

In The Wake Of Watergate

Constitution's Future Hazy

By Ralph Novak

CHICAGO — (NEA) — The Watergate investigation has reached that level of permanence Americans usually attach only to such subjects as offensive football tactics, horror movies and civics. It is going to be the subject of a college course.

Philip B. Kurland, a University of Chicago law school professor, editor of the "Supreme Court Review" and one of the nation's best-known constitutional authorities, is going to move into the university's undergraduate school to teach "Constitutional Aspects of Watergate" this fall.

One reason, he says, is that he wants to teach these students what the law is really about, to dispel any notions of idealism they might have about it.

Another reason is Kurland's concern with distinguishing the Watergate crisis as it affects the country from the crisis as it affects the individual government officials involved.

"The Watergate affair and everything associated with it mark a watershed and we don't know yet in what direction we're going to move," he says. "It wouldn't make any sense to have a course on the future if all these guys never are brought to trial as individuals. But we have to learn never to let power accumulate in one place as it has in the White House since the New Deal began."

"There are a lot of interrelated Constitutional questions involved: separation of powers, executive privilege, search and seizure, the function and scope of legislative inquiry, the president's power to set up his own investigative unit, among others.

"But the main question is whether the Constitution allows such centralization of authority."

Kurland believes the answer to that question is "no" and his sympathies clearly lie with the American public.

"This is essentially a fox hunt and nobody likes a fox because he's a varmint," Kurland says. "That doesn't mean you have to like the fox hunters."

"The way the hearings were conducted, there was a danger that the American public would see them as a summer replacement for the soap operas and take them just as seriously."

"The committee overall has not shown itself to be exceptionally capable or bright."

"There is no questioning Ervin's honesty or dedication. But, I think, while he is brilliant, doesn't really have the killer instinct for that job. And the others all have axes to grind — presidential aspirations, personal glory campaigns or political positions to protect."

"So you didn't see any of the questioning that skillful prosecutors use to elicit information, where question B is carefully built on question A. C is built on B and so on until

But he is nevertheless highly critical of the committee's performance during the first round of public testimony in defining the relevant constitutional issues involving them and collecting useful information about them.

'Baggy' But Beautiful

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—The Fort Wilderness Express rumbles away from the log cabin country store down an old wooden bridge with a pretty blue-eyed blonde in baggy overalls at the controls.

The 18th century steam engine with the 20th century look is part of Walt Disney World's transportation system in its 60-acre Central Florida campground.

The engineer is Mary Kay "Niki" Yenni, 20, a former model and a junior at Florida State University.

"This is the greatest summer job I've ever had," she said as the five-car passenger train rolled to a stop at the outpost.

But then the St. Petersburg coal had plenty of coaching, for while kids her age were playing with toy trains, Miss Yenni was chasing through a ruffed colosseum at the Santa Fe railroad terminal in Galveston, Tex.

Her grandfather, John W. Kearney, retired as a district supervisor in Galveston three years ago after nearly 50 years with the Santa Fe.

"I'd spend summers with my grandparents," Miss Yenni said. "On Sundays 'Pa John'—that's my grandfather—would take us down to the yards and let us climb on the trains."

When she was offered the engineer's job, she couldn't wait to tell her grandfather.

"I was so excited. I sent him pictures of the train. I don't think he believed me at first," she said. "But then he said 'I'd give me some pointers.'"

Her duties include filling the train's water tank, assisting passengers, checking pressure gauges and switching.

Secret Service Agents Hunt Ex-Policeman Charged With Threatening To Kill Nixon

ARROYO HONDO, N.M. (AP) — Secret Service agents and law enforcement personnel resume their hunt in this rugged, mountainous area 12 miles north of Taos today for a man charged with threatening the life of President Nixon.

Gunfire already has punctuated the search. The quarry is a man who is known at the Morning Star commune as "Cat," a man the Secret Service says it believes is Edwin M.

"Punchy" Gaudet, a former New Orleans policeman.

Gaudet is charged in a federal warrant filed in New Orleans with threatening the life of the President. The Secret Service said he has not been connected with an alleged conspiracy to kill Nixon during a visit to New Orleans on Monday.

John Paul Jones, chief of the Secret Service in New Mexico, said law enforcement officers and the man believed to be Gaudet exchanged gunfire Monday afternoon.

"Shots were fired at some officers, and those shots were returned," he said.

Taos county policeman Jose Lucero said he and sheriff's Deputy Joe G. Martinez came upon the hunted man in a thicket. Lucero said the man showed himself and fired twice with a high-powered rifle.

"He fired twice at me, and I fired four times at him," Lucero said. He said he and other officers apparently missed the man, who disappeared into a nearby arroyo.

Jones said that, after the warrant on Gaudet was filed in New Orleans, officers were sent to the commune to pick up the man believed to be Gaudet but he ran away.

Taos County Sheriff Arthur E. Trujillo said that, as a Secret Service agent inspected the man's identification card, the man ran off "through the pinon trees and escaped."

City Considering Utilities Increase

Sanford city commissioners will consider, among other methods, a 20 per cent increase in utility rates to fund an anticipated $93,000 deficit for water and sewer operations in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

The 7 p.m. meeting will be held in council chambers at city hall.

The city's bonding ordinance requires that general government utility operations be kept separate. For this reason general tax revenue can't be used to fund the expected deficit.

Commissioners are exploring possibilities that $27,500 in sewer line extensions over the city could be paid for from a renewal and replacement fund. However, City Manager Pete Knowles told commissioners Monday, "There's really not much choice open to you but to revise rates."

