Sanford's Red Barber Is Among Successful Announcers

GAINESVILLE, Mar. 20.—(AP)—Successful announcers and technicians who receive their training at the University of Florida radio station, WRUF, seem to have little worry about future employment.

Former student employees of WRUF are holding positions with broadcasting systems, radio stations, the U. S. Government and private companies all over the country. Many of them were called to jobs before graduation. Twenty of 29 former WRUF announcers are still in radio work. All of 19 former technicians are working in engineering or some related work.

Radio stations in Louisville, Cincinnati, Dallas, Richmond, Urbana, Ill., Newport News, Worcester, Mass., Birmingham, St. Petersburg, and Orlando have University of Florida alumni on their staffs.

WRUF, a Louisville, employs 25 WRUF announcers, Bill Ryan, formerly of Orlando and George Walsh and James Walcott, formerly of St. Petersburg, and W. Simmons, formerly of St. Petersburg, and Dan Rice, formerly of Los Angeles, are broadcasting for WPA, Dallas. Orlando Delaney, formerly of Jacksonville, is a announcer at WFL, University of Illinois station.

Three WRUF-trained announcers, Walter "Red" Barber, formerly of Sanford, George P. Hays, formerly of Jacksonville, and Tom Hussey, formerly of Jacksonville, Mass., can be heard on Miami Broadcasting Company, Miami, Broadcasting Company, and Florida Network programs respectively. James L. Butsch and George Young, formerly of Jacksonville, are employed as announcers for WLW, Cincinnati.

The Federal Communications Commission has offered 10 opportunities to WRUF technicians. Four University of Florida men are now working for the FCC. Four are also employed by companies manufacturing radio and electrical equipment.

The National Broadcasting Company, the Columbia Broadcasting System and radio station WJAX, Jacksonville, have given employment to WRUF technicians. Three others are working in engineering divisions for airlines, and one is in the U. S. Army Air Corps.

Building Small Homes On Large Scale Is Goal

FHA Plans To Construct Many Homes Under $3,000 Limit

JACKSONVILLE, Mar. 20.—Large scale construction under the Federal Housing Administration for 1936, Mr. M. E. Parrish, FHA State Director, announced today. He said that greater emphasis is being directed toward a program to place home ownership within the grasp of families in the lower income brackets than ever before in the history of the state.

"Statistics reveal approximately fifty percent of the families in the United States have annual incomes ranging from $1,000 to $2,000," Mr. Parrish said. "And it is these families which provide a huge potential market for homes. If modern homes can be built to fit their needs and still be within the price range that would not be too great a strain upon their finances.

To meet the demands of this market the Federal Housing Administration has inaugurated this low-cost home program. Detailed study has been made both by FHA technically trained experts and the private building industry, to determine how building costs for this type of home could be reduced without sacrificing structural strength and durability of the completed home. Every possible precaution has been taken to give the home-buyer the same sound investment under the FHA Better Housing Program.

This detailed study of low-cost housing needs and of the technical side of home building has resulted in the liberalization of minimum construction requirements and property standards for homes costing $3,000 or less, including the lot, under our Title II program. The Chase 2 loan plan under Title I of the National Housing Act also has been broadened to help fulfill some of the requirements of the program. But both the minimum construction requirements and property standards are the same for either loan plan.

"The average cost of more than 4,000 homes built in Florida under the FHA Better Housing Program during 1935, was approximately $4,330. With a considerable number of these homes costing $5,000 or $6,000, or even more, there was a corresponding proportion with a valuation considerably lower than the average. But until now there has been no definite program in this state to assist in those families of Florida families with limited resources who cannot afford to invest more than $3,000 in a home—and even this $3,000 investment must be spread over a long term—but who are just as deserving of modern and comfortable homes as those in the higher income brackets.

"These families in the lower income brackets can acquire their own homes on the liberal FHA terms of 10 percent of the total cost as a down payment and the balance financed with an FHA insured first mortgage bearing 1-1/2 percent interest, plus one-half percent FHA mortgage insurance fee. This mortgage can be paid off over a period of as much as 25 years in small monthly payments which in most instances are less than the rent would be for a similar dwelling. These monthly installments also include one-twelfth the annual cost for taxes and fire and other hazard insurances so there are no large lump sum payments to meet either semi-annually or annually to place a financial burden on the home-owner.

WHAT DO YOU MEAN "MODERN"?

WHY is an all-electric kitchen "modern"?

