

Cut Own Taxes - 4

By Ray de Crane
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
It's still possible to say that you can make (and keep) more money while being home sick and drawing your pay than it is by going to work every day.

But possibly because of abuses of the sick pay credit in former years, this is one area where Congress made drastic changes in 1964.

Before sick pay becomes a factor in your tax return there must be present these elements: You were absent from work because of sickness or injury in 1964 and during this period of enforced absence from work you received compensation from your employer. (If you received payments under an insurance contract, the amounts so received are not reportable on your return.)

If you were off the payroll while you were absent from work, you have no sick pay credit and none of the following applies in your case.

The new sick pay rules will probably become known as the 75 per cent-$75-$100 formula. Here's how it works:

You were absent from work because of sickness or injury and your employer paid you your full rate or more than 75 per cent of your full rate while you were away. After you were away 30 days you would take a sick pay credit of the actual amount received weekly up to a maximum of $100 a week for the balance of the time you were away.

Contrary to the old rules in this situation, it makes no difference whether you were hospitalized or not. If you received more than 75 per cent of your normal salary while you were absent, you get no credit until you have been away more than 30 days.

For example, an employe was absent because of illness for 60 days in 1964. His employer continued to pay him during this time his full salary of $600 a month. Since his payment was greater than 75 per cent of his pay he would receive no credit for the first 30 days. For the remaining 30 days he would take a credit of the $100 weekly maximum.

Now take the case of a worker whose employer paid him 75 per cent or less of his normal pay while he was absent because of sickness. Unless he was hospitalized at least one day during the period of absence there is no credit for the first seven consecutive days.

Thereafter, for the remainder of the 30 days, he would deduct his full pay up to a maximum of $75 a week. After the 30th day the maximum deduction would be $100 a week, assuming the employe received that much or more.

Assume the same facts but the employe was hospitalized at least one day. He received a sick pay credit for the full period of absence. His maximum credit was $75 a week for the first 30 days. At the end of the 30-day period the maximum credit advances to the actual pay or $100 a week, whichever is lesser.

Notice the attempt to equalize the tax break between the employe who receives full pay while he is sick and the one who receives a reduced rate during such time. The former must wait 30 days before the credit begins; the latter waits only seven days. And if he is hospitalized any time during this period of absence he starts to get instant credit.

Wherever sick pay credit applies it presents an opportunity to make a substantial tax savings.

Take the time to give a full explanation of the circumstances and attach this statement to your return. Your statement should recite the date you first missed work, the date you returned, the amount of pay received as contrasted to your normal wages, nature of the illness, the name of the hospital and the date you were hospitalized.

Food-To-Cuba Plan In Doubt

MIAMI (UPI) — A group hoping to distribute free food and medicine to 50,000 political prisoners in Cuba has not yet approached the State Department for permission to travel to the Caribbean island, the department's Cuban Affairs Office reports.

The office said that details of the proposed mission by the "Committee on Human Rights" were vague.

Mrs. Ermina Rivero, chairman of the New York-based group, said no word has been received from Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, who also would have to approve the idea.

Solid Support Urged For Sanford Lakefront Marina

Four prominent Sanford men have repeated their solid support of the proposed lakefront marina and are urging all interested persons to be at City Hall Monday night for a thorough briefing.

City commissioners have asked Maurice H. Connell & Associates, Inc. of Miami to have engineers present to give the official version of the marina. The session is slated for 8 p.m.

Contacted by The Herald today for their comments were John A. Burton, local architect who submitted an ideological drawing of a marina complex and the man credited with sparking the imagination of all interests in the project; Loring Burgess, executive vice president of the Florida State Bank; Howard Hodges, president of Sanford Atlantic National Bank; and George Touhy, executive vice president of the First Federal Savings & Loan Association.

His comments follow: Loring Burgess — Americans now have more leisure time than they have ever had. In an effort to fill this new free time, they have turned to boating and have boomed it into one of our major industries.

This new leisure has also created some new problems for the industrialist. Now, when he searches for a new plant location, recreational facilities for employees are a prime consideration.

With the proposed marina, Sanford has a dual opportunity; first, we can develop a very profitable industry; second, we can improve our industrial "climate" by providing outstanding recreational outlets so essential to industry.

Another aspect of this project is the effect which it will have on Sanford's image. We need some outstanding attraction which will distinguish Sanford from every other city in Central Florida. This new Marina would be the attraction we need and might well provide the stimulus for the industrial expansion of Seminole County.

Howard Hodges — "I have studied the comprehensive report made by Maurice H. Connell & Associates, Inc. on the proposed Sanford Riverport Marina. I only wish everyone in the community could read this interesting study and receive for themselves the impact of expert opinions on the project.

"We businessmen have for a long time been cognizant of the fact that a good part of the (Continued On Page 12)

Burns Sees Revamped Tax System

ORLANDO (UPI) — Gov. Haydon Burns predicted "striking" and "startling" changes in the state tax structure today and indicated they would consist of a revamping of the present structure rather than new taxes.

Burns told a news conference this morning that he will appoint a study committee to look into the methods of handling the tax problems of the state.

The news conference was held prior to the departure of Burns and his traveling Inaugural Ball entourage for Jacksonville and the fourth of six balls being held in the state.

Burns said 58 percent of the revenue taken in by the state now bypasses the hands of the State Cabinet. He said these funds are "diverted funds" and said this situation needs to be revamped.

Burns said he hopes to come up with a long-range, revolutionary change in the tax structure, but did not elaborate further.

Burns also said plans on under way for the greatest promotion in the history of the state in an effort to pull tourists into Florida.

He said he was not at liberty at the present time to reveal details but said the plans probably will be revealed within the next three weeks. But he said the promotion will be a giant effort in international scope.

Wright To Quit School Position

A meeting of the Seminole County School Board has been set for 8 a.m. Wednesday, according to Chairman J. D. Wright Jr., new State Industrial Commission chairman.

Wright announced he had set the meeting for Wednesday and at that time will tender his resignation as chairman of the county school board.

A successor to Wright's seat will be named by Gov. Haydon Burns.

The new Industrial Commission chairman was sworn in at ceremonies in Tallahassee Tuesday.

Wright is vice president of the Patrick Fruit Company here and has made Sanford his home for the past 22 years.

MIAMI (UPI)—The Castro regime urged Cuban housewives to buy a shipment of imported garlic on sale even though it looks bad.

A special notice broadcast by Havana Radio said the garlic's "deficient appearance" stemmed from "shipping and atmospheric conditions."

The unusual advisory was issued jointly by the internal and foreign commerce ministries, apparently to allay expected consumer opposition even though garlic is a staple in Cuban cooking.

Base Mishap Proves Fatal To Jet Pilot

MIAMI (UPI) — Michael Daniel Hornsby died today of injuries received Wednesday morning in an abortive takeoff of his Vigilante from Sanford Naval Air Station. He was 28 and is survived by his wife and two small boys.

Hornsby suffered head injuries and smoke inhalation when he was pinned in the cockpit of his jet bomber as a wing collapsed and tumbled atop the canopy. The aircraft caught fire but officials said there was no explosion.

He was taken to Seaside Memorial Hospital and kept under intensive care until death came at about 9 a. m.

The lieutenant and his family lived at 112 Lake Minnie Drive. He was attached to Squadron Seven at the base and had just recently completed a world tour with the squadron.

It Hornsby had started his takeoff in the A-1A Vigilante one of the final aircraft of that design, when the plane was seen wobbling. It raced off the end of the north-south runway to another runway and then burst into flames.

Rescuers had to chop a hole in the canopy to reach the pilot.

Immediate survivors of the 1960 Naval Academy graduates include his widow, Mary, two sons, Michael D. 2, and Truman E. 1, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie E. Hornsby of Austin, Texas.

Hornsby was captain of the Navy Academy's varsity golf team in 1959-60 and Texas junior golf champion in 1958. He was also a third degree Mason.

He came to Sanford in July, 1963, where he served with Reconnaissance Attack Squadron Three and Heavy Attack Squadron Seven.

Memorial services will be announced at a later date.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Office of Education said that the number of children in public grade and high schools reached a record 41.4 million last fall.

The record enrollment is an increase of 1.2 million, or 3.1 per cent over the 1963 total, the office said.

It said an estimated 69 million other students were enrolled in non-public schools.

PAUSING FOR A CHAT during last night's Governor's Inaugural Ball were Sanford Herald Publisher and Mrs. Walter A. Gidlow and Gov. and Mrs. Haydon Burns. The glittering affair attracted thousands to the Jai Alai Fronton in Fern Park as state dignitaries paid an official visit to Seminole County. 'Oranges In Orbit' Theme Of Fete

Redistricting Deadline Given

MIAMI (UPI) — A three-judge federal panel in Miami today gave the Florida Legislature until July 1 to re-apportion itself on the basis of population in both the House and Senate.

The order was a 2-1 decision of the special court with District Judge David W. Byer of Miami dissenting with his colleagues, Judges Warren I. Jones and William A. McRae Jr., both of Jacksonville.

Gov. Haydon Burns announced recently he intends to call the Legislature into special re-apportionment session right after its regular 60-day session, beginning in April, if the Miami Federal Court would allow the extra time.

The court order warned the Legislature to act on the re-apportionment question by the deadline or the court would take charge again.

"The matter promptly in this order will be reconsidered by this court if the Legislature has not validly reappointed itself by July 1, 1965, according to the standards laid down by the Supreme Court of the United States," the order read.

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Dentist Eugenio Fernandez Rico accepted a lottery ticket from a friend as payment for pulling a tooth. The ticket won $5,000.

"Oranges In Orbit" created an "out of this world" atmosphere last night at the Jai-Alai Fronton with the pomp and pageantry of a royal investiture as Governor Haydon Burns and the First Lady of the State of Florida, Mildred Burns, led the grand march at the Governor's Inaugural Ball for the Central Florida area.

