Convicted arsonist back in jail

By Christopher Patton
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Tensions at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility eased Thursday night when a haunting week-long mistake was rectified.

Sheriff's office deputies arrested Gilberto Roman, 47, at about 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the Lake Kathryn Motel in Longwood. Roman, a convicted arsonist who was awaiting trial on an attempted first-degree murder charge, was mistakenly released from the jail Feb. 14.

"I can not tell you how good I feel now that he is back in jail," said jail director David Diggs. "Last night was the best sleep I've had in three days."

The error went unnoticed for five days until Orange County paperwork arrived Tuesday at the jail authorizing his transfer to a state prison. Roman was convicted of arson in Orange County after he set his ex-wife's home on fire in 1999. He was sentenced to approximately three years of prison time. Roman was awaiting a retrial in the Seminole jail for another 1999 incident where he allegedly tried to run over his ex-wife with a vehicle.

Welcome Home

With a Scrabble board, a deck of UNO cards and other personal belongings, Roman was released from the jail at about 11:30 a.m. last Thursday. Five days later, as the jail was learning of their mistake at about 10:30 a.m., Roman was leaving the state Department of Motor Vehicles office in Sanford with a brand new drivers license.

Armed with a license photograph that was practically still wet, a special task force of deputies and investigators created a plan of attack and implemented it around noon, said sheriff's office spokesman Steve Olson. The plan included around-the-clock protection of Roman's ex-wife at an undisclosed location.

"They wanted to go out and work the streets without him knowing he was wanted," Olson said why the sheriff's office waited.

Seminole High School teacher Gail Bonjione, center, receives words of congratulations from Seminole School Board member Dede Schaffner and Seminole Schools Superintendent Paul Hagerty after she was told a surprise announcement — she was named Seminole's 2003 Teacher of the Year.

Bonjione named Teacher of the Year

Students in Gail Bonjione's art history class were supposed to take a quiz on Thursday. That all changed, however, when more than a dozen people came charging into the classroom announcing some very good news.

Bonjione, a language arts teacher at Seminole High School, is Seminole County's 2003 Teacher of the Year. The announcement was greeted by a standing ovation and applause from her art history students — and it wasn't because they didn't have to take Thursday's test.

"I love her," said senior Ockeshia Christian. "She's committed and dedicated to all of her students. She is always there when

WTC collapse survivor tells his story

A survivor of the World Trade Center collapse provided University of Central Florida students with a unique insight about the Sept. 11 tragedies.

Stephan Hittman, deputy commissioner of life and safety for the New York City Fire Department, was on campus Wednesday, Feb. 19, to participate in UCF's Leadership Week. A recipient of the International Leadership Award, Hittman was the ideal choice to be the keynote speaker for the week.

Hittman held two separate leadership presentations, and as promised by the university, he provided "insight that hadn't been seen before."

Like most FDNY brass, Hittman was front and center when the towers collapsed. Of the 343 city firefighters who lost their lives that day, 89 were senior officers. Those numbers become more significant when you consider that in the 150 year history of the FDNY, 175 firefighters lost their lives in the line of duty.

Main Street hosts grand-opening event

By Dan Ping

SANFORD — More than 200 dignitaries from the Central Florida region gathered in the old Post Office to kick-off a new era for Sanford Main Street Inc.

The event served as the grand opening of Main Street's new offices and a public introduction to the organization's new executive director, Marlene Frith.

Frith likened the event to an old-fashioned barnraiser in her native state of Western Pennsylvania.

"We're here to raise awareness and raise money," Frith told the crowd. "Just like a barnraising, a community comes together to help their neighbors."

That awareness and money will be used to implement the four-point strategy of the national Main Street organization: Design, organize, promote and attract economic development to the downtown Sanford.

One of 50 such organizations in the state, Sanford Main Street was created to revitalize downtown. Frith said the strategy has a proven track record, evidenced locally in DeLand. She said every dollar raised for Main Street activities returns $39 to the local community.

Blind man claims self defense in stabbing incident

By Christopher Patton
Staff Writer

SANFORD — A blind elderly man almost stabbed another man to death Thursday night at the Outreach Rescue Mission located at 1701 West 13th Street.

Police responded to the mission at approximately 10:30 p.m. to find Brian Stanley, 36, sitting in a chair covered in blood. He was stabbed twice with a kitchen knife. Once in the chest and another time in the back of the head.

Almost an hour beforehand, police responded to the mission in reference to a disturbance. According to the reporting officer, Stanley appeared intoxicated as his eyes were bloodshot and his speech slurred. The mission advised police they just wanted Stanley to go to bed and leave the others alone. The officer reported Stanley went back to bed. Apparently he didn't stay there long.

In their second visit to the mission, officers followed a blood trail through the mission to find the suspect in the center of the main room, sitting in a brown chair. The suspect admitted to the crime, but stated he was only protecting himself after Stanley threatened to do bodily harm to him, according to the police report.

"The suspect is alleging he was threatened," said Sanford police spokeswoman Cleo Cohen. "We have the suspect, but no arrest has been made."

Stanley allegedly grabbed the man and that's when the suspect stabbed him with the kitchen knife that he had hidden underneath his pillow. The knife was later found by police wedged between the suspect's chair and cushion.

Event celebrates department's history

By Dan Ping

SANFORD — Raymond Hardy has fond memories of his days as a Sanford firefighter, particularly of the time he spent at the old fire station on Palmetto Avenue. He's hesitant to share some of them, though.

"Quite frankly, I don't think the statute of limitations has run out on some of the things we did," Hardy laughed as he recalled some of the pranks he pulled off. "We had some good times."

Hardy joined about 20 retired firefighters for a luncheon at the old fire station. The meal is a monthly event Deputy Fire Chief Jerry Ransom organized to celebrate the department's history.

"We want to remember our roots," Ransom said, noting that the Sanford department is one of the oldest organized fire units in the state.

For the past year, the luncheons were held at the department's main station on U.S. Highway 17/92, but this month's reunion was held at the Palmetto Avenue site thanks to an invitation by Barbara Farrell. She bought the building in 1991 and has restored the second floor until a trendy loft apart-

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

What a deal: The sale of the six-story building at the corner of 1st Street and Park Avenue, often referred to as the First Union Bank building, has created a buzz among downtown property owners. The upper floors have been vacant for years and the building was on the market for months. Enter Lago Real LLC. The local company purchased the building for $1.35 million, a bit pricey some thought.

Turns out Lago Real may have got the deal of the century. First Union officials announced last year that the bank would leave downtown Sanford. The bank brass changed their minds after First Union merged with Wachovia. According to whispers heard Around The Clock, the new contract runs 10 years at $187,000 per year. Even the math-challenged realize that's a great deal. Throw in some federal tax incentives for restoring the building to National Historic Register standards and that $1.35 million starts looking pretty cheap.

In the beginning: It wasn't the Seminole County Commission or even the city of Sanford that first generated debate about a county conference center. It was the school board.

That's right, the one government entity that hasn't weighed in with its opinion is responsible for eight years of plans, plans and more plans.

Carlton Henley, who wasn't a county commissioner at the time, brought the idea up in 1994 during the public comments section of the commission meeting. He had just come from a school board meeting where it was decided that high school graduations would no longer occur at each school's football stadium. Evidently a less than graceful family member of a graduate had stumbled on the stadium steps and sued the school system.

The board's decision didn't make much sense to Henley (or the general public), especially since the stadiums would still be used for football games and other activities. Henley, a former football coach and retired principal at Lyman High School, blew off a little steam at that 1994 county commission meeting about the ridiculous prospect of Seminole County families having to travel to Orange County to watch their sons and daughters graduate. He suggested the county build a facility large enough so graduates of Seminole County high schools could actually graduate in Seminole County.

Bet Henley never thought that eight years after making the suggestion, it would still be a major issue for the commission (of which he is now a part, having been elected in 1998). As Commissioner Dick Van Der Wedde pointed out, though, the conference center is moving at the speed of light compared to the discussions on a new courthouse. It took the commission 12 years before it finally approved the new $45 million project.

As a side note, Henley's original suggestion to build a facility big enough to hold graduation ceremonies has been nixed. Even Henley admits that to build a center that big would not be cost effective. It comes down to the "Easter Sunday" principle—don't construct a building big enough to hold the single largest crowd of the year. Build it slightly bigger than the average attendance, with room to expand.

The old coach would still like to see graduations held in Seminole County. Considering his past success in getting others to take up his cause, perhaps Henley could make a suggestion during public comments at the school board. Domed stadiums, anyone?

Marijuana Possession

The sheriff's office City/County Investigative Bureau seized Thursday night a significant quantity of marijuana plants from the Oviedo area.

A tip lead to the discovery of an estimated 500 to 800 marijuana plants growing in a wooded area near Division Street and State Road 419. The plants were growing in the ground and in pots. No arrests have been made and there are no immediate suspects, according to the sheriff's office.

The U.S. Department of Justice estimates each marijuana plant has a potential value of $1,000, which makes this find worth at least $500,000.

Seminole Deputy Dona Sue Hart arrested Patricia Sayre, 61, of Sanford Monday for possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. Reportedly, Sayre was checking into security at the front of the courthouse when the deputy noticed a large tin in her purse that could be used to conceal a weapon. Police opened the tin and found marijuana, two pipes, a knife and small pair of scissors.

Sanford Officer Jason Shor arrested Karl Calhoun, 26, of Sanford Wednesday for possession of marijuana.

Seminole Sheriff's Office Agent Daniel Moran arrested Monica Medlin, 23, of Sanford Tuesday for possession and purchase of cocaine. Police arranged the sale of the possession of powder cocaine to Medlin at the Sunland Estates basketball courts. Police reported, "within seconds" of arriving at the b-ball courts, Medlin exited her nearby 105 Parkview Drive residence and walked to the courts to purchase the drugs.

Sanford Officer Sherry Webster arrested Demontae Williams, 17, of Sanford Wednesday for possession of cocaine with intent to sell.

Seminole Deputy Jarrett Negri arrested Deanne Caldwell, 33, of Winter Springs Tuesday for possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia.

Robbery with a Firearm

Longwood Investigator Rob Ladoczek arrested Kimberly Gray, 24, of Winter Springs Wednesday for robbery with a firearm.

According to police, on Feb. 9, a male victim accepted a ride from the Handle Bar and Grill on U.S. Highway 17/92 in Longwood to his residence on East Church Street. Upon reaching his residence, she allegedly produced a long-barreled silver revolver and demanded money. The victim reportedly turned over approximately $150 to her. She then allegedly followed the victim into the residence and produced a black semi-automatic handgun demanding more money. The victim told her had no more, so she left and fled in her vehicle.

Fraud

Sanford Officer John DiMatta arrested Justin Kozak, 23, of Sanford Wednesday for fraud. He reportedly neglected to return the blue Chevy Camaro to Enterprise rent a car and they reported it stolen. The vehicle was reportedly due back Jan. 28. Kozak stated to police that he gave the rental office a credit card and assumed the vehicle did not have to be returned. Kozak also had active warrants out of Orange County for battery and violation of probation.

DUI

Seminole Deputy Charles Albrecht arrested Christopher Ross, 34, of Longwood Thursday for driving under the influence. Breathalyzer tests at the jail revealed a blood alcohol content of about .150.

