If you were planning to beat the economic crunch by joining the military, you'd better make interim plans. According to Sanford recruiters the Army and Navy have waiting lists for women and the Army also has a waiting list for "Women," says Navy Recruiter Boatswain's Mate First Class Lew Jencks, "will find we have a waiting list of about nine months."

"Ours is just about the same," says Army Recruiting Sergeant First Class Harry Jacobs. "I haven't even been able to enlist a girl in six months, not even in our delayed entry program."

The local Navy recruiting office is so new that the recruiters are still completing its refinishing. It's been about eight years since an office existed here, according to Jencks, so he has no projections as yet on the number of people who will be considered for possible enlistment.

"I probably process 35-40 a month," says Jacobs," and enlist on the average about

"I'm allowed to enlist one, or possibly two non-high school graduates per month," says Jacobs. He notes that potential enlistees who have a General Educational Development program (GED) diploma are considered non-high school graduates

Physical enlistment requirements, say both men, are only slightly different for men and women. Both services require minimum height of 5 feet for men, but the Army allows men extra two inches of height, enabling them to be as tall as 6 feet-8-inches. Women, on the other hand, are required to be no more than 6 feet in either service, but the Navy allows them to be 5 feet minimum height while the Army permits them to be only 4 feet 10 inches tall. As Leaking Ship Explodes

HONOLULU (AP) - The leaking oil tanker Hawaiian Patriot exploded, burned and sank about 320 miles west of Honolulu, the Coast

"It was unbelievable," said a witness Thursday, "The flames shot up about 500 feet. I've never seen a ship that big become engulfed like that."

One crewman was killed and 38 others were rescued by a nearby merchant ship, the Coast Guard said.

The 12-year-old, Liberian-registered tanker was carrying about 28 million gallons of crude oil from Indonesia to Hawaii and reported leaking about five million gallons from a hole in its hull prior to the explosion Thursday.

ATLANTA (AP) - Police say they've nabbed the fearsome Foot Stomper, and the streets of Atlanta are safe again for female

The police had been looking for a young man who had made a habit of using the heel of his platform shoe on women's feet. One of his victims had to be treated at a hospital.

On Thursday, an undercover agent spotted a man stomping the left foot of a woman at the corner of Broad and Walton streets.

He was identified as George Mitchell, 28, of Nashville, Tenn., and was charged with simple battery in connection with 12 to 15 foot stompings, police said.

Minorities Are Majority

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Officials of the nation's second largest public school district lave a problem: minority children form the majority. There aren't enough white pupils to spread around to comply with a court-ordered school integration plan. Latest figures show the Los Angeles Unified School District, with 600,000 students, has 38 per cent Spanishsurnamed students, 23 per cent black, 5 per cent Asian and 33 per cent white.

'Shadow Cabinet' Unveiled

WASHINGTON (AP) - The traditional Republican hierarchy is showing little concern over the determined effort by a rival conservative coalition to become spokesman for the out-of-power party. The conservative group Thursday unveiled its "shadow cabinet," which will criticize and offer alternatives to policies of the Carter administration.

Aid Cuts On Rights Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) - Dramatizing its commitment to human rights, the Carter administration is recommending cuts in foreign military aid to Argentina, Uruguay and Ethiopia. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance revealed the proposed cuts Thursday. He said South Korea was kept off the list despite "deep concern" over treatment of dissidents there.

Savings Time Changes Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress can't seem to keep its hands off Daylight Saving Time. Though it doesn't start until April this year, six bills have been introduced in the House to change the current system of six months of Daylight Saving Time a year. One would make it year-round, another would cut it to three months.

An Orlando man facing trial next month on a rape charge has been found guilty by a circuit court jury at Sanford on charges of attempted burglary, possession of burglary tools and resisting an officer with violence to his person.

