Seminole Expressway Authority Eyes Toll Roads

Herald Photos by Tom Vincent

County Commissioner's method of voting (left) for a chairman of the Seminole County Expressway Authority may be considered flip, but it was effective. William Kirchhoff broke a 3-3 tie between County Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather and Sanford Commissioner David Farr with his flip of the coin. Farr, (above) won the flip and the chairman's job.

The groundwork was laid Tuesday for construction of toll roads in Seminole County.

Seminole County commissioners and representatives of Sanford and Allamonte Springs took the first step when they reorganized the county's expressway authority.

The authority's first action was to apply for $109,000 from the state to fund the staffing and study work needed. But confirmation of the funding request from the state Department of Transportation is not expected for at least three months and the money is not anticipated until July 1, Acting County Administrator Jim Easton said.

When the authority receives its state funding, a director will be hired at a salary of $22,500 to $28,000, and consultants will be employed to determine where the authority might consider placing toll roads and how they would be funded. The budget includes $65,000 for consultant work.

In the meantime, Public Works Director Jack Schuder will serve as coordinator for the authority. He said the authority should begin looking for consultants soon to be ready when the funds are approved.

Schuder said selection of a consultant would require several months and work would probably not be billed until July when the funds are available.

But authority members took no action Tuesday, directing Easton and county planners to examine the potential funding available for financing expressway construction.

"The thing we should look into is the sources of revenue this board has," Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff said. "How much money can be raised by this authority to build roads?"

Authority members discussed assigning top priority to two projects which already have been addressed by consultants and citizen committees.

An elevated expressway along a portion of State Road 436 in Allamonte Springs and a six-lane Lake Mary Boulevard have been deemed necessary to meet the county's future transportation needs.

But Allamonte Springs Commissioner Lee Constantine said the authority should examine other possible projects besides the two already proposed.

Schuder, who believes the area around State Road 520 near Oviedo is a prime candidate for an expressway, said the authority should wait for consultant advice before identifying projects.

"I don't believe we should focus on any one thing before we hear from a consultant," he said. "Let's get a consultant into operation as quickly as possible."

Consultant work is necessary to determine traffic counts on highways and determine the need for an expressway. Those figures must reach certain levels before an authority can sell bonds to finance construction.

Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather urged the group to study the history of the Orlando-Orange County Expressway Authority and its plans for the next 20 years. One of those plans is for construction of a spur route to the new Martin-Marietta and Westinghouse facilities and the University of Central Florida, which are located near Seminole County.

Wood Fuel

Charcoal-Powered Truck Is One Way To Go

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Is the price of gasoline and the prospect of additional gas taxes getting you down? How about a fuel that goes up in smoke instead of your money?

John Vogel, researcher and spokesman for the Mother Earth News Research Department in Henderson, N.C. this week is here with his Chevrolet pickup truck which burns scrap wood and runs on wood smoke.

He was invited to speak here by the local chapter of enthusiasts established by Mother Earth News, the bible of energy conservationists and organic gardeners.

The potluck supper affair will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the horticulture building (Portable 67) at Seminole Community College and is open free to the public.

In response to inquiries from Mother Earth enthusiasts in this area, Vogel will speak on natural pest control for gardens, how to set up a barter cooperative for a skill exchange, homemade solar ideas and will explain how his woodburning Chevrolet pickup truck operates.

Vogel drove his truck, which he said is "pretty much a stock Chevrolet" converted to run on alternate fuel — wood smoke gases — as well as conventional gasoline.

"It's not a good low speed fuel for start and stop trips around town, but it is an excellent fuel on long trips," Vogel said. He burns cast-off pieces of wood scraps from sawmills and construction jobs to burn in the contraption and form charcoal. The glowing charcoal gives off gases (carbon monoxide, hydrogen and methane) similar to natural gases. They are filtered through a water bath and the ash and soot fall out. The cooled clear smoke, similar to propane, can then be used to run the truck engine.

One of the disadvantages, Vogel said, is "where to put it. If you own a Honda Civic, forget it," he added.

"This demonstrates how to make power from smoke, he said, and the industrial implications. Smoke is now a pollutant, but in reality it is two-thirds fuel you see going up the chimney. Smoke is a fuel itself and can power a running engine.

"The wood-burning truck exhaust is "real clean and measures 50 percent less pollution than a gasoline engine," Vogel said, "and it powers the truck up to 90 mph."

He said the concept also can be applied industrially to coal burning. Vogel pointed out that industrial wood scraps are plentiful in this state and easily obtained. The wood-burning stove on the back of the truck was built from salvaged hot water heaters and other materials for approximately $250, but one has been put together for only $150, he said.

He said Mother Earth News at its Eco-Village near Hendersonville has attached a similar wood-burning unit to a four-cylinder engine salvaged from an old Pontiac to generate 10,000 watts of electricity to provide power in a workshop and two other buildings, while the hot water created was used to heat the building.

Vogel said the magazine receives between 10,000 and 15,000 letters a day from all over the country and about 60 percent of them concern inquiries about getting together with like-minded individuals to share skills and ideas to work collectively on projects. So Mother Earth officials decided to serve as a clearinghouse to get people together and so far chapters have been formed in 50 locations.

He said the magazine is the fastest growing publication in the country and also has grown in its philosophy to form an outreach program through free syndicated newspaper columns and radio and television programs.

"We think of our magazine as 'breakfast,' the Eco-Village research and proving ground as 'lunch' and local groups to implement the ideas as 'dinner,'" Vogel explained. The Eco-Village also includes a campground open to the public from Memorial Day through October.

He said the Mother Earth groups are

71 Jobs Now

8 Parks Positions Added

Seminole County officials are hopeful that eight new jobs approved for the county's Facilities, Parks and Recreation Division will solve morale problems in the beleaguered division.

County commissioners approved the new positions Tuesday in response to a management study which said a manpower shortage in the division was largely responsible for its morale problems.

"What they did was help meet the problem we have now, a lack of manpower," Public Services and Development Director John Percy said today.