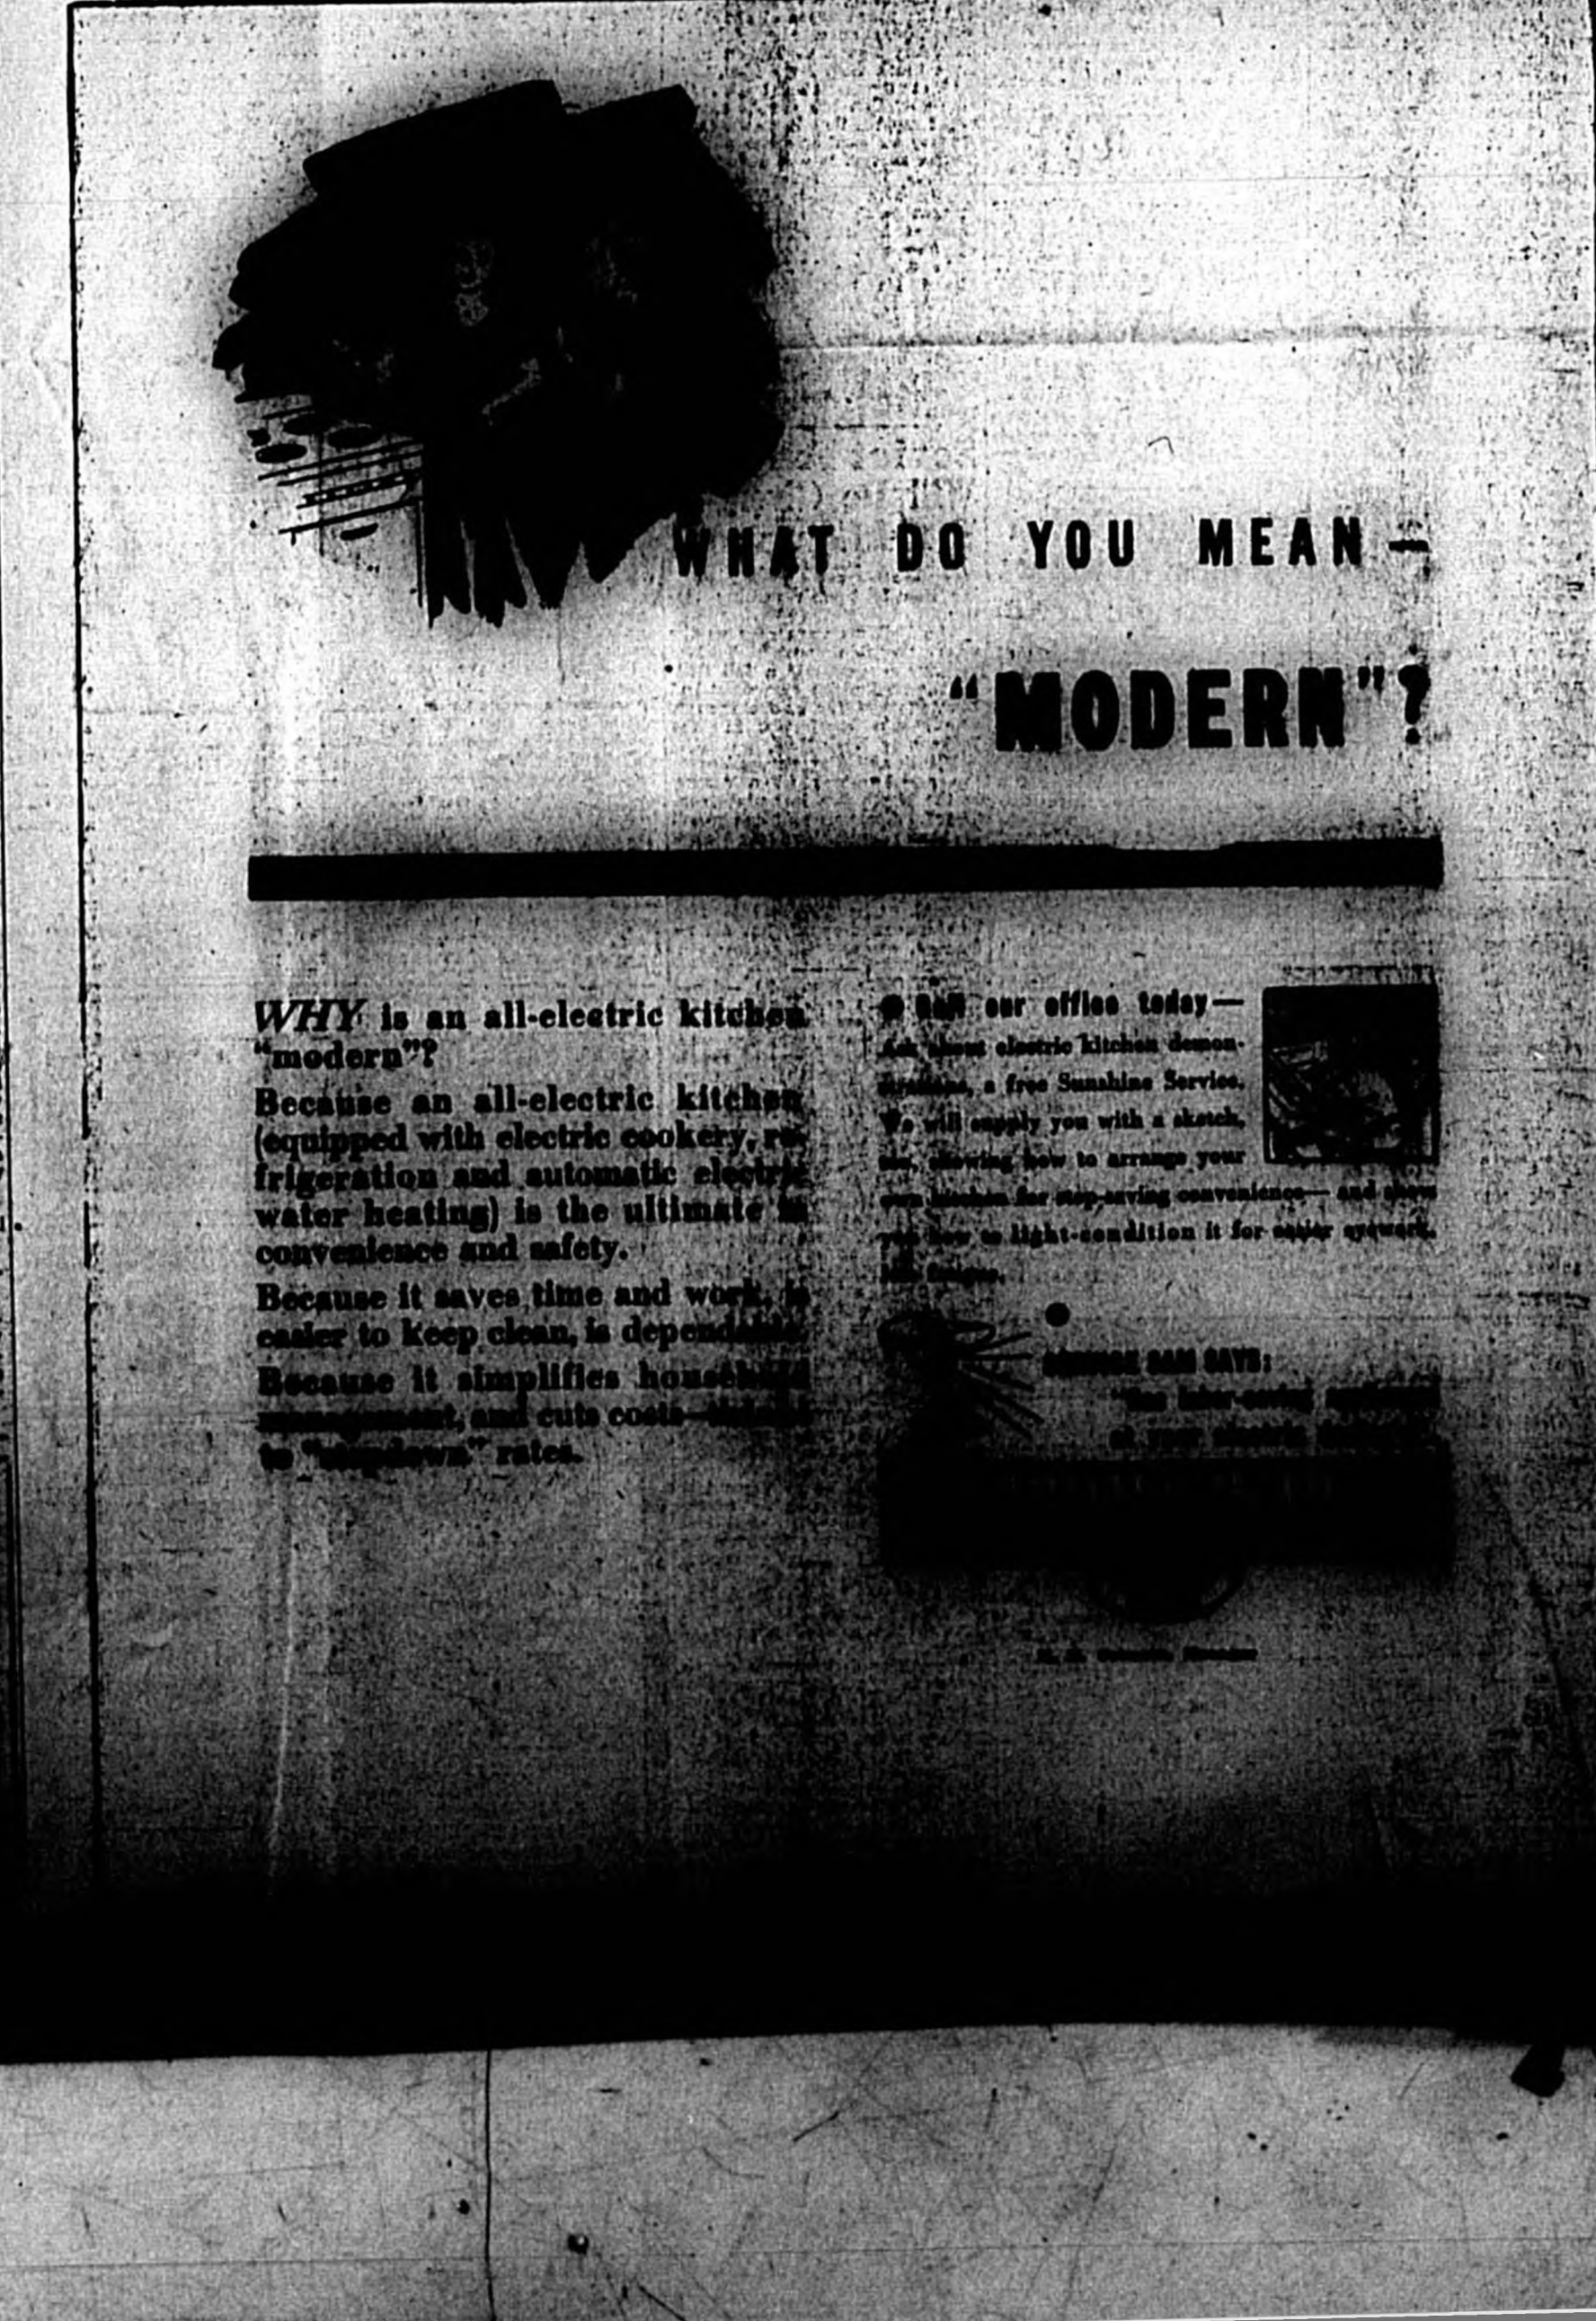

Because an all-electric kitchen (equipped with electric cookery, refrigeration and automatic electric water heating) is the ultimate in convenience and safety.

Because it saves time and work, is easier to keep clean, is dependable.

Because it simplifies household management, and cuts costs—down to "window" rates.