The gracious First Lady was powered in a dramatic original creation by Harvey Beem of ivory satin featuring a stopless top with a sheer over bodice of Victorian brown tulle and lace, a high satina neckline and short tiered sleeves. A brown velvet band is at her waistline cascading the full length of her shimmering full skirt. Her brown silk shoes were accented with sparkling bronze heels.

Members of the governor's official party followed in a grandiose manner with all the ladies reflecting splendor and elegance in their fashionable gowns.

Potted orange trees outlined the ballroom area with orange balloons and streamers suspended from the lofty ceilings. The box seats were marked with palm fronds, each centered with an over-size diploma tied with brilliant orange ribbon, in replica of the Scholarship Foundation.

Each of the upstairs tables featured a miniature rocket created from oranges, which was a time consuming detail according to member of the Citrus Commission.

Smut Artist

Another display of obscene material was reported to police by the parents of a seven-year-old girl.

They said the child was shown pictures by a man about 30 years of age and who was driving a white car. The incident occurred in the southwestern part of the city, police said.

Committed, Says Burns

By Dottie Austin
Four-laning of State Road 46 (West First Street) from Sanford to U. S. 441, one mile short of Mt. Dora, is assured, according to J. D. Wright Jr., of Sanford, new chairman of the State Industrial Commission.

Wright told this Herald reporter at the Governor's Inaugural Ball that Gov. Haydon Burns has assured him that he (Burns) is committed to the four-laning of the narrow, winding state road.

At the Inaugural Ball held at the Jai Alai Fronton in Fern Park, Thursday night, Burns promised the crowd of over 3,000 "the greatest era of all times."

"Florida, on the threshold of space, is now entering the greatest era in its history and with our slogan of 'Florida Forward' the tremendous potentials of this great state shall become realities," said the new governor.

The problems of labor procurement and recruitment as it pertains to the harvesting of Florida citrus and vegetable crops will be the first matter to receive Wright's attention as the new chairman of the Florida Industrial Commission.

Wright, who flew in to Orlando Thursday with Governor Burns and his Inaugural Ball party, said "this problem is one of the most serious facing Florida agriculturists and demands immediate attention."

The new commission chairman revealed that he held a brief conference with his deputies and aides in Tallahassee before leaving on the swing around the state en route to the six balls.

The problem of securing sufficient off-shore labor to harvest citrus and vegetable crops when they need to be harvested and get them to market when they will give the highest return to the grower is of vital importance to the state's growers," said Wright.

The new federal regulations which have currently been invoked have compounded this problem and my first official action will be to take steps to remedy this situation," said the new commission chairman.

Concerning his appointment to the chairmanship of the powerful Industrial Commission, Wright said: "I am convinced that we are going to see great leadership and great progress for all Florida and all Floridians under the leadership of Haydon Burns."

Wright became the only Seminole County man in recent history to hold a statewide appointment. Commenting on this, Wright said, "Seminole County has many problems and I will see that Seminole County gets its fair share of attention."

The weather bureau predicted a few showers today and fair skies Friday for the Pacific Northwest, where 20 consecutive days of rain, floods, snow and high winds left 41 persons dead and damage estimated at $70 million.

True Happiness

How do you find it? This question has been asked in our thoughts or perhaps with our tongues many times, but has it been answered? The importance of the right answer cannot be exaggerated. Thousands upon thousands of people have been disappointed in false answers. Still there are those who find sincere joy in their lives because they have found the true way to happiness.

Dr. Thomas Dooley is one of the modern examples who found happiness in service. This man was reared in the lap of luxury. He had been in a position of attending college with his long convertible, a riding horse, fine clothes, a background of travel, and a great amount of spending money. He did not find that he deplored the luxuries of life either, in fact, he liked them very much. To many people he appeared happy and in comparison with most people he was, yet, this was not enough! Not until he was led into a position of attending to a staggering number of poverty stricken, dirty, ignorant, and perhaps ungrateful Asians did he find real happiness. His first taste of this kind of happiness came when he was serving his fellow man in a truly sacrificial way came as a surprise to him, but it was a lovely and priceless surprise. The answer was so complete that he gave the rest of his life to using his talents for the healing of underprivileged people.

Certainly we cannot all become healers of the body in some far off place, stalwart leaders of nations to the good way of life, preachers whose words come so certainly from God, or many of the other places of great use as is seen by the world. Even though this is true we can all serve in our best way where we are! God gives us the opportunity of serving Him in some fruitful way if we will look enough to find it. It may seem very humble, indeed, it may seem to be so small a service that it is not worthwhile, but do not think that God will fail to use any sincere service.

The best way to discover how we can find happiness in service that we long for is to observe the Lord. Here He was the prime example as it always true. We may observe

Him best by reading the four books of the Bible that tell of His life. Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John give us some what different angles from which we see the One who was perfect in every way. In all of them we find that He served and that He expects His disciples to do so. This thought is expressed in the poem of an unknown author which I would like to share with you:

"I worked for men," my Lord will say,
When we meet at the end of the King's highway;
I walked with the beggar along the road,
I bore my share of the porter's load,
I kissed the bondsmen stung by the goad,
And what did you," my Lord will say,
As you walked along the King's highway?
"I made life sweet," my Lord will say,
When we meet at the end of the King's highway;
I smoothed the paths where thorns annoy,
I gave the mother back her boy,
I mended the children's broken toy,
And what did you," my Lord will say,
As we walked along the King's highway?
"I showed men God," my Lord will say,
As I walked along the King's highway;
"I eased the sinner's troubled mind,
I helped the blighted to be re-signed,
I showed the sky to souls grown blind,
And what did you," my Lord will say,
When we meet at the end of the King's highway.

Annual reports were given by various organizations of the church following a covered dish supper.

Rev. Charles Stewart Jr., vicar, in outlining challenges for the year, stated that the church needs to minister to and increase the spiritual devotion of the present members, and new members who come to them, through orderly worship of God in his church, personal prayer and study and participating in study classes and the Christian education of the church.

He recommended that prayerful consideration be given to providing increased facilities for Sunday School and a possible expansion of the Day School. During the discussion,

The young people's group, which is called Epworth League in the Southern Methodist Church, met for the first time last Sunday night. All interested young people are invited to these meetings which will be held each Sunday at 6 p. m. Mickey McClanahan will be in charge of the program this week.

Cut Your Own Taxes - 5

By Ray De Crane
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Senior citizens received several tax breaks from the Congress last year when the new tax law was being written. The three principal areas that will tend to reduce the amount of tax paid by other persons were:

— The elimination of the old one per cent rule on the cost of medicines and drugs.
— An increase in their retirement income credit.
— A once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to realize some tax-free profit on the sale of a home in which they had lived at least five of the eight years before the sale.

In former years medical expenses were deductible only to the extent they exceeded 3 per cent of income. Drug expenses could be included only after they exceeded 1 per cent of income.

Several years ago Congress eliminated the 3 per cent feature on medical bills but retained 1 per cent principle on the cost of drugs and medicines. For many elderly the cost of medicine exceeded their doctor bills.

Now the 1 per cent restriction also has been eliminated and the total cost of all medicines and drugs, the cost of hospital insurance, doctors' and dentists' fees and hospital expenses are all fully deductible for all couples where one of the spouses is 65 or older.

This new tax break also applies to children who are supporting their aged parents. This makes fully deductible the cost of all medicines purchased for the parents.

As before, all other medical expenses for dependent parents are fully deductible on the return of the son or daughter who furnishes the chief support without regard to the 3 per cent rule which applies to all under-65 taxpayers.

The second major change involving older taxpayers was a liberalizing of the retirement income credit. Under the old law a taxpayer over 65 was permitted to take a direct tax credit on retirement income up to a maximum of $1,024 providing he had earned income of at least $500 for each of any 10 calendar years. Retirement income for this purpose included pensions, annuities, interest, rents and dividends. A taxpayer's wife, if she was 65 or older, could claim an identical credit if she also met the required 10-year work experience. If she did not, she could not claim the credit even though she may have had retirement income.

Under the new law a husband and wife may elect to combine their retirement incomes on a joint return and the maximum upon which they may compute their credit is raised to $2,266.

The tax rate used in computing the credit on 1964 returns is 17 per cent. For later years it is 15 per cent. It formerly had been 20 per cent.

The biggest tax break of all for older people could come when they sell their home.

Altamonte Civic Club Hears Talk On Thailand

By Julia Bartos
A former missionary to Thailand, Dr. N. Carl Ekler, was guest speaker for the monthly meeting of the Altamonte Springs Civic Club held Wednesday at the Community House.

Dr. Ekler, whose visit was arranged by Dr. Gertrude Forman, club program chairman, showed slides and explained conditions of the country, its geographic location and its culture and education.

Members voted during a brief business session to contribute $50 toward sending a crippled child to Camp Challenge near Mt. Dora for two weeks in the summer.

It also was decided to hold a Chinese auction at the Feb. 3 meeting with each member invited to bring a usable item she no longer needs. Time for the meeting was set for 7:30 p. m., one-half hour earlier than the regularly scheduled time and Mrs. W. C. Morrell was named to be in charge of the auction.

Tables for the Wednesday meeting were decorated with arrangements of flowers and accessories as appropriate theme for the new year. Hostesses were Mrs. W. C. Morrell, chairman, and Miss Dorothy Renwick, Mrs. E. R. Gaskill and Mrs. William Eckard who served refreshments for the program and meeting.

Geneva Youth Club Elects New Officers

By JoAnn Hays
The Geneva Youth Club met recently to elect officers for the new year and review progress of the club since its beginning in 1963. Jack Tillman, last year's president and newly elected president, gave highlights of the club beginning in October of '63.

The club was organized by Jimmy Anderson, who was elected the first president. Other officers serving that first year were Roy Hughey, vice president; Cathy Cammack, treasurer and Jerry Johnson, secretary. The club began with 20-25 members but within three months dropped to 10-15 members. In June, all officers of the club resigned and the club was at a point of disbandment. On July 10, 1964 one of the members, Jack Tillman, called a special meeting at which time new officers were elected and the club was once more active. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Mathieux consented to serve as sponsors of the club and soon the membership was built up to 40 members. Jack worked as hard as any teenager could to see that the youth club stayed organized and is still working.

