a cookbook about Miss Mary Bobo's Boarding House. "There was a cookbook author, Diana Dalasas, from New York, who had eaten at Miss Mary's and liked the food so much, she wanted to write a whole book about it," said Lynne. "I was pleased to help out because I was afraid that, otherwise, some of Miss Mary's hundred-year old recipes might have become lost. So I talked with all the women who cook here now and some others who live in Lynchburg and used to be cooks at Miss Mary's. I got together about 125 recipes and sent them to Diana Dalasas for her to use in the book."

The cookbook, "Miss Mary's Down-Home Cooking," has just been published by New American Library, and a few recipes from it appear below.

When asked if Miss Mary Bobo's Boarding House serves Lynchburg's most famous product, Jack Daniel's Tennessee Whiskey, Lynne (who happens to be the great-great niece of Mr. Jack Daniel himself) laughed and responded, "Most people don't know that Moore County, where Lynchburg is located, is dry. So we can't serve an liquor there. We do make an exception at Christmas, though, when we serve Boiled Custard." Boiled Custard, as Lynne explains it, is an eggnog-like beverage, containing no alcohol, that's served in punch cups. A crystal pitcher of Jack Daniel's is passed around, and guests add whatever amount suits their own tastes.

"This makes a real nice beverage. See Miss Mary's, 2C age for the holidays," added Lynne. "It's different from the usual eggnog, and I find that guests enjoy having a chance to try something new. It's also easier on the hostess to fix one drink that everyone will like, rather than having to make up separate drinks for each guest."

 "Throughout the holiday season, people in Lynchburg have lots of open houses," continued Lynne. "In addition to Boiled Custard, they serve other traditional festive foods, cookies and home-made candies. It's a time of year that makes everyone here really appreciate the quality of life in a small town."

RECIPES FROM MISS MARY BOBO'S BOARDING HOUSE

The following recipes served at Miss Mary's are taken from "Miss Mary's Down-Home Cooking" by Diana Dalaas (New American Library, 1984).

SOUTHERN PORK RIBS

Southern pork ribs are hearty and meaty. Minimal seasoning — just salt, black pepper and red pepper — is all that's needed to bring out their simple rich flavor.

3 pounds meaty pork ribs (often called "country-style" ribs)

1/2 teaspoon red pepper flakes
 salt and pepper

Place the ribs in a large saucepan and add enough water to cover them. Add the red pepper flakes and about 1 teaspoon salt. Bring to a boil. Then lower the heat, cover, and simmer until the ribs are tender, about 45 minutes.

Remove the ribs from the pot and place them meaty side up in a large baking pan. Season with salt and pepper. Bake in a 400-degree oven until browned, about 20 minutes. Yield: 4 servings.

SKILLET CORN WITH BACON

3 slices thick-sliced bacon
 4 ears corn
 1/2 cup water
 1 1/2 teaspoons sugar
 1/4 teaspoon salt

Cook the bacon in a heavy skillet. (Do not use an iron skillet, as this may cause the corn to turn dark.) Remove the bacon and drain on paper towels. Crumble and reserve.

Remove the husks and silks from the corn. (This next step is optional because it is quite time-consuming, but it will result in a creamier dish: with a sharp knife, cut halfway through each kernel to release the milky liquid inside.) With a sharp knife, cut the kernels from the ears. Then, using the blunt side of the knife, scrape off any milky portions of the kernels that remain on the ear.

Drain off all but 2 tablespoons bacon fat from the skillet and heat remaining fat. Add the corn, water, sugar, and salt. Cook, stirring often, 15 to 20 minutes, or until the mixture has thickened and turned somewhat creamy.

Transfer to a serving dish and sprinkle with the reserved bacon. Yield: 4 servings.

CREOLE GREEN BEANS

Green pepper, onion and tomatoes give this colorful vegetable dish a distinctive Creole flavor. It goes well with all types of meat, and any leftovers can be reheated successfully.

1/2 pound green beans, trimmed
 2 stalks celery, diced
 1 green pepper, diced
 1 onion, diced
 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
 1 28-ounce can tomatoes, drained and coarsely chopped
 1/2 teaspoon sugar
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Cut the beans in half crosswise and then lengthwise (as for French-cut beans). Place in a large saucepan. Add water to cover. Bring to a boil and cook, covered, until the beans are tender. Drain and return beans to the pot.

In a large skillet, saute the celery, green peppers, and onion in oil until tender and lightly brown. Add the tomatoes and simmer, uncovered, 15 minutes, or until most of the liquid has evaporated.

Add the sauteed vegetables to the pot with the beans, along with the sugar, salt, and pepper. Heat through. Yield: 6-8 servings.

MERINGUE-TOPPED JAM PIE

You may use any flavor jam, but red jams, such as strawberry or seedless raspberry, will give the filling a lovely deep pink tint.

Pastry:
 1 cup flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 pinch sugar
 1/2 cup lard, shortening or chilled butter or margarine, or a combination
 1 1/4 to 2 1/4 tablespoons ice water.

