Record Turnout Predicted For Festival

By Karen Talley Herald Staff Writer

With turnout projections reaching as high as 10,000, Sanford's "St. John's River Festival" this weekend may be the largest outdoor event in the

A combination regatta, arts and crafts fair and plant sale are planned to attract visitors from across the state, sponsors say.

The 10,000 attendees projection comes from considering attendance for comparable events and estimates offered by their planners and participants, said Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Dave Farr.

The greater the response, the more economic benefits for Sanford through dollars spent on lodging, meals and shopping, Farr said.

The Riverfest regatta will be held Saturday and Sunday, from Marina Isle. Races are to begin at noon and run until about 5 p.m, both Saturday and Sunday. The arts fair will be held those days in nearby Ft. Mellon Park, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The plant sale is set for Friday and Saturday, across from the lake on the civic center patio, 8 a.m. to 5

The Riverfest is a cooperative effort between the Sanford Chamber of Commerce, the Friends of the St. John's River, the Sanford Art Association and Marina Isle businessman John Smith, who is chairing the regatta.

"It's all one big festival," Farr said. "We're planning this as a terrific weekend in downtown Sanford.

Farr also said "careful planning," including police assistance, will be relied on to handle anticipated crowds.

Indications are as many as 100 sailboats, catamarans and sailboarders will take to the lake this weekend, regatta planners say. Farr said about 160 artists and craftsman are expected in Ft. Mellon Park for the fair, which will be hosted by the chamber and Sanford Art Association.

The plant sale is a chamber beautification committee effort and the regatta is being headed by the non-profit Friends of the St. John's River.

The regatta is hoped to draw attention to the Friends of the St. John's efforts to promote the river's preservation, said the group's president. Daryl McClain. The regatta's starting point, Lake Monroe, lies along the St. John's River system.

In addition to attracting attention to the St. John's preservation, and hopefully expanding the group's membership, the Riverfest "will bring new people to Sanford, hopefully increase their interes' in the city and make them want to come back," McClain said.

All events are planned "to draw attention to the river; how we use it and how we care about it."

The lake side arts fair will feature local artists as well as those from all over the county and Canada, Farr said. Displays will provide "a bit of See FESTIVAL, page 12A

Apartments Get Go-Ahead Despite P&Z

Sanford commissioners Monday unani-mously overturned a Planning and Zoning Board decision that had denied approval for construction of a 140 unit apartment complex.

Commissioners' approval of developer Joseph Kantor's site plan came after they were told by engineering staff the project's design meets all applicable city codes, P&Z members voted 5-4 on Feb. 19 to deny the plan, based on staffs' reservations at the time, as well as several other concerns cited by board member Brent Carli.

Staffs' reservations have since been adequately addressed, Planning and Engineering Director Bill Simmons said Monday. The roughly $5 million project will be built this year on a 10-acre parcel bounded by Georgia and Hartwell avenues and 24th and 25th streets, Kantor said

Although Monday's commission session was not a public hearing, two local residents turned out to oppose the project, saying it will add to the area's existing drainage woes. The residents' assessment was disputed by Simmons, who said the project's design has sufficient measures for stormwater to run-off without impacting the surrounding area.

Street Superintendent Jerry Herman also said the city has plans this year to improve the overall area's drainage by installing new piping and drainage lines. According to comments made by commissioners as well as the residents, drainage in the Hartwell-Georgia avenue area has always been a problem, particularly near 20th Street.

Escapee Suspect In Lake Mary Burglaries

By Genie Lindberg Herald Staff Writer

An escapee from Georgia, captured after a chase in Lake Mary, is being held in Seminole County jail on outstanding warrants on various charges, and may be linked to recent burglaries in Lake Mary, which include one at the home of Lake Mary Mayor

In custody today in lieu of $10,000 bond is Christopher Mullins, 25, of 222 Lake Mary Blvd., Lake Mary. Mullins was being held for theft in a car-break-in when he escaped from the Lowndes County Jail in Valdosta,

Lake Mary police are continuing their investigation into Mullins' possible connection with at least two daytime Lake Mary burglaries in which a combined total of more than $4,000 worth of jewelry and other household items, such as appliances and a rifle, were taken. Most of the loot from those burglaries has been recovered, according to police, but some of it apparently was stolen from where the burglar had stashed it in a swamp.

Mullins, who has at least three cases from 1986 charged against him and seven since 1980, was taken into custody Feb. 23 at County Road 427 and the railroad tracks near Gen. Hutchinson Parkway by Lake Mary police who had been tracking him after responding to a 911 emergency call by a Lake Mary woman who reported her home had just been broken into. That incident occurred at about 9:30 a.m. at the residence of Robert Lindsey, 53, of 130 Calico Road, Lake Mary. Alone in the house was Kimberly Ann Hodge, 19, who apparently heard a prowler and dialed the 911 emergency number. Police responded to the scene and looked for the suspect, but were unable to locate him.

Police Chief Charles Lauderdale began tracking the suspect by exiting the house through a broken living room window, the apparent point of entry, and followed the trail to a swampy area behind the Lindsey property.

Chief Lauderdale told local workmen he encountered to keep an eye out for anyone looking suspicous and police and workmen then surrounded the area. The chief called in more men and they sealed off the area. After that, a detective still in the house with Ms. Hodge, apparently noticed the suspect See ESCAPEE, page 12A

On 3-2 Longwood Vote

Officials OK Probe Of Selves

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

In the latest political maneuvering in Longwood, City Commissioner Harvey Smerilson moved for an investigation of the background of all five city commissioners. The motion was approved 3-2. Commissioners David Gunter and Lynette Dennis voted against the probe. It is to be carried out by City Administrator Ron Waller, who is already investigating the city's police chief at the request of Mrs.

"I want an unbiased investigation, tell it like it is," Smerilson said.

Smerilson, who has been critical of Mrs. Dennis because she asked for the investigation of Police Chief Greg Manning, said he put his request in the form of a motion because no individual commissioner may authorize expenditure of city funds without a vote of the entire commission. He said asking Waller to spend his time doing something was an expenditure of city funds.

Smerilson said he wants the probe in order to "clear the air with the public." He said he wanted Waller to investigate "things that had been going on since January including violations of laws and regulations."

"I don't mind his looking into my background," Gunter said, "but Mr. Waller doesn't have the authority to bring it before the commission. It's nothing but a ploy. We meet the only requirements for a commissioner. We are registered voters, live in our district, and are over 18."

"They are spinning Mr.

They are not going to sit up there and say I'm a criminal."

Waller's wheels." Gunter said after the vote. "He can't pass it on to the police department or get court records unless there is evidence of criminal activities. "They are not going to set up there and say I'm a criminal. If they have proof let them come out with it instead of circulating unsigned letters and making lies and innuendos. They think by slinging mud, they can put us (he and Mrs. Dennis) in a position where we can't do our job. These allegations were originally made up by one individual with a vendetta and were unfounded 10 years ago and are unfounded now."

City Attorney Ann Colby advised the commission that Waller would have only limited jurisdiction. Whatever an investigation turned up he could take no action unless the commission wanted it and he could investigate only in his jurisdiction under the terms of the charter. He also would not have access to public records.

"I suppose the charter could allow an investigation, but the affect would be very limited," Ms. Colby told the commission.

Earlier in the meeting Martin Israel of 910 Alameda Drive. Longwood, said, "We've been hearing about a letter, we would like to have it read into the record about a commissioner. If there is no such letter, that's the Shaffer allegedly continued to struggle and a witness assisted in holding him until other lawmen arrived, Leman reported.

Shaffer was charged with affray, resisting arrest with violence and battery on a police officer, has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court

Lunetta was charged with affray and resisting arrest without violence. He has been released without posting bond.

Leman, who received a kidney transplant in July and returned to duty in November, reported that in the scuffle his left elbow and hand and right knee were injured. The injuries were not serious and there was no report of Mrs. Leman having been injured.

A reason for the fight between the suspects was not given in the arrest reports.

IN BRIEF

Bouncer Slashed With Knife By Man He Evicted From Bar

A man who allegedly slashed with a knife the finger and elbow of a bouncer who made him leave Fern Park Station, Fern Park, following a fight in the bar, has been charged with aggravated battery, carying a concealed weapon, use of a weapon in a felony, improper exhibition of a weapon and resisting arrest with violence.

The suspect allegedly drew the knife from his pants pocket outside the bar. He allegedly thrust it twice at bouncer Kurt David Kaufman, 23, of Orlando, who was treated for cuts at Florida Hospital-Altamonte Springs and Witnesses reportedly restrained the suspect until Seminole County sheriff's deputies arrived and the struggle with the suspect continued. The man was transported to the hospital, but refused to be treated for injuries received

Thomas Leland Hedgcock, 22, of Fruitland Park, was arrested at Florida Hospital-Altamonte Springs at 3:07 a.m. Sunday. He was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

Gunman Robs Yogurt Shop

A gunman who first asked for change then showed a gun to a clerk at PJ's Yogurt, 4270 Aloma Ave., Winter Park, took about $158 from that store's cash register.

The gunman told the clerk to lie down in the back of the store before he fled with the cash. She waited five minutes before telephoning her boss to report the 8:30 p.m. Sunday robbery, a Seminole County sheriff's report said.

Teens Arrested For Burglary, Pot

Longwood police who responded to a burglary in progress call reported finding and arresting two youths who had apparently been smoking marijuana in a shed behind a home at 436 Longwood Circle, Longwood, at about 8 a.m. Saturday.

Police reported smelling marijuana smoke in the shed and found four marijuana cigarettes and a pipe for smoking in the suspects' possession.

Arrested along with a 16-year-old boy on charges of burglary and possession of marijuana and drug parapher-nalia was David Christopher Rodgers, 18, of 434 Longwood Circle. He was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Husband Jailed For Spouse Abuse

A 64-year-old Casselberry man who had reportedly been drinking allegedly hit his wife when she tried to keep him from driving away from their home at about 1:50 p.m. Sunday. The couple's son reportedly restrained the man and called police.

When Casselberry police arrived at the home of Anna L. Banyalski, 51, they met her and her son, Allen Banyalski, 21, in the driveway. While police were talking to them the suspect came out and was reportedly shouting at Mrs. bunyaiski and yelling at the police telling them to leave.

Mrs. Banyalski told police she is in the process of filing for divorce and had tried to keep her husband from driving away because he had been drinking.

Police kept Banyalaki from reentering the home, because they feared he might get a weapon inside the home, a police report said. He allegedly continued to make threats and when arrested struggled with police.

Andrew Banyalski Jr., 64, of 508 Helm Way Casselberry, was arrested at his home on a charge of battery-spouse abuse. He has been released on $500 bond.

Driving Under Influence Arrests

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

Two Face Charges For Dumping Raw Sewage

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

Both the owner of a Lake Mary septic tank cleaning company and the driver of one of his tank trucks who was allegedly caught dumping a load of raw sewage onto private property on Oregon Avenue west of Sanford on Jan. 27, have been ordered to appear in court to face charges March 6.

Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Officer Jesse Baker reported Monday that both the owner of Sun City Septic Service, of 2040 Richardson Lane, David Gould, and the driver of the truck, James Frank Davis. of 2405 Jefferson Court, Sanford, are to face charges of depositing a deleterious substance into a lake, river or stream and creating a nuisance injurious to public

They were both served with summonses Feb. 24, but were not jailed while awaiting a hearing, Baker said.