Other officers elected to serve for this year are Jack Romans, vice president; J. V. Stowell, secretary, and Jennifer Coe, treasurer.

Full Gospel Fellowship To Meet

The second meeting of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International will be held Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at the Sanford Woman's Club Oak Avenue.

Local officials report that the first meeting brought attendance from Orlando, Winter Park, Orange City, DeLand, Mt. Dora and Lake Mary and that the chairman of the meeting was well pleased with response.

All interested persons, regardless of church affiliation, are invited to attend Saturday night's meeting.

Circle To Meet

The regular monthly circle meeting of the women of Presbyterian Church of the Covenant will be held at 8 p. m. Monday at the home of Mrs. George Rufas, 2905 S. Park Avenue, Sanford.

Formerly, they followed the same rules as all other taxpayers; the profit, if any, on the sale of a home was not taxed if a replacement home cost as much or more than the former home was sold for. If there was no replacement home, then the gain was taxed at capital gain rates.

The difficulty for older people was that many of them moved in with their children or into an apartment after selling their home and thereby failed to realize any advantage from this tax concession. Congress corrected this shortcoming in 1964.

The law now provides that a person 65 or older pays no tax at all on the sale of his home—regardless of the amount of profit—if the selling price is $20,000 or less.

If the selling price is more than $20,000 the amount of profit not subject to tax is the ratio between $20,000 and the selling price. For example, if the selling price is $30,000, $20,000 being 2/3 of the gain is not taxable.

A taxpayer over 65 realizes $50,000 after paying the broker's commission on the sale of his home on which he had a total investment of $25,000, including original cost and subsequent improvements. He had lived in the home continuously for 15 years. Here's how he accounts for the sale:

Amount realized	$50,000
Cost basis	25,000
Gain	25,000

Ratio of $20,000 to $50,000 2/5
Part of gain to be excluded (2/5x$25,000) $10,000
Part of gain subject to capital gains tax $15,000
Remember, this is a benefit which may be claimed only once and it must involve the taxpayer's residence and not some other piece of property he may own.

Market Inclined Toward Caution Pending Study

Wall Street Chatter
NEW YORK (UPI)—Good-bye and Co. says the market may be inclined to move cautiously until investors can evaluate in greater detail President Johnson's economic program for 1965.

However, the firm says the market even now seems to be preparing for more moderate gains in consumer spending and in general business activity this year, as well as for the possibility of greater pressure on profit margins.

Analyst Elliot Janeway says Wall Street does not understand the complications involved in "the sterling crisis or the gold bubble." Janeway says it wants to know whether a storm is coming or has passed and, he believes, the record investment reserve which has been holding back and waiting to catch the market at its low will miss the next upturn.

Bache & Co. says that despite the broadness of the recent upswing it would prefer to continue to adhere to a policy of cautious and selective investment at this time.

Outlook For New University

By Julian Stenstrom, Associate Editor

If the growth and development of the University of South Florida in the Tampa Bay area during its first four years is indicative of what will happen at the East Central Florida University during its initial four years Seminole and Orange counties are in for an economic explosion.

The East Central Florida University, already approved by the Board of Regents and the State Board of Education, will be located some five miles south of Ocala on the Orange-Seminole county line.

Funds for the initial development of the land and construction of buildings will be a question for the Florida Legislature to decide when it convenes in April for this year's session.

Tentatively, the Board of Regents — known as the Board of Control until recently — expects that the new institution, commonly called a space university, will open its doors to students for the first time in the fall of 1965. Officials of the board, the last time they were in Sanford, told members of the County Commission that they anticipated some 4,000 students within a couple of years.

That's what they anticipated at the University of South Florida. But when USF begins its fall semester in 1965 the school is preparing to accommodate a record 8,000 students, a $10 million construction program, the development of an extensive graduate degree program and the beginning of intercollegiate athletics.

When the school opened in 1960 it was predicted that USF would have an enrollment of 10,000 by 1970. Now, officials declared, it looks as though the 10,000 enrollment mark may be reached two years ahead of schedule.

In preparation for formal intercollegiate sports competition, the university organized athletic "clubs" in sports last fall. These activities are paving the way for fielding intercollegiate teams during 1965 in baseball, golf, soccer, swimming plus cross country and track.

The school is acquiring coaching staffs, athletic equipment, establishment of service awards and scheduling competition in these sports for the 1965-66 school year.

Tied closely to the introduction of the intercollegiate athletic program at USF during the coming year are the

Gala Governor's Ball Draws Thousands To Seminole County

MR. AND MRS. GEO. A. SPEER JR.

MR. AND MRS. ROY G. WILLIAMS

By Doris Williams
Society Editor

Three of us from The Herald news staff—City Editor Dottie Austin, Staff Photographer Bill Vincent Jr. and I—were assigned the detail of covering the Governor's Inaugural Ball in Central Florida. We carefully planned to obtain as much pre-data as possible, but seems all the various committees had not arranged their schedules according to our devised plans.

Dottie and I left Sanford to "check out" the facilities and decor of the front and good fortune in our favor. With over 8,000 persons assembled at one gathering, loaded down with cameras, film, bulbs and a minute bag, which holds next to nothing, the main concern is keep out of the line of traffic to avoid a possible stampede.

Norman Stabell, vice president and general manager of the Jai-Alai graciously escorted us through the vast fronton to get a sneak preview of the decorations. We enjoyed a delightful informal late-a-ate with him before departing for the Cherry Plaza Hotel in Orlando to a press conference, which had been cancelled, and a "Pre-Inaugural Ball-Cocktail Buffet" in the exotic Egyptian Room.

In the hotel lobby, we met many state dignitaries and were guests of the J. Dan Wrights. Dottie was primarily interested in an interview with Wright while I was engaged in "gal's talk" with the lovely petite Alice Wright.

Alice showed her gorgeous gowns for all six balls and labeled Mildred Burns as being the greatest "First Lady" ever.

Wright was very alert with the answers and used a few well chosen words to express his negative viewpoint when it was in order.

When asked how they felt being in this present position, traveling around and being in such close association with the Governor and cabinet, he replied, "We are just one big happy family—we've shared our last aspirin tablet, last glass of orange juice and even the last of the hair spray."

We then retreated to the cocktail-buffet, which was invitational to approximately 300 persons. At this point we were famished and exhausted, but ignored the lavish buffet to mingle with the people. We had the pleasure of chatting with Johnny Desmond, whom we found delightfully refreshing.

I pulverized precedents and protocol and threw the book back at Emily Post as the Governor and Mildred made the grand entrance, and had the unmitigated gall to ask them to pose for us with some Sanfordites, to which they humbly consented. With this gesture, a few wigs hit the ceiling and teeth dropped to the floor, but we made it first.

Other Seminole County guests were present, but out of the mass of people, were only able to locate Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hillmer, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kastner, Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Patrick, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Shoemaker Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hunt, Dr. and Mrs. Vince Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Vince Paulucci, Mr. and Mrs. Loring Burgess.

After several unsuccessful attempts to make our egress, we finally made it to rush back to Sanford to don our ball gowns with only a few minutes to skn on our finery and make a mad dash to the fronton, armed with many pounds of metal to execute our mission.

Once again with daring aggressiveness and audacity, I edged into the Governor's box with the Walter Glelows at my side, made the introductions as if we were all "kiss-in' cousins," and the shutters snapped again, thanks to Bill Vincent, who was on the double with his camera.

Thus at the stroke of midnight after a memorable day, Cinderella was transformed from the fairy princess back to her original post as she and Bill returned to The Herald to unravel some of the events for publication, and Dottie followed with more coverage.

Investigation Opens In Deaths Of Four Boys

PAYSON, Ark. (UPI)—The state health department today began an investigation into the jail-cell deaths by asphyxiation of four teenagers accused of stealing beer.

Dr. William Moore, the state health commissioner, conferred with Gov. Sam Goddard in Phoenix, and the announcement followed that one and possibly two investigators would come here to study the deaths.

Goddard said the investigation was being made with approval of the Gila County Board of Supervisors.

The deaths of the four youths—left alone in the jail at least 11 hours—shocked most of the 100 residents of this community about 80 miles north of Phoenix.

Wentworth Outlines Program

By Donna Estes
Longwood Mayor David R. Wentworth outlined a 10-point program of proposals and recommendations for council's "due and serious consideration and action" at the first meeting of the new year held Thursday evening at the city hall.

Wentworth recommended:

- (1) That the city attorney be authorized to draw up and submit to the legislature a modern, streamlined charter to replace the present one passed in 1923 which is "obsolete, outdated and of no practical value to the city."
- (2) That council take appropriate action to annex lands to the east, west, north and south of the present city limits.
- (3) That the city ordinances be reviewed in their entirety and action initiated to remove from the statutes such ordinances as are no longer applicable and, further, to strengthen or amend others in order that they may be adequately and efficiently enforced.
- (4) That the board review the present zoning ordinance and make necessary corrections.
- (5) That a long-range planning program be initiated regarding sewerage in the congested areas of the city pointing out that "in time septic tanks will be a menace to health."
- (6) That funds be set aside to finance an increased police force of permanent patrolmen as will be needed in the future.
- (7) That appropriate action be initiated to reimburse, at least in part, the volunteer firemen for time lost from their places of employment while they are fighting fires.
- (8) That the city continue and expand its paving program.
- (9) That sterner measures be initiated against those persons who are delinquent in paying their water bills taking into consideration, illness, employment, etc.
- (10) That a detailed map of the water system showing all cutoff valves, etc., be made available at city hall so that in the event of a serious leak in either the main or sub-water lines, if a member of the water department is not available, any city employee or official could take immediate action thus avoiding a serious water shortage or damage to the streets.

Convicts Lauded For Humane Act

ROME, G. (UPI)—Six while one of the prisoners on a work detail accompanied Shell in the ambulance, the others got in the truck and drove back to camp, escape have been commended. Shell died en route to the hospital.

