BEHAVIOR OF 2 FLORIDANS IS DENOUNCED

Rowden and Appleyard Who Switched From McAdoo Come in for Strong Condemnation by Their Colleagues who Compare Their Conduct as Being Untrue to Trust Shown in Them

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, July 2.—Delegations spent Tuesday afternoon and night maneuvering, the Smith forces keeping enough votes for Smith to block McAdoo's majority and using the rest of their strength to swing from one dark horse to another, preliminary to a Smith stampede which may however be prevented by the McAdoo faction. The votes that flew away from McAdoo gradually Tuesday afternoon may have been Smith votes cast just to be withdrawn.

Senator Duncan J. Fletcher of Florida, interviewed at the Florida headquarters today, said, "that there was no excuse for Florida breaking now, and that the time to leave McAdoo hasn't come."

John C. Cooper, Jr., vice-chairman of the Florida delegation, was given five minutes in the convention hall Tuesday to state why the unit rule should prevail in the Florida delegation.

It is the contention of the majority of the Florida delegation that they are bound by the result of a presidential primary duly called pursuant to the statutes of the state of Florida, and in which Mr. McAdoo obtained a majority of two to one," said Mr. Cooper.

There is no danger of deserting the McAdoo ranks as long as Mr. McAdoo's name is before the convention, although he announced prior to the primary that McAdoo was not his choice. "I ran on the pledge of the unit rule district to support the nominee of that district," Mr. Cooper said.

Murders Wife And Children; Kills Self

AVON, Mo., July 2.—Although he is unable to determine the motive which caused Howard S. Price, age 54, a farmer living near here, to slay his wife and four little daughters and later take his own life in their home Monday night. The bodies of the victims were found by neighbors and a rural carrier, lying on the floor clothed in night clothes. The children were all under 12 years of age, and his wife evidently had been beaten to death while they slept. Prices' death resulted from a gunshot wound.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, July 2.—About 11 o'clock Tuesday night Mr. Bryan visited the press section and said to the newspaper men: "I have no personal objection to Mr. Davis. He is a man of high character. So is President Coolidge, for that matter. There is no difference between them in that respect. Davis's environment and employment, however, would be a fatal handicap to him in states west of Pennsylvania. I do not think that he would carry any of them, and as no Democrat is likely to carry the eastern states against President Coolidge, it would leave him only South, which has not enough electoral votes to elect him."

In answer to a statement as to whether he had the right to practice law and take cognizance of business of any kind, I reply that he had perfect right, but when a man makes a decision, he takes all accessories that go with it. The machinery is not an accessory that goes with that sort of business. It is the highest office in the land and in the world, and ought to go as a reward to one who by words and deeds shows himself to be not only with the people in opinion but with them in action.

"If a man has ability that he can put to the public rather than to private business, if he expects the public to be interested in him. This is not personal matter at all. We do not choose presidents by the civil service system, but because they are leaders in outstanding causes. That is all I have to say for quotation."

When asked about the criticism leveled at Mr. Davis for securing a temporary increased rates for the New York Telephone Company, Mr. Bryan said he would comment on this matter by saying that he went into a clothing store here recently and when asked by a clerk what he thought of Davis, replied that he thought of Davis, replied that he did not consider him a good candidate.

"Yes," Mr. Bryan quoted the merchant as saying, "he raised my telephone rates several dollars a month. There are a lot of people in New York who would feel the same as I do."

JUNE BUILDING PERMITS SHOW BIG INCREASE

During Past Month Permits Issued total $81,055 Which Is a Gain of About 210 Per Cent Over June, 1923—They Amount to Almost $20,000 More than For Any Other Month of This Year

Building permits in Sanford for June were $81,055 as compared with $61,810 for May, which was declared to be a banner month in the matter of construction, according to figures submitted by City Clerk L. R. Phillips. The figures showed that 53 permits were issued in June while 49 were issued the month before. The total for the month is $19,745 more than for the month of May which also eclipsed any previous month in the year by almost $20,000.

