Kettles Fans Two, Forces Last Man To Ground Out With All Bases Loaded

Daugherty Limits Ocala To Six Hits In Eight Innings

Mutt Williams, short stop, collected a single, a triple and a homer, batting in two runs, to help win the ball game against Ocala last night and Al Kettles came in during the last inning to save the game when Bill Daugherty had pitched eight innings allowing only four hits but slipped up in the ninth to let in two runs and fill the bases.

Tonight the Seminole will face the Daytona Islanders before a special audience, consisting of ladies given free admission as "ladies night" and children given admittance at no charge to themselves through the generosity of C. E. Herndon, who is to pay the baseball association a flat weekly rate for allowing the children in the park.

With the bases loaded and no men out Kettles sent the first two men back to the bench via the strikeout route and had two strikes on the third latter he faced when the man hit a ground ball to Ernie LaValley for an out.

Sanford started fast in the opening inning when LaValley hit a single as first man up to bat. Joe Justice clouted a single to score LaValley and made the home plate himself on a hit by Williams.

One run scored in the fourth frame and the homer by Williams in the ninth gave the Sanford team their total tally of the game. The Yankees made a hole only score of the game in the sixth inning when Daugherty, who had pitched a four-hit ball game through the first eight frames, struck out and allowed a scattering of two hits, count for two runs and a Valley, small but mighty.

Italian Envoys Said Taken Over By Nazis

NEW YORK, May 9.—(AP)—The New York Post said in a copyright story yesterday that the Italian diplomatic service in this country has ceased to function as an independent body and that all of its mail, diplomatic and other, all of its personnel and funds have been taken over by German representatives.

While the Italians still occupy their offices and have the largest consular staff of any foreign country except Mexico, the story says, they can take no action without German approval.

Trainer Figures Our Boot For Better Race Is Preakness

BALTIMORE, May 9.—(AP)—Even though he's looking for a tougher horse race in the Preakness than his stretch-flier had in the Kentucky Derby, trainer Ben Jones already has his eye on the coveted "triple crown" for Whirlaway.

He figured yesterday that if Warren Wright's Kentucky cannonball adds Pimlico's three-year-old classic Saturday to his record-making derby dash of last week, he has a "good chance" to win the Belmont stakes next month and thus become the fifth horse in racing history to sweep the precious triple.

The field for the Preakness was boosted to eight with the surprise announcement by Tony Pelletieri that the Milldale stable's Kansas definitely would go to the post.

Plain Ben pointed out that Whirlaway is going to find it a lot more troublesome running on the sharp turns and shorter stretch of Pimlico's picturesque oval than he did in whirling his eight-length derby triumph around Churchill Downs.

"Then, too," Ben explained, "our boots is going to be a lot tougher this time. We all know he didn't run his real race in the derby and you can't see that one. He worked a mile in 1:35 Wednesday and it looks like he's sharp and fit."

N. E. A. Head Praises State Highway Patrol

JACKSONVILLE, May 9.—(Special)—Ray B. Howard, president of the National Editorial Association, commenting on the post-convention tour of Florida, paid glowing tribute to the Florida Highway Patrol for the manner in which they cleared traffic and co-operated in countless ways to make the tour a success.

Many other members of the editorial party were equally impressed and many of them requested information as to how the department was trained and stating that they would like to see such an organization in their own state patterned after Florida's. The patrolmen were called upon to pose for photographs, all along the route while hundreds of feet of colored movie film will be carried home to show the Florida Highway Patrol in operation.

Fuehrer Will Try To Knock Out Britain Within 6 Months

LONDON, May 10.—(A.P.)—The British Admiralty announced tonight that a single British ship was damaged in repeated attacks Thursday by Axis planes on the Mediterranean fleet.

The Italians claimed bomb or torpedo hits on six warships and on many merchantmen in attacks on a strong British convoy.

The Royal Air Force, having its air offensive to high pitch attained the previous night, again last night sent powerful formations over Nazi objectives in overnight raids from invasion ports on the French coast to the heart of Berlin.

The chief target was Mannheim, a great river-rail transportation center and manufacturing city in southwestern Germany. "A successful attack was pressed home, the British said, and German planes battled fiercely in dogfights high over Dover's white cliffs today, the first anniversary of Germany's invasion of the Lowlands.