The eight positions — a maintenance supervisor, five maintenance workers, a supply inventory controller and a secretary — brings the total staff in the division to 71 workers. Four other positions and a plan to break the division into two parts were delayed until after the arrival of new County administrator T. Duncan Rose in January.

Percy said the division has been hit hard by the dismantling of the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act program.

The federal program provided funding for 34 employees in fiscal 1979-80 when the division had a total of 96 workers. In this year's budget no jobs are funded by the CETA program.

That manpower shortage is largely responsible for the morale problems within the division, Percy said. He explained the division also will utilize Seminole County jail prisoners on a work release program to help cut down costs.

A crew of four to eight prisoners will be assigned tasks like painting buildings, clearing underbrush and other maintenance jobs which require little training, Percy said.

Percy, Personnel Director Lois Martin and Assistant County Administrator Jim Easton conducted a study of the division earlier this year after widespread unrest, particularly in the parks and recreation office, was discovered.

The study revealed that management practices in that office were largely responsible for the employee unrest.

Five employees in the division resigned as a result of a criminal investigation by the state attorney's staff.

The study recommended separation of the facilities workers into a separate division.

But county commissioners opposed the reorganization plan for various reasons. After Percy and Acting Facilities, Parks and Recreation Manager Leonard Carswell told commissioners a further delay would adversely affect the division, the compromise was reached. — MICHEAL BEHA

Casselberry Woman Dies After Home Fire

A Casselberry woman is dead after she slipped, fell and struck her head while trying to douse a small electrical fire in her home.

Gertrude Fitzpatrick, 78, of 521 Kentia Drive, died Monday as the result of a brain hemorrhage at Winter Park Memorial Hospital where she was taken for treatment after she slipped and fell while trying to put out a small fire. The fire was caused by an overloaded electrical extension cord, police said.

Police said Mrs. Fitzpatrick was asleep on her sofa in the living room of the Kentia Drive home with a heating pad applied to her hip at about 7 p.m. The extension cord, which apparently could not carry the load for the pad, sparked a fire which ignited draperies in the room.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick awoke and she and her husband, Robert, began bringing water from the kitchen to extinguish the fire, police said. While fighting the flames, however, Mrs. Fitzpatrick slipped, fell and struck her head.

"It's such a tragic accident," said Casselberry police Chief Fred McGowan. "But as far as we can see, it happened just as the husband said, with no signs of foul play. She slipped and hit her head. Such a tragic accident."

Fire investigators said the draperies suffered minimal fire damage and some damage was caused to one wall of the concrete block home. — TENI YARBOROUGH

Lake Mary Man Killed In Wreck

A 29-year-old Lake Mary man is dead today after he apparently lost control of his pick-up truck on County Road 419 just east of Winter Springs. The truck crashed into a guardrail, overturned and came to rest against a tree.

Daniel James Ryan of 125 N. Hollis Drive was reportedly dead on arrival at Central Florida Regional Hospital after Florida Highway Patrol officers responded to the accident scene at about 1:20 a.m. today.

Troopers said Ryan, a carpenter, was traveling eastbound on County Road 419, about three-tenths of a mile east of Winter Springs, when his 1977 GMC pick-up truck left the roadway, hit a guardrail, rolled over and collided with a tree.

Troopers said no other vehicles were involved and that there were no passengers in Ryan's vehicle, which suffered about $6,500 worth of damage. — TENI YARBOROUGH

Murder Suspect, 29, Extradited From California

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A 29-year-old woman who is four-months pregnant was being held in the Seminole County jail today on charges that she abused and killed her 5-year-old daughter, then dumped the child's body into an Altamonte Springs pond.

Susan Barrett Assaid was booked into the county jail Tuesday afternoon after waiving extradition from Riverside, Calif. where she had been held since Nov. 3 after voluntarily surrendering to police.

Ms. Assaid, who told Riverside police where they could find the body of her daughter, Ursula Sunshine Assaid, has been charged with first-degree murder and aggravated child abuse.

Earlier this month, Altamonte Springs police and fire personnel searched the muck-filled pond near the Windsong Apartments on Ballard Street and found the young girl's badly decomposed body in a burlap sack which was weighted with two 10-pound metal chunks. Police estimated that the girl's body had been in the water since Sept. 26.

Ms. Assaid's boyfriend, Donald Glenn McDougall, 26, who is also charged with first-degree murder and aggravated child abuse in connection with the young girl's death, is scheduled to be returned to Seminole County from Riverside today, police said. The couple is being transported separately for security reasons, according to John Spolski, spokesman for the Seminole County sheriff's department.

Investigators said the couple, who lived at 817 E. Highland Drive with the child, left their Altamonte Springs home on Thanksgiving to seek employment in California.

The two were indicted Dec. 3 by a Seminole grand jury and subsequently charged with the girl's murder.

of forgery, stemming from a South Carolina case, just days after he was charged with land fraud in Alabama.

John Bruce Vining, of 500 Grandview Place, Sanford, was arrested at his home and charged with six counts of felony forgery of legal documents in South Carolina, Seminole County sheriff's deputies said.

At the time of his arrest Saturday night, Vining was free on $5,000 bond from an Atlanta jail where he was arrested on the Alabama charges. An extradition hearing is scheduled for Jan. 3 to determine if Vining will be returned to Alabama to face charges that he tried to sell timberland which he didn't own. The hearing is scheduled to be held in Atlanta, officials said.

In Alabama, Vining is accused of assuming the identity of Kenneth Ferguson who died in 1980. Officials said he then opened a business and allegedly forged deeds to show he owned 725 acres in Wilcox County, Ala., which actually belongs to Lois Cole Chestnut of Baton Rouge, La.

Officials claim Vining tried to sell the land for $670,000 to Bama Wood Inc. of Wetumpka, Ala., but company officials discovered the scam after talking with nearby property owners.

