Kids with weapons System copes with expelled students' return to school

By Jeans Hughes HERALD STAFF WRITER

SEMINOLE COUNTY · A weapon has been confiscated. The student carrying it has been expelled. One less weapon-toting student in our school. But is it?

Chances are that student will be back among his classmates in the same public school in as little as one year. Returning potentially dangerous students to the general student population is a concern of principals and parents.

Lake Brantley High School

Principal Darvin Boothe remembers an incident about 5 years ago when a student brought a loaded 9 mm semiautomatic pistol to school. The student was showing the gun to other students hoping to find a buyer for the stolen weapon.

'I had concerns when that student returned to school," Boothe remembers Boothe describes the student with a history of harasament and intimidation, an unremorseful. For-tunately, in this case. Boothe's worst fear did not come to pass.

A student can be expelled through the following school year for bringing a weapon to school. The Seminole County School Board makes the final decision on expulsions acting on the recommendation of the school principal. The board can expel a student permanently, but in 21 years as a principal. Boothe has never seen a permanent expulsion. Boothe dors feel the school board, in recent years, has taken actions that are more supportive of principals.

Not all students who bring a weapon to school do so for the same reason. Boothe had another student expelled during Piesse Bee Wespess, Page 6A

They've been meeting with Seminole County officials and will be part of a mock business process for obtaining licenses and gain an honorary vote by the commission to approve the business.

Some insiders are predicting the commission will vote, 4-1, in favor of the Shanghai visitors. Only in Seminole.

LAKE MARY - The city has agreed to join the fight against the "noxious" weeds that are degrading the water quality of East Crystal Lake. Lake Mary commissioners unanimously agreed to join in a spraying program with the East Crystal Lake Homeowners Assoc. Inc., headed by William P. "Bud" Layer.

Layer told the city commission that the lakefront property owners incorporated into a homeowners group "with the sole purpose of improving the water quality of the lake." The homes of the concerned residents are in unincorporated Seminole County, near Sanford. The group is looking to Lake Mary to contribute to the spraying program because Liberty Park comprises a large portion of the western shoreline.

Legislating morality

No matter how well-intentioned it may be, the Seminole County Citizens for Decency is treading on dangerous grounds. Not everyone is going to agree with a group that wants to legislate morality.

The Rev. Mark George managed to get 10,500 registered voters to sign a petition that would either force the county commissioners to pass a public nudity law or have the issue decided in a referendum this fall.

Should it succeed in covering up all the nude dancers in the county, what would stop the Citizens for Decency from taking further steps? Perhaps they next would try to stop women from wearing mini-skirts or makeup.

It should not be the responsibility of any particular group to write the laws for the county as the Citizens of Decency has done. It is one thing to pressure the elected officials into writing the appropriate adult entertainment codes , another to legislate morality.

The US Supreme Court has ruled that children should not pray in our public schools and that nucle dancing is a form of expression protected by the First Amend-ment. Whether they like it or not, officials in counties throughout the country must comply with these rulings.

County's elected officials have done that. There's been a lot of time and effort to regulate the adult entertainment industry hereabouts. Not kill it, but regulate it, h it from growing, keep the existing clubs from breaking rules and fight the good fight in the courts of law if need be. Seminole County, many fight

Seminole County may have to spend a million dollars on regulating the adult entertainment industry. Most of this is the fight to close a couple of this whit the county says opened unlawfully. One remains open, the other was shut down.

Recent raids by City County Investi Bureau (CCIB) agents have resulted

Recent comments from area hotels regarding the building of the hotel and conference center in Sanford clearly shows why there should be heavy support for the project by Sanford and other Seminole County residents. Their message is clear, 'ignore Sanford once more.' The truth is, that the project is not only good for Sanford, but for all of Seminole County. The fact is, that there is no better place to build the proposed project. The city and the lake create the best possible atmosphere in the entire area