Florida Highway Trooper A. Cadiz arrested Stephen Klutz, 45, of Geneva Tuesday for driving under the influence and driving with a suspended license.

In the event other children were victimized by Walker, family members are urged to contact OFD Investigator Frank Parker at 407-977-6146.

Our View

Parenting class deserves support

Teen-pregnancy. Drug abuse. School violence. Declining literacy. Name a social ill that plagues society and you'll discover the root of the problem most often lies in dysfunctional family situations.

How has society addressed the problems? Too often with efforts that treat the symptom rather than the problem. Strict criminal penalties are the solution for the law-and-order crowd. Those programs have their place, as do rehabilitative or social service programs championed by others.

But what if we get serious and attack the problem before it occurs? What if we provide adults with the skills they need to be parents and children with a stimulating environment that encourages learning and improves socialization?

Such a program exists here in Seminole County, the only one of its kind in Central Florida. Penny O'Connell and Elaine Ray run the Parenting Labs, a comprehensive program that provides parents with a hands-on learning center to improve their child-rearing skills.

Parents can begin soon after their child is born. That may sound early, but child development doesn't wait for mummies and daddies to acquire parenting skills.

"Each period we discuss a different topic: how to discipline your child, how to promote cognitive skills, everything you need to know as a parent," O'Connell said.

Parents aren't the only ones to benefit. Since children accompany their parents to the classes, they participate in the activities, as well. Research has shown that infants who are put in stimulating environments learn quicker and develop social skills earlier.

"From birth to 2 years old is a critical time," Ray said. "Children develop so quickly at that age. The sooner you put them in a stimulating environment, the better off they will be."

The classes meet twice a week for two hours. The sessions are divided into seven six-week periods beginning in August and running through May. Each class period usually begins with a 25 to 30 minute lecture on a specific topic. Expert guest speakers are common. There is plenty of interactivity with parents and children: singing songs, finger-painting and sharing time.

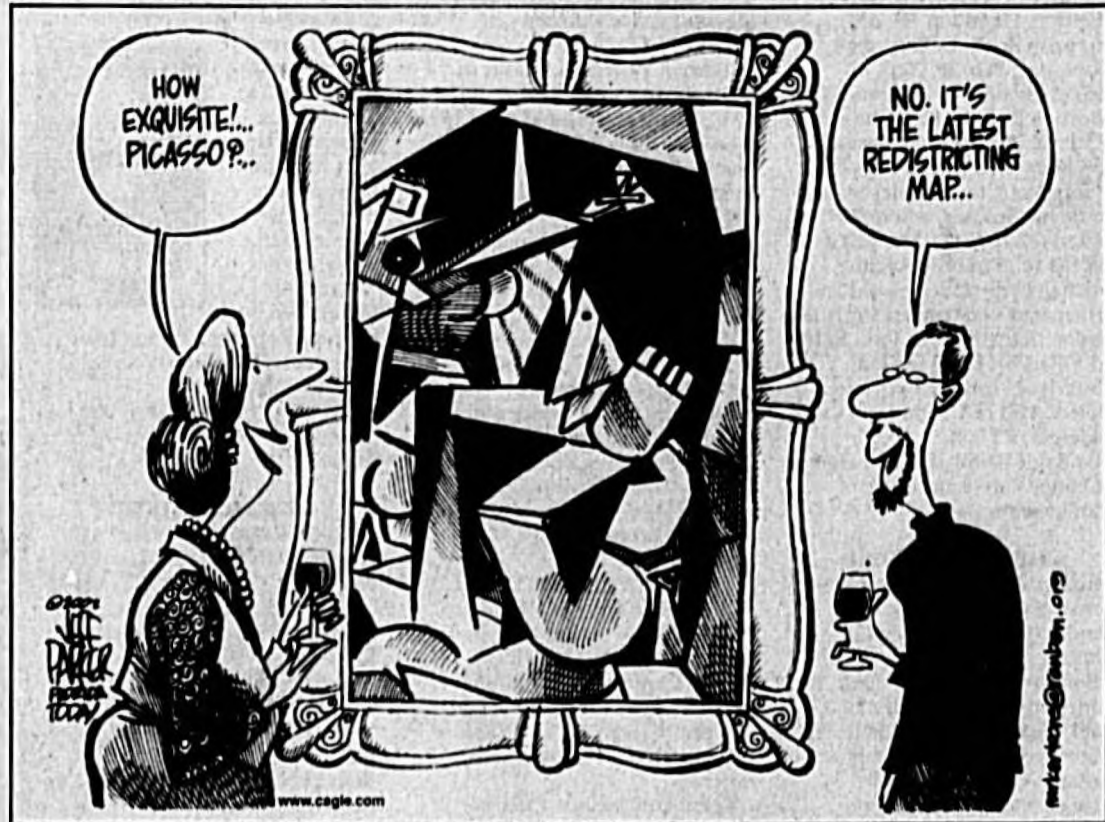

While the Parenting Labs provide a much needed service to a wide cross-section of the community—from parents who struggle to make ends meet to those who have abundant finances—the program is in jeopardy. Expansion at Seminole Community College will result in the destruction of the portable classrooms used by the Parenting Labs. After April 1, the program will terminate unless another space is found.

It's not as easy as leasing vacate space. While the program's meager $36,000 annual budget is covered through the $70 per six weeks tuition, there's no money for rent. Raising tuition is not a viable option because it eliminates parents who already struggle to pay.

Perhaps those politicians who talk about the importance of education can find a way to help this most basic of learning programs. Want to knock out the illiteracy rate? Then fund a program that gives kids a jump on reading skills before they enter kindergarten. Frustrated with child and family services programs that struggle to find solutions to dysfunctional family problems? Then support a program that offers important parenting skills that address problems before they occur.

Good parenting does not guarantee 100 percent success. Humans are fallible. Parents and children sometimes make poor educational and/or life choices despite the best efforts of society. But parents should have the opportunity to learn solid child-rearing skills that give them, and their kids, the best chance for success. The Parenting Labs provide that opportunity, and community leaders would be wise to lend O'Connell and Ray a hand to continue their innovative program.

If you're interested, contact O'Connell or Ray at 407-328-4722 ext. 3378, or 407-923-1349.

Raborn offers suggestion for proposed center

To the editor: Congratulations to the city of Sanford's and the county of Seminole's elected officials on their recent decision to not build and finance a hotel on a proposed location in downtown Sanford on part of Ft. Mellon Park.

A much needed conference center seems like a reasonable compromise, financed by the tourist tax collections. Increasing the tourist tax from 3 cents to 4 cents should be a viable answer to financing the same.

A suggestion: why not build a conference center on property bounded on the north by the lake front, on the south by 1st Street, on the east by Sanford Avenue and on the west by Palmetto Avenue? This would preserve the much needed and heavily used Civic Center, as well as the Chamber of Commerce Building and the Sanford Tourist Association area! Much of this property is vacant and unused and part of it includes the soon to be vacated Post Office.

This new facility in downtown would greatly enhance the vitality of the lake front area and bring in outsiders to see and shop in our beautiful historic city.

This should also unite the community by eliminating the controversial decision made by the City Commission some years ago to use part of Ft. Mellon Park for commercial development.

Business owners, tourism directors, lake front activities, Ft. Mellon Park users and everyone in the area can take greater pride in downtown Sanford with this new conference center facility!

Afghan claims of civilian deaths deserve investigation

"It is well that war is so terrible — lest we should grow too fond of it." — Robert E. Lee, 1862

"You cannot qualify war in harsher terms than I will. War is cruelty; and you cannot refine it." — William Westerman, 1864

As the campaign against terror began in Afghanistan, Donald Rumsfeld's plainspoken frankness about the essential business of war — annihilating the enemy — was refreshing. Like Colin Powell a decade earlier, the secretary of defense was boldly on point when speaking about what American bomber pilots and ground commandos were up to: eliminating al-Qaida and its Taliban defenders.

But Rumsfeld's highly touted candor has deserted him lately as he has been faced with questions about the possibility — indeed, the likelihood — that American defense forces mistakenly caused hundreds, possibly thousands, of civilian deaths in Afghanistan. Even as the Pentagon has reluctantly opened investigations into one or two of the incidents, Rumsfeld and other military spokesmen are dismissing most reports of civilian casualties as anti-U.S. propaganda.

Cynthia Tucker

Just last week, a spokesman for U.S. Central Command bellowed to the Pentagon line in response to credible reports of civilian deaths, including those of 17 children, in a bombing raid on the village of Thorai on Oct. 21.

"We can confirm that the (Taliban command) facility that we struck was the only thing that we hit," the spokesman said.

Yet villagers have given American news organizations a very different account. They described panicked attempts to flee their homes in Thorai — near the Taliban stronghold of Tirin Kot — as bombs started to fall. They loaded families onto a trailer, hitched it to a tractor and set off in the dark. But they didn't make it very far before a missile hit the front of the trailer, leaving bodies bloodied and torn asunder.

Survivors claim 21 civilians were killed.

Then there is the Dec. 20 American air strike on a convoy in the province of Paktia, which killed as many as 60 people. While the Pentagon has insisted that the vehicles were carrying Taliban leaders, survivors say the convoy was headed toward Kabul, taking tribal elders to attend the inauguration of the American-backed interim president, Hamid Karzai. Karzai himself has said the air strike may have killed U.S. allies rather than enemies.

There are other credible reports of bombs gone awry or soldiers mistakenly attacking civilians or allies. William H. Arkin, a former Army intelligence analyst who is a military adviser to Human Rights Watch, told The New York Times that he knows of about 300 reported incidents, and "I'd say about a third involve some civilian casualties that would be worth taking a second look at."

So why is the Pentagon stonewalling?

Admitting that U.S. military errors may have resulted in the deaths of innocents would not compromise our war on terrorism or taint our victory over the Taliban. Indeed, it is still true that the vast majority of Afghans are far better off for our efforts: They have been liberated from the vicious yoke of the Taliban, and their country stands to gain a stability it has not known in decades.

If the United States is to keep the moral high ground in the war on terrorism, we need to investigate credible reports of civilian deaths caused by our military forces and make the findings public. It is most likely that casualties to civilians or allies were the result of honest mistakes — errant technology or faulty intelligence. In some cases, for example, it seems likely that American pilots and commandos have been deliberately misled into targeting an anti-Taliban force by a rival anti-Taliban force.

The Pentagon doesn't give Americans enough credit for maturity or realism. We know that innocents are sometimes the casualties of the fog of war. But must those deaths also be shrouded in the miasma of denial and deceit?

Suddenly the democrats seem once again to be alive

You could begin to hear the sounds of drums along the Potomac last week. Democratic drums. The silence of the lamblike opposition, eerie since the events of Sept. 11 of last year, is ending for many reasons, time and the smell of scandal among them.

It is a cautious rising so far. But it is based on more than just the probability that the let-the-employees-be-damned maneuvering of Enron executives will hurt

Republicans and the philosophy of trusting deregulation far more than any Democrats. Washington simply seems less like a war capital and more like the old town of politics as usual.

There are, of course, congressional elections coming up, and the Democrats have to come up with something. The greed and sleaziness of Enron, and the possibility other deregulated corporate high rollers will be exposed, may dominate the news in the months ahead — unless there is new terrorism on American soil to vindicate the daily threats reported by the Justice Department.