Meanwhile, Vining has also been under investigation by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement and the U.S. Postal Service for about two years after forged deeds were discovered in Brevard and Alachua counties in 1980 involving land transactions in which Vining was the broker.

Reagan Firms Up '84 Budget Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, facing the highest unemployment since the Great Depression, is completing his 1984 budget that will be submitted to Congress next month.

The president is trying to turn the right combination of numbers that would head the federal government toward a reduced deficit and push the nation toward economic recovery.

White House aides said the 1984 federal deficit, earlier projected to hit $200 billion, is now estimated at $155 billion as the result of across the board cuts in domestic spending that Reagan has decided to impose.

Reagan had sought a balanced budget by 1984, but those hopes were dashed in the past year. He is now seeking to make the deficit "more manageable."

Current projections also call for a $14 billion increase in revenues in the next budget.

Santa Is Getting A Bum Rap

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (UPI) — Sure he's fat, wears outdated clothing and may be a sexist, but the world's much better off because of the aura of Santa Claus and his yearly visit, a psychology professor says.

Stephen Rubin of Whitman College says it's about time that critics of the jolly fat man stop giving him a bum rap. Rubin said that through the years critics ranging from nutritionists who don't like Santa's girth to those who contend the myth is unhealthy have managed to slightly tarnish the sterling image of every child's best friend.

His detractors have claimed that, sure, he's jolly, but he's also sexist, wears outdated clothing, has the kind of nose normally associated with a heavy drinker and unmercifully works his animals and elves.

But Rubin says that Santa, also known as Sinterklaas, Sante Klaas, Sant Nikolaas, St. Nicholas and Saint Nick, should be taken for what he really is: a very positive, good force.

He says Santa coming to town year after year "may be the best thing that ever happened for many children." "The fantasy of a nice jolly person delivering gifts isn't so bad," says Rubin, an associate professor of psychology. "There are worse fantasies."

"Belief in such a positive image may smooth out difficulties with the realities children of this generation will encounter."

"The original notion of a patron saint (St. Nicholas) rewarding only good behavior has changed. Now children receive gifts whether they have behaved or not."

"Our system teaches children early that, in the future, their performance in school and work may not always be rewarded with tangible gifts," Rubin adds. "Some people work hard and receive much in life, and others don't work and receive more. That's reality, too."

"But Santa performs a service, teaching children realities with which they will be living the rest of their lives."

He says parents who worry about the moment of shock when children discover the truth about Santa really shouldn't be concerned.

"With these types of myths, children hear what they're ready to hear and understand when it is right for them to know. If a child wants to believe in Santa the same way a priest or minister wants to believe in God for 80 to 100 years, he will do it. There is nothing here to do with evidence. It's a belief system."

Growing Poor Seek Help

Salvation Army Overwhelmed In Some Parts Of The Country

United Press International
America's charities say requests for help this Christmas have tripled in some areas and many of the needy are members of the "new poor" — young people, Asian refugees and people who once were on the giving end.

The Salvation Army, long the caretaker of the poor, is already turning people away in some parts of the country with more than two weeks to go until Christmas.

"People a year and a half ago who were helping us help others, now are coming to us for help," officials in Wichita, Kan., said.

Carol Franks of the Dallas Salvation Army said in 12 years with the charity "I've never seen the need, demand. Demands are well beyond anyone's anticipation." Capt. Charles Williams, director of social services for the Salvation Army in Boston, said "people are hurting and they're not giving. That's going to hurt us." He also said many people who donated in the past are now looking for assistance.

"A lot of people that used to give, can't," said Sally Farenthold, head of the Kansas City Metropolitan Lutheran Ministry. "Maybe they have lost their own jobs and their working hours have been cut back. And the people who have given in the past are needing help right now."

An example is a Dallas woman, 39, who asked to remain unidentified, sleeping on the floor of a downtown Salvation Army facility with her two children. She lost her 10-year, $503-a-week stockroom job when Braniff International declared bankruptcy in May.

"Listen, I'm just grateful I don't have to sleep in the car," she said. "At least my two kids and I have a place to stay and something to eat."

Salvation Army City Commander Maj. Roland Chambless in Tulsa said, "It would be a shock if we were unable to provide for everyone this holiday season."

Chambless' concern is reflected throughout the ranks of the Salvation Army.

"I know demands are being placed on us now that far exceed anything last year," said Maj. Leon Ferraez in Atlanta, who heads the division responsible for Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and other Southern states.

The Chicago-area Salvation Army is cutting back its services, suffering its own economic problems, while requests for assistance are up. "We are seeing a younger client, a person who is willing to work, a person who has had more education than the traditional bum or wino or derelict we've seen in the past," said Helen Johnson, assistant director.

Wes Laws, director of development for the Salvation Army in Minneapolis, said the nature of his case load also has changed.

"There are many unemployed, lots of Asian refugees, a tremendous influx of people temporarily in need. This is not the hard-core poor. I guess you'd call them the 'new poor.'"

In San Francisco, the Salvation Army ended its Christmas food-voucher program two weeks early because the $60,000 budget for the grocery certificates was exhausted in two days.

In Wichita, Kan., Salvation Army Major Herbert Fuqua said, "We're having exactly three times the number of applications at this point than in previous years. Last year during the Christmas season, Wichita's Salvation Army post served 1,000 families. To date the number has already reached that amount."

A Dallas official pegged increased demand at 20 to 100 percent. New York officials say demand is up 60 percent but officials have only been able to fulfill 20 percent of the increase.

Sanford Army Still Taking Requests

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Salvation Army in Sanford has received applications from more than 600 persons for Christmas, according to Capt. Beverly Waters.

The deadline for applying for the food and toys was scheduled to be today at the Salvation Army headquarters at 700 W. 24th St.

The canned goods, food vouchers and toys will be distributed on Dec. 21 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The toys and dolls will be displayed according to children's age and parents will have the opportunity to choose two toys per child, she explained.

"We began taking applications the day after Thanksgiving," she said, "but people were contacting us in October. We have contacted county social workers to notify the people they know who need assistance."