Warden J. Maxwell of the Florida County public works camp said he had written a letter to the Board of Corrections and the State Parole and Pardon Board naming the six prisoners and praising their action.

The six were working in a rural county area when their work detail, May 26, 61, was struck with a head-on collision.

The prisoners put in a truck, pushed him to a nearby farm, and called an ambulance.

But Shell's widow told the warden her husband carried a considerable sum of money on him when he died and that it was still in his pockets when he arrived at the hospital.

The six prisoners were serving sentences ranging from six months to 10 years.

Bootlegger Tells 'Secret Recipe'

LAKE CITY (UPI)—Accused bootlegger Jesse Franklin Dorsey Jr. told beverage agents he improved the yield of his still with a "recipe" from a sixth grade science book.

Dorsey was arrested on charges of possession of a still and of moonshine materials at his home west of here. The agents were impressed with the production volume of the still and asked Dorsey his secret.

THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE is not immune from fashion foibles. Witness these sartorial disasters. Bow tie, left, is wrong for round-faced gentlemen; and with cufflinks? Men's World vs LBJ

By Jerry Sheehan
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — President Johnson's decision to abandon formal dress at the Washington inauguration ceremonies descended on the U. S. menswear world with the impact of a bulldozer on an ice fishing shanty.

Just as the First Lady can set the women's fashion world on its ear by abandoning, say, earrings, so can the Chief knock the march of men's style into route step at a whim.

"This is especially disastrous because Mrs. Johnson will be wearing a floor-length ball gown. It just doesn't go."

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY—Some of your women readers may like to surprise their husbands and express their love in the unique way my wife did when she put several big red lipstick kisses on the absorbent tissue she uses to cover the bottom of my lunch basket.

My daughters receive many courages and I save the pins that come in them to use when working on heavy fabrics as they have sharp points and do not leave holes in the materials.

DEAR POLLY—Save those worn plastic tablecloths. They make ideal aprons for general cleaning days. Cut them out with a scalloped edge. I usually make one large pocket all across the front and then stitch through it to make three or four smaller pockets (like a shoe bag) so they can hold sponges, dust cloths and so on with no dirt or dampness coming through. Sew on a waistband and you are ready to go.—MRS. H. A. W.

Dessert; Love, Kisses

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY—I do lots of sewing for my three daughters and myself. There are always several garments in various stages of completion. I keep each folded in a separate suitcase with its pattern, buttons, zippers, thread and so on and when I am ready to sew on a certain garment I have it all ready.

Our bakery packages bread in plastic bags which I save for my daughters' shoes. The bags not only protect the shoes but make it easier to find the right ones when they have so many different colors.

DEAR POLLY—If you have ever struggled to hang a number of hangers on the little hook in a car you will appreciate my tip. Hook all the hangers with garments on them on to one hanger and hang only that one on the car hook.—ROBERTA

The Mature Parent

No One To Play God

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Though what you recently said about blindness as the cause of parents' favoritism may be true, your sympathy for Cain is misguided. God saw the original sinfulness in Cain's heart, which was why He rejected his offering.

Though I had to say to myself, "Child, you have made an outcast of yourself by this terrible act you have committed," I had also to say to myself, "Cain child, it is apparent to my human eye that outcastness has been your fate for too long. So I cannot know enough about your pain to pronounce you 'evil.' Perhaps had I, another human like you experienced, I should have been able to do so better."

I am sorry to have offended you by my sympathy for Cain, but I just can't feel myself qualified to make the judgments of Jehovah. That's the damning truth and I can't change it to save this soul of mine.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: There's a fatherless family in our neighborhood. The mother works and the children more or less shift for themselves.

I hate to have to tell our boy that I have nothing against Johnny (not his real name) but because his home atmosphere is so bad I don't want him to associate with Johnny any more.

UNRESOLVED PROBLEM
DEAR ABBY: Tell your son that if he wants to play with Johnny, Johnny will have to come to HIS home. But under no circumstances is he to go to Johnny's. Perhaps your son could be a good influence on Johnny. And if you cultivate Johnny's friendship and win his confidence, you might be a tremendously positive factor in building his character. It's not enough simply to refrain from doing evil. Seize every opportunity to do good and make the most of it.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of people who offer to take you on a "tour" of their homes when you visit them? In my opinion it is showing off. I have had this happen with people who have modest homes, and also with people who have better homes. Either way I feel it is wrong.

AGAINST HOUSE TOURS
DEAR ABBY: Most people offer their friends a "tour" of the house because they assume their friends are interested in seeing it. (And they usually are!) I do not consider it "showing off" but if YOU do, don't offer a "tour" of your home. But don't condemn those who do.

judge. My wife and I recently were married and we have opposing views on affection. We are both in our early 30's and have been married before. My wife claims that I don't show her enough affection and, by her standards, I don't. I was brought up in a series of orphanages and foster homes, and affection was not a part of my life.

THE DEFENDANT
DEAR DEFENDANT: No one is born affectionate. It is acquired and can be taught. Make a practice of always kissing your wife hello, goodbye and goodnight, and after a while it will come easily to you, too.

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Jacoby On Bridge By Oswald Jacoby

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Over the last 40 years, I doubt if any bridge player has gotten himself into more trouble in the bidding than my old friend Walter Malowian. I also am sure that no player has successfully worked himself out of more trouble than Walter.

Walter opened the three of clubs. He is old-fashioned and believes in attacking with his longest suit if he has one. East's queen forced South's ace and South promptly led a heart toward dummy's queen.

We The Women: By Ruth Millert

A wife can often unintentionally contribute to her husband's discontent by thoughtless chatter.

She may find fault with his family and dread their visit. She may talk about how they aren't getting any younger and say that it doesn't look as if they will ever be able to do the things they once talked of doing.

The Doctor Says: Deafness From Mumps

By Wayne G. Brandstedt, M.D.

Q—Following mumps I lost my sense of balance and the hearing in my right ear. The former responded to treatment, but I'm still deaf on one side. Can anything be done?

Q—I am taking Duotrate and digitalis for coronary insufficiency. Could these drugs have any harmful effects?

Q—Duotrate is another of the tetrahydrocortisone given for angina pectoris. It should not be taken by anyone suspected of having glaucoma.

Hats Brim With Chic

By Helen Hennessey
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Women's Editor
Audrey Hepburn, the nation's Fair Lady, once remarked that the line of a dress or coat is incomplete without a hat.

When a woman begins to think of a hat as a piece of jewelry—something that completes her total look—she will never be without one," she said.

Women had to be re-educated on the subject," Mrs. Victor said. "Hats were World War II casualties. So many women were working in defense plants, even on weekends, they had to wear slacks. And hats just weren't intended to be worn with pants. So they were worn less and less."

were about to crush their five-dollar birds' nests with a chapeau, however pretty.

Designers followed the trend. And now not only are the hats fashion favorites, but due to her inspiration employment has been made possible for over 40,000 people in this small South American country.

"Do you know why they are called Panamas?" Sally asked me.

traveled as the bridge that linked the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. The travelers found the natives of Panama selling these hats. They bought them in droves for lightweight protection against the burning sun and because they were bought in Panama, they got its name.

Well, Mrs. Victor's Panamas for spring are a far cry from the native hats of the gold rush era. The straw has been dyed tropical colors—vivid pinks, brilliant blues, greens and oranges. On some there are embroidered figures in sunny colors, and they are all as fresh as a summer day.

"When a husband complains about the money his wife has spent on a hat, nine times out of 10 it's because he doesn't like the hat she chose. I've discovered that a man doesn't mind paying for any item of clothing that makes his wife look pretty."

Tune In On Transistors

The current younger generation's security blanket appears to be the transistor radio. Both U. S. and foreign-made sets are boon companions, though, for all ages.

A large transistor radio manufacturing firm (Channel Master), points out that the more transistors a set has the better its performance generally will be.

talk show, walk around the store. Dea the volume fade in and out or is it consistent? Take the radios outside and play them in a car. You will be amazed at the variation in performance.

Schools and You

Of all the questions parents ask me, the saddest, perhaps, is this: "How can I keep my Johnny or Susie from falling?"

Teachers generally have some part explanations to convince a parent that retention (polite term for "flunking") is best for the child. And maybe it is, in some cases.

A few may spend four years in the primary unit but no child is failed or made to repeat a year's work. The slower child simply progresses at his own rate.

Beauty after Forty

Do take my advice and forget your birthdays. Stop looking at the calendar and start looking at yourself.

In Greek mythology, Perseus was a trust rubber who, when travelers sought shelter, tied them to an iron bed. Short travelers were stretched till they were the same length as the bed; tall ones had their limbs chopped off to make them fit.

No, I am not advocating a wrinkled skin (you know me too well for that), but no woman after forty can have the "face of youth." This would not be natural and becoming. A well-cared-for skin (cosmetic oil helps) a well-done, flattering "makeup" — yes, by all means!

"LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD" will be featured during special showings Saturday and Sunday at the Seminole Plaza Cinema in Casselberry. The children's film will be shown at 10 a. m., noon, 2 and 4 p. m., Saturday only, and again Sunday at 1 and 3 p. m.

which opens Sunday and runs through Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre.

Only this time the movie screen presents three Doris Days.

One, of course, is the Miss Day that film fans know best, the attractive blonde comedienne they have elevated to the crown as reigning queen of the world's movie box-offices. The other two—introduced in dream sequences—show Doris as surf-loving beachnik in a dance routine with actor Clive Clark; and as party-girl at a Miami electronics convention.

As the party-girl, Doris dons more disguises than lamster at a police benefit. In a sincere effort to conceal Doris' identity (at least temporarily), director Norman Jewison made tests of Miss Day in seven different disguises, utilizing a vast array of wigs in shades of red, auburn, brown and black; a variety of makeups ranging from much-too-much to much-too-little; and a closetful of wardrobes, including tight satin gowns, plunging necklines, bangles and beads, mink coats and sable stoles.

Which one finally got into the picture? You'll have to see it to find out.

"Fortunately," producer Harry Keller explained, "it's a dream sequence. We could get as wild as we wanted without making the scene unbelievable."

