Explosion rips oil-drilling platform

ABERDEEN, Scotland (UPI) — More than 150 people were unaccounted for today after a massive explosion tore through a U.S.-owned oil drilling platform in the North Sea, touching off an inferno that killed one person and injured 73 others, company officials said.

About 13 hours after the blast, Los Angeles-based Occidental Petroleum, which operates the rig Piper Alpha, said of the 227 people aboard at least one person was reported dead and 73 others were hospitalized in Aberdeen. Earlier it said 232 people were on the rig at the time of the accident.

Absentee worker has good excuse

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — Lori Salvador thought she had a pretty good excuse for calling in sick: "I'm sorry, I can't come to work today, I fell over a 100-foot waterfall."

Salvador, 24, said Wednesday she had called in sick the day before because she was still shaken up three days after being dragged by the water's strong current over the edge of Mist Falls at Kings Canyon National Park in the Sierra Nevada.

Her bosses were glad she was safe, but said they required a written report.

Traffic court judge has car impounded

ATLANTA (UPI) — Authorities impounded the car of a traffic court judge because of unpaid parking tickets and expired license tags.

But Judge Leah Sears-Collins said her husband, Love Collins, was at fault.

"It's my husband's car and my husband's tickets," she said.

The couple's 1983 BMW, which was registered to the judge and her husband, was impounded June 16.

Love Collins said he wasn't sure how many parking tickets he had received but he did not dispute a report that 13 unpaid tickets had been imposed on his car.

Collins said he paid about $300 in towing costs, fines and penalties to retrieve the vehicle the next day.

"No matter who you are, what you are doing — everybody is expected to pay the penalties," he said. "Here you have somebody who is married to the judge and that is beside the fact."

Animal control probe sought

By J. Mark Barfield
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The chairman of the Seminole County Animal Control Board has called for a formal investigation of the animal control department, saying operations of the department have declined to the point they were last year when investigations led to the firing of the chief animal control officer (ACO) and the resignation of the department director.

"We're seeing the same thing that happened a year ago happen all over again," says Diane Albers, chairman of the appointed Animal Control Board. "I think we've declined to the point to where none of the employees think anything can be done."

But County Administrator Ken Hooper

says he hasn't heard any complaints to warrant a formal investigation. Hooper says prior to last year's investigation, he had received numerous complaints from county residents, animal control board members and employees.

"Last time we went through this, we had a lot of outside complaints," Hooper says. "I haven't heard any complaints like that this time."

Hooper says employees can file formal grievances with the county personnel department or come directly to him with any complaints. He says employees will not be punished for giving factual information to him or the media.

Albers blasted a county investigation conducted by a personnel officer and an administrative assistant to the county Health and Human Services Department on June 2. In that investigation, the two interviewees questioned Bob McIntosh, animal control director, about allegations made in resignation letters of three of the five employees who have quit within the last two months.

The investigators did not interview the employees who resigned, and talked to only two existing employees to confirm two of the eight allegations.

"When you have numerous employees resign and only one or two people are talked to, I don't feel that's an investigation," Albers said.

One of the allegations, made by Cheryl Lauterback, who resigned as an animal shelter supervisor in May, was that she was not allowed to do her job. McIntosh told the investigators Lauterback had been corrected when she allowed a shelter employee to work a half day on May 8 and be paid a full eight hours.

McIntosh and ACO Tom LaCross told the investigators the incident occurred on May 8.

Lauterback says the incident occurred on May 15, when the employee did not return after going home for lunch because of car problems. She says she planned to feed the animals herself that night.

County records show the employee was paid for eight hours on May 8, but was paid for only five hours on May 15, plus an hour and a half pay taken from her vacation time on that date.

McIntosh says the employee left early both weekends and was not there on May 8 when he stopped by the animal shelter

Lakes ordinance discussion put off

Longwood commission postpones consideration of boating controls

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD— Consideration of a proposed ordinance controlling boating on some city lakes was postponed until next month after one commissioner questioned the need for city regulation and another asked for a workshop.

Ted Poelking said, "I can't quite see this ordinance. The biggest percentage of these are private lakes with no public access. On Fair Lake, nobody can launch a boat. Lake Winsor is owned and limited by the homeowners. The city should be just concerned about lakes keeping proper levels for drainage purposes."

