Hodges, 65, of Sanford, is scheduled to retire on Sept. 30. He will be replaced as chairman of the board of the Sanford office by James B. Young, 41, of Sanford. Young, who has been with the bank for 15 years, is currently a vice president and city executive.

Car bomb kills three in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon — A car packed with explosives blew up in Christian east Beirut today, igniting fires, killing at least three people and wounding 25 others, including a former government minister and two aides, police said.

Police said the booby-trapped car, laden with a large amount of explosives and flammable liquid, exploded at 9 a.m. on the main highway in the Dora area, sending shrapnel cutting through pedestrians and people passing in cars.

The blast killed at least three people and wounded 25 others, destroyed six nearby parked cars, heavily damaged shops and buildings, and set a tanker and other vehicles ablaze.

Doctor gets AIDS, sues hospital

NEW YORK — A doctor stricken with AIDS who says she is destitute since becoming ill is suing a city hospital and fellow physicians for $175 million, charging she was infected with the deadly virus while handling contaminated hypodermic needles at work.

Dr. Veronica Prego, 30, a South American-born doctor, said Monday she was stuck with a needle during her first year at Kings County Hospital in Brooklyn while cleaning up after another doctor who had drawn blood from an AIDS patient.

She has since filed the $175 million suit against the hospital and two fellow physicians for negligence and for disclosing her infection.

Granny guilty of drug charges

TRENTON, N.J. — The cocaine trafficking conviction of a Colombian-born grandmother under the tough federal drug kingpin law leaves the "heavy hitters" in a multimillion-dollar New York-New Jersey drug conspiracy unscathed, her lawyer said.

John Furlong said Eucaris Ceballos, 54, did not deserve to be convicted under a 1986 revision of the drug kingpin statute that calls for a mandatory life sentence because she was nothing more than a "little old lady" caught in a web of circumstance.

A's clinch AL West flag

OAKLAND, Calif. — Dave Parker hit a two-run homer Monday night to pace the Oakland Athletics to a 5-3 victory over Minnesota, giving the A's their first American League West title since 1981 and dethroning the World Series champion Twins.

Oakland, which has occupied first place since April 21, is the first team in the majors to secure a postseason berth. With 96 victories, the A's already own more triumphs than the 1972-74 Oakland teams, each of which won the World Series.

City looks for flood solutions

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The downtown drainage problem received commissioner consideration at a workshop session Monday. Commissioners said they would like to wait and see if a less expensive alternative can be submitted than those presented by Bill Simmons, director of engineering and planning.

The least expensive option involves storm water diversion from Park Avenue to the Magnolia Street alley, to an existing 84-inch storm pipe at Pine Avenue via Sixth Street. Cost for this project is estimated at $433,452 for four storm manholes, four concrete pipes, roadway removal and restoration, and sidewalk right of way restoration, removing the brick and using asphalt roadway. If the brick surface was restored after the work, the cost would increase to $736,460. The project could be completed next October after a vacuum sewer system contract is awarded.

Also, commissioners discussed discontinuing having an off-duty police officer at the Lake Monroe Marina on weekends since the crowds there have tapered off, and the city is not paying its costs from the income from launching fees.

A memo from Police Chief Steve Harriett and Simmons pointed out that income from non-resident launch fees and decals as of Aug. 31 totaled $4,500, but expenses of the fees collector's and police officer's salaries and uniforms, and printing, has totaled $6,477.96, for a loss of $1,977.96 since the program went into effect in July.

The commission plans to approve a contract at its Monday meeting with architects Schweizer Inc.

'Superboy' comes to town

SANFORD — Crews from the Central Florida-based television production "Superboy" began filming at City Hall and the pier today.

City Manager Frank Faison said the city was contacted a week ago through the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce. Faison said arrangements were made last Friday for the filming, possibly to continue through Thursday.

"It's a great city," said blonde-haired production manager Buck Allen, who looks as though he may be Superboy himself. "We may be back. I've been driving up and down 1st Street, and the turn-of-the-century architecture is beautiful."

Crew members lined up for breakfast early Tuesday morning wedged between five production trailers in the parking lot adjacent to the Riverboat Romance. Across from the courthouse, a crane was being prepared for Superboy's flight.

Faison said off-duty city police, who will be featured in some shots, will be paid by the production company.

Unique child care program begins

By CAROL RUMSEY
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Student teachers and three- and four-year-old children learn through doing in a unique child care program offered at Seminole Community College.

For 14 years the college and Community Coordinated Child Care of Central Florida, Inc. (4C) have pooled their resources to train child care professionals and provide a stimulating and secure environment for preschool-age children.

Today 25 students are working toward associates in science degrees at the college. As part of their training, S.C.C. students spend three mornings a week working with children at the Child Development Center and two mornings a week receiving lectures, textbook instruction, and feedback on their classroom performance. All activities are housed under the same roof.

Nita Ekwurzel, director of Special Projects for 4C, said students in the program are observed working with children in the classroom by the center's program manager and S.C.C. course instructors. Should a problem arise, the student can discuss it immediately.

For example, a student may have tried a teaching method to encourage sharing and interaction between children. If the method proves a flop, the student and teacher will discuss and

Hunter takes gator; cops take hunter

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

GENEVA — A state-licensed alligator hunter participating in the September hunt has been arrested in Seminole County for taking a gator he didn't tag and hunting in unauthorized waters.

State Wildlife Officer Jesse Baker said that about 1:30 a.m. Monday he and fellow officer Clinton High spotted a suspicious light on Mullet Lake east of Sanford. They investigated and reportedly found licensed gator hunter Basil Shawn Buchanan, 29, of Orlando, had allegedly just brought in a 5-foot gator.

The animal had not been tagged with one of 15 gator identification tags each licensed hunter received from the state, Baker said. He said the first duty of a gator hunter is to immediately tag the catch.

Baker said it was also illegal for Buchanan to be hunting in Mullet Lake, which like Lake Jesup in Seminole County, is off limits for the hunt, Buchanan, Baker said, is licensed only to hunt in the St. Johns River from State Road 415 to the Mim's Bridge.

Buchanan, who faces charges of taking an alligator in a closed area and failing to tag a taken alligator, is scheduled to appear in court Oct. 7, Baker said. Buchanan wasn't jailed, but was issued a citation for first degree misdemeanor charges. Buchanan faces a possible $500 fine.

Former Sanford cop promoted by FHP

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

BRADENTON — Ron Getman, a former Sanford policeman and now a major with the Florida Highway Patrol, has been assigned as commander of one of the 10 FHP districts in the state.

Getman, 44, was promoted from the rank of captain to major on July 15 and assigned as Commander of Troop F in Bradenton.

This is as high as you can go without going to Tallahassee," Getman said. He added he is happy with his new assignment and doesn't desire to be one of the five-member staff that makes policy for the patrol in Tallahassee.

Getman's new duties are administrative. He reports directly to state headquarters and is one of 10 commanders who oversee the operations of the state's 1,500 troopers.

Getman, whose parents Robert and Alice moved their family to Sanford in the 1950s, is a 1962 graduate of Seminole High School. He served four years in the U.S. Air Force and returned to Sanford in 1966 and joined the Sanford police force. After two years, Getman left the city police department to join the FHP.

"I was young and single. I looked upon it as an adventure, an experience," he said of joining the FHP. "When I joined the Florida Highway Patrol it was visualized as a unique group. I felt this was more exciting and a greater opportunity. I found what I was looking for. It's a completely different job setting for the state instead of for a local government."

Getman said he enjoyed his duty as a policeman in Sanford. From 1980 to 1983, when he was assigned to the DeLand FHP office, he returned to Seminole County and presented safety and educational programs in local schools and served as a spokesman for the patrol.

Getman now supervises operations in Manatee, Sarasota, Charlotte, DeSoto, Lee, Hardee, Glades, Collier, Highlands and Hardee counties. He replaces Major Robert M. Kirby, who was transferred to Tallahassee as the patrol's chief public information officer.

Getman began his FHP career as a trooper in Manatee County. He was promoted to corporal and assigned to Sarasota County. When he was promoted to sergeant he was named public information officer for DeLand and also served as a district sergeant in Daytona Beach. He was promoted to the rank of lieutenant and returned to Bradenton in 1984 where he achieved the rank of captain.

His wife Vicki is a loan processor for Barnett Bank. Their daughter Amy is 16 and son Brett is 13.

Trident 2 missile launch fails

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — A Trident 2 submarine missile carrying a load of dummy warheads malfunctioned shortly after blastoff Monday, prompting Air Force safety officers to blow up the errant rocket on radio command.

It was the third failure in 15 test flights of the Navy's most powerful weapon.

The three-stage $23.7 million missile blasted off from a ground pad at the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station at 1:44 p.m. EDT and quickly streaked through a partly cloudy sky and out of sight, leaving in its wake a twisting contrail of exhaust from its solid-fuel first-stage motor.

The early stages of the flight appeared normal, but Air Force officials said a malfunction during second-stage flight forced Air Force safety officers to radio self-destruct commands to the missile, terminating the test.

"Through a telephoto lens I had, I saw a large chunk come down and hit the water," said news photographer Carleton Ballie. "It was just a big boulder-looking thing. When it hit the water it burst into flames, or a small explosion happened."

"Within a few seconds after the first piece, a second piece appeared and also fell into about the same area. It appeared it burst into flames as it hit the water also. All of the sudden you could see chunks coming down."

As with all such test firings, no other details were provided about how many dummy warheads were on board or what may have caused the problem.

"The 15th launch of the Navy's Trident 2-D5 missile today was unsuccessful," the Air Force said in a statement. "The problems occurred in second stage flight and the range sent a destruct signal. Cause of the malfunction cannot be determined until telemetry has been studied."

All American rockets undergoing flight tests, including the manned space shuttle, are wired with self-destruct explosives to prevent an out-of-control missile from reaching populated areas.

It was the third failure in 15 launchings of the 44-foot Trident 2 missile, which has a maximum range of some 6,900 miles, depending on the number of warheads carried. The missiles are thought to be capable of carrying up to 12 independently targetable warheads.

The 128,000-pound missiles, built by Lockheed Missiles and Space Co., are thought to be so accurate they can deliver a nuclear warhead to within about 400 feet of a target.

Critics claim that with such pinpoint accuracy, the Trident 2 could be used to knock out "hardened" enemy command posts and missile silos and as such, it should be viewed as a "first-strike" offensive weapon.

Twenty Trident 2 test firings are planned from the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station before deployment aboard Ohio-class nuclear submarines begins in late 1989.

Court-martial testimony ends

PENSACOLA — Closing arguments in the court-martial of a petty officer accused of using force to keep a recruit in training will be heard Thursday, more than two weeks after testimony began.

Lawyers for Petty Officer 2nd Class Michael Combe rested Monday after bringing in their last five witnesses, including two petty officers given immunity for their testimony.

Presiding Judge Cmdr. Newell Krogmann said lawyers will meet Tuesday to discuss instructions to the five-officer jury, but will not meet Wednesday in observance of a Jewish holiday. Closing arguments begin 9 a.m. CDT Thursday.

Combe, 28, of Tempe, Ariz., is accused of involuntary manslaughter, conspiracy to commit battery and battery. He faces more than three years in confinement and a bad or dishonorable discharge.

Melvin testifies in own behalf

PENSACOLA — Clyde M. Melvin says he became frustrated and violent because no one would listen to him during an alimony hearing, when he killed his former sister-in-law, a judge and his ex-wife's lawyer.

"I was determined to get the judge to listen to me about the divorce," Melvin said from the witness stand Monday. "At the divorce hearing, he wouldn't listen to anything I had to say."

Melvin, 63, who twice broke in to tears, said he felt "terrified" about the July 28, 1987, shootings that killed 14th Judicial Circuit Judge Wilson Lamar Bailey, Panama City attorney Tom Ingles and Peggy White Paulk, sister of Melvin's ex-wife, Eleanor Inez Huckeba, 60, who also was shot in the head, but survived.

Melvin told the jury he pulled a .357-magnum revolver after Bailey ordered him to pay his ex-wife's attorney fees for a hearing on his motion to terminate alimony, and her motion to hold him in contempt of court for falling behind in payments.

Fahrenkopf predicts GOP Florida victory

TALLAHASSEE — Republican Party National Chairman Frank Fahrenkopf predicted Monday that Vice President George Bush and GOP U.S. Senate candidate Rep. Connie Mack, R-Fla., would win in Florida's November general election.

Fahrenkopf, in Tallahassee as part of a week-long southern campaign tour, said Florida voters will reject Democrats, including presidential candidate Gov. Michael Dukakis, as too liberal.

"The Democratic Party is in fact a liberal party," Fahrenkopf said. "They are terrified of the 'L' word. We, however, are proud of the 'C' word. We are conservatives and we are proud to put it forth."

Fahrenkopf said the GOP national party would give Mack as much money as it could under federal campaign laws (about $60,000) and would provide voter lists, organizational help and other support.

Group formed to push new roads

TALLAHASSEE — A group organized to promote a $50 million road construction proposal has been endorsed by Gov. Bob Martinez.