Dutch airmen flying American-built bombers meanwhile carried out their first raid on German-occupied territory, striking at Namur airport there.

At London, the Admiralty said Britain, her Allies and neutrals had lost 1,098 ships aggregating 4,734,407 in the year since the Nazi invasion of Poland. Countries of which 408,124 tons were lost last month.

From the start of the war to the end of April the aggregate British, Allied and neutral tonnage was nearly 6,000,000 tons, as were nearly 6,000,000 tons.

New Doctor May Come To Sanford, Physician Advises

Decision Of Alabama Resident Depends On Draft Situation

Possibility that Sanford's dwindling number of medical doctors may be increased by one was today said by a physician who received a letter from a friend in Alabama stating he is considering coming to this city, provided the draft age is not waived.

The American Legion Auxiliary asked in an open letter to The Sanford Herald Tuesday what was being done to bring in more doctors to Sanford, since the Army and death have reduced the ranks of physicians by at least five in two years.

Yesterday The Herald was informed.

NYA Art Classes To Register 40 From Enterprise

About 40 boys and girls from the children's home at Enterprise are expected to register for the NYA Arts and Crafts Class, scheduled to start Monday and 15 applications from boys and girls of the county may be received by the time of the opening. R. A. Goodspeed, local NYA director, said this morning.

Mrs. Mayme Hodgkin, instructor, is expected to arrive in Sanford from Tallahassee Sunday. Mr. Goodspeed explained. She has been working at the Legislature for Rep. E. E. Brady.

Mrs. Alice Lewis, from the state headquarters of the NYA, has indicated her intentions of coming to Sanford to start the classes and get them running smoothly, Mr. Goodspeed stated. Materials and equipment for the crafts are expected to arrive today and Monday.

About 30 students can be accommodated in the Recreation Hall at one time, Mr. Goodspeed said, but no limit is placed on the number who can register in the classes as the work period is 75 hours a month and the time of the students can be staggered. The rate of pay is $1.64 for the monthly work period.

Classes are limited to boys and girls between the ages of 15 and 25, and are expected to be further limited to those who show an aptitude for the work after the students have progressed, Mr. Goodspeed explained.

Senate Group Requests Data About Strikes

Committee Chairman Says That Public Has Right To Ask Quick Settlement

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(A.P.)—Chairman Truman (D., Mo.) announced today that a special Senate committee investigating National defense had asked for all information on strikes delaying defense production in San Francisco and Detroit.

There is no time in this emergency for employers and employees to engage in interminable bickering," he said, adding that the public has a right "to expect and even to demand that the paramount interest be respected, and that labor disputes will be settled in a minimum of time."

The direct, or almost direct, delivery of American supplies to British forces in the Middle East was strongly indicated yesterday by a Maritime Commission announcement that American ships would soon be sailing into the Red Sea.

At the same time, the commission said that traffic to China would be increased in the near future, which some interpreted as meaning that American help in that country is in view with Japan would be correspondingly stepped up. Details of the sailings and of the cargoes to be carried to China, and to the Red Sea, were carefully kept secret.

The Red Sea route, which is an eastern approach to the Suez Canal, a vital point in the British system of empire transportation. While major fighting continued between British and Italian forces in Ethiopia, the Red Sea was defined as a "combat zone" and American vessels were forbidden to enter it.

Several weeks ago, however, President Roosevelt removed it from that classification and said American vessels could go all the way into the Suez Canal. He took in conjunction with recent events, the Maritime Commission's announcement was of prime importance.

Prime Minister Churchill said last week the British had nearly half a million troops over the Nile East guarding the Suez Canal against capture by Axis forces converging upon it from two directions—the Balkans and Northern Africa.

Picture Of Babies Born In Hospital Are To Be Made

A picture of all babies born in the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital during the past year is to be taken Monday afternoon between 2:30 and 4:00 o'clock as part of the Hospital Day program. Miss Lucille Ingram, superintendent said yesterday.

Featuring a babies' day the hospital will give birth certificates to all children who have been born there during the year. In addition the entire plant will be thrown open to the public and the facilities exhibited.