City Administrator Gene DeMarie said he and city staff members will review the whole issue of lakes in the city, including weed and algae control, and make recommendations to the commission before the ordinance comes up again in August. He said while some residents think the city is not using enough chemicals, the state is concerned about the environmental harm chemicals may cause.

DeMarie said the proposed boating regulations are to allow use, rather than prevent use, for recreational purposes.

He admitted there had even been a difference of opinion among the staff regarding the ordinance, with City Planner Chris Nagle questioning the lack of a definition for "recreation."

DeMarie said the existing ordinances are rather loose and too much is left open to interpretation. "This was an attempt to do all things equally," he said. "It's true most of the lakes are totally private, but there is disagreement among many residents themselves. The ordinance is designed to keep the public and residents from misusing the lakes."

However, Poelking said, "It's not up to us" to regulate the lakes.

City Commissioner Hank Hardy said he has received calls concerning the proposed ordinance from several people who say the ordinance proposes less regulation than they wanted. He asked how the regulations would be enforced on Rock Lake where there are only a couple of lots within the city limits.

"I think we need a workshop on this," Hardy said.

One thing that would be regulated by the proposed ordinance is the noise level of boats and other craft on the lake. Any motorized craft producing a noise level of 90 decibels at a distance of 50 feet within a residential zone would be banned. It was pointed out that the police department has had an instrument to measure noise level for a long time, but no personnel have been qualified to operate it.

Condo sinkhole victims allowed to remove personal belongings

By Joyce Herald
UCF Intern

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Twenty-four hours after Capistrano Condominium residents were evacuated and shut out of their homes, they were allowed to return to remove some items.

Residents of the Altamonte Springs area fell victim to a slowly developing sinkhole that became evident on Tuesday. Residents began hurriedly collecting some of their belongings and packed their cars Wednesday while others anxiously awaited their turn. Authorities allowed only one condominium at a time to be entered for property removal.

Three buildings were evacuated earlier in the week and another remained closed Wednesday because Florida Power had been unable to restore electricity. However, only one building and its 12 one-bedroom condominiums remain off-limits because of the sinkhole.

several inches wide outline the staggered masonry blocks. Property manager Ed Grykin said most of the damage on the inside is to the walls and ceilings. However, he said water pipes broke and soaked the carpets of the ground-floor condos.

Engineering crews from Jaminal and Associates Inc. were on the scene Wednesday to take core samples amid a flurry of homeowners and friends who shuffled clothes, small furniture and other necessities from buildings to cars.

POLICE IN BRIEF

Woman reports assault by her former boyfriend

LONGWOOD — An Altamonte Springs woman reported her former boyfriend assaulted her and her employer in the parking lot of the Jade Palace Restaurant Wednesday afternoon and took $2,600 in jewelry from her.

Julie Staab, told Seminole County deputies her former boyfriend approached her and her employer, Dr. John L. Ialer of the Florida Eye Clinic shortly after 1 p.m. Wednesday and accused them of having a relationship.

Staab reported the man then pushed and shoved her and struck Ialer in the mouth. She also reported he grabbed a $400 gold chain from her neck. She said she gave him the rest of the jewelry she was wearing to avoid further injury. She reported the ex-boyfriend also threatened to kill her during the assault.

Staab told deputies she had lived with the man for six years, but broke the relationship off because of his violent behavior.

Staab said she and Ialer left the parking lot and later, while she was seeking a restraining order against the former boyfriend, he reportedly went to the clinic and threatened several employees, also telling them he would hurt Staab.

Theft from school reported

SANFORD — The principal of Wilson Elementary School, 985 Orange Blvd., reported a television and portable video tape recorder stolen from a building under construction sometime between June 30 and 10 a.m. Tuesday. Principal Terry Rabun reported the room was used for storage and construction crews, school staff and county personnel had access to it.

Stolen property results in arrest

LAKE MARY — Tommy Lee Wilson, 29, 215 Dorchester Square, was arrested Wednesday on suspicion of dealing in stolen property and possession of a controlled substance. Bond was set at the Seminole County Jail at $1,000.

Seminole County sheriff's investigators report they found several stolen items and a small amount of marijuana hidden under a sofa in Wilson's home July 1 following a court-ordered search.