But the real threat that is bringing Democrats out of the woods and woodwork is the Bush budget. Liberals and moderates, too, have to respond to President Bush's attempts to push a Reaganist agenda, unbalancing the federal budget big time on the backs of the folks at home while the military searches the globe for evil — cells this time, rather than empires. And both Democrats and the press, which has been kept away from the action again, will respond to indications that there are, as always in wars big and small, atrocities being committed by mistake and maybe on purpose, too.

A 2002 Democratic campaign is building around the growing fear of the aging baby boomers. The baby boomer time bomb is likely to be the Democratic issue of choice — and necessity. The oldest boomers will turn 56 or 57 this year. But one of them, the president himself, must defend himself against being seen as dipping into the boomers' sacred Social Security funds to build little weapons to use against potential terrorists and big ones to guard against the missiles of North Korea and Iraq and Iran, countries whose power seems to be multiplying each day in the briefing rooms of the White House and the Pentagon. And he may have to defend the fact that there are darned few private pensions left for American workers as corporations have used trickery, mergers, downsizing and 401(k) plans to strip workers of the money being saved for their old age.

This is big stuff — again, if the fear of terrorism wanes. A little more than 30 years ago, a Republican president, Richard Nixon, said he knew the dirtiest little secret of the war in Vietnam: If the public ever realized that many, many Democrats really wanted the United States to lose, then the Democrats would be out of power for generations — if they survived at all.

The dirty little secret now goes the other way: Terrorism is the base of Republican dominance. I doubt there are Republicans hoping for more, but there are some who know new incidents would secure their electoral futures.

Despite his unprecedented poll ratings at the moment, President Bush is already seen as being vulnerable when he runs for re-election in 2004. That is why North Carolina senator John Edwards, a Democrat, whose name recognition barely reaches beyond Chapel Hill and the offices of political consultants and corporate lobbyists, was in New Hampshire earlier this month. Edwards' shiny good looks are not the only reason his name is being spoken of with anticipation in the party; his current anonymity is his strength. He could give the party a fresh look three years from now if George Bush is seen as a man who did his best abroad but sold out his own generation at home.

Who knows? Edwards is one of at least seven Democrats who are already getting ready for 2004. The others on that list so far would include Al Gore, senators Joe Lieberman of Connecticut, Majority Leader Tom Daschle of South Dakota and John Kerry of Massachusetts, House Minority Leader Richard Gephardt of Missouri and Gov. Grey Davis of California.

The Potomac knows. Hope springs eternal in Democratic breasts that the world will return to normal. That old man politics, he just keeps rolling along.

Teen reader offers guidelines for all you moms and dads

DEAR ABBY: Over the years, you have advised many people — mothers-in-law and so on. But I have never seen advice for parents. I am a 13-year-old reader who has decided to write my own set of "guidelines" for moms and dads. Here goes:

(1) Don't expect your kids to like the same things you do.

(2) Tell your kids you love them every day.

(3) When your kids do something wrong, don't keep reminding them. Chances are they feel bad enough already.

(4) Remember, you weren't perfect when you were growing up. Don't expect your kids to be.

(5) If you have more than one kid, don't compare them. They are completely different people.

(6) Be patient with your kids. They're just learning.

(7) If something goes wrong, don't blame it on them. It isn't always their fault.

(8) Surprise your kids sometimes — even if it's something little.

(9) Accept that your kids are getting older. They can't always be 5 years old.

(10) Don't fight in front of your kids. (That should be a no-brainer.)

(11) Don't assume that you know what your kids are thinking.

Thanks for letting me contribute to the column, Abby. —

13-YEAR-OLD

DEAR 13-YEAR-OLD: You're welcome. If you were older, you would have seen the following "commandments" that first appeared in my column in 1981 (!). They clearly address the subject of parenting:

A CHILD'S TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR PARENTS

by Dr. Kevin Leman

(1) My hands are small; please don't expect perfection whenever I make a bed, draw a picture or throw a ball. My legs are short; please slow down so that I can keep up with you.

(2) My eyes have not seen the world as yours have; please let me explore safely. Don't restrict me unnecessarily.

(3) Housework will always be there. I'm little for only a short time — please take time to explain things to me about this wonderful world, and do so willingly.

(4) My feelings are tender; please be sensitive to my needs. Don't nag me all day long. (You wouldn't want to be nagged for your inquisitiveness.) Treat me as you would like to be treated.

(5) I am a special gift from God; please treasure me as God intended you to do, holding me accountable for my actions, giving me guidelines to live by and disciplining me in a loving manner.

(6) I need your encouragement to grow. Please go easy on the criticism; remember, you can criticize the things I do without criticizing me.

(7) Please give me the freedom to make decisions concerning myself. Permit me to fail so that I can learn from my mistakes. Then someday I'll be prepared to make the kind of decisions life requires of me.

(8) Please don't do things over for me. Somehow that makes me feel that my efforts didn't quite measure up to your expectations. I know it's hard, but please don't try to compare me with my brother or sister.

(9) Please don't be afraid to leave for a weekend together. Kids need vacations from parents, just as parents need vacations from kids. Besides, it's a great way to show us kids that your marriage is very special.

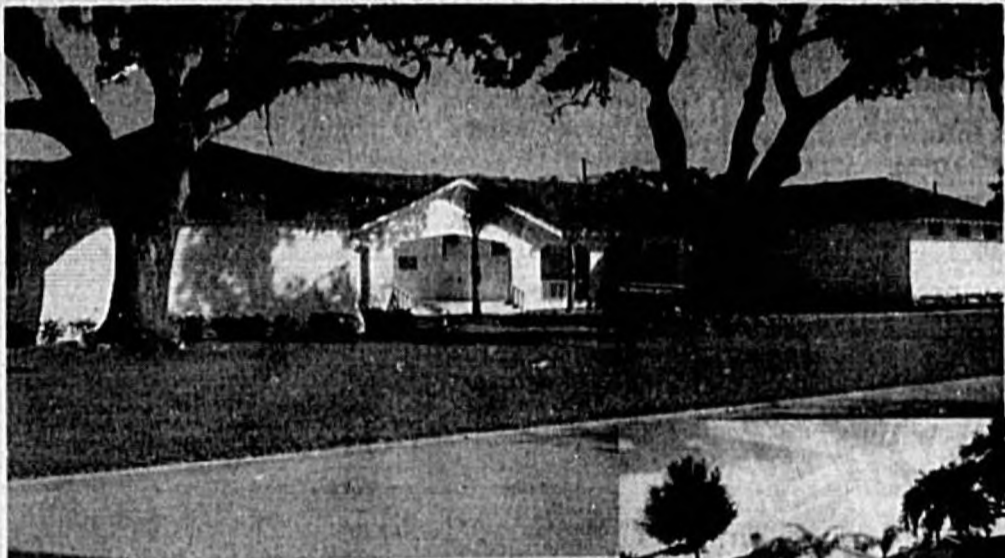

(10) Please take me to Sunday school and church regularly, setting a good example for me to follow. I enjoy learning more about God.

Teacher

you need her."

Fellow senior Eric Horbal, who was one of several students to give Bonjione a rose following the announcement, agreed with Ockesha.

"She's more than a teacher, she's a friend," Horbal said. "She's always willing to stay after school to help you."

According to Seminole County Schools Superintendent Paul Hagerly, Bonjione was selected for Teacher of the Year after each Seminole school nominated one individual as a candidate for the recognition. A selection committee narrowed the candidate list down to 10 teachers and then visited each of their classrooms for evaluation.

Thursday's announcement was a complete surprise to Bonjione, who had tears in her eyes while accepting a balloon and flowers from friends, family and co-workers during the afternoon presentation.

"This was totally unexpected," she said. "I thought the Teacher of the Year had already been selected and it wasn't me."

"I want to thank everyone," she said. "But, most of all the kids. They are the ones who make this job worthwhile."

Bonjione, a 29-year teaching veteran, has taught English, humanities, art history, advanced placement and International Baccalaureate courses during her career. Her first 26 years were at Lyman High School and the last four at Seminole High School.

Seminole County School Board member Dede Schaffner was present during Thursday's Teacher of the Year announcement. She was not only at the school representing the Board, but also as a parent of three Seminole students who were taught by Bonjione.

"She is one of those teachers you never forget," Schaffner said. "She is an awesome teacher that has touched so many lives. The school system is lucky to have her."

According to Seminole High School Principal Karen Coleman, Bonjione's dedication to education extends outside the classroom. Four years ago, the teacher organized a school-wide after-school tutoring program where student and teacher volunteers work two afternoons a week with 30 to 50 students. Under her leadership, the school's National Honor Society has increased from 80 to more than 300 students.

"She is a superior and exceptional teacher," Coleman said. "She makes her classroom come alive."

"She also reaches out to the entire student body," Coleman said. "She is one of those people who is involved in every facet of our program."

Teacher of the Year is not the first honor bestowed on Bonjione. She was a winner of the Disney Teacherrific Award in 2001 and a Princeton University National Endowment for the Humanities participant in 1992. She has also served as a reader, a judge and a writer for the state and national brain bowl tournaments.

Bonjione is also known for encouraging her students to become active within the community. Her students have served breakfast at Orlando's Feed the Soul, donated toys to children in Central Florida Regional Hospital, provided treats to patients/staff in health-care facilities, sponsored a "Senior Prom" for residents at a local nursing home and collected support letters for the rescue workers involved in the Sept. 11 tragedy.

Her community efforts have not gone unrecognized by local officials.

"Recently, I had the occasion to talk with Ms. Bonjione," Sanford Police Chief Brian Tooley said. "I was impressed by her commitment to her students and her dedication to teaching. Talking to her, you get the sense that she relishes being a teacher and the love she has for her students."

Bonjione is now Seminole County's candidate for the state's Teacher of the Year program. And, Principal Coleman, Seminole County's only Florida Teacher of the Year, believes a state evaluation committee will soon be appearing in Sanford.

"The teachers in Seminole are all great teachers," Coleman said. "This program selects an outstanding person to represent all those great teachers."

"And, my prediction is we will have a state committee here," she said. "We will have another state Teacher of the Year."

Principals of the Year announced

The Seminole County Public Schools announced that Sharon Tanner of Midway Elementary; Jim Shupe of Lawton Chiles Middle; and Sam Momary of Lyman High, have been selected as Principals of the Year.

The superintendent and board members congratulated them at the monthly principals' meeting that was held at the Educational Support Center. The Foundation for Seminole County Public Schools presented each winner with a check for $100 and a plaque.

Prior to becoming principal of Midway, Sharon Tanner was principal for 10 years at two Orange County Schools. Midway Elementary is the Fine Arts Cluster Magnet School located in Sanford. Last year Midway was recognized for having the most improved FCAT reading scores in the district.

Jim Shupe was principal of Lakeview/Millennium Middle School prior to coming to Lawton Chiles. Shup has published several articles in the National Association for Secondary Principals Bulletin.

Prior to becoming a principal, Sam Momary served as an assistant principal at Lake Howell High and Lake Brantley High. The 29-year education veteran has served as the president of the Seminole County Public Schools Administrator Association.

The three principals will represent the school district in the 2002 Florida Principal of the Year Program.

Capture

ed a day before alerting the public of the mistake.