"These Floridians see room for improvement in transportation and they want to be part of an effort that means long-term economic benefits for their state," Martinez said Monday in praising Floridians for Better Transportation.

The group was formed to push for passage of a constitutional amendment on the November general election ballot that would allow state special fuel and motor vehicle taxes to be used to underwrite $50 million in bonds over the next two years.

The bond money will be used for highway right-of-way acquisition and bridge repairs.

Martinez said members of the group "have their work cut out for them. Between now and Nov. 8, they will be traveling Florida roads to make their point — Florida needs Amendment 4 in order to pay for better roads."

Floridians for Better Transportation was formed by the Florida Chamber of Commerce and the Florida Council of 100 after Martinez signed a bill July 5 that placed the amendment on the ballot.

Supplies for Jamaica pile up in Tampa

TAMPA — Several tons of supplies for Jamaican victims of Hurricane Gilbert remained on the ground Monday as relief officials struggled with the logistics of getting the goods to the needy.

"We're still working on it," Tampa Chamber of Commerce official Hal Cusick said. "We may have to ship the materials to Miami overland."

But he said the possibility exists either Air Jamaica or Eastern Airlines will provide cargo planes to airlift the goods to Jamaica, or that the military may make aircraft available.

Authorities cite fraud; close five businesses

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Eight South Florida businesses that allegedly defrauded employees and consumers have been closed or have stopped doing business, Attorney General Bob Butterworth said Monday.

Butterworth said five businesses in Dade, Broward and Seminole counties had been closed by state attorneys and law enforcement officers over the past two weeks.

Other accused firms in Palm Beach and Volusia counties stopped doing business before investigators could close them.

The businesses all were independent distributors for Hy-Cite Inc. of Madison, Wis. Butterworth said the companies misled potential employees about job opportunities and misrepresented products for sale to the public.

"The Hy-Cite distributors placed ads in Florida newspapers for 'Management Trainees' and 'Administrative Assistants,' but the only job opportunities that existed were sales positions and the applicants were required to pay a fee," Butterworth said.

The ads were placed in the Miami Herald, Fort Lauderdale News and Hollywood Sun-Tattler.

People who responded to the ads were told they had to pay a $49 fee to cover bonding or the cost of a background check that was not performed, Butterworth said.

The complaint also charges the distributors made false claims about merchandise that could be purchased through the company. Consumers were told Noritake China and Waterford Crystal were available through Hy-Cite.

The companies also gave customers game cards that were not registered with the state, as required by Florida law. The cards were part of a fraudulent promotion scheme and the defendants did not award all prizes as promised, Butterworth said.

Butterworth is seeking restitution for victimized customers and employees, undetermined civil penalties, attorney fees and $50,000 in punitive damages.

Businesses closed by investigators were Amaro Royal Prestige (also known as American Marketing) of Miami, Panache Designs of Deerfield Beach, Distinctive Designs and Galaxy Southeast, both of Hollywood, and Royal Prestige of Altamonte Springs.

Businesses named as defendants but already closed were Royal Prestige of Hialeah, La Classe Designs of Daytona Beach and Panache Designs of West Palm Beach.

Also named as a defendant was Melvin Ruth, the Florida territorial director for Hy-Cite. Ruth worked in the Amaro Royal Prestige office in Miami.

Butterworth said investigators were trying to determine if the company had other Florida offices.

Customs agents seize Peruvian artifacts

United Press International

MIAMI — About 60 pieces of pre-Columbian Peruvian Indian pottery artifacts, a few cloth and wooden articles have been seized in a shipment of wooden furniture, officials say.

The relics, estimated by an expert to be worth from $1,000 to $2,000 per object, were discovered concealed among cargos of wooden furniture that arrived in Miami from Peru by air freight during July and August, U.S. Customs officials said Monday.

Inspectors found the artifacts during a routine inspection July 4 at Miami International Airport. An investigation led to the subsequent discovery of the second shipment Aug. 18.

Officials disclosed the find Monday as they prepared to move the items from an airport warehouse to a storage facility where temperature and humidity are controlled to protect the objects, said Customs spokesman Ken Stroud.

The artifacts have been authenticated as pre-Columbian, and stamps on the pottery articles indicate they have been registered by the Peruvian government.

A Peruvian law in effect since 1929 declares all artifacts to be the property of the government, but the shipments will be held by U.S. authorities until legal proceedings are completed. In 1981, the United States signed a mutual assistance agreement to return seized stolen artifacts.

Robert Stoetzer, adjunct curator of the pre-Columbian art at the Lowe Art Museum of the University of Miami, examined the items and said they were in good condition.

"What I saw there was sort of a survey of various cultures from throughout the country of Peru," Stoetzer said. "There was a number of pieces of Chimu, about 1000 A.D., and there was Mochea — anywhere from 300 B.C. to 500 A.D. Chanay, about 1000 A.D. to 1500 A.D."

"There was a pretty full selection of it," he said.

The ceramics, with a wide variety of intricate designs, were used primarily in burials to accompany spirits on the journey into the afterworld, Stoetzer said.

Stoetzer said the artifacts did not appear to be damaged in shipping, although thefts and illegal shipments have already cut the auction values of artifacts.

"By these illegal shipments — the archeological context of the ruins is lost," he said. "To an archeologist, one ceramic shard can yield important information."

The investigation involves dealers and collectors on three continents.

Tropical depression may be named today - Helene

United Press International

MIAMI — A tropical depression moving away from the African coast plodded west today with top winds of 35 mph as forecasters predicted the weather system could reach storm strength by the end of the day.

At 6 a.m. EDT, the center of the depression was about 700 miles west southwest of the Cape Verde Islands off the coast of Africa, moving west between 10 to 15 mph. The storm was 3,600 miles from the Caribbean Sea.

Maximum sustained winds are estimated at 35 mph, with higher gusts in squalls.

"Conditions appear favorable for strengthening and the depression could become a tropical storm" during the day, said Max Mayfield, a forecaster at the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

If sustained winds in the system reach 39 mph, it would become tropical storm Helene, the eighth named storm of the 1988 hurricane season, which runs from June 1 to Nov. 30.

Forecasters say September is the peak of the season and there are an average of three storms during the month, with two usually developing into hurricanes.

There have been three hurricanes so far this month.

Hurricane Gilbert caused hundreds of deaths and billions of dollars worth of damage in Hispaniola, Jamaica, Grand Cayman Island, Mexico and the United States.

The day before Gilbert reached hurricane status in the eastern Atlantic on Sept. 11, Hurricane Florence slammed into the Louisiana coast, Florence forced more than 16,000 evacuations, but caused only minor damage.

The season's first hurricane was Debby, which flizzed into a tropical storm Sept. 2 over the mountains of Mexico after lashing the coastal village of Tuxpan with 75 mph winds.

Burglary suspect accused of rape

SANFORD — A man arrested by Sanford police about four hours after he allegedly burglarized a Sanford house and raped a woman, is jailed on complaints of sexual battery and burglary. He is held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

The woman told police Willie Brooks, 30, no address listed, who she said she knows, forced entry to her bedroom where he allegedly beat her raped her about 1 a.m. today.

The 27-year-old woman told police she struggled with the attacker and pulled his shirt off before fleeing to call police. Police recovered the shirt at the victim's house.

Brooks was arrested outside the Tip Top Bar, 1100 W. 13th St. He also reportedly stole the victim's purse containing $34.

Man arrested after harassing repairmen

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A man who was allegedly harassing telephone servicemen working outside Wymore Groves Apartments in Altamonte Springs, was arrested there after he allegedly threw a hammer and pushed a policeman.

The man identified only as John Doe, is accused of battery on a policeman, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest without violence. He reportedly told police he is Jesus Christ.

Police were called to the 360 S. Wymore Road scene at about 10:50 a.m. by United Telephone workers who said he was yelling and interfering with their work. In a confrontation with police, the suspect allegedly pushed a policeman in the chest three times. He was arrested and reportedly resisted and fought more while being handcuffed and booked. The suspect is in the Seminole County jail.

Police arrest suspected car thief

SANFORD — Sanford police report the arrest Monday of a man who allegedly was driving a 1971 Oldsmobile that had just been reported stolen.

Jermaine McTavish Seymore, 18, of 117 Hughes St., Sanford, is accused of grand theft auto and is held in lieu of $1,000 bond in the case.

Husband accused of slapping wife

SANFORD — A man who allegedly slapped his wife's head at their rural Sanford house at about 1:22 a.m. today was arrested there by Seminole County sheriff's deputies.

Steven J. Girtler, 34, of 103 Wilkens Circle, is cited with battery-spouse abuse, with bond set at $500.

Man accused of DUI

SANFORD — Thurman Mike Tincher, of Orlando, was arrested at 3:30 a.m. Monday after his speeding car was seen weaving on Lake Mary Boulevard, Lake Mary. He was accused of driving while under the influence.

Shootings thought motivated by revenge

SANFORD — In the wake of the Saturday night shooting of two men in rural Sanford, Seminole County sheriff's deputies believe the shooting Sunday night of a man and woman in a Southwest Road bar were acts of revenge.

Wounded in the second shooting, which occurred at the Deluxe Bar, was Michael Summers, 18, of 150 Bethune Circle, Sanford, and an unidentified woman, who fled after being shot. Investigator Ralph Salerno said she has not yet been identified, but Summers remains in Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, in good condition. He was shot four times with a small caliber handgun by an unidentified gunman who entered the bar at about 9:45 p.m.

and opened fire. The gunman fled.

Salerno said it is believed that the Sunday night shootings were revenge for the Saturday night shootings of Roger Livingston, 18, and Jamie Brown, 20, and the cutting of Arthur Hersey, 20. Those three suffered minor injuries in a brawl with about 700 people in attendance on Coolidge Avenue, rural Sanford, at about midnight Saturday.

Salerno said there is a long-term dispute between Midway residents, represented by the Saturday night victims, and Goldsboro residents, represented by the Sunday night victims. Salerno said he expects more violence. The investigation continues, but no arrests have been made.

MONTERREY, Mexico — At least 200 people were reported still missing in Monterrey from the single most deadly blow of Hurricane Gilbert, which left 106 dead in widespread flooding after it caught the inland city by surprise.

The latest official report Monday pushed the official toll in Mexico to 142 dead after Gilbert left a swath of destruction across the Caribbean and lashed northeast Mexico Friday.

Thousands remained stranded in shelters Monday as the hurricane, which last week was the most powerful Atlantic storm on record, dwindled in the United States over the weekend into a tropical depression and Monday broke up as rain storms over the northern Plains.

Overall, Gilbert's weeklong 2,000-mile rampage killed at least 239 people, including 36 in Jamaica, 29 in Haiti, 13 in Honduras, nine in the Dominican Republic, five in Venezuela, three in Texas and two in Costa Rica.

Emergency officials in Monterrey, 425 miles north of Mexico City, said the death toll could go much higher

Banker convicted of fraud

United Press International

ORLANDO — A former bank president and an associate face more than 100 years in prison and hundreds of thousands of dollars in fines after being convicted of scheming to bilk banks of about $3 million.

A U.S. District Court jury Monday found Joe F. Justice III, former president of the defunct Florida Center Bank in Orlando, and bank customer Jack D. Johnson guilty of bank fraud conspiracy through bogus loans.

The convictions were for deals the pair made between 1981 and 1985. Federal Judge G. Kendall Sharp set sentencing for Nov. 21.

Five others, including Florida Center Chairman John Bodzjak, of St. Petersburg, and Miami businessman Michael Rapp were convicted, fined and sentenced to jail last year for scheming to defraud the bank of $7.2 million through loans to a dummy corporation in Miami.

Federal banking officials closed the bank in 1986 after uncovering substantial irregularities in the institution's loan practices.

Justice spent 13 hours testifying on his own behalf last week, disputing testimony from dozens of witnesses and the government's arguments during the previous three weeks of trial.

He blamed his problems for concentrating too much on recruiting commercial clients for his bank and spending too little time documenting the loans. Before going to Florida Center, Justice worked as a branch manager with ComBanks Corp. in Seminole County and Florida National Bank in Orange County.

The government's case showed Justice received kickbacks for obtaining loans for Johnson's friends and associates. They then deposited the money into accounts controlled by Johnson, his father and sister.

Johnson was arrested in 1985 and subsequently found guilty of bank fraud by making false claims while applying for a loan with a Chicago bank. He served a year in prison.

SANFORD — A man who allegedly used a chain saw to cut open a door to Kader's Jewelry Store in downtown Sanford about 4 a.m. today was caught as he was leaving the scene empty handed.

The intruder didn't make it into the store at 112 S. Park Ave. before police arrived in response to a burglar alarm. Police Chief Steve Harriett said.

William Henry Cash, 35, of 1007 Avacado Ave., Sanford, was pursued from the store's front door and captured in an alley in the 200 block of Park Avenue. A chain saw and gloves were reportedly confiscated from him.

Cash is cited with burglary, possession of burglary tools and criminal mischief. He is in the Seminole County jail.

ORLANDO — The condition of a 35-year-old Altamonte Springs man injured in a Friday afternoon crash on Interstate 4 when his 1987 Mercedes was being pursued by Altamonte Springs police, has been upgraded from critical to serious.