Investigators reported they were acting on a tip from a confessed burglar, Troy Dagley, who reportedly told Casselberry police on July 1 he had taken stolen items to Wilson and either sold them or traded them for marijuana.

Burglary arrests made

LONGWOOD — Two men and juvenile were arrested at about 3:30 this morning and booked on suspicion of burglarizing two autos at a Longwood auto dealership.

Christopher Wright, 18, 550 Demming, Apt. D7, Winter Park, Leonardo Wiggins, 18, 3215 Church St., Orlando, and a 17-year-old Forest City boy were arrested after a county investigator allegedly saw them moving from car to car in Courtesy Goodwill Pontiac, 050 U.S. Highway 17-92.

Wright, Wiggins and the boy were booked on two counts of burglary to an auto. Wiggins was cited for an additional charge of possession of burglary tools.

Wright and Wiggins were taken to the Seminole County Jail, where bond was set at $1,000. The juvenile was taken to the Seminole County Juvenile Detention Center.

According to a Seminole County sheriff's investigator, the three males were among five men burglarizing autos at Courtesy Goodwill Pontiac on U.S. Highway 17-92 shortly after midnight and removing radios.

Two suspects escaped in a car but Wiggins and the juvenile were taken into custody shortly after the investigator presented himself to them. Wright was found later hiding in bushes near the dealership.

Car reported stolen

SANFORD — A 1985 Oldsmobile owned by Dennis Sulecki of Silver Springs was reported stolen from the Amtrak station, 600 Palmetton Ave., sometime between Monday and Wednesday.

Sulecki, a conductor for Amtrak, reported the loss upon his return to the station, according to the police report. The automobile was valued at $8,000.

In other police action:
 • An outboard motor, value $1,000, was stolen off a boat owned by Douglas Braswell while it was parked at the Sandalwood Villas, 110 W. Airport Blvd., according to police. The theft occurred between Monday and Tuesday.

The proposed ordinance, which consolidates and amends previous regulations, bans motorized craft with eight or more horsepower, including jet-powered craft, airboats and hovercraft from lakes designated for "limited recreational use."

These include Island Lake, Lake Searcy, West Lake, East Lake and Lake Winsor.

Rowboats, sailboats, canoes, rafts, paddleboats and motors under 8 horsepower would be permitted.

Designated for unlimited recreational use would be Lake Wildmere, Fairy Lake, Rock Lake and Lake Ruth.

Penalties for violating the proposed requirements would be up to a $500 fine, 60 days in jail or both. Law enforcement agencies would be exempt from the regulations.

Explosion rips oil rig

ABERDEEN, Scotland (UPI) — More than 180 people were unaccounted for today after a massive explosion tore through a U.S.-owned oil drilling platform in the North Sea, touching off an inferno that killed one person and injured 73 others, company officials said.

About 13 hours after the blast, Los Angeles-based Occidental Petroleum, which operates the rig Piper Alpha, said at least one of the 227 people aboard was reported dead and 73 others were hospitalized in Aberdeen.

Earlier it said 232 people were on the rig at the time of the accident.

Of the 153 workers unaccounted for, Occidental said some were believed rescued and aboard an international fleet of military and civilian rescue ships in the area 120 miles northeast of Aberdeen and an unknown number were feared dead.

Earlier, officials had said more than 200 of the platform's crew had been rescued or evacuated, but later they said the situation was uncertain.

"It looks like the worst such disaster of its kind that we have seen so far," a spokesman for Lloyd's of London Insurers said.

The worst previous accident in the North Sea oilfields was in 1980 when 137 people were killed when an accommodation platform, the Alexander Keilland, capsized during a storm in the Norwegian Ekofisk oil field.

The explosion was reported at 8:58 p.m. (4:58 p.m. EDT) Wednesday.

Man arrested after shotgun used to threaten ex-wife

By J. Mark Barfield
 Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — An Orlando man was arrested on suspicion of attempted murder after he threatened his former wife with a 12-gauge shotgun Wednesday night.

Randy Lynn Morgan, 33, 3975 Rosewood Way, Apt. 217R, Orlando, was arrested by Sanford police at First Street and Sanford Avenue after the incident. When arrested he had a shotgun in the car seat beside him and a discharged shell in his pocket, according to the report. He is held without bond in the Seminole County Jail.