Mayor Dale is right on with this one, and the county commission is making the proper effort with its involvement. Orlando, well, let the flags fly. Now that the City of Orlando has encountered problems with allowing a special group to fly its flag, they want to immediately prevent others from doing the same. No clue as to where this will lead. This is not about hate, to the contrary, this is about fairness and unfortunately the lack of courage on the part of Orlando public officials to make a proper decision because they don't want to offend people who should be able to understand the ramifications of their selfish actions. they don't want to allow others to do the same. Talk about exclusion. The rest of the community has now been excluded. Once this flag flies, for who knows how long, no one else will be able to get a permit to fly their special flag. Light rail, heavy burden Light rail has become a heavy burden. This column is being written on June 2, prior to the meeting that will take place in California, so I'll make some predictions and comment. Universal is between a rock and a hard place, and our government officials have put them there. No one is going to be able to come away from this meeting in California without some kind of concession. Neither want to be seen as losers so there will be a modest, unclear proposal by Universal that under the surface fore we all understand that is the case. The me-dia will put a spin on it in its effort to promote a better deal. means very little. It will take some months be-

Now for some comments on how this should be done. It is my opinion that Disney was all but left out of the project because they were perhaps a little besitant at the beginning. I would suggest these approaches: Open discus-sions with both Universal and Disney including r interested parties along International Drive. I would start from the beginning. Put all the current plans on the shelf. Meet and listen to what these companies have to say, with the understanding that a mass transportation system must be built. That it is both imperative and to the benefit of all that a cooperative plan be put in place.

All options are open for discussion including the type of system. I think that government officials are misreading the support for this project. What they perceive to be support is not representative of the community as a whole. They are out of touch with the general public. Their factics are not seen as productive and maybe even heavy handed. The end result could be a lack of support politically in the fature. Congressman John Mice has fought hard and his efforts to implement mass transportation in the area are to be commended. However, there could be a backlash from the public that isn't getting straight answers from others. This leaves Mr. Mics in an awkward position as there appears to be little help from other leaders, and an honest evaluation as to why Universal is balking, as is the public.

There is a true need for a public relationa person right now with the proper answers and ability to get the message across. No, not a consultant. There is a need for a representative this venture to get the message out, restore Adence, and make clear the need.

number of arrests. One club recently has had more CCIB agents drop in than it has had regular customers. If the club closes, the county will have one less egg to fry.

Should the Citizens for Decency succeed in covering up the dancing girls of Seminole County, it is possible that a bigger number of "bikini" clubs will open quickly. More women are expected to apply for dancing jobs where they can wear a bikini, and more men will go to see these women perform. Law enforcement officials anticipate more trouble if this happens.

The suggestion here is for members of the Citizens for Decency to teach their children well and to live their lives as they see fit. Their concerns about what goes on at a night club and what dancers abould be wearing does not give them authority over the way others care to enjoy themselves. Some prefer to pray, others to play. To each his or her own.

The FBI did confirm that the hair on Jessica's shorts was from a Caucasian. But Eaton said he ruled against admitting the hair, because it did not pass the sec-ond part of the Frye test. The data base, with 1 match out of 1,546 examples, was too small to provide an accurate percentage result," Eaton said.

. FCAT will be given in every school district in Forda. Currently there are about 6 different standardized tests administered to students, providing no consistency in assessment statewide. The FCAT will provide a consistent source of information for parents, teschers, and others interested in student achievement. In addition, school districts can opt to eliminate their current standardized tests to reduce the number of tests students take. This will save time (providing more class time for students) and money (by reducing costs associated with testing). • FCAT will be phased in for accountability purposes. By the year 2000, FCAT will be included in the School Performance Report that is used to identify critically low performing schools as well as high-performing schools. • FCAT will be used for promotion purposes. The group has contracted with Aquatic Biologists, Inc. for aquatic management of both Pine Lake and East Crystal Lake. The company has targeted water primrose, cattails, torpedo grass, alligator weed, water fern, duckweed and parrot feather as widespread emergent nuisance aquatic plants". The company recommends treatment of the lake monthly with the aquatic herbicides as well as stocking it with triploid grass carp in order to keep beneficial natad and nitella in check.

this school year for bringing a knife to school. According to Boothe, the 10th grader brought the knife to school to protect himself from a perceived threat, (Administrators found no evidence of a real threat.1

I would be comfortable with this particular student returning to school," said Boothe. "He was not threatening anyone." The knife was found because of a tip to Weapons In School Eliminated.

