Investment Review Closes Unprecedented Foreign Loans By America

Dec. 25.—(P)—American capital in the domestic investment market for governments, corporations and other enterprises closed an unprecedented year in 1925. While actual figures are not yet available, indications of capital floating last year's record of more than $5,000,000,000.

Over the time in history, investors poured more dollars into foreign investments, equalling the 1924 record of $1,200,000,000. Profits claimed about the total, the gain of business offsetting the decline in government bonds.

Commanding position in the world also was held by the United States in the stabilization of foreign currencies. Fortified by the enormous gold stocks, bankers set aside $500,000,000 for the protection of Great Britain and other nations. The stabilization of foreign currencies was maintained on a gold basis.

In the field of new issues, the market was shadowed in interchanges in the bond market to equal those of 1924 in volume. Prices were maintained on a par throughout the year.

Movement which was caused last year drew to a gradual lightening of the market. The market was held up by the steady flow of new offerings inviting investment, acted as a counter-attraction to the bond market.

Although many substantial gains were recorded during the year, the market lacked the wide price movements which featured the recovery of many speculative bonds in the preceding year. Obligations of one southern railroad, which carried unique warrants to purchase stock in a Florida land company, soared almost 100 points before they were retired, and a few convertible rail and oil bonds moved up 20 to 30 points in the wake of advancing prices for these securities.

The only sharp break in prices took place in the bonds of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway when financial disaster overtook this northwestern system. Overburdened with a funded debt of some $400,000,000, the road was forced into receivership in March and its securities plunged to the verge of ruin. Recouped by the drafting and subsequent modification of a reorganization plan, providing for a drastic scaling down of fixed interest charges, foreshadowing an early restoration of the road to a sound financial footing.

The St. Paul receivership threw upon the market $20,000,000 of bonds into default but the amount of industrial issues unable to pay interest was reduced from $124,000,000 were lifted from default, while $35,000,000 were added to the list.

The broader demand for foreign securities in 1925, embracing both listed bonds and new issues, reflected the great recovery made in the economic progress of the world, particularly of European nations. Two of the Scandinavian countries—Norway and Denmark—so improved their financial structures that they were able to refund large loans at substantially lower interest rates.

Effect of Embargoes

Unofficially embargoes on foreign loans both in this country and Great Britain exerted a considerable influence on the size and character of 1925 borrowings. Early in the year, the United States government closed the door to European nations which had not yet funded their war debts. This excluded France as a borrower in this market, but Italy, Belgium and Czechoslovakia were readily accommodated with loans and credits after having made arrangements to settle their obligations to the government.

A new policy regarding the regulation of foreign loans also took shape through the co-operation of the Washington administration and international bankers in denying financial assistance to foreign monopolies, which might otherwise have obtained American funds to maintain high prices against American consumers. Proposed loans of $25,000,000 to the German potato syndicate and $35,000,000 to the Sao Paulo coffee industry were rejected on this account.

While the American investment market lost considerable business through these restrictions, it was enabled to attract new borrowers when Great Britain placed a ban on foreign financing upon her return to the gold standard.

CHICAGO BUILDER FINDS BOOM IN WINTER MONTHS

Says Jack Frost Has Been Whipped By Contractors And Great Volume Being Let For Winter Building

CHICAGO, Dec. 25.—(P)—Jack Frost has been whipped by the building contractor, and the winter volume of contracts being let for winter construction indicates that its advantages are becoming better appreciated.

A survey by W. J. Lynch, vice-president of a large contracting firm, disclosed that one of the principal advantages of winter construction was that the more constant employment attracted better workmen, and tended to avoid the peak demand of high wages and scarcity of labor experienced every summer.

"There is little, if any, difference in the amount of time lost between winter season and milder season," Lynch said, "delay due to severe cold and heavy snows week's time on a building and equal delay due to rain in the milder season seem to have been overlooked."