Filling:
 4 egg yolks
 1 cup sugar
 2 tablespoons butter, melted
 2 tablespoons flour
 1 cup milk
 1 cup jam or preserves

Topping:
 4 egg whites
 1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 cup sugar
 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
 In a bowl, stir together the flour, salt and sugar. With a pastry blender or two knives, cut in the lard, shortening, butter or margarine until the fat is so fine that you almost cannot see it. (This step may be done with a food processor; transfer to a mixing bowl when completed).

Add the ice water gradually and blend it in with a fork. Use only enough water so the dough barely holds together. Roll out the dough to an 11-inch circle and fit into a deep 9-inch pie plate.

Beat the egg yolks in a medium bowl. Gradually beat in the 1 cup sugar. The mixture will be thick and pale yellow. Beat in the butter and flour, then the milk and jam.

Turn the mixture into the pie crust. Bake the custard in a 350-degree oven about 1 hour. The custard will be set but not firm. Let cool 15 minutes.

Meanwhile, make the meringue. In a clean bowl, beat the egg whites with the salt until nearly stiff. Gradually beat in the 1/2 cup sugar until the mixture is glossy. Beat in the vanilla. Spread over the filling.

Bake the pie 20 minutes longer, or until the meringue is a light golden brown. Let the pie cool on a rack to room temperature before serving. Yield: 8 servings.

The recipe shown in the glasses in the photograph was not included in the cookbook.

LYNCHBURG LEMONADE

3/4 cup Jack Daniel's Tennessee Whiskey
 3/4 cup triple sec liqueur
 3/4 cup sweet and sour mix
 2 cups lemon lime soda
 lemon slices

Stir together all ingredients except lemon slices in a pitcher or punch bowl. Add ice. Garnish with lemon slices. Yield: 6 servings.

Blueberry Meringue Clouds, Broccoli Brunch Pie and Seafood Lasanga can all be made ahead of the holiday celebration

Great Dishes To Fix Ahead For Holidays

Does this resemble your December schedule? There's a "pot luck" office party, a dinner for out-of-town friends, supper the night your folks fly in, the annual tree trimming buffet, not to mention Christmas and New Year's family dinners. All this in addition to buying gifts, sending cards and making cookies with the children

There's no doubt about it. The busiest time of the year brings the most occasions for entertaining. And there's something special about the season that makes these get-togethers truly special.

For the host or hostess planning menus for these festivities, the best kitchen help is "make-ahead dishes." You can save a lot of last minute bother and have more time to enjoy your guests with food that can be prepared a day or more before the party.

Also keep simplicity in mind. It's the joy of the season you're celebrating, not "how much" you can serve people. Although you may have wonderful memories of your grandmother's holiday tables laden with delicious fare, today's generation of fitness buffs and dieters welcome light and simple foods. An entree, vegetable, salad and dessert with perhaps a simple appetizer served from a festive table is all you need.

For example, an ideal party entree is Seafood Lasagna. This pasta dish features a winning combination of shrimp and crab. And you can make the entire dish in advance.

Another suggestion, Broccoli Brunch Pie, doubles as a buffet vegetable or brunch entree. You can make the crunchy crust, chop the vegetables and grate the cheese anytime. It's ready to assemble for the party.

For a holiday dessert that pleases the eye as well as the sweet tooth, try Blueberry Meringue Clouds. They are simply crisp meringue shells crowned with colorful fruit fillings and whipped cream. You can keep the meringues for several days in plastic bags and the fruit fillings may be made the day ahead. Serve a tray of these goodies for a buffet finale, for a dinner dessert simply arrange three varieties on a plate.

And since few can resist appetizers, here are two that need little last minute attention. A traditional favorite, Chex Party Mix, is a delicious snack you'll want to keep on hand in an attractive container throughout the season. A new idea, Zucchini Dip, is a delicious blend of zucchini and walnuts that's even better with Crispy Bread Sticks dippers.

Chicken Divan Updated

What can you do when some of your favorite recipes start to lose favor? Live them up with something new.

Take chicken divan. Slices of delectable poultry and crunchy green broccoli in a cheesy sauce has, over the years, become standard company fare. For a different twist trade the rice accompaniment for new Velveeta shells and cheese dinner. This latest entry in the packaged dinners category makes macaroni and cheese fancy enough for guests.

Bite-sized, shell-shaped pasta combined with a sauce made from one of America's most popular cheese products provides a flavorful bed for the traditional ingredients. Topped with a creamy white sauce, this palate-pleasing meal offers tasty elegance and convenience in the same dish. A perfect use for left-over chicken or turkey, prepare Creamy Chicken Divan when the occasion calls for a dinner that's tried and true and terrific.

Microwave Magic

Try Fall Menu Using Bounty Of Season

The more you use the microwave oven the more you realize the wonderful convenience and versatility of this appliance. It is not a gadget to be used just for boiling water or reheating leftovers. It can be the only equipment you need for whole meal preparations.