How did Miss Day feel about it?
"I had a ball," Doris enthused. "Never knew how much fun it could be, trying to look like somebody else."

Between you'n me

NEW YORK — (NEA) — A kid who should have graduated with his class collects an $8,000 bonus, signs a bona fide contract to play professional football and then becomes an All-American. Sounds unusual, huh?

The American Football League says it's all legal. The National Football League acts coy. And Georgia doesn't forfeit any of the games it won in a five-season, to which the big tackle contributed measurably.

So on the surface nobody gets hurt, except maybe the Patriots, who finished Wilson's fifth year at Georgia, without interest.

Here's good old Michael, wailed Mike Holovak, the Boston coach, "straight and narrow, who wants the rules whiped out so we don't have to do things like this. It's going to happen unless we put in rules to say, 'Let's not draft a boy until his eligibility is completed.'"

Powell Seeks Integration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, of New York, has begun a series of meetings with high-ranking officials in professional sports concerning racial integration in coaching and umpiring positions.

Carries Lead

BEBRING (UPI) — Marge Burns of Greensboro, N. C., a veteran amateur golfer, carried a three-stroke lead entering the final round of the annual Harder Hall women's invitational tournament here.

2nd, back it with a great warranty*

(5-year/50,000-mile engine and drive train warranty)

*Here's how Plymouth's 5-year/50,000-mile engine and drive train warranty protects you: Chrysler Corporation confidently warrants all of the following vital parts of its 1965 cars for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, during which time any such parts that prove defective in material and workmanship will be replaced or repaired at a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer's place of business without charge for such parts or labor: engine block, head and internal parts, intake manifold, water pump, transmission case and internal parts (excepting manual clutch), torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints, rear axle and differential and rear wheel bearings. Required maintenance: The following maintenance services are required under the warranty—change engine oil every 3 months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first; replace oil filter every second oil change; clean carburetor air filter every 6 months and replace it every 2 years; and every 6 months furnish evidence of this required service to a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer and request him to certify receipt of such evidence and your car's mileage. Simple enough for such important protection.

Hare-brained Tale Of A Hare

JACKSON Tenn. (UPI) — A fish and game official said a rabbit with three horns had been brought to his office. Rabbits ordinarily have no horns at all, not even Texas jackrabbits. Claude Rheams described the cottontail, shot on New Year's Day by a 12-year-old hunter near Trezevant, Tenn., as having horns "curved like sheep horns, spread across its head."

Providence Only Undeclared Five

Called Press International. United It's an act of Providence or just some old-fashioned solid ball playing, but there still is an undefeated team in the topsy-turvy world of major college basketball. Providence, the only major unbeaten team in the country, continued its winning streak the hard way, on foreign soil, with an 89-79 triumph over Boston College last night.

Solid Support Urged For Sanford Lakefront Marina Meeting

(Continued From Page 1) purchasing power of the people of Sanford and Seminole County has been expended in Winter Park and Orlando. The attraction of these "lost" dollars has become a matter of primary concern to all of us. I am confident that the establishment of an identity for the City of Sanford will prove the turning point on the exodus of our purchasing dollars. The properly publicized and managed marina will establish that identity and with the stimulation of traffic flow through downtown Sanford we will see our city rejuvenated trade-wise, for the benefit of us all. "I hope we look at this project in the proper perspective. That is, an installation of the type proposed is not designed for tangible profit. Its benefits must be measured in extrinsic returns of value such as appreciation in downtown and fringe land values, stimulated trade, modernized physical properties and retention of a higher percentage of purchasing dollars.

George Touhy — Owners of Sanford property — residential, commercial or vacant — have a vested interest in the future of the city. It behooves them to study any idea or plan that affects this future and to decide if the projected results are what they want for their home town. Right now city officials are reviewing an engineering survey made by a highly regarded and reputable firm. This report deals directly with the potential of our lakefront and its forecasted effect on this future of Sanford that was just mentioned. This study indicates several things: 1. The recommended facilities will result in an outstanding riverport whose financial, economic and social benefits to Sanford are tremendous, even beyond measure. 2. The cost of the development is set at $2,800,000 by engineers, and the city officials must decide on the investment of this money to make possible this roseate future. 3. These conscientious officials deserve the enthusiastic support of all, or at least a vast majority of Sanford property owners and business men if they are to make this financial outlay, even though the research indicates that the riverport should be self-sustaining. 4. A decision must be made on the manner in which the development and operation of the waterfront facilities will be administered, for obviously it would be unfair—and impractical—to burden already over-loaded city officers with this highly specialized business. If property owners in years gone by believed enough in the future value of their investments as they made them, then they should do their utmost to encourage and support well-considered action that is designed not only to keep the investments from decreasing in value, but to preserve and enhance them. By united action now Sanforites can build a secure and enjoyable future. It is the personal responsibility of each person to join in that positive action if Sanford's future means anything at all to him. John A. Barton IV — I have been given a copy of the report by the City Manager and, after perusal, I am convinced these engineers have prepared a good and comprehensive study.

Language Change In Mass Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The change from Latin to English in the Mass, which took effect Nov. 29, has been received enthusiastically by a large majority of America's Catholics, a liturgical expert said today. "There has been some foot-dragging," acknowledges Fr. Frederick R. McManus. "But on the whole the transition has gone as smoothly as anyone could have hoped." Father McManus is executive secretary of the Office of Liturgical Affairs established by the U. S. bishops to implement the reforms in public worship decreed by the Vatican Ecumenical Council. The Boston-born priest also served as an advisor to the Eumenical Council. "He said spot checks around the country indicate that at least three-fourths of the priests and laity are very pleased with the new look in Catholic worship, which includes a much greater emphasis on congregational participation as well as the introduction of vernacular languages. "Some people are finding it difficult to adjust to the changes," he said in an interview with UPI. "But even they are benefitting. Catholic meaningful for the participation has become more pants, and that is a good thing for all of us. "Many priests have told me that they can detect an entirely different spirit of worship in their parishes."

Stetson U. Concert Scheduled Saturday

Musical enjoyment is in store for the entire family when the Stetson University Concert-Choir appears Saturday in the annual Seminole County Concert Series at Seminole High School auditorium. "The 65-voice choir will not only provide a sharing time for families, but affords a wonderful opportunity for parents to further their own appreciation for music and develop this important facet in their children's growth at the same time," said Mrs. Barton Bartholomew, membership chairman. "Appreciation of music has become an established fact in school curriculums throughout the nation and locally it is an important part of the school system," said Miss Ollie Reese Whittle, Seminole High's choir director and teacher. She noted that music and singing is "one of the greatest socializing factors for it promotes wholesome use of leisure time. But first of all it gives an appreciation of beauty and creates spiritual values as well."

Summing it up, Mrs. St. John says that one "develops an appreciation of music by listening and enjoying good music. The Stetson Choir Concert Saturday evening provides the opportunity." Tickets to the concert series are still available and includes the concert Saturday, the Florida Symphony and the Burke Family Singers, both scheduled for March. Members may also attend the Cocoa Beach series—Rudoff Firkusny, Jan. 10; The Netherlands Chamber Choir, Jan. 30, and the Dorian Quintet, March 6. For tickets call Mrs. Troy Ray Jr. or Mrs. Bartholomew.

Just Wasn't His Day To Emerge On Top

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Being an assistant press secretary at the White House can be pretty harrowing at times, but Malcolm M. Kilduff has found out his troubles can some time follow him alone. Last Monday, the day of President Johnson's State of the Union message, turned out to be "not what I would call one of my better days" for Kilduff, the No. 2 man in the White House press office. The blow-by-blow, as recounted by columnist Bill Gold in today's Washington Post: —Kilduff had dropped his car off for minor repairs before spending the Christmas holidays on Johnson's Texas ranch. He picked it up on the way to work Monday. The bill was $164.40. —After getting to bed late that night, he heard the crunch of a hit-run driver crashing into his newly repaired car.

—He leapt from bed to rush to the window, stubbed his toe and ripped off the toenail. —Still undaunted, Kilduff grabbed his overcoat and rushed into the yard. On the way out the front door he caught the coat pocket on the doornob and tore it beyond repair. —He leaped into his car and pursued the guilty driver, only to watch the hit-run car's tail lights disappear around a corner. —Returning home, he parked on the wrong side of the street so he wouldn't have to walk across the road barefoot. He reached the front door only to find he didn't have a key, and had to break a window pane to get back in. —The next day he forked over $8 to fix the window and found out the repairs to his car would cost $107. —And his car was ticketed for parking on the wrong side of the street.

Cats And Catnip

Another of those small but nagging mysteries of nature has yielded to the persistent efforts of science. For centuries it has been known that catnip, a substance produced by certain plants of the mint family, is very attractive to cats and other felines. But ever since Darwin, scientists have been puzzled over the why of it: What good does it do a plant to be able to stimulate cats? Now, through a series of simple experiments, entomologist Thomas

Eisner of Cornell University has shown that catnip—nepetalactone is its chemical name—is an effective insect repellent. Its adaptive function is evidently to protect the plant against plant-eating insects. That it also attracts cats is just an accident of nature. From the cat's point of view, no doubt, this is nonsense. Catnip is merely proof that Mother Nature likes cats. But then cats don't know about evolution.