William Patrick Young, 35, of 1483 Canterbury Circle, Casselberry, was at first reported dead following the 4:20 p.m. crash. He remains in Orlando Regional Medical Center, where he is being treated for head and other injuries suffered when he was thrown from his car after it hit another vehicle while traveling east at a high speed.

Altamonte Springs police began pursuing Young's car at the Altamonte Mall, State Road 436, because of his alleged involvement there with crack cocaine, police spokesman Jeff Hawkins said.

Philippines rejects Gorbachev offer

United Press International

MANILA, Philippines — Defense Secretary Fidel Ramos today said he favored a gradual withdrawal of U.S. military bases and scoffed at Mikhail Gorbachev's offer to close down the Soviet naval facility in Vietnam if Washington pulls out of the Philippines.

The Soviet leader offered Friday to withdraw from Cam Ranh Bay in Vietnam if the United States dismantles Clark Air Base, Subic Bay Naval station and four other installations in the Philippines.

"We are a self-respecting sovereign nation," Ramos told a news conference. "One of these days the bases must go ... but it must be a gradual harmonious process. I don't think it will serve us any good if we talk about an abrupt action (closing down the bases)."

The West Point-trained general and former armed forces chief said while the United States was not directly involved in the campaign against the 19-year-old communist insurgency, the American presence had benefited the Philippines.

Ramos said the United States had provided the Philippine military $85 million annually in arms and equipment to fight the rebels.

He said the U.S. military also played a vital role in providing security to three important "chokepoints" in Southeast Asia — the Strait of Malacca, the Lombok Strait and the Sunda Strait — and allowing the free flow of international commerce.

Ramos said the Gorbachev offer should be "studied very, very thoroughly" because "no less than our national interest is at stake." He said Clark and Subic, America's largest overseas bases, have a "much greater security value" than Cam Ranh Bay, built by the United States during the Vietnam War.

President Corason Aquino has declined comment on the issue, saying only that "that is for the superpowers to discuss and talk about."

Aquino's estranged vice president, Salvador Laurel, blasted Aquino's position and said "no self-respecting nation should leave the fate of the bases within its territory completely in hands

Hirohito's health failing

United Press International

TOKYO — Emperor Hirohito, the world's oldest and longest-reigning monarch, rested in stable condition today after receiving blood transfusions for a possible swollen pancreas as worried officials laid plans for a succession to Japan's 2,600-year-old Chrysanthemum throne.

Palace officials described the 87-year-old emperor's condition as stable, but the Kyodo news agency said the government feared his condition was worsening.

Crown prince Akihito, who is to succeed Hirohito, and other members of the imperial family were reported to be at the emperor's bedside. Akihito made his second visit to the moated palace since Hirohito vomited blood Monday night and required several transfusions.

Though Hirohito was awake and alert — and had exchanged greetings "in a firm voice" with concerned members of his family — he had "no appetite" and was being fed intravenously, palace officials said at a news conference.

Hirohito's fever had receded from a high temperature mark of 99.4 during the night to 98.2 at noon, the officials said.

Hirohito, Japan's symbolic leader for the past 62 years, underwent a second round of blood transfusions this morning.

Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita and other Cabinet ministers visited the palace to express their concern, and hundreds of people — most of them journalists — kept a vigil at the palace gates to await the latest developments on the emperor's condition.

Doctors believe the emperor may have a swollen pancreas, which could be obstructing the flow of bile from his gallbladder, which has caused him to suffer jaundice.

Hirohito underwent a bypass operation last September to correct the problem and had been slowly recovering despite weight loss and a decrease in stamina. He had returned to limited official duties.

Palace officials said a second operation was unlikely.

The government, fearing the worst, laid contingency plans for the first succession to Japan's throne since 1926, when Hirohito ascended after the death of his father, Emperor Taisho.

The government was studying a name for the next era of a Japanese monarch. Kyodo reported, Hirohito's death would trigger an unprecedented situation in which the next emperor would take the throne as a symbol of state instead of as a divinity.

The current reign is called "Showa," which means enlightenment and harmony.

Hirohito occupied the throne as a descendant of Japan's Sun Goddess, but he renounced his divinity following World War II under a constitution written in large part by Allied occupation forces.

The constitution enshrined the emperor only as a symbol of state and prevented him from participating in Japan's political affairs. His functions include giving perfunctory approval of government cabinet ministers and greeting heads of state.

Hirohito, who brought an end to World War II when he accepted Japan's unconditional surrender to the Allied forces, has never fully explained his role in the military-led government that declared war on the United States on Dec. 7, 1941 with the attack on Pearl Harbor.

The emperor has said that he regretted the attack but also implied he had no power over the military government that led the country into war.

Charter hearing slated tonight

The Seminole County Charter Advisory Committee has made its recommendations on the proposed Home Rule Charter for the county. The 16 member panel made an indepth study of the various aspects of the charter and conducted hearings throughout the county. Many citizens attended these open meetings to speak, hear or study the pros and cons of the charter. Most residents did not avail themselves of those opportunities.

The proposed charter was forwarded to the county commission and has received the endorsement of the county staff. County commissioners, individually, have indicated no opposition but have yet to act as a body. The next step in progress of the proposed charter towards the November ballot will come tonight.

The County Commission will hold a special public hearing at 7 p.m. tonight at the County Services Building on the question of putting the charter proposal to a vote by citizens of the county.

Though public officials are elected on the basis of qualifications and expected to use their experience and considered judgement in all decisions, they also function best when apprised accurately of public opinion. This is the heart of representative government. There are always "experts" available on any question — some qualified, and some self-appointed — but the voters are the most influential voice.

Adoption of the home rule charter will affect the residents of this county. Those immediate changes are subtle, but opportunities abound for future amendments and alterations. Citizen initiatives, elections of constitutional officers, single-member districting, and county-city relationships are all areas subject to amendments or are different from the present status.

Though much will be written and said concerning the home rule charter in the weeks ahead, there is no substitute for "hearing for yourself." Old-fashioned New England-type town meetings may be events of the past, but occasions such as the special public hearing should be a must on the personal agenda of each citizen. Commissioners need to hear the voices of the people.

Good luck, Tim

Tim Raines, Seminole County's own all-star now with the Montreal Expos, will watch the rest of the baseball season recuperating from shoulder surgery. Prospects for full recovery, rehabilitation, and return to all-star form are indicated.

But he has been missed each day when reading the "Raines Gauge" and the box-scores of the Expos games. His game heroics during the past six years have been legendary. He has consistently been at the top of his league in batting average and stolen bases. Election to the All-Star Team had come to be assumed. But this season Tim has been plagued with injuries.

The Sanford native and former star of Seminole baseball is now a resident at Heathrow. He has proven himself a good citizen in the off season, and a great competitor during the baseball season.

We wish Tim well during his recovery period and hope for a speedy return to the diamond. He has made all within the county proud to be his neighbor.

'88 presidential election: one big yawn

In just one week, the polls flip-flopped more times than an Olympic gymnast.

First, a USA Today poll, showed George Bush leading Michael Dukakis by 2 percent. Then, a New York Times-CBS News poll had Bush leading Dukakis by 8 percent. Finally, a Washington Post-ABC News poll put the Duke ahead of King George by 3 percent.

Is anything constant? Indeed, yes. As summer faded, the New York Mets and Oakland Athletics were securely entrenched in divisional first places, and U.S. sprinters were guaranteed to run up and down the Russians' backs in Seoul.

I've always considered myself the consummate Aristotelian political animal. But I wouldn't hesitate if I were forced to choose between watching Duke and George go forensically mouth to mouth or watching Florence Griffith Joyner and Evelyn Ashford tear up the track from start to finish.

NBC doesn't share my emotional predilection. That's why it reversed itself and decided to carry the first presidential debate instead of the Olympics. I'll give 20 to 1 odds a national referendum would have chosen the Olympics.

The Dukakis-Bush presidential race is generating all of the excitement of a senior citizens quilt-making contest during a North Dakota snowstorm. I may be talking to the wrong people, but everybody with whom I've discussed the presidential race is either (a) bored, (b) uninterested, (c) barely interested, or (d) all of the above.

A passionate young Republican college student described himself as disillusioned. "Do I have to vote this year?" he asked.

A staunch middle-of-the-road Irish friend who voted for Dwight D. Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy, Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan lamented, "These two guys are so dull they depress me."

With just weeks to go before the election, it isn't exactly a national malaise. But very few are singing. "Joyful, joyful, we adore thee."

Generating all of the excitement of a senior citizens quilt-making contest.

Still, the current near tie in the polls may perversely stimulate a large turnout, although the percentage of eligible voters who turn out has been declining since 1960.

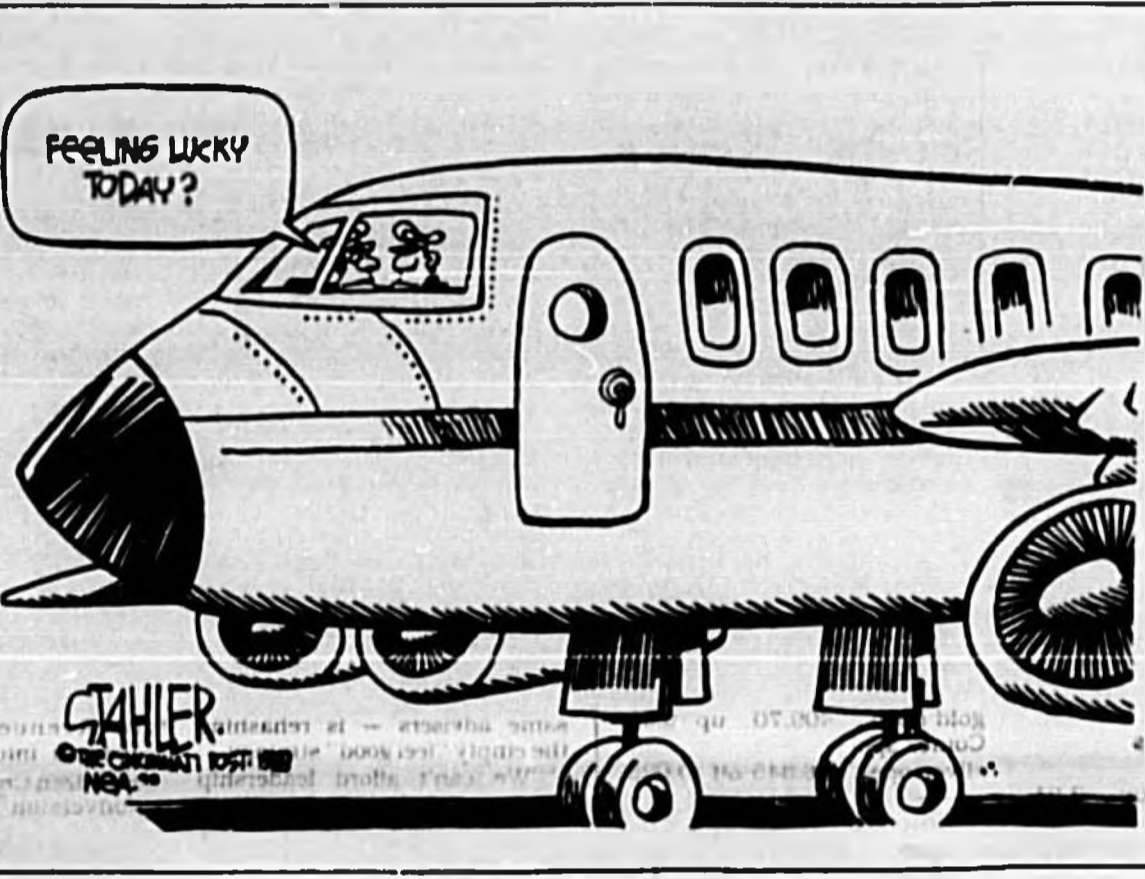

In the 1960 Kennedy-Nixon election, the percentage of eligible voters who turned out was 62.9, the highest since 1932 — and it hasn't been equaled since. Despite Ronald Reagan's vaunted personal popularity, only 52.6 percent and 53.3 percent of those eligible to vote did so in 1980 and 1984, respectively. That ain't a whole lot of electoral affection for the Gipper.

And there seems to be much less for the Duke and King George.

With the exception of the mental-institution escapees who show up at rallies for both candidates with their screaming imprecations, voters are about as interested as the fans of a last-place team.

Ironically, Bush and Dukakis differ substantially on foreign policy, Third World issues, domestic issues and economic policy. But you can't get past the trivia of the Pledge of Allegiance, the meanness of mental-health reports, the irresponsibility of flag-burning rumors and the witch-hunting of bigoted workers.

Quasi-Marxism abounds

WASHINGTON—Pelting Michael Dukakis with unsolicited advice is a low-tech but high-growth industry, so here goes. He should tell the country that the Reagan-Bush administration has miraculously made Karl Marx seem correct—this at a moment when there are no longer any believing Marxists east of the Elbe River.

If Marx had been scribbling away in the Library of Congress (our equivalent of the British Museum, where Marx scribbled), in January, 1981, as Reaganites marched into Washington, he would have said: The class struggle is about to intensify. During the Reagan Terror, labor will lose ground to capital.