The site where Davis was allegedly caught dumping about 2,500 gallons of raw sewage taken from septic tanks is about 30 feet from two drainage canals that lead to the St. Johns River, Baker said, and that resulted in the first charge. The sewage, Baker said, could wash into the nearby river.

Tests on sewage samples taken from that site showed the dumping was of untreated human waste and no authorization had been given to dispose of sewage in that way or at that site, which belongs to Howard Pomp. Pomp has not been linked to the waste disposal in any way and officials have accused Davis of trespassing on Pomp's property, but he has not been charged with trespassing.

Davis was spotted by Norman Kenneth Mims, 44, of 755 Oregon Avc., Lake Monroe, at about 3 p.m. Jan. 27 as Davis was allegedly emptying the tanker truck on Pomp's property. Mims flagged down a passing Florida Higway Patrol trooper who confronted Davis and called Seminole County sheriff's deputies, game wardens and health department and environmental services inspectors to the scene.

Davis reportedly said that site was just one of several unauthorized locations where Gould had allegedly ordered him to dump the sewage he cleaned from septic tanks during his four months as a driver for that company, Game and Fish Commission Investigator Michael Wiwi said.

Other sites named were Lukas Nursery and a field across from Jones Electric Supply, Co., Sanford Avenue in Sanford.

The investigation was conducted by Baker and Wiwi, because of the possible impact of the dumping on the environment.

Storm Lingers In Northeast

International

The last vestiges of a destructive storm system blamed for 21 weekend deaths lingered over the Northeast today, spreading snow from New York and New England to Michigan.

Light snow dusted upstate and western New York, northern and central New Michigan, the National Weather Service said. Rain and snow fell in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania.

Winds clocked at 30 mph blew snow into 2-foot drifts in parts of Michigan, but the storin was expected to lose whatever punch it had left later

"It's hanging in there, but it's going to be just about over by the morning hours. weather service forecaster Pete Reynolds said. He said slight accumulations of more snow were likely today in parts of New England and New York. In the West, rain doused the northern half of the Pacific Coast and parts of the northern Plateau. Quillayute, Wash., received more than an inch of rain. The 1.42 inches that fell at Astoria, Ore., Monday act a new rainfall record for the date.

The storm in the Northeast dumped up to 9 inches of snow in western Maine Monday. Slickened roads in northern New England caused scores of morning rush-hour fender benders and prompted school officials in New Hampshire to delay the start of classes, in New York, about 200 residents were evacuated from homes along Cattaraugus Creek in the Chautauqua County community of Sunset Bay, as up to 2 feet of water flowed through the neighborhood. Residents were permitted to return to their homes at midday, after gusty 30 mph winds shifted, moving an ice jam at the mouth of the creek.

"The wind shifted and allowed the ice to flow out into the lake (Erie) and everything cleared up," said Robert Kladke, chief of the Sunset Bay Volunteer Fire Company.

The stormy weather during the weekend was blamed for 21 deaths, including seven from a England and northern upper /massive tornado in southeastern Mississippi that injured 145 others and caused as much as $25 million in damage.

Up to $50 million in federal disaster aid may be needed for victims of a tornado that killed seven people, injured 145 and left more than a thousand homeless amid growing fears of a tetanus outbreak, officials in Laurel, Miss. said. Tetanus shots were ordered

Monday for those who suffered any kind of cut or abrasion during the weekend storm. With all of the injured off the critical list, health officials have turned their attention to preventing disease, said spokesman Buz Tanner of the Jones County Community Hospital.

"We are in a situation where the threat of an outbreak of tetanus'is very real. Anyone in the damaged area with even the slightest break in his skin is at risk," he said. Damage assessment teams who toured the stricken area in southeast Mississippi planned to announce their estimates today. The tornado tore a 20-mile swath through Jones County about 9:30 a.m. Satur-

"I am sure we will go to the governor to ask for federal aid." Carl Carlos, Jones County Civil Defense director, said Monday. Carlos said the only question to be resolved was how much money to request, likely between $25 million and $50 million.

Welfare Reform Consensus Near

For decades, widespread disillusionment with America's welfare system has generated contentious debate between liberals and conservatives over the causes and potential cures of poverty and government depen-dency. Now, at long last, a rare alignment of views promises to produce the first extensive reform since Lyndon Johnson's "war on poverty" more than 20 years ago.

In both Washington and the state capitals, a consensus is emerging that the solution to welfare dependency must focus on work requirements, education and job training. The current system, with its institutional tendency to discourage recipients from taking jobs and becoming economically selfsufficient, must be replaced by one that stresses individual incentives and rewards Initiative.

The place to begin the overhaul is Congress, which must clear decades of federal underbrush that restricts states from being innovative. The Reagan administration has correctly proposed lifting federal welfare rules that inhibit the states from trying new approaches on a wider scale. Decentralizing the system will allow those who have been administering welfare - primarily the states - to take the lead in overcoming its chronic failings. The most promising experimentation in recent years has been occurring at the state level, anyway.

Limited forms of workfare, which requires welfare recipients to accept employment or training in exchange for their benefits, have been implemented in a growing number of states, most successfully in California and Massachusetts. Now the concept is being expanded to encompass larger numbers of the poor. The National Governors Association has drafted a reform package that required all able-bodied welfare recipients, excepting mothers with children age 3 or younger, to take jobs or enroll in job-training programs. For mothers with older children, govern-

a any-cure would be provided. Many states now are considering a fundamental revamping of the central program for the poor, Aid to Families with Dependent Children. AFDC provides benefits to 3.7 million families, including 7 million children. at a cost of about $18 billion a year. Fully half of AFDC families are headed by single mothers who have never been married; another 40 percent are headed by women whose husbands have left home.

Among the critics' chief complaints against AFDC is that it has spurred the breakup of families by providing benefits only to mothers in households where no able-bodied male is present. Thus, a poor father employed in a minimum-wage job would actually boost his family's income by leaving home, allowing the mother and children to qualify for welfare benefits that are far more generous than his wages. To remove this disincentive to work, about half the states now pay benefits to two-parent households as well.

Among ghetto teenagers, AFDC often has been seen as a ticket to independence from a tense home environment. But, to qualify, a teenage girl must have a child. Thus, some experts believe the rise in illegitimate births is due partly to AFDC eligibility rules. To correct this, some states are requiring mothers under the age of 18 to live in their parents' homes in order to receive benefits.

It is estimated that 60 percent of all welfare recipients have received public support, off and on, for a decade or more. Breaking the cycle of dependency is most difficult for this underclass trapped in a system that pays mothers to stay at home and encourages fathers to shirk their responsibilities. With experts across the political spectrum finally agreeing on these problems, there is reason to hope that solutions will not be far behind.

A Middle Name? TV But No Marquee

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A West Virginia reader who obviously spends a lot of time reading theater marquees and television credits reports that modern TV performers are different from old-time motion picture players.

"Movie stars almost always used two names - Clark Gable, Cary Grant, Van Johnson, Betty Grable, etc.," writes Tony Lolli of Waverly, who used two names himself. "They were guided by the size of the theater marquees."

"The restriction does not apply to the TV screen," his letter adds. "If you study the credits, you will see many people behind the scenes and lead actors using three names."

Tony, by the way, may be a short form of Antonio. If the nickname is spelled Toni, it usually is feminine.

What if what Lolli construes as an ego outbreak spreads to the 1988 political campaign.

During a previous campaign, when the opposition discovered that an "H" in Hubert Humphrey's initials stood for Horatio, I felt obliged to warn that a middle-name gap might

I recalled a time when it was fashionable to give a boy baby what later wine considered nicknames - Jimmy Joe, Bobby Tom, etc.

Rep. Richard Gephardt c: Missouri, the first Democrat to announce his candidacy, apparently doesn't have that trouble. My parents named me Dick. instead of Richard, probably because a Texas governor was named Pat.

We now have a potential presidential candidate called Pat, but since his real name is Marion G. Robertson, maybe he is one of a kind.

Politicians tend to use a middle initial, however. Take California, for example, to choose a state at random. Its congressional delegates include Douglas H. Bosco, Robert T. Matsul, Ronald V. Dellums and Norman Y. Mineta.

Who knows what political evils lurk behind those middle initials?

And how account of the fact that Rep. Fortney H. Stark goes by the name Pete?

When last I checked, Pete usually was short for Peter, although another declared presidential candidate, the former Delaware governor, Pierre

S. du Pont, prefers It. But there is no letter "P" anywhere in Stark's

Massachusetts may be even worse than California from one standpoint. Not only do Massachusetts House members have names like Rep. Silvio O. Conte. The governor (Michael S. Dukakis) and both senators (Edward M. Kennedy and John F. Kerry) use middle initials.

Kennedy, of course, is better known as Teddy, but that is another story. We are talking about 1988 here. This brings us to Rep. Jack Kemp of New York. Jack, which was one of my older brother's legal names, normally stands for John.

Can you imagine anyone named John Kemp having political impact? Politically speaking, he would be in the same boat with my one of my uncles, whose given names were Paul Wyman but also was known as Jack.

As the 1988 campaign approaches, let us ask ourselves this question: Was it egotism that caused Franklin Delano Roosevelt to become known by three initials, or did FDR fit better on a marquee?

JEFFREY HART

Kemp's Committed Followers

Reports of political apathy on the college campus have been much exaggerated. Rep. Jack Kemp, except for the formality of an official announcement, hit the ground running for president in New Hampshire last week and drew an overflow crowd of Dartmouth undergraduates and local citizens. It was a spirited, cheerful and committed audience. Kemp has so far trailed in the opinion polls but — you read it here first — he's going to rise. Right now Bush appears to be sinking. Dole gaining, and Kemp moving up on the outside. In the key primary state of New Hampshire, Kemp has been picking up important support from local Republican leaders, and during the next six months his potential politi-cal strength should become dramatically visible.

Kemp is the heir apparent to the conservative surge that won the nomination for Goldwater in 1964, propelled Ronald Reagan to the California governerahip in 1966 by a million votes, and gave Nixon and Wallace 60 percent of the vote against the liberal Hubert Humphrey in 1968. The conventional wisdom holds that the 1960s were a "radical decade." Well, if the breading amounts to radicalism, let's have more of it.

This political surge boiled forward into the 1970s as Nixon carried 49 states against McGovern, losing only the People's Republic of Massachusetts, and - after the Watergate-Carter interregnum continued as Reagan carried 49 states against Mondale.

Kemp's strength is that he is more than just a Republican. He is an optimist with the bouyancy of FDR and Reagan. He stresses the themes of growth, expansion and progress. He believes that policies that encourage economic growth benefit everyone, and he is prepared to carry that message into the blackest of black ghettos, including the District of Columbia. He says that he will not let Mario Cuomo get away with claiming "compassion" because so many in New York are on food stamps. Real compassion, Kemp says, means that few people are on food stamps. He advocates getting people off welfare by allowing them to earn tax-free income well above the minimum wage.

His economic bouyancy has a global reach. He sees the walls of regulation and central control trembling and crumbling in Asia and Africa - and, as prosperity spreads, he forsees greatly expanded markets for U.S. goods.

ROBERT WAGMAN

Why Oil Prices Go Up?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A recent in almost depleted fields. blamed on OPEC production cutbacks and the Iran-Iraq war - has some experts questioning whether the world oil supply has, in fact, been reduced and others suggesting that U.S. companies are taking advantage of herdlines to make more money. Supposedly the jump in price between last summer and November was the result of sharp production cuts engineered by OPEC - less oil being pumped and placed on the market translating into higher prices.