"It will be conceded generally that the quality of the work in winter will be unimpaired, but it is urged that the cost will be prohibitive. The cost of heating materials for erecting on a million dollar job will run less than one percent and the cost of heat for interior work rarely exceeds one-half of one percent of the building's cost."

"One of the reasons for high wages in the building industry is the tremendous turnover and the contention of various trades that workers have only seasonal employment, due to the nature of the industry. Furthermore, scarcity of employment is a deterrent to potential mechanics who would readily enter the trades were there an all season demand for their labor."

"The practice of letting contracts during all periods of the year would give greater utilization to the business instrumentalities of the industry."

Patrick Reports 319 Service Planes In The Army Hangars

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—(P)—A new and official array of figures on how many service airplanes the army really has—a question that has been banded about in air service investigational circles for the last year with as much confusion of answers as the old catch, "How old is Ann?"—is furnished in the report to Secretary Davis by Major General Mason M. Patrick, air service chief.

Speaking as of June 30 last, General Patrick said there were 319 service airplanes on hand, an attached note adding:

"Does not include war time equipment and experimental types. War time equipment is unsuited for active service and has deteriorated to the extent of needing immediate replacement."

These planes "on hand" were tabulated as consisting of 31 training, 167 observation, 95 bombardment, and 26 pursuit planes.

There were no attack or transport types in the list.

A second grouping of "airplanes" contracted for or scheduled for purchase but not yet delivered, included 165 training, 99 observation, 40 bombardment, 85 pursuit, no attack and 10 transport types, making a total on hand or in early prospect of 737 machines of all types.

Under "shortage" of airplanes General Patrick said this 737 figure represented a deficiency of 950 planes under "present peacetime requirements" and of 2,180 under the Lassiter Board project for the air service approved by the department. He placed the cost of making up for the shortage to present requirements at $15,000,000 and to the Lassiter Board's schedule at $43,429,000.

Island Of Yap Has Shortage Of Food

TOKIO, Dec. 25.—(P)—A food shortage is reported at the island of Yap as the result of a tidal wave and storm which swept the island Dec. 15. The government is preparing to send a ship load of provisions to relieve the condition.

Virtually every building along the coast of the island was damaged by the storm but no loss of lives is reported.

be permitted to re-enter the Manchurian capital. The withdrawal of Chang had scored a complete victory over the army of Gen. Joo Sung-Lin.

Advices to the foreign offices from Shanghai, however, stated that the Kwangtung division of Kuo's troops stationed nearby may give battle to the Chang-division whose advances have caused Japan to order the cruiser (Shirata) to the Chingwangtao, a coal shipping port on the gulf of Liaotung, for the protection of nationals.

Official advices were received confirming the execution of Kuo and his wife but the foreign office stated that the Mukden council had been expected to ask for a reprieve for Kuo and Chang agreed to send a messenger to Siminfu ordering his life preserved, but evidently the action was taken to late.

It is understood that Japan is making further representations for mercy to minor officials of Kuo.

General Election Imminent

TOKIO, Dec. 25.—(P)—The foreign office has received advices from the Japanese consul at Mukden that Gen. Chang Tao-Lin has refused to promise mercy for the preservation of the lives of the defeated Marshal Ku Sing-Ling's family and also for the lives of Kuo's principal officers. Consequently it is feared that a general execution of Chang's enemies is imminent.

Strong representations on the part of Hamaguchi, minister of finance, caused Japan's decision to withdraw the remaining 3,000 troops from Mukden in the near future, probably before the first of the year, owing to the great expense of maintaining troops, officials stated.

The office added that Japan will withdraw the remaining 3,000 troops as soon as conditions permit.

According to the foreign office, Chang has not yet entered Mukden, but it is expected that he will demand control there and Japan will only accede if there is no danger of further fighting.