Persons applying must bring with them their Social Security card, proof of current address, birth certificate or Social Security for each child and amount of income, she explained.

After applications are screened, approved applicants are notified by mail when to come to pick up the toys and/or food.

Bellringers in the Salvation Army's annual Christmas kettle drive have been out at several locations in Seminole County since the day after Thanksgiving. Sites include Publix Market, Zayre's, Kmart and the Post Office in Sanford, and TG&Y in Longwood and Zayre's and Kmart in Casselberry.

Volunteers from Sanford clubs this week started taking a turn at bellringing at the Post Office, Publix and Zayre's.

Mrs. Waters said that they are restricted to the number of locations because of the lack of more volunteers and the fact that others are paid. "We don't feel it is necessary to have a kettle at each store," she added, "because most shoppers go to several stores."

Blueprint Reading Class Set

Seminole Community College is offering an evening course in Blueprint Reading during Term II. The course, oriented to the construction field, building trades, and related areas will be offered on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. beginning Jan. 4.

This course is a continuation of blueprint reading held in Term I and offers the student the opportunity to now move into the advanced areas and specialize in carpentry, electrical, plumbing, masonry and sheet metal. Due to the unique structure a student can rapidly review the information previously covered and move at his own pace in the advanced area.

Students may register at the College from now through the first night of class. Fees for this course include a $18 registration fee and the cost of texts according to subject area selected.

Town Reaps Profits

ATTICA, Kan. (UPI) — Santa Claus came to tiny Attica this year lugging a gas well — and the gift keeps on giving.

City coffers will teem with $120,000 monthly pouring in from a well donated to the city. Of the south Kansas town's 800 population, 350 landowners receive small checks from one-eighth of the well's profits.

The world wants to help Attica spend its windfall, but Mayor-pharmacist Ken Rogers says outsiders need not apply.

Attica is required by law to use city funds for limited projects such as a community center and paved streets. "If we have to we'll build the biggest community building you've ever seen," Rogers said. "Outside help probably is the least of our problems."

"I got a deal from someone who wants me to donate to the foundation to save the turtles," Rogers said. "I'm serious."

"But we can't give to the Salvation Army, or help out the Red Cross, or feed the starving children in India," he said. The money must benefit the people of Attica.

That means a Virginia woman who asked Rogers for a $100,000 house and $5,000 a month doesn't need to watch for a check in the mail.

Residents say life has changed little where the locals still gather at Rogers Pharmacy — down the block from a handcut Christmas tree on the corner — and talk about the weather and cracked sidewalks, and alp colas from the soda fountain.

The money results from a gift, not actually from Santa Claus, but from two residents.

No one knows how long the gravy train will roll.

New Trials Sought In $400 Million Cocaine Case

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — Attorneys for drug smugglers convicted of hauling more than a half ton of cocaine worth $400 million into Tennessee demanded new trials Tuesday because the FBI planted an informant in one of their law offices.

The government has conceded an investigator for attorney Richard Moore was working undercover for the FBI during last month's trial of four men in the second largest seizure of cocaine in the nation's history. Charles Scott was the government's tipster in the seizure of 647 pounds of cocaine worth $300 million at LaFayette, Ga., just six days before the Chattanooga trial began, FBI agents said. The disclosures came during pre-trial testimony at federal court at Rome, Ga., where seven men stand accused in the LaFayette cocaine bust.

Defense attorneys in the Chattanooga trial charged in motions Scott helped the government convict their clients and demanded new trials or dismissal of charges.

The lawyers claimed the informant used confidential records in the case and talked to one defendant, drug kingpin Leonard Steele, of Fort Lauderdale, dozens of times while secretly working for the FBI.

"The deliberate, prolonged, and intentional invasion of the defense camp by an informant acting as an agent of the United States government warrants dismissal of this case," attorney Alan Boss said in his motion.

John Cook, assistant U.S. Attorney at Chattanooga, denied Scott was an informant in the case he prosecuted.

"They are alleging that the informant passed on information to us, which is not true," Cook said. "So there would be no reason for a new trial in our case. We had no knowledge that this guy was even an informant."

Nuclear Dump Provokes Country Feuds

By TOM TIEDE

RIGHTON, Miss. (NEA) — The U.S. government is thinking about purchasing some property on the edge of this rural community, and Elmer Hillman could not be happier about it. He owns part of the land under consideration, and if the government bought it he would realize a smart profit.

What's more, he says he would not get rich alone. He claims the government investment would turn tiny Richton into a boom town. He says new jobs and opportunities would be created, the population would double, and double again, and in due time "a lot of local people could make a lot of money."

And yet Elmer Hillman's happy expectations are not shared by many of the others to whom he refers. In fact, he may be almost alone in his delight. Most residents do not want the government to buy land here, because the government would use the land to build a repository for nuclear garbage.

That is to say, the United States may build the nation's first nuclear burial grounds outside of Richton. There is a large salt dome in the earth to the west of the city, and authorities believe it would be a suitable place to permanently store the toxic wastes from America's 72 atomic reactors.

Landowner Hillman agrees with the authorities. Others here do not.

The others are political leaders and private observers. And they are united in their outrage. They do not want to see their quiet town turned upside down, and they have formed protest groups to protect Richton from what they fear could be a sentence of community — or perhaps even individual — death.

Not that the sentence is necessarily imminent. Nuclear officials have been talking for 30 years about building a permanent waste facility at one place or another. The government has thought about storing the poisons in outer space, and under the seas, or even on remote and uninhabited islands.

And still there is no decision. Presently, the Richton salt dome is just one of a half dozen dump sites under consideration. The government is likewise examining a basaltic area in Washington State, a volcanic deposit in Nevada, and other salt formations from Utah to Texas to Louisiana.

But there's no denying the Richton Dome is high on the list of prospective localities. Some scientists say it would make a perfect nuclear graveyard. It is stuck in the middle of nowhere (the nearest town of size is Hattiesburg), but it is also close to an interstate highway, and to several Gulf ports.

