

Initial Practice Held For Seminole Basketball Players

Ocala Is First Foe Of Ceiley Fed Cagers Who Begin '39 Season On Jan. 13

By JULIAN STENSTRUM
Herald Sports Editor

About 50 youngsters who attended the Seminole High School visited the school's basketball court this afternoon to prepare for a big 1939 cage season, according to Coach Leonard L. McLucas.

The Seminole High School Ceiley Feds will attempt to retain their Northeast Florida Conference crown which they gained last season during the conference tournament in Leesburg.

This year the Feds have four lettermen returning for duty with many good players graduating from the Baby Feds of last season. The Feds will have a fast cage five for their tough schedule which will take them to Miami and many other places in the state.

The present group will work out for about two weeks before Coach McLucas begins cutting the squad. He said he will use a squad of about 26 men during the season with ten men on the varsity and 16 men on the Baby Fed squad.

Practices will be held every afternoon and it is probable that the outfit will hold practices twice daily during the holiday season.

The first team on the schedule is Ocala on Jan. 13. McLucas said that it is probable that he will schedule six or eight more games than have been arranged at present.

Those expected to be out for the varsity this afternoon will be center Jim Riser, forwards Pete Echols, Art Williams and Pete Tillis and guards Darrell Ferguson and Bucky Ferguson.

Longwood Driving Park Activity To Begin This Week

Training horse racing men have started arriving and activity out at Seminole Driving Park will get underway in full swing this week as training of colts is started.

Ben White arrived last week and will have 25 horses in training here this winter.

W. K. Dickerson, of New York, who handles all horses owned by E. R. Harriman, came in Friday and was awaiting the arrival of the next 10 days with 25 head, including Greyhounds, world's champion trotter.

Mr. Dickerson said he would have 25 horses at the park this year.

"During the past summer we bought $36,335 worth of colts," Mr. Dickerson stated. "At the sight chances of getting hurt in New York sale we purchased a million working hours compared with $10,000 worth of horses, $16,735 with 31 chances, 15 years ago."

Indian Raja Halted By Bird's Absence

CALCUTTA, Dec. 5 (AP)—The absence of a bird reportedly held up the annual procession of the Raja of Jharia (Bihar) on Dussehra festival day.

After immersing the idol of the goddess Durga, the raja started to return to his palace.

He covered a considerable portion of the route without sighting the auspicious bird Nilkantha.

According to tradition the Rajas of Jharia should not return to the palace without seeing this bird on Dussehra day.

A drive was instituted to bring out a Nilkantha. After a two-hour's wait the raja saw the bird carrier. Easy to spot on a football field because he preferred to play without a head-gear, Warren was a marked man throughout his three years of varsity play. Yet no matter how hard he was tackled, the slender Miami boy would leap to his feet and lead the way on the next play.

Alvin Yorkunas Of Tampa Makes Mythical Eleven Third Time; McClelland Of Stetson Gets Honorable Mention

JACKSONVILLE, Dec. 5—(UPI)—Eddie Dunn, University of Miami halfback, was the only unanimous choice for the Associated Press All-Florida football team.

Only sophomore named was Bud Walton, University of Florida back. Hampered early in the year by injuries,

The 26 coaches and sports writers participating named four University of Florida players. Miami placed three Stetson two, and Rollins and Tampa, one each.

The team takes the place of the all-Little Four eleven chosen in former years. For the first time the smaller schools competed successfully with the University of Florida.

Dunn ended a brilliant career against Georgia Friday night. He led the Hurricanes this year to their greatest season, helping them triumph over Florida, Georgia, Bucknell, and Duquesne.

Few teams in the past three years have been able to halt Dunn's scoring charges. He tackled tacklers with a perfect change of pace and was hard to bring down once he was cornered.

Al Yorkunas, Tampa's great center, won state recognition for the third successive year. He is the only player besides Lyn Warren, Stetson halfback, who has made the team every year he was eligible.

Yorkunas was the spearhead defensively and offensively on the weakest team Tampa had in year.

