NATION IN BRIEF

New Watchdog Panel

Will Come From Old Groups WASHINGTON (AP) - A majority of the Senate's new intelligence committee will be members of existing panels whose failure to curb spy agency abuses provided a principal argument for creation of the new committee. Under terms of a resolution establishing the new panel, at least eight of its 15 members must come from the four Senate panels that traditionally have monitored the CIA, FBI and other spy agencies. The resolution won overwhelming Senate approval Wednesday. Majority leader Mike Mansfield will pick eight Democrats to serve on the panel and minority leader Hugh Scott will tap seven Republicans.

The resolution originally called for a 17-member panel but the number was cut to 15 under an amendment by Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev.

Levi Weighs Busing Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) - Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi is moving toward a lonely decision that could make school busing a major issue in yet another national political campaign.

But Levi's decision will have no immediate impact on court orders imposing busing in Boston and other cities. It's doubtful that the course Levi is considering could actually lead to any changes in local school districts until next year - after the 1976 elections.

White House and Justice Department officials insisted Wednesday that Levi alone will decide whether to use the Boston school case as a vehicle for the federal government to seek new Supreme Court guidelines limiting the use of busing to integrate schools. His decision is expected this week.

Busing Plan Begins In 1977

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) - Some of the 23,000 students in Wilmington's city and suburban school systems will be bused to classes beginning in 1977 under a court-ordered desegregation plan that cuts across school district boundaries.

It wasn't known immediately how many of the pupils in the mostly black city system and the primarily white suburban districts will be affected by the order issued Wednesday by a panel of three federal court judges.

Federal courts in at least two instances have required busing across current school district lines to meet the 1954 U.S. Supreme Court ruling banning separate-but-equal

Young Kennedy Starts Early

BOSTON (AP) - Joseph P. Kennedy III, oldest of the new generation of Kennedy men, is getting his baptism in politics by managing the re-election campaign of his uncle, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy says he will use the experience to decide whether to run for office himself someday. Though only 23, Kennedy emphasizes that he alone directs the statewide campaign for the Democratic senator, whom he calls "Uncle Ted."

FTC Probing Condo Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) - The staff of the Federal Trade Commission will complete its two year investigation of condominiums this summer and will recommend litigation against several developers, a top FTC staff official says. James V. Delong, who has directed the FTC in-

Surgeon Charged in Deaths

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) -A surgeon has been charged with murder in the mysterious "Dr. X" case involving the deaths of five patients in a northern New Jersey hospital a decade ago. Medical techniques not available 10 years ago reportedly enabled investigators to find traces of curare, a muscle relaxant that can be fatal in large doses, during laboratory tests of tissues from five bodies exhumed earlier this year. Dr. Mario Jascalevich pleaded innocent to a five-count murder indictment at his arraignment here Wednesday before Superior Court Judge Theodore Trautwein and was later released on $150,000 bail. Until his name was revealed in court papers, Jascalevich was referred to as "Dr. X" in news reports of the latest investigation into the deaths. The doctor was arrested early Wednesday as he left his Englewood Cliffs home for his job at Christ Hospital in Jersey City. After the arrest was announced, a hospital official said a board may be convened to consider barring Jascalevich from practicing there. A county grand jury returned a sealed indictment Tuesday charging him with murdering Carl Rohrbeck, 72, Nancy Savino, 4, Margaret Pearson, 26, Frank Biggs and Emma M. Arzt, 70. They were among 13 patients who died at Riverdell Hospital in Oradell in late 1965 and 1966. They were not Jascalevich's patients.

The indictment did not say how the alleged murders were 100 committed. The deaths prompted an investigation in 1966, but the inquiry was dropped despite discovery of 18 empty or nearly empty curare vials in Jascalevich's locker at the hospital.

Energy Agencies Need Scrutiny

The Federal Energy Administration was created late in 1973 in the crisis atmosphere of the Arab oil embargo. It will go out of existence June 30 unless Congress votes to keep it alive. If the new theory of "sunset" laws were applied in this case, the FEA would have to prove there is a good a reason for its existence today as there was in 1973. Frank Zarb, the FEA administrator, is arguing that the agency has plenty to do even if there is no shortage of oil and gasoline right now. Congress has passed about 45 energy bills in the last two years, many of them assigning tasks to the FEA. And the 40-month phaseout of oil price controls and allocations voted by Congress last year, and which the FEA administers, runs through 1978.

Yet the FEA has emerged as a textbook case of a "temporary" federal agency putting down roots that become hard to dislodge. It has 3,450 employes at last count - with a proposed budget for next year calling for 700 more. By strange bureaucratic logic, it takes more people to phase out the FEA controls over the oil industry than it did to put them in place. The FEA's publicity operation is the largest in Washington, with 112 people grinding out press releases, speeches and pamphlets trying to make Americans more energy-conscious.

Administering energy programs and awakening the American people to the implications of prospective fuel shortages and our dependence on foreign petroleum are highly important. But that is not the real issue in considering the case of the FEA. The truth is that the federal government seems to have wound up with more energy agencies than it really needs.

The Energy Research and Development Administration has a broad mandate in the field of coordinating the development of energy resources, now and for the long-range future. The Federal Power Commission has regulatory responsibilities for the delivery of fuel and power. Mr. Zarb himself, while defending the burgeoning payroll at FEA, has suggested it may be time to consider formation of a single cabinet-level energy agency that would consolidate these various agencies and assume over-all responsibility for energy programs.