After working through the night, the sheriff's office released the mistake to the public. Additional information and tips became available, and Thursday authorities learned Roman purchased a white Grand marquis from an Orange County used car dealer. Several tips Friday also led deputies to Roman's Longwood motel room and eventually his return to a Seminole jail cell.

Human Error

The mistaken release was the result of human error, said Diggs.

Seminole Circuit Judge O.H. Eaton Jr. granted a new trial Feb. 1 in Roman's case of attempted murder after witness Jose Guzman refused to testify. Jail officials received paper work from the clerk of the court office, citing the witness for contempt of court for refusing to testify.

Guzman, who was already in the jail on other charges, faced no additional time for the contempt of court charge because of time already served. A jail clerk, however, misinterpreted the information to be Roman instead of Guzman.

Jail officials even checked with Orange County before releasing Roman, but they had no further holds on him because he was already sentenced to prison, according to Olson.

"We can learn from this and get better," Diggs said.

Other than internal changes, Diggs said the clerk of the courts office has agreed to make the paper work more clear in the future.

It's Not the First Time

"In the last three years, we've done that 12 times, but in that time we've released 54,000 without incident," Diggs said.

In 1998, a series of mistaken jail releases triggered changes at the facility. Four new lieutenants were hired to provide 24-hour supervision at the jail booking office, said Diggs. A four-step process of approving jail releases was also created. It involved a clerk, a quality-assurance civilian, a booking sergeant and then a final check from the lieutenant.

"In this case, all four approved the decision that turned out to be a bad one," Diggs said. "Every time we have one of these things we find something new."

Although the jail's margin of error over the last three years is less than one percent, Diggs said those mistakes are unacceptable. He said an independent study "from outside the system" will help in reevaluating the jail's release process.

Stabbing

Stanley was conscious and responsive. The Sanford Fire Department helped transport him to the State Farmer's Market parking lot at the corner of 13th Street and U.S. Highway 17/92. The jointly owned county and sheriff's office Air Rescue 3 helicopter transported him from the parking lot to Orlando Regional Medical Center.

According to hospital officials, Stanley arrived at approximately 11 p.m. and was treated and released an hour later. The investigation into the attempted murder case is continuing, Cohen said.

Sheriff's office asking community to help find armed robbery suspect

The Seminole County Sheriff's Office is releasing an artist's drawing of a suspect in the Jan. 16 armed robbery at the Southwest Food Market, located at 1920 Southwest Road, Sanford.

Store clerk Ki Dong Kim, 24, was shot in the head with a shotgun during the robbery. He is still recovering from his injuries.

It's believed that at least two suspects were involved in the robbery. The suspect pictured in the artist drawing is described as a black male, about 20 years old, 5'8" tall, with a medium build. The information comes from witnesses.

Anybody with information about this robbery is asked to call Crime Line at 1-800-423-TIPS, or SCSO Investigator Bob Jaynes at 407-665-6965.

Motorist tries to run over officer, causes crash

By Christopher Patton

SANFORD — Police arrested 18-year-old Cedrick Barriner after he reportedly tried to run over an officer and then caused a crash sending one innocent bystander to the hospital.

While conducting traffic control at Seminole High School Tuesday afternoon, Sanford Officer Nigel Price said he noticed a red Plymouth vehicle enter the front entrance of the school. With a smashed out back window and a nervous driver, Price curiously checked the vehicle's tag number through police dispatch.

Dispatch alerted Price that the vehicle was reported stolen, but by then the car had left the officer's sight. While searching the school grounds, Price saw the vehicle in the west parking lot of the school.

Exiting his patrol car, Price approached the stolen vehicle. Barriner accelerated toward the officer.

Price managed to side step the speeding car. In his haste to get away from police, Barriner ran a red light at 27th Street and U.S. Highway 17/92.

A car is reduced to a heap of scrap metal because an alleged car thief smashed it while trying to elude police.

He lost control of the vehicle as he sideswiped a white Geo Tracker and slammed into a white truck stopped in the northbound lane. A short foot pursuit followed as Barriner refused to be arrested.

He was charged with four counts of hit and run, reckless driving, driving without a license, aggravated assault on a police officer with a motor vehicle, grand theft auto and resisting an officer with violence. A juvenile passenger was also charged by police.

Former owner of Snow's dies at 75

Native entrepreneur Wesley Wright Jr., 75, died Monday, Feb. 18, in Orlando Regional Medical Center.

Wright was born Jan. 2, 1927, in Monticello, Fla., to the late Wesley Wright Sr. and Margaret Lamar Wright.

Wright

After moving to Sanford, his parents enrolled him and his brothers in the public schools of Seminole County. In June 1946, Wright graduated from Crooms Academy.

Taught how to be a business-minded person while growing up and as a young man, Wright desired to be an entrepreneur. He had the opportunity to be nurtured in the business world by Joe Moss and jewelry store manager Mr. Stine. Eventually, Wright opened his own business, "Snow's Restaurant." This venture allowed him to employ many youth, students and citizens of the Sanford community, which added to the success of his business. People from other states and all walks of life would come to Snow's, which was located at 1006 W. 13th Street.

After great success and having a deep religious conviction and love for his family, he closed the restaurant and moved to Hyannis, Mass., in 1965 to be with his brother, Willie Wright, who worked in the tourist town. After Willie's demise, Wesley decided to remain in Hyannis with the "best yet to come." He met and married Deloris "Dee," who had been his loving companion and devoted wife for 35 years.

While in Hyannis, he also landed a rewarding career with Citizens Bank of Cape Cod. Because of his dedication to his job, he received many honors and awards. He was an active member of Zion Union Church, where he was head deacon, devotional leader and a member of Council of Doers of Cape Cod, a group of retirees who met to just enjoy life. For 12 years, he participated in the yearly walk of Cape Cod, which raised thousands of dollars for the welfare of the homeless.

During his years living in Massachusetts, his love for his hometown of Sanford never ceased. He and Dee would visit quite often, usually twice per year. A love of writing the family and friends in Sanford, many recall receiving beautiful letters, cards and pictures. From time to time, he would reach out and touch someone with a phone call.

"I am reminded of many cards, letters and words of encouragement spoken to me by Snow," said Sanford City Commissioner Velma Williams. "He will be greatly missed."

"Snow," as he was affectionately called by the Sanfordites, chose to remain an active contributing member of Trinity United Methodist Church of Sanford. He also financially supported Celery City Lodge No. 542 I.B.P.O.E.W., Evergreen Lodge No. 23 Free and Accepted Masons.

After 29 years of service to the bank, Wright returned to Central Florida to "pick up where he left off." After getting settled in, he resumed his religious and civic memberships with a humble and friendly demeanor — helping all he could and making friends feel special. A role model for many young men, his infectious smile and encouragement will never be forgotten. His favorite quote was "God is good all the time and all the time God is good."

"I knew Wesley as a Christian hearted man who would never do you any harm to anyone and was always willing to help his fellow man," said Rufus McClain, financial secretary of Celery City Lodge No. 542.

A wake a viewing for Wright was 7 to 9 p.m. Friday, Feb. 22, at Trinity United Methodist Church, with the Rev. Dr. Eddie J. Rivers officiating. A memorial service will be held noon Saturday, Feb. 23, in Calvary Temple of Praise in Sanford, where his nephew, Paul P. Wright is senior pastor.

Survivors include his wife, Deloris P. Wright of Orlando; two sons, Johnny Wright of Orlando and Earl Knight of Sanford; four daughters, Linda Davis of DeBary, Beverly Godfrey and Cheryl Lee, both of Sanford and Debra Turner of Pittsburg, Calif.; four brothers, Roosevelt Wright of Brooklyn, N.Y., Robert Smith of Daytona Beach, William Wright of Omaha, Neb., and Eddie Wright of Sanford; 16 grandchildren; and eight great grandchildren.

Scenes from Salt Lake City

Editor's Note: Renzie Davidson, fire marshal for the city of Casselberry, is in Salt Lake City for the Olympic Winter Games. Davidson is one of three fire marshals from Seminole County volunteering at the Games. He has agreed to keep a journal for the Herald of his time in Salt Lake.

Special to the Herald

SALT LAKE CITY — Sorry I

haven't gotten back with Herald. I've been sick for the last few days. I mean sick — down and out in the bed.

My fever finally broke this morning, and now I'm reading my mail in the fire prevention headquarters.

Yesterday I worked at the UOP jump, which was the fire part of the Nordic Combined. It's amazing how those guys can jump so high and land without breaking something or killing themselves.

It's been quite an experience, but I'm glad it's almost over and I will be back in the warm Florida sunshine. This is a great place to visit but only to visit. I'll have to try it in the summer and see how pretty it is green.

Wednesday night it started to snow and blow very hard at 6:30 p.m., so we all took off early and went to Pizza Hut for dinner then ended our day early.

More Later, Renzie.

King's Auto Service: It Pays To Love What You Do

Do you need automotive repairs from a trusted name in Seminole County? Then look no further than King's Auto Service. King's first opened for business in 1968 and has built a reputation of honest work and good value.

But just because King's Auto Service was established in 1968 don't think for a minute that they haven't kept up with the ever-changing world of automotive repairs. In fact, the staff of King's is some of the most educated and up-to-date in all of Seminole County.

That's because owner Craig Smith has committed himself to the business and to keeping his people well trained.

"Training is a very important part of today's auto repair business," Smith said.

"Keeping current information on hand and investing in the best quality equipment to use in repairs helps us to keep our labor costs down and provide prompt, guaranteed service."

All of this is possible because Smith honestly loves what he does and he loves where he does it. It's hard to run a business for 31 years and not love what you do and grow attached to the area in which you do it.

"I have had a love for cars for as long as I can remember. Actually, I've always been interested in anything mechanical," Smith explained. "I also love Longwood. It's a wonderful town with great people and a wonderful history."

Through the years, Smith's dedication to increased training and education has allowed his business to become nationally recognized by ASE for master auto tech, master collision tech and H.D. truck tech. King's Auto Repair is also Chrysler and Ford Motor Company certified.

Every car deserves the attention and dedication given at King's Auto Service. It's worth the trip to Longwood. For more information, call 699-0778.

Hittman

Hittman said. Before Sept. 11, the most in one day was in 1966 when a building collapsed killing 12 firefighters.

"Each will be remembered for their sacrifice. Above all else, the fire department is a family," Hittman said. "A family that saves lives at no cost."

"With the loss of 343 firefighters, we take some comfort not a single one died in vain," Hittman said.

Despite the heavy losses within the ranks, the fire department orchestrated the single most successful rescue mission in history - saving more than 20,000 lives, he said.

Shortly after the twin towers collapsed, casualty estimates for missing firefighters was about 200.

"I think we all knew in our hearts it would be higher," Hittman said. "No one would stay home."

Some fire halls brought both companies because one wouldn't stay back and other firefighters came straight from home, he said. The average response time of the fire department is four minutes. Within 10 minutes five ladder trucks and 14 engines were ready to begin the rescue mission. "What few people know is Mayor Guilliani was only minutes away from being killed," Hittman said. "He left the command center just minutes before it collapsed and killed everyone inside."

The terrorist assault on the 16-acre complex resulted in the collapse of 300 floors and seven different buildings. Hittman was in one of those command centers when "arguably the most valuable real estate on the planet was devastated." He has a personal story for that day, but he keeps most of it to himself.

"I don't like to talk about that," Hittman said. "After the first building collapsed it was a free for all." He sought shelter underneath a fire truck and "it's as simple as that," he said.