Morgan's former wife, Glenda Morgan, told police that about 9:15 p.m. Morgan forced his way into her home at 802 Scott Avenue Sanford by kicking in the front door.

Ms. Morgan told police Morgan pointed the shotgun at her face, struck her several times with the butt of the gun, then hit her in the mouth with his fists. She said he threatened to kill her and her boyfriend, who was not present. The Morgans have been divorced five years, police report.

Police reported that Ms. Morgan told them as she stood with her back to the front door, Morgan pointed the gun at her again.

She told police she grabbed the barrel of the gun and pushed it upward towards the ceiling and the gun discharged, striking the front door. She said she then ran to a neighbor's house and called police as Morgan left in a brown car. He was stopped later with the gun beside him.

In a written statement given to police, Morgan said he had intended to leave the shotgun with their son, but an argument broke out.

"To make a long story short, things got out of hand," Morgan wrote.

Morgan wrote he did not know the gun was loaded and it discharged by accident.

Morgan was also booked on charges of aggravated battery, battery, discharging a destructive device and armed burglary.

TV goes out the window; arrest made

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — An Altamonte Springs man was arrested on suspicion of battery and criminal mischief shortly after he allegedly destroyed an estimated $2,500 in possessions belonging to his live-in girlfriend.

Steven Scott Chambers, 22, 851 Jamestown Blvd., Apt. 212C, was arrested after his girlfriend, Donna Perfetto, 22, reported he forced his way through the front door of their apartment and smashed stereo equipment and furniture. She reported Chambers then took her television and threw it out of a second-floor window.

The television struck her car's windshield, smashing it, and bounced to an adjacent car, striking a fender and causing about $200 damage to that car.

Perfetto suffered bruises to her arm and leg from the incident, police reported.

Chambers was arrested at the scene and taken to the Seminole County Jail where bond was set at $1,000.

Five-Day Forecast

For Central Florida

It's meteorological do-it-yourself day

By Fred H. Cooper
 Herald Staff Writer

Okay, everybody. It's showtime on the weather front. This is your opportunity to assume the role of an official Seminole meteorologist, and that's a rare breed. Here's the situation: There is a low pressure area south of Miami, actually a upper level trough, and it's moving west, then will go northwest; the trough formerly offshore from the Bahamas has drift so far east that it's ineffective as far as we are concerned; our winds are from the east and a high pressure area over North Carolina is dominating all weather patterns around Central Florida; all intergalactic influences are stable and the last quarter moon made its debut at 6:38 a.m. yesterday. What is your prediction for the weather in Seminole County during the next 24 hours? Now fold up your paper and read on.

The official federally sponsored and endowed meteorologists of the National Weather Service who control the weather fate of our area say the temperatures will range from lows in the 70's to highs in the 80's, though they may fluctuate up and down in accordance with changing conditions. There is a 40 percent chance of rain today, 20 percent tonight and 30 percent tomorrow.

Grade yourself a B if you are close, then add extra credit if you used words such as widely scattered, possible, isobars or dew point.

If you're planning to escape the heat by bopping up to New York for some mountain fishing, better think about it. A new government study reveals that 25 percent of the lakes and ponds up there have such concentrations of acid they are unable to support fish. Another 20 percent are threatened.

There's good news and bad news concerning the effects of the drought on Mississippi River traffic.

More than 1,000 stalled barges were freed when the Mississippi River reopened to traffic at Greenville, Miss., but some may get stalled again because of the unpredictable drought and the Army Corps of Engineers says it will keep "hop, skipping and jumping all over the river" to dredge at shallow spots.

Scattered dredging will take place as long as the drought continues and the river remains low, and barge lockups are inevitable, officials said.

The corps finished dredging the silt-ridden channel at Greenville Wednesday and moved down the river about 30 miles for more dredging, said Dennis Cox, corps chief of dredging in Vicksburg, Miss. Some 70 tows with about 1,000 barges had been stalled in the Greenville area, he said.

But some of the southbound tows will likely get stalled again near Natchez, Miss., where extensive dredging is planned until Saturday, Cox said. Already, about 700 barges were backed up there Wednesday, he said.

Hot, muggy air spread over much of the nation today, trapping blankets of smog in big cities from the Midwest to the East Coast and worsening the drought that forecasters now predict will last at least through mid-July.

