Poor Sportsmanships Legislatures Reply To His Charge; Senate Tit Heard

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The Alabama house of representatives yesterday passed a resolution censuring the "very poor sportsmanships" of Senator Thomas Hefflin in his filing a contest charging "fraud and irregularity" in the general election last November.

The resolution was introduced by Representative Charles C. Jones, of Clark county, and announcement of its adoption by a vote of 91 to 3 brought cheers from the opposed members of the house on the floor.

Introduction of the measure followed published dispatches quoting Senator Hefflin's announcement that he would contest the election of last November in which he ran as an independent and was defeated by more than 50,000 by John H. Bankhead of Jasper, democrat.

The resolution cited Senator Hefflin's 30-year record as an office-holder, including the office of secretary of state, congressman and United States senator, and said "J. Thomas Hefflin has during the great part of his tenure of office as United States senator, made Alabama the laughing stock of the union by his bigotry, lack of religious tolerance and the lack of many of the courtesies generally expected between gentlemen and another."

Senator Hefflin was declared to have "done very little of a constructive nature during his ten-year office as United States senator, but has been a constant source of trouble and embarrassment to his state."

General McCoy acted upon the request of Brigadier-General Victor Collins, of Florida, acting for Governor Carlton. Area headquarters said the blankets were made of material and the War Department authorized the sale at a nominal price to the relief organization to aid in the relief of unemployed when local facilities were inadequate to cope with the situation.

VOLUSIAN FILES $100,000 ACTION ON COAST LINE

Suit Based On Property Loss Resulting From Flood Waters

DELAND, Jan. 30.—A $100,000 damage suit was filed in circuit court here Thursday morning against the Atlantic Coast (Pine) millway. Plaintiffs in the suit are J. E. Lawson and Spig K. Lawson, owners of the property.

By the declaration it is alleged that over a period of several years the Atlantic Coast Line constructed a levee or dam extending several hundred feet along their tracks adjacent to the trestle with creases on the St. Johns river.

As a result of the erection of this dam the free flow of the waters of the St. Johns was hindered and the water rose above the natural level it is alleged.

Among the damages set out in the declaration is the destruction of 100 acres of meadow by the rising waters, the damaging of 1,000,000 feet of pine timber, the permanent and total loss of a 5-acre orange grove, and the rendering of much of the land entirely unfit for cultivation.

It was also set forth in the declaration that a $60,000 house had been constructed upon the property, a $5,000 frame house, a barn valued at $2,500, a $1,000 garage, $3,000 worth of fens, the orange grove was valued at $5,000 and a ten-acre tract $5,000.

The declaration alleged that the building of the dam which caused the rising of the water had submerged much of the land and decreased the value of these many improvements.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson are residents of Sanford Springs, and are well known in Sanford. They formerly resided at Ocala.

RELIEF PLANS MUST GO OVER SAYS ROBINSON

Senate Democrats Will Force Extra Session Unless 6-Point Plan They Urged Is Passed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Senate Democrats today urged that the relief program be passed by the end of the session. The democrats outlined a six-point relief program and Robinson, speaking for the party, said it represented "the minimum of emergency measures which in the opinion of their advocates was required by existing conditions in order to avoid the necessity for an extra session of congress."

He gave formal notice that unless the $25,000,000 relief appropriation or a satisfactory modification of it passed, the interior department appropriation on measure of which it was a part, will fail. Included in the program is a $2,500,000 revolving fund for relief to farmers in the flood stricken areas of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and Alabama.

With the authorizing legislation entangled in a house committee, the senate attached to the war department supply bill a provision for giving 20,000 bushels of farm board wheat to an agency to be designated by the president.

While casting about for another agency to distribute the $25,000,000 fund he proposed to give to the Red Cross, Democratic Leader Robinson of Arkansas said Thursday he was willing that that agency employ such other organizations as it chose to distribute the fund.

Chairman John Barton Payne of the Red Cross earlier had said his organization felt it should not appropriate to accept such a gift to relieve unemployment.

That committee Thursday rejected the senate proposal by a vote of 18 to 11. The provision for donating the farm board wheat will go to the same committee. Authorizing legislation for the wheat donation is entangled in the groove of the house agriculture committee.

Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, offered the wheat amendment. The farm board would be repaid by congress for the cost of the wheat and the distributing agency would be called upon to meet the cost of milling it into flour.

The senate voted 46 to 16 to accept the Capper proposal after Robinson had pleaded for it. Robinson said he understood from Red Cross officials that wheat and flour is one of the main necessities for relief work.

He also condemned the administration's proposal for a bill to the next legislature.

Judge Marion G. Rowe, seventh judicial circuit, welcomed the delegates at the advance conference, and Robert H. Anderson, Jacksonville, gave the response.

Principal activities for Friday center around addresses by Charles A. Boston, New York president of the American Bar association, R. A. Henderson Jr., president of the Florida body, and others.

Measures of legal procedure and reduction of governmental costs as they affect maintenance of courts through consolidation of circuits and elimination of non-essential courts, will be major topics of discussion.

Paris In Less Than 3 Days Envisioned By Naval Officials

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Two and one-half day trips from Washington to Paris within three years at a cost of $750 were envisioned Thursday for the House Interstate Commerce Committee.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett and Jerome C. Hunsaker were the witnesses.

The chief of the Navy's Aeronautics Bureau said it should be possible to have proposed giant dirigibles for trans-oceanic duty in service within three years.

Hunsaker, vice president of the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation, testified 520 hypothetical flights based on weather maps had shown the airships could make the trip to Paris in less than three days.

He held the pending Parker bill to grant a mail subsidy to airships to be necessary for initial operation.

NAVY BOARD IS BEING DRAWN TO TRY BUTLER

Davis, 1924 Presidential Nominee May Be Called To Defense Of Marine Officer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Preparations for Major-General Smedley Butler's court martial went ahead today at the Navy department. Butler, under arrest at the Quantico Marine post which he commanded until yesterday, asked his old companion Major Henry Leonard, of the Marines, retired, to represent him. The expectation was that John Davis, prominent New York lawyer, and the 1924 democratic nominee for president would head the counsel for Butler was expressed by his friends. Marine officials were preparing the list of members for the court from among high command of the service.

Premier Mussolini called the Italian embassy that he felt sure he would obtain "just and prompt redress from the fairness, loyalty and friendship of the American government, and the American people, whose respect for truth is well known to me," after the incident in which Butler was said to have made derogatory remarks about him.

Local Red Cross To Begin Relief Fund Drive Next Week

An echo of the call for aid which is heard hourly throughout the drought stricken areas of the middle-west was heard today in Sanford when an announcement was made by Mrs. Linton E. Allen, chairman of the publicity committee of the local chapter of the American Red Cross that, beginning next Monday, an extensive drive will be made here to raise Seminole County's quota of the $10,000,000 relief fund. The sum of $1,000 is expected to be raised in this county.

The drive will be under the generalship of Mrs. Sidney Chase Jr., who heads a large group of local women who will make calls on business houses and corporations during the week. Persons who wish to contribute may mail checks, payable to Mrs. Chase, treasurer of the Red Cross, either to Mrs. Chase, or Linton E. Allen, at the Sanford-Atlantic National Bank.

Fertilization Talked Over By Local Group

Continuing their discussion on fertilizer and farm problems, nearly 40 Sanford growers met last night at the Seminole High School, and under the direction of Alex H. Johnson, head of the vocational department, spent several hours which were said to have been interesting in content and beneficial to all. Every grower present was heard during the evening.

Included in the topics under investigation were: "The relative value of ammonia in fertilizer materials," "The actual cash value of phosphoric acid and potash," "The effect of fertilizing material on bacterial action in the soil," "The effect of cover crops on fertilizing action," and "How to treat the soil after fertilization to increase bacterial action."

It was decided to hold weekly discussions, every Thursday night during the winter months, and farmers everywhere are invited to attend. The sessions begin at 8:00 o'clock. Next Thursday will be the first of a series of five sessions on farm problems which will be brought to the attention of farmers. The subject will be announced later.