W.I.S.E. is an incentive program for information leading to the confiscation of illegal weapons on school campuses. The W.I.S.E. program was founded at Lake Brantley in the fall of 1997 by a concerned parent. Paul Gaiptman. The goal of W.I.S.E. is to find the weapons before there is a tragedy.

A weapon on campus is a zero tolerance offense. The student would be immediately suspended. School administrators are required to report any incidences of an illegal weapon on school grounds. From that point the consequences vary depending on the student's age and the type of weapon involved.

The juvenile system is supposed to be a deterrent," said Juventle Division Chief Laura Bosco with the Seminole County State Attorney's Office. According to Bosco, students 16 or older in possession of fircarms would probably have charges filed against them in adult court. If the student was younger than 16, or the weapon involved was not a firearm, the case would be handled through the juvenile system.

Juvenile alternatives can include diversion programs with the Sheriff's Office, such as the PAY or Right Track programs. The juvenile would probably be placed on community control. A part of the juvenile process is an assessment of the student including the need for counseling.

The most common excuse for bringing a weapon to school is students' need to protect themselves. Students with concerns have more appropriate channels for help such as school administrators or the school resource officer, reminds Bosco.

Executive Director of Secondary Education Ron Pinnell oversees expulsions and auspensions for Seminole County schools. According to Pinnell. students expelled from school do not directly re-enter the general student population. Students must attend an alternative education program for at least one term.

One alternative program is Project Excel. At Excel students receive counseling, and training in areas that include living skills and problem solving. Most of the students who return to the main stream from Excel are successful.

Discipline actions taken with students who receive special education services must be handled differently. Students who receive special education services must, by law, be allowed to continue to receive services. This can make removing such a student from school more complicated, but there are channels to determine if the student requires a more restrictive environment. If a student is found to be a danger to himself or others. the student can be removed.

Officials involved acknowledge that there are relatively few cases of weapons found on campuses in Seminole County. Whether that is because the weapons are not being brought to school, or are simply not being detected, is unclear.

Programs such as W.I.S.E. may increase the number of weapons confiscated thereby increasing the number of students requiring disciplinary action and related services. The W.I.S.E. program will be expanded in the coming school year to include all Seminole County schools.

School officials are required to do everything that is reasonable and prudent to protect students and staff on campuses. Pinnell said the safeguards are in place to prevent tragedies similar to those seen recently throughout the country.

The Truman Show: Art imitating life imitating art

···· The Truman Show: Truman Burbank is the most watched man in America if not the world. But not by his own choice. He is the great experiment. Finally, someone has come up with the idea to film actual life as it happens, and it just so happens to be Truman's life.

In a brilliant new film by Australian director Peter Weir, written by Gattaca screenwriter Andrew Niccol, Jim Carrey stars in what could be considered his first dramatic role as Truman in The Truman Show.

Truman is the first human being to ever be adopted by a corporation. Since his days in the womb. "Truman was the perfect choice" to star in the first ever television show that chronicles a real human life. claims the show's creator and director, Christof (Ed Harris). As the film opens, the audience is introduced to the adult Truman, who is still unaware that every movement he makes is being transmitted to the rest of the world via 5,000 hidden cameras.

He lives in a quaint, utopia-like village by the ocean called Seahaven. But, it is all a facade, an illusion to make its unwitting subject at home and comfortable. Even the people that populate Truman's life. from his wife (Laura Linney) to his best friend (Noah Em-merich) to even his mother (Holland Taylor), are nothing more than ruses: actors performing the ultimate con. Sure, some have tried to expose the show making Truman aware of what is going on, but they have been met with swift action.