Today it can be argued that compensation of labor, including wages and salaries and fringe benefits, as a share of personal income is at the lowest level of any peak year (meaning any year at a comparable stage of an economic expansion) since 1947. The difference is not huge, but there it is. And according to a study for the Economic Policy Institute, by Lawrence Mishel and Jacqueline Simon, since 1979 income from property ownership (rents, dividends, interest) has risen three times faster than income from work.

Dukakis could say, in language adapted for mass audiences, that we are witnessing the rise of a rentier society. The political potential for Dukakis is in this fact: Most people are not rentiers. Or, more precisely, most people do not think of themselves as such. That qualification is necessary because anyone who is vested in a pension program is involved through it in the stock and bond markets and thus has a stake in interest and dividends.

Dukakis should stress that to pay the interest component of the 1988 budget will require a sum ($210 billion) equal to approximately half of all the personal income-tax receipts. This represents, as Sen. Pat Moynihan has said, a transfer of wealth from labor to capital unprecedented in American history.

Tax revenues are being collected from average Americans (the median income of a family of four is slightly under $30,000) and given to the buyers of U.S. government bonds—buyers in Beverly Hills, Lake Forest, Shaker Heights and Grosse Pointe, and Tokyo and Riyadh. If a Democrat can't make something of that, what are Democrats for?

But here Dukakis confronts the problem of being a "progressive" in an affluent middle-class country. Only a minority of Americans—a small and shrinking minority—think of themselves as "labor." And the vast majority of that minority is already for Dukakis.

Furthermore, Americans are pleased to think of themselves as living in a "classless" society. That implausible belief is actually the imperfect expression of two other ideas. One is that almost everyone is in the middle class. The other is that social mobility is such that with pluck and luck almost anyone can make it into the middle class. (The exception to this rule is the large semi-permanent underclass that seem impervious to social policy.)

But such sentimentalities aside, politics is about who gets what, especially as a result of government action. In the Reagan years, a particular social stratum has gotten a lot. The people who get income from property have benefited, especially from the huge deficits that have put in place a permanent high level of government borrowing that produces high interest rates.

For decades, "deficit spending" has been denounced by conservatives as a Democratic device for redistributing income to the undeserving poor. The Reagan deficits have, with fine impartiality, helped the rich.

Marxists, who believe that history has an inner logic, like to say "it is no accident" that whatever happens happens. In fact, the kindness of Reaganomics toward the property-owning class (according to Mishel and Simon, the value of the financial assets of more than half of all families in this classless society in 1983 was zero or negative—they had more debts than assets) has been the predictable consequence of a class-based policy. The policy is trickle-down economics.

Republicans can reasonably argue that a beneficial policy for those at the bottom of the social heap is a policy that energizes those at the top—the investing, entrepreneurial class that makes the wheels turn in a free society where government does not run a command economy. However, that is a politically awkward argument to make during a political campaign, even in a democracy as committed to capitalism as this one is. Dukakis might do well by forcing Bush to make that argument.

Sentimentalities aside, politics is about who gets what.

Lab workers need checks

WASHINGTON — A laboratory worker at a nuclear weapons plant is supposed to be squeaky clean. It isn't the place one would expect to find a man alleged to be dealing drugs, molesting children and serving as a hit man for the mob.

But those are the allegations federal investigators heard when they began asking questions about one worker at an Oak Ridge, Tenn., nuclear plant. More than a year after the allegations first surfaced, the man still had a security clearance allowing him access to sensitive areas of the facility. It took a request from a congressional subcommittee to revoke the clearance.

That wasn't the first time a potential security risk went unchecked at a nuclear weapons facility. Congressional investigators have been scrutinizing the Department of Energy, which oversees the all nuclear weapons plants. Specifically, Congress wants to know why the system for screening possible security risks is full of holes.

Employees assigned to secret work are supposed to be thoroughly investigated before they are hired. And they can be re-investigated at any time. The FBI and the Federal Office of Personnel Management do the background checks.

In closed hearings last year, congressional probes unveiled cases in which investigations were unaccountably dragged out while the questionable workers stayed on the job. The hearings were before the House Energy and Commerce oversight subcommittee chaired by Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich. Our associate, Scott Sleek, has examined the once-secret testimony. The names were deleted.

In August 1985, a county sheriff warned the Oak Ridge, Tenn., nuclear plant about a lab worker. The sheriff said there had been allegations that the worker "ties up little girls, takes all their clothes off and takes pictures of them." Rep. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., recounted at the hearing. The worker "allegedly told other girls he would kill members of their families if they refused to date him. He informed other girls, according to them, that he was a hit man for an organized crime syndicate and that he had committed murders in Atlanta," Wyden added. The sheriff also said that his department routinely warns the DOE of any allegations against its employees even if there is not enough evidence for arrest.

The Office of Personnel Management launched an eight-month investigation that turned up more allegations, not proved by the investigators, that the worker carried a gun, socialized with convicted felons, used and sold drugs and made synthetic drugs in his lab at the plant. Wyden also reported to the subcommittee.

In March 1986, the Office of Personnel Management turned its report on the allegations over to the Energy Department. In June, Dingell's staff found out the man was still working at the plant. The subcommittee wrote to the department asking that his clearance be suspended. That finally occurred July 24, but he is still employed at the plant.

A Soviet immigrant who had become a U.S. citizen was allowed to keep his clearance while working at one of the Energy Department's most sensitive nuclear weapons facilities, even though officials there worried that the Soviets could use him for spying.

A potential security risk went unchecked at a nuclear weapons facility.

Stocks open slightly down

United Press International

NEW YORK — Prices opened slightly lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 17.07 Monday, was off 0.36 to 2080.72 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 446-368 among the 1,296 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 10,430,000 shares.

An early round of profit taking and a lack of buying interest Monday combined to send stock prices lower in slow trading.

The Dow fell 17 points in the first 90 minutes of the session.

"We went up for four straight weeks, the Dow added about 110 points, but it was never really that convincing," said Larry Wachtel, a market analyst with Prudential-Bache Securities Inc.

"The pullback was in part technical and because the market was overbought," Wachtel said. "Except for some deal stocks, there was no news. It was blah."

Wachtel said investors, comforted by recent reports indicating a moderation in economic growth, want further evidence that things are indeed slowing down.

Dollar opens mixed; gold, silver higher

United Press International

The dollar closed higher today in Tokyo but opened mostly lower on other major world money markets. The price of gold gained slightly.

Currency traders in New York said trading activity was light ahead of the Group of Seven meeting scheduled for the end of this week in Berlin.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar strengthened against the Japanese yen in moderate trading, closing at 134.15 yen, up 0.35 from 133.80 yen on Monday.

Dealers in Japan said most market players refrained from taking large positions ahead of a series of forthcoming international monetary meetings.

In early New York trading, the dollar was slightly higher against key foreign currencies in light trading, unmoved by the revision in the nation's second quarter gross national product.

Market watchers said there was no reaction to today's news that U.S. second quarter GNP growth was revised down to 3 percent from 3.3 percent or to the revision in the second quarter inflation rate up to 5.5 percent from 5.1 percent, the highest level in 6 years.

In Europe, the dollar opened in Zurich at 1.578 Swiss francs, down from 1.5815, and traded unchanged in Frankfurt at 1.8710 West German marks.

GNP figures show slower growth

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The government revised second-quarter statistics Tuesday to show the economy grew at an annual rate of 3 percent — slower than previously reported — and inflation accelerated at the fastest pace in six years.

Real gross national product increased $29.1 billion from April to June following a 3.4 percent hike, or $33.1 billion in the first quarter, according to the Commerce Department.

The department's Bureau of Economic Analysis reported Aug. 25 that second-quarter GNP was 3.3 percent.

The downward revision was based on new information showing a weaker performance for exports and non-residential fixed investment. The downturn was offset partially by stronger personal spending, the department said.

Business inventories were up $35.3 billion in the second quarter, in contrast with a $66 billion jump in the first quarter.

modify it until they are successful. Parents are also encouraged to observe their children at the center and participate in their child's activities and growth.

Schwartz said the program is the only one in Central Florida which offers a two-year diploma and classroom teaching experience.

The center, which serves 20 children, recently received nearly $6,000 in new playground equipment designed by 4C Education Director Alice Taglauer and built by 4C. The center has also been relocated into two portable buildings on the SCC campus.

Program Manager JoAnn Schwartz said each activity is planned and treated as an opportunity for learning and exploring. The playground was designed to include a variety of activities to build motor skills and coordination. Students and instructors plan the activities together at least a week in advance to ensure the physical, social, emotional and intellectual growth of each child.

Schwartz says children learn through play, and this philosophy is carried throughout the center. Worksheets have been abandoned in favor of hands-on experience. The children's room is divided into learning centers for quiet activities like painting, or shared activities like playing house. They learn about shapes and sizes through blocks and other toys and they learn about reading through books which display half pictures and half words, and they are allowed to express themselves through a variety of creative means.

"Everything we do is to help build positive self-esteem," Schwartz said. Children are encouraged to draw, paint, and construct as they like; there is no right or wrong way in which to do so.

Ekwurzel said the changes in child care over the last 10 years have been tremendous. "Child care used to be considered little more than babysitting," she said. "Today, we are training professional people who work to provide appropriate (developmental) activities for young children. We're not just keeping children occupied." Add to that the growing need for child care as more and more women enter the work field and you have a hot topic in education — a topic which Florida Commissioner of Education Betty Castor has noted as one of her top priorities. Educators believe that preschool education may result in a reduction of the state's high dropout rate. Primarily, they want to encourage young children to be enthusiastic about education and feel good about themselves.

Last week a busload of Lake Brantley High School students, some considering child care as a career, and some acquiring knowledge on parenting, arrived at the center to see first-hand what is being achieved. Schwartz is optimistic that more young people will become interested in child care as a profession. "Some of my students want to open their own centers," she said.

One such student is Betty Mula, director and owner of the Oviedo Child Care Center since 1974. Mula and several of her staff members have completed the program.

"People entering the child care profession all have a love for children, but that's not enough," she said. "The program instructs on how to teach children through art and music." Mula says children can be told to draw a sailboat, or they can be told to draw a blue sailboat with a red and yellow sail. The program philosophy concurs with the first method.

"We don't tell children the leaves on the tree must be green and the branches brown," Mula said. She believes many adults today believe they can't draw because early in their education an instructor told them they were doing it wrong. She said it is crucial that child care centers provide a positive atmosphere because the first five years of life are critical in determining set patterns of behavior.

The SCC program also offers vocational and continuing education programs. The Child Care Center is just one of many programs that 4-C, a private non-profit organization is involved with. The organization acts as a link between public and private agencies and between children and their families. Because of this, 4-C can refer parents to a variety of helpful programs from parenting to health care information.

Dukakis uses '84 slogan against Bush

United Press International

An aggressive Michael Dukakis, seizing an opportunity to turn one of Ronald Reagan's most famous phrases on would-be heir George Bush, is faulting the Republican campaign approach and warning the nation cannot handle four more years of the same.

With a new book exposing a tape-recorded 1984 conversation in which Reagan advisers plotted an issueless re-election campaign, Dukakis is suggesting the White House bid of Reagan's loyal vice president — using the same advisers — is reshaping the empty "feel good" strategy. "We can't afford leadership that says over and over again that 'it's morning in America' and then says all we have to do is roll over and go back to sleep," the Democrat told 1,000 cheering supporters Monday in Little Rock, Ark., cribbing the phrase Reagan used to great effect in his 1984 campaign.

"In their hearts, believe me," Dukakis continued, "they know that four more years of Reaganomics would be bad for the country — and that four more years of Reaganomics without Reagan would be a disaster."

Both Dukakis and Bush, who made a brief trip to Bensalem, Pa., hit hard on the economic theme Monday, the issue each believes could turn large blocs of middle-class and blue-collar voters his way.

porated of Orlando for conversion of the existing youth wing of the City of Sanford Civic Center at Sanford Avenue and Seminole Boulevard into the Sanford Senior Citizen Center.

Conversion will include an entryway, kitchen, toilets, classroom, office area, storage space, heating, ventilation and air conditioning and necessary handicap requirements.

The Senior Citizen Center Architect Selection Committee met with the architect on Sept. 7 to review his revised plan and budget. A new proposal by the architect sets the price tag for the project under $170,000, Simmons said.

The architects revised the original master plan by eliminating one classroom and reducing the size of the kitchen to keep costs below $170,000, Simmons said.

Architectural fees are $16,000 for the design and construction supervision of this project.

The Commissioners suggested that the Model Gateway Concept for Lake Mary Boulevard, as proposed by a joint Sanford-Lake Mary-Seminole County committee, be referred to the planning and zoning commission for evaluation.

A landscaped gateway with a southern entrance from Lake Mary Boulevard to Sanford has been proposed by the committee.

The idea for the gateway concept is to develop a landscaped gateway entrance to Lake Mary, Sanford and central Seminole County. The design would create a scenic, coordinated appearance utilizing plants and landscaping to attain that goal. Roadway improvements recommended in conjunction with the concept include burial of all utilities, installation of sound buffers in school and residential areas and an overhead pedestrian walkway at Lake Mary Elementary School.