NEW PROHIBITION PROBE LOOMS AS HOUSE MEASURE

Wickersham Report Is Said Indefinite In Its Recommendation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—An independent prohibition investigation by the House Judiciary Committee was proposed Thursday by Representative Dyer of Missouri, its ranking Republican member.

Dyer announced he was drafting a resolution for the inquiry after Chairman Graham declined to allow American Ambassador Morehead to return from Sweden to testify before that committee on the Wickersham prohibition report.

Graham said he was considering taking up the Wickersham report in regular hearings, but that since the department had declined to cooperate he had "no plans." A modification of the Swedish system was suggested by Commissioner Anderson, of the law enforcement body, as a substitute for prohibition in the United States.

"I asked the State Department to allow Ambassador Morehead a leave of absence in order that he might give us his views," Chairman Graham said. "Secretary Stimson wrote me, declining. There was no explanation."

Dyer said he would offer the resolution at the committee's next meeting.

"Since, in my opinion, it is impossible for the committee to advise congress on legislation on the basis of the Wickersham report," Dyer said, "I shall ask that we seek authority to go into the matter further, and determine what legislation would be helpful. We need to find out what the commission wants us to recommend.—If anything—or to investigate independently every phase of the situation their investigation touched."

The Missourian added he would seek full authority for continuation of the inquiry after Congress adjourns, "with a view to recommending legislation at the beginning of the next session."

"And," he observed, "we won't need $500,000 to do it, the Wickersham commission did. I believe $25,000 would suffice for us."

Another Missourian—Cochran, a Democrat—is preparing a bill to legalize beer in States without their own dry laws. He said he would introduce the measure next week.

SEMINOLE PARK HARNESS RACING IS INAUGURATED

Big Crowd Witnesses Falling Of Records At Meet Yesterday

The first harness racing of the 1931 season was staged at Seminole Park yesterday, the winter meeting opening with a large crowd out to welcome the sulky horse inaugural.

All time records for so early in the season, both pacing and trotting, were broken, the Cincinnati mare Patricia Harvester winning the 2:18 trot in 2:09 while Leah Jancy, also from the Queen City, paced a third heat in 2:07 in the first two rounds in slower time.

Every one of the three events finished a good contest, the 2:18 pace and 2:18 trot having split heats. Blingon H., in the 2:20 pace, being the only one of the trio of winners to finish on top in all three heats.

A field of ten, the largest of the day, went to the post for the 2:18 trot and Huber got Patricia Harvester to the front early and kept her there throughout the first and second miles. In the final, however, Junietta Watta came out from behind in the home stretch and head-off the Cincinnati mare at the wire, her heat in 2:09 equaling the record made by Patricia in the previous heat.

The 2:14 pacers furnished some sparkling bits of speed; Macaron Patchen, the favorite with these inclined to speculate, was off in front in the first heat but Miss Worthy posed him out at the finish, then Lillian K., battled Miss Worthy in the second round but failed to lead. Irish Jimmy, another of the Huber consorts, put in a snailing finish in the Macaron Patchen in 2:07, the fastest mile of the year. Blingon H., the favorite, was pretty much the class of the field which went to the post in the 2:20 pace, making a straight heat with Red H. bringing him to a hard drive in pronounced resemblance of John Barrymore makes him a suitable figure.

Between heats the crowd was entertained by the style models from the Dickson-Jones Company department store, a pleasing feature, particularly for the fair sex which made up a large part of the crowd in the stand. In passing it may be remarked that none of the gentlemen present looked the other way when the latest creations from Paris were on display, although some of them may have had qualms in the region of the pocketbook.

The officials in the stand were E. A. Hopkins of Richmond, Va.; Joseph M. McGraw, Washington, Pa., presiding judge; J. S. Vipond, Altoona, Pa.; David Kelly, Greenboro, N. C.; and David Raymond, Detroit, Mich. Umpers.

The second program of the week will be reced on Saturday night when the regular winter schedule of racing on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday will be inaugurated.

From Chairman Payne there came Thursday a denial that the organization was "playing politics" in its refusal to handle the fund.

"On the contrary," he said, "the Red Cross has, after the most careful consideration, determined that the welfare of the Red Cross and those that it is now helping and will help in the future requires that it will continue its historic voluntary role and refuse to be drawn into politics."