Only two ballots failed to exclude Warren, the Hatter's triple-threat back. One of the best passers ever developed in the state, Warren could hold his own in most punting situations and was a cool-headed, elusive ball carrier. Easy to spot on a football field because he preferred to play without a head-gear, Warren was a marked man throughout his three years of varsity play. Delinquent Tax Settlement Is Urged By City

Mayor Higgins Warns Owners That City's Adjustment Authority Expires Dec. 31

Vacant Property Valuation Lower

Payments In Installments Provided In New Ordinance

Urging that immediate arrangements be made for settlement of delinquent city taxes and fees, Mayor Edward Higgins warned owners of Sanford property on which these assessments have been levied and have not been paid that the authority of the City to grant adjustments expires on Dec. 31 and that after that time it will be necessary for the City to begin foreclosure proceedings against property, the owners of which have made no attempts to make settlement.

"The City is not going to ask for, in fact it will oppose any further tax adjustment legislation," Mr. Higgins said, adding that "it is the opinion of the Commission that owners of property on which fees and taxes are delinquent have been given ample time and terms in which to prove their equity in property if they intend to do so."

Mayor Higgins pointed out that as a further incentive for owners to protect their equity in vacant property, the City has granted a 20 percent reduction in taxation for next year's taxes. This reduction, however, does not extend to improved property of any kind.

"When the authority of the City Commission as a delinquent tax adjustment board expires, the only remedy the City will have is foreclosure against those who fail to take advantage of the lenient terms for settlement," Mr. Higgins continued.

For the years of 1934 and prior, to which the authority of the commission as a tax adjustment board applies, all delinquent taxes are settled for 10 percent of the principal. Full payment of principal and penalties, however, is required for 1934 and subsequent years.

In adjustment of paving fees against property, Mayor Higgins pointed out that all interests is cancelled and settlement is made on the basis of 10 percent of the principal.

So as to assist those who are unable to raise the full amount of the taxes on the adjusted basis, the City Commission has made arrangements for payment on the installment plan. An ordinance passed at the last regular meeting of the Commission extends its authority to accept payment of the adjusted settlement in installments over a period of seven years.

The ordinance provides that full payment must be made of the 1938 taxes before becoming delinquent; that 1-7 of the adjusted settlement will be paid down, and

Sixty Years Of Citrus

Sixty years ago today there arrived in Sanford an eighteen year old boy who had a burning desire to grow oranges. All the way from Philadelphia, where he had been raised, he came by boat, landing in Sanford before here was any Sanford, spending his first night here amid the loneliness of an orange grove on the edge of a big forest.

At that time boats plying the St. Johns River put in at the docks at Melville, a little settlement which had grown up around where Fort Mellon used to be, at the foot of what is now Melville Avenue. General John Stanford owned a grove at Bel Air, but the town to which he later gave his name had not yet appeared and there was little else to welcome the stranger from the city.

He had a letter of introduction to Mr. J. E. Ingram, then local agent for General Stanford's interests, but later president of the South Florida Railroad. Work in its vicinity was scarce, but Mr. Ingram gave him a job in the Bel Air grove a $2 a month and board. That $2 month took a pretty log to the boy who had come all the way from Philadelphia to seek his fortune in a new and undeveloped country.

But the commanding mountain which brought him here soon drove him out for himself. There were thousands of acres in this primitive country waiting to be cultivated. There were millions of people in northern markets waiting for oranges and grapefruit. The land was cheap, the trees grew miraculously and produced a luscious golden fruit.

Orange growing even in those days had its drawbacks. The industry was young and there were many lights and pests about which little was known. The freeze of 1885 destroyed practically the entire crop. But the freeze of 1886 destroyed not only the crop, but the trees as well, down to the roots, and it was five or six years before another crop could be produced.

Meanwhile it was necessary to do something in this country where the expression "roothog or die" had sprung up. The county commissioners did appropriate $3,000 of the wealth of human suffering, but so accustomed to depending upon their own resiliency were the people that no one single dollar of it was ever claimed and no money was finally used to build roads.

The young man from Philadelphia decided to raise vegetables, at least until his citrus trees were bearing again. Together with two or three others he experimented with celery growing, and thus was born the industry which was soon to become the foundation of "The Citrus City." From a little plot on the shores of Lake Eustis, celery production increased in this area to over 1,000 acres.

But always there was that driving urge to continue with citrus. He was not a man to give up something he had once started. More acres were cleared; more trees were planted. Soon there were thousands of acres of thriving orange and grapefruit groves with their long rail loads of Florida's richest harvest moving into northern markets.