George William Girtman, 23, told sheriff's detectives from a surveilance team that he was a fruit picker and had jogged to St. Johns Village Apartments in south Seminole from the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando when he was apprehended at 1:30 a.m. on Jan. 14. Officers testified that they'd watched Girtman, wearing work gloves and dark clothing, wander through the large apartment complex where four women had been raped by burglars within six Detective Sgt. Ray Larkins told the jury that Girtman was bending over "working on the sliding glass doors" at the rear of a second-story apartment when he was ordered at gunpoint to come down to the parking lot.

Larkins said as he tried to handcuff the suspect that he broke away, failed to heed a warning shot, and was finally chased down and subdued by three detectives after being struck on the head

Det. Sgt. George Hagood testified that Girtman gave the jogging fruit-picker story first but later told investigators that his auto was parked at the front of the apartment complex. Hagood said papers in the auto identified Girtman as a cash Officers found a flashlight and a slender metallic "pick-type"

Haley Squirms At Success

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alex Haley says he's uncomfortable with all the attention he has received for writing "Roots," the family chronicle that became a phenomenally popular television show.

"I feel almost embarrassed when someone comes up and says you did it," he said. "I was simply the channel, the conduit." Haley said other blacks have traced their ancestry back to Africa, but that his book goes further back, is more carefully documented "and it was done by someone who happened to be a writer."

Haley chatted with Smithsonian Institution officials and a few others at a luncheon following his lecture before an overflow audience there Wednesday night.

Jack Ford To Join Mag

NEW YORK(AP) - Rolling Stone magazine has announced that Jack Ford, son of former President Gerald Ford, will become assistant to publisher Joe Armstrong.

Ford, who has a degree in forestry from Utah State University, will be involved with production of a new Rolling Stone outdoor magazine called Outside. It is scheduled for publication next fall.

Armstrong declined to say how much Ford, 24, would be paid. His contract was negotiated by the William Morris Agency.

Sanford Landfill: D.E.R. Wants More Data...

Florida Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) officials have requested several clarifications of the City of Sanford's proposal to operate a landfill at SR 46A and Oregon Ave. But City Manager W. E. Knowles is more concerned with the issue of zoning at the proposed site, raised earlier in the month by

In a letter dated last Thursday, DER's Orlando office requested more information from Knowles on possible flooding at the site, how a landfill might affect "shallow wells less than 1,000 feet from the site" and the city's plan to surround the site with fencing. The letter was signed by Charles M. Collins, chief of the Orlando DER office's air and solid waste section.

"These things are easily answered . . . The items raised (in the letter) are no problem," Knowles said adding, "The items raised by DER mainly call for a further explanation of what's in our application" for a landfill permit.

Soviet Arrests Real Challenge

At his press conference recently, President Carter said he does not believe the Soviet Union is testing him. He also spoke out strongly in behalf of human rights.

Just a few days later Soviet police arrested Yuri Orlov, the chairman of a dissident group publicizing the Soviet Union's non-compliance with human rights provisions of the 1975 Helsinki ac-

From where we sit, the arrest of Orlov was a calculated affront - a direct reaction to President Carter's statement on human rights and a warning to other Soviet dissidents.

Mr. Orlov was the third rebel arrested within a week. Fifty-three congressmen have signed a petition addressed to President Carter urging him to make an "effective and credible response" to the arrest of one of the other dissidents. Alexander Ginzburg. Mr. Ginzburg is still in jail.

It is clear that the Soviet Union is stepping up, rather than muting, its exchanges with President Carter and Congress

President Carter should be pondering about what an effective and credible response to the Soviet Union might be, should he become convinced that a test is underway.

One thing is clear. Exchanges like the President's challenge on human rights and the Soviet Union's response feed on themselves. If President Carter does not respond immediately after the test becomes obvious, the size and the nature of it will grow after each exchange.

Fishermen Caught

The U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington has thrown another curve at U.S. tuna fishermen. The order issued by the court recently not only forbids any fishing at this time that would bring porpoise into tuna nets, but complicates an already lengthy procedure for issuing fishing permits under a new

At best, it will be April 1 before the National Marine Fisheries Service can complete the procedures prescribed by law for setting a porpoise quota and regulations to enforce it, and for receiving and reviewing applications for permits. The law requires a 30-day waiting period between the time applications are received and permits are granted — a period in which any challenges must be aired at public hearings.