But the experts are sharply divided as to whether there have really been production cutbacks.

Last year, when the world oil market virtually collapsed, oil was selling at only $7 to $8 a barrel. This was in extreme contrast to the $30-a-barrel price at the height of the oil crisis.

By November 1986 the price of Saudi light crude, the benchmark oil price, had climbed back to about $16 a barrel, and it continued to edge upward to about $18 a barrel. where it stands today.

Saudi Arabia, which controls about one-fourth of the world's supply of proven oil and natural gas reserves, has, in a very real sense, the power to control the world oil market.

In addition, Saudi oil is easily pumped. By some estimates it costs the Saudis less than half a dollar per barrel to obtain their oil. By comparison, it costs about $18 a barrel for Britain to pump North Sea crude and as much as $25 a parrel to extract some oil in this country using secondary recovery methods decent profit even with prices hovering in the $10 range.

However, the Saudis have had difficulty controlling their OPEC

Saudi Arabia's longtime oil minister, Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, had advocated a policy of slow growth. But more radical producers like Iran and Iraq, with relatively small reserves and a monetary crisis, demanded a new boycott in an attempt to drive prices back up to the $30 level.

Yamani held out by threatening to open Saudi production and flood the market with very cheap oil. But his position became politically untenable for Saudi Arabia.

Yamani was replaced, and the Saudis announced that they would be willing to make very sharp production cutbacks - if other producing countries would go along - in an attempt to push prices up.

And what about this country's oil production? Evidence suggests that domestic production here has been cut much more than previously indicated. At the same time, more crude has been needed for the winter months to produce heating oil. So U.S. refiners have had to buy more oil on the world market - and they'll buy at any price as long as they can pass that price along to the consumer. But the public ends up sitting still for higher prices at the pump because headlines say OPEC is closing down the spigot to drive prices up.

VIEWPOINT

Congress Usurps Authority

By William R. Hawkins

WASHINGTON - As Congress intrudes more and more into arms control negotiations and African politics, it compromises the president's constitutional role as the maker of defense and foreign policy. Yet it was the failure of Congress in foreign policy that led to the Constitutional Convention in 1787, and to the framers' creating a strong presidency.

Under the Articles of Confederation, there was no president, only a Congress. Congress proved itself incapable of acting with dispatch or secrecy, or of speaking with one voice in pursuit of a long-term policy. So weak was this Congress-centered system that several states conducted their own diplomacy to fill the void.

The 1783 peace treaty with England that won the U.S. its independence was, in fact, the result of a violation of congressional orders. Congress was dominated by the charm and gold of French diplomate, and it had ordered that the Americans follow the French position in the talks. France, however, wanted to keep the U.S. bottled up behind the Appalachians. Congress' Secretary for Foreign Affairs John Jay, and John Adams. held their own unauthorized secret talks with the British and won a western border all the way to the Mississippi River.

Jay never forgot how Congress had nearly thrown away the nation's future. He pushed for a new Constitution which made the president commander-in-chief of the armed forces and gave him the job of negotiating with foreign governments.

When the powers of President Washington were challenged in 1793, Treasury Secretary Alexander Hamilton defended executive prerogatives. "The Legislative Department is not the organ of intercourse between the United States and foreign nations," said Hamilton. The Senate was to ratify but not negotiate or interpret treaties. The House was to play no role in diplomacy short of a formal declaration of war. The Framers knew that most foreign policy was conducted without formal treaties or declarations; Presidents Washington, Adams and Jefferson all committed American military forces to combat without formal declarations of war.

JACK ANDERSON

Soviets Get Embassy; U.S. Gets Concrete

By Jack Anderson And

Jeseph Spear WASHINGTON — Ever since the heyday of the late Vyacheslav (Iron Pants) Molotov, American diplomats have rarely been a match for their Soviet opponents at the negotiating table. The story of the two superpowers' half-century of bargaining over new embassies in their respective capitals is instructive.

From the 1934 American ambassador's impossible dream of duplicating Monticello on the out-skirts of Moscow, State Department officials have now reached the point where they'd just like a new em-bassy building sometime in the 20th century.

What they have, as we reported earlier, is an unfinished, crumbling concrete shell loaded with state-of-the-art KGB electronic bugs installed by Soviet construction workers. Though it may never be fit for human habitation — even by the spartans of the Foreign Service - the Moscow embassy has already amassed a cost overrun exceeding $100 million.

The State Department cheerily predicts occupation of the new embassy by 1989. But congressional critics point out that the unfinished structure is now being checked over by National Bureau of Standards experts. If they find that Soviet workmanship is below par, the whole building may have to be done over again from scratch. Meanwhile, the Soviets are putting the finishing touches on their spanking-new embassy building, high on a hill above Georgetown, overlooking most of Washington. D.C. Monticello it ain't, but then, the Soviets never set their sights so quixotically high. All they wanted was a large, strategically situated embassy compound with a view of the federal city - and that they got.

What exasperates congressional critics is that this lopsided situation was supposed to have been rigorously guarded against by U.S. negotiators. "Reciprocity" was the key word, but it appeared to lose something in translation.

A nine-page State Department report made available to Sen. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., (and examined by our associate Lucette Lagnado), stoutly proclaims that U.S. negotiators insisted on "parallel, 'brick-for-brick' progress on construction in Moscow and Washington." This insistence was supposed to be the guiding light for embassy construction when, after 35 years of haggling, the two governments agreed on mutually acceptable sites in 1969.

But here's how reciprocity worked out in practice:

- In 1970, the U.S. negotiators "began to back away from our original position," and agreed to let Soviet workers and Soviet materials be used for the Moscow embassy, Money was the main reason for this concession. "It would have cost too much to import an 'army' of American construction workers," the report explains. Using Soviet personnel has resulted in a cost overrun of more than $100 million

- In 1977, the Americans agreed to let the Soviets begin building a school, clubhouse and apartments on their Washington site "in exchange for a new American school, 14 new apartments ... warehouse space and a new dacha site." Two years later, the Soviet buildings were completed and the Americans still hadn't wrung a construction agreement out of the Kremlin bureaucracy.

- By 1985, the Soviet embassy buildings - chancery, consulate and reception halls - were completed (by American contractors) except for interior finishing work, now being done by Soviet personnel. That was the same year construction was halted on the Moscow embassy after inspectors found electronic bugs, leaks in the roof, gaps in supporting walls, cracks in the exterior mortar and other deficiencies.

IN BRIEF

Walsh, Government Move To Dismiss North Lawsuit

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A federal judge will hear arguments next week in the legal fight between independent prosecutor Lawrence Walsh and Lt. Col. Oliver North. the fired White House aide trying to stop Walsh's criminal probe of the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal.

U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker has scheduled a hearing for Monday on a motion by Walsh to dismiss the constitutional challenge to his probe that was lodged by North in a lawsuit last week.

Walsh said in his motion North's suit "represents an illegitimate collateral attack" on his investigation - which had the blessing of President Reagan and Attorney General Edwin Meese - by challenging the 1978 Ethics in Government Act under which independent federal prosecutors are appointed.

Justice Department prosecutors said they would join Walsh in fighting North's suit, but U.S. Attorney Joseph diGenova said Monday the department had not decided "on what grounds the motion for dismissal will be," leaving open the possibility the department may yet assist a challenge to the 1978 law. .

Rex Reigns Today

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) - The Crescent City, whipped to a fever pitch following a marathon weekend of pre-Lenten debauchery and the arrival of the king of Carnival, eagerly awaited the annual Mardi Gras blowout today.

The Fat Tuesday agenda featured 13 street parades, with the Krewe of Zulu kicking off the fun at 8:30 a.m. and the Comus parade completing the day's activities with a 6:15 p.m. starting time. Carnival ends on Ash Wednesday.

Lundi Gras marked the beginning of the reign of Rex. king of Carnival, who arrived at the city Monday evening by boat procession. Rex issued a proclamation calling for all businesses and schools to be closed.

Reagan Searches For Fresh Start

WASHINGTON (UPI) - White House efforts to shake the grip of the Iran-Contra scandal were in full gear today, with President Reagan casting aside political liabilities in search of a fresh start for his embattled administration.

A process that began with the replacement of White House chief of staff Donald Regan escalated when Reagan agreed Monday to withdraw the nomination of acting CIA Director Robert Gates to become director of central intelligence.

And as administration officials hinted at a possible dark-horse choice now to succeed William Casey as the nation's top spy. Reagan's political "rebuilding process" gained ground with Howard Baker moving to instill a president's new chief of staff.

Reagan will address his worst televised speech Wednesday night.

The flurry of White House action, intended to show Reagan as on the move and eager to put crisis behind him, was prompted by the Tower Commission report, which last week faulted the president and his top advisers for their handling of the policy that, despite denials, became a swap of arms for U.S. hostages.

Former Sen. John Tower of Texas, the Republican Reagan loyalist who led the presidential commission in its review of the crisis, was considered one of the leading candidates to replace Gates as the new CIA nominee. But The Washington Post reported today Tower was offered the job and rejected it. and another potential candidate, retired Navy Adm. Bobby Ray Inman, told United Press International he would not accept the job even if it was offered.

That narrowed the list of likely candidates to include retired Air Force Lt. Gen. Brent Scowcroft, the ex-national security adviser to President Ford who served on the Tower Commission, and John McMahon, another former Casey deputy.

FBI Director William Webster was not approached about the CIA job in the wake of Gates's withdrawal, an aide said.

The Tower Commission blamed Reagan's lax managechanged, upbeat mood as the ment and out-of-control subordinates for the scandal that Finally, it was announced that has engulfed the administration since November. Reagan's political crisis in a nationally speech Wednesday could be a watershed of his presidency.

"I think it's a marvelous speech," Baker said Monday, "I think it's going to be a good speech and I think it will have a profound effect on the country's perception of his role as president and his future ability to govern."

Baker acknowledged Reagan 'was damaged" by the Tower report but said, "I think he's going to grow from this point in strength and popularity and ... will resume his role as a very popular president of the United

Reagan adopted a similar optimistic attitude.

"It's full speed ahead," he was said to have told his Cabinet at a meeting about the Tower report priorities for the next 23 months a modest agenda of welfare reform, catastrophic-iliness in-surance and trade policy — he declared: "We're going to get these things done.'

Still, Reagan's determination to move ahead is clouded by concern among some of his closest advisers that his televised address will fall short of what is needed for him to calm the storm that has shaken his presidency.

It was uncertain Monday whether Reagan, as urged by friends and associates, would and its aftermath. Alluding to admit his Iran initiative was an error. Aides expect him to go beyond his previous statement that "mistakes were made," but Reagan offered no indication he would be contrite.

> Reagan has moved to address that specific perception with two major steps since the Tower report was released. Replacing Regan with Baker was the first. and Monday he accepted "with great regret" the withdrawal request from Gates.

Uproar Follows Priest's Depiction Of Saint As Gay

BALTIMORE (UPI) — An article by a Roman Catholic priest propulating so a homosexual role model a medieval saint who took ice baths to control his "carnal impulses" has caused an uproar, in the church.

In January, the Rev. Paul Thomas published an article in the Baltimore archdiocesan newspaper, The Catholic Review, about St. Aelred. Thornas wrote that the 12th century saint's "crotic attraction to men remained a dominant force throughout his entire

The article said the saint fasted and took icy baths to control his "carpal impulses ... but never considered the predeliction itself as unnatural or reprehensible."