The man to whom The Herald pays tribute today on his sixtieth anniversary of his arrival in Sanford and whose story is the saga of two generations of Florida history and of the development of a great industry, is Mr. S. O. Chase of this city.

The Golf Course

The decision of the City Commission to rehabilitate the back nine holes of the municipal golf course comes at a time when other towns in Florida are proclaiming the value of their golf courses as civic institutions with magnetic power for drawing tourists and new residents.

"Not everyone plays golf, but every observant person must realize the value of a properly operated and maintained golf course in a community like Bradenton," the Bradenton Herald. "They know that it affords opportunity for on-door recreation for those who play golf; that the social features of well conducted institutions have a value hard to estimate but very real.

"Thousands of people come to Florida each winter as much for the opportunity to play golf during the season as to enjoy the climate. One merely complements the other. They are mostly persons of means, who live well and are able to pay for the best. To them a well-maintained golf course and a well conducted club house has tremendous appeal. In that lies a great value to the community; in fact, makes a golf course indispensable to any community that desires to be known as progressive and offering the complete entertainment demanded in this day and time."

The Ocala Star commented recently that it "seems to be generally agreed that a first class golf course is the outstanding attraction for tourists in Florida. It is also generally agreed that the city that does not maintain, either through private or public sources, a golf course, isn't offering the best kind of entertainment for tourists."

Expressions from St. Augustine and Daytona Beach substantiate the general theory that golf courses are necessary for any city to draw and hold tourists. We feel that Sanford's decision to operate the full 18 holes at the Country Club is a wise move which will result in dividends.

Delinquent Tax Settlement Is Urged By City force the settlement during the installment period if current taxes linquent. The ordinance also pro-

THEM ARE MY SENTIMENTS
"No one is wise enough to know just yet whether this business will prove to be of relatively long duration and vigorous development, or be instead comparatively brief and restricted. Not only does no one know the answer to that important question, but this per-origin to have developed the signs about it. Possibly the issue has already been decided by the re-

Europe is training her youth to training for its youth as does other Dictator Nations. Young Americans are learning to march but it is not a military march.

It was a pleasure to sit in the review

Danube To Assist Hitler's European Expansion DriveGoods Can Be Shipped Both Ways On 2,500 Mile River Channel

By WILLIAM MCGAFFIN

BACKGROUND

As Germany moves to bring central and southeastern Europe under her control, the experts on international affairs talk of a "Danubian empire" for Germany and of the "Danubian path to the east" for Hitler. Here's the story behind those phrases.

LONDON, Dec. 1—(AP)—If no German investor could buy Adolf Hitler whistles while he bobs along the American markets, the turn these days should let except with permission of the British. He could use the Blue Danube water—in government. Before he could use it much time. He is moulding the American dollar exchange to buy over the river which the famous song celebrates into a vital accessory for his march to the east.

That does not mean that the river—which, incidentally, is as mighty as the Mississippi—will be used to transport troops.

Once long ago, the speed that troops made down the stream was largely responsible for the defeat of Turk who were besieging Vienna. But the river is too slow nowadays.

Bullets Only For Russia

Hitler has indicated he has his eyes on both the Russian Ukraine and the little countries in southeast Europe through which the river flows. But he hopes to win the latter through economic penetration, experts say, and save his bullets for Russia if anyone.

If he doesn't cut straight across Poland, the quickest, most inaccessible route to Russia lies in the valley countries to the north of the river.

Incidentally, a couple of South American countries have played the same trick in the United States. Chile is going about it systematically, with a regular government fund. Certain Brazilian states did it also, buying up bonds which had slumped when interest payments stopped. Lately, Brazil has backed away from it.

Giant Carrots

WINNER, Neb.—(AP)—Gustav Glaubitz reaped an unusual harvest from the dimes worth of carrot seed he planted last spring.

He grew a truckload of rots, some of which measured nine inches in circumference and weighed three pounds.

shortage snugged grain up the stream.

After so exciting a history, it may seem dull to think of the "Mississippi of Southeast Europe" being transformed into purely an economic weapon. But the modern way of conquest is an economic one.

$100,000,000 have been bought back by German investors at a total cost to them of perhaps $100,000,000. That means that American investors have taken a loss of $100,000,000 on the operation.