During June, 1923, the total in building permits issued was $20,130 which is less than one-third of the total for the same month this year. The increase in June over the corresponding month last year is $64,924 or approximately 210 per cent. According to additional figures the permits for the first six months in 1924 totaled $208,275 while for the same months this year they total $282,699.

The total increase for 1924 over 1923 is $74,424 or approximately 36 per cent. It is noted from the clerk's figures that the greater part of the increase comes in the permits issued during the past two months.

Compilation of figures shows a substantial gain for this year over last. Last year it was thought by many of the Sanford business men that construction through the summer months held up well, but figures show that this year the volume of construction far surpasses that of last year.

Here is a table showing totals of the permits for first six months in both years:

Month	1923	1924
Jan.	$ 28,460	$ 37,835
Feb.	52,995	40,770
Mar.	39,185	35,018
Apr.	26,550	25,811
May	35,476	61,310
June	29,130	81,055
Total	$208,275	$282,699

The first permit issued during the month of June was to the city for the erection of a power house on its property at French Avenue and Thirteenth Street. Some time ago City Manager W. B. Williams stated that the power house was practically completed but that it would be some time before the machinery could be installed in it.

Two of New Yorker's Home State Delegation Join McAdoo Column in Balloting Today, While Latter Regains Mississippi And Hopes that He Has Begun to Turn the Tide

Southern Delegation Agrees To Stay For Five Ballots To Aid Californian

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, July 2.—Seeking to pull the Democratic National Convention out of its deadlock, William Jennings Bryan, war horse of many campaigns, took the platform today and declared himself for William Gibbs McAdoo.

Heckled some from the galleries and booed by some old-time party leaders he repeated the incident of the Baltimore Convention of 1912, when he took the platform and declared for Woodrow Wilson; this time, however, Bryan did not attack any candidate by name, but said he would content himself by naming some he considered fitted for the presidency, at the top of which list stood McAdoo.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, July 2.—The first break in the big block of 90 votes which constitutes the cornerstone of Al Smith's strength in the Democratic National Convention, came today on the thirty-seventh ballot, when two members of the New York delegation cast their votes for McAdoo and started supporters of the former secretary of the treasury on another big demonstration.

Driving ahead at full speed to make the greatest show of strength they could muster, the Smith and McAdoo forces went out to roll up their scores in the hope of reaching a point of decision in the convention.

The McAdoo forces, using all the powers at their command, won the Mississippi delegation with its 20 votes away from the McAdoo column, where it agreed it would stay for from John W. Davis, of West Virginia, and brought it back five ballots to give McAdoo a chance to show what it could do before the delegation looked for another place to light.

Rotary Club Hears Address on History Insurance Tuesday

Sanford Rotarians listened to an interesting and instructive talk on the history of insurance by George W. Knight at their noon luncheon Tuesday.

Mr. Knight, who has charge of the program, is well versed on the subject of insurance and the Rotarians report that they enjoyed the talk very much.

As an additional speaker L. R. Reynolds of the Y. M. C. A. at Jacksonville was present and spoke to the club on Y. M. C. A. work.

He recommended that the citizens of Sanford be urged to buy a lot on which a building suitable for a local Y. M. C. A. building may be built when the time comes for such a move.

Mr. Reynolds suggested the advisability of buying a lot now while the price of property is comparatively low, and while lots in suitable locations are available. He stated that in a few years it will be much more difficult to secure property for this purpose than at present.

The only visitor present at Tuesday's meeting besides Mr. Reynolds was Al Green of Daytona.

was laying back waiting for the break which might indicate the winner and the signal for the band wagon movement.

The first tangible evidence of the break came when Gov. Jonathan Davis of Kansas, arriving on the convention floor just before the night session was resumed, released the 20 from Kansas to McAdoo.