Ominous Talk

"We make sacrifices for the country's independence and the Vietnamese people's liberty, but not to carry out the policy of any foreign country. Better to live poor but proud as free citizens of an independent country than in ease and shame as slaves of the foreigners and Communists." The words are from the reply of Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, South Viet Nam's commander-in-chief, to American protests over the recent military purge of the High National Council, the country's provisional legislature. If this dismissal of American expenditures in blood and wealth in the defense of South Viet Nam is ignorant and offensive, its careless lumping of Americans with Communists as equal enemies of the Vietnamese people is shocking and ominous. The words also betray a fantastic detachment from reality—as if Khanh and his fellow generals could live proud and free for long were United States policy to be changed to one of abandoning these people to their own devices (but with the money still flowing in). Evidently, the bombast of this "order of the day" was directed more toward Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor than toward Americans. Khanh has since told newsmen that "we admire, like and even love" the United States. Behind the inflated talk, however, lies a real challenge to American influence in South Viet Nam—influence that can be called selfish interference to the extent that a Communist take-over would be as damaging to American leadership and security in the world as it would be disastrous for the Vietnamese people. But whatever the real meaning of the declaration, whatever the outcome of this apparent showdown between the United States and Khanh and his Young Turks, one truth will remain: The war is being lost in South Viet Nam, and no amount of American military aid and advice has been able to change that fact. Indeed, the question that may now have to be faced is whether the war can be won at all—with or without its escalation into a larger conflict and full-scale U.S. involvement. Until there is an end to Viet Cong guerrillas slashing away at the tissue of South Viet Nam, democracy cannot begin to grow in that land. But until there is a strong, popular government the people can believe in and fight for, there can be little hope of defeating the Communists. John Foster Dulles' words about Southeast Asia were spoken eight years too soon. The "agonizing reappraisal" has just begun. Thought For Today And be kind to one another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, as God in Christ forgave you.—Ephesians 4:32. Next to love, sympathy is the divinest passion of the human heart.—Edmund Burke.

Helen Fuller Says

Cash In Pocket?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If you can wait six months, or a little longer, to buy new furs, jewelry, cosmetics or leather goods, they are likely to melt less than they do now. The President plans to ask the new Congress to repeal the federal tax on these items. (But not on tobacco, liquor or gasoline, so don't let your hopes soar too high.)

This is part of the Johnson Administration's plan to keep the country in at least its present state of prosperity in the future. Business forecasters see a rosy beginning for 1965, but have some fear of a dip in the economy in the second half of the year. These doubts stem from the fact that the boost given in consumer spending by the income tax cut last year may have lost its force by mid-1965.

The reduction in income withholding taxes that powered the 1964 upswing was a one-time only cut that will not be repeated in 1965.

The stimulus the income tax cut gave to the economy has almost worn out.

An added problem is the mounting flood of young people reaching working age. So many boys and girls will be seeking their first jobs during 1965 that the national unemployment rate is not likely to fall below the current five per cent level unless further steps are taken to speed growth in the economy.

The cautious Morgan Guaranty Trust Company estimates that $6 billion worth of new purchasing power is needed in the next year. The President plans to recommend to Congress ways of putting about that sum into the pockets of customers.

The cuts in federal excise taxes, still in force from World War II days may amount to about $2 billion. By lowering the price of the items thus freed from tax, the government would hope to encourage consumers to spend for other goods that would lead to increased production.

Another $4 billion economic shot-in-the-arm would come from increased Social Security benefits and federal expenditures for highways and other projects that consume materials and create jobs, according to the President's plan.

The figures thus far are still tentative—until Johnson has finally determined how much he can save from other parts of the budget to invest in this sector—and until we move further into the new year and can better judge how strong a stimulus the economy requires to continue functioning at least at its present stage of prosperity.

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA)—There has now been time for experts to make a thorough study of the operations of Swedish Soviet agent Col. Stig Wennerstrom. These studies are alarming. They reveal an unexpected high degree of Soviet "professionalism" in competence in sophisticated agent operations. They also disclose weaknesses in American military-industrial security.

It was made abundantly clear from the Wennerstrom operations that the Soviets have come a long way from the spying techniques of the Whittaker Chambers and Alger Hiss days.

These common American security weaknesses were disclosed by the Wennerstrom testimony.

First—Wennerstrom and his Soviet handlers had a tendency by Americans to highly classify many items of little or no use to the Russians and to unduly classify or leave in the clear many items the Reds considered of prime intelligence interest.

This less-than-perfect system of classification, of course, makes life easier for Soviet agents Wennerstrom took full advantage of it.

Second—Wennerstrom noted that in many places men handling secret information tended to take his word that he was entitled to have access to secret material. Apparently he was not asked for documentary proof. Seemingly, some of these men gave him information without checking with Pentagon or State Department security men.

Third—There seems to be a tendency among higher governmental and company officials to be more lax in security than lower officials. If a top man met Wennerstrom under the right circumstances socially, he frequently was automatically considered O.K.

Fourth—Among the men and women Wennerstrom met, there seemed to be a tendency to believe that if a man wasn't a Communist, then he couldn't be a spy.

There apparently have been so many stories about the kind of people who supposedly spy for the Russians that it is difficult for some Americans to conceive of a socially acceptable, conservative spy posing as a colonel from a fine country like Sweden actually being a spy.

Wennerstrom apparently was spying for excitement, for money or in revenge for having been passed over for promotion—or for a combination of all three of these reasons.

Fifth—There seems to be a weakness in the way that U.S. and Allied officers transport classified material in foreign countries. It seems from the Wennerstrom testimony that if the Russians know a particular man is carrying a document they want, they have good techniques for securing that document, copying and returning it without the officer's knowledge about it.

The Reds seemed in cases cited by Wennerstrom to be able to accomplish this, theft whether the officer was carrying the document on his person or in a diplomatic pouch. How they did this is not disclosed in the Wennerstrom unclassified testimony.

Some experts in the security field now favor classifying less material, then making certain that security precautions are tightened on what's left.

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Terry is developing an inferiority complex that makes him dislike school. His parents are partly to blame for they let him persist in childish speech habits, thinking he sounded "cute." Send for the booklet below and teach your child correct enunciation.

CASE U-417: Terry B., aged 6, is a brilliant boy.

"But he is withdrawing from his classmates," his worried parents informed me.

"Ever since kindergarten, he has had trouble pronouncing certain words.

"For example, he can't say 'rooster' for he always call it 'wooster'."

"And he also lisps, for he will ask: 'Wh it time for thupper?'"

"Dr. Crane, we may be at fault, for we thought it was cute to hear him make these errors, but now he is developing a complex over the fact his playmates tease him.

"So how can we correct his speech quickly?"

For five years I served as research psychologist with the National Research Council and the Carnegie Institution, helping correct speech and hearing disorders.

For three of those years I was stationed at Gallaudet College for the Deaf at Washington, D. C.

The other two years I was at Smith College, but working on the children at the Clarke School for the Deaf.

At Gallaudet, the students were of college age. They used finger spelling in the classroom, but resorted to the sign language for their social conversation on the campus.

For sign language is much faster than the laborious finger spelling via the manual alphabet illustrated in your dictionary.

At Clarke School the teachers deal with youngsters of grade school age and teach them how to hold their lips, tongue and teeth in order to speak distinctly.

In your home teaching, it is helpful to employ a mirror so the child can watch his own lips.

Lisping can often be corrected quickly. Insert a lead pencil between the child's teeth.

Let him bite down thereon but keep his tongue under the lead pencil.

Then, with lips parted, have him exhale and he will utter the "oo" sound.

For the lisping child simply lifts the tip of his tongue against the base of his upper front teeth.

If he now holds it down on the floor of his mouth, as he will while it is underneath the pencil, he automatically will correct his lisping.

As regards the common childish mistake of saying "wooster" for "rooster," he can often eliminate this mistake quickly.

For example, I asked Terry to say "err-r-r" and prolong the sound.

He had no difficulty doing so, thus showing he could utter the "r."

So I would have him say "err-r-r" and then glide over into the "rooster."

He did it perfectly. So I would shorten the interval between the "err-r-r" and the final "rooster."

Within 10 minutes, he was saying "rooster" perfectly, and had thus eliminated one of the major causes for his social inferiority complex.

Use the mirror and let your child watch himself as he says "Ah-Aw-O-OO-E," in that order.

He will find that his mouth opens widest at "Ah" and keeps closing slightly on each of the next sounds.

So send for my booklet "How to Correct Stuttering and Lisping," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

Why bother with those with whom you have to argue all the time?

AQUARIUS (January 22 to February 19)—Being more fundamental, practical with home ties gets far better results than talking imaginatively. Buy the items of comfort they will appreciate. Learn to enjoy life more yourself.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—No better day than this to be with congenial to finish old ventures you have started. Things can be far easier for you now. You have the insight to know what is transpiring.

YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will do well in whatever profession deal with large sums of money, property, real estate, etc. A very fine spiritual training is very important here, otherwise the making of money will become an obsession excluding everything else and true happiness will not be enjoyed in this life. The stars suggest, they do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Carroll Nighter's individual forecast for your sign for February is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1.00 to Carroll Nighter, Four East, The Bedford Herald, Box 1211, Hollywood 13, California.

Citation Cited As Top Horse

HALEAH (UPI)—A nationwide poll of sports writers and commentators by Hialeah Race Course showed that Citation is considered the top horse of the past four decades.

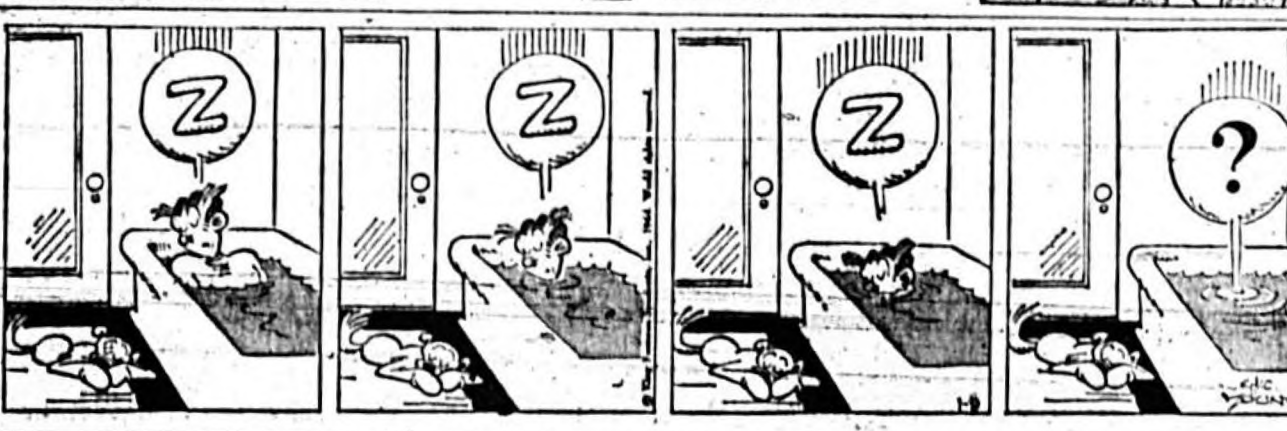

The track said the poll also showed Eddie Arcaro to be considered the top rider, Mrs. Gene Markey's Calumet Farm the top owner, and Jim Fitzsimmons as the No. 1 trainer.