Many firefighters still bear the pain and anguish of Sept. 11 as today almost 1,000 personnel are on leave or light duty, he said. Replacing lost leaders started as soon as Sept. 16 when 171 people were promoted - five of who were missing.

Over the next several months, the department would hire more than 300 firefighters, train nearly 12,000 and give medical exams to 8,000. In addition to replacing firefighters, the department was also faced with the loss of more than 100 vehicles: 18 engines, 15 ladder trucks, two hazardous materials and two rescue trucks.

Another little known fact, Hittman said was for several days after Sept. 11 a 1,000-mile shoreline of New York and New Jersey had zero fire protection.

To prevent another devastating high-rise collapse, more efforts will have to be made in building codes, Hittman said.

"The World Trade Center was totally different in design than other buildings," Hittman said.

The exterior walls were the load bearers and when the planes took out 5 to 10 floors, it created a "pancake collapse." The lightweight trust construction is "building more with less," he said. He illustrated his point by comparing the concrete to steel ratio in the World Trade Center, which is 40 to 60, to the 60-40 ratio of the Empire State Building.

Despite the great losses, Hittman said firefighters have become an "international symbol of strength and leadership."

"You don't have to go to the movies to find a hero or turn on the television," he said. "They're down the road at the firehouse."

Luncheon

ment. "I always wanted to live in an old church, fire house or school," Farrell said.

Farrell has a deeper connection to the firefighters than just her building. Her grandfather was a firefighter with the New York City Fire Department.

"I consider this building a gift and part of the city's heritage," Farrell said. "I love having these guys here and listening to all their stories."

The retired firefighters enjoyed seeing their old living quarters. Sharing a meal of chili and rice, the men sat around a table made from baseboards of the original building and remembered their days at the station.

"One time we took some roped and tied this one guy to his bed while he slept," Hardy recalled. "then we sounded the alarm. You should have seen him trying to get out of that bed!"

Lt. Ed Brooklyn, who retired in 1986, marveled at how small the building looked after all these years.

"I don't know how we ever got all our equipment in here," he said.

"Up here in the dormitory, the walls were paneled, and we had a drop-in ceiling," Brooklyn said looking at the exposed brick walls. "This place has a lot of memories."

Brooklyn also remembers the poles the firefighters used to quickly descend to the first floor whenever the alarm sounded.

"The trick was not to grab the pole with your hands," he said. "What you wanted to do was cradle the pole in the crook of your elbow and wrap one leg around it. You didn't burn your hands up that way, and you could also slide down the pole faster."

The poles are no longer in the building, though Farrell has formed the second-floor floor boards so you can still see where the octagon hole was cut. The same shape is recessed into the first floor ceiling.

"I'd love to put the pole back up if someone would tell me where I can find one," Farrell said.

Retired Chief William C. Gailey served 33 years and 4 months in the department. He was working at the Tip Top grocery store on Sanford Avenue and 4th Street before he joined the department. Although he had an offer to manage the store, and later was recruited to sell cars full-time at the Lincoln dealership, he stayed with the department for job security.

"It was my meal ticket," Gailey said. "I knew there was always going to be a job fighting fires."

While there were plenty of good times to remember, the trip down memory lane wasn't without sadness. Many of the firefighters at the luncheon responded to a call at the downtown pet store in 1979 that killed one of their brothers.

"Lt. Price and Ed Brooklyn were working the line when the wall collapsed," Gailey said. "Price was off duty at the time, but he responded anyway. His brother-in-law Joe Morgan owned the pet store."

Brooklyn remembers trying to warn Price of the falling wall.

"We were next to each other, and I just happen to look up as the wall started to collapse," Brooklyn said. "I yelled 'Get out of here!' I turned to run and took a giant step away. The wall came down and hit me on the legs and back. It covered Price up."

Despite his injuries, Brooklyn said he enjoyed serving as a firefighter.

"We had some good men in the department and it was an honor to be a part of the department," Brooklyn said.

Any retired firefighters interested in attending the monthly luncheons should contact Deputy Chief Jerry Ransom at 407-302-2517 or by e-mail at ransomj@cl.sanford.fl.us.

investment in downtown," Frith said.

Though she's only been on the job since January, Frith won praise from members of the community. Membership has increased by more than one a day during her tenure and volunteer hours have spiked in recent weeks.

"In six weeks, Main Street has come to a level of recognition that hasn't been accomplished in the 11 years of the organization," said Main Street President Bob Kuhn. "The success of Main Street is so important to the city because we can help accomplish the dreams of the mayor, the city commission and the city manager."

One of Main Street's goals is to complete a market analysis of downtown that will guide the organization as it completes its four-point mission. Frith announced that Robert Prescott, executive director of the Bush Executive Center at Rollins College Crummer Graduate School of Business, has agreed to partner with Main Street to complete the analysis and provide ongoing technical support.

"It's really a return of Rollins College to Sanford," Frith said, noting that the school was incorporated at the corner of Park Avenue and 1st Street, the heart of downtown Sanford.

Main Street has also formed a partnership with Edward Schons, director of university economic development at the University of Central Florida, Frith said.

"This is an exciting time for Sanford and Main Street is a part of that," said Sanford Mayor Brady Lessard. "For years the rest of Central Florida has looked at Sanford as kind of the

Rams, Bears girls romp

LAKE MARY — It was an exciting game. For all of about 12 minutes.

At the end of the first period of Tuesday night's Class 6A-Region 1 Semifinal with Boone, host Lake Mary was leading just 7-6 and center Jackie Beik was on the bench with two fouls.

But the No. 1 state ranked Rams turned up the defensive pressure and forced several turnovers as they scored the first eight points of the second quarter and took the Braves right out of the game.

So dominant was the Lake Mary defense that it did not allow Boone to score in the second period until Jack Williams hit a free throw with 5:42 left before halftime and no field goals until Williams hit a jumper with 3:41 remaining in the quarter.

The Rams built a 29-9 lead before the Braves scored the final four points of the half to trail 29-13 lead at intermission. Boone never really threatened again as the hosts rolled to a 63-33 victory.

"I'm so proud of the girls," said Lake Mary head coach Carl Brown. "They really came focussed and ready to play tonight. I don't think they have ever been more ready before a game."

With the win the Rams improved to 32-0 and will travel to Apopka to take on the Blue Darters for a trip to state tonight (Saturday) at 7:30 p.m. Apopka (26-6) rallied past Oviedo, 55-52, in the other Region 1 Semifinal Tuesday.

The other Seminole Athletic Conference team left in the tournament, Winter Springs, moved with a victory of its fourth consecutive trip to the Final Four with a surprisingly easy, 60-30, thumping of Plant City-Durant in a Class 5A-Region 3 Semifinal.

The Bears (27-4) held the Cougars (18-8) to only eight second half points, none in the fourth quarter, and will challenge Mainland (24-3) in the Regional Final tonight in Daytona Beach starting at 7:30 p.m.

"I think the tough schedule we have played has really helped," said Brown. "Playing the two teams we did in Sarasota (state-ranked Sarasota and Riverview high schools) showed us we could play with anyone. Those two teams were really good."

After another poor shooting first half (10-for-27), Lake Mary did a great job of running its offense in the second half and getting the ball inside to the big three of Beik, Alexa Kane and Meghan Chamberlain, who combined to make 10-of-13 in the final half.

All told, the Rams were 14-for-22 in the second half and held Boone to just 5-for-25 shooting in the final 16 minutes and 10-for-40 for the game.

Chamberlain had a huge night, going 7-for-10 from the floor and scoring 15 points. She also had nine OVIEDO — A nice first step. The Oviedo and Lake Howell boys basketball teams showed Thursday night in the Regional Quarterfinals that they belong in the FHSAA State Playoffs.

The Lions (26-5), who moved up to No. 1 in the final Class 6A State Poll this week, did what they failed to do against DeLand last week. Get off to a fast start.

Hosting District 1 runner-up Ed White from Jacksonville, Oviedo turned a 12-12 tie into a 28-12 lead and coasted to a 98-50 thrashing of the Commanders (14-17).

The Lions, who have not lost a regular season game in two years, will now host Boone, the defending Class 6A State Runners-up, in the 6A-Region 1 Semifinals Tuesday night starting at 7:30 p.m. The Braves (26-4) advanced with a 59-42 victory over West Orange (20-10).

The Silver Hawks (18-15) had to work a little harder to move on as they trailed Deltona (16-10) 20-11 after the first quarter. But the hosts outscored the Wolves 31-13 in the middle two periods and cruised to a 64-46 triumph. Lake Howell will host Durant High School from Plant City (25-5) in the Class 5A-Region 2 Quarterfinals, also on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Durant earned the matchup with a 66-55 victory over Tampa-Chamberlain (20-10).

Oviedo scored the final 10 points of the first quarter and the first six points of the second period and never looked back in taking a 51-25 lead into the lockerroom at halftime.

SANFORD — The impossible has happened.

Well, maybe not impossible, but certainly improbable.

Sophomore Chamesia Bailey came off the bench to key a rally as the Seminole Community College women's basketball team defeated Central Florida Community College from Ocala, 58-54, at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center Wednesday night.

The victory allowed the Raiders to reach a few milestones.

- Back-to-back Mid-Florida Conference Championships; their first two ever.

- Ran their conference unbeaten string to 16 in a row.