Thomas' article suggested that homosexuals use St. Actred's example as their role

The newspaper has received letters from across the country attacking the notion the saint was homosexual. Baltimore Archbishop William Borders called the piece "way off base" and said he wished it never had been printed.

Sanford Girl, 12, Tells Of Assaults

A 12-year-old Sanford girl has told Seminole County sheriff's deputies she was knocked off her bicycle, dragged to a shed near Brisson Avenue and 20th Street by three boys and beat and sexually assaulted by them at about 6 p.m. Feb 23.

The attack was reported to sheriff's deputies Saturday and the girl has also said that she was victim of a similar assault in September. Two of the same suspects were involved in both incidents and each time three vouths participated in the attacks, a sheriff's report said.

Deputies have the names of suspects in the case and the investigation was continuing Monday.

Schools Settle Suit

By Genic Lindberg Herald Staff Writer

A Sanford woman will receive $28,400 in damages from the Seminole County School Board as a result of injuries she received when a car in which she was a passenger was hit by a school bus, board attorney Ned Julian, Jr. said.

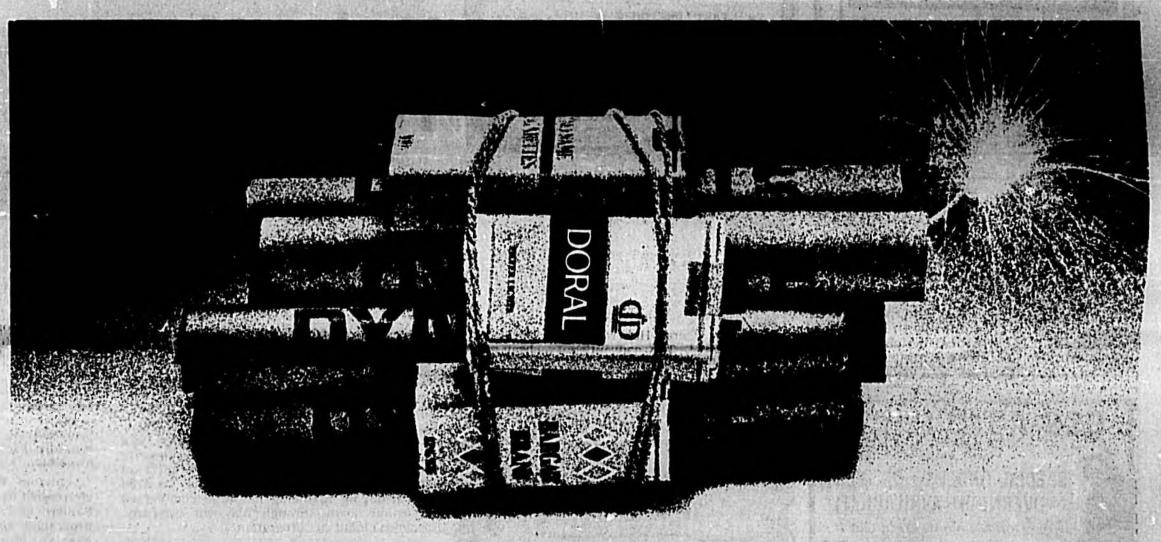

Gertrude Hampton, 30, sued the board after her wrist was hurt in the 1985 accident. Julian said he and Ms. Hampton's attorney, Ray Dalton, settled the matter out of court Wednesday. Ms. Hampton's sister, Sabrina, was driving the car when the school bus hit it, but the car belongs to their mother, Ida Mae Hampton, who Ms. Hampton also sucd. Julian said that Florida Insurance Guarantee Association would pay Ms. Hampton $5,800 in damages.

The accident happened in January 1985 when the school bus made a left turn onto Melionville Ave. from east State Road 46, Julian said. The Hampton car was headed west on S.R. 46 when it collided with the school bus and the bus driver did not see the Hampton car which was behind a large truck, Julian said, but because the driver was making a left turn, the accident was automatically her fault.

Ms. Hampton was out of work for six weeks and incurred $6,000 in medical treatment for torn tendons. Julian said that initially Ms. Hampton asked for $85,000, but the settlement will only cover her lost wages and medical expenses.

Make Moneytree Your Money Source

At Seminole Moneytree, Inc., they make first and second mortgages on homes, rental property and commercial real estate for purchase, refinance and construction. They make any type of mortgage loan and even make house calls.

Today there are a lot of alternatives and because Moneytree is not tied to one particular lender and they deal with many lenders, they are liexible and can oller many different types of Seminole Moneytree, located in Suite 202 in Driftwood Village, 549 W. Lake Mary Blvd., Lake Mary, has correspondent relationships with several conventional and private lenders, which enables them to be very competitive on the standard FNMA conventional loans.

Seminole Moneytree opened Jan. 1, but licensed mortgage brokers Gib Edmonds and Barry Barks are not new to the business or the county.

Edmonds, president of the new company, is a longtime resident of Sanford and was formerly president and director of First Federal of Seminole. More recently, he has been involved with arranging financing for large commercial real estate loans through his own company. Edmonds Financial Corporation.

Barks is Moneytree's executive vice president, who brings to his position 16 years of experience in mortgage loans. A Sanford native, he attended Seminole High School and graduated from Murray State University in Kentucky. He taught in the Seminole County School System for two years before his entry into the savings and loan business in Orlando. After several years as vice president in charge of mortgage operations with First Federal of Brevard in Melbourne, Barry ventured out into mortgage banking and has managed two national mortgage banking production offices as their regional manager.

Borrowers and properties do not always fit the rigid standards of FNMA. so we also have lenders who are more flexible in underwriting." Edmonds said. Philippines Enchants Investors

By Daniela Deane

MANILA (UPI) - Rene Knecht, a businessman financially ruined and forced into exile during the years of ousted ruler Ferdinand Marcos, has returned to his homeland optimistic he can regain his fortune.

Knecht, who fled to the United States with his 72-year-old mother in December 1983, returned to the Philippines a year ago, just one month after President Corazon Aquino swept to power in a civilian-backed military uprising.

"I've always made money here," said Knecht, who owns two downtown Manila hotels, a theater restaurant, a cannery and several luxurious Knecht left the Philippines after soldiers closed one of his hotels and one of Marcos' sisters moved into the other. He blamed the "relentless intimidation and threats" on his refusal to sell a compound of homes to make way for a Marcos highway project. "We reached rock bottom during the Marcos years. We couldn't have gone any lower. But now we're on the way up," he said. "In economic terms, this is the sleeping beauty of Asia." The question is, when will the beauty wake? Many analysts said they are convinced the country - with its educated English-speaking population, its rich mineral resources and its vast pool of cheap, underemployed labor - soon will stir out of the long slumber.

The 0.13 percent growth in 1986 - the first gain in three years - signaled the first rustlings of a reawakening under Aquino, who has made economic recovery her top priority since she came to power in February 1986. The country's gross national product last year was the equivalent of $4.42 billion.

But, investors still are sitting on the sidelines, and the grinding poverty that affects three-fourths of the country's 55 million people

"Investors are cuphoric about Aquino," said Leo P. Gonzaga of the American Chamber of Commerce in Manila. "But it's still a fear of the unknown. They're waiting for the economic climate to stabilize and things to become Gonzaga said investors are waiting to see the composition of the country's new Congress, which is to be elected May 11. Aquino's newly ratified constitution gives Congress the power to regulate foreign investment.

Gonzaga said investors also are looking for the long-awaited Omnibus Investment Code, which will regulate foreign investment in the archipelago. He said the government is determined to make the Philippines match other Asian capitalimporting countries, "incentive by incentive."

The government's main thrust, however, to attract create a climate in which businessmen feel their investments are safe and returns are "In the 1990s, the Philippines can undoubtedly be one of the newly industrializing countries" of Asia, said Bernardo Villegas, chief economist of the Center for Research and Communication, a Manila think-tank.

Although investors are not yet flocking in droves, more money is circulating within the country than in the recent past.

Coconut prices doubled over the last year, directly affecting 15 million people. Coconuts and sugar are the main exports. Transportation costs have been substantially reduced as world oil prices have fallen.

Interest rates are at their lowest levels since 1962, with the prime rate hovering at about 9

The government also has injected $620 million into the economy in the form of housing projects and an emergency employment program. The May congressional elections and local elections in August also are expected to provide the economy with extra cash. Analysis predict each senatorial candidate - 24 seats are up for grabs — will spend about $1 million to campaign.

"With that kind of money being pumped into the economy. I am very confident that the multiplier effect will create the growth that we are looking for," said Finance Minister Jaime Ongpin.

The government is predicting a booming 6.5 percent rate of economic growth this year, but much depends on the rescheduling of the nation's $27.8 billion debt.

The country recently restructured $860 million in debts maturing within the next 18 months. Ongpin said the rescheduling included a moratorium on all of the principal and 70 percent of interest payments.

The Philippines currently is negotiating with its 483 creditor banks to reschedule $3.6 billion in debts maturing up to 1992. The government also wants to renegotiate the terms of debts restructured in 1984 by the Marcos regime.

American Manufacturing Rebounds

NEW YORK (UPI) -American manufacturing, led by reorganized and visionary small companies, is strong and getting stronger despite a public perception of weakness, a study by Dun & Bradstreet Corp. concluded.

In the March-April issue of D&B Reports. the Dun & Bradstreet magazine for smallbusiness management, editors detailed what they believe to be the resurgence of American manufacturing in an article called "Made in the U.S.A.: Small Manufacturers' Sur-prising Strength."

U.S. Response To Soviet Proposal Expected

GENEVA (UPI) - The United States will soon match a Soviet arms proposal with an offer to ban medium-range nuclear missiles from Europe without making concessions on "Star Wars" research. American officials said.

A group of senators monitoring arms talks in Geneva said Monday that the U.S. proposal would stress the need to verify compliance and include shortrange nuclear missiles.

"We will soon put a draft treaty on the table." Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., said at a news conference, warning that "a limited amount of time is left" for an agreement during the Reagan presidency.

American and Soviet dipomats in Geneva also expressed the view that little time remains to finalize an agreement before campaigning begins for the 1988 presidential election.

In Washington, White House spokesmon Marlin Fitzwater said U.S. negotiators would present "specific treaty language" soon for an intermediate-range weapons agreement.

In Moscow, Soviet officials said a new summit meeting between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev depended on the U.S reaction to the Intermediate Nuclear Forces proposal and other arms issues.

Reagan and Gorbachev agreed in principle at their summit in Reykjavík last October to eliminate medium-range missiles in Europe, with each side retaining 100 such weapons based elsewhere.

But Gorbachev demanded a package deal in which longrange strategic weapons would be cut by half and space arms would be banned entirely. This last demand would have limited the U.S. Strategic Defense Initiative or "Star Wars" program for a space-based missile shield.

"de-linking" of medium-range missiles from the latest proposal. reverted to the Soviet position prior to the Reykjavik summit.

"I thought it was an old proposal rehashed but we will be glad to see it," chief U.S. negotiator Max Kampelman told reporters just before receiving the proposal. Confidentiality rules at the arms talks prevented either side from disclosing precise details of the latest Soviet proposal.

Fitzwater said the Reagan administration saw Gorbachev's statement as "a positive development, thus we welcome this apparent Soviet agreement to move forward on INF.

Quite A Night For Lake Mary: Friday, Feb. 28

For about a three-hour span Friday night, Lake Mary High School dominated the prep athletic spotlight. It was perhaps the most successful single day in Lake Mary sports history and it all occurred within a 25-mile

• In the Class 4A State Soccer Tournament at Lake Mary High. underdog Lake Mary pulled off one of the biggest upsets in state history with a 4-2 overtime victory over Miami Killian's Cougars in the state semifinals.