The Hospital Day is an annual event held in celebration of the birthday of Florence Nightingale, organizer of the first women's nursing staff, during the Civil War in 1854.

The congregation of babies at the hospital will probably be the largest ever assembled in Seminole County as there were more than 1,000 babies born in the hospital last year than ever before. Miss Ingram stated, a total of 110.

Open house is to be held at the hospital from 8:00 to 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon and 7:00 to 9:00 o'clock in the evening. Refreshments will be served to the visitors and everyone is urged to attend.

The capital of West Virginia was located at Wheeling from 1863 to 1870 and from 1875 to 1885.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, "Cities throughout the United States will observe Monday, May 12, as National Hospital Day, and

WHEREAS, A special program will be held at the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital on May 12 at which visitors are welcomed to the institution, and

WHEREAS, The numerous worthy services performed throughout the year by our hospitals are too little realized by the average citizen.

THEREFORE, I, W. C. Hill, Mayor of the City of Sanford, do hereby proclaim National Hospital Day in this city May 12, and invite all residents to visit the hospital in order that they may inspect its facilities and note its accomplishments.

Hendricks Poultry Ranch At Lake Mary

Poultry Industry Shows Gain In Seminole County

Poultry raising is a thriving industry in Seminole County and though the chicken population of the county has increased from 144,475 birds in 1937 to an estimated 200,000 today, there is still plenty of room for expansion because Florida must import 60 percent of the poultry products it consumes.

The three largest poultry ranches in the county are those of Lee Hendricks at Lake Mary, Walter Brothers at Lake Monroe and Carl Flowers at Sanford. Together, these three ranches have over 10,000 birds.

With Alex Johnson, social analyst for the Seminole High School, a reporter for The Sanford Herald paid a visit to the 20-acre ranch of Mr. Hendricks at Lake Mary the other day and saw for himself how poultry raising is done on a big scale.

Starting out with 100 birds and a few hundred dollars investment, Mr. Hendricks has through hard work and planning built the largest ranch in the county and the third largest largest in the entire state. Sixteen are employed by Mr. Hendricks on his ranch, and he has about 9,000 birds on the property at the present time. Most of these white Leghorns, when they are a year old, weigh 10 to 12 pounds and average about 500 eggs a year.

Though Mr. Hendricks has made a success with his ranch, he is still doesn't advise any one to go into the business unless they are equipped with both the technical knowledge and the capital.

Many people make the mistake of thinking just because a hundred or so chickens in their back yard will bring a profit of $100 a year, they can expand their flock to 4,000 birds and make $5,000 a year," he said. "That's not so easy as that. A few chickens can be fed table and broiler scraps, but with a big flock, food must be bought and the housing problem must also be considered," Mr. Hendricks says.

But if you have a little capital backing you and the foresight to back a chicken ranch as a profitable business, Mr. Hendricks says there's plenty of room for you. Larger profits come only with the bigger flocks of 1,000 and over, though, he points out, Seminole County, and in general, at much of Florida, is admirably suited to raising poultry, and on the whole the costs of operating a ranch are cheaper here than up North. Feed is less expensive in the Northern states, but in Florida housing is considerably less costly.

"In the North, housing costs an average of $1.50 or $2.00 per bird," Mr. Hendricks explained.

Mr. Hendricks, who grew up in Lake County before coming to Seminole, says the average profit he expects per bird on his ranch is $1, though this figure will vary. Until he moved to Lake Mary five years ago, he had a small chicken farm on Oviedo for two years, and he has shipped products to points as far away as Texas, Ohio and Georgia, and as far south in Florida as Miami.

Next to the Hendricks ranch, the largest in the county is the Flowers' Poultry Ranch and Hatchery, located on City Avenue and operated by Cecil Flowers.

Mr. Flowers is a former filling station owner who turned to raising chickens and now has between 5,000 and 8,000 birds on his ranch.

Every week, he ships between 500 and 1,000 pounds to Camp Blending for the officers mess. His ranch differs from that of Mr. Hendricks in that it is principally a hatching and breeding farm, and does not deal in eggs.

Mr. Flowers' average flock is about 5,000 birds, but in the winter season he has as high as 15,000 at one time.