Payne said the senate gift would require the Red Cross to spend the money wherever it was needed in the United States, for unemployment aid in the cities and drought help in the country.

Unemployment aid was being carried on by other organizations in the cities, he said, and the Red Cross would embarrass these in their work if it duplicated the agencies now operating.

Payne said if the Red Cross should go into cities, "create organizations and duplicate the work of other agencies in order to compete with the will of congress, the sum appropriated by this bill is hopelessly inadequate.

"The president of the federation of labor states that there are 5,700,000 unemployed," he said. "Assuming this is true and that each one represents a family of four, including himself, this would provide just a fraction over one dollar per person."

The consequences of assuming such a task with a fund so small, he said, would be such "in view of the enormous problem confronting it, as to invite certain failure and probable disaster."

Virginia Cotton Mill Strikers Return To Work

crimination against union workers. Gorman said a belief that such discrimination did exist caused the walkout last Sept. 29.

"This action is taken voluntarily by the union with the hope on their part that the mill management will accept it as a measure of confidence and trust which in time may become mutual and enable employer and employee to view their problem eye to eye," Gorman said.

C. S. Garrison, publicity and public relations representative of the American Federation of Labor, said he understood the mill could re-employ immediately from 800 to 1000 of the strikers and that others could be added when machinery was repaired. He said the workers would immediately apply for reinstatement.

H. H. Fitzgerald, president of the cotton mills, refused to meet in conference with representatives of the union, and maintained a policy of silence after his message "there is nothing to mediate" to Governor Pollard four days after the strike began.

Explosion Kills Coal Workers In Big British Mine

when a mighty blast occurred in the part known as "Number 3 North District."

This blew out a brick wall which had been built to seal an area where 13 miners died in an explosion three years ago.

Adjoining the Haig mine is the Wellington pit, where 130 men and boys were killed by an explosion in 1910. The 30 men gassed were those working there Thursday night, but they were brought up without any deaths, and were taken to a hospital.

As soon as the explosion was heard, rescue parties were organized and physicians and nurses were assembled at the pit-head. Soon the entire surrounding population jammed around the mine.

Rescue parties went down well equipped with special apparatus, but were handicapped in fighting afterdamp. They pushed ahead as fast as possible and quickly sent up those who had escaped injury altogether or were slightly gassed.

Distressing demonstrations of sorrow were witnessed as the dead were brought up and identified by the relatives.

The Haig pit was visited in 1927 by the Prince of Wales. Wearing miner's overalls, the British heir descended 1200 feet in the shaft and was transported in a pit-truck to the coal face a mile under sea, where he operated a drill. The workings already reach six miles under sea, and are constantly being extended.

Houses Topple When Quake Hits Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Two sharp earthquakes Thursday again spread terror in Southern Mexico, shaken by tremors January 14, and were estimated to have been felt in 12 or 13 States.

Some damage was reported, especially in Oaxaca, which received the worst end of the previous disaster.

The shocks, which came at 10:41 A. M. and 11:11 A. M., were barely perceptible in Mexico City but were felt plainly to the southward.

Telegrams from Oaxaca said that numerous houses, which had been abandoned following their weakening by the January 14 quake collapsed Thursday. The inhabitants of the city were terrorized, particularly by the loud subterranean noises which accompanied the tremors.

A Bed Bug Letter

Smedley Butler, who has the reputation of being unswerving for a Marine officer, of saying just what he thinks, has again put his foot in it. This time he listened to an incident which Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., one of America's best story tellers, related, and apparently taking it as gospel repeated it a few weeks later in an address in Philadelphia. What Vanderbilt had said regarding the hit-and-run conduct of Premier Mussolini caused no excitement whatever, but when repeated by a Major General of the United States Marine Corps, and brought to the attention of Il Duce himself, it immediately took on an international significance.

Butler is one of the few great talkers the army or navy has ever produced. He is not an orator, but he is a talker. He delivers his addresses extemporaneously without ever making notes or preparing his remarks in advance. He says just what he thinks and lets the sparks fly where they will. This characteristic may be all right in a politician, circus barker, or anyone else, but in a Marine officer, it is apt to result in court martials. One of the first rules of any of the service departments is to keep your mouth shut. Butler should never have said anything derogatory about Mussolini at all, certainly he should have been pre-eminently sure of his facts.