Defense in Murder Of Chef Is Linked To 'Bisexuality'

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

TITUSVILLE — Defense attorney Gerald Rutberg told a jury today that a 31-year-old Orlando chef murdered May 12 near Sanford was a rank bisexual who led a double life and preyed on teenage boys.

Rutberg said his hitchhiking client, Roy Ivan Bissonette Jr., 16, of Brown Mills, N.J., killed Newell in self defense, and fled in the man's station wagon after Newell took Bissonette to a secluded wooded area near the 14 Lake Mary exit and made repeated sexual advances.

"Roy lost his cool and took Newell's life," Rutberg told the circuit court jury in his opening statement, interrupted repeatedly by heated objections from prosecutor Newman Brock.

Brock said the state has 23 witnesses including Roland Dorval, a Woonsocket, R. I., man who Bissonette picked up on 14 near the Georgia state line three hours after the murder. Brock termed Dorval the "key witness" and said he will testify that Bissonette unfolded a detailed story of horror as he drove Newell's blood stained station wagon north using the dead man's credit cards to buy gasoline.

Brock said Bissonette told

Dorval that he had killed a man who cried and would not get out of the car in a wooded area.

Brock stated Dorval would testify that Bissonette told him "He just wouldn't die so I kept shooting him."

Newell was shot 10 times—five in the head, four in the chest and once in the hand—according to authorities.

Rutberg said he plans to prove Newell had sexual relations with an Orlando area

Hurricane Brenda 'Just Off' Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Hurricane Brenda drifted just off the southeastern coast of Mexico early today after reversing course, and the U.S. Coast Guard reported a distress signal from a ship trying to ride out the storm.

The National Hurricane Center in Miami said that, at 6 a.m. EDT, Brenda's center was approaching the coast about 35 miles west of Ciudad del Carmen, a small port on the southwestern flank of the Yucatan peninsula. The advisory said the storm was drifting south-southeast at about five miles per hour and was expected to cross the coast during the morning. But it added: "Since the motion of Hurricane Brenda has been slow and erratic, the possibility exists that the center may hesitate near the coast during the day, rather than proceeding inland."

The storm center was located at 6 a.m. near latitude 18.9 north, longitude 92.3 west.

The Coast Guard in Miami said it had picked up a distress signal from the 441-foot Greek motorship Yucatan with 35 men aboard. The ship reported she was just off the Mexican coast and was taking water in one of her holds but could not launch a lifeline, because of the high seas, the Coast Guard said.

Forecast: A skin of cool temperatures offered a pleasant respite from August's heat over most of the nation today while thundershowers persisted in a few areas.

On Monday, the storm began to swing back toward the south and pick up strength. After threatening the Mexican coast in the area of Veracruz, Brenda's winds had risen to 90 miles an hour with gusts exceeding 100 m.p.h. by early today.

The season's first hurricane, Alice, brushed the island of Bermuda on July 4, dumping heavy rains on the British colony but causing little damage.

Selection of the eight-man four-woman jury was completed at 3:15 p.m. Monday before Circuit Court Judge Richard Muldrew. Two alternates—a man and a woman—were picked in case a juror becomes ill during the trial—expected to last through Friday or Saturday.

Prosecutive jurors were questioned at length Monday about their views on capital punishment, experiences with hitchhikers and "bumming rides," the right of a person to bear arms and any dealings they may have had with "bisexual persons."

Alcohol Studies Planned

When the 11th Annual Florida School for Alcohol Studies gets underway Aug. 26, it will mark the fifth successive year Florida Tech University has hosted the session.

The central location of the University, and the availability of on-campus housing for the hundreds who attend the School are major factors in the choice.

The relationship between FTU and the Florida Bureau of Alcohol Rehabilitation began shortly after the university opened its doors for classes in 1968. In the time since the first School was conducted on campus, in 1969, the tie has grown stronger.

Dr. Charles M. Unkovic, chairman of Sociology at FTU, and a prime mover in establishing the association with the state agency, has served as co-director of the School for five years. His own background in research into the effects of alcoholism upon social patterns served to provide a valuable link with the many recognized experts from around the nation who now comprise the faculty for the week-long School.

"I wouldn't hesitate to say that Florida has the most outstanding program of this kind in the country," Unkovic said. "The professionalism of both students and faculty is the best argument in favor of that ranking."

Those enrolled in the School represent a variety of professions. There are welfare workers, nurses, physicians, clergy, educators, businessmen, and those working in rehabilitation. The faculty, either those with the Bureau, or those from other areas, are persons with vast experience working directly with alcoholics or in research into the causes and effects of the disease.

Appeal Procedure Abused

Supreme Court Is Turning Circles

The judicial donnybrook which has erupted over the appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court of a suit trying to halt U.S. bombing in Cambodia reveals how procedures designed to give strength to our judicial system can be weaknesses if they are abused.

The right of appeal is a bedrock principle assuring that any decision by a lower court which raises debatable legal questions will be subject to review at a higher level. We can be proud of the painstaking way our courts examine the finest questions that might separate justice from injustice in the interpretation and enforcement of the law.

On the other hand, the game of three-cornered catch which attorneys and jurists have played with the Cambodia bombing suit is only the latest example of how the appeals procedure can be misused. What should be a swift and direct course toward a court of last resort and the rendering of its decision becomes instead a process of detouring and backing and filling which can impede justice rather than assure it.

When a federal district judge in New York issued an order to halt the bombing in Cambodia on the ground that it is unconstitutional, and a higher court suspended the order pending appeal, a direct route was then open to the U.S. Supreme Court. Attorneys took it. Justice Thurgood Marshall, filling a responsibility assigned to him while the court is in recess, rejected a plea to reinstate the original court order. The bombing, in other words, could continue.