Recently he installed a new machine which is proving a real labor saver—a feather picking device. It consists of a drum with rubber teeth, operated by machinery. A workman holds a chicken which has been scalded up against the drum, and all the feathers are soon removed.

LONDON, May 10.—(A.P.)—An informant who correctly forecast the Nazi attack on Yugoslavia and Greece predicted today that Germany's next major move would be against Gibraltar.

Indications for such a move, he said, came from "certain movements" in the Mediterranean and the fact that Spain would be added to the Axis.

He added, however, that the New members of Spain would not be able to do much for the Axis, but that the Axis would be able to do much for them.

STELLA IN HER LAST ILLNESS

Today you spent some hours at my side
reading me words of comfort from a book
both beautiful and sad; if I had died that moment I should not have feared to look into the utter darkness that I surmise awaits me at my going . . . ah, my dear Stella, if I had
I that have looked on life through your cold eyes
look now alone on death and feel no fear.
It is a journey that we may not take a pallid venture, ominous at best and yet I go with neither thought nor care
I that I make of you one last retreat—
that you live proudly, knowing the light,
even in light, although you may not see it.
We haven't heard much out of nations.

We don't blame the hope

Mothers of America tomorrow

The report is made that 10,000
Americans are fighting with the British forces, which indicates this country not only has its "Buddies for Britain," but also its "Buddies for Britain."

People who believe the United much for a country which has al-about the history of the world.

Just think of all the countries in Europe we have covered piece by take the war to Iran, Iraq, and the south.

A Little Foresight

Extensive plans have been drafted by the United States government for the use of state and local defense councils as a preliminary step in the construction of air raid shelters for civilian populations against mass bombing raids. No immediate construction is contemplated, but realizing that when bombs begin to fall it is too late then to begin the building of satisfactory shelters, government officials want to cover as much initial ground as possible before the shooting starts.

It goes without saying that the best air raid shelters are those built previous to the rush of an emergency, when the most approved types, best locations, and quality of materials can be considered and incorporated by the builder. Also it is by early planning that an otherwise useless air raid shelter can be made to serve some useful commercial or domestic purpose when there is no longer need for it from a military angle.

It has been pointed out that many uses can be made of the shelters if planned intelligently. Multi-story garages for the storage of automobiles in the big cities can be designed to give adequate protection against missiles from the air at the same time not impairing usefulness as storage plants. Refuges near banks and in financial districts could serve as storage vaults for priceless personal belongings or as depositories for precious metals.

It has been recommended that the construction of air raid shelters take into account the possibility of future buildings being erected over them, with the shelter serving as a basement. It has been suggested for some time that all new buildings be so designed so that they can serve as shelters, and in this connection the government has revealed that most modern steel and concrete buildings are about as good a buffer against bombs as anything devised. A little increase in thickness of the reinforced concrete floors on the upper stories would make a lot of our modern skyscrapers safer than most underground shelters.

Any time and effort spent now in covering the ground work for air raid protection may in the end be the means of saving thousands of lives, and this country wants to profit by the experience of the nations in Europe, which found the time between the moment a bomb was released and the second it hit the earth, painfully short in which to build a shelter that would even keep a mosquito out.

Oil For The Motors Of Japan

Would you hand a man ammunition for a gun he was pointing at your head?

Just a few days ago Yosuke Matsuoka, Japanese Foreign Minister, reiterated to an American newspaperman what has been implicit in the Japanese-Axis tripartite agreement ever since last September—namely that if the United States became involved in hostilities with Germany, Japan would feel bound to fight against the United States.

Yet under these pleasant neighborly circumstances the export of petroleum products—gasoline, fuel oil, and lubricating oil—from the United States to Japan increased from 1,278,000 barrels in February to 1,553,000 barrels in March. These are the figures of the Department of Commerce.

Much of this oil and motor fuel is sure to be used by the Japanese Navy, Army, and air force in continuation of their bombing raids on civilians in China and in their penetration of Indo-China.

At the same time comes news that British-American oil companies have renewed agreements under which last November they more than tripled the quota of oil furnished to Japan from the Netherlands East Indies. Admittedly the oil companies and the foreign offices are in a delicate business when they attempt to reduce supplies of petroleum products to Japan. The Japanese military Government needs these so desperately that if it cannot buy them it is apt to take them by force.