Of the German bonds sold in this country $725,000,000 still are outstanding, and of these it is estimated that fully half have been bought by Germans at 20 cents on the dollar.

Stetson Begins Cage Drills For 1939 Court Year

Will Play Opening Game With N. C. S. In DeLand, Dec. 19

DELAND, Fla.—Basketball practice began for Stetson yesterday afternoon, and Coach Chet Freeman sensed a rather mixed spirit of confidence with some misgivings.

Captain Chet, coach of the other letter men, found in the nucleus of the team a core which felt keenly the loss of speedy Vin McLucas, star of the team. Tom Kirkland, Tom Moshart, Gus Swanson, Jim Griffith and Eddie O'Neil, the other experienced hand, are gone. Freeman will not be乐观istic in his campaign.

Swanson and Kirkland, partly disabled by knee injuries, but the others are ready to regain normal form in time for the opening game.

Three intramural games have shown no indication in campus for bettering. Jack Gore, Alex Martin and Marion Turner are taking their places on the varsity, but the year.

Cliff Parimley, Ken Jackson and Harold Vann, another former performer, will add their weight to the cage combination. Dr. Brady Cowell, athletic director, has arranged a pre-opening game for the Hatters against North Carolina State College, who send its quintet to DeLand for a game the evening of December 19.

Tobacco grows about two-thirds of the tobacco produced in the bluegrass region of Kentucky.

BOB SAGGAT, No. 14, Notre Dame back to basket, being stopped by two Southern California players after a short run in the second quarter of their game Dec. 3, played in Los Angeles. Southern Calif. won 11 to 10.

SUBSTITUTE SCORES

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 6.—

In Ann Arbor, substitute Prince quarterback, went the honor of becoming the first player in six contests to score against U. P. Michigan in consecutive plays. Passes had accounted for five other touchdowns by opponents.

Despite the fact that he says from the ocean to Elkhorn Lake in Montana is caused by the Potomac dam, state game officials report the number of salmon that now pass in the lake each year seems to be increasing.

Giants Interested In Medwick, Mize Of St. Louis Cards

ST. LOUIS, La., Dec. 6.—

Enough baseball conversation to fill an encyclopedia echoed through around hotel lobbies yesterday but out of a hubbub of first round farays little outstanding developed.

Rumors continued that the New York Giants were highly interested in obtaining either Johnny Mize or Ducky Medwick from the St. Louis Cardinals.

While one of the greatest advance influences of baseball leaders invaded the city for the thirty-seventh annual sessions of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, several counts drifted off into private rooms for their annual meetings.

Many big major league deals have been lined in rumor ranks since the 1938 season closed, but only a sprinkling of changes reached news stages after day-long huddles. "Things won't start popping until Wednesday," at least, said a veteran delegate.

But you might expect most anything to happen from these corner huddles."

Group Organized To Support Bowl Contest In Miami

Robert Clark of the Orange Bowl Committee met today with several Sanford men and formed a local Orange Bowl Committee to co-operate with the Miami division in an endeavor to secure the co-operation of the people of Sanford in putting across the Orange Bowl game to be held in Miami.

Those on the local committee are Leonard McLucas, chairman; Floyd Palmer, Ralph Bagwell, Roy Holler, H. H. Coleman, W. R. McCracken, Gerald Ash, and Jack Torrance.

Tickets for the New Year's Day game may be obtained through Jack Torrance at The Sanford Herald. The advance ticket sale is far beyond that of previous years and those desiring a ticket will only be able to obtain tickets at $1.30 and $2.20 as the $1.10 seats are completely sold out. These tickets will also admit the bearer to the New Year's Day horse races to be held the morning of the game.

Mr. Clark told the committee that the Orange Bowl game is no longer a Miami enterprise, but that the "entire state has a definite part in the festivities." This game, according to Mr. Clark, will give the people of the state something in which "they may have common pride, and will do much toward erasing the feeling of jealousy and false pride that exists between the widely separated sections of the state."

The game will be broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting system by Ted Husing and for many weeks Mr. Husing has been giving the game publicity over a nation-wide hookup.

This will be the only major bowl game in which the two teams playing have neither been beaten nor tied. Oklahoma and Tennessee, the home states of the contestants, have already purchased 1500 tickets and 2500 tickets respectively.