It is the third straight day of blistering heat for the bone-dry Midwest, where overheated autoworkers in Detroit have walked off the job and officials in Columbus, Ohio, have imposed strict water conservation.

(Reports by United Press International and data provided by the National Weather Service were used in compiling this report.)

Deltona Chamber mixer set

Southland Bank at 800 Deltona Blvd., will sponsor the Deltona Area Chamber of Commerce member mixer on July 13 from 5:30-7 p.m. There will be refreshments and door prizes. The mixers, sponsored by local businesses, are held on the second Wednesday of each month.

Parkinsonians hear children

The Parkinsonian Society of Greater Orlando will meet from 10 noon on Saturday, July 16 at the First United Church of Christ, 4005 Curry Ford Road, Orlando. Sponsored by Humana Hospital Lucerne, the meeting is free to the public. The group "Children Around the World" will present a program of song and dance. For details, call Fritz Gale at 869-1613.

Dream prompts lottery decision

BROOKSVILLE (UPI) — The winner of last week's $10.5 million Florida Lotto prize says his 23-year-old daughter appeared in a dream nearly a month after her death and prompted him to buy a lottery ticket.

"My daughter said 'Why don't you play the numbers?'" Michael Gabriele Sr. told reporters Tuesday. "She said 'I'd like to bring you a little happiness.'"

Gabriele, a 61-year-old real estate agent from Lyndhurst, N.J., and other members of his family were vacationing near Weeki Wachee last week. The family was trying to recover from the death of Cheryl Gabriele, who was killed in a fall from a cliff in New Jersey last month.

Gabriele said after his dream last week he remembered that a New Jersey lottery slip had been found in his daughter's car when her body was discovered.

Although he thought it was eerie, Gabriele called home for the numbers — 2, 6, 11, 14, 31, 34 — and on Saturday he, his wife, two daughters and a son purchased a ticket with those numbers at a convenience store in Spring Hill, about 50 miles north of St. Petersburg.

Those numbers were the six pulled in the state's lottery that night and the family validated the winning ticket at the state's regional lottery office in Clearwater Tuesday.

"I said to my wife, 'Go play Cheryl's numbers. Maybe she's trying to tell us something,'" Gabriele said.

He said he was at a barbecue at his brother-in-law's house Sunday when his wife checked the results and found they had won.

"I got like a funny feeling," he said. "I was surprised, but not surprised. It's hard to explain."

"My fiancée found the (New Jersey) tickets in a side pocket (of the car), and we felt they were sitting there for a reason," said Cheryl's sister, Michelle. "Now, I really believe it. It's just the freakiest thing that I came out."

Michelle Gabriele said she, her father, her mother Pauline, sister Donna and brother Michael Jr. chipped in on the purchase of the winning ticket and will share the winnings equally.

"We're all thrilled that we're not going to have any more financial worries, but we just realize that winning $10.5 million is not going to bring our sister back," she said.

"It gives it a sad twist. We wish she could be here to enjoy it with us."

Gabriele returned to his home in New Jersey later Tuesday, as did his son and his wife, who live in North Arlington, N.J. Mrs. Gabriele and the two daughters plan to return home soon, Michelle said.

New Jersey Parkway Police Detective Ronald Karnick said the body of Cheryl Gabriele was found at the base of a 200-foot cliff after her car had been noticed parked in a rest area for more than 24 hours. He said the death is still under investigation.

Hodel rips bill to bar Gulf oil exploration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Don Hodel expressed vehement opposition Wednesday to "unprecedented" legislation that would bar companies holding offshore oil and gas leases in the eastern Gulf of Mexico from exploratory drilling for one year.

In a letter, Hodel asked Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., and GOP leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., to kill the legislation, which he said amounted to "an act of bad faith on the part of a federal government."

The legislation, recently inserted in the 1989 appropriations bill for the Interior Department by the Senate Appropriations Committee, would — starting Oct. 1 — bar oil companies for one year from exploring underwater tracts they paid millions of dollars to the government to lease. The House already has passed similar legislation.

In past years, Congress has repeatedly enacted legislation imposing one-year moratoriums on the sale of oil and gas leases by the Interior Department in offshore areas deemed environmentally sensitive.