There was talk of a nomination being reached in the small hours of Tuesday morning and also talk of balloting to continue through the middle of the week. They were also talk of delegates running out of money, getting tired and being anxious to get home and put in the hay or collect the rent, being offered their expenses by various campaign managers if they would remain and join their forces.

Such talk is always common at every convention. Some times it is true and some times it is not. The same good natured, patient lot of delegates which had balloted all day—in contrast to the angry bawling mob which ran riot on the garden last Tuesday night came with full stomachs for the night session feeling happy and stimulated by the tinkling of lively times by the band while they waited for Senator Walsh to drop the gavel.

The chairman had announced that the balloting would be resumed promptly at 8 o'clock with out regard to how many delegates were in their seats. However, it was like the chairman's threat to keep quiet. He did not hear the galleries and apparently he did not see the clerk. He was not on hand himself at assembling time.

Arrives Two Minutes Later He did arrive two minutes later, however, looking over the empty seats in the delegates' spaces and conferred very earnestly with some leaders.

At six minutes after 8 Chairman Walsh began speaking and the delegates began to sit down.

Prayer was offered by Father Duffy, the idolized fighting chaplain of the Fighting Sixty-Ninth, a national figure on his own account, probably as well known as any politician in the convention and a fighting man, welcome to the company of soldiers irrespective of their religious persuasions.

The prayer over—and it was short and to the point—the calling of the roll of states was ordered and the balloting continued starting with the tenth.

CITY OFFICIALLY TAKES CHARGE OF UTILITIES PLANT

To obtain the rating as a first class office a postoffice must do an aggregate postal business of $40,000 during one business year. The business year runs from January 1 through the entire year, but the fiscal year begins on July 1 and for that reason the local office is just now taking its place in the rank of first class postoffices.

Perhaps the changes taking place which are most vital to the public are: the change in box rates, in the time of mail dispatch and in the time that the postoffice departments remain open for business, stated Postmaster J. P. Hall today.

Mr. Hall announces that the money order, postal savings and registry departments will begin today, open at 8 a. m. and will close to the public at 5 p. m. The raise in quarterly box rent, also effective today, is proportioned as follows: small boxes, 60c to 75c; medium boxes, 75c to $1.00; large boxes, $1.00 to $1.50; extra large boxes, $1.50 to $2.00.

The new schedule of dispatches given out by Mr. Hall this morning and effective today, is as follows: Mail for train No. 82, north, must be in the postoffice at 1:45 a. m.; No. 83, south, 1:45 a. m.; No. 156, Leeburg, 6 a. m.; No. 127, south, 6 a. m.; No. 84, north, 10:25 a. m.; No. 89, south, 2 p. m.; No. 24, Tribby, 2 p. m.; No. 127, Oviado and Wagner, 3 p. m.; No. 80, north, 3 p. m.; Geneva bus, Geneva, 3 p. m.; No. 85, south, 6:20 p. m.; No. 22, Leeburg, 6:20 p. m.

Negro Is Killed in Automobile Wreck Monday Afternoon

Walter Powell, negro, was fatally injured while Ralph, another negro and an employee of Volley Williams of this city, was unhurt when a Buick sedan in which they were driving at a rate of approximately 60 miles an hour turned over three times on Sanford Avenue in the vicinity of the Heights about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon after Ralph had lost control of the car. Powell died less than an hour later at the Fernald-Houghton Hospital where he was rushed for treatment although it was thought by authorities that there was no hope for his recovery.

One Candidate Will Be Indicted If He Is Named, Says Reed

(Continued from page 1.) line our candidate against a serious criminal charge instead of being led by him in a great battle to be fought out in the public forum where the Democratic party would have the natural advantage, springing from the fact that bribery thus far uncovered has been confined to officials of the opposite party. But that kind of an issue would not get us very far if the Republicans were able to truthfully charge that those who had corrupted Fall had employed our candidate and that in addition to this employment he had appeared in behalf of the Republican Iron and Steel works before a department of the government in a tax controversy within two years after his connection with the very department, in absolute violation of the federal statutes—well I do not think the Democratic convention will make so serious a mistake as to undertake to force a man of that character before the American people. Should he be he should be utterly routed at the polls.