Now, the appeals court has injected itself into the process, nsisting on its own review of the applications and the steps to be taken to assure compliance with the Mammal Protection Act. Tuna fishermen say the April 1 permit date already threatens to hand most of the tuna catch to foreign boats not subject to restraints on netting of porpoises. The judicial and administrative roadblocks are now getting so numerous that it

The law passed by Congress in 1972 has spurred American fishermen to develop techniques to minimize the mortality of porpoises in catching tuna. What are those techniques worth, however, if the courts and the mechanics of the surrender the fishing season to foreign fleets?

Reverse Good Will

Americans are not used to being on the receiving end of "foreign aid," and it might even ruffle the pride of some to consider that anyone in our country would need it. But it is gratifying to hear that the president of the city assembly of West Berlin is appealing for donations to help Americans suffering personal privations in areas hit by blizzards and bitter cold. West Berliners can remember when American planes brought them fuel and food to survive the winter of 1948-49 during the Berlin blockade. They are mindful of the American ommitment to the defense of their city today.

The amount and type of assistance that may be sent through the German Red Cross is less important than what it represents gratitude and concern.

Moore Has On The Hill

WASHINGTON - President Carter may be forced to throw a longtime member of his inner circle to the wolves to salvage his hopes of developing a close working relationship with Frank Moore, chief of the White House congressional liaison team, is so unpopular on Capitol Hill that some key members of the House and Senate now simply refuse to deal with him. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Senate panel that will handle Carter's government reorganization plan, became so fed up with Moore's ineptitude that he reportedly refused to talk to the White House aide at a recent social event.

He and others are taking their troubles directly to Carter, his cabinet officers or, increasingly, to Vice President Walter F. Mondale and his Hill-seasoned aides.

Criticism of Moore and his staff has reached such a crecendo that Hamilton Jordan, Carter's top political trouble-shooter, has privately told be done about him."

The problem is that Carter, despite all his talk about competence, thus far refuses to acknowledge that Moore is not only in over his head but shows no aptitude for swimming in the treacherous currents of congressional politics. Moore served as executive secretary and liaison to the state legislature when Carter was governor of Georgia but had no Washington experience prior to last year's campaign, when he was assigned to babysit potentially useful

Part of Moore's troubles stem from simple nexperience. It takes years to learn the ropes on Capitol Hill, to know which of 535 squeaky wheels equire immediate greasing and which can wait a few days, to distinguish a pro forma request from a serious demand, to separate routine gripes from earnest warnings.

But some things are rudimentry. You don't have to be around long to know it is unwise to keep Senate Finance Chairman Russell Long, D-La., cooling his heels for a half hour in a White House reception room. Or to learn that telephone calls from senators and House members should be returned immediately, if not sooner. Or to realize Democratic leaders should be consulted before an emergency energy bill is unveiled. Or even to see the virture of inviting Republicans to the White House once in a while.

Gold Market Picking Up

LONDON (AP) — Speculators and investors appear to be returning to Europe's gold markets, dealers say, for the first time since Americans decided more than two years ago they weren't particularly interested in the yellow metal. Steady buying orders were received all this week, and few holders of gold were interested in selling, London dealers said. That drove the price of bullion up $4.50 an ounce to $141.125 Thursday in Zurich, the world's biggest gold-trading center. The price rose more than $3.50 to $140.125 in London, the second biggest market.

WASHINGTON (AP) - United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim meets President Carter today for talks focusing on the Middle East and for the first White House ceremony in memory for a visiting United Nations official. Carter ordered a cordon of troops to line the White House driveway to greet Waldheim, his wife Elizabeth and Soviet Civil Defenses Better?

WASHINGTON (AP) - Reports that the Soviets may be spending about $1 billion a year to build an elaborate civil defense system are stirring the concern of U.S. officials. If the reports are true, and there are doubters, the Russian civil defense program is outspending that in the United States, 12 to one.