That should have ended the matter. The appeals procedure had served its purpose. However, attorneys for the antibombing group then obtained the decision they wanted from another Supreme Court justice who had already expressed sympathy for their cause, William O. Douglas. It is not surprising that Justice Marshall then polled other justices by telephone to get their concurrence in overruling Justice Douglas. While Justice Douglas is now complaining, it is he whose conduct is more open to question, for going along with the tactic of "justice shopping" in the first place.

Justice Douglas' maverick approach to judicial proprieties is well known, of course, which points to another glaring conflict of strength and weakness in the federal judiciary—the lifetime appointment of judges. Time and again the private and public life of Justice Douglas has raised the question of his fitness to serve. At 73, age alone would suggest his retirement. However, as with other federal judges whose lifetime tenure is aimed at keeping the judiciary immune from politics, there is no procedure short of an impeachment trial to examine and weigh the issue.

The American Bar Association at its convention this week urged Congress to set up new machinery other than impeachment to consider the removal or mandatory retirement of federal judges whose behavior reflects "disability" to continue on the bench. The need for such machinery and the need to check abuses of the right of appeal have been made all the more clear by recent events involving the nation's highest court.

As Phase 4 of President Nixon's program of economic control shifted gears there was a notable lack of cheering in the streets.

Consumers, warned previously that they faced the alternatives of higher prices or shortages, are unhappy in the realization that they now have both.

Manufacturers remain puzzled over the effect that permit demands for higher wages, but restrict their efforts to recover increased costs through price increases.

Businessmen throughout the country remain uncertain for the most part as to just how the Phase 4 controls apply.

And beef ranchers, although they are unshowered by direct controls, still must contend with a market set by the continued freeze on the retail price of beef which does not recognize the recent rocketing of production costs.

Perhaps the most charitable comment on Phase 4 thus far is that of C. William Verity Jr., chairman of Arco Steel Corp., who hopes that it is "only a last gasp before controls are removed."

Business, of course, has been opposed traditionally to meddling by government in the affairs of the marketplace, clinging to the tested formula of supply and demand as most beneficial to the economy.

Federal intervention over the last two years is undeniably a response to public outcries over inflation and spiraling prices.

But the public, too, is beginning to understand that controls can do little more than postpone the inevitable. Shortages develop when "freezes" and ceilings are imposed on prices. Prices surge when ceilings are lifted to encourage a return to normal production.

The dramatic impact of the continued freeze on beef prices has brought home to the consumer the dangers of excessive regulation, no matter how highly motivated the regulation may be.

The economic lesson has been brought home clearly to the public. Government, too, should concede the mistakes in its current "game plan," beginning with the removal of the price ceiling on beef—not on Sept. 12, but now.

Nevertheless, as I noted in a prior report, he may at this stage be the victim of trends beyond his control. Some experienced party hands are suggesting that the moment is here for a generational jump, for a search for men largely separated from the high politics of a "lame-duck" administration.

Such a twist of fate might be especially painful for the driving Rocky. When he really had a better chance and his energies were fresher, he too often lingered in doubt. Today, knowing he will be 68 in 1976, he has for the first time in a long career passed early word of his hopes and ambitions.

His earlier presidential bids usually were handicapped by lack of field staff managers gifted with the needed strategic sense for compiling winning delegate totals. Probably he understands this at long last. The quest for such special skills surely would be more pointed in a 1976 race, though the required talents are scarce.

Vice President Agnew's new difficulties still not sharply or wholly defined, may nevertheless heighten the nation's and the Republican party's search for someone out of a new and younger crop. But what if that search just does not pay off, if no one among the younger crew really measures up to the office?

Agnew is hurt, even if in the end he comes out clean. Those who are freshly advancing John Connally have not been talking to Joe Republicans lately.

Gov. Ronald Reagan? Maybe a new beneficiary, but no sure gainer. Rocky has good reason to stick in there.

Both would be developed as recreation areas.

The department said the Broward County tract has some 6,530 feet of frontage on the Atlantic Ocean.

It "is virtually the only undeveloped beach area of any appreciable size remaining in densely populated lower east Florida," the agency said in a report to the Cabinet.

Broward County and the Port Everglades Authority have agreed to give adjacent land, the purchase is completed, to make a 244-acre park with more than two miles of ocean frontage, the department said.

Director Randolph Hodges said the $15.2 million for the purchase of the land would come from the bond issue for parks purchased approved by voters last November and would practically deplete the first $25 million of bonds issued.

The Cabinet two weeks ago approved expenditure of $7.5 million for purchase of 335 acres of oceanfront park land in St. Lucie County.

Hodges said these two purchases and $1.5 million in bond costs left only $72,000 in the fund.

The land is in eight parcels with separate owners. Hodges said ownership of one parcel is in question between Broward County, the Internal Improvement Trust Fund and a private group—Hollywood Inc., Horvitz Trust and Sherwood Investment Co. He said the question would be settled before the sale is completed.

Gov. Reubin Askew had requested two weeks ago that the Lake County purchase be delayed because Hodges failed to list the owners.

He named them today as Richard L. Lindland, president of Campbell-Wyatt-Cannon Foundry, Muskegon, Mich.; Joseph Stanford Land Co., Lansing, Mich.; and Vito James Nico of Windermere, Fla.

Also recommended were allocations of $100,000 each for park improvements at Boca Raton, Fernandina Beach, Wilton Manors, Pinellas Park and a Sunland tract at St. Joseph Peninsula, Gulf County.

BRUCE BLOSSAT

Rockefeller still On the '76 trail

Notwithstanding published accounts to the contrary, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York is said by intimate aides to be still "affirmatively bent" toward seeking a fifth term in 1974 and the presidency in 1976.