"There can be no mistake as to whom you mean, senator," he was asked. "I do not intend there should be," he answered.

At Chicago, a learned doctor said the men make the best cooks, but we find many marry the best cooks.

MANAGER SAYS McADOO HOLDS BACK STRENGTH

As Matter of Strategy Californian Is Reserving His Full Convention Strength Until Crucial Moment.

New York, July 1.—"It is a hard fight,"

Such was the concession made by David L. Rockwell, campaign manager for William G. McAdoo, last night, following the ninth ballot, in which he had still failed to roll up the boasted majority for his candidate, which on the preceding day he had promised on the fifth ballot.

Mr. Rockwell still claimed to be in a position to produce a majority vote any time he wanted to, but said he was holding back as a matter of strategy to wait for the Smith people to trot out their full strength. It was acknowledged, however, that the anti-McAdoo forces had made some unexpected inroads on territory that had been claimed all along for the Californians.

The states and territories in which the vote failed to come up to the McAdoo expectations were: Colorado, Michigan, Nebraska, North Dakota, Wyoming and the Canal Zone. A matter of particular discouragement during the first few ballots was the quick establishment of the fact that primary instructions are worth little when it gets down to the real test. Delegates who had been instructed to stick for McAdoo as long as he appeared to have a chance of winning had already made up their minds that he was a rank outsider, and had begun to go elsewhere.

The whole, or at least the major part of the Colorado delegation, had been confidently counted on. A matter of fact—the ninth ballot showed but 44 delegates in this state for McAdoo, the others being split between Underwood, Smith and John W. Davis. Wyoming, which had been claimed in its entirety, cast its first vote for Underwood, and then cast away from the senator gave McAdoo but two votes.

In Michigan where Rockwell had been expecting to round up at least half the delegation, his candidate got but 67 votes, and this was no surprise to others who had followed the situation in Michigan. The landing of but three votes in Nebraska, with two from that state already in the hands of Smith, was an even greater cause for discouragement. This was taken to indicate that even if Governor Bryan releases the other eleven votes which he is still holding, not all, and perhaps none of them will go to the Californian.

In North Dakota, McAdoo had won the primary, but it was not obligatory on the voters to regard their instructions after first ballot. The quickness with which four of North Dakota's votes deserted to Smith was a fair example of what the primary states are doing. The one thing that was saving the McAdoo people at the time of the first intermission was the unit rule, which was holding many unwilling delegates in line.

The Canal Zone was an even greater disappointment. Although the unit rule still held, three of the six delegates announced themselves for Smith, and in anticipation that another Canal Zoner might do the same thing, thereby overturning the whole six votes, a careful watch was placed on the three delegates who are still faithful to McAdoo.

There are no longer any talk in the McAdoo headquarters about a quick decision. While the official spokesmen still kept up an appearance of apparent optimism, the people down in the ranks began to give serious consideration to the probable necessity of turning to a dark horse. The one thing apparently determined upon definitely was that enough of the McAdoo forces would be held together if possible indefinitely to defeat Governor Smith.

The night before it had been talk of an obstructive minority on the other side holding together enough of the convention to defeat McAdoo. Now it is the Californian himself who is considering the obstructive tactics until Smith has been eliminated. As Mr. Rockwell himself expressed it, "there is absolutely no doubt of our ability to hold together an irreducible minimum in excess of 366 votes until Governor Smith has been put out of the race."