ORLANDO- When Edgar (Mad Dog) Ross and Tony Gardener square off in tonight's feature bout at the Orlando Sports Stadium, it will be decided not only who is the best southern junior middleweight, but also who gets the next shot at Gene Wells' Southern 160-pound crown. A trio of eight-rounders and one six-rounder completes the 8 p.m card at the stadium.

Sanford's Kip Braden meets Tampa's Eddie Davis and Casselberry's Scott Clark takes on Spider Black. Wilson Owens meets Johnny Evans in the other eight-rounder. The six-rounder sends Al Migliorato (The White Ali) against Gene Idlette.

Mays Gets Willies In Spring NEW YORK (AP) - Willie Mays takes off for sunny Florida Sunday and his 23rd major league spring training season, but he says is isn't like the old days any more. "It used to be fun - always fun," baseball's perennial Say Hey

Kid said dolefully. "Now it is a job. As a player, baseball was a the Class AAA event where fun thing. Now that I am out in the business world, it's different. "That's what I try to pass along to the new kids. Have fun while you can. Enjoy it. Once you retire, everything is a job." Willie was chauffeuring his sleek limousine across town on an errand and was strapped into a seat of plush red upholstery. "Look at me," he said, taking a hand off the steering wheel to pat a mild paunch. "I weigh 193 pounds. Got to take off at least six pounds. That's one good thing about spring training. He hammered out 660 home runs and collected 2,992 hits in his 22 all-star years, mostly with the Giants, and remains a proud man. He wants people to remember him as the sleek figure whose hat went flying when he ran down a soaring shot to center field a man who was sheer symmetry at the plate in his halcyon days. That's the reason he is a little uncomfortable as he prepares to report to Manager Joe Frazier and the New York Mets at Payson

Field in St. Petersburg, Fla. "I don't know what I am supposed to do," he said. "My duties have never been really spelled out. I wish they would give me something specific. So I will just be around if anybody wants me." It's a somewhat demeaning role for one of the greatest baseball players who ever lived.

When Mays returned to New York in the spring of 1972 - at age 41 in the twilight of his scintillating career - one of the provisions made by the late Joan Payson, the Mets' owner, was that he receive $50,000 a year for 10 years. Willie played the 1972 and 1973 seasons and on Sept. 20, 1973 announced his retirement, with plans to remain with the Mets in some other unspecified capacity. Last spring the Mets withheld a portion of his salary, contending he was not fulfilling his obligations. The matter was settled in tense conferences with General Manager Joe McDonald and Mets board chairman M. Donald Grant.

"I think they would have liked to get rid of me," Mays said, but there was the contract I made with Mrs. Payson. After all, s not that much. All I asked was a chance to fulfill some other lays is deeply involved with the Colgate Company, which runs the Women's Games for some 17,000 youngsters plus golf and tennis tournaments. He has a contract with Ogden, which is associated with horse and dog tracks. "I am a public relations man," Willie explained. "I go to events, meet and talk with people. It's what I'm best at now. That's what I thought I would be doing with the Mets. "I don't like to be around the park during games any more. I Kissimmee 8 17 18 11 4-58

What makes the difference?

By MARYLIN TIPTON

Herald Writer

Two women, in separate incidents, have fallen to the sidewalk. They are both attractive, well dressed and without outward appearances of any health irregularities.

Both are diabetic, slipping into coma and in danger of death. One ends up in the drunk tank at the jail and one is

One carries some form of medical emergency iden-

Spectro Enterprises, Inc. The Orlando-based firm produces an inexpensive wallet card winch contains a detailed medical history on microfilm. "We developed our medical form after a great deal of study." says Hanks. He explained that his company's objective is to include on its cards all the information about a person which might be needed to admit him to a hospital — even if the card's bearer was completely un-

The form, he explained, includes emergency notification information, insurance company (and policy number) as well as the detailed medical history.