Attention Is Centered On Molotov Talk

Russian Commissar Had Assailed Britain, France For Hostility To Reds

End Of Tri-Power Axis Lineup Seen

French Gunners Cut Down German Infantry On West Front

LONDON, Mar. 30.—(AP)—The war of words took a different turn today as attention was focused on the Moscow speech in which Russian Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov yesterday assailed Britain and France for "hostility toward Russia."

Some British observers were inclined to discount Molotov's harsh words about the Allies and to emphasize his declaration of Russian neutrality as ending any Nazi hope of a Rome-Berlin-Moscow axis.

In Moscow, the Supreme Soviet adjourned after approving without debate the foreign policy reported by Molotov. Awaiting the legislature's attention when it reconvenes tomorrow are creation of the "Finnish-Karelian Union Republic" in the territory freed from Finland, and ratification of the Finnish peace treaty and Russia's 1940 national budget.

On the Western Front, a flurry of activity was reported south of Saarbrücken, where the French said their machine gunners had cut down an infantry attack on their positions. Artillery exchanges also were reported west of the Vosges mountains and the Saar River.

German planes said Nazi air raiders, working close to the English coast last night, had sunk one merchant ship in a convoy and "scored a number of hits on a cruiser" with their army in the Near East.

He declared Russia does not intend to wrest her lost province of Bessarabia from Rumania by war.

In a speech highly critical of Britain and France and with some thrusts at the United States, Molotov told the Supreme Soviet, Russia's legislature, that the Soviet Union "will continue our policy whether anybody likes it or dislikes it."

The United States-Russian relations "have not improved of late" but they "have not become worse unless we get into consideration the so-called neutral embargoes against the Soviet Union which, now that peace with Finland has been concluded, is devoid of any significance."

Great Britain and France—"They do not like our policies. They want us to fight Germany in order to further their imperialistic aims. The U. S. R. will never be a tool of any country."

Germany-Soviet-German relations were firmly secured in the Polish campaign.

Philadelphian Leaves On Yacht After Sight-Seeing Tour Of City

Thomas Monroe Dobbins, retired Philadelphia manufacturer, after spending the last two nights and a day in Sanford aboard his sleek yacht, Consort IV, left this morning on the return trip northward bearing with him a picture of beauty and amazing development of a section hitherto unknown to him.

Mr. Dobbins, together with two other members of the party, have been on a cruise of Florida waters, the craft coming all the way from Ft. Lauderdale, its winter headquarters for the past five years.

The citizen from the "City of Brotherly Love" was shown about the celery fields of the Sanford delta and taken to points of interest such as the Big Trees by E. M. Arncliffe. Later Mr. Dobbins and his party were escorted by Mrs. Volle Williams to Orlando and surrounding areas to view the sights of Sanford's neighboring city on the south.

Chances Of Peace Seen As Slight

Statement Made By President After Conference With Sumner Welles

WASHINGTON, Mar. 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, breaking the official silence on Sumner Welles' findings abroad, said yesterday there is "an immediate prospect for the establishment of any just, stable and lasting peace in Europe."

He predicted the information brought back by his ambassador-at-large would be "of the greatest value when the time comes for peace."

In a statement read to his press conference, the President said Welles' trip to Rome and the belligerent capitals had resulted "in a clarification of the relations between the United States and the countries which he visited."

He added he believed it would "assist in certain instances in the development of better understanding and more friendly relations" and would be "of the greatest value to this government in the general conduct of its foreign relations."

He emphasized again that Welles had not made any peace proposals or commitments and had not received any.

As to the specific information given to Welles by the Italian, German, French and British governments, Roosevelt said it would be regarded as entirely confidential, inasmuch as it related to the views and policies of those governments with regard to the present situation.

The President elaborated briefly on the statement that there was "an immediate prospect" for a just and stable peace.

He said this meant just what it said. It was not to be taken as a prognosis, because immediate meant immediate and not the distant future, and of course day-to-day developments would take place in Europe.

The President's reference to better understanding and more friendly relations regarding the trip was taken to point most directly to Italy, Welles' two visits to Rome, at the beginning and at the close of his European tour, and his understanding to have opened possibilities of more friendly contact with Mussolini's government.

The text of President Roosevelt's statement follows: "Undersecretary of State Welles has concluded the mission upon which he was sent to Europe and has reported to me and to the secretary of state on the results of his trip."

"As I said when the announcement of Mr. Welles' mission was made, Mr. Welles was sent to Europe in order to obtain information with regard to the present conditions. He was never authorized to make, nor has he made, any commitments involving the government of the United States, nor was he empowered to offer proposals in the name of this government. He has not received, nor has he brought back to me, any peace proposals from any source."

"The information which he has received from the heads of the government which he has visited will be of the greatest value to this government in the general conduct of its foreign relations. As was announced at the time of his departure from the United States, the information communicated to him by the Italian, German, French and British governments will be regarded as entirely confidential by this government. It relates to the views and policies of the European governments mentioned."

"I am glad to say that Mr. Welles' mission has likewise resulted, through personal contacts which he held, in a clarification of the relations between the United States and the countries which he visited and will, I believe, assist in certain instances in the development of better understanding and more friendly relations."

"Finally, even though there may be scant immediate prospect for the establishment of any just, stable and lasting peace in Europe, the information made available to this government as a result of Mr. Welles' mission will undoubtedly be of the greatest value when the time comes for the establishment of such a peace."

"To Mr. Welles go my thanks and full appreciation for carrying out this difficult mission with extraordinary zeal and understanding and in cooperation with the best American diplomatic traditions."

Resolution Endorses Present School Improvement Program

SARASOTA, Mar. 30.—(AP)—The Florida Federation of Women's Clubs adopted a series of resolutions urging improvement in the state school system at its concluding business session of its annual convention yesterday.