Commissioners said they need to consider the financing for the project. Another commissioner suggested that U.S. Highway 17-92 is more an entranceway to Sanford than Lake Mary Boulevard.

Commissioners said they will send the proposal to planning and zoning with their "encouragement."

Commissioners will also recommend approval of the revised city personnel rules and regulations.

Revisions address such items as overtime, compensatory time, flex-time, military leave and testing. It is meant to bring the existing rules and regulations in compliance with federal and state law.

At the next meeting, commissioners will grant permission to the New Tribes Mission to park three recreational vehicles between First Street and Seminole Boulevard and east of San Carlos Avenue for the purpose of cleaning up the property in preparation for the building of their new retirement center on Celery Avenue.

and-or up to 90 days in jail. However, Baker said since Buchanan will not possibly have been convicted before the September hunt is over, he may continue to hunt gators legally in his assigned area. A boat operator with Buchanan was not arrested.

"He was upset over losing his gators, or his permit," Baker said of Buchanan, who reportedly said he was lost on Mullet Lake when he made the catch. Baker said the hunter has taken about 10 animals since the season began. Hunters can legally kill 15 gators and profit from the sell of their hides and meat.

Baker said that without a tag, the gator's hide cannot be sold legally, but the meat might be added illegally to the total of other legally killed gators, for increased profit. Buchanan reportedly told Baker he has sold the meat from his legal catches for $7 a pound. Alligators may weigh several hundred pounds. Four feet is the minimum size for a gator in the legal hunt.

"We found him with a gator in his boat, tied up with its mouth taped, but no tag. This is my first arrest of a licensed alligator hunter," Baker said. He added there has been one other hunter arrest that he knows of in Central Florida, and another in South Florida. An Apopka taxi-drumy shop operator, who allegedly had possession of an untaged gator head, was arrested by game wardens Monday, Baker said.

Senate passes Canadian trade agreement

United Press International
WASHINGTON — It's all smooth sailing for the U.S. Canada Free Trade Agreement in America where President Reagan now is poised to sign the pact into law, but the accord still faces rough water across the border.

The landmark treaty now approved by congress has the support of Canada's Conservative government, currently in power, but both the Liberals and New Democrats have warned that if they gain control of the government after the next general election, they would not reintroduce the legislation and it would die.

Canada's House of Commons approved the agreement two weeks ago but its Senate decided to withhold a final vote until after the election, expected to be held in November. Steve Langdon, a trade critic with the socialist New Democrats, said the pact has only a 25 percent chance of ever being ratified in Canada.

The ratification is needed to implement the accord signed by Reagan and Prime Minister Brian Mulroney in January. In Washington Monday, the Senate did its part by voting 87-0 for the pact that would eliminate all tariffs and would reduce many other barriers between the neighbors during the next 10 years.

Reagan, applauding the vote that sent the treaty to his desk to be signed, declared: "This agreement will create jobs and stimulate economic growth on both sides of the border and create the largest open market in the world."

Mulroney, concurred in Ottawa. "I think that for democracy it is very important. It is a historic achievement. All Canadians can be proud of it."

The agreement is designed to expand what already is the world's largest bilateral trade relationship. U.S. Canada trade totaled $137 billion in 1987.

Senate Finance Committee Chairman Floyd D. Bentsen of Texas, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, said the significance of the pact is that it moves the world a little closer to realizing the potential of a global market.

The few congressional opponents, such as Sen. Kent Conrad (D-N.D.) maintained that the measure fails to address the issue of non-tariff trade barriers such as Canadian government subsidies.

It would set in stone forever many years of trade inequities that hurt U.S. farmers and energy producers. Conrad argued before the vote, "Canada has many more non-tariff barriers. Canada will profit and then we will lose."

In reality, while the agreement is expected to increase trade for both countries, its critics fear some industries in each country will be hurt.

The prospect of a rise in imports has caused an outcry from the U.S. uranium industry. For example, which sought and failed to receive special relief, and some recent studies indicate Canada would reap the superior gains in income, manufacturing and employment.

While the impact will be smaller in the United States, the elimination of tariffs, which are generally about three times higher in Canada than the United States, should boost American exports by at least $2 billion a year.

Only 25 percent of the merchandise trade between the United States and Canada is subject to tariffs. The agreement calls for immediate elimination of some of those tariffs on whiskey and trim leathers, furs, animal feed, motorcycles and certain communication equipment.

Tariffs on products such as metal and wood products, textiles and consumer appliances would be eliminated in the next 10 years. Plywood tariffs would continue until a pending trade dispute is settled.

Notes reveal trouble in Jonestown cult

United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO — Notes and letters written shortly before 913 people died 10 years ago at the Peoples Temple cult commune show the group was disintegrating quickly, and talk of mass suicide had become an obsession.

After one suicide drill at the cult's compound in Guyana, a member wrote: (Not) Sex drugs and wine could take the place of what took place this evening. I am so grateful to have had the opportunity to go through the process of dying. Just sitting there, looking at the line of people, young and old alike, eager to get it over with. I thought of how nice it would be.

But not everyone was looking forward to dying at the command of cult leader Rev. Jim Jones.

One woman wrote that she would kill herself at Father (Jones) wishes, but added she wanted to write some short stories, even poetry, plant rows of vegetables. And I would like to raise a kitten.

Many of the notes were written by Mike Prokes, a lieutenant of Jones, and one of a few cult members who survived the suicide killings in November 1978.

The letters by Prokes and other dissatisfied Jones followers indicated the commune in South America was falling apart in its final days.

I don't know how much longer I can take it, Prokes wrote. I mean the witchcraft. I feel like I'm being programmed. I enjoy the violence when I do it, like all those dogs I mutilated, but sometimes like right now I feel sorry I did it.

I think I'm going to end it all with my 38. I only wish I could see my brains blown out.

A few months later during a news conference, Prokes pulled out his .38-caliber pistol and killed himself in front of television cameras.

The notes indicate that talk of mass suicide had become an obsession and that Jones's wife, Marceline, had urged him to spare the children. When the final order was given, poison was squirted down the throats of the youngsters.

The cultist members' notes, some containing promises to kill themselves and their children on command, resurfaced this month in eight boxes of records deposited in the Peoples Temple archives at the California Historical Society. The records were unsealed by a court-appointed receiver and excerpts were published in Sunday's editions of the San Francisco Examiner.

Jones, a San Francisco minister who used sex, drugs and brainwashing to keep his flock together, feared his jungle empire would be destroyed by enemies — defectors, reporters and federal investigators.

The letters however indicate that the greatest threats to Jones's power came from within.

The obscure commune gained international attention on Nov. 18, 1978, when Rep. Leo Ryan, D-Calif., an Examiner photographer, two NBC reporters and a temple defector were shot and killed as they prepared to fly home from a fact-finding visit to Jonestown.

Jones then issued the order for the mass murder-suicide, and 913 people, including Jones' drunk or were forced to drink a grape drink laced with cyanide.

Prokes was not the only dissatisfied temple member. The archives also include notes from Jones's son, Stephen, denouncing his father, and one from an unnamed temple member who wrote to Jones: I don't think a day has gone by that I don't think of me calling the FBI on you.

Jones' follower Gene Chutkan, a lawyer, accused Jones that he was unwilling to combine an atmosphere of anxiety, and intended to give a defector being led to and manipulated. You have done a lot of both.

Witnesses said Chutkan was one of the suicide victims who was forcibly given the poison.

The newly released documents also include the temple's rejected offer to be part of a massive Vitamin C experiment for Nobel Prize winner Linus Pauling, memos from aides to Jones on how Vitamin B complex deficiency and sleep deprivation were useful brainwashing tools, and notes from temple members to Jones suggesting revenge on temple defectors, including the idea of selling poisoned Christmas candy door to door.

Jackson richest star

United Press International

NEW YORK — Pop singer Michael Jackson is the world's richest entertainer with a 1987 net worth estimated by Forbes magazine at $97 million, while Frank Sinatra is the poorest of the rich, earning $10 million during the period.

Jackson, who rose from the No. 32 spot on the list, is expected to earn about $60 million this year from his world tour, recordings, and publishing. Forbes reported in its Oct. 3 edition. He made $37 million in 1987, the magazine said.

The 30-year-old singer's success was supported by Cosby, who earned an estimated $92 million, and Forbes' list of the 40 best-paid entertainers. Forbes said it used a two-year period to overcome the year-to-year volatility of an entertainer's income, a magazine spokesman said.

The minimum two-year income needed to qualify was $10 million, and Sinatra just made the cut, earning that amount in 1987-88. At 72, Sinatra also was the oldest to make the list.

Film director Steven Spielberg moved up to the No. 1 position on the list with estimated earnings of $64 million for the two-year period. Spielberg was ranked sixth last year.

Sylvester Stallone dropped from No. 2 to No. 4 on this year's list, while Eddie Murphy held on to the No. 5 position for the second consecutive year. Stallone and Murphy should make $63 million and $62 million, respectively, for the two-year period.

No. 6 was cartoonist Charles Schulz at $62 million, and No. 7 was singer Bruce Springsteen with an income of $61 million.

Heavyweight boxing champion Mike Tyson leaped from No. 45 last year to clinch the No. 8 spot on this year's list with an estimated income of $53 million. Tyson's climb in the rankings was the biggest on the list.

Also on the top 10 were pianist Madonna, $40 million, and actor Arnold Schwarzenegger, $43 million.

About 50 percent of the entertainers ranked by Forbes were musicians. Besides Jackson and Springsteen, among those listed were Irish rock band U2, as well as Pink Floyd, the Grateful Dead and John Cougar Mellencamp.

Novelist Stephen King, talk show hostess Oprah Winfrey, and Australian actor Paul Hogan also were among those listed by the magazine.

Although they were not eligible for the Forbes ranking, the estates of several deceased musicians continue to earn millions of dollars a year.

Haitians face takeover with uneasy calm

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — Haitians reacted with uneasy calm to the military takeover by a former aide to ex-dictator Jean-Claude Duvalier and the United States said today the coup could further complicate ties with the Caribbean nation.

Witnesses said seven people died Sunday in the aftermath of the coup but official radio and other sources indicated the killings were linked to a church massacre last week.

Army Brig. Gen. Prosper Avril, a former aide to Duvalier, went on Haitian national television early Sunday to announce he was replacing Namphy and assuming the mantle of president to save Haiti from "anarchy and chaos."

Col. Jean-Claude Paul, head of the feared Dessalines Barracks army battalion, was reportedly named armed forces chief of staff. Paul faces a U.S. federal grand jury indictment on drug trafficking charges, issued last March in Miami.

In Washington, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said today Paul's appointment would cause additional problems for U.S.-Haitian relations, but he said U.S. officials were still assessing the implications of the coup.

Contras, Nicaraguans fail to agree

GUATEMALA CITY — Nicaraguan officials failed to agree with leaders of the U.S.-backed Contra rebels on where to hold talks after meeting to try to breathe life into Nicaragua's stalled peace process.

Victor Hugo Tinoco, Nicaragua's deputy foreign minister, met Monday with Contra leaders in a preliminary session aimed at setting the site for resuming the peace talks that broke down in June in Managua.

The meeting came amid renewed efforts in the past week by Presidents Oscar Arias of Costa Rica and Vinicio Cerezo of Guatemala to get the Nicaragua talks back on track.

However, Tinoco said his government will only resume negotiations if they are held in Managua and not outside Nicaragua, as the rebels have demanded.

Messner calls for clear division of power

WARSAW, Poland — Outgoing Prime Minister Zbigniew Messner said the government must clearly divide its duties with the Communist Party if it is to pull Poland out of its deteriorating economic and political crisis.

Messner, conceding the government had lost the "climate of confidence" necessary to function, resigned Monday amid deepening divisions in the communist leadership over how to handle Poland's growing problems.

Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski remained as president of the Council of State, the collective state presidency, and head of the ruling Communist Party.

Solidarity leader Lech Walesa, a key player in state efforts to right Poland's sinking economy, said in Gdansk he did not believe the resignation would better the situation because the government must undergo substantial structural changes.

Israel denies launch escalates arms race

JERUSALEM — Israeli leaders say the launching of the nation's first satellite into space is not a new phase in the Middle East arms race but a frontier in technology.

Israel became the eighth nation with a rocket powerful enough to lift a satellite into space at 11:32 a.m. Monday when a Shavit launcher rocket lifted off from an undisclosed site and placed the satellite Ofeq 1, Hebrew for "Horizon 1," into a low westerly orbit, an Israel Aircraft Industries statement said.

Foreign Minister Shimon Peres told state-run Israel Radio, "It is not an arms race because the Arabs have bought missiles, have produced missiles. We're not talking about a type of weapon, but of a type of technology."

Riots wound 25 in Azerbaijan

United Press International

MOSCOW — A rock attack by Azerbaijanis on a bus crowded with Armenians touched off fierce clashes between the rival ethnic groups that wounded at least 25 people, the Armenian news agency said today.

Officials in Azerbaijan banned all public demonstrations and meetings in the disputed Nagorno-Karabakh region in an effort to restore calm to the ethnically troubled region.