A Japanese correspondent, Tokio Nichi Nichi, named Unosono, has disappeared near Siminfu and Japan has demanded that Chang investigate. The foreign office is extremely concerned regarding the outcome of Chang's investigation, although it is reiterated that Japan has always been neutral.

Three Unidentified Men Shot And Killed At Christmas Dance

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—(P)—Three unidentified men were shot and killed early today as the climax of a Christmas dance at the Adonis Social Club, a south Brooklyn resort. The police believe that the men came at midnight to the club where dancing was going on. They were accompanied by girls and it is believed a quarrel arose between strangers and the dancers over choice of partners.

The triple crime was discovered when a policeman found one of the bodies lying in the street. He made his way to the dance hall and found the other two dead men lying amid broken furniture which had apparently been wrecked in a terrific struggle.

Residents of the neighborhood said they had heard no shots nor any sounds of a struggle.

One of the slain men later was identified as Richard "Peg Leg" Lanigan, alleged member of the "White Gang" who was mysteriously murdered in November, 1923, in the back room of a tenement house near the Brooklyn bridge.

of 1884 established Jan. 18. The buying was said to have been based on reports the current earnings are running at the rate of $7 a share on the new stock, six shares of which were given for each one of the old through a stock split-up and the declaration of a stock dividend.

Rails were galvanized into action by the publication of unusually favorable November earnings reports, particularly by some of the western carriers and by the crossing of the million car market by freight loadings in the first two weeks of the month, the largest of any similar period in history. Atchafalpa, New York Central and Atlantic Coast Line were among the many issues to sell at their highest prices in a year, or longer.

Oil stock took on a new lease of life with buying stimulated by reports of forthcoming mergers in California and mid-continent fields. Pan American issued an undated Pacific and Alaskan oil and the Barnsdale issues all touched new 1925 high marks.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

WHY WILL YE DIE?—Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye have transgressed: make ye a new heart and a new spirit: for why will ye die, O house of Israel? For I have no pleasure in the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord God: wherefore turn yourselves, and live ye.—Ezekiel 18:31, 32.

THERE IS ALWAYS A GIRL. There is always a girl who is dearer than all.

Perhaps her bright eyes—as blue as the skies, or as gray as the mist of the ocean.

There is always a girl who is dearer than you, wherever you be, she's the one you would rather be nearest.

There is always a girl who is sweeter to you, there is always a girl who is sweeter; wherever you roam she is calling you home.

There is always a girl who is dearer than you, there is always a girl who is sweeter; wherever you roam she is calling you home.

Well, it was a merry, merry Christmas.

Headline in the Philadelphia Inquirer says, "Water Falls Dead At Work." Now who'll tell another good one?

One thing that Santa Claus was particular about bringing to Sanford was ideal weather for Christmas Day.

We saw a youngster of six in long trousers going down the street with his father in short ones. The youngster sure did look cute.

It isn't a case of too much egg nog that is causing so many people to feel under the weather today. In most cases it is too much turkey.

Electric heaters answer the purpose pretty well in every way except that they don't make as good cupboards as the old-fashioned fireplaces.

What do the little girls of today do when they have the impulse that the little girls of yesterday had when they put on long dresses to play "big folks"?

Eness has extensively studied piano composition and musical theory and history. He plays the violin and sings creditably.

President Blanchard, of Wheaton College educational and religious leader, dies, and The Associated Press sends out about three lines: Jack Dempsey, pugilist, or "Battling" Siki, deprived negro fighter, does something and the fact appeared all over the front pages of the newspapers.—Eunice Lake-Region. Unreasonable as it may sound, it is done because one line is news and the other isn't.

Crowded Courses

Not so long ago we had occasion to play one of the golf courses in one of the more metropolitan of our neighboring cities. We looked forward to it with anticipation of a great deal of pleasure.

And besides we knew it was a good course. We had been told so hundreds of times and had no reason not to believe it. Most Florida courses are the best in the world.