• In the 4A-9 District Basketball Tournament at Seminole High, the Rams came back from an 11-point deficit in the final six minutes to oust arch-rival Seminole, 71-69, in the district semifinals.

• In the 4A State Wrestling Tournament at Lyman High, Lake Mary advanced three wrestlers to the semifinals and compiled 22 points, just nine and a half points out of first place. In the soccer match against Killian, coach Larry McCorkle's Rams fell behind, 2-0, in the first half but bounced back to tie it at 2-2 behind goals by Steve Sapp and Lee Alexander to force overtime. In the first overtime period, Rick Broennie scored to give Lake Mary a 3-2 lead and Manny Roldan later put the finishing touches on the Cougars with his first varsity goal. In advancing to the state final, Lake Mary knocked off a Killian team that had won the state title three times since 1977 and was ranked second in the state most of this season. Lake Mary had never advanced past the district

About 10 minutes after the soccer game had concluded, a group of Lake Mary fans leaving Don T. Reynolds Stadium gathered around Assistant Principal Don Smith who was listening to the Lake Mary-Seminole basketball game on Sanford's WUEZ-AM radio station. Smith gave play by play of about the last two minutes of play and, as Lake Mary built and maintained the lead, the crowd grew bigger. When Smith leaped into the air when Lake Mary had won, the crowd let out a thunderous cheer to celebrate another Ram victory.

The basketball victory over Seminole High was about as big an upset as the soccer triumph over Killian. Lake Mary had lost to Seminole twice before this season, Seminole was the top seed in the tournament, was playing on its home court and had won 19 of its last 20 games.

Cory Prom hit three consecutive jump shots to get Lake Mary back in the game in the late going while Matt Napoli had a pair clutch hoops. Terry "The Cat" Miller, Oscar Merthie and Eric Czerniejewski all hit key free throws down the stretch.

The victory brought tears for coach Willie Richardson and Prom along with relief for Miller, Merthie and Bernard Mitchell, all of whom reside in Sanford but have never beaten Seminole.

Lake Mary's wrestlers. meanwhile, had an outstanding day in the first and second rounds of the state tournament led by Troy Jackson, Scott Flores and Bill Richards, all of whom made the semifinals. Lake Mary was in position for its best finish ever going into Saturday's decisive rounds.

On Saturday, Lake Mary High School came back down to earth as the soccer team put up an excellent fight before falling to top-ranked Tampa Leto, 1-0, the basketball squad dropped a 70-60 decision to powerhouse Daytona Beach Mainland and two of the three wrestlers lost in the semifinals as Lake Mary finished ninth in the state.

Richards ran into Brandon's defending state champion (142 pounds) Bret Gustafson and finished second at 149 pounds while unlimited Jackson and 109-pounder Scott Flores were both fourth-place finishers. The ninth-place finish was the best in the school's history for coach Doug Peters. While neither of the three teams reached their ultimate goals, Lake Mary and Seminole County sports fans will not soon forget the night of Friday, Feb.

Raines: No Rolls Royce For Toyota Price

Braves' Kasten, Reich Huddle In Atlanta

By Sam Cook

Herald Sports Editor Atlanta Braves President Stan Kasten and agent Tom Reich huddled Monday in Atlanta to discuss contract possibilities, Tim Raines said Monday night.

"Tom (Reich) called me told me they were meeting with the Braves." Raines said. "But he also told me not to be any more 'optimistic about this meeting than the others.

Raines said he expects to hear from Reich today and will probably go to Sarasota Wednesday to meet with Reich and his partner Bill Landman. Reich and Landman have a branch office in Sarasota.

The Kasten-Reich meeting comes one day after San Diego Padres' owner Ballard Smith said he was withdrawing his two-year, $2.2 million offer. Smith said he felt the Padres' offer was the best deal which had been proposed for Raines and to "bid against ourselves makes no

United Press International also reported Reich had publicly and privately said he will not allow the 27-year-old former Montreal Expo outflelder to sign for less than a three-year, $5.5 million contract.

Raines, however, said Monday night that is not true. "First of all, Tom Reich would never put (dollar) figures in the newspaper," he said. "I don't know where they got that from. I never said I wanted that much money."

The former Seminole High three-sport standout said he is aware that some people may perceive him as being greedy, but all he wants is the fair market price for a player of his ability.

"The owners want to sign a Rolls Royce for a Toyota price," Raines said. "I have been one of the better players in baseball the past six years and I would like to get paid for what I'm worth.

"If you look at a the market value of a Tim Raines, you're talking some big dollars. I won $1.2 million two years ago in arbitration. And the last two years I've done better. How can I not be worth what I made last year?"

Raines made $1.5 million last year with the Expos. Then, he went out and won the batting title with a career-high .334 average, drove in 62 runs and stole 70 bases. His average has improved every year since 1983. He has been selected to the National League All-Star team each of his six years in the majors.

"I am not going to set a dollar amount," Raines said. "But I would be satisfied with the money I made last year but I would also think it would be negotiable. I don't want the fans or anybody else to think I want $2 million. but how can you justify me making less money that last year?"

Raines said he realizes the free-agent market is not what it once was, but he does not believe it has changed that much. "What is the market price?" he said. "Eddie Murray is getting $2.5 million a year. Sure, the owners are trying to drive the salaries down. But they're trying to do it all at once. In two years time, they trying to turn it back 10

Although the offers have not been

what Raines had hoped for, he said he does not regret filing for free-agency and considers himself the leader of the group now that Jack Morris settled for arbitration and returned to the Detroit Tigers. "I have no regrets at all. If I had it to do over again, I would have done the same thing." Raines said. "If I would have gone to arbitration with the Expos, I

BASKETBALL Bell Captures Scoring Title, Whitney Tops Assists, Steals

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

Lake Brantley's Brent Bell wrapped up the county scoring leadership while Seminole's Andre Whitney captured two categories in final regular-season statistics released by the county

No district tournament games were used.

Bell, a 6-1 senior forward, finished with 400 points even for an 18.2 average in 22 games for the Patriots. The talented swingman was a good perimeter shooter also also picked up a valuable points by driving to the hoop and hanging around for offensive boards. Bell was also adept at drawing fouls as he attempted a county-leading 162 free throws while converting 118 for 72.8 percent. Seminole's Roderick Henderson (469, 16.2) and Jerry "Stick" Parker (455, 15.7), Lake Mary's Oscar Merthie (360, 14.4) and Lyman's Craig Radzak (282. 14.1) completed the top five.

Whitney, a junior guard, was a solid all-around performer for the second consecutive season for the Seminole Athletic Conference champion Seminoles. The 5-11 1/2 guard led the county in assists with 6.7 per game and steals with 3.7 per outing. He also pulled down an amazing 5.3 rebounds and scored 10.7 points. Lyman's Robert Thomas was second in assists (111, 5.6) and Seminole's Henderson was second in steals (78, 2.7).

In other departments, Lake Mary's Merthle came on strong to win the rebounding: Seminole's Craig Walker had the most blocked shots; and Merthie, a mere 6-1 senior center, snatched 255 boards in 25 games for a 10.2 average for the Rams. Seminole's Walker (235, 9.8), Lake Howell's Alonzo Robinson (148, 8.2), Seminole's Henderson (220, 7.6) and Brantley's Bell (160, 7.3) were next in line.

Walker, a 6-8 junior center. was a runaway leader in blocks as he rejected 91 shots for an average of 3.8 in 24 games. Oviedo's Robb Hughes (40, 1.6), Henderson (46, 1.6) and Lyman's Shawn Hester (23, 1.3)

Thomas, a 5-10 senior, was an early-season leader, then fell back a couple of notches before reclaiming the lead for players who attempted 50 or more free throws. He converted 74 of 96 for 77 percent. Seminole's Parker (81-106, 76.4) and Whitney (75-99, 75.7) were closely behind.

For players who attempted less than 50 free throws, Lake Howell's Steve Johnson connected on 39 of 42 for a fine 92.8

free-throw percentage.

Navy Earns

Navy, which failed to qualify for postseason play 24 straight years before the David Robinson era, clinched its third consecutive trip to the NCAA Tourna-

Robinson hit 2 free throws with 20 seconds left in the Colonial Athletic Association Tournament championship game Monday night to preserve Navy's 53-50 victory over North Carolina-Wilmington and give the Midshipmen an automatic NCAA Tournament berth. The triumph was Navy's 13th straight, improving its record to 26-5, and marked its third straight conference-tournament title. Robinson scored a gamehigh 23 points and earned tournament Most Valuable Player honors.

"Anytime you have won the championship twice in a row, of course there's pressure on the team," first-year Navy coach Pete Herrmann said. "But I think for the most part ... we handled the pressure.

Navy has qualified for the NCAA Tournament in all three of Robinson's years as a starter. The Midshipmen won three tournament games last season beating Tulsa, Syracuse and Cleveland State — before being eliminated by Duke. In the 1985 tournament, Navy defeated Louisiana State, then lost to Maryland. Before 1985, the Midshipmen's last postseason appearance was in 1960, when they lost to West Virginia in their first game.

Navy became the fifth team to qualify for the tournament and, later Monday, was joined in the 64-team field by Fairfield. Also having qualified for the NCAAs as either a conference tournament champion or league champion are Penn, Xavier, Marshall and Alabama-Birmingham.

At East Rutherford, N.J., Jeff Gromos scored 24 points, including short jumper with 24 seconds left in overtime to lead the Stags to a 73-70 victory over Iona and their second straight Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference tournament title.

Elsewhere in tournament play. Tulsa tripped Southern Illinois 61-56 and Wichita State topped Illinois State 56-53 in the Missouri Valley Conference semifinals; and Akron bombed Youngstown State 103-74 and Austin Peay edged Morehcad State 78-76 in the Ohio Valley Conference tournament.

In non-tournament action, Providence dumped Villanova 97-80, North Carolina State defeated Chicago State 86-78. Cleveland State downed Northern Iowa 81-72, No. 18 Notre Dame blitzed Brooklyn. 76-57 and Fresno State clipped

Earnhardt, Elliott Tie For Lead

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) - Defending NASCAR Winston Cup champion Dale Earnhardt and Daytona 500 winner Bill Elliott are tied for the lead in the national stock car racing standings after Sunday's Goodwrench 500 in North Carolina.

Earnhardt, who was fifth after the season-opening Daytona 500, moved into a tie with Elliott by winning the second race of the 29-event season. Each driver has 345 points.

Elliott, a Dawsonville, Ga., native, has never won the Winston Cup championship. His best finish was second to Darrell Waltrip in 1985. Earnhardt of Kannapolis, N.C., won the title last season and also won it in 1980.

Ricky Rudd of Chesapeake. Va., moved into third in the NASCAR Winston Cup standings with 313 points. Neil Bonnett of Hueytown, Ala., is fourth with 302, and Waltrip of Franklin, Tenn., is fifth with 293.

Rounding out the top 10 are Ken Schrader, 290; Richard Petty, 288; Morgan Shepherd, 275; Bobby Allison, 274; and Phil Parsons, 260.

Terry Labonte, Bobby Hillin, Benny Parsons, Buddy Baker and Davey Allison round out the top 15.