This easy microwave meal is one that you would prepare for Sunday dinner. It is budget-wise as the foods are plentiful and of exceptional quality right now.

The fall microwave menu is as follows:

- APRICOT GLAZED PORK ROAST
- CHEESE STUFFED ZUCCHINI
- NEW ORLEANS YAMS
- BREAD PUDDING WITH LEMON SAUCE

When planning to microwave a complete meal timing is of the essence. Start the microwave with the food that takes the longest cooking and standing time. In this menu it is the pork roast. The bread pudding and lemon sauce can be micro-cooked earlier in the day and the sauce reheated at serving time.

- APRICOT GLAZED PORK ROAST
- 1 (12 ounce) package of dried apricots
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 lemon (remove the seeds)
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 cup apricot nectar

- 2 tablespoons orange juice
- 3 tablespoons honey
- 15-6-pound pork roast

GLAZE:
In a 1 1/2-quart container, squeeze the juice from the lemon, then cut the remaining lemon into wedges and add to the container. Add dried apricots, cinnamon and water. Microwave on 85% power (med-high) 10 minutes, or until apricots are tender, stirring several times. Remove the lemon wedges. Add the apricot nectar, orange juice and honey. Heat on 85% power 3 minutes. Spread the glaze over the pork roast and microwave on 85% power for 12 minutes per pound, or until the thickest part of the meat is no longer pink. Baste with the glaze every 15 minutes. When done, remove from microwave oven and "tent" with aluminum foil.

Let stand 15 minutes. *To "tent" is to cover the meat well, tucking it under the meat, not the container.

- CHEESE STUFFED ZUCCHINI
- 2 medium zucchini
- 1/4 cup onion, finely chopped
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1/4 cup cream style cottage cheese
- 3/4 cup cooked rice
- 1 egg (slightly beaten)
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup cheddar cheese
- Paprika

Trims ends of zucchini. Place in a flat baking dish with 1/4 cup water. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 4 minutes, or until crisp tender. Cut in half lengthwise; scoop out centers and dice. Microwave onion in butter in a 1-quart container on 100% power 3 minutes. Stir in diced zucchini, cottage cheese, cooked rice, parsley, and salt. Fill with the cheese mixture. Place in a shallow baking dish, cover and microwave on 85% power 14-16 minutes. Sprinkle cheddar cheese over the top and dust with paprika. Microwave, uncovered, on 85% power 2-3 minutes, or until cheese melts. Serves 4.

This recipe calls for canned yams, but you could pre-cook fresh yams and proceed.

- NEW ORLEANS YAMS
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1/2 cup pecan halves
- 3/4 cup packed brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 12 ounces canned yams, drained (reserve liquid)

In a shallow 2-quart casserole, melt butter on 100% power (about 1 minute). Add the pecans, stir and microwave 2-3 minutes. Add brown sugar and 1/2 cup of reserved liquid and vanilla. Microwave on 100% power 3 minutes. Stir. Add yams and gently turn to coat in the liquid. Microwave, uncovered, 2 minutes. Turn the yams and microwave 2-3 minutes, or until heated through.

- OLD-FASHIONED BREAD PUDDING
- 2 cups milk
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 3 eggs
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 3 cups soft bread cubes

In a 4-quart glass measuring cup, heat milk and butter by microwave for 3 minutes. Beat eggs, blend in sugar. Gradually add hot milk to eggs, stir until well blended. Stir in salt, vanilla, cinnamon and raisins. Place bread in a 10x6-inch baking dish. Pour egg mixture over bread. Cook 3 minutes by microwave; turn and cook another 2 minutes. Microwave at 100% power 4-6 minutes, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serves 6.

- LEMON SAUCE
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon corn starch
- 1 cup water
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon
- Dash of salt

Combine sugar and corn starch in a 4-cup container. Stir in water. Cook for 2 minutes on 100% power, stirring twice. Blend in butter or margarine, grated lemon, lemon juice and salt. Heat for 30 seconds more on 100% power to blend ingredients together.

Tex-Mex Quickie Tacos

The fascination with Mexican food continues. Tex-Mex favorites — burritos, tacos, and enchiladas with their varied uses of beans, cheese, lettuce, tomato and avocado — grab the attention of children and their parents.

Not only is Tex-Mex food eye-catching, it's nutritional and usually easy to assemble.

- BEAN AND HAM TACOS
- 2 cups diced cooked ham
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 can (16 ounces) refried beans, plain or with green chilies or sausage
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 1/2 teaspoon chili powder
- 1/2 taco shells
- 1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Swiss cheese
- 2 cups shredded lettuce
- 1 medium tomato, chopped
- Taco sauce

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Brown ham in butter in medium skillet. Stir in beans, sour cream and chili powder. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until heated through.

Place taco shells on baking sheet and heat for 5 to 7 minutes. Spoon ham filling into taco shells. Top with cheese, lettuce and tomato. Serve with taco sauce and additional sour cream, if desired.