The alleged change of heart had been ascribed, at least in part, to showing a disaffection with a curiously very low popularity rating for the governor in his state. Says a Rockefeller aide:

"That is totally false. No polls have been taken."

It is not too likely that even if there had been, they alone would discourage Rockefeller if the findings were adverse. He was confronted by painfully low poll status in 1966, but staged one of the hardest-driving, most skillful campaigns in U.S. history to win his third term.

Aides argue further that if the governor had passed a real signal of intent not to go in 1974 and beyond, it would already be evident in an exodus of key members from his staff. There is no such outflow visible anywhere in his entourage.

On the other hand, for whatever they are worth at this early stage, national opinion polls do nothing to persuade Rockefeller that he has some magic track to high Republican or general voter favor at this moment.

He is totally clear of any attachment to the Nixon administration's Watergate scandals. To listen to GOP politicians from southern and western areas formerly hostile to the governor, he has moved enough toward the center, or toward what they deem conservative positions on some issues like drugs, to win at least every region And he was a good Nixon soldier from 1969 on.

Nevertheless, as I noted in a prior report, he may at this stage be the victim of trends beyond his control. Some experienced party hands are suggesting that the moment is here for a generational jump, for a search for men largely separated from the high politics of a "lame-duck" administration.

Agnew is hurt, even if in the end he comes out clean. Those who are freshly advancing John Connally have not been talking to Joe Republicans lately.

Gov. Ronald Reagan? Maybe a new beneficiary, but no sure gainer. Rocky has good reason to stick in there.

Both would be developed as recreation areas.

The department said the Broward County tract has some 6,530 feet of frontage on the Atlantic Ocean.

It "is virtually the only undeveloped beach area of any appreciable size remaining in densely populated lower east Florida," the agency said in a report to the Cabinet.

Broward County and the Port Everglades Authority have agreed to give adjacent land, the purchase is completed, to make a 244-acre park with more than two miles of ocean frontage, the department said.

Director Randolph Hodges said the $15.2 million for the purchase of the land would come from the bond issue for parks purchased approved by voters last November and would practically deplete the first $25 million of bonds issued.

The Cabinet two weeks ago approved expenditure of $7.5 million for purchase of 335 acres of oceanfront park land in St. Lucie County.

Hodges said these two purchases and $1.5 million in bond costs left only $72,000 in the fund.

The land is in eight parcels with separate owners. Hodges said ownership of one parcel is in question between Broward County, the Internal Improvement Trust Fund and a private group—Hollywood Inc., Horvitz Trust and Sherwood Investment Co. He said the question would be settled before the sale is completed.

Gov. Reubin Askew had requested two weeks ago that the Lake County purchase be delayed because Hodges failed to list the owners.

He named them today as Richard L. Lindland, president of Campbell-Wyatt-Cannon Foundry, Muskegon, Mich.; Joseph Stanford Land Co., Lansing, Mich.; and Vito James Nico of Windermere, Fla.

Also recommended were allocations of $100,000 each for park improvements at Boca Raton, Fernandina Beach, Wilton Manors, Pinellas Park and a Sunland tract at St. Joseph Peninsula, Gulf County.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—The State Cabinet today considered a $15.2 million for the purchase of 335 acres of oceanfront park land in St. Lucie County.

WVAW Judge Warns 1 Vet Outbursts May Mean Oust

Gainesville, Fla. (AP)—One of the Gainesville Eight defendants, William J. Patterson of Austin, Tex., is under warrant to stand before a federal judge in court on Friday if he continues to make statements the judge considers "repetitious and unnecessary."

"This time, I'm giving you a warning," U.S. District Judge Winston E. Aron told Patterson after three hours of persistent defense objections to testimony by FBI informer Emerson L. Poe Monday.

The admonition came as the conspiracy trial of the eight Vietnam Veterans Against the War went into its fourth week.

Arrows, who abandoned his goal of completing it in three weeks, told a U.S. marshal to stand beside Patterson while the judge tongue-lashed the defendant, who spat a court-appointed attorney and is acting as his own lawyer.

The judge told the marshal to apply a gag to Patterson "if he says one word before I give him permission to speak."

If Patterson continues "repetitious and unnecessary statements" Aron said the defendant will be removed from the courtroom and the appointed standby counsel, James Tomlinson, will take over his defense.

The judge informed all defense attorneys they may express legal objections or motions but they are not to protest verbally if he overrules them. He says they could send him written notes if they disagree with his rulings.

Patterson has been on his feet often, objecting to many of Aron's rulings.

Earlier in the trial, the judge remarked it would move along faster if he had not let three of the non-lawyer defendants represent themselves.

"I object," Patterson replied.

"Your honor didn't let us represent ourselves. It is our constitutional right."

Poe, the government's eighth witness and the fourth to admit being a paid informer, testified he reported to the FBI on VVAW activities since he met defendant Scott Camil in Sept., 1971. He said he refused pay at first but has now taken about $1,500 to reimburse him for expenses.

Poe testified that Camil told him of plans to harass Gainesville police with small bombs and gasoline tanks, fishing line bolts and ammonia-filled balloons as retribution for police tactics in anti-war demonstrations here in the spring of 1972.

Under cross examination, Poe said he never heard any of the defendants talk of violence against police in the Miami area during the 1972 GOP national convention.

Escapes Sought Death By Alligator

ARCADIA, Fla. (AP)—Authorities are still searching for three of four prisoners who escaped from a prison bus during a 40-mile trip.

State officials said the escapes were among 31 prisoners aboard the bus when it left Aron Correctional Institution. Although two guards and a driver were aboard the vehicle, the escapes weren't detected until the bus arrived at the DeSoto Correctional Institution, officials said.