One Candidate Will Be Indicted If He Is Named, Says Reed

(Continued from page 1.) line our candidate against a serious criminal charge instead of being led by him in a great battle to be fought out in the public forum where the Democratic party would have the natural advantage, springing from the fact that bribery thus far uncovered has been confined to officials of the opposite party. But that kind of an issue would not get us very far if the Republicans were able to truthfully charge that those who had corrupted Fall had employed our candidate and that in addition to this employment he had appeared in behalf of the Republican Iron and Steel works before a department of the government in a tax controversy within two years after his connection with the very department, in absolute violation of the federal statutes—well I do not think the Democratic convention will make so serious a mistake as to undertake to force a man of that character before the American people. Should he be he should be utterly routed at the polls.

"There can be no mistake as to whom you mean, senator," he was asked. "I do not intend there should be," he answered.

SUMMER
The Summer, the divinest Summer burns,
The skies are bright with azure and white gold.

A rarity is a man who pays his wife's accounts and never utters a protest.

The Baltimore Sun thinks a hick town is where they read the full text of the speech.

Big real estate developments are scheduled for Sanford this fall and winter. This city is attracting the attention of men who do things.

Some of these delegates who are used to eight hour days, will be going on a strike if many more fifteen-hour sessions are held.

Sanford now has a first class postoffice. Hereafter mail service will be first class.

Hopelessly deadlocked the convention is making little progress. Perhaps when the money of the delegates runs short the vote may change.

The convention will soon be over and the newspapers will have to call on Mexico to kick up another revolution in order to furnish some news.

When some of these men come back from Daytona Beach after viewing those bathing beauties, the optometrists will do a rushing business.

The Burmese will not toil unless they get fun out of their work, says a dispatch. They probably have no vagrancy laws with which to contend.

Brother Isaiah of Jacksonville has cured a man having asthma. If he could cure people with a grouch we could get several patients for him in Sanford.

The Prince of Wales is again reported to be seriously contemplating becoming a benedict. The question is whether he is really going to get married.

And now they are advocating Mrs. LeRoy Springs of South Carolina as the vice-presidential candidate. If looks are taken into consideration Mrs. Springs will be nominated unanimously on the first ballot.

The Waterman Fountain Pen Company distributed twelve hundred fountain pens to members of the press at the convention. And now Henry Ford ought to come along and distribute an equal number of "Hizies".

Archaeologists have discovered that the Tower of Babel was built four thousand years ago and was constructed of union-made bricks. Wonder if the builders had to worry with paying twenty-two dollars a day for brick masons?

When notified that the Republican convention had chosen him as vice-presidential nominee, General Davis said, "I declare." However when he is officially notified on July 3, he is expected to show his appreciation by using his characteristic strong language.

The organization of a Young Men's Christian Association in Sanford would be welcomed by many members of the city. And an organization of this character would undoubtedly receive deserving support from the people of the community.

Who don't they make the convention an endurance contest and have some candidate nominated? It would be only a matter of time before something is done. The delegates are going now the first of August may find the convention closed many with grunting still.

Betraying A Trust

Living true to a public trust is the greatest duty imposed on an office holder. No matter whether he be a constable or a president, the man elected to office is expected to do his duty.

A public servant must guard with great care the confidence placed in him when elected. Just because a man is an office holder he cannot afford to assume that he has the right to disregard public confidence and act to suit his own desires. On June third Florida voters, by a decisive vote of 1450 to one selected William Gibbs McAdoo as their choice for president. On that day the voters of the state instructed the delegates to support McAdoo as long as his name stayed before the convention.

But now two members of the delegation betray that trust.

With McAdoo, Florida's candidate, leading the field of candidates and with the prospects of his name staying before the convention for many ballots to come, J. E. T. Bowden, of Jacksonville, deliberately deserted the delegation and cast his vote for Al Smith. Shortly thereafter T. J. Appleyard, state printer, of Tallahassee, did the same thing, casting his vote for Ralston. Bowden defended his action, it is said, by stating that "he was tired of voting for a loser."