In addition, the dome is said to be naturally secure. It is large enough that wastes could be stored almost a mile below ground. And it is so plastic, in other words so resilient, that the formation might be able to heal itself, to close the wounds caused by drilling, construction and storage.

At least that's how the government sees it. The critics in

Potential sites for nuclear waste disposal

- 1 Basalt formations at Hanford nuclear facility, Washington
- 2 Volcanic deposits at Nevada nuclear test site
- 3 Salt beds at Paradox Basin, Utah
- 4 Salt beds in Texas Panhandle
- 5 Salt beds in northern Louisiana
- 6 Salt dome at Richton, Miss.

Richton have a different perspective. Alderman Jim White says the dome here may seem to be in the middle of nowhere, but in reality it underlies scores of homes. And he doesn't think that proximity can be translated into security.

For one thing, there would be the waste transportation. Alderman White says the trash would have to be hauled in by road, past schools and farms. And it might even be carried through the downtown district. That would mean the residents would have to worry about the possibility of accidents and spillage.

Then there would be the risk of the storage itself. The critics point out that salt formations are stable, but not invulnerable. They say the heat generated by nuclear wastes (up to 900 degrees) could melt the salt and cause leakage into the underground water deposits throughout the area.

But even if transporting and storing the wastes were safe, Richton critics would still oppose the nuclear dump. They say they just don't want the community disrupted. They say the government enterprise would at least destroy the character of the town, and possibly destroy the town itself.

The last point is mainly a rumor. But it is a persistent one. Some residents think that if the government buys the dome for wastes, it will have to move the whole town somewhere else. "That may be the only way it could be done safely," says Alderman White. "It's got a lot of people worried."

The worry has increased in recent weeks. Because, at long last, Washington may be getting ready to make final decision regarding a dump location. During the lame duck session, Congress might very well pass legislation that would require a selection by the late 1980s, and authorize the construction thereafter.

No one knows if Richton will be selected. But even if it isn't, the worry here won't end. Alderman White says that after the first dump site is chosen, a second will be needed, and so forth. Thus his grim assessment is that the government is going to eventually make Elmer Hillman a rich man.

Kids' Overdue Books Get Mothers Booked

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (UPI) — Children who failed to return their library books have more than an overdue fine to contend with — they have to do some explaining to their mothers, who were arrested for their children's procrastination.

Two women whose children failed to return books worth more than $120 from the Veterans Memorial Library and its branch in the nearby town of Shepherd were arrested Monday.

Library Director Evald Krut said he turned the women's names over to the city attorney under a year-old ordinance allowing police to arrest people with overdue books, although "I didn't want to go this far."

Marriott To Build Hotel At The Orlando Airport

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Marriott Corp. officials plan to build a 500-room hotel at Orlando International Airport to be completed next year.

The building would be the company's second hotel in the city and the eighth in Florida.

The Orlando Airport Marriott Inn, scheduled to be completed in December 1983, will feature two ballrooms and 12 meeting rooms, a company spokesman said.

The nine-story hotel will also include an indoor-outdoor swimming pool, tennis courts, health club, game room and jogging course with exercise stations.

The franchised inn is owned by the Atlanta-based W.B. Johnson Properties, Inc., and will be managed by JP Hotels, a Johnson subsidiary.

Marriott has another inn in downtown Orlando and is currently building a 600-room hotel in Miami that officials said should be completed in mid-1983.

Lieutenant Governor Enthusiastic

Nice Guy Mixson Will Be Heard From More In 1983; Adds Commerce Work

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Wayne Mixson is genuinely one of the most likable and enthusiastic people in state government. He also has been the least publicized of the state's elected officials.

The latter is likely to change in January. The former will just as likely remain the same come what may.

At one point Mixson was so unhappy as lieutenant governor that he considered not teaming up again with Gov. Bob Graham in the 1982 election. Now he is looking forward to adding the Commerce Department to his duties early next year.

Walk into his office and the gush of words pours out: He is "thrilled," "excited," "enthusiastic" about the challenges ahead.

He reaches for his lapel and displays a pin proclaiming Florida's climate for business to be the best in the nation and talks about about how the stage has been set for Florida's economy to take off.

He voices optimistic thoughts about "massive" numbers of people who are waiting to do business in Florida and tosses out plans for the future — like enlisting businessmen who have retired here in the effort to sell the state — as easily as someone else talks about the weather.

Despite his enthusiasm, Mixson will not be taking over the Commerce Department in the best of times. The department's responsibilities include economic development and tourism and both have been affected by the national economy.

Unemployment is approaching the 10 percent mark statewide.

Mixson conceded it has been "frustrating" because the national economy has forced businesses that are interested in the state to delay making the decisions that would bring their money and jobs here.

The lieutenant governor doesn't dwell on frustration very long. No sooner is the word frustration out of his mouth than he is talking of what will happen when the national economy improves and those "piles of potential decisions" are made.

Mixson said his enthusiasm for economic development is not a matter of promoting growth for the sake of growth. He said he wants jobs for people who are already here, especially the young.

"Those same planes that brought retired people to Florida have been leaving with a load of young people who couldn't find jobs," he said.

If the job as Commerce secretary is primarily a sales job, Wayne Mixson is ideally suited for it. He is robust for his 60 years and his enthusiasm is infectious.

Long ago, he convinced voters in the Florida

Panhandle around Marianna, where he owns an 1,800-acre cattle ranch, that he belonged in state government and they responded by electing him to five terms in the Florida House.

Because of Mixson's popularity in north Florida, Miami native Graham invited him to join his ticket in the 1978 gubernatorial election. Mixson was considered a major factor in Graham's upset win.

In June 1981, however, Mixson complained publicly that he was being isolated from Graham and had no say in the affairs of government. He said he might not run again in 1982.

The two men patched up their differences, and Mixson stayed on the ticket, despite an overture from Graham's Republican opponent that he run with him, not the governor.