Whether it would be practical to let the FEA die on June 30, dispersing its responsibilities to existing agencies, is a difficult question. It is not difficult to see, however, that the energy bureaucracy which has sprung up in Washington in the last few years needs closer scrutiny.

One of the themes of the press releases emanating from FEA at the rate of two a day is that the United States cannot afford to be so wasteful with energy. True enough, but what about the wasted motion and wasted money of overblown, overlapping energy agencies? We can't afford that,

No Choice

The elections held in South Vietnam recently were calm and orderly - nothing like the turbulent political life of that country a few years ago.

This time, however, there was no one to vote for but candidates put up without opposition by the Communist leadership that took over a year ago. It was the dutiful trek to the polls familiar in totalitarian countries. Instead of the free elections promised under the 1973 truce agreement, the South Vietnamese voting was only ratifying the membership of a national assembly, hand-picked by leaders of the National Liberation Front, which will get on with the business of unifying North and South Vietnam under a Communist government. Thus the Vietnamese elections were a travesty on the democratic process and the principle of selfdetermination.

The Saigon radio described the election turnout as "enthusiastic, jubilant and orderly." Orderly, we can believe. All political events in a state under police-imposed one-party rule are orderly if nothing else. But enthusiastic and jubilant? For a people who fought a bloody war for the freedom to choose their own government, and lost, an election rigged from Hanoi to impose a new dictatorial regime hardly sounds like an occasion for dancing in the streets.

Capitalism, says Socialist Labor Party presidential candidate Julius Levin, "is the basic cause of all our social ills" and should be placed in the ashbin of history alongside slavery and "It is a sick, crime-ridden, fiscally bankrupt colitically corrupt social system. It cannot provide security and a decent quality of life for the overwhelming majority of the population.' Social problems will not be solved, says Levin, until capitalism is replaced by the system advocated by the SLP - control of industry and government in the hands of the working class and production to satisfy "human needs," not for the sake of profits.

Unfortunately for this candidate's hopes to pardon the expression - capitalize on the economic and other complaints of Americans, neither he nor any socialist has ever been able to point to any country or any system that has not done infinitely worse.

OSHA Fails To Protect President WASHINGTON — The problem with federal regulatory agencies is that they are like cops:

there's never one around when you really need

Take, for example, the chronic problem President Ford is having bashing his brains out on his helicopter doorway. Why in the world does the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) allow this outrageous situation to continue, since the agency was set up in 1971 specifically to "assure so far as possible every working man and woman in the nation safe and healthful working conditions. . ." I mean, what do we pay these people for?

This government red-tape factory called OSHA - which has been about as helpful to small business as the Lilliputians were to Gulliver - has set safety standards for everything imaginable: abrasive blasting, chlorinated hydrocarbons, forklift trucks, railings, toilets and toeboards. Yes, toeboards. But helicopter doorways? Nope, nothing. Incredibly OSHA has done zilch in this area. nbelievable

But OSHA could do something to protect our nation's chief executive, if the bureaucrats running this outfit would get off their duffs and act. Sure they could. ## White House Pushing For Rhodesian Changes President Ford have been all but ruled out. Meanwhile, the White House has reacned a tentative decision not to step up pressure on Congress now for an immediate vote to nullify the Byrd amendment, which permits the import of chrome from Rhodesia in defiance of a United Nations embargo.

"It's a very emotional issue and we're not sure we have the votes," said one official, denying at the same time that politics are a consideration in shaping U.S. policy toward southern Africa.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Christian and Moslem leaders sought to arrange another cease-fire today in the Lebanese civil war, but they couldn't even agree on whether or not they had reached an agreement. "There is no smell of ceasefire on the front lines," a police spokesman said. Seminole Sheriff John E. Polk has announced a program of identifying owners or managers of businesses in the county that will enable deputies to make emergency calls to them without telephone numbers or addresses being made public. Sheriff's spokesman John Spolski said there are daily incidents in which patrolling deputies find open doors at businesses or need to contact businessmen concerning burglaries and other offenses. "Most businessmen don't want their home telephone numbers or addresses made public," Spolski said, "and are reluctant to post them on the doors of their businesses." In the new program, businesses are being issued code numbers that will be posted at the business location. The numbers are being filed with cross-references at the sheriff's communication center at Sanford in non-public files. Only the code number would appear in the front door window of a business, Spolski said. In time of emergency, the patrol deputy would relay the number to the communications center and the responsible people would be alerted. Reserve Deputy Bob Colbert

s now in the process of contacting businesses to update the Sheriff's Department emergency telephone listings. Spolski said information being sought for the confidential sheriff's file includes the name of the business firm, address, office telephone number, plus names of the owner, manager and other persons to contact in case of an emergency and their telephone numbers.

DENVER (AP) - "It feels good to set a record of this kind," proclaimed golfing superstar Arnold Palmer after he and his crew smashed the old mark for an around-theworld flight in a small business jet. Palmer and three companions completed the journey which took them to six countries in less than three days

Palmer, wearing the same yellow sport shirt and brown suit he wore when he began the flight in his Learjet 36 Monday, embraced his wife, Winnie, after embarking from the aircraft Wednesday night. He called the trip "exciting and enjoya"

"The highlight? I guess it is right now," Palmer said.