But if force should come into play—against the American Navy, outposts, and trade routes in the Far Pacific as it is already employed against the hapless Chinese—whose force would it be? Part of it would be the propulsive energy of American fuel oil and gasoline turning Japanese engines lubricated by American oil. Presumably the Japanese can provide their own explosives, though an important source of toluol, basal of TNT, is petroleum.

Does it make sense for America to go on fueling the implements of war which already are pointed in her direction?—Christian Science Monitor.

Poultry Raising Shows Increase In This County

Col. Lindbergh has shipped his Wyandottes all over the United States and to several foreign countries for exhibition purposes.

Though Alex Johnson estimates that the value of the poultry industry in Seminole County has increased about 28 percent in the past five years, he points out that there are still opportunities along this line.

A nation-wide drive to produce every possible egg from present laying flocks this Spring and summer has been launched by Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard, Mr. Johnson says.

The effort is part of the nation's determination to assure ample food supplies for the United States, Great Britain and other nations resisting aggression, and should increase egg production for the whole country in the next 18 months by about six percent, he said.

Specialists in poultry point out that the goal can be achieved only by ample feeding and care, and by filling the nation's poultry houses to capacity with laying flocks this Fall. The Department of Agriculture of the United States is an increase of about 15 percent in chicks raised over last year is advisable.

Discussing the poultry industry in Florida, W. P. Thacker, county agent, said that the industry was making recently on the All Florida page of the Miami Herald.

As with cattle and sheep, we say that numbers in America there is a location where all the people of the world should be.

Frost-proof housing is unnecessary for obvious reasons and shelters of all types may be built at low cost. Poultry suffers no toll of cold weather and water is always available at low cost.

"Today, in Florida, we have a poultry industry that represents an investment of approximately $19,000,000. The annual income from the poultry products of the state is in excess of $8,000,000, but we buy and consume from outside sources around $18,000,000 worth of poultry and eggs."

Declaring that "there is a good market for profitable figures for all the poultry and poultry products that can be raised which will meet Florida's market specifications," Mr. Thacker pointed out that "success with poultry is 40 to 50 percent brains, 40 percent hard work and 10 percent chickens." He further explained that "right stock, right methods, right feeding, and right marketing."

"Then," he said, "if you use your brains, and if you work, and do that intelligently too, chickens will not grow into money, but they must be developed into a quality of both poultry and eggs which people will be willing to spend money for."

Prospective Florida poultrymen will find that the Extension Service at Gainesville is an aid in their work.

Books And Authors

By MRS. IRVING FEINBERG

Two hundred books were presented yesterday to President Roosevelt at the White House by the bookellers of the nation, and are an addition to the permanent White House Library, originated by the American Booksellers Association in 1930.

The books presented today were selected from the publishers' output of the past four years and were chosen by a committee which included Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, Archibald MacLellan, Carl Carner, Elmer Davis, and a number of editors and booksellers, with Frederick O. McHenry, president of the R. R. Bowker Co., as chairman.

The original White House Library of 50 books came into being after a bookseller discovered, while visiting President Hoover that the White House contained no home library. Subsequent gifts of 200 books each were made in 1933 and 1937. The 1941 gift brings the total of 1100 volumes.

Karl Placht, president of the American Booksellers Association, who headed the committee which presented the books to the President, called attention to the points that are borne in mind in the selection of the titles. "The books have to be significant," said Mr. Placht, "yet not overspecialized; readable, yet not selected with an eye confined to best-seller lists. The American scene, our history, lives and letters are naturally emphasized. Moreover, it is appropriate that such groups of books given to the White House should reflect the interests which have particularly colored the national streams of thought during the period covered."

The books presented included biographies and letters, history and current affairs, travel and adventure, science and nature, philosophy and religion, poetry, songs, drama, fine arts, humor, children's books, fiction and mysteries.

The President being such a mystery addict it is surprising that the committee included only two mysteries among its many selections. These were "The Mystery Book" and "Garden of the House of the Haunted Husband."