The Graham-Mixson ticket was re-elected with ease in November.

Mixson denied the Commerce job was the price Graham paid to keep him on the ticket and said it was merely an option he could have exercised at any time.

Death Penalties Challenged

MIAMI (UPI) — Because opponents of the death penalty are systematically excluded from juries hearing capital cases, defendants are being denied their right to a fair trial, according to a study published today.

In a study published by the University of Michigan Law Review, University of Miami law professor Bruce J. Winick said that the 1,100 inmates on death row in American prisons may all have been sentenced unconstitutionally.

Winick criticized the use of the "peremptory challenge" by prosecutors, which allows them to remove jurors without having to give a reason. By so doing, Winick said, prosecutors avoid restrictions placed on them by a 1968 Supreme Court decision which limited the removal of jurors opposing the death penalty.

The ruling said that only jurors with views that would never allow them to impose the death penalty could be excluded for their beliefs.

Winick said that by excluding jurors who simply do not favor the death penalty, prosecutors are producing juries that do not represent a cross section of the community — which violates the sixth amendment.

Drivers Urged Not To Drink And Drive

Anticipating a full round of holiday parties, the Florida Highway Patrol has warned would-be drinking drivers that their chances of being involved in a fatal accident increases sharply after the first drink.

IA. Colonel Roger C. Collar, acting director of the Patrol, said, "In 1981, drinking made up nine percent of the contributing causes and was the third most important single factor listed for all types of accidents.

"Even more striking are the statistics for fatal accidents where drinking was the second leading factor, making up 19 percent of the contributing circumstances," he continued. "Bear in mind that these figures represent only those cases where the investigating officer was certain the driver had been drinking. There are many instances when it is not evident that the driver was drinking."

The figures indicate that drinking drivers tend to be involved in the more serious accidents and, according to Collar, some special studies have shown that at least half of all fatal accidents involve a drinking driver.

"Just remember," Collar concluded, "if you continue to drink and drive after that first drink, your chances of being in a fatal accident skyrocket fast. Why risk your life or the life of someone else? Stop and think before you drink and drive."

Moving Expenses Can Be Deducted

Taxpayers who are changing job locations and moving to a new location as a result can take many of their moving expenses as allowable deductions when they file their tax returns, according to Merlin W. Heye, Internal Revenue Service district director for Florida.

Moving expenses which are allowable deductions include the costs of: house-hunting trips prior to the move but after getting a new job, disposing of the old home and getting a new one, temporary living expenses at the new location, and moving personal and household goods. Reasonable job-related moving expenses may be considered allowable deductions if the expenses meet the "distance test," "time test," and are "closely related" to the start of work.

To meet the distance test, the new main job location must be at least 35 miles farther from the taxpayer's home than the old main job location was. The time test requires that a person be employed full-time at least 39 weeks of the 12-month period following arrival in the general area of the new job. These 39 weeks do not have to be consecutive or from the same employer. If a taxpayer is married, filing a joint return, and if both spouses work, either spouse's employment may fulfill the full-time work requirement, but the weeks of each spouse cannot be added together to fulfill the 39 weeks.

Those taxpayers who are self-employed must work full-time for at least 39 weeks during the first 12 months following their move, and a total of 78 weeks during the first 24 months. A move must also be closely related to the start of work, meaning that the move should take place within a year of taking a new job.

Details about deductions for moving can be found in the free IRS Publication 521, "Moving Expenses." This publication may be obtained by calling the IRS toll-free at 1-800-241-3850.

If you'll have ceiling insulation put up, we'll put up part of the cost.

Our Watt-Wise™ incentive will pay up to $300 to help qualifying customers have proper ceiling insulation installed by a contractor. This could reduce your air conditioning costs considerably.

If an FPL Home Energy Audit indicates that adding insulation is beneficial, you'll receive a Watt-Saver™ certificate. The certificate is redeemable with any participating insulation contractor. FPL will verify that the installation meets our specifications.

Will everyone benefit from Watt-Wise incentives?
Yes.

These incentives are less costly than the oil necessary to generate the electricity wasted by inefficient homes. Every 600 kilowatt-hours of electricity not used is a barrel of oil no one has to pay for. This also helps us postpone the building of expensive power plants. The less oil we use, and the less new building we have to do, the more we can help hold the line on everyone's electric bill.

For more information, or to arrange for a Home Energy Audit, send us the coupon or call the Watt-Wise Line at 1-800-432-6563.

Coeds Inducted Into Chapter

Two Furman University (Greenville, S.C.) students from Seminole County have been inducted into the school's chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa, a national leadership organization.

Omicron Delta Kappa was founded in 1914 at Washington and Lee University in Lexington, Va. The founders believed that leadership of exceptional quality and versatility should be recognized and that campus leaders, including students, faculty and administrators, should meet periodically to advance the general good of the institution.

The inductees are: Karen E. Foreman, junior economics and business administration major, daughter of Steve and Sue Foreman of 104 Camphor Tree Lane, Altamonte Springs; and Cynthia Lynn Roberts, junior economics and business administration major, daughter of Mrs. Brenda Roberts of 1933 St. Andrews Place, Longwood.

A Christmas tradition is being born this week as departments at Central Florida Regional Hospital trimmed their trees in preparation for having their first Christmas in the new facility.

The annual employees' Christmas party, being held today, will feature the singing and music of the Seminole Community College Choral Ensemble.

Coffee mugs, emblazoned with "You Make The Difference" in cheery red, will be presented to each employee, highlighting the fact that employees are the heart of the giving spirit of any hospital.

Handmade ornaments decorating the ceiling high tree are reflective of each department's activity and many display the name and/or photos of staff members, thus storing memories and creating a history of the new hospital.

A Christmas card contest with each department vying for top honors will also take place.

Glittering bells, representing each member of the insurance department, is placed on the CFRH Christmas tree by Joanne Smith.

With the traditional wassail bowl in the foreground for the "trimming party," Naomi Forbes and Carol Proenza, dietitians from Food Service, read the greetings inscribed on each ornament.