Saying there were reports that a special session of the legislature might be called, they urged Governor Que to include in his call the question of school support because "the outlook for full payment of state money for schools is discouraging."

Another resolution endorsed the state department of public instruction school improvement program and advocated teacher qualification requirements, salary schedules and length of terms for elementary schools equal to those for high schools.

Mrs. Mary Sands, Bartow, was elected second vice president of the federation, the only contestant, defeating Mrs. Sue Curtis Webster, of Lake Wales, 177 to 40.

Mrs. Thurston Roberts, Jacksonville, nominated without opposition as president to succeed Mrs. J. Ralston Wells, Daytona Beach, and other officers were installed in concluding ceremonies last night.

Selection of the 1941 convention city and the place for the board's winter meeting was left to a later session of the directors. Winners in the golden jubilee song and march contest were announced as follows: Song, Mrs. Jessie Elliot, Jacksonville, first; Mrs. J. P. Ashmore, Graceville, second; March, Mrs. Elliot, first; Mrs. Ashmore, second. Words for Mrs. Elliot's song were written by Mrs. Horace Avery, Jacksonville.

Helen Hunt West, Jacksonville attorney, told delegates yesterday there are more than 1000 laws in Florida which discriminate against women.

"Protective laws for women are incorrectly labeled; they are really restrictive laws," she said.

Mrs. T. V. Moore, Miami general federation chairman of safety, advocated the scrapping of inferior state safety laws. She urged members to obey existing traffic laws and said ticket fixing in traffic violation cases was more prevalent among men than women.

Washington Ball Club Owner To Be Guest Of Rotary

Frederick Bowers To Render Musical Selections At Meet

"Washington Senators Day" will be observed by the Sanford Rotary Club Monday at its regular luncheon which will be held at the Woman's Club at 12:00 o'clock instead of at the Valdez Hotel, the usual meeting place.

In conjunction with the baseball game Monday afternoon the Sanford Seminoles and the Washington Yacht Club, Bradford Lyrd and Charles E. Bradshaw, members of the club, have invited Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, and Nick Altrock, famous baseball comedian and sideline coach for the Senators to be present.

Featured entertainer on the program will be Frederick V. Bowers, well-known American composer and pianist, who will present several selections including some of his own compositions.

Mr. Bowers has been in Florida in a winter presenting program at civic clubs over the state. He came to Sanford from St. Petersburg. Since his arrival this week, Mr. Bowers has appeared on the program of the Lions Club, Assn.

Also invited to be guests of the club are Sidney Charles Hudson and James Harry "Dizzy" Dean, ex-Sanford pitchers who will be featured in a Washington team against the Seminoles.

Five newspaper sports correspondents and two radio announcers from Washington are also included in the list of guests invited to the luncheon. They are Fred Russell, sports editor of the Nashville Banner, and Raymond Johnson, sports editor of the Nashville Tennessean.

Following the luncheon most members of the club are expected to go directly to the Municipal Hall Park for the game.

Mayor Walter Coleman has issued a proclamation urging the citizens of Sanford to take advantage of this last opportunity to see their two favorite pitchers, Dean and Hudson, before they go north.

Giant Thermometer To Show Army's Progress

A giant thermometer to register the progress of the Salvation Army's campaign for funds has been erected in front of the campaign headquarters on the corner of Magnolia Avenue and Second Street.

Mrs. Maxwell Stewart, campaign chairman, announced today Mrs. Stewart said she felt sure the general public would take a great deal of interest in this and watch to see the mercury rise as the drive for funds progresses.

Capt. R. E. Rose, head of the local post, stated that a report had come to him that there was a certain family in the county who had applied to the Salvation Army for assistance, and that they had been refused. He said there was "absolutely no truth" in the charge that every case when matters of that kind are brought to the attention of local workers, they immediately investigate and render every possible assistance.

Campaign workers urged all citizens to come to the aid of the army in order that necessary funds could be collected for the army's work during the coming year.

Edmund Meisch Made Elks' Exalted Ruler

Officers for Sanford Lodge No. 1241 B. P. O. Elks for 1940-41 were elected last night at a meeting of the club with Edmund Meisch being named Exalted Ruler.

Leo Butner was elected Exalted Leading Knight, Dr. L. T. Doss was named Exalted Loyal Knight, Clifford Barell was named Exalted Lecturing Knight, J. G. Barden was named treasurer, W. J. Thigpen was named secretary, St. Clair Cameron was named tiler and Leo Rumbottom was named trustee.

Nazi Say Information Proves This Country Hastened Outbreak Of European War

Authenticity Of Papers Questioned

FDR Says Propaganda Must Be Taken With 3 Grains Of Salt

The Associated Press dimmed the sound of gunfire in warring Europe today as the Nazi press acclaimed a "sensational discovery" of alleged Polish documents which, it said, proved that American diplomats had helped to hasten the outbreak of hostilities last September.

The "discovery" drew a swift rebuff from Washington challenging the credibility of the papers which the German foreign office said had been uncovered in secret archives of the Warsaw government.

The papers consisted primarily of "confidential reports" in which the Polish envoys in Washington, Paris and London were purported to have informed their government of views of American statesmen before the outbreak of war.

President Roosevelt said European propaganda should be taken with three grains of salt. Secretary of State Cordell Hull said his department placed "not the slightest reliance" in the German documents.

William C. Bullitt, United States ambassador to Paris, stated a flat denial of statements attributed to him, among which was the assertion that this country would "finish" the European conflict on the side of the Allies.

Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Britain, who was quoted as promising to press upon Britain the "necessity of helping Poland at once with cash," declined to comment.

BERLIN, Mar. 30.—(AP)—The German foreign office yesterday published a white book which represented a Polish ambassador as advising his government, prior to the European war, that U. S. Ambassador William C. Bullitt had said the United States would participate in war against Germany after England and France had started it.

The white book, based on Polish documents purportedly seized after the fall of Warsaw, was described in authorized German quarters as showing "the role played by United States policy in bringing about this war."

The picture it drew was that Bullitt presumably received from President Roosevelt "an exact definition of the United States viewpoint" in the prewar crisis and gave France and other European nations "moral assurance" that the United States would desert its policy of isolation and is ready in case of war to participate actively on the side of England and France.

The extent of this participation appeared from the purported documents, to be the placing of America's "entire financial and war material resources" at the disposal of the Allies.

Increased war preparations which the United States was represented as contemplating were given as "the colossal sum of $1,250,000,000."

Count Potocki, Polish ambassador to Washington, was named by the white book as relaying this information to his government after conversations with Bullitt, ambassador to France and considered the President's No. 1 diplomatic agent.

Two such conversations were mentioned in the white book. That on which Potocki allegedly wrote his government on Jan. 16, 1939, defined American foreign policy as relayed by Bullitt in what Potocki inferred was a statement of the American President's views.

In another communication dated Nov. 11, 1938, Bullitt was mentioned as having said:

"I have not received any information from the Polish government, but I have received information from the Soviet government that the Soviet government is ready to participate in war against Germany after England and France have started it."

Dangerous Drivers

The other day a judge held that it was just as criminal for a sick person to drive a car as for a drunk person to do so. He might well have added that it is equally as bad for a person to drive who is angry, heart-broken, suffering temporarily from nervous shock, or otherwise emotionally upset.

Of all automobiles involved in fatal accidents in 1938, only 1.9% were found to have defective brakes; in fact, only 7.6% were found to have any mechanical defects at all.

Many drivers, if they will be honest, can usually trace the cause of an accident to some failure of their own mental or temperamental equipment rather than in their mechanical equipment, the company states. They will insist that the steering wheel locked, or that the gas pedal stuck, or that the brakes failed; but figures indicate that more than 90% of all vehicles involved in fatal and non-fatal smashups are in apparently good mechanical condition with none of the numerous defects that drivers claim.

Of a total of 37,250 motor vehicles involved in fatal accidents in 1938, only 2,820 were found to have any mechanical defects at all. Out of more than a million involved in non-fatal smashups, only about 58,000 were found to have defects.

Defective conditions that were found, in the order of their importance, were: defective brakes, puncture or blow-out, one or both headlights out, faulty steering mechanism, tail-light out or obscured, and glaring headlights.

Not Too Warlike

In spite of Russian Premier Molotov's rather outspoken denunciation of the Allies, it is extremely doubtful if there will be any open hostilities between these powers. It is interesting to note that while he lashed out bitterly at their "imperialistic aims," he insisted Russia had no military commitments with Germany and was anxious for increased trade and friendlier relations with Great Britain.

"The undiplomatic fervor of Comrade Suritz in congratulating Comrade Stalin, and his sudden recall from Paris at the request of the French Government, may conceivably lead to a break in official Franco-Soviet relations," says the New York Times. "If the break comes, however, it will not necessarily mean an Allied war against Russia."

"The British broke off relations with Moscow from 1927 to 1930 without even thinking of war. Today, in vastly different circumstances, the Allies have plenty of excuse for making war on Russia, but have shown reluctance to do so. There are military risks abroad and political risks at home which have made the British and French hesitant about such an immense extension of their war against Germany."

"The departure of Ambassador Suritz may leave the Soviet Embassy in Paris without an occupant; but across the Channel Ambassador Malsky remains at work in his Embassy on the edge of Kensington Gardens. He is both active and capable. Only the other day he hinted that there was no reason why Russia and Britain should not be friends."

"It still remains to be demonstrated whether the Allies, instead of making war on Russia, will not try, even now, to detach her from her partner in Berlin."

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON DORSEY

WASHINGTON, Mar. 28.—(AP)—The long machine in Louisiana met the fate of the one-hoss shay but visitors to Washington's Statuary Hall in years to come may find Louisiana's most honored son is the late Huey Long.

Whether they do or don't is up to Governor Earl Long. Huey's brother and the man who was at the wheel when the machine went into the ditch.

Back in 1864, when the Civil War was grinding out heroes at a dizzy pace, Congress decided to take the matter in hand. It passed a law. The law said each state could have two nice pedestals in Statuary Hall, to support the statues of the deceased heroes that state considered worthy of such honor.

When Louisiana got lack in the union fold, it paid no attention to the law. But in 1938, the State Legislature found a hero to fill the slot and put up $18,000 for a statue. The assassin named "Kingfish." After that gesture, they did nothing about withdrawing the money from the Treasury and the appropriation will go back to the state for something else if it isn't withdrawn before July, 1941.

Governor Long hasn't that much time. His official sun sets May 14, when he goes out of office. If he acts before then, the name and figure of Huey Long will be perpetuated along with such heroes as Samuel Adams, Henry Clay, Jeff Davis, Daniel Webster, Sam Houston, Robert Fulton and John C. Calhoun, in one of the nation's most distinguished halls of fame.