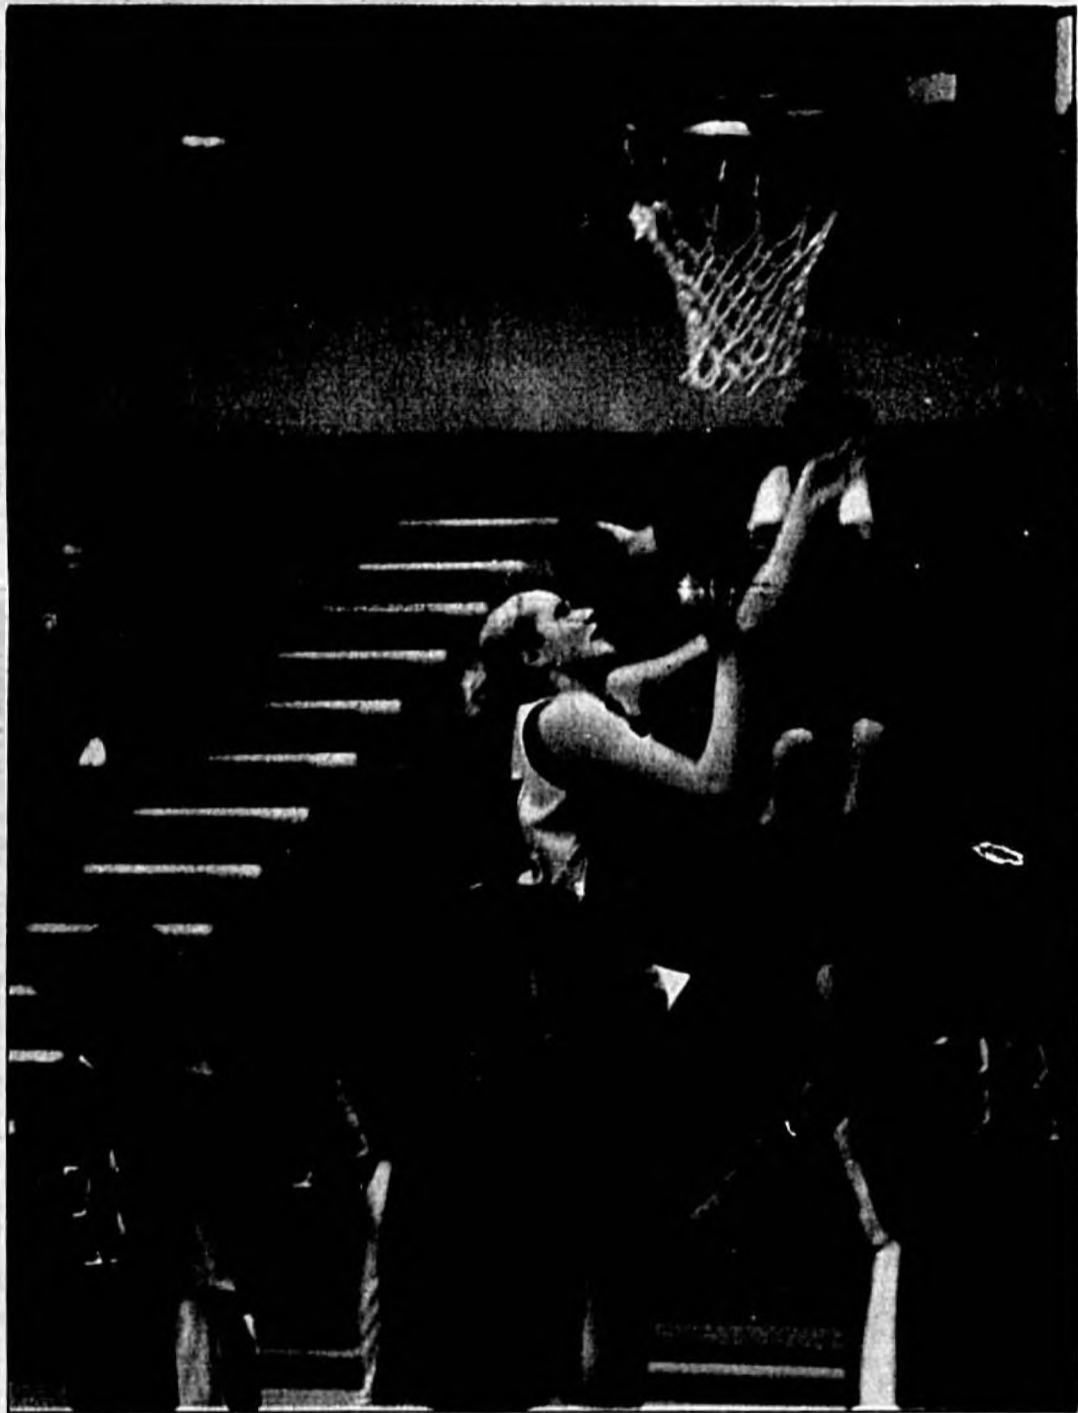

- Ran their current undefeated streak overall to 13 games.

- And gave them their 20th victory of the season.

SCC, now 20-8 overall and ranked 16th in this week's national poll, will have a couple of weeks off, not returning to the court until March 7th when they open play in the State Tournament at Chipola Community College in Marianna.

The Raiders will take on the third team from the Southern Conference (Brevard, Indian River, Miami-Dade, Broward and Palm Beach) in their opening game and if they win would probably face undefeated and No. 2 nationally

SCC men drop home finale, 75-64

SANFORD — Another game, the same story.

The Seminole Community College men's basketball team continued a troublesome trend Wednesday night as it played just well enough to lose a tough, 75-64, decision to Central Florida Community College from Ocala at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center.

The Raiders will wrap up Mid-Florida Conference play in Palatka tonight against St. Johns River Community College and former Winter Springs High School star Marcus Wiggins starting at 7:30 p.m.

Following the game, the Mid-Florida Conference Tournament schedule will be set at which time SCC will learn if it gets a home game or not.

Because of the physical nature and deliberate offensive style of a big Patriots squad, the game was very sloppily played on both sides of the ball.

CFCC, which moved past the Raiders into third place in the conference standings with the win, appeared to be in control of the game in the first half because of its domination of the backboards.

But with sophomores Jason Currington (14 points) and Chris Jackson (10 points) leading the way, SCC actually led 30-29 at halftime on a driving layup by Jackson.

But after scoring the first basket of the sec-

SANFORD — Brant Gazicki's two out, three-run home run in the bottom of the sixth inning broke a 3-3 tie as Seminole Community College defeated Brevard Community College 10-5 at Raider Field Wednesday afternoon.

The win broke a four-game losing streak for the Raiders, who now head on the road for a quick two-game trip with an 4-8 record.

SCC was to play state power's Indian River Community College and Manatee Community College Friday and today (Saturday), then return home for a double-header against the Community College of Baltimore County at Catonsville (Md.) on Monday starting at 1 p.m. Admission is free to Raiders fans.

SCC jumped on top Wednesday in the bottom of the first inning when Donnie Burkhalter reached second on a two-base error and scored on a double by Winter Springs' John Michael Howell. Howell then scored on a single by Sean Greear.

The Titans tied the game with single runs in the second and third innings before the Raiders regained the lead when Lyman's John Williamson singled and scored on a single by Gazicki.

BCC again tied the score in the top of the sixth inning, but SCC took the lead for good in the bottom of the frame.

With Tommy Solitario on first on a fielder's choice with two out, Williamson walked and Gazicki followed with his homer.

The Raiders put the game away in the bottom of the seventh inning as Tyson Malik walked ahead of Burkhalter's fifth home run of the season. An out later, Greear hit SCC's third home run of the game and the hosts were ahead 9-4.

Gazicki finished the day 3-for-4, adding a double to his single and home run, scored two runs and drove in four.

Also contributing to an 11-hit attack were Greear (3-for-4, home run, double, run scored, two RBI), Burkhalter (home run, two runs, two RBI), Howell (double, run, RBI), Williamson (single, two runs, Brian Machek and Dan Quattararo (one single each), and Solitario and Malik (one run scored each).

John Madden was the winning pitcher, allowing four runs, three earned, on seven hits, while striking out 10 and walking only one over the first seven innings. Zach McCann and Steve Reiss worked one inning each.

Kane finished 5-for-10 from the floor and scored 13 points, while Beik scored 11 points despite having an off night shooting, going just 5-for-13 from the floor.

Senior point guard Bryn Mosler also showed the savvy acquired from being a four-year starter, as she got inside the Boone defense and forced several fouls, which she converted into a 9-for-10 effort from the free throw line, and ended the night with 12 points. She also had a game-high six assists.

Winter Springs took advantage of its tournament experience and superior height to dismantle Durant.

Stetson signee and four-year starter Missy Guadagnino hit 5-of-8 shots from the floor to lead all scorers with 18 points, while University of South Alabama signee Jen Forst scored 17 points and pulled down nine rebounds.

Tasa Seibert also had a big night with 13 points as the 5-foot-8 forward combined with the 6-foot Forst to dominate the inside against Durant, whose tallest player was just 5-foot-8.

Sally Johnston chipped in with six points and six assists.

The Cougars scored four of the first six points of the second half to close to within nine points, 35-26, but Guadagnino hit a three-pointer to key a 13-2 run.

The Bears' defense held Durant to only four points and forced 13 turnovers the rest of the way and held the visitors to only three-for-21 shooting over the final 16 minutes.

Oviedo (24-8) held slim leads at the end of each of the first three quarters, including rallying to take a 35-34 lead at the end of the third period after being held to one point over the first three minutes of the quarter and falling behind 29-23.

The Lions managed to stay in the lead for much of the fourth period, but with the score tied at 44-44 and under three minutes to play, Ophelia McMath scored six of her team-high 16 points to give the Blue Darters a 50-44 lead and control of the game.

Sophomore Sis Lasauero scored a game-high 17 points for Oviedo, while sophomore Whitney Tossie added 12 points and freshman Kelly Lawton 10 points for the extremely young Lions.

If Winter Springs should win tonight, they would play in the State Semifinals at The Lakeland Center on Wednesday; while Lake Mary would play on Thursday with a win tonight.

CFCC (15-11, 3-5) came out smoking against a lethargic SCC team that seemed to be playing like it knew it was already in the state tournament.

The Patriots, who were ranked as high as No. 8 nationally earlier this season before a rash of injuries set in, did a great job of running their offense and getting the ball to their scorers.

Only three players from CFCC scored in the first half, but four of its seven field goals were from three-point range.

The Patriots' collapsing match-up zone defense also was giving the Raiders fits as 6-foot-4 Sadlo Sangare had several blocked shots and the double- and triple-teaming held SCC's normally high-scoring inside duo of Yelena Leuchanka and Brandi Davis to a combined 12 points and the visitors led 24-22 at halftime.

The early part of the second half was the same as CFCC's first three field goals came on three-point shots, while the Raiders continued to struggle with their shooting.

But Bailey, who suffered a severe cut on her lip in the first half, returned to the game with a bandage on her face and a different uniform and quickly turned the game around with her defense.

The 5-foot-9 guard from Jacksonville, who played at Gulf Coast last year, came up with three consecutive steals on defense that led to layups, and then hit a three-pointer that gave SCC the momentum.

With the crowd behind them, the Raiders started getting the ball inside to Leuchanka, who either scored on a layup, or got the ball to Gabby Blankenfeld cutting to the basket for layups.

After hitting the three "treys" to begin the half, the Patriots finally went cold and only made one more three-pointer the rest of the game.

Leuchanka, the 6-foot-5 freshman All-America candidate from Belarus, was the only SCC player to finish in double figures, scoring 15 points. She also pulled down 14 rebounds.

Bailey and Blankenfeld both scored all nine of their points in the second half, while Yo Johnson tallied seven points and Nattie Berggren, Ditte Jakobsen and Davis added six points each.

Sharon Moore scored a game-high 16 points for the Patriots, who had four players in double figures.

"HARDLY KEEPING A SECRET" By Frank R. Hammond

Art

The subjects of his paintings are as diverse as his tastes. He has painted portraits, including all of his children and grandchildren, scenic landscapes and abstract images.

He also won't guess on how much time he has spent painting.

"Some paintings take longer to complete than others," he said. "Some wear you to death. You might spend three times as long on one painting as you should."

"Others, you start going into a certain direction, and you don't want to stop. You have to remind yourself to slow down a bit."

The public will have an opportunity to see Ray's work during Sunday's annual Member Show at the Sanford Garden Club, located at 200 Fairmont St., off of 17-92. Along with pieces by Sanford/Seminole Art Association members, students from Greenwood Lakes and Teague middle schools will display their masterpieces.

Many of the pieces of art on display will be for sale to the public. Artwork will include watercolors, oils, acrylics, pastels and pottery.

People attending Sunday's event will be asked to vote for their favorite work of art. Once the votes are tallied, one artist will receive the "Most Popular In Show" ribbon.

Sunniland Corporation will also sponsor the Peacha Wiggins award, which honors a family member in the Moore family.

The Sanford/Seminole Art Association was established in 1959, and re-organized in the early 1990s with new by-laws.

Currently, the organization has about 50 members from Seminole County. The group meets nine times a year, and the membership fee is $15.