We arrived early enough, but there was never-the-less a number of foursomes on the tee ahead of us. There was nothing to do but wait, and it was early. We wouldn't have any trouble making eighteen holes before lunch.

After a half hour of this, it came our turn. Our mind a perfect whirl of missed drives, we stepped nervously up to the ball. "Fore on the tee, please!" Buzz all around us.

We topped one out thirty five or forty yards. So did the rest of the foursome. Second shots were in order. "Fore!" from the tee. Whizz, the little pills zipped by, making the cold shivers go up and down our spine.

A foursome of professionally inclined surveyors were busily engaged trying to hole their putts. Tripods were erected at various points of vantage and the whole situation inspected from a scientific point of view.

Some hours later they found us wandering aimlessly about, muttering something about birdies and grasshoppers, and trying to comb our matted hair with a mashie-niblick.

Needless to say we intend to confine our future golfing activities to our own little municipal golf course where two's company and a foursome is a big crowd.

Politics That Are Unwholesome

The controversy now raging in Philadelphia over the peremptory dismissal of General-Smedley Butler from the office of director of public safety bids fair to uncover a nest of graft and corruption in the Quaker City that will shock profoundly those who had been laboring under the supposition that the general had "cleaned up" the town.

Charges and counter charges and multitudinous accusations and implications have the public guessing as to the true whys and wherefores of the affair, and it is hard to determine whether the general or his accusers are the ones in a situation that savors of vice on a wholesale scale.

Butler attributes his dismissal to his too zealous application of the law's strong arm to big and little alike. He charges that Mayor Kendrick frequently interfered with the prosecution of his duties, warning him to "lay off the big houses," even after he had reported drunken men and young women found on ballroom floors of fashionable houses.

It is difficult to believe that a community as a whole will tolerate the abuse of justice in this manner, and if Butler's charges are proven and substantiated, Mayor Kendrick's political career in Philadelphia will very likely come to a disastrous end.

Butler says the publication of his diary kept during his service with the police department, will "raise a ruckion" and if the reported entries are supported by evidence, it most certainly will. He quotes Mayor Kendrick as saying, "You're going too strong on these $7,000,000 investments, and you must remember that there's a difference between these establishments and the cheap places."

The Butler row is just another ugly reminder of the unwholesome politics existing in many of the nation's big cities. The people of the country are watching with interest to see just what comes of all the rumpus and if General Butler will be able to substantiate the charges he has made against Mayor Kendrick.

One constantly hears that Florida's end will come with a period of national depression. People seem to figure her an alien country, a thing apart from the United States, even though Al Smith did get one of her votes for about fifty ballots in Madison Square Garden in 1924.

"I know of 26 millionaires who have changed their residence to Florida to escape state income and inheritance taxes and intangible taxes," said Patrick W. Murphy, author of Tax Reduction By Florida Residence and of a book on real estate law in Florida. Mr. Murphy doubts whether the wealthy people now going there will buy real estate immediately but expects them to in a few years.

OPENINGS IN THE HIGHER BRANCHES. Fourth of July was supposed to be a holiday in a certain garrison of the regular army out West, but a grizzled old sergeant named Kelly, in charge of the guard house, had his own ideas about this holiday notion.

"There is no doubt in me own mind," he said, "but that a good many of you men should not be prisoners at all. You've neglected your opportunities, that's all. Some here has had education and should make good company clerks. Maybe there's some others amongst you who'd like to be company barbers and earn a little money on the side."

"Now thin," went on Sergeant Kelly, "all you men who are educated or who think ye cud learn to do paper work stop two paces to the front. About half of the prisoners came forward. "Now thin, all who'd like to learn the barberin' business advance two paces."

"All save two moved toward him with alacrity. The sergeant addressed the remaining pair: "What did the two of you do before you joined the army?" he asked.