But it's the production staff's own blunders that arouses the curiosity of Truman. Set lights falling from the sky, a backstage where actors sit in director's chairs sipping on drinks where elevators should be, and a beautiful woman (Natascha McElhone), who captures Truman's eye, wants to tell by being taken away by her father". It eventually leads up to Truman realizing that not everything is what it seems, and that leads him on a Fox since I have seen The Truman Show, and it vividly remains with me. It is the best film of the year so far. The surprise is that it is classified as a mainstream film as it is being dis-tributed by Paramount Pictures and stars Jim Carrey. who took a "pay cut" to be in this film. But the writing. directing and acting have the passion of the independent films-almost an anomaly in today's mainstream filmmaking.

The Truman Show is a mixed bag of science fiction (the studio in which The Truman Show" is filmed is said to be the second visible landmark from space next to the Great Wall of China and there is this massive computer that is intricate enough to control the climate within the studio), unsympathetic human drama, dark comedy and satire. Each element complements the other.

Some of the new film's themes seem similar to the earlier 1998 film Dark City. You could also make the argument that The Truman Show is a bit Orwellian. Despite these comparisons. The Truman Show is definitely one of a kind.

. Developing Niccol's script for the screen is Peter Weir, the gifted director of such great films as Dead Poets Society. where he took another crazy comedian (Robin Williams) and made him a dramatic force to be reckoned with, and Witness.

Weir is capable of snowing the audience at first making us as much the dark an Truman. He subtly suggests Truman's made up world by giving the audience the perspective of looking through a variety of camera lenses. That

The most fascinating thing about Weir's direction is how effortlessly he infuses the audience into Truman's plight for freedom. We are sympathetic towards the main character but without all the manipulation.

The Trumon Show has strong supporting performances but is defined by only two: Ed Harris and, yes, Jim Carrey. The contortionist comedian drops the guise that has made him a box office hit to mature as an actor. In past roles, I have criticized Carrey for carrying his performances way over the top. In The Truman Show, he is actually restrained but never doubt his energy. This is the Carrey show. However, there are still some scenes that could not be done without Carrey's comic sensibility. Ed Harris creates one of the best screen villains in some time. Christof is a megalomaniac, an artist so fection that he almost crupts in a frenzied rage when things go wrong. This man puts him-self in the position of God by mapping out Truman's life with his direction. Yet, Christof is imperfect and he is willing to accept the conse-quences if anything were to go wrong. We accept the reality in which we are presenting." he says. Harris should be considered next year at Oscar time.

I can not stress enough how new and original The Truman Show is. And I certainly cannot stress how difficult it is to dismiss this film as just another great film. It involves you emotionally and cerebrally.

It should be noted that The Truman Show is not for children even though it is rated "PO". Those who expect Carrey to sport funny looking hairdos and talk from his behind are going to be disappointed. This is another side to Carrey's multi-level talent. Carrey may pular, but

It's the right time for Time Square Bistro

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - Thursday, June 4, was the grand opening of the new Time Square Bistro located in Historic Downtown Sanford. Nearly 150 people came out for the opening of the restaurant that combines the best in dining, jazz and relaxation. Some of the dishes, devel-oped by Chef Mike Morgan, that are available have a link to the city in their names. The Timacuan barbecue Pork Loin Sausage is named after the golfing community, and the Magnolia Square Prime Rib Sandwich named after the street the bistro is located on. The bistro also has the Ritz Caesar Salad named after the storied theatre now being restored.

In addition to the 5 main dishes and 3 salads, there are 4 side dishes to choose from. The bistro also serves drinks with $1.50 lemonade and fruit punch.

Live jazz goes on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. There are daily lunch specials, and free delivery in select arcas. Prices are reasonable with all food items under $10. "You've got all the elements of Bourbon Street but without the clubs," said Rami Yoseflan,

Memorial run honors local biker in the traditional way

Citerature and the state

By Kim Butler HERALD CORRESPONDENT LONGWOOD -Former Longwood gunshop owner. Santa Wells, was honored last Sunday with a memorial run which included more than 250 bikers who began their procession in front of his business, Bulldog Guns and Ammunition.

Santa was the victim of the first motorcycle death in the history of Florida caused by another motorcycle when he was hit head on by a rider trying to pass in his lane on State Road 415 in Osteen.