Officials identified the missing men as Larry Murphy, 22, serving five years for armed robbery; Carlton Eugene Gray, 18, serving 20 years for rape; and Richard K. Mullins, 23, serving 10 years for robbery.

Police later shot the alligator and found one of the girl's arms inside the reptile's body.

The girl's father, Bert Holmes, said he plans to sue the state for allowing swimming in a dangerous area.

Despite the rescue efforts of her father, she was pulled under water while swimming in a lake in Ocala Sherrer State Park. Several hours later, investigators discovered her mangled body guarded by a 10-foot, 50-pound alligator.

Other Thoughts

William E. Reid, chairman of the board of Reigel Textile Co., made a remark here Wednesday that is one of those little gems that sometimes surface in public oratory.

"The average American," Reid told the Southern Industrial Relations Conference, "spends 13 per cent of his income on food and 32 per cent of it on taxes. If the worker had to pay his taxes in cash every week, like his grocery bill, there might be some improvement in that sector."

Questions upset childless couple

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem many others have, and if you answer me in your column, maybe others will benefit from it.

I have been married for nine years and am childless. My first child was born so severely brain-damaged he had to be institutionalized. Then I had a miscarriage. (Twin boys.) A year later I miscarried a baby girl. After that, I had a hysterectomy.

We put in for adoption, and finally got a beautiful baby girl. At eleven months she died. (Crib death!) A beautiful, healthy child simply died for no apparent reason, leaving us heartbroken, frustrated, and filled with needless guilt. Obviously, we have no children, and we probably never will have any. We both have been through a great deal.

My problem: Well-meaning strangers ask upon meeting me: "Have you a family?" Or: "How many children have you?" This question throws me into a state of depression.

What do I say without going into my whole tragic history? I avoid going places where strangers may inquire about my "family."

DEAR ABBY: I was one of 10 children in a very poor family so I had to quit school in the 6th grade. I always wanted to get a better education, but I never had the chance.

I feel so bad when my 8th grade son asks me to help him with his homework, and I am too dumb to help him. My husband can't help him either, as he never got thru the 7th grade.

I asked around and found out there is a night school for grownups. I could go four nights a week from 6 to 8. My husband laughed at me and said he never heard of a 22-year-old woman going back to school. My heart is broken. Please tell me what to do. WANTS TO LEARN!

DEAR WANTS: Your husband should quit laughing long enough to learn a few things. Adult education has been a blessing to many who have wanted to complete their education in their forties, fifties, and sixties. You are to be commended.

DEAR ABBY: I have often been tempted to write to you to rebuke to certain letters, but simply never found the time. Now I am so incensed, I must make the time. In reply to the self-righteous ex-dermider signed "Believer in Buffalo," who states that: "God determines who shall die and when, not you or anybody else." Are the physicians who maintain a human body by needles, tubes, and machines long after the human being in that suffering body is gone? Having seen both my parents in this situation recently, I do not believe it is humane or wise to try to allow it. When they finally died, you no longer even looked like human beings.

I do not believe that kind of suffering is the will of God. Furthermore, I believe those people who are so quick to tell you what God's will is are being very presumptuous. Thank you for taking a stand for the dignity of man in his final hours. Sign me.

Celia Schendel Entertained

Mrs. Peter Diener was hostess for a miscellaneous bridal shower at her home, 416 Tangelo Drive, honoring Miss Celia Schendel, of Winter Park, fiancée of her brother, Leon W. Steinmeyer Jr.

The party area was decorated with wedding bells and several arrangements of multicolor roses and pinks. A green and yellow color scheme was carried out in refreshment decor highlighted by a bride doll centerpiece flanked by two yellow tapers in crystal holders.

White coronation corsages were presented to the bride and groom. The bride-elect was a bride of the bride-elect, and the Misses Beata Lundgren, Joy Steinmeyer, Roberta Scott and Christy Pollin.

LYDIA CHIKAMI WITH ART COLLECTION — Display of Raku pottery and macramé

Three Artists Show Works During Month In DeBary

DeBary—Three individual "one man" art shows are being held during the entire month of August at the DeBary Hall in DeBary, Art Headquarters for the Florida Federation of Arts.

Another exhibitor is Mrs. Lydia Chikami, an artist who has been exhibiting her Raku Pottery and Macramé articles. Mrs. Chikami was born in Frankfurt, Main, West Germany and attended the Offenbach Arts and Crafts School after high school graduation. She developed her interest in Raku Pottery in 1971, studying at the Maidland Art Center with Mrs. Browne Wise.

Her knowledge of the art of Macramé is mostly from books as she refers to herself, as "self-taught" in this art. Her work is displayed at the DeBary Hall.

Vales For Value Back-To-School Shoe Sale

If you are a mother with several pattering young feet to outfit for the coming school year, Vales Junior Shoeland in Longwood Plaza is the place to visit. Betty Vale is having a great back-to-school sale, and says there are still many styles and sizes on the shelves.

Vales is a complete children's shoe store, with a variety of makes in stock, as well as orthopedic shoes and all the accessories such as socks, laces, and shoe care products.

Regular and orthopedic shoes come in all sizes from baby's first, through teen and adult. The orthopedic shoes are stocked in the store, so there is no wait if these are the shoes you need.

Edwards, Keds, and a new line, Jumping Jacks, are featured at Vales. They come in sizes 12 1/2 to "mama" sizes, and are modestly priced at $4.99.