Wassail Bowl And Chocolate Mousse Begin And End Festive Meal

SPICED WASSAIL BOWL

6 small baking apples, cored
1 cup apple cider
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 cans (10 1/2 ounces each) condensed beef broth
6 whole allspice
6 whole cloves
3 whole cinnamon sticks, (3 inches) broken in half
1 can (46 fluid ounces) cocktail vegetable juice
1/4 cup lemon juice
short cinnamon sticks

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Peel a strip around the top of each apple. Place in 13-by-9-by-2 inch baking dish. In 1-quart saucepan, over low heat, simmer apple cider and sugar. Pour over apples. Bake 25 minutes or until apples are fork tender. Drain, reserving syrup. In covered 3-quart saucepot over low heat, simmer reserved syrup, beef broth, allspice, cloves and whole cinnamon sticks 10 minutes. Remove spices. Add cocktail vegetable juice and lemon juice. Heat until hot but not boiling, stirring occasionally. Pour hot cider mixture from saucepot into heated large punch bowl. Float apples in punch. To serve, ladle about 1/2 cup of the hot punch into each cup; add a short cinnamon stick to each serving. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 9 1/2 cups or 19 servings.

MULLED GRAPEFRUIT TODDY

3 cups grapefruit juice
3 cups apple juice
3 cups white grape juice
18 whole cloves
3 cinnamon sticks
1-3 cup sugar
1-3 cup brandy (optional)

In large saucepan, combine grapefruit juice, apple juice, grape juice, cloves, cinnamon sticks and sugar. Bring to a boil. Cover. Let steep 5 minutes; strain. Stir in brandy, if desired. Serve hot. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 18 four-ounce servings.

BONED TURKEY BREAST

1 large whole frozen turkey breast, thawed (about 6 1/2 pounds)
vegetable cooking spray
1/4 pound fresh mushrooms, coarsely chopped
1 medium onion, chopped
2 cups coarsely shredded zucchini
2 cups fresh bread crumbs
1 egg
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dried leaf thyme
2 to 3 carrots, pared and cooked
3/4 cup fresh or frozen cranberries

Place turkey breast, skin-side down, on board. With sharp, thin-bladed knife, carefully remove breast bone and ribs from meat without piercing the skin. (Reserve bones and boil with water to cover in a kettle for broth for gravy, if desired.) Split the thickest part of the breast muscle but do not cut all the way through and open out to give you a larger surface. Spray a large skillet with vegetable cooking spray as label directs. Heat skillet; add mushrooms, onion and zucchini. Cook over medium-high heat until any liquid that accumulated has evaporated. Remove from heat. Stir in bread crumbs, egg, salt and thyme. Spread half of stuffing over turkey breast to within 1 inch of edges. Place carrots length-wise down through center of breast on stuffing. Dot with cranberries; cover with remaining stuffing.

Bring two long edges of breast together and overlap meat and skin slightly. Fasten with metal skewers; then tie breast with string. (You may need to cover the ends of breast with a small piece of foil to keep stuffing in place before tying.) Place turkey breast on a rack over pan. Roast in a 325-degree oven for 2 to 2 1/2 hours or until fork-tender, brushing breast with pan drippings occasionally. Place breast on platter; remove string, skewers and foil, if used. Let rest 15 minutes. Make a gravy from pan drippings and broth, if you wish. Garnish platter with chlorey leaves or parsley. Slice turkey to serve. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 8 servings.

CURRENT GLAZED HAM

3/4 cup red currant jelly
1/4 cup dark corn syrup
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
5 to 7 pound canned ham
In small saucepan, stir together jelly, corn syrup and cloves. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, 5 minutes or until jelly is melted. Cook ham according to directions. During last 30 minutes of cooking, brush frequently with glaze. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 12 servings.

ROMAN BEEF ROAST
5-pound rump roast

1 medium clove garlic, minced
1/4 teaspoon oregano leaves, crushed

1 can (15 ounces) beef gravy
1/2 cup chopped canned tomatoes

Place meat, fat-side up, in large roasting pan. Roast at 325 degrees for 2 hours or until desired doneness (medium — about 25 minutes per pound or 160 degrees on meat thermometer). Remove meat from pan; pour off excess fat. See MEAL, Page 7C

Trim Tree With Popcorn Balls

In every family, certain holiday traditions are lovingly nurtured — and one of the nicest is trimming the tree with popcorn balls. You can perpetuate (or begin!) this custom with maple-sweet Holiday Popcorn Balls.

HOLIDAY POPCORN BALLS

- 8 cups popped corn (remove unpopped kernels)
- 1/2 cup chopped peanuts
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 1/4 cup maple flavored table syrup

- 1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine

In large bowl, combine popped corn, peanuts and raisins. In heavy small saucepan, combine syrup and sugar. Bring to a boil over medium-high heat, stirring constantly. Continue cooking over medium heat until mixture reaches hard ball stage (260 degrees F.) or until small amount of mixture dropped into very cold water forms a hard, but pliable, ball. Remove from heat; immediately stir in butter, mixing just until melted. Immediately pour syrup mixture over popped corn mixture, mixing until well coated; let stand 10 minutes. Butter palms of hands. Using about 1 cup mixture for each, shape to form 8 balls. Place on wax paper; cool thoroughly. Wrap securely in plastic wrap. Makes 8 popcorn balls.

Note: To make tree ornaments, tie plastic-wrapped popcorn balls with thread or cord, forming loops at top for hanging. Decorate with ribbon.

saving 4 tablespoons of the drippings. On top of range, in roasting pan, cook garlic and oregano in drippings. Add gravy and tomatoes. Heat, stirring to loosen browned bits. Serve with roast. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 to 10 servings, about 2 cups gravy.