The run procession was led by a close friend known as "Cowboy" who drove the truck which carried Santa's favorite profiler bike, a 1961 blue Panhead. Above the bike waved a N.R.A.A. (National Rifle Association of America) fiag and a Harley Rebel flag.

It's a tradition the bikers have, it's their way of saying good-bye, you'll always be remembered. 9

Longwood police were very helpful escorting the bikers onto U.S. Highway 17-92 and the bikers took over from there, one or two stopping traffic at intersections so the memorial runners could remain together in one lane, 2by-2 and 5 to 8 feet behind each other.

There were a few incidents where cars would attempt to cut across the procession instead of waiting until the bikers passed. (similar to invaders

Santa leaves behind many friends young and old. His widow described, "When Santa made friends, he made friends for life."

Santa's favorite lunch partner, Ce Rhae Feathers, was in attendance at the memorial run. I liked Santa right away. He was antiquel expressed the 5-year-old. "He looked like Santa Claus but had a longer beard. He made toys for big boys." Ce Rhae ordered a hotdog and fries, "Just like me and Santa used to eat together." She talked about how Santa always shared his fries with her and gave her dollars and quarters. We talked about everything. He only drank Coke and water. He was such a nice man. Organization for Widows and Widowers

I am writing to introduce you to a new organization in the Sanlord-Lake Mary-Longwood area. The Organization's name is W.O.W. It is targeted to widows, widowers and persons who have a spouse living in a Nursing Home, and is sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW). Through both Outreach Action and Social Action the members will minister to each other as well as to the community at large. WOW intends to recognize the need for a visble support group for widows and widowers, a need that has not yet been successfully met. Non-member advisors will also be available to the members to help with any of their needs. Those non-member advisors include: Congressman (7th District) John Mics; Robert Persente, Esp., Benjamin Moore, CPA and Veteran Advisor Fred Leonard.

VOW pladges to bond, support and assist its fellow members. In order to effectively ninister to the target group's needs, the member base must be of significant number. We are looking to recruit new members and are appealing to you for assistance in this endeevor.

Thank you for your interest and attention to our newly formed organization. WOW - check us out!! We assure you, you'll have lots of fun, socializing and technical advice.

The win was the third of the season in four meeting for the Cardinals over the Yankees, with all four games determining which team would be in first place at the time.

By virtue of the three wins, the Cardinals, who are 8-3 on the season, will win the title even if they should lose today's season finale with the Braves.

The Braves and Mariners battled to a 14-14 tie in the early game last Sunday.

Trailing the Cardinals (8-3) in the standings are the Yankees (7-4), the Mariners (4-6-1) and the Braves (2-8-1).

The regular season is scheduled to end Sunday at Edgewa-ter High School with the Mariners and Yankees meeting at 10 a.m. and the Braves and Cardinals squaring off at 1 p.m.

The Cardinals took a lead they would not relinquish in the top of the first inning as Finley doubled with one out,

Surfing the 'Net this summer: Make it safe for your children

HERALD CORRESPONDENT

As school breaks for the summer, kids will be spending more time on the computer ex-ploring "cyberspace". More than 8 million children in the United States have access to the internet. And with the rise computer-acted predators, parents are often lacking the computer knowledge their children excel in. Two of the largest problems that parents face is how to control access to web sites contain-ing explicit material and how to protect per-sonal family information.

sonal family information. Parents are the first line of defense in pro-tecting their children from harm on the in-ternet. One of the most effective ways is to directly supervise a child's internet use. This option is not always evailable and certainly not favorable with kids. However, parents can benefit from parental control software. This type of software helps parents: Allow internet access only to predetermined sites or sites with predetermined characteris-tics

'Water Conservation in Florida' 9th-grader's timely speech garners soil & water awards

Editor's note: Mariel Ratiff is a 9th grader at Winter Springs High School. Her speech, "Water Conservation in Florida", won first place in the Seminole Soil & Water Conservation District's speech contest and third in the Florida Association of Conservation Districts Area IV competition.