Nolen: Bigger Sticks To Bolster Lake Mary

By Chris Fister Merald Sports Writer

Last season, Lake Mary's defense could hold its own with anybody in Central Florida. The Lady Rams' anemic offense. though, was the major factor in a sub-par

With some added offensive firepower, and another solid defensive alignment, the Lady Rams hope to make 1987 a banner year for first-year coach Karen Nolen.

"We've got a couple mere big sticks in there this year," said Nolen, who previously was head coach at West Orange High and an assistant at Lake Mary. "We're working a lot on hitting and need to have hitters up and down the lineup contributing.'

Brooke Taylor and Marnie Frey, a pair of juniors, are the top returning hitters from last year's club while Noten is also looking for production out of newcomers Sharon Bonaventure, a junior transfer from Winter Park, and freshman designated hitter Paula

Lake Mary has a 1-3 record so far this starters Adams, left field, and Taylor, right season but was without Frey and Bonaven- center, along with freshman Terry Peters in ture the first two games. In two games, Frey has a .625 average while Bonaventure is hitting .555 with two homers and seven runs batted in. Taylor and Songer are both hitting at a .385 clip for four games. The Lady Rams will also look for offensive production from returning starters Reedy Metz, Amy Adams, Laurie Leisser and Val

Defensively, Lake Mary is solid and experienced at almost every position. The infield is anchored by Frey at second base and Leisser, a junior, at shortstop while Smith will play third and Stephanie Woodard is at first. Leiffer, who has one of the best gloves in Seminole County, moves from third base to shortstop while Smith moves from first to third. Metz, the only senior on the team, will start at catcher for the third year in a row.

The pitchers for the Lady Rams include Monica Frakes and Janice Paris both of whom have no varsity experience but have pitched in youth leagues. Frakes pitched the first two games while Paris is 1-1 with a two-hit shutout in her last outing.

Others who will contribute for the Lady Rams this season are junior outfielders Tonya Colvin, Sherry Alderson and Colette Davis and sophomore infleiders Susanne Dubrouillet and Tammy Northam.

"Our defense is as solid as last year and our hitting is improved." Nolen said. "We'll play competitive softball in the conference. I think we proved we can play with anybody by giving Boone a real tough game."

TAMPA (UPI) - The Cincinnati Reds reached contract agreements with all six of the club's remaining holdouts. Signing one-year pacts were outfielders Eric Davis and Kal Daniels, and pitchers Tom Browning, Ron Robinson, John Franco and Frank Williams.

While the Reds would not disclose the terms of the contracts, it is believed Davis, Franco and Williams signed for $300,000, Browning for $275,000, Robinson $185,000 and Daniels

ST. PETERSBURG (UPI) - St. Louis Cardinal Manager Whitey Herzog announced, John Tudor will make his spring debut Sunday against the New York Mets.

Tudor, a left-hander, was 13-7 last year and missed the final three weeks of the season with a shoulder injury.

He will be followed by Mets by left-hander Tim Conroy and right-hander Bill Dawley, who was acquired from the Chicago White Sox in the offseason.

In Saturday's spring opener, nonroster rookie Joe Magrane will start against the Mcts. Left-hander Dave LaPoint, a former Cardinal who has returned to the fold, also is expected to pitch.

ST. PETERSBURG (UPI) - The remaining 11 months of probation for New York Mets Tim Teufel and Ron Darling were set aside yesterday by a Houston Judge, who ruled that charges stemming from an incident involving the players and police officers outside a bar last July have been dismissed.

Teufel and Darling were arrested July 18 on charges of resisting arrest with violence and felonious assault as the result of a fight with off-duty policemen sanctioned as security personnel for a

Houston nightclub. The players pleaded guilty to reduced charges Jan. 26 and were fined $200 and placed on a year's probation each by District Judge Joe Kegans, whose ruling yesterday came after Teufel and Darling had completed one month of unsupervised probation. "It makes it sound as if it never happened." Teufel said after the Mets'

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) - Fiery righthander Joaquin Andujar, whose late arrival plans angered Oakland Manager Tony La Russa, reported to the A's training camp.

Carl Carlson HERALD BOATING WRITER Weekend 'Skips'

Need Knowledge For Emergencies Not all the people who enjoy boating are "weekend skippers." Many of them are "weekend passengers" Someone else runs the boat, and they are just along for the ride. But what if the skipper falls overboard or is the victim of a sudden stroke or heart attack while you are fishing 16 miles east of Cape Canaveral? Suddenly you are in command! Suddenly you need to know the basics of how to run the boat, how to use emergency equipment, how to use the radio, how to survive.

The time to learn is before an emergency like this happens plan ahead, be prepared. Ask questions about the boat and will talk your ears off, if you give them half a chance. The more you know, the safer you'll be if something unfortunate happens.

Before you leave the dock, find out of the skipper or anyone else on board is taking any amedication and what to do if there is a problem. Find out how to start the engine, and how to shift it into forward and reverse. Make sure the life jackets are immediately available, and if you're not sure, ask how to put them on. Have the skipper show you where the distress signals are and how to use them. There should be a first aid kit. Where is

Many boats are like old houses (or my garage) — there are many nooks and crannies. The skipper can find things - but can anyone else? A few extra minutes asking questions at the dock could save your life.

Keep asking questions while underway. Ask about the compass and how it works. Always be aware of your position. There is a big difference between being 16 miles southeast of Canaveral or 16 miles northeast. From time to time ask the skipper what compass heading he would take to get back to port.

Learn how to call for help using channel 16 on the VHF radio. If necessary, the Coast Guard can help you get back to port or make arrangements for medical assistance.

If you are a "weekend passen-ger" with any regularity, you will want to know more about boating. Attend a safe boating class offered by the Coast Guard Auxiliary or Power Squadron. These classes can help you become a better passenger, crew member, or skipper. For addi-tional information contact Carl Carlson, 323-9416.

BOATING TIP — Pyrotechnic Visual Distress Signals — Coast Guard approved pyrotechnic visual distress signals include hand-held or aerial red flares. hand held or floating orange amoke devices, and launchers for acrial red meteors or parachute flares.

Pyrotechnics devices have a very hot flame, and the ash and siag can cause serious burns or ignite other materials. Pistol launched and hand-held meteors have many of the same characteristics of a firearm and must be handled with the same caution and respect.

Never fire a 12 gauge flare in a shotgun — choking the barrel can obstruct the meteor and Gause serious injury. Only fire 12 Gauge flares in Coast Guard approved launchers. Be sure to keep pyrotechnic devices away from children.

IN BRIEF

Klima Notches Third Hat Trick, Red Wings Slip By Bruins, 4-3

BOSTON (UPI) - Petr Klima, whose name has surfaced in trade rumors, is making himself appealing to a playoff-contending team - his own.

Klima completed his third career hat trick with eight seconds to play in overtime Monday night to give the Detroit Red Wings a 4-3 victory over the Boston Bruins. The Red Wings have reportedly been dissatisfied with the play of Klima, 22, who defected from Czechoslovakia in August 1985. He joined the Red Wings last season and was expected to be a proficient scorer this year but struggled early. Last season, he collected 32 goals and 24 assists for 56 points, fourth-high on the team.

"Best game of the season," said Klima when asked to describe his performence. "But you never know, two bad games and I might be back again (in the doghouse)."

'At the beginning of the year, I thought he'd be a 50-goal scorer," Detroit Coach Jacques Demers said. "He struggled, but now he's getting it going. This was his best game

Rizzuto Among Hall Contenders

TAMPA (UPI) - After 30 years in the broadcast booth perfecting his trademark phrase, Phil Rizzuto is poised to deliver a heartfelt "Holy Cow!"

Rizzuto and two other former New York Yankee infielders are among the leading contenders today for election into the Baseball Hall of Fame in voting by the Veterans Committee.

Tony Lazzeri and Joe Gordon, a pair of power-hitting second baseman who were members of championship Yankee teams, also are on the candidate list that will be placed before the 18-member Veterans Committee. The committee, consisting of Hall of Fame players, executives and baseball writers, has scheduled a news conference at noon EST to announce a maximum of two selections.

Considerable support has been growing for the induction of Vic Willis, a turn-of-the-century pitcher who won 20 or more games in a season eight times. Former Phillies' outfielder Richie Ashburn, flery manager Leo Durocher and umpire Al Barlick are also included on the ballot.

Purdue Surges To No. 3 Ranking

NEW YORK (UPI) - The basketball-crazed state of Indiana has two of its major college teams peaking and a third slumping as the NCAA Tournament approaches. Purdue used three Big Ten victories to gain the conference lead and surge three positions to No. 3 nationally in voting Monday by United Press International's Board of Coaches. Notre Dame capitalized on a week of upsets to make its first appearance this season in Indiana was beaten in Big Ten games by Purude and Illinois, losing its grip on the conference title and dropping two places to No. 4.

Nevada-Las Vegas earned 29 first-place votes and 598 points to capture the top spot for the fifth consecutive week. The Runnin' Rebels, 30-1, held off a strong bid by No. 2 North Carolina, which received 12 No. 1 votes and 578 points in moving up a notch, Forty-one of the 42 coaches on the Board voted.

Yeoman Admits Cash Payments

HOUSTON (UPI) - Former University of Houston football coach Bill Yeoman admitted he gave small cash payments to players he considered in need, documents released by the school revealed.

Yeoman made his comments to attorneys hired by the university to investigate the school's football program. The information on the payments was contained in documents the university was ordered to release Monday.

During an interview with an attorney from a Houston law firm. Yeoman also said he sometimes gave money to players' parents to help with rent or utility bills. He told investigators the funds generally came from his own pocket, but that he sometimes asked alumni to contribute.

Rain Upsets Lipton Schedule

KEY BISCAYNE (UPI) - Rain upset the schedule at the $1.8 million Lipton International Tennis Championships Monday and ninth seed Claudia Kohde-Kilsch provided a mild upset in eliminating seventh seed Zina Garrison.

Despite the wet weather, Stefan Edberg of Sweden, ranked No. 2, managed to move into the quarterfinals with a 7-5, 6-3, 6-4 victory over Kevin Curren of Austin, Texas. Kohde-Kilsch, of West Germany, turned back Garrison, of Houston, Texas, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1. Other scheduled matches were washed out by the rain, and weather forecasters predicted wet weather for the remainder of the week.

Campbell Runs Second Indoors

Sanford's Clifton Campbell, a sophomore at Auburn, finished second to Florida's Dennis Mitchell in the 400 meters in the Southeastern Conference Indoor Championships Sunday at Gainesville.

Mitchell, who was redshirted last year, won the 400 meters in 46.92 to Campbell's 47.12. Mitchell also anchored the 1,600 meter relay team to a narrow victory, 3:10.09-3:10.39 for Campbell's War Eagles.

Softball To Meet Wednesday

The Sanford Men's Softball Association will hold an organization meeting Wednesday at the Sanford Civic Center's youth wing at 6:30 p.m., SMSA spokesman John Whigham said. Interested parties should attend or call Whigham at 321-8280 for information.

Oviedo Trims Osceola, 8-3

The Oviedo Lady Lions trimmed winless Kissimmee Osceola, 8-3, in softball Monday for their fifth victory in No results were reported.

BASEBALL SIZEUP: NEW YORK METS

ST. PETERSBURG (UPI) — World Series winners automatically become targets, but opponents disliked the New York Mets long before Davey Johnson's team won the NL East by 21 ½ games.

"I had some howlishly good teams in Baltimore that played with a high degree of confidence, elan and dash," says Mets' General Manager Frank Cashen, "and I saw that same attitude in the Pittsburgh teams with Stargell and Parker and the great Reds' clubs with Rose, Morgan and Bench. Take that same kind of style and put it in New York and it is perceived of as arrogance."