The latest round of violence erupted Sunday in Azerbaijan, where Christian Armenians are seeking to remove the mountainous enclave of Nagorno Karabakh from the Moslem-dominated republic and join it with the neighboring Armenian republic. It was the bloodiest sectarian violence in the region in nearly seven months.

"Strikes have been provoked at factories, in construction brigades, and on public transport," the Tass news agency reported. "Classes have been discontinued at school."

When many of those attending the rally went to the village, firearms and knives were used in mass scale fighting on both sides

-Soviet new agency Tass

According to an editor at the Armenian news agency, the clashes began after a group of Azerbaijanis hurled rocks at the bus in the village of Khadzaly.

The report said no one was injured, but Armenians, when they heard of the attack, rushed from a rally in the Nagorno Karabakh capital of Stepanakert to the nearby village of Khadzaly.

The new wave of unrest was sparked by street battles in Khadzaly village, where Christian Armenians and Moslem Azerbaijanis battled with knives and pistols during "mass-scale" street fighting in which 25 people were wounded, Tass reported.

The violence was the worst in Armenia or Azerbaijan — the two southern republics competing for control of Nagorno Karabakh — since Feb. 28, when Moslem Azerbaijanis killed 26 ethnic Armenians in the port city of Sumgait on the Caspian sea. Six Azerbaijanis also died in the rioting.

The territorial dispute over Nagorno Karabakh is the most serious ethnic problem facing Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev since he assumed power in 1985.

Tass said Armenians rushed from a rally Sunday in the Nagorno Karabakh capital of Stepanakert to the nearby village of Khadzaly after reports of Armenian-Azerbaijani clashes there.

Burmese defy protest ban, 400 killed

UPI report

RANGOON, Burma — Heavy gunfire broke out again today in renewed battles between soldiers and demonstrators demanding democracy in defiance of a protest ban imposed by Burma's newly installed military regime, diplomats said.

A Western diplomat said at least 400 demonstrators may have been killed in violence that erupted Sunday night after a 17-person military junta dissolved the month-old civilian government of President Maung Maung.

The diplomat, who requested anonymity, said he had also received unconfirmed reports that 20 soldiers were killed. The envoy said the chaos reigning in the Burmese capital of Rangoon prevented independent verification of the reports.

In broadcasts today, official Rangoon Radio reported clashes between troops and hundreds of demonstrators in the most recent outbreak of violence.

The state-run radio station said 37 people had been killed, but it added that the full extent of casualties in some of the clashes was not known.

Soldiers raided and "cleared out" anti-government strike centers in 91 cities and towns throughout Burma, and military authorities issued a directive banning weapons recently taken up by many protesters, the radio station reported.

"Force will be used and effective action will be taken against those possessing illegal weapons," it said.

The street fighting resumed early today with "heavy, prolonged gunfire," said one Rangoon-based diplomat reached by telephone from Bangkok, Thailand.

California fire jumps line, 500 evacuated, 600 firefighters added

United Press International

VACAVILLE, Calif. — Gale force winds picked up a wildfire that was nearly contained after destroying a half dozen homes and sent it leaping over a fire line, forcing 500 more people from their homes.

The sudden high winds gusted to 55 mph Monday afternoon, sending flames from the Miller Canyon fire over a road being used as a fire line, and prompted officials to order a voluntary evacuation of about 500 people from rural homes along Pleasant Valley Road.

Firefighters have found an incendiary device they believe started the fire, which has charred 17,000 acres of brush and trees, and sent smoke and soot drifting as far as San Francisco, 50 miles away.

"The winds started gusting late this afternoon and caused havoc," said Jim Shea, spokesman for the California Department of Forestry. "We're calling in more firefighters."

Another 600 firefighters were rushed into the battle Monday night, boosting the force to about 1,250 as the blaze spread another 300 acres. None of the evacuated homes was reported damaged.

Containment, originally predicted for this morning, was pushed back 36 hours to 6 p.m. Wednesday. The blaze was about half surrounded by late Monday night.

The fire destroyed seven ranch houses, 10 other structures and several radio transmission towers worth $7 million. More than 550 people were evacuated.

About 200 miles to the north, near scenic Lake Shasta, more than 1,300 firefighters struggled to contain a 7,800-acre grass and timber blaze that grew by another 1,500 acres on Monday.

Two workers were critically injured when a burning tree fell on them as they tried to restore a power line. Both were in intensive care at a hospital in Redding. Officials said a target shooter may have set off the blaze.

The deaths of eight people involved in firefighting efforts have been blamed on the series of wildfires that have ravaged the drought-parched West this summer.

The California fires were the most dangerous still burning in five states, including Idaho, Wyoming, Montana and Oregon. The Boise Interagency Fire Center said more than 15,000 firefighters were on the lines.

About 60 miles northeast of Vacaville in Grass Valley, a 39-year-old transient accused of starting the third worst single fire in California history pleaded innocent Monday to a felony charge of reckless burning.

Drug selling grandmother convicted

UPI report

TRENTON, N.J. — The cocaine trafficking conviction of a Colombian-born grandmother under the tough federal drug kingpin law leaves the "heavy hitters" in a multimillion-dollar New York-New Jersey drug conspiracy unscathed, her lawyer said.

John Furlong said Eucaris Ceballos, 54, did not deserve to be convicted under a 1986 revision of the drug kingpin statute that calls for a mandatory life sentence because she was nothing more than a "little old lady" caught in a web of circumstance.

"I feel confident that I know who the heavy hitters were in this case, and while I believe she knows them, I don't believe she ran their lives," Furlong said after the verdict was returned Monday.

"(The conviction) does nothing to change my opinion that the big ones are getting away and saps like Mrs. Ceballos are left holding the bag, literally and figuratively," the defense lawyer said.

Ceballos also was convicted of conspiracy to distribute more than 5 kilograms of cocaine, engaging in a continuing criminal enterprise to distribute narcotics and related charges.

After deliberating about 13 hours over three days, the jury returned guilty verdicts on all counts against Ceballos and three co-defendants. Ceballos sat expressionless in court wearing a housecoat and bedroom slippers as the verdict was read.

Ceballos is believed to be the first woman in the nation charged and convicted under a 1986 revision of the kingpin statute, which toughened the penalty to mandatory life in prison rather than 10 years to life behind bars.

"We're going to have to appeal, because it's the only game in town," Furlong said, in a reference to the mandatory life sentence.

Massachusetts joins striking teachers

Massachusetts entered the list of states with teacher strikes while educators in Pennsylvania and Michigan school districts agreed to return to work, narrowing the number of striking teachers to 3,614 nationwide.

After three weeks of walking the picket lines instead of teaching class, 502 teachers in Cumberland County's West Shore School District in Pennsylvania agreed Monday to end their strike for at least 40 days and voted to submit their contract dispute to fact-finding.

The teachers agreed to return to work today in the 7,600-student district.

Judge upholds surrogate parenting law

DETROIT — A judge upheld the nation's first ban on surrogate parenting for pay only after the state limited the prohibition to contracts requiring the biological mother to give up the child after birth, attorneys said.

The American Civil Liberties Union, which challenged the law, said Monday it reached an agreement with the state attorney general's office on an interpretation of the measure acceptable to both sides.

Wayne County Circuit Judge John H. Gillis Jr. denied Monday an injunction sought by the ACLU to block enforcement of the law and indicated he would issue a declaration of judgment in 30 to 60 days to formally affirm the constitutionality of the law and detail his interpretation of it. He issued the ruling after a half-hour meeting in his chambers with lawyers representing the ACLU and the state attorney general's office.

Columnist said governor 'hero of sorts'

BOSTON — A newspaper column mentioning Edward J. King's phone call to a judge was designed to show the former Massachusetts governor as a "hero of sorts" for challenging a controversial court decision, the columnist testified.

David Farrell, a former columnist for The Boston Globe, also told a Superior Court jury Monday he had complete faith in the reliability of the source, state Treasurer Robert Q. Crane, whose tip about the telephone call led to King's libel suit.

Crane was expected to follow Farrell to the stand in the trial focusing on a Nov. 8, 1981 article accusing King of pressuring Judge Herbert Abrams to change a decision handing five admitted gang rapists suspended sentences and $5-per-week fines in a controversial gang rape.

King has insisted he never telephoned Abrams about the decision which was reversed after four days of intense public pressure. Abrams also denies the conversation.

But Farrell, who was forced to resign from the newspaper in 1985 for reasons unrelated to the lawsuit, insisted Crane was a reliable source of information over a 25-year career and he had no reason to second-guess the tip's accuracy.

Miami retains No. 1 spot

NEW YORK — Seven independents and five teams of the Southeastern Conference dominated the latest UPI Board of Coaches' Ratings, which contained no Big Ten teams.

The Miami Hurricanes, who rallied Saturday from a fourth-quarter deficit of 16 points to defeat Michigan 31-30, retained their top spot Monday with 45 of 50 first-place votes and 745 of a possible 750 points overall.

UCLA remained second with the other five first-place votes and 688 points. The Bruins routed Long Beach State 56-3 over the weekend. Oklahoma received 616 points to stay in third after beating Arizona 28-10.

Rounding out the Top 10 are No. 4 Southern California, No. 5 Auburn, No. 6 Louisiana State, No. 7 Georgia, No. 8 Notre Dame, No. 9 Florida State and No. 10 West Virginia.

Nebraska came in No. 11, followed by No. 12 Clemson, No. 13 Penn State, No. 14 South Carolina, No. 15 Pittsburgh, No. 16 Alabama, No. 17 Washington, No. 18 Florida, No. 19 Wyoming and No. 20 Oklahoma State.

Heat sign forward Cummings

MIAMI — Pat Cummings, a nine-year NBA veteran who spent the last four seasons with the New York Knicks, has signed a one-year contract with the Miami Heat, it was announced Monday.

Cummings, 6-foot-9, will play both power forward and center for the Heat, which will begin its initial season as an NBA franchise this fall. Heat officials described Cummings as a hard worker who will be expected to provide leadership to a young team.

The deal is worth a reported $550,000 for one season.

Drafted by the Milwaukee Bucks in the third round of the 1978 draft, Cummings, 32, spent three years in Milwaukee before he was traded to Dallas in 1982. After two seasons with the Mavericks, who joined the league in 1980, Cummings was signed as a free agent by the Knicks.

Elliott builds on Winston lead

DAYTONA BEACH — Although Bill Elliott leads the Winston Cup standings by 127 points over Dale Earnhardt, the Dawsonville, Ga., refuses to think about winning his first stock car driving championship.

Elliott edged Earnhardt and Rusty Wallace to win Sunday's race at Dover, Del. The 1-2-3 finish by the top three stock car drivers of 1988 left the order at the top of the Winston Cup standings unchanged, although Elliott's lead increased slightly.

With six races remaining, Elliott has 3,548 points to 3,421 for Earnhardt and 3,409 for Wallace. Earnhardt has won the last two championships and has three titles overall, while Wallace has never won a Winston Cup title.

If Elliott finishes third or better in the final six races, he will win the Winston Cup, regardless of what Earnhardt or Wallace do.

Tiozzo retains crown

CORDEIL-ESSONNES, France — Frenchman Christophe Tiozzo retained his European middleweight title Monday night with a seventh-round technical knockout of Alfonso Redondo of Spain.

Tiozzo, 25, improved to 21-0 and successfully defended his title for the second time. The 1984 Olympic bronze medalist had captured the European middleweight title in April and made his first defense against West Germany's Andreas Prox in June.

Redondo, 26, the former European welterweight champion, dropped to 36-11-1. He was knocked down twice in the fight and was cut over his eyebrow.

UCF doesn't get No. 1 ranking

ORLANDO — The University of Central Florida campus was prepared to celebrate a No. 1 ranking for its football team Monday night. The celebration, though, was put on hold when North Dakota State, by one vote, was given the top position in the NCAA Division II rankings.

UCF put itself in position to get the No. 1 ranking by defeating previously top-ranked and defending national champion Troy State, 26-18, Saturday night at the Florida Citrus Bowl.

While the Knights were beating Troy State, North Dakota State outgained South Dakota State, 55-26. The pollsters seemed to be more impressed with North Dakota's romp over a lesser opponent than UCF's conquering of one of the most successful teams ever in Division II.

The reaction at UCF was obviously one of disappointment.