"It specifies everything from fainting spells to when your Pacemaker battery was last installed," says Hanks. The card is similar in intent to jewelry which is worn to alert emergency medical personnel to specific problems The jewelry is available at Seminole County pharmacies in the form of a bracelet, and may sometimes be found in medallion form. Usually it bears some sort of red cross and, on the reverse said, medical data.

With do little room for engraving the jewelry may say only "drug allergies" or "diabetic," but the wearer is encouraged to carry a wallet card with more details so that examining medical personnel may move quickly to

"In many cases you are talking about clinical death in four minutes," says Hanks, "and biological death within six. Saving time is imperative." Unlike many of the wallet cards provided people who wish to carry medical summaries with them, the cards provided by Spectro are permanently laminated, says With a deft twist he demonstrates their non-cracking flexibility, but admits "They will burn, but if there was enough fire to burn the card, chances are you would not survive the accident." Suppose the "unthinkable" did happen and you and your body "parted company." More and more people are seeing death as a possibility for providing other people with an improved life . . . by donating various organs of their body for the use of people in need. Many of these programs are available to Seminole County residents. "If someone wanted to provide us with notorized donor forms for any organs," says Hanks, "we would be glad to microfilm that data along with the medical history and it would be included on the card." The Pink Ladies organization at Seminole Memorial Hospital in Sanford provides anyone who asks with forms for donating their eyes after death. Only a small portion of the eye is needed for transplant operations, according to

Robert Besserer, hospital administrator. Another organ often donated is the kidney. Forms covering not only that type of transplant but all organ donations may be obtained from the Kidney Foundation of

This, too, is a wallet card. "It's a card the person signs in front of two witnesses," saya Peggy Point of the "Most organs can survive up to two hours for removal and transport to the recipient," says Mrs. Point.

Pastor's Corner By REV. C. D. HARRIS Church of God "THE GREATEST OF THESE IS LOVE." 1 Cor. 13:13

Love has many meanings. Considered as emotion or sentiment it is the great healer. Its compassion has been poured like ocean tides into our lives as children, into the lives of so many children through the generations, that only the mathematics of heaven can compute its volume. How much love has been bestowed upon sick and wounded people!

Love is the great inspirer. Henry Ford said of his wife that she had held the lamp all night for him when he was working on his invention. She was the "Believer," the one who understood. Love is the guarantor of life. The life abundant is the life that loves freely, is therefore lovable and beloved. There is a love which has little to do with sentiment or affection. It is a consistent attitude based upon a principle in which unselfishness and a willingness to sacrifice ourselves for sternly righteous ends are Forest Lake Adventist

"Love your enemies" will always appear an impossible con mandment unless we remember that it enjoins this rational principle. We must also remember that love has many forms of expression, including righteous resistance to evil by whatever method may be necessary. Thus the writer of Revelation speaks of "the Lamb," the symbol of all gentleness, yet tells of a time when men shall cry: "Hide us from the fate of him that sittith upon the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb." Love — the healer, the inspirer, the enricher of life, going forth when duty demands righteous, sacrificial resistance of evil - is beyond all question the greatest thing in all the world. Faith and hope and love we see, Joining hand and hand, agree: But the greatest of the three,

And the best, is love.

Question: Sometimes I have trouble getting to sleep at night. I have so many things on my mind that I just can't seem to relax. What do you think will cure my insomnia?

Answer: "God gives to His beloved sleep" (Psalms 127:2). believe a good relationship with God is the best cure for insomnia. From my own experience I know it's hard for me to fall asleep when my relationship with God is broken. What can break your relationship with God? Anger, worry, fear, unforgiveness. whatever is bothering you. During the day you may be able to keep these anxieties below the surface, but at night they rise up into your consciousness. What do you do with them? You give