By Mariel Retill SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

THERATS TO FLORIDA'S WATER

One of the most water-rich states in the nation is Florida. Yet, the threat to Florida's water supply becomes greater each year. With 600 to 900 people moving to Florida each day, we must all do our part to conserve, or use less of a quickly disappearing resource.

Each person in Florida uses an average of 130 to 190 gallons of clean water each day for activities such as wash clothes, dishes, cars, themselves, flushing toilets and watering lawns. Try multiplying the amount of water people use a day times the number of people living in Florida, that is a whole

In places where people don't have immediate access to water they are very conservative, careful not to waste even as little as a drop. Some people may walk many miles just to fill a small jug with water. They will make that small jug "go the dis-tance" or last for a long while. They will use a small amount to drink, some to bathe, bath water is usu-like used is clean and do much with and a little to ally used to clean and do wash with, and a little to cook with.

In other places such as Florida, we often take ter for granted. It has always been there when water for ma we turn the faucet on, there has never been long a of drought. Therefore we don't feel much of it to connerve what the have power lived wath-fingre water is genecorned, many propte have ner concervation habits.

luted, and it will take dozens of years and miltons of dollars to get them clean. One of the main causes of pollution in rivers and also is stormwater run-off. When rainwater flows wer paved surfaces, it picks up many things that are on the ground. Some examples are oil, fertile-ers, posticides, genetime, chemicale, and trash. These things sait with the rainvater and go the rainvater and go a back to back of water. into rivers, lakes, and streams, causes politica print of Watthand that is very hard and usually costs millions of dollars. At the rate we pollute them it is almost a he less cause. But if they don't get cleaned up the water from them slowly seeps into the ground, and may contaminate our underground water supplies. Some lakes and ponds become so polluted that it is even more difficult to revense or undo the awful damage that has been done. Scientists haven't given up, they are still looking to find new ways to clean and filter out the pollution that builds up over many years.

In the past people living in Florida didn't give much thought to managing water, it seemed like it would be there forever. But that all changed when Florida started to grow. People started to see the need to pass laws that would protect Florida's clean water. So in 1972, the Florida Legislature designed a plan to protect the state's water. Five water management districts were developed in different areas in Florida.

ferent areas in Florida. Water management districts make rules to help conserve ground and surface water, and also herp it from becoming polluted or wasted. In times of drought or little water, they were allowed to limit the amount of water people may have. Water man-agement districts also purchase land to keep it from being built on and damaged. After they purchase the land they usually make it access the public for recreational purposes.

You probably don't know what big users plants are. They use tons of water. The serieus. On average it takes 1,000 pounds of water to produce one pound of food. From the time plants grow from a little seedling till they are picked or die, they are meeting water out of the ground by their roots. But the water desert stay time in the plant for they in weldy evaporates, turns this rain and is reuse y where from Len to twenty taxe of w th a corn plant to pr amount of water uses by the plants which const eat, we are pretty safe in saying that the production of one pound of beef takes filteen or more tons of water. Without plants we wouldn't have anything to eat. To the plants, without water they wouldn't est. To the plants, without have asything to cat either.

The dependences of were and a sub-tractive, they are very important and are of a high value. For years wetlands were considered useless, and same people still think so. People thought it would be better to desin the water from wetlands and use the land to blight an or to farm. But little did the people billion, that when wetland destruc-tion occurs, it upsets the balance of nature. Pierian's covernment is very fragile, and it reads to be protected. Without wetlands, our water will not be nearly as clean, and more areas will become fooded.

The effects of runoff and other forms of pollution can be more damaging to a lake or pond than to a river or a stream. Do you know why? Because rivers and streams are moving or running, as com-pared to a pond or a lake that sits still for the most n rivers and streams flow or run, they are able to filter out some pollution. That is one reason why you can catch more fish in a stream than most good. Consider how much water each person in Plotida uses or wastes. Water is often taken for granted here in Florida.