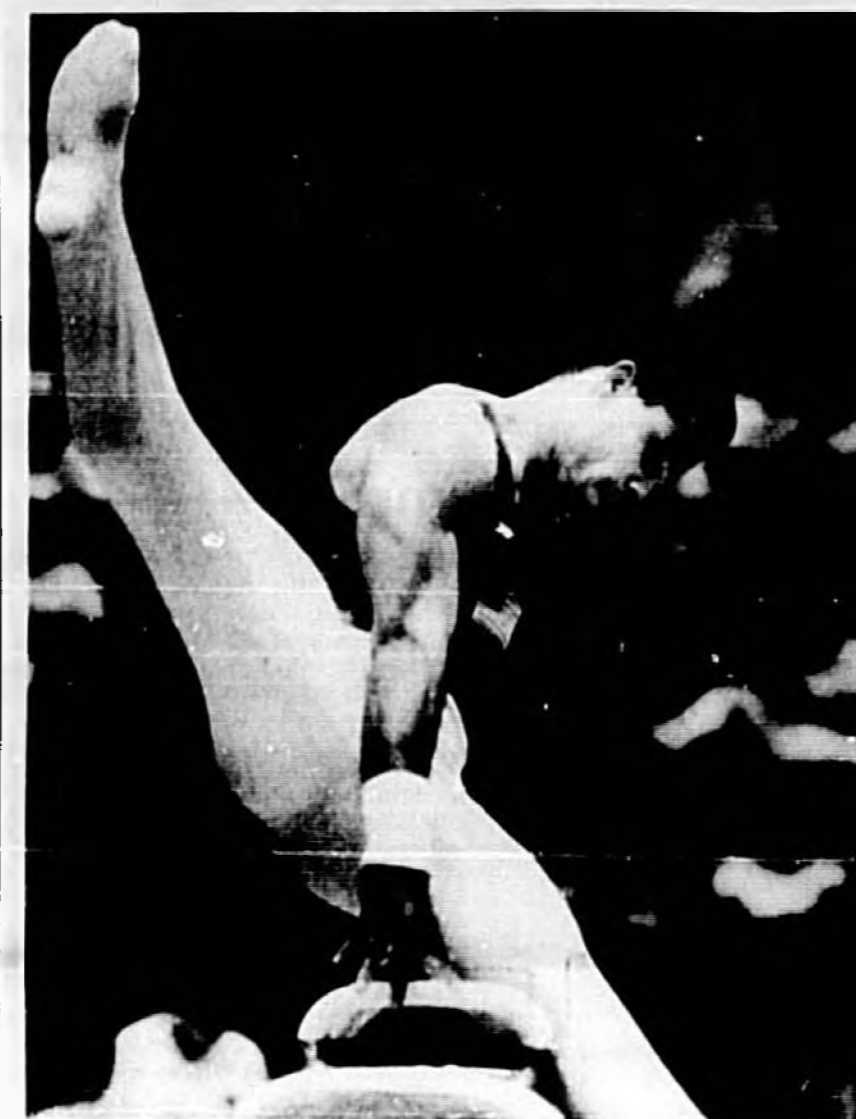

Division II rankings (votes in parentheses)

1 North Dakota State, 20	(39)
2 Central Florida, 30	(38)
3 Indiana, Pa., 20	(30)
4 St. Cloud (Minn.) State, 30	(26)
5 West Chester (Pa.) State, 20	(23)
6 Cal State Northridge, 20	(20)
7 Winston-Salem State, 30	(17)
8 Troy State, 21	(13)
9 Texas A & I, 11	(13)
10 East Texas State, 30	(13)

"Who does North Dakota State play?," asked quarterback Shane Willis. "Piggly Wiggly State?"

Coach Gene McDowell was also surprised at the verdict, but said his team will take it in stride.

"We felt that beating the No. 1 team should have made us No. 1," McDowell said. "But this could be a blessing in disguise. The players won't go in overconfident this week against East Tennessee State. It (No. 2 ranking) will just make them more determined to prove they are the best Division II team in America."

Charles Lakes had a good day for the American men's gymnastics team, but they continued to trail in the team standings. Lakes had several good routines, including a 9.95 on parallel bars.

Triumphs, tribulations for American athletes

United Press International

SEOUL, South Korea — While Greg Louganis conquered his fear with a triumph in springboard diving Tuesday, the U.S. boxing and women's gymnastics teams tried to shake the feeling that someone was out to get them.

Louganis, apprehensive after receiving five stitches to close a head wound that came when he struck the diving board Monday, soared to the third Olympic gold medal and 50th international title of his career.

"I was scared when I went out there today," Louganis said. "I'd be lying if I said I wasn't."

Hours later, the boxing team failed in its final appeal to overturn the disqualification of middleweight Anthony Hembrick, who lost in a walkover when he was late for his Monday bout because of what he claimed were schedule and transportation problems.

U.S. Olympic Committee President Robert Helmick spoke with IOC President Juan Antonio Samaranch, and the case was reviewed by the Amateur International Boxing Association for the second time in two days. The appeal was denied each time.

U.S. boxing coach Ken Adams, as he has all along, took the blame for misinterpreting the printed schedule and failing to

U.S. survives Canada, faces Brazil next

United Press International

SEOUL, South Korea — There will be no secrets when the United States and Brazil meet Wednesday in men's basketball at the Olympics.

One win with offense, the other with defense. Each does its thing the best of any team in the field.

"Brazil is one of the most outstanding shooting teams I've seen in amateur basketball," U.S. Coach John Thompson said. "Our problem is they shoot so quickly."

Thompson's team will counter with defensive pressure, the kind that held Canada scoreless for two minutes near the end of Tuesday's 76-70 victory. That triumph came after Brazil had routed China 130-109 behind Oscar Schmidt's 44 points.

Unlike the game against Canada, the United States will not have to worry about forcing the pace. Brazil will take the initiative.

The Canadians, coached by veteran Jack Donohue, played a half-court game and led 42-40 at the half. It took 3-point shooting, supposedly a U.S. weakness, to decide the game.

The U.S. team hit 7 of 11 from 3-point distance, three by Hersey Hawkins, who led the scoring with 13 points. Danny Manning added 12. Dan Majerle 11 and Charles Smith of Georgetown 10. Majerle and Smith each made two 3-point shots in the second half.

"We thought we could win it," said Donohue, who coached Kareem Abdul-Jabbar at New York's Power Memorial High School in the '60s. "We wouldn't go into the game if we didn't think we had a chance. It would be better to forfeit and get the publicity. People would be talking about that for 10 years."

The basketball fans now are talking mostly about Brazil, which has 255 points in two victories. Schmidt has scored 80 points and Marcel Souza has 51.

Brazil's game is as much entertainment as basketball, and that includes behavior off the court as well.

Souza is the star of postgame interviews, acting as interpreter for Coach Ary Vidal. He's always offering to sing, and has promised the U.S. media a performance of "New York, New York" should Brazil win Wednesday's preliminary round game.

"Our way of life is not to worry," said Souza. "No matter what happens we will be happy to always play basketball. That's the way we play."

That attitude is quite a contrast to the seriousness of Thompson and the U.S. contingent. The U.S. team is burdened with the favorite's tag, despite Brazil's 120-115 victory in the gold medal game of last summer's Pan American Games in Indianapolis.

"We know they want revenge, but we don't care," said Schmidt. "I'm sure it will be very difficult for us to win, but I'm not worried. We'll see."

Lost in some of the anticipation is that the game isn't critical. Both teams are sure to advance to the medal round, like Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union in the other half of the draw. Yugoslavia earlier won that matchup 92-79.

"It's only for first position (in the Pool)," said Schmidt.

Brantley rolls to two wins

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald sports editor

Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots rebounded from their first loss of the year with a pair of victories over established powers Monday night at Merritt Island.

Brantley, which improved to 4-1 for the season, opened the night with a 15-10, 15-10 victory over Merritt Island (3-2). The Lady Patriots then went right back onto the floor and outgamed 3 Class 3A power Titusville High (4-1), 15-11, 8-15, 15-13.

"We went five straight games without a rest and I thought the girls did an excellent job," Lake Brantley coach Wolfgang Halbig said. "Titusville had us frustrated in the second game, but I was proud of the way the girls regrouped and came back strong

Dana Bush and M. Rodriguez in the third game.

Halbig said Dana Bush had an outstanding match for the Lady Patriots, particularly in putting up a strong block. Gretchen Mull and Pam Wittig also were strong on the attack for Brantley while Jeanie Seidel led a solid defensive effort.

Marianne Rodriguez did her usual impressive job running the attack and she also provided the winning points with her serve against Titusville.

Pagel throws for two TDs, leads Browns over Colts

United Press International

CLEVELAND — Mike Pagel gave the Cleveland Browns reason to feel confident while their first two quarterbacks recuperate from injuries.

Pagel, making his first start in three seasons, threw two touchdown passes against his former teammates and Matt Bahr kicked three field goals Monday night to lead the Cleveland Browns to a 23-17 victory over the winless Indianapolis Colts.

"All (I) had to do was stay calm and get it to the right guys," said Pagel. Cleveland's third starting quarterback in three weeks following injuries to Bernie Kosar and Gary Danielson. "There's no sense in rushing things. We can savor tonight and go on. It's kind of nice to beat the Colts, but basically it's good to get a win."

Pagel, acquired from Indianapolis for a ninth-round draft pick May 23, 1986, tied a career high with 23 completions in 38 passes, throwing for 255 yards with one interception. The seven-year veteran, who had not started since Dec. 22, 1985, threw scoring passes of 14 yards to Ozzie Newsome and 17 yards to Webster Slaughter.

"Pagel did an outstanding job. He's a bright guy and has always been prepared," said Cleveland Coach Marty Schottenheimer. "I'm proud of the way our football team responded. Not surprised, but very proud. It's a tribute to our organization when you consider the depth on this team."

Cleveland, 2-1, has won its last four Monday night games and seven of eight regular-season meetings with Indianapolis.

UCF upstaged by mighty N. Dakota?

What's that stench? Oh, it's just the stuff they're shoveling down at the headquarters of the NCAA Division II poll.

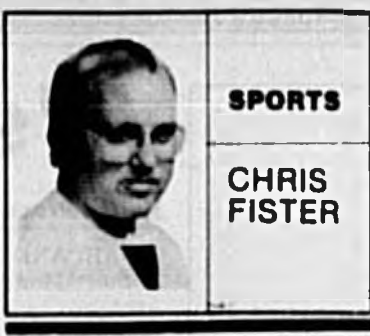

Something definitely stinks in the Division II hierarchy this week. You see, the University of Central Florida Knights earned their way into the No. 1 spot in this week's rankings. Only, the Knights were not given the top spot.

North Dakota State, nicknamed the Fighting Dinka Dinkas, or something like that, was moved into No. 1 after a 55-26 victory over a team we all know as a national powerhouse, South Dakota State (known in some circles as Piggly Wiggly State).

UCF, meanwhile, came from behind to upend defending national champion and previously top-ranked Troy State, 26-18, on Saturday night. Everyone in the free world who knows anything about football expected the Knights to get the No. 1 position this week.

North Dakota State's prowess must have been kept on the hush-hush. Either that or most of the people who vote on the poll had from the Dakotas. And some say the Dakotas are just some frozen tundra not fit for yak grazing.

For the Knights to grab what is rightfully theirs, they will have to go up to East Tennessee State this week and score an impressive victory. And, then, they have to hope North Dakota State doesn't score 60 or more points against Alcatraz A&M (or whoever they play).

The Fearless Fister Forecast got off to a decent — not by North Dakota State standards, though — start last week with an 8-2 record. Here's a look at this week's games:

Lake Mary at Seminole
The two county rivals are going in different directions so far this year. What does that mean for Friday night's game? Diddly squat. This is usually a last possession kind of a game. Whoever has the football last either wins or has a chance to win.

Seminole, 2-0, is hoping for a better offensive performance than a week ago (3-0 victory over Edgewater) and the same defensive result.

Lake Mary, on the other hand, would take as good an offensive effort (scored 21 points) while looking for a vast defensive improvement (gave up 24 points).

In the all-important coin toss during the sports staff skull session, Seminole High was picked as the team that will have the ball last Friday night. Seminole by 8

Oviedo at DeLand

Unlike some teams we know (like North Dakota State), Oviedo's Lions don't have the luxury of sitting back and waiting for good things to happen. They play one of the toughest schedules around, going up against bigger teams practically every week. The Class 4A Lions already own two wins over 5A opponents and will make it three in a row Friday night. Oviedo by 8

Lyman at Edgewater

The Greyhounds have been the beneficiaries of an excellent early season schedule. Lyman opened with a not-too-strong Orlando Boone team, took a week off, and comes back Friday night against winless Edgewater. Who could ask for anything more (except, maybe, North Dakota State). Lyman by 14

Lake Brantley at Boone

If the Patriots are in for a letdown after last week's emotional victory over Lake Mary, Boone is as good a team as any to have it against. Brantley is too big and too powerful for the Braves to handle. Brantley by 20

Louganis dives to gold

United Press International

SEOUL, South Korea — Along with everyone else present, Greg Louganis waited in nervous anticipation for his fateful ninth dive.

A day earlier, attempting the same reverse 2 1/2 somersault from the pike position during the springboard preliminaries, Louganis cracked his head on the board, necessitating five stitches and throwing him into a fright.

On Tuesday, though, Louganis performed the same dive without a hitch, virtually assuring him his third Olympic gold medal. "I was very nervous going into the competition today," Louganis said. "When I hit my head on the springboard yesterday it shook my confidence a lot."

Liangde Tan of China, second to Louganis in this event at the 1984 Olympics, once again earned a silver, and his teammate, Deliang Li, took the bronze.

Earlier Tuesday, the International Gymnastics Federation upheld a decision that cost the U.S. women's team a half-point for a minor rules infraction. The Americans have lost all chance of winning a medal.