But if Butler is put in a bad light by this incident, it appears to us that Mussolini is made a better man. We think it is certain that few Americans will be able to see him or his position. Putting as one of the greatest soldiers and statesmen of all time, the unifier of Italy, the savior of his people, the creator of that marvelous Twentieth Century political development, Fascism, and believing himself to be the Supreme Being on earth and the lord high cockle-worm of the universe, Mussolini takes offense at the extemporaneous remarks of a comparatively insignificant Marine general uttered three or four thousand miles away in a humdrum vein at a home town meeting. He is insulted. He demands an apology!

The State Department, quick to sense the delicacy of the situation, does what was expected of it. It should do under the circumstances, and apologize. Sweet words and flowery sentences are so much easier, and possibly more sensible, than gunboats, bombs and hand grenades. Secretary of State Stimson cables "His Excellency" that the Secretary has the honor to express the deep regret of this country, and the sincere regrets of this government, for the discourteous and unwarranted utterance of General Butler, and he begs His Excellency to accept the highest consideration of the Secretary.

We are reminded of a story told about the Pullman Company, which, too, may be near-ay and inviting court martial. A superior but sensitive individual was riding on a Pullman one night when he encountered bed bugs. He was indignant and at the end of his journey, wrote the head of the Pullman Company, demanding an apology and threatening all sorts of dire things if proper amends were not promptly made. Shortly afterward he received a letter in reply which was most profuse in its apologies, went into great detail to explain the mortification which the company felt over the incident, and assured the aggrieved erstwhile passenger that the porter would be dismissed and the conductor severely reprimanded. Inadvertently turning the letter over he observed this notation carelessly written on the back: "Send this blankety blank louse one of those bed bug letters!"

More Comments On The Report

The report of the Wickersham Crime Commission has excited many comments through the nation throughout the ages. In fact, if the quotations selected by Frank Sullivan in the New York World are considered, for centuries apparently poets and statesmen have been writing of the Wickersham Crime report; and no two of them have ever agreed in their characterization of it. The following prove that Mr. Sullivan knows his book of quotations as well as his Wickersham report:

It hath a very ancient and fish-like smell. (The Tempest)

Zounds! I was never so bethump'd by words. Since I first call'd my brother's father, King John.

All hell broke loose. (Paradise Lost).

Hamlet Hooper—Do you see yonder cloud that's almost in shape of a camel?

Polonius Wickersham—By the mass, and 'tis like a camel indeed.

Hamlet—Methinks it is like a weasel.

Pol.—It is backed like a weasel.

Hamlet—Or like a whale?

Pol.—Very like a whale.

'Tis neither here nor there. (Othello).

Such labor'd nothings, in so strange a style, Amaze the unlearn'd and make the learned smile. (Pope).

In fine, nothing is now said that hath not been said before. (Arsenica).

He draweth out the thread of his verbiage. Finer than the staple of his argument. (Love's Labor Lost).

A deal of skimble-akamble stuff. (Henry IV).

But for my own part, it was Greek to me. (Julius Caesar).

Confusion now hath made his masterpiece. (Macbeth).

Who can be wise, amazed, temperate and furious, Loyal and neutral, in a moment? (Macbeth).

To blow and swallow at the same time is not easy. (Plautus).

I would pain die a dry death. (The Tempest).

How cautious are the wise! (Pope).

Of my merit.

On that pint you yourself may judge.

All is, I never drink no spirit.

Nor I haint never signed no pledge. (Biglow Papers).

Grattiano speaks an infinite deal of nothing. (Merchant of Venice).

Here are a few of the unpleasant words. That ever blotted paper. (Merchant of Venice).

SECRETS OF A SOCIAL LEADER

By Mrs. Van Vliet
I shall never forget the party in 1899. Mother wanted it to be exclusive and was in a quandary over whom to invite. We couldn't confine our invitations to sixty or seventy, as we had more creditors than that. However, if we issued 1,200 or 1,300 tickets, some of them would have gone on sale at Joe Lombardi's. Mamma, in her perplexity, sent for advice. Bart knew all the different shades of blue bloods, whom to invite and whom to snub. Well, that invitation list to the party made history. When Bart McPlester got through with it there were just 400 to watch no come out.