To complement fall fashions, Vales has a variety of great lightweight boots in striking colors. Brighten up last year's winter "clunkies" with dashing plaid or striped laces by Sportstar, or coordinate an outfit with matching, knee-high socks. If it is regular length socks you need, Vales has those

Foreign Funds Flow In

By CARL W. RITTER
Copley News Service

For many years, Canadians registered displeasure over the disproportionately large American investment north of their border. It was felt Americans wielded too much influence on business there.

Now the Canadians are becoming concerned over a surprisingly strong influx of Japanese funds.

And in the United States, due to an effective devaluation of the dollar exceeding 10 per cent on average against other leading currencies of the world, the Japanese and other foreign investors are establishing a direct capital position that is already large and rapidly expanding.

H.E. Ekblom, chairman and president, European-American Banking Corp., a New York-based banking organization owned by six leading European banks, examines European direct investments in the United States in the current issue of the Harvard Business Review.

He comes up with rather startling figures.

As an example, he points out that total European investments in the United States at the end of World War II came to just $8.3 billion, whereas today the total exceeds $74 billion. He says about half of these holdings consist of short-term assets and U.S. government obligations which were accumulated as a result of many years of balance of payment surpluses in the European favor.

Ekblom notes that in the last six years for which figures are available, Europeans' direct investment in the United States has been sustained at a growth rate exceeding 10 per cent a year, except 1971 when many companies abroad sat tight in light of stormy battles over international currency realignment.

The two largest categories of U.S. domestic business, manufacturing and petroleum account for approximately 73 per cent of all European investments in this country.

But, in the U.S. domestic economy, manufacturing and petroleum account for no more than 52 per cent of the total net worth of all business enterprises.

Ekblom says little or no European participation exists in utilities, communication networks, railroads and retail trade operations.

Entering 1972, according to the review, the United Kingdom, The Netherlands and Switzerland accounted for some 81 per cent of European direct

Good Nursing Care Fun And Friends At Lodge

As you walk into the sunny reception area of Seminole Lodge in Sanford, you are pleasantly surprised by the sunny spaciousness of the place. Comfortable chairs are arranged in groups, attractive art works adorn the walls, and a large television set is conveniently placed in a corner of the area. Against one wall is a piano, donated by the Medical auxiliary, a source of great pleasure to the Lodge visitors and residents.

Owners and managers of Seminole Lodge are Donald and Maria Graham. Mrs. Graham is a registered nurse, and she directs the nursing services. The administration of the Lodge is handled by her husband. They make a cheerful team, and work to keep on air of friendly camaraderie in their work. They enjoy being with the guests at the Lodge, and never appear cross or weary. Going about their duties smoothly and efficiently, they add to the atmosphere of tranquility which prevails throughout Seminole Lodge. This is a happy home where your friends and relatives can visit or live, receiving the best services. If you, or someone you know, need or anticipate needing a temporary or permanent solution to a housing problem, or a convalescent care situation, the Grahams are the people to talk with. You'll be glad you did—you're sure to like the situation and the management.

New In Maitland Tractor And Equipment Shop

There's a new tractor and equipment dealership located in Maitland on Hwy. 17-92. Owner of Maitland Tractor and Equipment Sales and Service is Don Martin, who is by no means new to the farm equipment business. He has been in the business since 1954, and he has set himself up with a wide range of equipment, a workshop and office.

Since the beginning of the year he has been handling most types of new equipment, as well as a variety of used machines, including tractors, bulldozers, backhoes and loaders.

"If I don't have it, I will get it," says Martin. "Since January I've got in about 50 tractors."

He is particularly proud of his service department. He does most of the servicing himself, and that way he knows a good job is being done. Martin says he plans to establish his business as one of the most convenient and reliable in the area. "In addition, my prices are right," he says. "My overheads are low, so I can sell low."

If you are in the Maitland-south Seminole area, and need to buy equipment, sell it, or have it serviced, stop by and talk with Martin. Chances are he'll have a good deal for you.

Dollar Realistically Placed

NEW YORK (AP) — In continuous as it may seem, the devaluation of the dollar appears to be viewed by some currency traders as evidence that it could be devalued again. This, at any rate, is one of the explanations offered by puzzled monetary authorities, who feel the dollar is now realistically priced but who find their views contradicted by a falling market.

While most Americans might have only a vague feeling of insecurity because of the dollar's decline, those who travel to Europe this summer will encounter the specific consequences in the form of higher bills everywhere.

But then the dollar met the fate of other important currencies: it devalued, and it did so twice. This removed the assurance. No longer could you be certain of the dollar's value either.

Most international bankers now believe the devalued dollar is priced right or perhaps even less than its worth. But that is no longer a promise, the dollar is afloat, drifting with the currents.

This view continued to be held even when the United States developed a chronic imbalance in its international payments, traditionally viewed as evidence of an overpriced currency. The imbalance, it was hoped, would be corrected.

But then the dollar met the fate of other important currencies: it devalued, and it did so twice. This removed the assurance. No longer could you be certain of the dollar's value either.

THE MEDICAL PROFESSION DOES NOT BELIEVE IN OR RECOMMEND THE USE OF HYPNOSIS

FICTION — The American Medical Ass'n., "officially" recognized hypnosis in 1958, as a useful tool of medicine, particularly in the field of psychotherapy in the therapy of organic origins. Such use may manifest themselves in the form of Migraine; Prolonged nervous tension; Insomnia; Sexual problems such as impotence or frigidity; Lack of personal motivation; Spastic colon or stomach; Overweight; Excessive smoking; Poor concentration, retention, or recall; and so on ad infinitum. Hypnosis, in many cases, can control, alleviate, or eliminate such problems.

Sturgis Indicted Controls Not Likely

MIAMI (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted convicted Watergate burglar Frank Sturgis on charges of conspiring to run stolen cars into Mexico.