Before winning his medal, Louganis admitted the experience of meeting fiberglass on the way to water unnerved him as he prepared for Tuesday's springboard final. Yet it took just a few moments for him to ease his fear and prove his invincibility on this day.

A back dive from the tuck position put him first after one round and he led after all but one of 11 dives. That enabled him to defeat Chinese rivals Tan Liangde and Li Deliang and bring the United States its second gold of the Games.

"Now I have almost a week to get ready for the platform," said Louganis, who won two golds at the 1984 Games. "It will give my head a little time to rest."

Earlier, Oscar Schmidt — who engineered Brazil's upset of the United States in last summer's Pan American Games — poured in 44 points to lead a 130-108 thrashing of China.

The dramatics at the pool and basketball arena came as the United States went to great lengths to prevent a repeat of Monday's fiasco in which Hembick was denied a chance to compete.

Adams and Ken Gould — the only American to fight Tuesday — boarded the first bus to leave the Olympic Village. They left at 8:30 a.m. and arrived at the boxing arena at 8:50. The dressing room doors were locked, so Gould napped on the floor outside the room until it was opened.

Gould's fight began at 11:40 a.m. and he struggled before registering a 4-1 decision over Joseph Marwa of Tanzania.

QB Morris impresses coaches

By MIKE DAME
Herald correspondent

GAINESVILLE — Many people had preseason conceptions of the University of Florida offense being Emmitt right, Emmitt left and Emmitt up the middle.

Just three weeks into the season, however, first-year offensive coordinator Len Amedee has added a new weapon to the Gator arsenal: an aerial attack.

Red shirt freshman quarterback Kyle Morris firmly established himself as UF's Red Baron of offense in Saturday's 58-0 thrashing of Indiana State.

Morris ripped apart the Syracuse secondary with 299 yards through the air on 15 completions in 21 attempts. Included in those 299 yards were two scoring strikes to Stacy Simmons (77 yards) and Willie Snead (43 yards).

The performance gave Amedee the confidence he was looking for in his wide-open style of offense.

"I was hoping that Kyle would play with a lot more confidence and complete his passes," Amedee said. "He needed to build toward a future and he showed a lot of poise and threw extremely well. He showed us that, by golly, he's ready for the (Southeastern) conference."

Morris displayed a calm control that was missing in his first two performances against Montana State and Ole Miss. In those two games, he was 16 of 33 for 301 yards with one touchdown and two interceptions.

Two instances from Saturday's game stand out.

On a third-and-16 play from the UF 23-yard line, Morris didn't just get the yardage needed for a first down — he hit Simmons in stride on a fly pattern for a 77-yard touchdown pass.

In what head coach Galen Hall called a practice two-minute drill, Morris and the rest of the offensive unit took the ball at their own 35-yard line with 2:04 left in the first half. One minute and 11 seconds later, Morris had completed 4 of 5 passes for 64 yards on a drive that culminated with a 1-yard touchdown run by freshman fullback Dexter McNabb.

Drives like that have given Morris' teammates plenty to admire in the young man from Clinton, Miss.

"The guys like Kyle," said Simmons, who has already combined with Morris for the third and ninth longest scoring passes in UF history.

American swimmers not as fast

SEOUL, South Korea — American swimmers who battled to make the Olympic team six weeks ago are having trouble matching the efforts that got them into the Seoul Games.

Swimming

Of 16 individual U.S. swimmers competing through the first three days of competition at Olympic Pool, only Janet Evans, the gold medalist in the 400-meter individual medley, has improved on her performance at the trials last month in Austin, Texas.

Three of the fastest qualifiers for Wednesday's finals swam their best times of the year, with Hungary's Tamara Darnyi and East Germany's Silke Horner setting Olympic records in Tuesday's preliminaries. Three of the four gold medalists so far have recorded their best efforts of the year, including Australian Duncan Armstrong's world record in the men's 200 freestyle.

Matt Bondi, the 200 freestyle bronze medalist who could win seven medals in Seoul, will compete Wednesday in the 100 butterfly finals and compete on the U.S. 800 freestyle relay team. Bondi will battle West Germany's Michael Gross, the defending Olympic 100 butterfly champion, in both races.

Gymnasts receive apology

SEOUL, South Korea — American women gymnasts Tuesday received an apology for a ruling that cost them a half-point on their score, but the penalty stood and may wind up costing them a bronze medal.

Gymnastics

Soviet Yurii Titov, president of the International Gymnastics Federation, upheld the penalty that might prove the difference between a bronze medal and fourth place in the team competition.

But he also apologized to the American gymnastics delegation and acknowledged the East German judge who pressed for the penalty had done so to protect her nation's third-place standing.

Everyone knew what she was pressing for, but what can you do? Titov said, referring to the action by Ellen Berger, president of the IGF's women's competition committee and, in effect, head judge.

SEOUL, South Korea — Tennis rejoined the Olympic Games Tuesday after a 64-year absence under a new format that allows professionals to play. However, it remains to be seen if the professionals will embrace the sport with an Olympic competitive spirit.

Tennis

"I haven't really been thinking about playing. I was quite relaxed," said Swedish gold-medal favorite Stefan Edberg after a 6-1, 6-1 straight-sets victory in the first Olympic tennis match since 1924.

It's nice not to have to think about defending your ranking. I feel I've got nothing to lose." Edberg dispatched Horst Skoff of Austria 7-6 (7-3), 6-2, 6-3 in a friendly center-court duel marked by good-natured rivalry and some heroics.

In other matches, third-seeded Miloslav Mecir of Czechoslovakia advanced over Eric Jelen of West Germany; fifth-seeded Brad Gilbert of Oakland, Calif., downed Michael Tauson of Denmark; and 14th-seeded John Fitzgerald of Australia was upset in four sets by Grant Connell of Canada.

Russian, Yugoslav outgun foes

SEOUL, South Korea — A Soviet soldier bagged the most clay pigeons and Yugoslavia won the men's air rifle competition Tuesday to break the Eastern Bloc's golden grip on Olympic shooting.

Shooting

A controversy over scoring also erupted when Oliver Gaspar of Hungary was pulled off the firing line and replaced by South Korean An Bu-yun-kyun moments before the air rifle finals began.

Horst Schreiber, secretary general of the International Shooting Union, said South Korea filed a protest when the eight finalists were named. All of An's 60 qualifying round targets were re-examined and he was awarded an extra point, which placed him into a tie with Gaspar, Schreiber said.

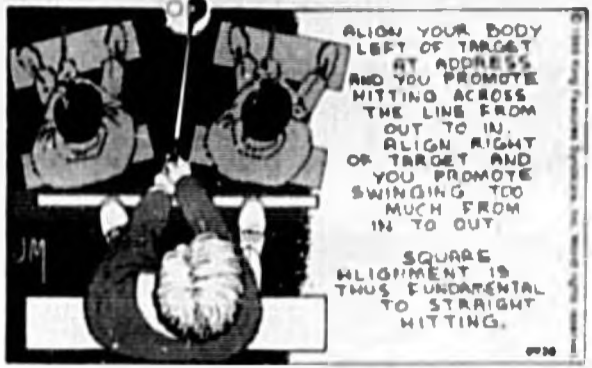

Under a tie-break system based on the last shot, An was given a place among the finalists. But when he took his place, European spectators booed and yelled "Get out, Go home."

Muscle irritation can cause burping

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 41, female and take Federal. My heart beats too fast and irregularly. I've noticed that it skips the most when I have gas and when I burp the gas out, my heart settles down until the next time I have to burp. What's the connection?

DEAR READER: The type of periodic, irregular and rapid heartbeat you describe is usually due to an abnormal amount of myocardial (heart muscle) sensitivity. That is, the muscle is easily irritated, causing your symptoms.

The stomach lies beneath the diaphragm, under the heart. When gastric gas is present, the stomach can inflate and push up against the heart, producing pressure on the muscle and changes in pulse rate. This situation is ordinarily harmless and, as you have discovered, can be helped by belching. Inform your doctor about your observations; he or she may wish to give you an anti-gas compound, such as Mylicon, to relieve your distress. For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report, "Digestive Gas." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Whiskers grow under my skin and fester. Then the irritation moves from one area of my face to another. Hydrocortisone doesn't help and my dermatologist is at a loss.

DEAR READER: You seem to have ingrown hairs, a common skin condition in which the hair shafts turn back on themselves and grow into the skin. Instead of pointing straight out, ingrown hairs act as foreign bodies — natural "splinters" — and cause inflammation.

Ingrown hairs are more common on men (and women) who use electric razors. Try a blade. Use tweezers to pluck out ingrown hairs and your problem may be solved.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've read that a crease in the ear lobe is a sign of heart problems. Is this true?

DEAR READER: Several years ago, some scientists reported that a crease in the ear lobes of middle-aged men and women was a marker for heart disease. Subsequent studies have failed to verify this early report. To my knowledge, an ear-lobe crease does not connote a tendency to heart ailments.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

North and South got their bidding crossed up. After West opened a junky weak two-bid as dealer, South bid a comfortable two spades. North might have simply bid no-trump now, but he trotted out a random three heart cue bid. Did that show hearts, a good hand for spades, or just that North had been studying some books on scientific bidding? Who knows? Since South had underbid with two spades, he now jumped to four.

Dealer played it as badly as his partner had bid it. He put up the king of hearts on the opening lead. East ruffed and returned the king of clubs. Declarer took the ace in dummy, picked up the defenders' trumps and then ducked a heart to the West hand. West of course returned a club to East's queen, and East cashed the diamond ace for down one.

Since it is known from the bidding that West has a six-card suit, declarer should play low from dummy on the opening lead. Then, even though West will continue the suit and give his partner a ruff, the hearts remaining in dummy will enable declarer to get rid of his club loser. (Declarer has to unblock his heart nine on the first or second round and later finesse to dummy's K-8.) When declarer played the king of hearts right away, he lost the timing for establishing a heart winner in dummy to take care of his losing club. It is true that there were opportunities for the defense to err. Had East played ace and a diamond, for example, there would have been no story.

HOROSCOPE

What the day will bring...

By Bernice Bede Oool
YOUR BIRTHDAY
September 21, 1988

New contacts you make socially in the year ahead will prove to be of greater worth than those you have made in the past. The pulses should be obvious from the first encounters.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Where your career is concerned today, don't waste your efforts on matters of small consequence. You could be especially lucky working on objectives that are truly meaningful. Virgo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A situation may develop today where you will have to exert authority. However, the aspects indicate you'll do it in a manner that will bring you credit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Dismiss discouraging thoughts today if something with which you're presently involved is hanging fire. The rewards you're anticipating aren't that far off.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your assessments are quite keen today and merit does exist in areas that you perceive to be fruitful. The trick is to do something about them now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Conditions that relate to your financial well-being look encouraging at this time. For best results deal directly with top-level people, not intermediaries.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're apt to be luckiest today in situations that you manage yourself and where you use your own ideas. If possible, try to keep kibitzers completely out of the picture.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your greatest benefits today are likely to stem from matters where you are looking out for the welfare of others. It behooves you to make this a priority.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) There's a possibility that you may benefit from an arrangement a friend has established with a second party. This chain has room for a third link.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) No stone should be left unturned today if it could help enhance your security. There is financial opportunity available if you ferret it out.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you expand your horizons today you should be able to see opportunities that previously eluded your vision. Focus on new areas instead of old ones.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) For best results in dealing with others today emphasize your cooperativeness and understate your authority. Kindness can conquer what demands can't.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Events are presently developing in a manner that should awaken a new hope in your heart. A matter of concern looks like it's about to take a turn for the better.

Low-paid servers survive on gratuitous tips

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for that great column on tipping. Many people don't know how much to tip a waitress and are so embarrassed, they don't tip at all. I've been a waitress for 11 years. In Ohio, waitresses are usually paid a minimum wage of $2.10 an hour. Some get even less. The government takes 8 percent right away. My paycheck nets me about $1 an hour take-home, so you can see, we don't do nearly as well as most people think we do.

ADVICE

JEANNIE IN OHIO: Not everyone thought my column on tipping was so "great." A Spokane nurse spoke thusly:

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe I'm writing to you after all these years of reading your column. But I've earned the right as a devoted reader to say, Where do you get off telling us how much to tip people for their services?

I resent that the consumer is expected to make up the difference between a living wage and the minimum wage paid by cheap employers. As for your suggestion to "do unto others," I've worked as a nurse for 30 years, and nobody has ever tipped me.

We tip according to the quality of the service given, within the limits of what we can afford, so please don't make us out miserly with percentages! There, I feel better already!

RUTH B.: People who neglect to tip are uneducated, uncivilized, socially inept, selfish and irresponsible plagues on society who should not be allowed to dine at decent restaurants.

Lunch launches Garden Club year

SANFORD — Eighteen members of the Wildflower circle and their guest, Mrs. Thomas McGovern, started their 1988-89 season with a covered dish luncheon at the Garden Club of Sanford on Sept. 8.

Crafts for the club's forthcoming bazaar were displayed, and the group plans to have a workshop after their October meeting.

Hostesses for the luncheon were Barbara Bradshaw, Alice Beaulieu and Alice March.