There were 34 works of fiction chosen, all of which have appeared on best-seller lists during the past four years.

This library will afford the President much material to occupy his mind during the next few years just in case things might become dull for him.

Plans are under way for a big book fair in Chicago to be sponsored by the Chicago Daily News and to be held in the Chicago Auditorium from Dec. 5 through Dec. 7.

The Daily News will spend a big sum of money for the fair. A special feature will be the entire house built on the top of the auditorium—formerly known as the "Garden of the House of the Haunted Husband."

The Society for the Libraries of New York University this year awarded its annual gold medal for literary achievement to Perry Burgess for his book, "They Walk Alone," published last August and recently named the Bookeller's Discovery in the National Book Awards given by the ABA. The jury making the award consisted of Pearl Buck, Clifford Fadiman, and Harry Hanson.

And while we are on the subject of awards let's don't leave Ellen Glasgow out. The editors of the Saturday Review of Literature have awarded its "Pro Official Liberty" plaque to Miss Glasgow for "Outing" articles to American Literature."

The Award is made only when some especially noted achievement in the cause of books seems to warrant it. Last year the award was made in the realm of "Information, Please."

Unity Lacking
In Washington
On Many Issues

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Contributing Columnist

WASHINGTON'S public men are united all right on the subject of national defense. They also are predominantly united on the subject of aid-the-democracies.

Although there's quite a contrast of opinion on the subject of keeping some more or less light strings on it, otherwise, however, if I saw a time when there was no little unity in our capital this morning, I don't remember it.

For instance, expressed opinions as to the Charles Lindbergh case are too mixed to make heads or tails out of. I don't think Lindbergh generally is a popular character. Ultra-isolationists deplore his position on the administration's foreign policy. Many, even of them, say they still don't like him personally. So, when President Roosevelt hailed him out, not many spokesmen, raised their voices in defense of him.

Nevertheless, quite a few, not isolationists alone, but strong supporters of the administration, said he wrote a very effective message to the White House in resigning his colonel's commission in the army air corps.

They disagree with him entirely in the super-isolationist position he takes, but their judgment is that he was entitled to argue for it. They say he undoubtedly is a violent specimen of an isolationist and an appeaser, and that the president properly so described him, but they don't feel that P. D. R. was justified in virtually classifying him as a traitor. They quote Voltaire, in answer to a political opponent, "I dissent from your way of you say, but I'll fight to the death in defense of your right to say it."

Poor Taste?

Sir Gerald Campbell, a minister attached to the British embassy in Washington, didn't help matters by panning Lindbergh the other night. He said he was referring to Lindbergh in a speech the other night. The White House tenant's right to express himself (up to a certain point) is unquestioned, but criticism, including some very loyal administrationists, remark that it was exceedingly poor taste for a Briton to break into the controversy. It is a delicate matter, of course, but Sir J. Morgan & Co. have so often been accused of playing in getting the United States into the last war.

And how's this for unity? G. O. P. National Chairman Joseph W. Martin, in a speech in Detroit, declared for it emphatically. Discussing, as a newspaperman, the administration's plea for a "voluntary press censorship," he declared, "I don't believe we're going to give them up—and then give our best to a 'dignified' and 'civilized' man."

And in Congress?

Disputed—emerging comment in the regular third in congress. Disputedly, a few days ago a house of representatives committee was discussing methods for the local acquisition of Axis ships. The committee's report, in part, was: "We are in a position to see us take the loss that we're living in a world of surprise and danger as well as to defend the shipyard."

Florida's Exhibit At Atlantic City To Open May 24

DELAND, May 10.—(Special)—Florida's exhibit will open May 24 on the Hines Pier at Atlantic City while the exhibit on the Steel Pier will open on May 28 according to Earl W. Brown, manager of Florida National Exhibits.

Artists at the dramatic studios at Deland are rusting last minute preparations of the giant panoramas and dioramas for shipment north. Electricians are designing new lighting arrangements to provide "Florida sunshine" for the exhibit halls. Mechanical engineers are devising new contrivances to amaze the public. Model builders, color experts, mechanical engineers, ornithologists and sculptors are putting final touches on their work.