These two delegates have betrayed the confidence imposed by the people of Florida. They have been untrue to their state. They have not conducted themselves in keeping with the other gentlemen from Florida.

The actions of these two delegates from Florida should be broadcast throughout the state. Newspapers should give it publicity so that the rank and file of the voters may know what has happened and be able to govern themselves accordingly in elections to come.

There is no way now in which the acts of Bowden and Appleyard may be atoned. They hold in their hands the power to vote as they please. But they have betrayed a public trust.

Give the Family Skeleton a Sun Bath

On the theory that "no germ can live in the sunshine" and that "no evil can continue to exist under the full light of publicity," why don't people who are haunted or harassed by "family skeletons" drag the ugly things out of their closets and see what a good sun bath will do for them?

The "family skeleton" often has been kept in hiding until it has assumed terrifying proportions in the minds of the people its presence dominates. In their ignorance of their egotism or in their distorted ideas of values, the family makes its hidden skeleton just about the most important force in its life and wastes an incalculable amount of energy and "heart-power" trying to keep its ugliness from the knowledge of the world.

When it is ignorance that is responsible for hiding some stain on the family honor, an appeal for sunlight and fresh air will do little good. The ignorant man or woman cannot be shown that it does more harm to hide an alleged skeleton than it does to bring that skeleton out, once for all, show him off and cast him out. Why ruin the lives of an entire household for the sake of keeping the neighbors from knowing that "the old man is on another spree" or that "paw and maw fight" or that "Uncle Jim was sent to Sing Sing last week."

Public opinion is powerful, we agree, but if a family will take something of the attitude of the big railroad gentleman who summed it all up on "the public be damned"; and then go about living its own life with honesty, sincerity and freedom-from-pretext, its guiding principles, its opportunities for happiness will be increased, and the chances of there being more skeletons for the children's children will be greatly lessened.

The egotist who has an idea that anybody cares a whang as to whether he had or has not a "family skeleton" is another nearly hopeless case so far as a cure is concerned. He spends his life trying to give the impression that he is different from what he is. He cares more for public opinion than for the approval of his own conscience. He goes about acting a part, in mortal terror of his skeleton being discovered. Only through some terrific jolt to his conceit could he be induced to see that the best thing that could happen would be to have that same skeleton taken out into the full sunshine, where it would eventually dry up and blow away, with all the neighbors forgetting its very existence.

The Herald has an idea that it has said something in these vague sentences. The Herald even believes that many a so-called "skeleton" might be something to be proud of, if it could be placed in the right light, and studied openly.

A CHANGE NEEDED
LAKELAND STAR-TELEGRAM

The bolt of J. E. T. Bowden of Jacksonville from the solid front presented by the Florida delegation attending the Democratic National Convention, charged by solemn preference as expressed in the recent state-wide primary to support William Gibbs McAdoo, ought to be regarded as a disgrace and a blot on the honor of all loyal Democrats. The election of Bowden is the result of the listing of the names of the candidates in alphabetical order, otherwise he would have not had any more

SHOWING OFF
BALTIMORE SUN

Observe man at the age of nine months. He has learned to wink and his fond mother delights to exhibit his accomplishment. Callers laugh merrily when he performs the feat in the laugh. It is and he joins in the laugh. It is good stuff, and he enjoys the applause.

See him again at the age of two. He can turn a somersault and perform a little dance and speak a piece for the nice man. If experience has taught him to be mercenary he may wait upon a bribe, but he will enjoy the handclapping he receives and his grin will confess a vast pride in his abilities.

At the age of twelve, with his ego nicely developed, he will do stunts without coaxing. He will stuff his teeth to impress whiflers. He will work on his hands before the astonished eyes of a little girl who lives next door. He will roll up his sleeve and flex his arm to exhibit a little knot that he calls his muscle. Always he has his reward and his complacent soul purrs with delight.