By being lazy and not putting trash and other things in their proper places, we are easily pollut-ing our waterways. It is costing millions of dollars to heep our water clean. For example, a $3 bottle of to here our water clean. For example, a $3 bottle of motor oil that finds it's way into a body of water can cost millions of dollars in damages, not to mention the time someone has to spend cleaning it all up. You may find wetlands very upattractive, but they are extremely important. They are Florida's huge liters, and they naturally filter the gunk out of our water to make it clean and clear. Reep in mind the next time you attend a natural florida court that the land may have have may Floride park that the land may have been pur-chased by a water management district near you. Please make sure to hold on to your trash, you may even have to wait until you get home to throw it away. Due to the fact that garbage cans aren't nat-ural, and seem to take away from natures beauty, so are not usually placed on the park sites. Always remember that the food chain starts with clean unpolluted water. So let's all do our part to

Caregivers survival guide Community agencies, support groups are there to help

By Debra Wood, RN HERALD CORRESPONDENT

Every day more than 22 million Americans help an older family member, neighbor or friend with shopping, housework or personal needs. Without this help, many seniors would require nursing home or other institutional care. Seventy-five percent of the caregivers are women, half also hold full-time jobs, and 25 percent care for an older parent while also tending to children. Few people are truly prepared for this added responsibility. Pulled in multiple directions, caregivers frequently feel overwhelmed and alone in the world. With the right approach and resources, caring for a loved one at home can strengthen family ties and reaffirm feelings of closeness

If you have an older relative, you may suddenly find yourself with an additional fulltime responsibility. These proven survival tips can make the job easier.

· Learn your stressors and how to manage them.

Everyone is different. Certain things may increase your anxiety, but not mine. Make a list of what sets you off, then develop ways to work around your triggers. Remember, you can control only yourself, how you respond. At this stage, don't expect Mom to change. Look at your list, then determine what you can modify and thereby control. Can meals be simplified? Would a daily routine help?

Stress, an unavoidable fact of life, builds. unless you break the cycle. Take a stress management class and learn how to use relaxation techniques and how to emotionally step away from the conflict. A deep breath and the right perspective will make the day brighter.

. Keep your sense of humor.

Small, inconsequential things, like burnt toast or spilled milk, can become "the straw that breaks the camel's back" if you're overwhelmed. Laughing at yourself will case the tension for you and your loved one. Not sure whether to laugh or cry? Then look for the humon · Schedule time for yourself.

Ask for and accept help from others. Making time to walk in the park, read a book, take in a movie or dine with friends can alleviate some of the stress and isolation. Just getting out of the house can rejuvenate. Plan for this time. Left to chance, it just won't happen.

Family, neighbors and church members may be willing to give you a break. No one to ask? Call the Senior Helpline, 623-1380 or 1-800-330-9436, for a referral.

State-funded Community Care for the Elderly (CCE). 628-2884, offers respite and friendly visitor services. The agency may have a waiting list, so seek assistance before you're ready to collapse.

Home-health agencies, another option, can send a home health aide, but costs can add up quickly. Medicare covers intermittent home-health care for acute medical needs. but not for custodial care.

· Consider an adult day-care center.

While the patient socializes and eats lunch." you have time for yourself, to shop, rest or even work outside the home. Both parties benefit. Services vary. Many provide pick-up and drop-off service. Some centers provide medical or rehabilitation services, others specialize in handling patients with dementia or other mental infirmities. Visit several centers to find the right match. Fees differ. St. Mary Magdalen Adult Center, Altamonte Springs, 831-9630, provides adult day-care services to low-income, homebound Seminole residents through a contract with CCE.

• Join a community support group. Talking to other caregivers, learning from their experiences and venting your frustrations with people who have been there often puts things in perspective. The Alzheimer's Support Group for Caregivers meets Wednesday mornings at the Frank Evans Center in Lake Mary. For more information call 323-4938 or 324-3060. Hospitals and support organizations can put you in touch with other support groups. • Investigate and take advantage of comity services.