Both in Washington and Louisiana, the state officials asked about it, wouldn't say yes and wouldn't say no, and the new administration hasn't even hinted what they'll do if Governor Long doesn't choose to put brother Huey in the Capitol. It would hardly seem right, though, to expect the new anti-Long administration to honor the man who owed up Louisiana politics in his own little sack and for so many years refused them even one little post.

ing, of course, about Washington or Girfield or Andrew Jackson or Ethan Allen or Robert E. Lee or Roger Williams. They're all well remembered in the history books. But here Georgia has wisely written a permanent record for Dr. Crawford William Long, whose pioneering with ether anesthesia in 1842 gave him a high place in the nation's medical history. And Kentucky has honored Ephraim McDowell, another distinguished physician, who performed the first ovariectomy—the operation that annually saves thousands of women's lives—in 1809 and almost lost his life at the hands of a mob because of it.

There are in all 72 statues from 32 states. Statuary Hall reached its population peak in 1933. Guess that 1864 Congress never figured there would be anything like 48 states, so the boys in '33 had to straighten them out, to keep from chipping the elbow of the crowding giants. Now each state gets only one pedestal in Statuary Hall and one in other prominent corridors and vestibules or in the rotunda.

What I wanted to know and couldn't find out is what's the matter with those other ten states? Haven't they any famous sons? Or can't the folks get together on who deserves such an honor? Or are they broke?

Idaho, Arizona, Minnesota and South Dakota have only taken one spot each. The states that haven't scratched the surface yet are Colorado, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming. If any of these has even made a recent gesture toward getting a Capitol into over the memory of one of their heroes, David Lyon, Capitol architect, hasn't heard of it.

Maybe the heamas and pupas out there are waiting for junkie to give us up and be President.

'LOOK HERE, NOW, JIM—

'TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY'

By RUSSELL KAY

Well, the qualifying deadline has come and gone. At last we know definitely who's who and what's what. Eleven candidates for Governor... a surprise candidate qualifying the last minute, Fredrick Van Roy of Christal River.

In the Senate race we have a field of six, the dark horse here being Bernard McEldan, 71-year-old publisher of Miami Beach. Left at the post was Mortimer Wells, Tampa Candidate, stricken with appendicitis on her way to qualify.

Lined up at the wire in the race for Delegates to the National Convention, we find a field of 189. For the office of Attorney General there are six; for Comptroller, three; for Treasurer, three; for Railroad Commissioner, three; ten candidates will compete for the post of National Democratic Committeeman left vacant by Harry Wells, who three weeks ago the office of Horsene K. Wells as National Democratic Committeewoman.

With this record-smashing array of eager support seekers, those few remaining humble citizens who cast the so-called "sacred ballots" become mighty important personages. It is the open season on "Sovereign Voters" and from now through May 28th they'll have a flock of hounds continually baying at their heels.

Bound trucks will be tearing over the state like ants over a picnic lunch. The humble housewife, bathing her breakfast dishes, will be disturbed by the raucous tones of the announcer shouting "Support Warren" will speak at the Court House Square at 10 A. M., followed by a screechy recording of "Scatterbrain".

Later in the day her favorite radio serial will be interrupted to make way for a paid political announcement which informs her that "The Honorable B. F. Paty will prattle political phooey on the Village Green at 11 o'clock."

At the General Store, the town's only independent Merchant sits chewing his pencil, trying to figure out how to make both ends meet; only to have his overburdened mind, bombarded with the screaming announcement that "Spousard Holland will make his political 'prayer' in the Town Hall at high noon."

And while this continual bombardment is more or less hard on the nerves and tends to break up the daily routine, it is only the BEGINNING! Fermenting in the minds of ambitious aspirants, today are wild ideas, new and untried methods of attack designed to catch the poor hapless citizens off his guard and lure him from his lair.

Burton Schoepf, Townsend white hope, who up to now has been in hibernation, came out of hiding last week to offer all citizens an opportunity to invest in his candidacy, at the nominal rate of a dollar a throw. Each investor receives a pretty stock certificate, all dated, signed and sealed, which carries the following redemption clause: "Many of our folk never have the opportunity of visiting the Governor's Mansion and the Capitol building. This certificate will entitle the holder to have luncheon or dinner in any of the dining rooms of the Governor's Mansion."

Another portion of the white book related to alleged conversations between Jan Wreliaki, Polish commercial attaché at London, and U. S. Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy.

The white book was described as based on official files found in Warsaw and brought to Berlin for study. It contained 16 documents, including facsimiles of purportedly original Polish documents and German translations.

In the reference to Nov. 11 Bullitt conversation Potocki was quoted as saying the American ambassador "expressed himself regarding Germany and Hitler with the greatest vehemence and strong hatred."

"He mentioned," the document said, "that only might at the end of war could halt Germany's mad expansion in the future."

QUICK MONEY REMODELING AND MODERNIZING

A GUBERNATORIAL CUSTOM TAMPA TRIBUNE

A reader asks us about a report he had heard that Governor Cone, in his campaign for Governor, promised that he would not be a candidate for the Senate. The reader said he doubted the story and hadn't heard it confirmed or denied.

Confirmation of the report is readily at hand. We have mentioned it several times and it has been printed in newspapers throughout the state. The Governor said, in a speech in Tampa, in the course of his candidacy four years ago:

"I will not be a candidate for any other office while Governor of your great state. I will not build up a machine to elect me United States Senator and I'm not going to build one to help anyone else to get elected."

He made the same statement in slightly different form in other speeches. One variation was: "I will be one Governor who will not use the office as a stepping-stone to the United States Senate."