"We was laborin' men," answered one, speaking for both. "Very well thin, all you educated guys take these here gunnysacks and pick up every scrap of paper around the parade grounds. And the rest of you, who want to learn barberin', you grab these here lawn mowers and cut grass until I tell you to leave off. You two laborin' men kin go back inside the tent and take a nap."

As Brisbane Sees It

The Chicago Daily News is sold, and Victor Lawson is proud of the man so eager to invest in the enterprise that Melville Stone and he built up.

Names in the new ownership of the Chicago Daily News represent a Chicago of all sorts. Intelligent. Many were included in the intellectual little group that bought and financed the Chicago Herald, until they got tired and W. H. Hearst kindly took the job off their hands.

Everybody will wish the new owners of the News all possible success. But the question that perhaps disturbs Mr. Lawson, looking down is: "What success is possible when men that know more about money than journalism control a newspaper?"

If wise, the new owners will allow Mr. Stone, thoroughly trained foreman under Mr. Lawson, to be the complete boss, and gentlemen themselves with taking the profits.

Voronoff, transplantor of glands from our alleged humble ape brothers into human bodies, will establish a farm for breeding monkeys at the Mediterranean's edge, near Nice. Wherever ostriches can live apes will live, says Voronoff.

But suppose that we should be related to those "higher apes." Suppose they should appear at judgment day, pointing, long, hairy fingers at Voronoff, and gentlemen of "restored youth," saying: "They took our glands." How would Voronoff and others feel and what would be the proper earthly punishment for gland stealing?

Sir Bache Cunard, rich, useful Britisher, says in his will, "I prefer to go to my grave in a farm wagon rather than in a hearse, if convenient."

Good St. Louis, king of France, meant well, when, dying of the plague, he had himself taken from his bed and laid on rough ashes. "That may have helped his soul, but the business of a king is to help his people."

Had he done more for French peasants, instead of gallivanting about the holy land, one of his successors named Louis XVI might have lived longer and there might have been no Napoleon.

Very venerable Anagarika Dharmapala, head of the Buddhist church of Ceylon, India, Burma, Ceylon and Malaya, says Christians do "not believe in the tenets of Christ's religion."

The Buddha saw the tigress and thought that her little cub would get no milk from her, he immediately allowed himself to be suckled by her milk supply. Nobody would expect the venerable Anagarika to do anything like that—it would be unreasonable.

It is also unreasonable to expect the hard-working American to follow literally the command about giving all to the poor. And anything that would be a bad thing for business and prosperity, of which even the poor get a share—a very small share.

JUST IN PASSING By R. J. HOLLY

Tampa has just taken in 150 miles for the city limits and has Jacksonville beat as the Gate City only has 140 miles. Thus Tampa takes the hinges off the Gate and allows it to swing in the breezes from the west coast chambers of commerce.

But Jacksonville will continue to be the Gate City for many years to come and her enterprising citizens will now take in all of Duval county and part of Georgia if necessary to get the population over the 200,000 mark.

All of which reminds me that in the near future Sanford will extend her city limits to Jacksonville on the north and Tampa on the southwest and Miami on the south and there will be nothing left for discussion except from Orlando and a hundred other cities.

ONE OF THE EIGHTH WONDERS OF THE WORLD.—The poor father of a family who has one hundred dollars in his pocket book and yet is able to spend two hundred dollars on Christmas presents for his family and friends. At least this is expected of him from said family.

My old friend Frank Munsey died the other day, worth several million dollars from his various newspapers and magazines. If the magnificent support now accorded my magazine continues I will be able to save several millions by the time I am three thousand years old.

"Who Owns The Streets?" asks an editorial in the Tampa Tribune. This has been a burning question ever since automobiles came into the practice of killing pedestrians as a pastime. For quite a while I thought the city owned the streets but every time I pay my taxes it looks like I own the streets and the sidewalks and the City Hall.

Headlines in daily papers state that "France Still Standing Off the Riffs." France has nothing on me at that. For the past three weeks during the gladsome holiday season, I have been standing off the riffs and the raffs and all the tribes of Israel.