In his late teens he will approach the plate swinging four or five every other ear on the

As Brisbane Sees It

Just balloting. $760,000 bet. Wheat and Eugene Myer, Jr. Alcohol a liability.

JUST BEFORE 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the convention adjourned to let Democrats eat. Nine ballots had been taken, showing both McAdoo and Smith gaining, but McAdoo far in the lead, with 444 and 0.10 votes against Smith's 278 votes. On that ninth ballot Ralston had 30 1-2 votes, Underwood 45 1-2, Cox 60 voters (he was nominated the last time); Bryan's brother, the governor of Nebraska, 15; John W. Davis, 63; Glass, 25; Siler, governor of New Jersey, 28; Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, 21; Senator Walsh, 1; William Jennings Bryan, 1; Houston Thompson, 1, and some others scattering. The voting thus far doesn't mean anything. Louis Siebold, sitting through the session with occasional dashes outside to get real news, seems to think that gentlemen managing things will kill off McAdoo first, with Smith's help, then kill off Smith and bring out their blushing dark horse, McAdoo, needless to say, will oppose that little program. The process of killing him off didn't make much progress in the first nine ballots.

ON THE FIRST he had 431 1-2 votes and on the ninth 441 and 0.10, a gain of 13 votes. There is little to report except, dull balloting. When news came that ex-Secretary Fall, Mr. Sinclair, Mr. Dohoney and his son had been indicted all delegates rose and cheered Senator Walsh, chairman of the oil investigating committee.

HOWEVER, THOSE indictments being made by Attorney General Stone for the Coolidge administration, will probably mean more votes for Republicans than for Democrats. Republicans will get credit for indicting their own people. There was lack of harmony in the Missouri delegation, but under Chairman Walsh's ruling, the thirty-six votes were cast over and over as a unit for McAdoo.

Joseph Shannon, of Kansas City, said money had been used to get McAdoo delegates in Missouri. That was hard to believe, for those that studied the faces of men and women in the Missouri delegation. That statement did not suit Charles Hay, of St. Louis. He pushed or hit Mr. Shannon on the street, outside the convention, and the words, "damned rat," were heard by the policeman that separated the men.

WALL STREET, it is said, has $750,000 on the Democratic nomination. All the money will be won by those that bet against somebody. It isn't likely that any money to speak of was bet on the individual that will actually get the nomination, when the dust settles, after delegates get tired and learn what the gentlemen in the back room will have.

GENTLEMEN "IN THE back room," not seen on the floor, will have what they want, and what they want is what the Democratic party will get in the way of a candidate.

MEDIE MCCORMICK, of Europe, to return with his brother says that Eugene Myer, Jr., a young citizen of many millions, is in charge of the plan to put up the prices of wheat and of other farm products and make farmers happy and enable the government to lend them money.

THE DEPARTMENT of agriculture says farmers all lost money on their wheat last year. It cost $1.21 a bushel to grow it. The average price was 99 cents. Unless all signs fail, farmers will get all wheat costs this year and a good deal more, many sections of the country producing fewer than 15 bushels of wheat to the acre.

WITH LABOR AND fertilizer costing what they do, it is hard to see how wheat can pay even at $1.21. The Republican plan is to force the price to $1.50. How many votes would that be worth?

DON'T GAMBLE, however. It is virtuous to pray that farmers may have better times and better prices. It's foolish to gamble on it. No little man is smart enough or quick enough to survive in that game.

IF YOU HAPPEN to come in contact with Eugene Myer, Jr., who is now traveling through the west, you might get valuable information. It is said he intends to put the average of cattle up $10 a head. That would help some.

DR. E. LYMAN FISK, scientific authority, says: "Alcohol is a liability." Fats put on the body of drinkers do not live longer than total abstainers. That's interesting and important.

HOWEVER, THOSE on the other side of the fence say: "A man's length of life is not the important thing. It doesn't matter so much how long you live as how efficient you live. The younger Pitt, for instance, undoubtedly drank himself to death; but while he lived he kept Napoleon Bonaparte out of England, and that was more important to Englishmen than having his life to be one hundred and fifty would have been.