Already the first carload of tropical plantings is on its way to decorate the gardens on the two piers. The garden crew has secured Florida for trees and shrubs, hard enough to withstand salt spray, cold ocean winds and sand and have chosen sea grapes, coconut palms, Australian pines and 25 other plantings indigenous to the Florida coast.

These experts say it will be even more difficult to make these marine gardens flourish than the exotic gardens at the Chicago, Cleveland and New York World's Fairs at which visitors marveled.

"We intend to present Florida so attractively that a good proportion of the 32,000,000 people who circulate annually on Atlantic City's Boardwalk will want to come South next winter," said Brown.

Holland's Tax Message Waited

Outlawing Of Union Shops To Be Considered Wednesday

TALLAHASSEE, May 12.—The House declined today to send to the labor committee a proposed constitutional amendment outlawing union labor's closed shop in Florida employment. The bill, offered by Rep. Jenkins of Alachua, is before the constitutional amendments committee for a hearing at 10:30 P. M.

Rep. Gillespie of Volusia sought to have it sent to the labor committee, of which he is chairman, but Jenkins and others said such an action would result in killing the bill. Gillespie's motion was defeated 57 to 27.

The proposed amendment would provide that "the right to work shall not be abridged or denied on account of non-membership in any labor organization."

The labor committee previously had reported a bill to prohibit closed shop conditions in public employment. A copy of the bill was sent to the House in the morning.

China Declared Ready To Beat Japanese Alone

U. S. Citizens Said Willing To Defend Democracy's Spirit To Point Of War

CHUNGKING, May 12.—(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek asserted today that China, without the help of an expeditionary force or naval action but with material and economic aid, was prepared to undertake single-handed the task of putting down Japan.

He added that he believed "with conviction in the world matching itself against American democracy would meet with certain destruction."

Chiang said the resolve of the American people "to defend the spirit of democracy against the forces of tyranny now is such that they will support the policy of their government to the point of war."

"Japanese aggression has now neither the strength nor the audacity to risk a clash with America."

The people look to President Roosevelt this week for answers to questions growing out of this nation's determined effort to aid Great Britain in crushing the Axis powers.

He will speak directly on Wednesday night before the Pan-American Union to a small audience. But what informed congressional sources predict will be one of the most important presidential utterances since the war began will be pointed at a world audience. The address will be broadcast throughout the United States and translated into foreign languages for short wave transmission to other lands.

Great care is being taken to keep secret the import of the President's speech. It comes at a time when the nation is stirred by a violent controversy over the next move by the Administration in the battle of the Atlantic and the effect of a possible Japanese declaration of a full national emergency imminent.

Will the government soon freeze the American credits of the Axis?

What use is to be made of foreign ships soon to be requisitioned?

How much of American war aid is being sunk in the Atlantic?

Are new economic blows at Japan contemplated?

How is this nation's defense program progressing?

There was no assurance that the President would answer any of these questions but congressional circles are anticipating a declaration of the situation and individual members are demanding it. There was a feeling that Roosevelt's address would impinge the mind of many lawmakers on the politically explosive subject of convoys and on the legislation empowering the President to requisition idle foreign vessels in American ports.

Effect Of Strikes On Defense Effort Is Small, Murray Says

Minimizes Strikes

RUFFALO, N. Y., May 12.—(AP)—C.I.O. President Philip Murray said today the effect of strikes on national defense has been "infinitely small," and asserted that "American labor will fight to protect and preserve democracy."

Murray said in an interview he doubted whether such strikes as those at the Ford River Rouge plant or the Appalachian soft coal mines had impeded "any substantial war production."

The United Automobile Workers C.I.O. yesterday set May 15 for a strike against 61 plants of the General Motors Corporation, which has defense orders totalling $750,000,000, unless an agreement upon demands for wage increases and a union shop is reached by that time.

The deadline was set by a conference of union executives and plant chairmen after hearing a report from their negotiation committee on nine days of conferences in Washington with company officials and a panel of the defense mediation board.

Walter P. Reuther, director of the union's C.M. department, said he brought to the Detroit meeting a request from the mediation board that final efforts to reach an agreement be sought in two more days of conferences Tuesday and Wednesday.