What we set out to say in this connection is that, in running for the Senate while holding office as Governor, Governor Cone is doing nothing new. He has numerous precedents. It seems to be in the gubernatorial blood. So far as we recall, he is the only one who promised he wouldn't do it and they did it, regardless of promises. But, so far as running is concerned, every Governor of Florida since the dawn of the century save one—Cary Hardee—has run for the Senate, but not all of them "on the state's time," that is while serving as Governor. Only two of them were elected—Brown and Trammell—and Broward died before taking his seat. So Trammell was the only Governor to actually get into the Senate. Governors seem to have an irresistible urge to run again. Hardee didn't run for the Senate but he did make another race for Governor. Jennings, Broward, Gilchrist, Trammell, Catts, Martin, Carlton, Shotts, all tried for the Senate. Now Cone is trying—although he said he wouldn't.

University Will Sponsor Meeting Between Nations

GAINESVILLE, Mar. 30.—(AP)—A decade of activity on the part of the University of Florida to foster increased understanding and good will among the nations of the western world, a four-day inter-American educational and cultural conference will be held at the University April 14-17.

Dr. Rollin S. Atwood, acting director of the University of Florida's Institute of Inter-American Affairs, announced that the list of important personages who will attend from Latin-American countries is far from being complete, but that men of letters from at least ten South American nations would be here for the conference. Dr. Atwood announced that a statewide Spanish declamation contest will be held in connection with the conference and that eleven high schools already have entered.

The FIDAC Medal for distinguished service in the field of inter-American understanding and friendship has been given the University, and its 10-year program has given it a place of significant leadership among the American institutions of higher learning.

Sanford-Washington Play Monday; Frank Hudson Opposes Sid And Diz

Cleo Jeter And Boots Poffenberger To Pitch For Seminoles And Vols; Record Crowd Is Expected

The baseball faithful will get their first opportunity to see the 1940 edition of the Sanford Seminoles meet Larry Gilbert's Nashville Vols at 2:30 o'clock at the Municipal Ball Park. Regular league prices will prevail.

The Seminoles meet the Washington Yachtmen Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in what should prove to be one of the most interesting of early season games as James Harry "Diz" Dean will hurl for Washington and "Lefty" Frank Hudson will take the mound for Sanford. Al Nixon and Buster Rantlin, both left handers, will work the other three-inning stretches for Sanford. There is a possibility that Sid Hudson may also pitch for Washington.

Tomorrow's fray with Nashville will pit the colorful Boots Poffenberger and Cleo Jeter in the first three innings. Following hurlers for Nashville will be Jack Patterson, and Ollie Harris. Joe Pinder, the old faithful, and Johnny McGee, a rookie, will complete the Seminoles pitching staff.

The audience Monday at the Washington-Sanford game will be entertained by the antics of Nick

ORLANDO, Mar. 30 — After a jittery opening inning, in which the Giants scored the lone run of the game, Jim "Dopey" Dean settled down to two innings of creditable pitching in his first major league trial yesterday afternoon, although he was charged with Washington's 1-0 loss of Bill Terry's New York club.

Dean took over at the start of the seventh, when Dutch Leonard, the knuckleball artist abdicated after a scoreless four-hit mound stint, and was rapped for three hits, including Harry Danning's opening single and the one run in the seventh.

The big ex-Sanford right-hander loosened up after his bad initial inning to turn in an impressive two-inning stretch in the eighth and ninth.

"I thought he pitched creditable ball," Manager Bucky Harris said after the game. "He certainly wasn't a disappointment, and after that one bad inning, he showed quite a bit of stuff."

Big Zeke Bonura, signed by Terry Thursday, began paying off in his usual manner as early as yesterday. Entering the game in the sixth, the ex-holdout followed up Danning's triple with a looping bouncer past third into left field for a single that scored Danning. And while he looked mean enough at bat, he was the same old clumsy Zeke around first base, letting a wild toss escape untouched and allowing Buddy Lewis' grounder to scot past him for a single in the sixth.

Tomorrow when Sanford and Nashville tangle at the Municipal Ball Park, there should be nothing but standing room left in the grandstands and bleachers for it will be a preview of the 1940 Sanford Seminoles (called "lookouts" last year). Manager Whitey Campbell says he is going to have a fast team and will have some pretty fair pitching. Yet it is too much to expect to have a team like the one we had last year. Real drama is shaping up for Monday's game between Washington and Sanford. "Lefty" Frank Hudson will pitch for the Seminoles and wood from Orlando is that Sid Hudson will toss for Washington. Modest 14-Room Chateau Built For Rose's Bride

Art Museum Masterpieces Included In $140,000 Residence

By GEORGE TUCKER
 NEW YORK, March 30.—(AP)—For a boy who has a burning desire for one and one-half of living space in terms of warm, cozy and hygienic atmosphere, Billy Rose has shown considerable restraint in choosing a home for his bride. It is a modest 14-room chateau built entirely of imported Dutch brick and is located at No. 52 West 86th street, near the East River.

The little Misses picked it for a more $140,000 cash, and while it may not be originally had in mind, it is, as he says, at least a very nice little house.

For a while he thought of taking a 40-room "palace" he found on a mountain top near Tarrytown, N. Y., but decided against it when someone pointed out how the country was from Lindy's.

"I've shouldn't be thinking of the country anyway," the man said, with philosophical resignation. "I'm not going out there because I might throw each other at a cliff."

The new home, from the Rose family of view, has only one door that opens to the street, and the windows and doors are the sort that he finds that Billy Rose's taste, which, by all these, runs the line of the lovely study was one of the street.

For those who can discipline themselves away from the seductive charms of the country, the chateau is a fine study in the art of the modern house. It is a study in the art of the modern house. It is a study in the art of the modern house.