One of my girls coming from Tallahassee the other day had her trunk checked and it was late in arriving at Sanford. Just a pleasant word to the Sanford ticket agent and the trunk was traced and brought in the next day with only one hole knocked in it. This is what I call real service in this day of hectic business and embargoes.

All of which reminds me that the employees of the railroad and the express companies and even of the postoffice are really doing all they can to bring order out of chaos and again creating something akin to service. It is not the fault of the employees if there is any fault on the part of anyone. Railways and express and postal services are inadequately manned these days. They all need twice as much help as they have and it is all "bull" to say you cannot get help. The north is filled with people wanting to come to Florida. While the rush is on in this state get some from other states.

If there is any doubt in your mind about the work being done by the various utility plants look at Manager Clyde Byrd of the Southern Utilities who had a nervous breakdown and is back at his post because it is absolutely necessary that he be there. Look at Howard Overlin just back from the hospital for a nervous breakdown and still on the job to try and take care of the unprecedented rush for service in telephones.

Look at City Manager Williams who is busy night and day trying to keep up with the orders for more water and gas throughout miles of new territory where no one is living at present but where it is hoped that thousands of new people will soon be building homes. Manager Williams has no gone bad yet but if he ever gets over it he will never look like anything again. And so it goes. You cannot have prosperity without the attendant inconveniences and delays and nervous tension.

Having just paid about $50 dollars for a little dried up turkey and one dollar a dozen for eggs that tasted like they came over here from China with the first dope smuggler I am reminded that a poultry farm or two in Seminole County would be much better than the three thousand and forty subdivisions that we are now boosting.

WANTED TO TRADE.—For an automobile, farm, acreage, chicken, or geese or what have you—three red, white and blue neckties, a box of cigars 1898 models, a mustache cup, three pairs of suspenders and a book on "How to Raise Children." The donors of these gifts are barred from the premises until next Christmas at which time the game will start in new, catch as catch can and all bills paid.

Another old citizen and Florida pioneer sprung from our midst last week when death called Judge Baringfellow. A veteran of the Civil and Spanish Wars and resident of a state for many years gave him a wide circle of friends and who will regret his demise.

POWER OF PARDON

The appeal of Gerald Chapman, notorious mail robber and gunman, under a sentence of death in connection for the murder of a policeman, goes now to the United States supreme court.

Chapman is not one of the guilt or innocence of the condemned man, because guilt seems to have been established beyond question, but one of the procedure which was followed in his case.

Chapman's argument in the federal district court that as a federal prisoner he is first entitled to complete his sentence of 25 years before the penalty of the Connecticut state court can be enforced against him is not without merit, although the district court denies his position for a writ of habeas corpus on that ground.

The court also overruled Chapman's contention that he is still a federal prisoner and held that a rule of law determines that a commutation of sentence is not to be accepted by a convict to make it operative as against the statement of the defendant that he did not accept the act of the president.

It is hoped the supreme court will consent to receive the appeal and decide definitely the questions which have been raised. The use of the pardoning or the parole power in a state to release a prisoner to another state for prosecution is not unusual although it is a questionable practice. But the Chapman case is perhaps the first time in the history of the United States that a president has used the power of clemency for the ultimate purpose of judicial vengeance.

A correspondent, who has called attention to this phase of the procedure, says that to use the pardoning power in this manner, instead of as an act of mercy, for the purpose of sending a prisoner to execution is shocking to the sensibilities of many people.

Perhaps it is begging the question to say that a commutation here was in order that exact justice might be done in the Chapman case. Merely has nothing to do with justice. Justice may finally send a man to the gallows, but some mitigating features in the case which can in no way be considered by the trial court might make it desirable that the prisoner at the bar should not have the full sentence of the law executed upon him. The law must be vindicated and there have been many cases where, after the law has been vindicated by court action, the executive power has extended mercy.