Cashen tried to improve the Mets over the winter. He swapped five players for San Diego outfielder Kevin McReynolds and southpaw reliever Gene Walter. McReynolds will fit snugly into the No. 6 spot, protecting Darryl Strawberry, who had more strikeouts (141) than hits (122) last season.

"Frank's been very good in improving areas we feel we need help and we definitely should be stronger that last year," says Johnson, who can't conceal a smile when describing New York's primary needs as "a backup shortstop and a reserve catcher."

STRENGTHS — Deep, balanced starting staff in Dwight Gooden, Ron Darling, B.b Ojeda, Sid Fernandez and Rick Aguilers; formidable middie of the lineup with Keith Hernandez, Gary Carter, Strawberry and McReynolds; outstanding relievers Jesse Orosco and Roper McDowell; smart, pesky table-setters in Lenny Dykstra and Roger McDowell; smart, pesky table-setters in Lenny Dykstra WEAKNESSES — Shortstop Refael Santana had 12 extra-base hits and batted .218; Ray Knight's departure leaves uncertainty at third between veteran Howard Johnson and rookle Dave Magadan; team leaders Carter and Hernandez could both slow down at age 33.

NEW FACES — Left-handed batters hit just .151 against Walter, who can pitch both long and short relief; McReynolds hit 26 homers last season and batted .339 vs. southpaws; Magadan has never hit heldw .309 in four minor-league seasons but has shown no power.

OUTLOOK — Johnson has averaged 99 wins per season in three years in New York. His combative nature won't tolerate complacency and it will take a monumental effort to dislodge the Mets.

Robertson Flubs Up, Spurs Fall

United Press International Alvin Robertson, known best for his defensive skills, committed an offensive mistake Monday night that helped send the San Antonio Spurs to a loss. With San Antonio trailing by 2 points, Robertson tried to force a pass to a double-teamed Artis Gilmore and had it knocked away with 26 seconds left as the Houston Rockets went on to a 105-100 triumph over the Spurs. "A lot of things happened tonight. There were a number of things that seemed to go wrong." Gilmore said.

Robertson, who entered play averaging 3.47 steals per game, has made the All-Star team the past two years because of his defensive prowess, and was named the league's defensive player of the year last season. Monday night, he finished with a team-high 26 points and Gilmore added 18.

"We thought the Spurs would go to (Mike) Mitchell with 25 seconds left," Houston Coach Bill Fitch said. "They decided to go to Gilmore. We were determined to make them hit a shot rather than foul and send five people to the boards. In last second-situations like that the Spurs have about five people who can really hurt you.'

Akeem Olajuwon scored 32 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to guide the Rockets to their sixth straight triumph over San Antonio.

The Spurs trailed 90-82 with 7:24 remaining after a pair of free throws by Olajuwon. The Spurs put together a 14-6 run. tying the score 96-96 on a basket by Walter Berry.

After the Robertson pass was knocked away, the Rockets opened a 102-98 lead with 12 seconds remaining on 2 free throws by Robert Reid.

Hawks 121, Bullets 91

At Atlanta, Dominique Wilkins scored 33 points, and Kevin Willis collected 26 points and 17 rebounds to pace the Hawks. Washington's Jeff Malone finished with 22 points. Moses Malone hit only 2 of 10 shots from the field for the Bullets.

Mavericks 135, Suns 112 At Dallas, Rolando Blackman scored 25 points and James Donaldson added 22 to lead the Mavericks. The Suns lost their second straight under new coach Dick Van Arsdale and seventh straight overall.

Kings 117, Nuggets 114

At Denver, Mark Olberding hit for a season-high 21 points. including 9 of 9 free throws in the fourth quarter, to rally Sacramento. Denver's Fat Lever collected his 13th triple-double of the season with 15 points, 16 rebounds and 10 assists. The victory was the Kings' third on their eight-game road trip.

Sonics 123, Cavallers 107 At Seattle, Tom Chambers scored 36 points and Maurice Lucas contributed 18 off the bench to carry Seattle past Cleveland. Alton Lister pulled down 21 rebounds and Nate McMillan dished out 16 assists for Seattle. Cleveland was led by 25 points apiece from rookies John Williams and Brad Daugherty.

Market Gains Power

NEW YORK (UPI) - Prices edged higher today in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange lasues as an earlier gain of almost three points eroded rapidly.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 3.52 Monday, was up .42 to 2220.89 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 482-402 among the 1.420 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 11,901,000

The stock market finished narrowly lower in moderate trading Monday after late selling erased very modest gains.

Smith Barney, Harris Upham & Co. "With the market at these high levels, the investor and the decision maker want to sit back and see what direction the market's going to take."

Furniss said investors also wanted to see if the market would respond to White House changes. including the appointment of Howard Baker as chief of staff and to President Reagan's response to the Tower Commission Report on the Iran-Contra arms affair, set for Wednesday night.

Upcoming economic reports also encouraged investors to stay on the sidelines, Furniss said.

The U.S. Commerce Department reported Tuesday before the market opened that the government's index of leading economic in-dicators fell 1 percent in January.

Comedian Danny Kaye Dead At 74

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Danny Kaye, whose zany television and movie comedy contrasted with three decades of raising money to help sick and hungry children around the world, died early today. He was 74.

A hospital spokesman said Kaye died at 3:58 a.m. from heart fallure.

Kaye, 74, who appeared in such movies as "White Christmas" and "Hans Christian Anderson," was admitted to Cedars Sinai Medical Center on Sunday suffering from intestinal bleeding and hepatitis as a result of transfusions he received during heart surgery in 1983, hospital spokesman Ron Wise said.

Kaye clowned his way through a series of movie misadventures. making 17 films. For four years he had his own television series, which won four Emmys and the George Foster Peabody Award. He also won an honorary Oscar in 1954 for his service to the entertainment industry and the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences' Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award for 1981.

For more than 30 years, Kaye gave benefit concerts to raise money for UNICEF, the United Nations organization that helps sick and needy children. His efforts were honored by the queens of England and Denmark.

He was born David Daniel Kaminsky in Brooklyn, N.Y., on Jan. 18, 1913, and aspired to a performing career when he was a boy. He began working in summer theater after quitting high school.

Kaye went to Broadway in the 1930s, appearing in "Straw Hat Revue," "The Play's The Thing" and "Let's Face It," among others.

He shot to stardom in his first movie, "Up in Arms." in 1944. wowing audiences with his quick patter, wild dancing and uninhibited mugging.

Kaye made such hits for Samuel Goldwyn as "Wonder Man," "Kid From Brooklyn," "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty" and "The Inspector Generai.

In 1952 the comedian formed his own movie company, Dena Productions, named for his Kaye married composerlyricist Sylvia Fine in 1941, and it was she who wrote his early material and novelty songs. But the song that brought him fame on Broadway was a number, written by Ira Gershwin, in which he recited the lengthy names of 50 Russian composers in less than a minute.

After co-starring with Katharine Hepburn in "The Madwoman of Chaillot" in 1969, he returned to Broadway in 1970 to star for a year in the critically acclaimed "Two By Two."

Kaye was hospitalized for bronchitis in 1984 after his appearance as the grand marshal of the Tournament of Roses Parade.

Randolph Scott Dead At 89

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) - Randolph Scott, whose rugged, poker-faced good looks made him the embodiment of the cowboy hero in scores of Westerns, died peacefully in his sleep, a family spokeswoman said. He was 89.

Scott died Monday at his home of natural causes with his wife, Patricia, and his adopted children, Sandra Scott Tyler and Christopher, at his bedside, his nurse said. He had been in failing health for several years.

Scott dominated Westerns for 30 years as the strong and silent hero most recognizable as a tall and erect figure who was slow to anger but quick to act when

The lanky, handsome film star also was a multimillionaire real estate investor, and was one of Hollywood's wealthiest stars, partly because he was one of the first to form his own production company and take control of not only his work, but its profits. He retired from acting in 1962 after making the classic "Ride the High Country." The role was one of the few in which he abandoned the hero's mantle. Co-starring with Joel McCrae, Scott played an aging lawman who runs a carnival shooting gallery. Critics said it was his best work.

Although Scott preferred rugged outdoor roles in Westerns and other adventure films, he was in private life considered one of Hollywood's best dressed men, and his home showed no evidence that he was a cowboy actor.

Columnist Hedda Hopper once wrote that off the screen, "Randy ... looked about as services, the family said.

Western as the Brooklyn Bridge."

Known as Hollywood's gentleman from Virginia, Scott was born at his parents' country home near Orange, Va., the son of George and Lucy Crane Scott.

Scott was educated at private schools, then attended Georgia Tech where he played football for a year. His gridiron days were cut short by injuries, and he transferred to the University of North Carolina where he studied engineering.

After leaving college, he trav-led in Europe for a year before AREA DEATHS eled in Europe for a year before returning home to work with his father in engineering and then deciding he preferred acting.

After arriving in Hollywood. Scott, a good golfer, found himself on the course with movie mogul Howard Hughes. who asked him if he was interested in acting. Scott said he was but he didn't know how to get past the studio gates.

Scott was advised to get some acting experience, whereupon he worked with the Pasadena Playhouse for two years. After appearing with another soon-to-be star, Carole Lombard, as an extra in Cecil B. DeMille's first talkie, "Dynamite," Scott was signed to a contract by Paramount Studios.

Although he appeared in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" and a few other non-Westerns with such stars as Cary Grant who became his bachelor roommate - Scott concentrated primarily on Westerns, shunning the use of doubles in dangerous scenes.

impacts on nearby homeowners, including alleged drainage and traffic problems, were among criticisms Carli levelled at Kantor before moving for site plan denial at the P&Z's Feb. 19 meeting. Commissioner A.A. McClanahan charged last week the P&Z denial was example of "too damn much personal opinion," instead of strict reliance on city building codes when judging site plans. The allegation was disputed by P&Z chairman John Morris.

In addition to city staffs' concerns about dumpster locations and site proof landscaping. Carli said the project's building materials were potential fire hazards, and too much construction was planned on the 10 acre parcel. According to city records and codes, Sanford's fire department had OK'd the plan before it went to the P&Z, drainage had already been reviewed by the engineering department, traffic flow was to be facilitated by Kantor's agreeing to pave Hartwell Avenue, from 25th to 24th streets, and density requirments for the 10-acre site allow it to contain up to 200 units.

The project's stucco and woodframe building materials are apparently not as safe as some other construction materials, but are accepted by the city's fire department, listed in the Southern Standard Building Codes and have been used for several projects in Sanford. Simmons said Monday.

As part of his response to McClanahan's charging the use of personal opinion, Morris, who voted against Carli's motion, said the P&Z feels some city codes are inappropriate or outdated and hampers its efforts to improve Sanford. The board is reviewing the city's codes to make certain changes it feels will improve them, he end of it. Is there such a letter?" Ms. Colby answered, "To my knowledge there is no letter with which the city commission should concern itself." Unsigned letters with charges and innuendos against Gunter were distributed during the campaign and again last week. At a recent meeting Bernard Linton, chairman of the Land Planning Agency, interrogated Gunter and made accusations.

Smerilson also made a motion that passed 3-2 to eliminate a $35 payment for Mrs. Dennis to attend a seminar from the list of bills approved Monday night. Smerilson attacked Mrs. Dennis for not obtaining the approval of the city commission before attending the seminar.