Financial Aid
NICOBIA, Cyprus (UPI)—The predominantly Greek government of Cyprus announced it would help finance the resettlement of Turks who wish to return to their homes.

Nancy's lonely. Nobody bothers with her much these days. Mommy's always sad and upset. And when Daddy's home, the quarreling and shouting make Nancy so frightened that she hides. She couldn't put it into words, but she knows that her safe little world has fallen to pieces.

The number of broken homes grows every year. Mutual affection and mutual interests are good reasons for marriage, but they are not enough. Our ancestors used to hang the framed words "God Bless Our Home" over the mantel because they knew that He must be a member of every closely knit family circle.

No matter how difficult a marital problem may seem, it can be solved with God's help.

Church membership and regular church attendance do much to strengthen and enrich family ties. Bring your family this Sunday. Every member, from the oldest to the youngest, will be welcome.

Cats And Catnip

Another of those small but nagging mysteries of nature has yielded to the persistent efforts of science. For centuries it has been known that catnip, a substance produced by certain plants of the mint family, is very attractive to cats and other felines. But ever since Darwin, scientists have been puzzled over the why of it: What good does it do a plant to be able to stimulate cats?

Now, through a series of simple experiments, entomologist Thomas

Eisner of Cornell University has shown that catnip—nepetalactone is its chemical name—is an effective insect repellent. It is adaptive function is evidently to protect the plant against plant-eating insects. That it also attracts cats is just an accident of nature. From the cat's point of view, no doubt, this is nonsense. Catnip is merely proof that Mother Nature likes cats. But then cats don't know about evolution.

Ominous Talk

"We make sacrifices for the country's independence and the Vietnamese people's liberty, but not to carry out the policy of any foreign country. Better to live poor but proud as free citizens of an independent country than in ease and shame as slaves of the foreigners and Communists." The words are from the reply of Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, South Viet Nam's commander-in-chief, to American protests over the recent military purge of the High National Council, the country's provisional legislature. If this dismissal of American expenditures in blood and wealth in the defense of South Viet Nam is ignorant and offensive, its careless lumping of Americans with Communists as equal enemies of the Vietnamese people is shocking and ominous. The words also betray a fantastic detachment from reality—as if Khanh and his fellow generals could live proud and free for long were United States policy to be changed to one of abandoning these people to their own devices (but with the money still flowing in). Evidently, the bombast of this "order of the day" was directed more toward Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor than toward Americans. Khanh has since told newsmen that "we admire, like and even love" the United States. Behind the inflated talk, however, lies a real challenge to American influence in South Viet Nam—influence that can be called selfish interference to the extent that a Communist take-over would be as damaging to American leadership and security in the world as it would be disastrous for the Vietnamese people. But whatever the real meaning of the declaration, whatever the outcome of this apparent showdown between the United States and Khanh and his Young Turks, one truth will remain: The war is being lost in South Viet Nam, and no amount of power juggling in Saigon and no amount of American military aid and advice has been able to change that fact. Indeed, the question that may now have to be faced is whether the war can be won at all—with or without its escalation into a larger conflict and full-scale U.S. involvement. Until there is an end to Viet Cong guerrillas slashing away at the tissue of South Viet Nam, democracy cannot begin to grow in that land. But until there is a strong, popular government the people can believe in and fight for, there can be little hope of defeating the Communists. John Foster Dulles' words about Southeast Asia were spoken eight years too soon. The "agonizing reappraisal" has just begun.

Thought For Today
And be kind to one another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, as God in Christ forgave you.—Ephesians 4:32.

Next to love, sympathy is the finest passion of the human heart.—Edmund Burke.

Helen Fuller Says

Cash In Pocket?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — goods, they are likely to cost less than they do now. The President plans to ask the new Congress to repeal the federal tax on these items (but not on tobacco, liquor or gasoline, so don't let your hopes soar too high).

This is part of the Johnson Administration's plan to keep the country in at least its present state of prosperity in the future. Business forecasters see a rosy beginning for 1965, but have some fear of a dip in the economy in the second half of the year. These doubts stem from the fact that the boost given to consumer spending by the income tax cut last year may have lost its force by mid 1965.

The reduction in income withholding taxes that powered the 1964 upswing was a one-time only cut that will not be repeated in 1965.

The stimulus the income tax cut gave to the economy has almost worn out.

An added problem is the mounting flood of young people reaching working age. So many boys and girls will be seeking their first jobs during 1965 that the national unemployment rate is not likely to fall below the current five per cent level unless further steps are taken to speed growth in the economy.

The cautious Morgan Guaranty Trust Company estimates that $5 billion worth of new purchasing power is needed in the next year. The President plans to recommend to Congress ways of putting about that sum into the pockets of customers.

The cuts in federal excise taxes, still in force from World War II days, may amount to about $2 billion. By lowering the price of the items thus freed from tax, the government would hope to encourage consumers to spend for other goods that would lead to increased production.

Another $4 billion economic shot-in-the-arm would come from increased Social Security benefits and federal expenditures for highways and other projects that consume materials and create jobs, according to the President's plan.

The figures thus far are still tentative—until Johnson has finally determined how much he can save from other parts of the budget to invest in this sector—and until we move further into the new year and can better judge how strong a stimulus the economy requires to continue functioning at least at the present stage of prosperity.

GENERAL APATHY

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There has now been time for experts to make a thorough study of the operations of Swedish Soviet agent Col. Stig Wennerstrom.

These studies are alarming. They reveal an unexpectedly high degree of Soviet "professionalism" (competence) in sophisticated agent operations. They also disclose weaknesses in American military-industrial security.

It was made abundantly clear from the Wennerstrom operations that the Soviets have come a long way from the spying techniques of the Whittaker Chambers and Alger Hiss days.

These common American security weaknesses were disclosed by the Wennerstrom testimony:

First — Wennerstrom and Soviet chiefs noted a tendency by Americans to highly classify many items of little or no use to the Russians and to under-classify or leave in the clear many items the Reds considered of prime intelligence interest.

This less-than-perfect system of classification, of course, makes life easier for Soviet agents. Wennerstrom took full advantage of it.

Second — Wennerstrom noted that in many places men handling secret information tended to take his word that he was entitled to have access to secret material. Apparently he was not asked for documentary proof. Seemingly, some of these men gave him information without checking with Pentagon or State Department security men.

Third — There seems to be a tendency among higher governmental and company officials to be more lax in security than lower officials. If a top man met Wennerstrom under the right circumstances socially, he frequently was automatically considered O.K.

Fourth — Among the men and women Wennerstrom met, those seemed to be a tendency to believe that if a man wasn't a Communist, then he couldn't be a spy.

There apparently have been so many stories about the kind of people who supposedly spy for the Russians that it is difficult for some Americans to conceive of a socially acceptable, conservative-looking person being a spy.

Some experts in the security field now favor classifying less material, then making certain that security precautions are tightened on what's left.

country like Sweden actually being a spy.

Wennerstrom apparently was spying for excitement, for money or in revenge for having been passed over for promotion—or for a combination of all three of these reasons.

Fifth — There seems to be a weakness in the way that U. S. and Allied officers transport classified material in foreign countries. It seems from the Wennerstrom testimony that if the Russians know a particular man is carrying a document they want, they have good techniques for securing that document, copying and returning it without the officer-courier knowing about it.

The Reds seemed in cases cited by Wennerstrom to be able to accomplish this theft whenever the officer was carrying the document on his person or in a diplomatic pouch. How they did this is not disclosed in the Wennerstrom unclassified testimony.

Some experts in the security field now favor classifying less material, then making certain that security precautions are tightened on what's left.

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Terry is developing an inferiority complex that makes him dislike school. His parents are partly to blame for they let him persist in childish speech habits, thinking he sounded "cute." Send for the booklet below and teach your child correct enunciation.

CASE U-477: Terry B., aged 6, is a brilliant boy.

"But he is withdrawing from his classmates," his worried parents informed me.

"Ever since kindergarten, he has had trouble pronouncing certain words.

"For example, he can't say 'rooster' for he always call it 'wooster'."

"And he also lisps, for he will ask: 'th it time for thupper?'"

"Dr. Crane, we may be at fault, for we thought it was cute to hear him make these errors, but now he is developing a complex over the fact his playmates tease him.

"So how can we correct his speech quickly?"

For five years I served as research psychologist with the National Research Council and the Carnegie Institution, helping correct speech and hearing disorders.

For three of those years I was stationed at Gallaudet College for the Deaf at Washington, D. C.

The other two years I was at Smith College, but working on the children at the Clarke School for the Deaf.

At Gallaudet, the students were of college age. They used finger spelling in the classroom, but resorted to the sign language for their social conversation on the campus.

For sign language is much faster than the laborious finger spelling via the manual alphabet illustrated in your dictionary.

At Clarke School the teachers deal with youngsters of grade school age and teach them how to hold their lips, tongue and teeth in order to speak distinctly.

In your home teaching, it is helpful to employ a mirror so the child can watch his own lips.

Lisping can often be corrected quickly. Insert a lead pencil between the child's teeth. Let him bite down thereon but keep his tongue under the lead pencil.

Then, with lips parted, have him exhale and he will utter the "s" sound.

For the lisping child simply lifts the tip of his tongue against the base of his upper front teeth.

If he now holds it down on the floor of his mouth, as he will while it is underneath the pencil, he automatically will correct his lisping.

As regards the common childish mistake of saying "wooster" for "rooster," he can often eliminate this mistake quickly.