The list sprang a sensation among New York's upper crust. The riff-raff begged us for guest checks or even gallery tickets, but mamma's head was adamant. The hundred couples were all the better room could accommodate. The perfect ladies wore bustles then. The affair was a wonderful success. The guests represented the cream of society. The only one who was not invited was One-Eye Connolly, who crashed the gate with a bucket of lemonade in each hand. The butler mistook him for Van Kensaleger Carp. We did not know Connolly out, however, so one of our guests failed to show up. Instead, we introduced One-Eye to Miss DePuyster. They had much in common, as Miss DePuyster has only one tooth.

All the society editors said the party was the biggest success since the fireman's ball. Some cut pointed gin into the punch, and by the time supper was served the body was throbbing and the another and dropping has been somebody's neck. After the supper a demijohn brandy was dumped on the floor and all waiting was left to the A. M. the guests were sitting out dances in the middle of the floor. Mamma came to the door and said she thought the room was rather stuffy. It was the guests, who were rather stiff. Just then Bart McPlester came up. He told us even if they all got castled, and to vote Senator Brookhart had not been invited.

Along about the A. M. the milkman drew up at the back door and we thought it was the patrol wagon. The butler rendered his report to mamma and said a number of milked forks, coffee spoons and demijohns were missing. He did not mind the powder or demijohns, but all the milked forks we had borrowed.

To get out of this awkward situation, Bart McPlester suggested the guests be asked to the Post Office. He said that every guest must have a letter in their room to get his mail. We would give him on the beam with guest calls and letters in the morning.

As we started playing the piano these were passed out in the main room. The first in the Dead Letter Office. The first letter in the game and we had a little game. Bart was very clever in dividing the market and he played the right hand. He only got out of the game with a few hundred dollars.

AN OLD FRIEND OF US UP

Independent kingdom? Isn't it the private property of Sheik Hamad of Khalifah? "Sure," they said, "you need a British viceroy." "Well, I'll see about it later," said M. Londres, "maybe I'll first go to Djedda to see the pearl fisherman. Djedda is of the pirate class." "You'll need a British viceroy," they said. "Oh, yes," said M. Londres, "I'll see about it later." "How about the Pirate class?" "Isn't their permission to land sufficient?" "No, sir," the party made history. When Bart McPlester got through with it there were just 400 to watch no come out.

A British authority who applied to remain anonymous for the Observer, corresponded to a group of Joffra's death that the results of strength of two hours decided the world's fate in 1914-1915. The strong heart of Joffra, responsible for a pitifully long death agony sincerely deplored by his former enemies, was pitted against the organically weak one of von Mohlen, who was always subject to nervous panic at times of crisis. Von Mohlen's heart, it will be remembered, caused his sudden death in the Reichstag in 1916. Joffra's cool head in all circumstances was obviously the outcome of his magnificent nervous system.

Political Affairs in Spain Intense by New Student Riots

MADRID, Jan. 30 (AP)—Rioting by Republican students flared in Spain yesterday, adding uncertainty to a political situation already muddled by the refusal of all parties, except the extreme right Monarchists, to participate in the March 1 Parliamentary elections.

Every university in the country was closed yesterday morning by a general students' strike previously arranged.

In Hueva striking students paraded the streets, shouting for a republic and demanding the immediate release of students and professors imprisoned for participating in the strike.

Police reserves were rushed to the university at Santiago de Compostela, to restore order after a Republican demonstration had caused a number of injuries. Several students were jailed.

A demonstration in Madrid was attempted by 50 unemployed men on one of the principal boulevards, but the crowd dispersed without fighting before the police.

Meantime, the Catalonian parties followed the Constitutionalists and other strong parties in withdrawing from the Parliamentary elections.

Only the extreme Monarchists now remain in the race, says Premier Berenguer, insisting the elections will come off as scheduled. This means a Monarchist Parliament will likely be installed and the oppositionists thus could challenge the election results.