AGAIN IT MAY BE said that if he had drunk only water he might have been twice as good a prime minister, in addition to living to be a hundred.

About these things we, as you know nothing of, the experiment in America, which will hold on to prohibition for at least another generation.

THE CRAZE, FOR SPEED

WELL, HERE'S JULY
TAMPA TRIBUNE

July is a month rich in anniversaries not forgetting the birth of the state or less United States, which will be celebrated with it is to be hoped, considerable calm next Friday. If you don't believe that July is notable among the twelve, lend a vouchsafed ear to these statistics.

On July 1, 1898, the very Rough Riders, under the auspices of Col. T. Roosevelt, moved up the pleasant slope of San Juan Hill. August 1, 1863, was the day that the Confederates played a mean trick on the Federal troops July 13, 1863, by permitting them to capture Yazoo City, Miss., without telling them what to do with it.

July 15 is St. Swiftn's Day. If it rains on this day, it is a sign that seven thousand two hundred sixty-four citizens will remark: "Always the way! Never rains when I carry my umbrella but just let me leave it at home once," etc. July 19 is celebrated in Sicily as the birthday of Samuel Colt, inventor of the Sellenian national emblem.

On July 20, 1763, was born John Ireland Howe, inventor of the pin-making machine, which threw out of work one hundred ten thousand men employed in pin mines. William Westlake, inventor of ear-beater, born July 23, 1831. His invention indorsed by all railroads because it maintains a temperature at all times either below fifty or above eighty degrees.

Eben N. Horsford, inventor simultaneous of baking powder and jokes about brides' biscuits, born July 27, 1818.

Newton Booth Tarkington, Herman and Verman, William Sylvanus Baxter, Florence Atwater, Beaucaris, Alice Adams, Penrod and Floppit are born July 29, 1869.

Both of the world cheer on July 30, 1822, when William T. Adams (Oliver Optic) is born.

LONG POLITICAL BATTLES
MIAMI HERALD

In connection with the convention in New York, with its confusion of issues and its multiplicity of candidates, the fact has been published that the leading candidate in number of votes has rarely been nominated, unless his advantage was sufficient to nominate him of the first ballot. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat has gathered together some interesting facts with regard to the number of ballots required to nominate.

Only four times in the history of the Democratic party has the number of ballots required gone beyond forty. The last time a convention was held in New York City the governor of the state, Horatio Seymour, was nominated, but it required twenty-two ballots to bring it about.

In practically half of the twenty-three Democratic conventions which have been held the nominee was named on the first ballot. He came with so overwhelming support that no successful opposition could be raised against him.

There has possibly never been a convention in which the lines were more sharply drawn than in the meeting in New York this year. The situation was somewhat similar, however, in San Francisco four years ago, when forty-four ballots were required to nominate, the man who was third in number of votes on the first ballot winning the nomination.

In that convention William G. McAdoo had the largest number of votes on the opening ballot. Governor Smith of New York was also a strong contender, mustering one hundred nine first ballot votes. A. Mitchell Palmer, with two hundred fifty-six, was second only to Mr. McAdoo. He is practically the only prominent candidate in San Francisco who did not figure also in New York. Several prominent Democrats beside Mr. Bryan seem to have the running habit, but he is the only one who actually got into the finals so many times.

History seems to teach that except in cases of overwhelming popularity of some one candidate, more or less dark horses have usually won out. This may explain why so many have insisted this year on remaining unmistakably dark.

RADIO IN PHILIPPINES MANILA, July 2.—The Philippine government now has a total of 28 radio stations in the archipelago, reaching from Basco, Batanes Islands, on the north, to Jolo on the south. In a number of instances the government has abandoned cable lines, connecting various islands on account of the expense of maintenance, and has substituted radio stations.