For example, I asked Terry to say "err-r-r" and prolong the sound.

He had no difficulty doing so, thus showing he could utter the "r."

So I would have him say "err-r-r" and then glide over into the "rooster."

He did it perfectly. So I would shorten the interval between the "err-r-r" and the final "rooster."

Within 10 minutes, he was saying "rooster" perfectly and had thus eliminated one of the major causes for his social inferiority complex.

Use the mirror and let your child watch himself as he says "Ah-Aw-O-O-O E," in that order.

He will find that his mouth opens widest at "Ah" and keeps closing slightly on each of the next sounds.

So send for my booklet "How to Correct Stuttering and Lisping," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

Nancy's lonely. Nobody bothers with her much these days. Mommy's always sad and upset. And when Daddy's home, the quarreling and shouting make Nancy so frightened that she hides. She couldn't put it into words, but she knows that her safe little world has fallen to pieces.

The number of broken homes grows every year. Mutual affection and mutual interests are good reasons for marriage, but they are not enough. Our ancestors used to hang the framed words "God Bless Our Home" over the mantel because they knew that He must be a member of every closely knit family circle.

No matter how difficult a marital problem may seem, it can be solved with God's help.

Church membership and regular church attendance do much to strengthen and enrich family ties. Bring your family this Sunday. Every member, from the oldest to the youngest, will be welcome.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and citizenship. It is a storehouse of moral values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Dock Walkout Cost Daily Is $25 Million

NEW YORK (UPI) — Atlantic and Gulf Coast longshoremen went on strike today out of fear of automation, hamstringing the U. S. maritime industry and costing the nation's economy an estimated $25 million a day.

The walkout of 60,000 cargo handlers closed ports from Maine to Texas, leaving scores of ships either marooned at their piers or at sea with no way to discharge their cargo.

Forty ships, including the luxury liner United States with 1,013 persons aboard, were due to dock in the port of New York after today.

The dockers walked out at 12:01 a. m. contrary to the advice of their highest union leaders. Few pickets appeared immediately but officials of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) said they would be out in force later in the day and the thousands of tons of cargo which normally would be handled will not be touched.

Assistant Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds Jr. who had mediated the automation-centered dispute between the ILA and shippers for seven months, returned to Washington to report on the situation to President Johnson and the Labor Department.

Reynolds said after meeting with the shippers' 14-member negotiating team Sunday that they had voted unanimously to seek compulsory arbitration.

"They had no other direction in which to go," he said.

Alexander P. Chopin, chief negotiator for the New York Shipping Association (NYSA), said, however, "Presently we do not plan to contact the President." The NYSA said Saturday the President would be asked, through Congress, to intervene.

As to the shippers' position on the stalemated bargaining, Chopin said "there is no possibility that we will give them more than has been offered."

Bandmaster Ernest Cowley of Seminole High will be the guest speaker at the Monday meeting of the Sanford-Seminole Art Association. Cowley will talk about the relationship of art and music, says Helen DeWitt, SSAA representative. It's at the Cultural Arts Building on Fifth Street at 7:30 p. m.

Altamonte Man Dies Under Train
A 45-year-old Altamonte Springs man, Arthur Benton, was killed early Saturday morning when he was run over by an Atlantic Coast Line passenger train.

County Judge Karlisle Housholder said Benton fell between the tracks in Altamonte Springs and his legs were severed. Assisting in the investigation was Deputy Ted Lewis.

Harper, Brown Head New Trade Groups

E. C. Harper Jr. and Art Brown were named to head up the two divisions of the new Greater Sanford Board of Commerce during the first meeting of the organization's board of directors at the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Harper will head the Sanford merchants division and Brown will lead the business and professional division.

The organization, recently established by the senior trade body with DeWitt Matthews as general chairman, is scheduled to be on hand tonight at the City Commission meeting to hear the report on the proposed marina which will be made by engineers of the firm, Maurice Connell and Associates of Miami.

Serving with Harper in the merchants division will be Fred Wilson, Miss Doris Fleming, F. E. Roumillat Jr., Charles Robinson and Bernard Jaffe. Those associated with Brown in the business and professional division will be Tommy Speer, Dr. Tom Larsen, Julian Stenstrom, John Mercer and George Mills.

The group by common consent agreed to back the efforts being made by the Chamber to accomplish the metropolitan telephone system.

North Belted By Blunderbuss
By United Press
A blunderbuss storm that belted much of the Appalachians and Ohio Valley with heavy snow during the weekend swept into New England today.

The weather bureau warned of up to 10 inches of fresh snow.

Roads were snow-packed and icy from Kentucky and Pennsylvania into central New England. The storm hampered travelers at New York City's two major airports, where 225 flights were canceled Sunday.

Editorial Comment Target Is In Sight

There's gold in the St. Johns River and Lake Monroe. It's been there for centuries.

But it may not stay hidden much longer.

This city is setting up a treasure hunt never before seen in its varied history. The leaders are leaving nothing to chance. They're preparing for the windfall in every conceivable fashion.

They have top plotters mapping out each and every step of the way to the gold. They have other experts arranging for the financing of the hunt. The search will be costly, but the yield will be many times greater.

Many people have known of the hidden gold. Some have made modest efforts to get it. But they haven't put the necessary effort, the necessary money in their ventures.

They tried to find it with good intentions. They failed. The failures have dominated the thinking of citizens for many, many years. They know gold existed in the water. But they shied away from going all the way to get it.

The dreamers hunted it in their minds. But they didn't organize for the historic search. Their search was haphazard.

But no more.

Sanford officials are getting into high gear for the hunt.

Their target is in sight.

They call it a Riverport Marina and they need all the help, all the moral support each of us can give.

KEN MCINTOSH

Court House Annex Proposal Revived

By Jane Casselberry

Local bills the Seminole County legislative delegation will be requested by the County Commission to present before the 1965 Legislature were revealed by newly elected Commission Chairman John Alexander for civic classes at South Seminole Junior High School.

Guest speaker for students taught by Mrs. Jo Ann Rowe, Alexander pointed out that since commissioners can pass no new ordinances or controls, among those they will ask the delegation to introduce in the 1965 Legislature will be: (1) An act to permit location of court house facilities in other parts of the county in addition to those in Sanford, the county seat; (2) an act to provide speed limits and safety controls on the waterways; and (3) one to permit the county to lease equipment to volunteer fire departments.

In other parts of his talk he outlined functions and limitations of the board and various county officials and explained how the annual budget is prepared.

Alexander was first in a series of guest lecturers who will be invited to speak before the students in an effort to make their study of government more meaningful. Following his talk he was barraged with questions on many subjects including permits for firearms, tax raises, the two-party political system and the roads department.

Ken McIntosh To Be Honored
City commissioners tonight will present a resolution of appreciation to former municipal judge Kenneth McIntosh at the commission meeting in City Hall.

McIntosh resigned his post with the city to assume the office of county prosecutor.

In other action the City Commission will consider appointing a community action committee as suggested last week by Marvin Meltzer. His plan would be the start of special schools in the area to teach the unemployed various trades needed in this community.

The Zoning and Planning Commission will present a recommendation to allow apartment buildings in C-1 areas and to zone the newly annexed area at 27th Street and French Avenue to R-1.

Truck Overtakes, 7 Persons Hurt

A Plymouth Citrus Growers Association truck, loaded with a score of fruit pickers, overturned late this morning on SR 431 south of Forest City near the Orange County line.

The identity of the injured could not be determined but State Trooper Tommy Tomlinson said that six or seven of the passengers on the truck appeared to be seriously injured.

The driver of the vehicle told police that the truck went out of control on a curve and flipped over, spilling those who were riding on the bed of the truck.

Six Airmen Lost At Wake Island
HONOLULU (UPI) — Air and surface vessels searched the ocean around Wake Island today for signs of the six crewmen aboard a four-engine Air Force transport plane which crashed and burned just seconds after takeoff.

The crewmen included Capt. Arthur F. Wiegand, 30, aircraft commander, son of Mrs. Jacqueline V. Wiegand, Clearwater, Fla.

Driver Charged
A motorist identified as Charles W. Dooly, of Lake Mary, was charged with reckless driving early Sunday after his car struck a utility pole at 24th Street and French Avenue. He is also charged with defacing and destroying public property.

City To Air Plan Today

By Harry I. Johnson

Central Florida boaters—an estimated 50,000 of them—are looking to the progress of the Riverport Marina here with anxious eyes. The reasons are simple:

They put in at the launching sites in Lake Monroe now and they're limited to a half-day of travel out and a half-day travel back before sundown.

The thousand miles of beautiful river and lake shoreline is waiting for sightseers' pleasure within a day's cruise of Lake Monroe.

The typical yachting family from the entire Florida peninsula is soon to be within a half-day travel of Lake Monroe, what with the super highways being built. The shortage of a "boatel" is keeping these vacationers away from this area.

With such accommodations, multi-day lake and river travel will become commonplace. Visitors from downstream as far away as Jacksonville and beyond can visit the upper reaches of the river and stay overnight, or several nights.

The Cape Kennedy-Cocoa area has considerable boating in the immediate waterway, but that area is relatively monotonous for pleasure boating. Access to the ocean is difficult, it's believed by authorities that fresh water will be favored by the majority of the new residents of that area.

On completion of the Sanford-Titusville Canal, the entire East Coast will benefit by waterway accessibility to the Sanford area.

The opening of the Florida Cross-State Canal will also link the boating vacationers and sportsmen of the entire West Coast to this Central Florida boating center.

The City of Sanford's consulting engineers, Maurice H. Connell & Associates Inc. of Miami, have devised a master plan for the Riverport Marina. It delves into virtually all aspects of the energetic project and offers detailed data on what is considered ideal for the marina.

It dwells on publicity for the program, on advertising methods, the importance of the project to jobs and business in general.

The proposal will be spelled out in complete detail tonight when the City Commission meets in the City Hall. All persons interested in it are being urged to attend. The matter is scheduled to be the first item of business starting at 8 p. m.