Reuther said the strike call would not affect workers among who are actively engaged on the company's contracts for airplanes, machine guns, shells and other defense work.

President Charles E. Wilson of G.M. insists the company's operations are an integrated unit and impossible to segregate defense and non-defense workers.

Fleet Of 100 R. A. F. Planes Hits Hamburg And Bremen; 'Many Fires' Set

British Flying Bases Attacked

BERLIN, May 12.—(AP)—Rudolf Hess, Hitler's No. 2 political aide, crashed in a plane flight made contrary to the Fuehrer's orders, the Nazi Party announced today, and his adjutants, accused of permitting the flight, have been ordered arrested. The brief announcement did not say whether Hess had been killed or injured but said Hess had been falling health. Hess is said to have been missing since he took off in his own plane Saturday.

The arrested officers London's millions trudged to work today through acres of fire-blackened ruins in the heart of the empire capital—scarred anew by Luftwaffe violence over the weekend—but they knew Germany was at last feeling the sting of a large-scale counter-offensive.

An armada of 100 R. A. F. warplanes bombed the ports of Hamburg and Bremen in overnight assaults, leaving "many large fires" raging in both cities from the rain of Britain's new super bombs.

Other R. A. F. squadrons attacked Nazi-held Holland.

In an evident attempt to cripple the R. A. F. (confirmed striking power, German planes concentrated the weight of their overnight assault on Britain's night flying bases. London itself had the lightest night raid in three weeks.

Westminster Abbey and the House of Parliament, including Big Ben, were among the venerated symbols of the British Empire scorched in the onslaught. The Luftwaffe used between 800 and 400 planes. The British said about 10 percent of the invading bombers were destroyed.

The Soviet government announced that diplomatic relations had been established between the S. S. R. and Iraq at Iraq's request. The significance of this move was not apparent immediately.

On the African war front, the British reported imperial Indian troops advancing toward an Italian stronghold at Amba Alagi, in northeast Ethiopia, had caught 38,000 Italian soldiers in an escape-proof trap.

Nazi bombs caused death, flame and destruction in Britain's imperial heart Saturday night, wrecking the House of Commons chamber, dumping debris upon Westminster Abbey's shrine, firing the British Museum and blackening the weathered face of Big Ben, official reports disclosed last night.

But Big Ben's massive hands still wheel the hours and the (Continued on Page Two)

Legion Supports Organization Of County Defense

New Force To Hold Initial Meeting At Armory Tonight

The American Legion of Sanford is supporting and cooperating with the new Seminole County Defense Force to be organized tonight at the Armory at 8:00 o'clock, Joel S. Field, commander of the Campbell-Lossing Post said today.

The organization should receive the maximum 62 men needed to fill the ranks at the first meeting, he declared. "The county is very fortunate to have such men as E. C. Harper, W. D. Hofmann and John L. Galloway to lead such a force. They have all seen service in the World War and are experienced officers."

The fair of the present home defense unit is not yet decided but after the organization of the new group the use of the home defense can better be determined, Mr. Field explained.

At the meeting tonight several officers, sergeants and corporals, may be appointed, Mr. Field said.

Ingley will preside at the meeting in his capacity as chairman of the county defense council, a part of the State Defense Council recommended by Governor Holland.

All men between the ages of 18 and 55, who are interested in the force are urged to attend the meeting tonight, Mr. Harper said this morning. The organization is vital to our state defense group and our force can be one of the best.

In a letter sent to Mr. Ingley, Adm. Gen. Collins, who is assisting the organization of defense forces in Florida counties, said, "In your community there are some fine men both of the reserve and among the veterans organization who are in a position to advise and assist in this important work."

Jaycee Legislative Work Discussed By Harold Powers

By HAROLD J. POWERS

Among the Jaycee legislative program of the year in retrospect, the new parole system which the voters of Florida approved last November, stands out most important from a municipal point of view.

Under the new law, which became effective Apr. 1, of this year, many persons convicted of various crimes may be paroled without even actually ever serving any portion of their sentence. On the face of it, this may seem to be letting down the law.

But the law, however, through work of a permanent state committee, and active cooperation of local authorities the underscoring is worked out. It is possible to take the accidental or casual law violator and, through educational (Continued on Page Two)