Mrs. Dennis said, "I will be gald to pay for it. I was encouraged to go to seminars and was told the city would pay for it."

Smerilson demanded Mrs. Dennis give a report on what she had learned. She said she would make copies of the program and her notes for each commissioner.

Deputy Mayor June Lorman, who along with Gunter voted against the motion, said, "I frankly thing since she went and Mr. Terry (City Clerk Don Terry) did give her a check to go, we should pay for it. From now on she'll know. Terry explained to the Herald today that a check had not been given Mrs. Dennis. He said the normal procedure is to give each commissioner notices of appropriate courses and seminars offered by University of Central Florida and Valencia Community College and they then let him know if they wish to attend. Applications are completed by city staff and a check is prepared for the registration fee and mailed in to the college offering the course. In Mrs. Dennis'case, he said, somehow the application and check were not sent, so a check was drawn up to send to UCF after she attended.

There are funds included in the budget for attending these courses. Terry said there is usually not time to bring it up at a regular meeting so the checks are listed with bills to be approved at the next meeting. He said he is not aware of an policy against this, but perhaps it should be clarified.

At the meeting, Mrs. Dennis again asked Waller when he would have a report on the alledged unprofessional behavior of Manning and the assessments of each city department which she had asked for. Waller said he would have the report in writing by March 6 and was aiming at April for completion of the assessment of all the departments.

Mrs. Dennis asked for Waller to report back on Manning's behavior at a Jan. 15 work seasion in an outburst against Gunter.

Words Of Love And Comfort Help Widows Bear The Pain

last month I wrote you asking for the address of a famous female entertainer. My husband was killed two days after we had attended her concert, and I wanted to thank her for adding to my precious collection of happy memories. I never heard from the entertainer, but I still cherish the letter I received from

You did not disregard my pain with cliches; instead you comforted me with simple, loving words, and ended with, "He must have been a wonderful man." Abby, I needed to hear that! Thank you.

It's clear from Webster's Dictionary definition that Webster was never a widow. The definition should be: "A frightened woman hanging onto threads of sanity, one who is totally alone, no matter how many people surround her."

I wish I could go to every widow and say, "You are not crazy, and believe it or not, you will survive this overwhelming

It took me two years to understand the words of a young widow who came to console me. She said, "You wonder when the pain will go away. Well, it never goes away completely, but I promise it becomes more

DEAR ABBY: May I elaborate on your comment to "Yea or Nay?" who wanted to know something about sending a sympathy card three months after a death. I'm glad you said "Yea." Abby, the cards received later are appreciated as much as those received in the first deluge of mail. Sometimes, more.

In closing, if there's a doubt in your mind, write or get in touch. A RECENT WIDOW

DEAR ABBY: I am a single parent of a lovely 15-month-old daughter. Her father (I'll call him Brad) and his family do not acknowledge her socially, but Brad is paying child support.

Brad plans to marry in three weeks, and says he does not intend to tell his flancee that he has a daughter to support. I feel that his flancee has a right to know before she marries him.

Would it be wrong for me to tell her? I am fairly certain that nobody in Brad's family will. If I were in her shoes, I would consider it a favor to be told. SUZIE'S MOTHER

JAZZ DANCE/EXERCISE - A total form of dance and exercise in which you are taught proper body alignment, coordination, discipline, flexibility and rhythm. You accomplish muscle toning, stamina, poise and confidence in yourself, along with appreciation for music and total enjoyment. Jane Fonda's

SLIM 'N TRIM - This exercise class is designed to achieve results in reducing body fat, toning, stretching, and firming up your body. There will be a cardiovascular workout of aerobic routines and floor exercises. Nutritional hints are provided by the instructor. This class should be taken twice a week for adequate results. AEROBIC DANCE/EXERCISE - A cardiovascular workout using free weights and learning low impact dance routines along with Jane Fonda floor exercises. Leotards, shorts, and tennis or jogging shoes are recommended by the instructor. For best results this course should be taken twice a week. BECOME INTIMATE WITH YOUR CAR - Basic instruction in the care and maintenance of your car. The students will learn about the functions of the various components of the automobile and will get involved with some "hands-on" experience on their own vehicles.

CONVERSATIONAL FRENCH II — The course is designed for those students who have had some formal study in the language. The units of study will focus on travel vocabulary, but sentence constructions, grammar and conversation will be more intense than Conversational French I. HOME LANDSCAPE GARDENING - Designed to teach the fundamentals of gardening and landscaping. The student will learn how to properly plan and evaluate home landscaping, how to select the proper plant materials, and how to properly care for them following planting, including how to maintain a lawn, how to efficiently manage water and fertilizers, mulching and winter protectin, pruning and pest control. A "must" course for new residents. DRAWING & SKETCHING -Emphasis on fundamentals of WASHINGTON (UPI) - New chief of staff Howard Baker, "acutely aware" of the style that led to Donald Regan's downfall, is sweeping into the beleagured White House with humor and openness.

Baker, who gave up his own presidential aspirations to help President Reagan out of the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal, made it clear in his first day on the job that he does not intend to assume the mantle of predecessor Regan, who was accused of autocratic rule and dubbed "Mr. Prime Minister.

Nor does Baker plan to run afoul of Nancy Reagan - the kiss of death for Regan when the two feuded over the president's schedule and how he should respond to the Tower Commission report on the Iran-Contra scandal.

The new chief of staff described the first lady Monday as a "great lady" and told news reporters he would confer with her often. Asked what they would talk about, the former Tennessee senator drew a big laugh by drawling with a grin:

"Whatever she wants to talk about." Baker planned to meet with his former Capitol Hill cronies at a bipartisan leadership session

Assuring reporters he will not overstep his role with Reagan, who was faulted by the Tower Commission for excessive delegating and shunning details, Baker said Monday: "I'm acutely aware that Ronald Reagan is president and I am not."

He also said that in his whirlwind first day at the White House, "I do not see a hands-off president or an AWOL president."

A former Senate Republican leader, Baker, 61, is a political pro who won over the press corps in his debut appearance by making news, promising they would be able to quiz Reagan soon after a long drought and displaying his own casy accessibility. His lighter touch began to dissipate tensions immediately.

His first order of business was to reassure the shaky senior staff there will be "no wholesale firings or wholesale requests for resignations." But already chief White House counsel Peter Wallison is being replaced by A.B. Culvahouse, a partner in Baker's Washington law firm, Vinson & Elkins.

Baker also tried to lead reporters away from the perception of Reagan, 76, as a president who is out of touch and whose management style led to the Iran arms-Contra aid debacle.

Baker showed up for work Monday at 7:35 a.m. EST and had a staff meeting at 8 a.m., telling reporters his first task was "to find my office." He later met with Reagan and was escorted into the Cabinet room at 11 a.m. to be introduced to Cabinet members, who stood in his honor.

"It's been an exciting day for me ... hard to believe," Baker said. "It's absolutely extraordinary. I thought I was busy in the times I won't have a bowel caused by a failure of the bone movement for a week. My marrow to manufacture blood husband says it's because I don't drink any liquids except milk with my breakfast cereal. Could he be right?

DEAR READER - Yes. Fluid is absorbed into the body as digested material passes through the intestine. The body will absorb what it needs and excrete the rest. Therefore, inadequate fluid intake can cause constipation and hard stools. Although I don't subscribe to the oldfashioned dictum of drinking three 8-ounce glasses of water a day, you probably would be more comfortable if you increased your fluid intake at all meals by drinking juices and other liquids.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I had a car accident 10 years ago and hit my left forehead on the steering wheel. Last summer I started to get dizzy spells and faint feelings that have become progressively worse. It finally was determined that I had some interference in the electrical current in the left frontal area of my brain. I'm now on Dilantin, but I am not'improving. I don't understand why this problem began so suddenly and am confused as to whether the car accident had anything to do with it.

DEAR READER - A blow to the head (concussion) can cause the symptoms you describe, because it can interrupt the brain's normal electrical activity. This consequence of injury can be temporary or it can last for several months. Apparently you are under the care of the appropriate specialist - a neurologist. He or she may want to alter the dose of Dilantin or change it to a different drug. Even though your symptoms developed nine years after the injury, they could have been caused by it. Ask your neurologist about this.

DEAR DR. GOTT - My blood condition is called "red-cell aplastic anemia." What's the appropriate treatment and how

DEAR READER - Aplastic

DEAR DR. GOTT - Some- anemia is an unusual condition cells. Because it has many origins - including bone-marrow cancer, radiation, allergic reactions to drugs and contact with doctor who suits your needs poisonous chemicals - the treatment depends on the specific cause. WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

After a laborious auction, West tion you should always ask yourself. "Why didn't he lead a heart?" Since the obvious answer is that the diamond is a singleton, you should go right up with dummy's ace. Now what about trumps? Is either opponent likely to have four spades?

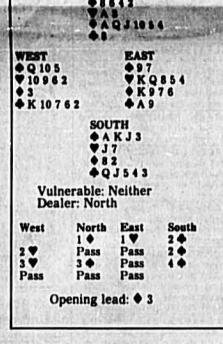

The bidding tells you that the one defender who cannot have four spades is East. If he did, West would have only one spade as well as only one diamond, and he would surely have bid more than a mere two hearts at his first turn. What if West started with four trumps? He would have remembered the rule against a defender trying for ruffs when he has extra length in the trump suit and would certainly have led a heart. What does all this mean?

Since trumps are apparently going to split nicely, you can fusing the trump finesse. Play A-K of spades and then concede a diamond trick to East. You can subsequently shed your heart loser on a good diamond in dummy. If you greedily took the spade finesse, West would take the queen, put his partner on lead with the club ace, and the king and a diamond would set you via a trump promotion. Of course, foolishly finessing the diamond at trick one would give you the same negative result.

Finally, West should be censured for his opening lead.

With a probable trump trick, he should quietly lead his partner's suit. Declarer would then be a little unlucky to lose both the diamond finesse and the trump finesse later, but he would be set in a routine manner.

What The Day Will Bring ...

YOUR BIRTHDAY MARCH 4, 1987

Exciting times socially are in the offing for you in the year ahead. You will widen your circle of friends and acquaintances, but you must be careful not to ignore old pals.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In order to make your points today. you might come on more forcefully than you need to. Soft words will serve you better than severe ones.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Should material stakes become an issue today, do not be too complacent or easygoing. If you hope to come out advan-tageously, maintain a firm stance.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Several people upon whom you are counting might not be able to come through for you today.

Don't let the loss of their support overwhelm you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

assistance to others today, provided it's your idea. However, if demands are made upon you, you might react in a contrary

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Innately you may be feeling a trifle anti-social today, but the real you will emerge, and grumpy feelings will flee once you get involved with pals you like.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Associates are apt to have more faith in you today than you will have in yourself. Focus on their positive assessments and not on your negative ones.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There may be two sides to your personality today. One is happy-go-lucky and self-assured; the other is apprehensive and overly sensitive to the slightest pro-

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)

Treat others equably today, but be careful regarding one who expects too much. He or she You won't mind lending could deplete your resources as well as your emotions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Take time to study the motives behind your mate's behavior before rendering judgment to-day. You may not think so harshly of him or her if you know all the facts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You won't mind attending to chores today if you also do tasks that you find gratifying. Create a happy, productive balance. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A social involvement with friends today could get a little disorganized. Take control if you think you can run things better.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Guard against tendencies today to set unrealistic goals for yourself. If you are reasonable about what you hope to accomplish, you'll do so without frustrations.