Chapman would be on basis for appeal but before his conviction is set aside, he must first be convicted of a crime. That action, if taken, might be to the state's profit.

POTATO ONCE AN OUTCAST

The biggest gold nugget ever found was never half so useful to the world as one good potato. This weighty conclusion of philosophy was uttered by no less a person than the sage of Chelsea, Thomas Carlyle.

While Aesop was discoursing to the peasants and kings of Greece the Inca in far-away Peru were cultivating the potato as a domestic crop. All authorities are inclined to believe that the potato originated along the Pacific coast of South America, whence it was carried to Europe by the early Spaniards. This is supposed to have happened early in the sixteenth century.

But the potato had a hard fight for recognition. At first many people thought potatoes would cause leprosy and dangerous fevers. Others were of the opinion that since potatoes were not mentioned in the Bible they would endanger their souls by eating them. There is a tradition that Sir Walter Raleigh was the first man in England to eat potatoes and that he received them from his colonists in Virginia. This, however, has no evidence to support it. Many authorities doubt whether the potato was growing in North America at that time. One thing is a matter

Society Dictators Urge Abolition Of Vulgar And Immodest Dress

Society leaders in the national capital have begun a campaign against some of the present tendencies in the dress and habits of American women.

Mrs. John B. Henderson, long an influential figure in the exclusive circles of diplomatic and official Washington, today made public a set of resolutions to which she and other social leaders here have subscribed, calling on society women everywhere "to abandon cigarettes and immodest attire."

Officers of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, Mrs. Henderson said had assured her they are ready to combat as far as possible habits which threaten the perpetuity of the American nation.

As made public by Mrs. Henderson, the resolutions endorsed by influential society women here are as follows:

"That we are deeply interested in the efforts of certain high dignitaries of church and schools who have met hoping to modify undesirable prevailing fashions for women's apparel, and have hopefully laid the blame to mothers, calling upon them to come to the rescue; that we feel that they do not realize that Dame Fashion is a powerful potentate; that a large number of American girls now work for an independent living, and if chided by helpless mothers concerning questions of fashions they simply regard such mothers as out of date and old-fashioned."

"That the best women of France and England, also as here represented in their Embassies, also by the Royal family of England do not follow fashions of women's apparel not in good taste, quite regardless of fashions which are dictated by the under-world of Paris."

"That we suggest for street wear dress skirts broader and of ankle length."

"That we call upon society women of America everywhere to band together to condemn such vulgar fashions of women's apparel that do not tend to cultivate innate modesty, good taste or good morals."

"That in the interest of future public health and efficiency, we pray that the comparatively new fashion of cigarettes be abandoned, in that reserves from health capital, expended to save the living organism from perils of poison inevitably lead, sooner or later, to physical bankruptcy and race degeneracy."

Society Dictators Urge Abolition Of Vulgar And Immodest Dress

Society leaders in the national capital have begun a campaign against some of the present tendencies in the dress and habits of American women.

Mrs. John B. Henderson, long an influential figure in the exclusive circles of diplomatic and official Washington, today made public a set of resolutions to which she and other social leaders here have subscribed, calling on society women everywhere "to abandon cigarettes and immodest attire."

Officers of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, Mrs. Henderson said had assured her they are ready to combat as far as possible habits which threaten the perpetuity of the American nation.

As made public by Mrs. Henderson, the resolutions endorsed by influential society women here are as follows:

"That we are deeply interested in the efforts of certain high dignitaries of church and schools who have met hoping to modify undesirable prevailing fashions for women's apparel, and have hopefully laid the blame to mothers, calling upon them to come to the rescue; that we feel that they do not realize that Dame Fashion is a powerful potentate; that a large number of American girls now work for an independent living, and if chided by helpless mothers concerning questions of fashions they simply regard such mothers as out of date and old-fashioned."