Sturgis and five other persons were named in the indictment returned Monday.

Sturgis is in the federal prison at Danbury, Conn., under a 40-year provisional sentence for his part in the break-in at the Democratic National headquarters in June 1972.

Sturgis is accused in the indictment of conspiring in 1968 and 1969 to smuggle stolen cars into Mexico.

Rizzo Test Criticized Secret Vote Adopted

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two polygraph experts have criticized questions asked Mayor Frank Rizzo, Deputy Mayor Philip R.T. Carroll and City Democratic Chairman Peter Carmeli during a lie detector test earlier this month, according to Television station KYW here.

Warren Holmes, of Miami, who administered the polygraph test, said it showed Rizzo and Carroll lied and Carmeli told the truth about a conversation the three had in a hotel bathroom.

The exam was intended to resolve the question of whether Rizzo offered to let Carmeli name architects for city projects if Carmeli would back Rizzo's choice for district attorney.

Controls Not Likely

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A top farm official in the Nixon administration said today that further controls on U.S. exports of soybeans and other crops are not likely.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carroll G. Brumhaver said that, if such controls are ordered, the United States would "pay a very high price" through loss of foreign markets.

The administration imposed export controls on 1972-crop soybeans and other high-protein feed sources earlier this year in an effort to curb rising costs to American livestock producers.

Brumhaver's remarks were prepared for a meeting of the American Soybean Association. He said agriculture is "riding the crest of the wave" at the present time.

Secret Vote Adopted

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Delegates to the General Council of the Assembly of God have voted to admit divorced persons and those who have remarried.

By a secret vote of 1,283 to 388 delegates voted Monday to adopt a report by a study commission that recommended a liberalization of the church's view of divorce and remarriage as being in keeping with current biblical interpretation.

Assemblies of God ministers were given permission to perform marriages for divorced persons who were the innocent parties in divorces.

The council stressed that it was merely recommending guidelines for qualifications of church leaders whose choice is the prerogative of the local church.

Laotian Coup Fails, Red Grip Strengthens

Kidnap Story Lands Begon In Rome Jail

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — An unsuccessful rightwing attempt to oust Laotian Premier Souvanna Phouma probably will reinforce the Communist Pathet Lao demand for a bigger military presence in Vientiane, government officials said today.

Negotiations to form a coalition government and reach a permanent peace settlement in Laos are being largely on the Pathet Lao demand for a garrison of 1,500 of their troops and police to protect Communist representatives in Vientiane, heretofore the preserve of rightists and Prince Souvanna's neutrals.

"We expect them to ask for more military guarantees as a result of the coup, and that means more troops," a government spokesman said. "They will argue they are at the mercy of any rightwing general who cares to seize power."

The spokesman said that a positive result from the coup attempt Monday was the support it showed Souvanna Phouma could count on.

Even people regarded as his political opponents—those who take a hard line with the Communists—rallied to his side," the spokesman said.

The coup was led by an exiled air force general, Thao Ma, who crossed the Mekong River from Thailand with 100 supporters, seized the Vientiane airport and several air force planes and made some bombing and strafing runs on the army's chief base outside the city.

Thao Ma's goal was to block the political agreement and replace Souvanna Phouma with the veteran rightist leader, Prince Boun Oun. The attempt collapsed in 10 hours when Thao Ma crashed in a T28 fighter-bomber he had commandeered. He was captured, and the government announced that he had died of injuries he received in the crash.

Vientiane had a curfew Monday night, but otherwise life was normal.

Ma crashed in a T28 fighter-bomber he had commandeered. He was captured, and the government announced that he had died of injuries he received in the crash.

Seminole's Tag Shortage Reported By Tax Collector

By JANE CASSELLBERRY County Editor

Although the deadline for purchasing 1974 auto tags was extended to Friday, procrastinators lining up at the Seminole Tax Collector's office this week are apt to find the cupboard bare.

Tax Collector Troy Hay said today that his supply of the most popular series of license plates is depleted. When the office ran out of tags, validating permit stickers were issued for old plates until they ran out as well.

Those coming in now are left with a last tag permit to file them over until their new tag is available.

Hay said that although there have been big lines when the office opens in the morning this week, there has been only a "steady flow" in the afternoons.

He said there is some possibility of getting more tags on Thursday. The Seminole tag offices sold 78,000 license plates last year and Hay said he had predicted a 10,000 increase this year and had ordered accordingly, but the state had failed to deliver.

The situation in Orange and Volusia is not as desperate, however, The Volusia County office in DeLand reported today it still has tags on hand. There has been a steady flow of tag buyers during the extended period, but no long lines. During July it sold 7,000,8,000 last year.

The Orange County tag office in Orlando revealed that it has plenty of plates except for truck and tractor. Business has been slow this week, but they expect another last minute surge on Thursday and Friday.

Hay said he regrets the inconvenience caused vehicle buyers in having to wait for their tags and the double work for his office. He hopes the new three-year so called "permanent" tag to be issued next summer should help alleviate the tag shortage which has plagued many of the counties in the state the last few years.

Casselberry Cuts Paid Fire Chief

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

CASSELLBERRY — The preliminarily approved $86,923.55 fire department budget for the new year does not include a paid full-time fire chief, the city council in budget session decided Tuesday night.

The position was eliminated after lengthy discussion among the council, City Manager Ivo Bergman and Volunteer Fire Chief Roger Rasooli.

Rasooli led the discussion to eliminate Bergman's recommendation of $12,050 salary for a chief.

Approval was given to add another full-time position to the three paid men already on staff.

The full-time position to begin Oct. 1 will be shared by three volunteers, who are professional firefighters on other departments, to give the city additional coverage during the daytime hours Monday through Friday.