Now the question is HOW. Well, take unforgiveness, probably one of the major causes of insomnia. Before you go to sleep, ask God to forgive you for hurting anyone. Then think about whoever has hurt you and forgive them. Try to rest your inner trouble on God just as you are resting your body on the bed. As you talk to God, consciously release your anxiety and fear and resentment to Him. . . think about God and not about yourself. . . trust God for all the answers to your problems. If you're not sure you have this much trust, you can ask God to help you trust Him, then thank Him for giving you more trust and tell Him you do trust Him. And don't stop until God stills your mind and quiets your emotions and floods you with His love. I've often wondered how birds keep from falling off their perches when they go to sleep. Recently I read an article that said birds don't fall off because they have a leg muscle that automatically tightens when they land on a tree branch. This muscle makes their toes curl securely around the perch and relaxes only when the bird consciously lets go.

This is a wonderful picture of how you can find the peace of mind you need to fall asleep at night. You have a muscle like the one birds have - it's called trust. When you latch your trust onto God and His promises, you're secure. There's nothing to fear, nothing to dread. You can relax because you know you're safe in your Heavenly Father's care.

EArlings who are weary of the long. drawn-out teachers-school board contract impasse might bend their lobes if they heard what those who attended a recent bargaining session did . . . School board negotiator Andrew Bracken was heard to comment: "There's more cussing than discussing going on here." That opinion must have opened up the EAr canals, because shortly thereafter. each side had a proposal the other bargaining unit thought was worth discussing. . Sometimes it takes something unforeseen (or unforeheard??) to unplug the EArs.

Groundbreaking for Sanford's new city hall will be April 15, but it might not be too spectacular, The EAr has learned. Money for the project comes from the federal government under a program to put people back to work. Construction has to start 90 days after the grant was awarded. That was Jan. 15.

"We'll make the deadline even if we just have a guy shovelling dirt into a wheelbarrow," one city commissioner confided to The EAr.

Senior fireman Frank Culbreth takes breather during minor blaze at 1805 W. 3rd St., Sanford. Officials speculate that the Friday afternoon fire started when a squirrel or rat chewed an electrical wire in a bedroom closet. Fire damage was confined to the bedroom of the house owned by Mildred Gill. Rest of the house suffered heat and smoke damage. The fire call was turned in by Chris Donaldson, 16, of 1906 W. 4th St. Police earlier had reported the theft of jewelry valued at $1,850 from the

'Where Have All The People Gone?'

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

The apathy of the people - their indifference to government and their cynical attitude that nothing will be done to correct their problems, that their complaints will not be heard nor solutions provided - hits hardest the newly elected official, the nonpolitician type who still has his illusions about representing the people.

Longwood Councilman Stephen Barton, a youthful and enthusiastic 32, won election in his first bid for public office last December and was ready to serve.

While awaiting the call of the people, expecting their input, he began the process of gaining all information possible on the inner workings of the city government, the scope of city laws, and the difficulties and policies of

By the end of next month he expects to have met and spoken with everyone on the city payroll. On each rezoning request he has inspected the property involved. And he has done his homework to know the pros and cons of each item on the agenda for council

To gain further insight he has attended several homeowner meetings - eight persons were at one and 22 at another. As meetings began to take more and more of his time, his five-year-old daughter, Sheri, complained that all he did was attend meetings.

meetings with me," he said. "When I ran for office I told the people I wanted to listen to their problems," he said, "but they aren't calling. Most citizens aren't involved. The same people attend the homeowner meetings and the same people attend the council meetings. "Perhaps when warm weather gets here more people will come out to the council meetings," he said. "Maybe we need to form special citizen committees on needs of the city to get the people involved." Barton said the job takes more time than he had anticipated. "But, when I feel that it is requiring too much time, when I feel I cannot devote the time necessary to do the job, it will be time to get out," he said. A person within government sees a broader scope of things and must recognize there are not immediate solutions to all the problems facing the city, Barton said. And at times, he said, the general public interprets as "bickering" debates by officials desiring to have all sides of each issue shown in an effort to get as much data as possible. "I don't think it's bad to take several minutes to debate an issue, to want answers to questions," he said. Optimistic about Longwood's future, Barton said good steps forward include the