Better Living for Seniors, 333-8877, can be tapped for assistance with home-delivered meals, community transportation and minor home repairs. Obtain equipment, lifts or supplies to make your job easier. Medicare or other insurance may cover the cost if the equipment is ordered by a physician. But, don't wait for the doctor to think of it. ASK. Or better yet, contact the medical equipment company yourself. They will usually be more than happy to call the doctor and obtain the necessary orders. • Be good to yourself.

Congratulate yourself on what you are accomplishing, even if everything is not perfect. Be proud of what you have done: don't focus on pending chores. Listen to your body. Caregiving can be exhausting. Make sure you get enough rest, regular exercise and nutritious food.

Caring for a loved one at home can strengthen family ties, reaffirm feelings of closeness and be a rewarding experience. Just don't lose sight of or deny your own needs while tending to the loved ones in your

As exciting as these cold-blooded performers were they were merely the warm-up acts for the big stars of the show, Kesha, a 6 year old Florida panther and 2 of her cubs. A hush fell over the room as Kesha sauntered in with that aloof feline air and, as any well trained kitty, seated herself next to Burford awaiting her next reward of raw beef. The cubs are 3 weeks old and were born at the C.A.R.E. facility. Kesha enjoyed impressing the audience with her repertoire of tricks. She was enjoying it so much she did not want the show to end, and was a little uncooperative when it came time to leave. (A little strategically placed raw beef solved that.)

C.A.R.E. is a not-for-profit volunteer organization that provides a safe and permanent home for animals in need. Most of the 31 animals they are currently caring for were rescued, often from pet own-ers ill equipped to handle the animals, C.A.R.E. programs are designed to provide safety tips for wild animal encounters, information about animals native to Florida and heighten awareness for the plight of these often endangered species.

A variety of programs are being offered throughout the summer at the various branches of the Seminole County Public Library System. In addition to the C.A.R.E. program, June's schedule features appearances by Ronald McDonald, "Exploration Magic" with magician Sammy Smith and "An Egyptian Adventure", led by the Wacky Professor, Frank Lakus, Puppeteer Nancy Kenton and musician Robert Everett will be entertaining young library visitors in July.

Florida Library Youth Program is under way at each branch. Young readers can register for the program and pick up their book log, sporting FLYP, the library's Florida panther. Participants record the titles of books read by or to them. Librarians will add stickers as the log is filled. When the log is complete with 22 titles the cager reader receiver free paperback book provided by the Friends of the Library.

The programs are free and open to the public. For more information about the individual branch schedules call the East Branch. Oviedo, at 366-8150; North Branch, Sanford, at 322-2182: or Northwest Branch, Lake Mary, at 321-2419.

He built the family home, 2018 S. Mellonville Ave., called "The Oaks", and died on Jan. 3, 1929, while driving a Pierce Arrow automobile 1929, while driving a Field Internet Jesse Spur-ling was a noted local Realtor, developing Flora Heights, named in honor of his second wife, Flora Francis Spurling, and Highland Park, a section of Sanford south of 20th Street and between Oak and French Avenues (17-92). He was active in the First Methodist Church, and established a mission church called The Sanford Tabernacle, on the site of the present Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, near Park Avenue and 25th Street.

DEAR ARLENE: Please ac-cept my deepest sympathy for the tragic death of your daugh-ter Amy. The camy your friend wrote is chilling, dramatic, and carries a message that mede to be heard. I'm pleased to share it:

I am a gun victim.

I have never been shot. Or

I have not had a spouse, child, parent or sibling shot. But I am a gun victim.

Do you know anyone who buried a subbing these in her bands in the pathem because the couldn't make it through the staff presentations? I do.

Did you over spend five days gasing at the beautiful dying child who ence brought a daily smile and an understanding heart to your classroom? I did.

Do you know how she felt when, after a 30-second sterni-ty, she lifted her head once again - only to be greated by 30 wet facer? I do.

Do you over ride in a car with your beloved friend and protend you don't hear her ary when a train passes by? I do.

Do you ever need to held your friend because bad days bring sels? I do.

Does the smiling photograph of a murdered dear one greet you each day? It does me.

Will your dreams always be haunted by the events of a week in December 1993? Mine will.