Fireman requested a budget totaling $169,109. Bergman pared it before presentation to the council to $97,346. The preliminarily approved budget was $86,923.55.

But council members made it clear this sum will be gone over again after reviews of other departmental requests are concluded.

The new equipment requests were cut with Rasooli's assistance from $56,053 to $27,188.55.

"The most auspicious grand opening I've ever seen" were the quotes of many who attended today's welcome to Sanford by the folks at Zayres.

Guest estimates ranged all the way up to 4,000 who were there for the ribbon-cutting event.

More than a couple days ago, the wire services were burning the communications lines with reports of those mysterious radio broadcasts from Santa Fe, N.M., supposedly of a boy's voice calling for help.

The search was called off Aug. 12.

Authorities complained of interference and citizens of radio operators talking back and forth.

Strange, nobody reported any missing husband and son. It had been reported earlier that the boy had been with his father and that his father had collapsed and died.

Makes you wonder, just a little bit, doesn't it?

Sign at an area dry cleaners. "Our business is not all gravy."

TIMELY QUOTE — Senator John C. Stennis, D-Miss., denying he would quit his seat when he recovers from bullet wounds suffered during a loupud — "A man doesn't go through what I've been through to last six months to talk about quitting."

Perhaps not, Senator... but, really isn't it about time? You have served your country well. Why not let someone else be given that same opportunity?

'Key' Witness Ready To Talk

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

ROLAND DERVAL testified today that Bissonette told him he killed a man because he was a homosexual and others during a trial recess outside the fifth floor courtroom where the trial is expected to continue all week.

Mulder ordered more deputy sheriffs to be on duty today and sources said plans call for sealing off the entire floor so photographers would glimpse Bissonette during trips to and from the adjoining jail by a long corridor linking the courtroom with the jail.

Seminole medical examiner Dr. G. V. Garay testified Tuesday that Newell had been shot 10 times — five in back of the head, four in the chest and once in the left hand—death was instantly caused by bullets that damaged the brain and spinal column.

Assistant Public Defender Gerald Ruberg told the jury in his opening statement that Newell was a "weak pervert of the worst order." He said the chief was a "rank bisexual who would act near the 1-4 Lake Mary Exit.

Brock said Bissonette was driving the dead man's station wagon and told Derval a detailed story of horror.

Bissonette, a pale youth with collar length brown hair, is under heavy guard as bailiffs keep watchful eyes on spectators and reporters in the courtroom.

Circuit Judge Richard Mulder ordered Tuesday that Bissonette not be photographed anywhere in the Broward County Courthouse or jail or on the grounds. He promised to hold any photographers violating the order in contempt of court.

The judge's order came after a television cameraman, unnoticed by two bailiffs, reportedly filmed him, witnesses and others during a trial recess outside the fifth floor courtroom where the trial is expected to continue all week.

Sanford Welcomes Zayres

By J. RICHARDS Herald Staff Writer

MOST OF the Sanford top brass and thousands of shoppers attended today's grand opening of Zayres's department store. Mayor Lee Moore welcomed the new business on behalf of the city, and store manager Ed Fryer (holding microphone) told the crowd he and his staff are eager to serve the people and the community.

Mrs. Walter Glor, chairman of the Ladies Civic and Community Affairs Committee, said city-wide beautification is her committee's top 1973 project, and commended Zayre's for its success in beautifying the area around the store at the entrance to Sanford. Related photo page 2A.

Nationwide Strike Paralyzes Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Chile was hit by a paralyzing nationwide strike today, and disputes within the armed forces simmered below the surface.

The 140,000 shop owners of the Small Businessmen's Confederation agreed to close their shops for 48 hours.

The action was partly in support of the trucking and transport strike now in its 27th day and partly to call attention to the shopkeepers' claim that the leftist government is trying to put them out of business.

Also on strike are construction workers, employees of the national airline, thousands of professional workers and half the country's 6,000 doctors.

Meanwhile, President Salvador Allende fired back from southern Chile to clear up a potentially dangerous situation that had developed around Gen. Cesar Ruiz, the commander of the air force.

Ruiz, one of three military men recently added to Allende's cabinet in a move to end the truckers' strike, resigned Friday as public works and transport minister after failing to end the walkout. Allende replaced him in the cabinet and also named a new air force commander. But Ruiz said in a broadcast Sunday night that he had not relinquished the air force post.

Monday morning, the air force public relations office issued a communique saying all units had been put on the alert and that Ruiz was the air force's "authentic" leader.

Naval officers ordered their men to stand by their barracks, and air force commanders sent their jet fighters away from Santiago to keep them from being grounded by the army.

Plea Switch Possible For 4 'Watergaters'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Miami attorney says he may advise four Cubans arrested in the Watergate burglary to change their pleas to innocent and sue the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

The attorney, Ellis Rubin, also said Monday night that he would delay any advice to them for a couple of weeks while he waits to see what Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., has in mind.

Rubin said he had intended to announce his plans at a news conference last Saturday in Danbury, Conn., but changed his mind after learning that Weicker, a member of the Senate Watergate committee, was interested in the men's plight.

Weicker met with the men last Monday. They pleaded guilty and are being held in a federal prison at Danbury awaiting sentence.

The senator's administrative assistant, Robert L. Herrema, said Weicker came away from the meeting "somewhat concerned."

"I am sure it is my intention to survey possible actions he might take, not as an attorney, but as a member of the committee," Herrema said.

Herrema also said he was told by a prison official that two of the Cubans, Bernard Barker and Eugenio Martinez, did not regard Rubin as their attorney. Rubin said at the Danbury news conference that he had been retained on behalf of the