The annual Membership Show will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday. There is no admission charge, and refreshments will be available.

For additional information, call Carolyn Towles at 407-831-1104.

First Presbyterian Church to hold yard sale for Olde Lake Mary Days

The First Presbyterian Church of Lake Mary will hold their first annual Deacons "Good Stuff" Yard Sale in conjunction with Olde Lake Mary Days. All of the church members have cleaned out their garages and closets just for the occasion.

The church, the oldest church in Lake Mary is located on Wilbur Avenue at the corner of Country Club. There'll be tons of great bargains for bargain hunters and baked goods for the hungry. The sale starts at 9 a.m. and continues until 3 p.m.

Mr. Thomas was the first African-American to be elected to the city of Sanford Commission. In recognition of his outstanding service, the city renamed the street he lives on as Bob Thomas Circle.

Thomas is a graduate of Crooms Academy and Florida A&M University with further studies at Stetson University, Hampton University and Bethune-Cookman College. An active community leader, he served as visiting teacher and social worker for 32 years and as a juvenile counselor for 15 years. He also served as a deputy sheriff for five years.

The 25th annual New Student Preview of Florida A&M University in Tallahassee will be held Friday and Saturday March 8 and 9.

High School juniors, seniors and community college students are invited to travel to Tallahassee to learn about the university. The cost for a round-trip bus fare and one night hotel accommodation is $99. This amount is due Feb. 25 by cash or certified money order made out to FAMU Alumni Seminole County. There are no refunds. The trip

Spokes gives hearts from the heart

Having heart bypass surgery is very painful. Recuperation is hard. After heart bypass surgery, patients must cough to clear their lungs to reduce the chance of pneumonia. Of course, coughing is painful after surgery. One thing does help. A pillow. Especially heart shaped pillows. Heart bypass patients hold the pillows to their chest with their chins resting in the 'v' of the heart and then cough. Holding the pillow to the chest eases the pain.

Seminole Spokes found out about the need for pillows for heart bypass patients at Central Florida Regional Hospital. They decided this was the perfect project for their organization.

The Ways and Means committee got busy making pillows with fabric and polyester fill donated by their members and by the Pace Brantley Hall private school. In all, the group has made about 70 pillows. At

Commission Selling Shirts

The Lake Mary Historical Commission is very pleased with the T-shirts for Olde Lake Mary Days. This year's shirts have a patriotic theme. The shirts are white with red and blue ink. Olde Lake Mary Days Committee Co-Chair Peggy Wolfe and committee member

Karen Beal sold their first T-shirt to Betty Mitchell at the Lake Mary Historical Society meeting. The T-shirts will be on sale at Olde Lake Mary Days for $8 each. Olde Lake Mary Days is scheduled for Saturday, March 2 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Just as a warning, if you are planning to attend Olde Lake Mary Days, be prepared for fighting. Last year at Olde Lake Mary, the 37th Alabama Company H and the 3rd Rhode Island Battalion C started shooting at each other. Their skirmish lasted for 15 minutes and several men hit the ground, shot by the rifles of the opposing side.

Other living history demonstrators at this year's Olde Lake Mary Days include the "Sons of the Confederate Veterans"; the Talako Indian Dancers; Graysmoke with his Cherokee History display; JoAnne Peagler with her Indian Tipi; Charlie Carlson with his Swedish History Exhibit; a Florida Cracker Camp and Flint Knapping Demonstration; and Candle Dipping.

There will, of course, be lots of food, crafts and civic groups. There will be tons of things for kids to do including a moon-walk, pony rides, a petting zoo and more.

Ray prepares for annual Member Show

By Michelle Jeria
Managing Editor

With only a few brush strokes to go, Troy Ray is almost finished with his fourth and final entry for the annual Sanford/Seminole Art Association Member Show. By Sunday, the acrylic hues will be dry, and the colorful country scene will be ready for the judges.

The painting is one of four art pieces Ray plans to enter in this weekend's show. He is one of more than 40 artists who will display their art in hopes of catching the judge's eye — an accomplishment Ray has achieved in the past.

The Sanford native's paintings, which range from pastels to acrylics, have been honored before. He has received numerous awards, including best of show during a previous Art Association event. It's a major achievement for someone who has only been painting for a few years of his life.

Ray, Seminole County's former tax assessor, didn't start painting until he retired in 1988.

"I always had hobbies," he said. "I was a woodworker and collected various things, including clocks and guns.

"But, I decided to quit all that and started painting. My father painted, so I thought I would give it a try."

Following retirement, Ray decided to start taking art classes from a friend. His wife and biggest supporter, Barbara, also encouraged his artistic decision by giving him a Bob Ross paint set for Christmas.

His first painting was a Bob Ross special — a mountain scene painted by using the famous artist's techniques. Ray was pleased with his first attempt, so he kept on painting.

Today, Ray won't even guess at how many paintings he has completed. Several hang in the rooms and halls at his house. Others are on display for the public at various offices, including Sanford City Hall.

'Animals of Africa' now at Sanford zoo

Imagine traveling 1,200 miles through the thickest African rain forest imaginable, where animals still roam, unafraid of humans.

Now, people don't have to travel half way across the globe to go on safari to see cheetahs, mandrills and lemurs. The Central Florida Zoological Park is now presenting "Animals of Africa," a self-guided walking tour featuring animals native to Africa, in honor of Black History Month, February 2002.

African ecosystems are among the most diverse and productive wild lands in the world. But Africa faces tremendous challenges.

Learn about these animals and how organizations worldwide are working with Africa's governments, institutions and people to preserve its natural heritage for both wildlife and humans.

"Animals of Africa" tour will include the African slender-snouted crocodile, hippopotamus, serval, African crested porcupine, banded Egyptian cobra, East African green mambas and more.

Visitors will receive a complimentary self-guided tour sheet.

To support wildlife conservation, the zoo is a participant in the American Zoo and Aquarium Association's Species Survival Plans (SSP) for African Animals like the cheetah and red-ruffed lemur. SSPs manage the breeding of species in order to maintain a healthy and self-sustaining captive population as well as research, public education and reintroduction.

The Central Florida Zoo is located at 3755 NW Highway 17-92 at I-4, exit 52 in Sanford and is open from 9 to 5 daily.

For more information, call 407-323-4450, extension 149 or visit www.centralfloridazoo.org

Admission for adults is $7, $3 for children 3-12 years, $4 for seniors and free for children 2 and under. Zoo members are free.

Delta Sigma Theta hosts youth concert

"Youth for Christ," an annual showcase of youth sponsored by the Sanford Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority Inc., was presented Saturday, Feb. 9 at Calvary Temple of Praise, Paul P. Wright pastor.

The Deltas presented up and coming local gospel and contemporary artist Jasmyne George in a mini concert, with background accompanists Rozland H. Tillman, Lynn Deese, Phillipe Miller, Mark Watson, Sandra Cherry, Von Jelles, Jalon Smith Country Leonard and Leroy Larkin.

Ms. George began her musical career at the tender age of two when she sang her first solo. It was clear to all that she was musically an spiritually inclined.

Having extraordinary talent, Ms. George's early childhood training at Tajiri School of Performing Arts and Academics has afforded her great opportunities to explore the world of entertainment through acting and orations. Her training has also allowed her to showcase her leadership abilities by helping other kids reach their potential.

Ms. George is an active member of Calvary Temple of Praise. She says her most celebrated accomplishment is her acceptance of Jesus Christ as her personal savior because she realizes it is through Him that she can accomplish anything.

Jasmyne is the daughter of Larry and Eloise Dillgard of Sanford and Lewis George of Phoenix, Ariz.

Other youth on parade for Christ were devotional leaders and ushers Jeffrey Bey, Shiyann McGill, and Jabailey Morris.

Longwood church plans barbecue for protective services personnel

Members of First Baptist Church of Longwood are recognizing the people who serve in protective services in the community.

The church is inviting police from Longwood, Lake Mary Winter Springs, Altamonte Springs and Oviedo, as well as the cities' fire departments and the U.S. Marshall's Office, U.S. Secret Service, Florida Marine Patrol/Park Patrol, Seminole and Orange counties sheriff's deputies, paramedics, local FBI, Border Patrol, Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau and Airport Federal officers to a special country western barbecue on Saturday, Feb. 23. There will be all the "fixins," including roasted pig, barbecued chicken and all kinds of picnic type foods.

There will also be music, pony rides, hayrides, a puppet show, horseshoe pitching, a seed spitting contest and games for the entire family. Free fingerprinting for children will also be available.

Special music will be provided by Nashville recording artists, Daniel and Teresa Johnson. They will be performing a Christian music concert.

The barbecue will be held from 2 to 6 p.m. at the church, which is located at 891 State Road 434 in Longwood. The concert begins at 6 p.m.

Protective services personnel and their families are also invited to attend the church's Sunday morning service on Feb. 24, beginning at 11 a.m.

For more information, call the church at 407-339-3817 or 407-332-6082.

Drought and water use in the landscape

Drought can occur in all parts of Florida and usually does at one time or another, and normally, some months are drier than others. Springs for instance, are dry, but other factors besides the weather can influence the amount of water available for landscape use. Increased urbanization coupled with a limited water supply is predisposing much of the state to a greater chance of water shortages.

Because of Florida's sandy soils, plants may experience drought stress after only a few days without rain or irrigation. With limitations on water, we must decide how to best use the limited water available for landscape irrigation. The following guidelines are given as suggestions for management practices during drought.

General Practices

Water early in the morning. Less water loss occurs from evaporation and wind drift in the morning because of cooler temperatures and generally less wind. Plants watered early in the morning also have a chance to dry before night fall and will be less susceptible to diseases. Irrigate deeply at long intervals rather than frequent, shallow watering. Deep watering improves drought resistance by promoting deeper, more extensive root systems. Depth of watering should be about 12 inches for most landscape plants. One inch of irrigation wets a sandy soil to a depth of 12 inches. Don't fertilize or, if you do, do so with a slow release fertilizer. Fertilization stimulates growth and increases water needs. Avoid unnecessary applications of pesticides that require "watering in", instead, use a sprayer to reduce the amount of water used.

Al Ferrer

Water Restrictions

Remember that water restrictions for central Florida allows residential watering only two days a week, and not between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Odd addresses may water Wednesdays and Saturdays; even addresses or no address on Thursdays and Sundays. New landscapes may be watered on any day between 4 p.m. and 10 a.m. during the first 30 days after planting. Planting new landscaping is discouraged.

Management Practices for Turf

Irrigate turf only after it starts to wilt. Signs of wilting include footprints that remain in the grass long after being made and a large proportion of grass leaf blades remain folded over the mid-vein during the hottest hours of the day. Raise the cutting height of turf. Although taller grass uses slightly more water than shorter grass, a higher cutting height promotes deeper rooting and maintains turf quality longer. Mow less frequently. Mowing stresses the grass plant by increasing respiration and reducing root growth.

Although mowing less often, never remove more than 1/3 the length of the blade to prevent too much stress on the grass. Use a sharp blade when mowing. A sharp mower blade produces a cleaner cut that heals more quickly and loses less water than a cut made by a dull blade.

Management Practices For Bedding Plants, Shrubs and Trees

Add mulch to beds to further reduce evaporation from soil and to moderate soil, temperature, reducing stress on roots. Mulch depth should be 3 to 4 inches after setting. If possible don't use overhead sprinklers for shrub and flower beds; hand water, flood irrigate, or use trickle irrigation. Greater water loss can occur with overhead irrigation because of evaporation and wind drift. Irrigate trees and shrubs only after they start to wilt.