"That the best women of France and England, also as here represented in their Embassies, also by the Royal family of England do not follow fashions of women's apparel not in good taste, quite regardless of fashions which are dictated by the under-world of Paris."

"That we suggest for street wear dress skirts broader and of ankle length."

"That we call upon society women of America everywhere to band together to condemn such vulgar fashions of women's apparel that do not tend to cultivate innate modesty, good taste or good morals."

"That in the interest of future public health and efficiency, we pray that the comparatively new fashion of cigarettes be abandoned, in that reserves from health capital, expended to save the living organism from perils of poison inevitably lead, sooner or later, to physical bankruptcy and race degeneracy."

The program, which covers practically every phase of sports, lawn tennis, bowling-on-the-green, football, basketball, boxing, athletics, and has already attracted some of the best "stars" of the world, will be in operation during the winter season.

The winter season will be inaugurated at the appearance of at least four champions in their respective sports.

"Red" Grange Hero Of Game At Coral Gables On Friday

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Harold Grange, commonly known as "Red," football player and footballer extraordinary, made his debut in Dixie yesterday, carrying off all the honors in a gridiron contest here between the Chicago "Bears" of which he was and is the star, and the Coral Gables collegians.

The titan-tressed mercury scored the only touchdown of the game, carried the ball nine times for a total yardage of 98 yards, lost nine yards and was halted for no gain in one try. The final score was 7 to 0.

Mr. Grange's initial appearance was a success and the 2,200 spectators who saw him make it felt he lived up to his reputation. The star played three full quarters of the game, being held out in the

New State Prison Is To Be Constructed Soon As Possible

TALLAHASSEE, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The Board of Commissioners of State Institutions is expected to take up at an early meeting definite plans for construction of the new prison building at Raiford, authorized at the special session of the legislature.

Governor Martin, who returned recently from a trip which included the Maryland state penitentiary, was said to be contemplating laying before the board at once the results of his observation of the tag-making plant at the Maryland institution.

The most spectacular moment of the game was the closing as the "Galloping Ghost" found a hole in the line and covered 45 yards before he was grounded by another sorrel top, "Red" Barron, former star of Georgia Tech's Golden Tornado, who tackled him from behind.

The array of football talent here yesterday is believed to have been the greatest ever seen on a gridiron in the south. The 47 men in uniform represented 20 universities, as well as the shoe tannery, both features of which will be incorporated in the Raiford plans.

Immediately following the governor's presentation of the data he has gathered, the board will consult an architect and will advertise for bids for erection of the new prison.

The new penitentiary will be built largely with convict labor. It will be of concrete, with all modern improvements.

Erection of the new state building for the road department, also authorized at the special session of the legislature, is not in the minds of the commissioners as yet, it was stated by a member of the board. It is desired, it was stated, to get the penitentiary out of the way first.

The new state building will be placed in Tallahassee, possibly on the site used for many years as a public market place.

Shortly before the primaries last October, a columnist of the Erie, Pennsylvania, Times announced in his daily column that he was going to run for sheriff because he "needed the money." He meant the statement as a joke, but his friends took it otherwise and would not permit him to withdraw and he was elected sheriff, according to reports.

'Babe' Ruth Will Have Great Year In 1926 Says Gym Instructor

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Babe Ruth next year will have one of the greatest seasons he ever had on the diamond, in the opinion of Arthur McGovern, physical instructor, at whose gymnasium the big slugger has started training.

Two weeks of exercise have brought results. Ruth's 222 pounds represent a loss of eight pounds and total the waistline has been reduced four inches, the babe is dieting conscientiously and abstaining from stimulants.

The babe collapsed last spring from the "flu." His subsequent slump after returning to the game, was a hard blow to the Yankees.

"When the babe gets out of condition, which he does very easily," says McGovern, "it is not because of any form of dissipation which he has been continually accused of, but simply because he has let up on his exercise, which he has to keep up at all times to stay in condition."