SCALLOPED POTATOES AND MUSHROOMS

6 Idaho potatoes, pared and sliced

1/4-inch thick

1/2 pound fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced

2 cups (8 ounces) shredded Gruyere cheese, divided

2 cups heavy cream

1/2 cup chopped fresh parsley

1/4 cup finely chopped scallions

2 cloves garlic, minced

2 tablespoons cream sherry, (optional)

1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon white pepper

1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg

1-3 cup butter or margarine

Alternately layer potatoes, mushrooms and 1/2 cups cheese in lightly buttered 9-by-13 inch glass baking dish. In small mixing bowl, combine heavy cream, parsley, scallions, garlic, sherry, salt, pepper and nutmeg. Pour over layered ingredients. Sprinkle remaining 1/2 cup cheese on top and dot with butter. Cover dish with aluminum foil. Bake in 375-degree oven 45 minutes. Remove foil and bake 25 minutes longer or until potatoes are tender. Let stand 5 minutes before serving.

STRAWBERRY CLOUD CAKE

6 egg whites

1/4 teaspoon salt

2 cups sugar

1 teaspoon vanilla

3 cups heavy cream

2 tablespoons sugar

2 teaspoons vanilla

1 quart fresh strawberries

2 tablespoons sugar

1/2 cup Bacardi light rum

Beat egg whites with salt added until they are foamy. Gradually beat in sugar; add vanilla. Continue beating to stiff peaks. Line two 9-inch layer cake tins with aluminum foil. Oil the foil and dust with flour. Spread the pans with the meringue, divided evenly between the two pans. Bake at 250 degrees for about 1 hour. Remove from oven. Remove the foil. Place one layer of meringue on serving platter. When cool, beat cream with 2 tablespoons sugar and vanilla to soft peaks.

Reserve 2-3rd cup of the cream for decorating. Into the remaining 1-3rd of the cream, fold 1 1/2 cups fresh strawberries, slightly crushed, sweetened with 2 tablespoons sugar and the rum. Place mixture on first layer of meringue. Top with the second layer, coating the top and sides of the cake with remaining cream. Garnish top with whole strawberries and decorate with swirls of whipped cream. Place in refrigerator until ready to serve.

CHOCOLATE MOUSSE A L'ARMAGNAC

4 ounces semi-sweet chocolate

2 ounces unsweetened chocolate

4 eggs separated

1/2 cup sugar

3 tablespoons Armagnac brandy

Generous pinch salt

2-3rd cup heavy cream, whipped

Melt chocolates together in a small saucepan, over low heat, and allow to cool. Beat egg yolks and sugar at high speed, until thick and lemon-colored. Stir in brandy, then cooled chocolate; stirring until thoroughly blended. Beat egg whites with a pinch of salt, at high speed, until stiff but not dry. Mix about one-third of the egg whites into the chocolate mixture. Gently fold in remaining egg whites; then fold in whipped cream. Pour into a serving bowl or six individual glass dessert dishes. Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate for 3 hours or overnight. Serve with or without whipped cream on the side. This kitchen-tested recipe makes six servings.

Use microwave or conventional oven for Chinese chicken.

Chicken

Two Preparation Methods For Main Dish

"Convenience" has become a by-word in the way Americans live, especially in the kitchen.

And more and more homemakers are discovering the convenience of microwave ovens.

Chicken cooked in the microwave fits right in with today's busy life styles. It is nutritious, economical and easy to prepare in a variety of different ways, whether you're cooking for one or for a large family. And chicken is ideally suited to fast, moist microwave cookery.

The National Broiler Council (NBC) advised allowing, in general, 6 minutes per pound for microwaving chicken on the high setting. Individual parts will cook in about a quarter of the time required for conventional cooking. The microwave is also the fastest and most efficient way to defrost frozen chicken and the easiest way to re-heat left-over chicken without losing any of its original quality or flavor.

Microwave ovens vary so NBC advised following the manufacturer's instructions. It is best to undercook and test for doneness. If a fork cannot be inserted with ease, return the chicken to the oven briefly for additional cooking, checking for doneness after the standing time, during which the chicken continues to cook.

One delicious recipe developed by NBC for cooking chicken, in the microwave is "Microwave Chinese Chicken With Rice." It is a complete meal in one dish, with fresh mushrooms, snow pea pods and celery adding texture to the chicken and soy-flavored rice. If you don't have a microwave oven, the recipe may be prepared using the stove top and conventional oven, although more time will be needed. Both methods are given below.

MICROWAVE CHINESE CHICKEN WITH RICE
1 whole broiler-fryer chicken
1/4 cup soy sauce, divided
1 tablespoon margarine, melted
2 cups water

2 tablespoons diced onion
2 chicken bouillon cubes
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup long grain rice
1/4 teaspoon pepper
3 ribs celery, diagonally sliced
1/2 medium onion, thinly sliced
8 ounces fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced
8 ounces snow pea pods (fresh or frozen)

In small saucepan over low heat, melt margarine. Remove from heat and add 1 tablespoon of the soy sauce; brush chicken with sauce; reserve remaining portion. In large, shallow microwave dish, place chicken on trivet, breast side down. Cover loosely with wax paper; microwave on medium setting for 15 minutes. Remove chicken from microwave and turn chicken breast side up. Brush generously with soy-margarine sauce. Cover with wax paper and continue to microwave on medium setting for 15 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease and leg moves freely when lifted or twisted. While chicken is in microwave, in small saucepan mix together water, diced onion, bouillon cubes and salt. Bring to a boil; add rice, cover, reduce heat to low and cook for 20 minutes or until rice is done.

Remove chicken from microwave and allow to stand for 10 minutes. Reserve pan drippings. Remove chicken from bones and cut into bite-size pieces. Discard bones and skin. Mix remaining soy sauce with pepper and pour over chicken; set aside.

In large bowl, mix together sliced onion, celery and pan drippings. Cover and microwave on high setting for 2 minutes, stirring after 1 minute. Add mushrooms and pea pods.

Microwave on high setting for 2 minutes, stirring after 1 minute. Add chicken and rice; toss to mix thoroughly. Makes 6-8 servings.