Drooping leaves and a change in leaf color can be used to determine when to water the plants. Many trees and shrubs can survive drought without irrigation providing they are well established and were irrigated prior to the drought. Move container plants into shaded areas so their water needs will be reduced.

Al Ferrer is Seminole County Urban Horticulturist. Inquiries may be directed to him at the Cooperative Extension service, 236 W. County Home Road, Sanford, FL 32773 or phone 988-8888. Beta Sigma Phi queen revels in new reign

A February highlight for the five Sanford chapters of Beta Sigma Phi was the annual crowning of the Beta Sigma Phi Valentine Queen at Glen Abbey Golf and Country Club in DeBary. It was a day when hearts and sweethearts took center stage. Each chapter selected a Valentine Girl to represent the chapter and vie for the coveted title.

Doris Dietrich

Judges from the DeLand Beta Sigma Phi City Council named Sandra "Sandy" Erickson of Preceptor Theta Nu as this year's Valentine Queen. A guidance counselor at Lake Brantley High School, Sandy has been a sorority member for three years and has served on several committees. She said reigning as the new queen "is wonderful. I am overwhelmed...I didn't expect it." She was so excited she couldn't hold back the tears of joy.

Runners-up were: Marge Eakin, Libby Gordon, Patricia Lambert and Anna May. Calling the event a dress-up affair with a large turnout, Marty Colegrove said the contestants "were absolutely beautiful...just gorgeous."

Rita Doris, president of the Sanford Beta Sigma Phi City Council, was the genial emcee while Laurel Tromblay, a past BSP Valentine Queen, was in charge of who was elected.

Last year's queen, Charlotte Blades, crowned Queen Sandy and presented her with a bouquet of yellow roses, the official BSP flower.

Sandy marvels over the dedication of her sorority sisters. "The women are so wonderful and they give so much back to the community." Her chapter is made up of career women who meet monthly.

She and her husband, Leif (Richard P.), are the parents of one son and she is an avid bridge player.

Her outside activities include: teaching bridge to high school students and she enjoys stained glass, crafts, oil and acrylic painting, tutoring English for immigrants, teaching painting at a nearby nursing home and other volunteer interests.

She said she grew up where volunteering was a way of life and has a cousin who has been a BSP for 28 years and often told her about the life goals and ideals of the sisterhood. After attending a Beta Sigma Phi meeting, Sandy said, "I discovered a wonderful group of women who have common interests with me, a similar value system and moral code, and are ones who care and volunteer. It is an organization that means so much that I now schedule everything around the meetings and activities. I only wish that I had listened to my cousin years ago."

Bridal Shower
Bride-to-be Pamela "Pam" Williams was the excited guest of honor at a bridal shower hosted by Beryle Dyal and Sharon Prescott. The hostesses have known the guest of honor since she was a little girl.

Sharon's Timacuan home was the picturesque setting for the event. Tables, covered with white linens, were set up on the patio. Blue and yellow candles accented the tables to match the fresh blue and white flowers decorating the large white cake. Other refreshments included raspberry tea, coffee, homemade mints and strawberries.

Among the numerous guests attending were the mothers of the bride and bridegroom, Carolyn Williams and Ruth

Church Notes

Prayer Breakfast

The 10th annual Seminole County Prayer Breakfast will be held 7 to 9 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 26, in the Sanford Civic Center.

Keynote speaker will be Ted DiBiase, who is best known for his role as the villainous "Million Dollar Man," in the world of professional wrestling. Currently, he shares the gospel and the joy that can only be found in Jesus.

A corporate sponsorship for a table of eight is $150, and individual tickets are $15. Seating is limited, and reservations are required.

For more information or reservations, call 407-333-0548. Checks should be made payable to Seminole County Prayer Breakfast and sent to P.O. Box 140964, Orlando, FL, 32814-0964.

Yard Sale

Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, located at 2525 Oak Ave., in Sanford, will have a yard sale Friday, March 8, and Saturday, March 9.

Proceeds from the yard sale will go toward the camp fund, which has a goal of sending the church's youth, ages 10-17, to summer camp at Woodlands Lutheran Camp.

Inspirational Concert

Dave and Barb Anderson are coming in concert to Ascension Lutheran Church in Casselberry 6 p.m. Sunday, March 10.

The inspirational concert is sponsored by the Music Ministry of Ascension Lutheran Church.

Throughout 24 years of ministry, the Andersons have touched audiences around the world with sincerity and warmth. In 1993, the couple was in a plane crash that occurred over the icy waters of the Bering Sea off the coast of Nome, Alaska. They were returning from a humanitarian and Christian ministry mission in the Russian Far East.

Accompanying the Andersons is pianist Dale Pust from Minneapolis, Minn.

The community is invited to attend the concert. A free-will offering will be received. For more information about the concert, call Ascension Lutheran Church at 407-831-7788.

Members have the opportunity to interact socially and develop new friendships with people who have common interests and lifestyles.

SALI activities are offered three times per year, starting in September, January, and March.

Sample SALI activities include: art appreciation, bridge, creative writing, financial strategies, foreign language, golf, holiday crafts/cookies, humanities, Jewish traditions, travel opportunities, watercolor, yoga, guest speakers and special performances, and computer classes.

Jones receives award after walking 4,000 miles in mall

The Seminole Strollers are celebrating more than six years of walking their way to a healthier lifestyle. Several members have walked more than 3,000 miles.

To celebrate, an open house was held on Friday, Jan. 25, at 8 a.m., at the Seminole Towne Center Food Court.

Doris Jones, who celebrates her 84th birthday on Feb. 9, was awarded a plaque as Seminole Strollers top walker — she has walked more than 4,000 miles.

The award was presented by Lisa Jones, Superintendent of Recreation, city of Sanford; and Rodney Smith, CEO of Central Florida Regional Hospital.

Sponsored by the Sanford Senior Center, Central Florida Regional Hospital, and the Seminole Towne Center, the goal of the mall-walking program is to help people improve their physical conditioning without any stressful, high impact aerobic program. Walkers report improvement in sleeping patterns, increased muscle tone and in overall fitness levels.

The Seminole Strollers, is a free community program that meets each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at the Seminole Towne Center Food Court at 7:30 a.m. A representative, from Central Florida Regional Hospital or The Sanford Senior Center, is available to check everyone in, answer questions and log each walker's miles. Health information is available and blood pressure checks are provided on Friday's. A monthly health lecture is also held following the walk on the first Wednesday of each month.

For additional information, please contact Michelle Hendrick at 407-321-4500 extension 5784, or Kim Eltonhead at 407-302-1010.

Lake Mary AARP chapter continues to serve community

By Mary Rowell
Herald Correspondent

The Lake Mary Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) has been in Lake Mary since 1992, although their charter didn't become official until 1993. Since then, they have grown from a handful of people to a group of almost 100.

The AARP is an organization for Americans age 50 and up. It was founded in 1958 by retired educator Dr. Ethel Percy Andrus. The group's motto is "To Serve, Not be Served." Nationally, AARP has more than 30 million members. Still, there are many people out there who don't belong to a local chapter because they either don't know about the local chapter or don't know why they should join one.

To join any local chapter, you must be a member of the National AARP. National membership is just $8 a year for couples. Chapter dues for Lake Mary are just $3 a year.

The benefits of joining the national organization are obvious. You get the Modern Maturity magazine and the AARP Bulletin. Both keep you up to date on changes in Medicare and Social Security. Modern Maturity also features information on health, consumer and financial news, entertainment and travel updates and a nationwide calendar of events. AARP Bulletin offers late-breaking news and features stories on issues that affect mid-life and older persons, such as groundbreaking articles on grandparents rights.

Joining a local chapter keeps you in touch with the community. Local chapters hold monthly meetings with informative programs.

The Lake Mary Chapter has had many health-related programs, political programs, even programs to teach you what color (kind) your personality is. They've also had programs that were strictly entertaining. Every year, they have a holiday party for their December meeting. But probably the most important thing about being a member of a local chapter is meeting new people, making new friends, and staying in touch with one another. Members of local chapters, like the Lake Mary chapter, also volunteer their time in the community.

You don't have to live in Lake Mary to join the Lake Mary chapter. Members come from the surrounding communities, as well. Just stop by any of their meetings and say you want to join. They can also help you join the National AARP if you haven't already. The Lake Mary chapter of the AARP meets the third Tuesday of every month from September through June at the Community Center in Lake Mary on Country Club Road.

Jump and jive at Over-50 Dances

The Sanford dancing season always seems to begin after summer, when after a small hiatus, dancers return to the Sanford Civic Center for the weekly Over-50 Dances.

The dancers meet from 2 to 4 p.m. each Wednesday to enjoy an afternoon of the Fox Trot, Jitter Bug and waltzes.

For a fee of $3, anyone over 50 is invited to attend, and the only requirement is to wear proper dancing attire — no short pants or short skirts.

the Deltonans

"It's two hours of dancing or just listening to the music," said Jim Gunster, president of the club. "You can even come and just enjoy the companionship and the refreshments."

Big Band music is provided by the Deltonans, and every kind of music is provided — from the waltz to the swing.

According to Gunster, about 100 people from the Orlando area attend the dance each week, and many are considered regulars. However, new faces are always welcome.

Just ask Colin Sayer, a regular at the dances. Nicknamed Twinkle Toes, he always enjoys finding new partners for a dance.

"I try to dance with everyone who wants to dance," he said.

For more information about the Over-50 Dances, call 386-668-1615 or 407-302-1010.

Camaraderie and Backyard Artists

Each Wednesday, More than a dozen people meet in the Lake Mary Community Center to paint. But, ask most people in attendance, and they will see the meetings are more about the camaraderie than the art. The Backyard Artisan Society of Seminole County — the Backyard Artists — was created to help retired people enjoy their own creativity and to foster the feeling that anyone can create beauty. Each class offers basic art instruction and a chance for participants to express their feelings. Instructor Paulee Stevens, a retired art therapist, leads the class, which focuses on the Palmer Method of Penmanship as a basis to create art. For more information about the Lake Mary society, which meets 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. each Wednesday, call 407-324-3060.

Insomnia: Remedies for sleep impaired

You're not imagining it, your ability to sleep deteriorates as you age. As you get older, you get less of the deeper, more restorative stages of sleep.

According to the Mayo Clinic Women's HealthSource, the most likely culprits are:

Hot flashes and night sweats, getting older, stress, illness and medications.

To reduce insomnia, try these remedies:

- Consider hormone replacement therapy if menopause symptoms disturb your sleep.

- Deal with worries in the early evening by writing them down along with possible solutions.

- Exercise regularly - about 20 to 30 minutes a day - at least five to six hours before bedtime.

- Read, watch television or listen to music when you have trouble falling asleep or when you wake up during the night. Try to stay awake until your eyes close involuntarily.

- Set your alarm clock, then put it out of sight.

- Establish a regular bedtime routine.

- Get up at the same time every day, regardless of when you fall asleep.

Mayo Clinic Women's HealthSource is a monthly newsletter published with the purpose of providing reliable, timely and easy-to-understand medical and lifestyle information women can use to lead healthier lives.