However, Hodel said, the pending Gulf of Mexico legislation would be "the first time ever that a moratorium has been used to deny the rights of oil and gas leasees to undertake exploration to determine the value of that lease."

"It is impossible to overemphasize the grave implications of this action," Hodel said.

He contended exploratory plans should be subject to normal regulatory review procedures — not congressional whims.

"Denial of the approval of an exploration plan through an appropriations moratorium ... is bad energy policy, bad economic policy and — perhaps most significant in the long run — an act of bad faith on the part of the federal government," he said.

"It is the democratic and gas industry that (offshore) leasees no longer carry with them rights that leasees can rely on," Hodel added. "This action sends a clear signal to private industry that the federal government can no longer be considered a trustworthy partner."

As a result, Hodel said, U.S. oil and gas companies will increasingly shift exploration activities overseas "where the atmosphere is more conducive to conducting business."

"This will accelerate the already serious problems associated with imported oil," he added.

YOUR FUEL CHARGE JUST TOOK A PLUNGE!

If you're a Florida Power customer, here's some cool relief: a decrease in the fuel charge on your electric bill.

Because oil prices have remained lower than anticipated and our power plants have been operating extra efficiently — especially our nuclear unit — we're spending less on fuel. Starting this month, the savings are being passed on to our customers with a decrease of about $3.00 per 1000 kilowatt hours. That's a 4% drop in the cost of electricity for our customers!

Even with temperatures rising, we're working hard to keep our customers cool and our rates among the lowest in the state.

Here's a victory for smiling faces

Not so long ago, parents rejoiced when informed that their child's annual dental checkup uncovered only one cavity. Now, medical experts say half our nation's 43 million school-age kids have never experienced tooth decay.

In fact, if current trends continue, we could be just a decade or so away from virtually giving dental decay the brush-off altogether.

So what's responsible for placing us on the verge of this startling public-health victory? The same one-two punch that so often works with health issues — education and specialized treatment.

After examining the mouths of 40,000 youngsters nationwide, the National Institute of Dental Research determined that dental decay declined by 36 percent in children ages 5 to 17. Of that group, 49.9 percent have never had a cavity.

Perhaps even more startling is the rate at which tooth decay is declining. In the 1940s, the average school-child was estimated to have at least seven teeth that were either decayed, missing or filled.

By the 1970s, about 28 percent of the youngsters were without tooth decay. In 1980, the survey found 36.6 percent of the kids were cavity-free. Now, we have more than 20 million children who have never winced beneath a dentist's drill.

This dramatic decrease is clearly linked to the increased use of fluoride in the nation's drinking water. Currently, about 60 percent of the country's water systems are treated with the decay-fighting substance. Fortunately, many communities in Florida have natural fluoride in the water so there was never a debate about adding the substance.

Many still remember the "rotten egg" smell of the water caused, not by the fluoride but by iron and a multitude of other elements.

However, many communities that don't have fluoride in their water supply shared in the tooth-decay decline, because fluoride is widely available in toothpaste and mouthwash.

Remember, in the 1950s and 1960s, calls to fluoridate water supplies often fell on deaf ears. Health officials were faced with a public that was nervous about introducing a new chemical into drinking water and people quick to exploit that fear. It was even called a "communist conspiracy" by some. Only after years of education did the public accept the experts' advice.

Time has proven the health professionals right, a classic victory of public education followed by targeted treatment.

The lesson here is that when it comes to public health, we must look to the future, beyond the panic of the moment. Proof of that is as close as our children's bright smiles.

BERRY'S WORLD

GEORGE F. WILL

Court issues ruling with new wrinkle

WASHINGTON—On Jan. 22, 1983, William Thompson was 15 and, as a matter of Oklahoma law, a child. He also was busy.

With three older accomplices, he murdered his former brother-in-law. The victim was beaten severely and shot twice, and his throat, chest and stomach were cut "so the fish could eat his body," Thompson said. Thompson was tried as an adult and sentenced to death.

Now the Supreme Court has ruled 5-3 (Justice Kennedy not participating) to overturn his sentence. Four justices said it is unconstitutional to impose capital punishment on anyone who is even a day younger than 18, no matter how careful the consideration of his circumstances, no matter how much evidence is gathered to overcome the presumption against trying a 15-year-old as an adult.

Because the fifth justice, O'Connor, concurred only in the result, not the plurality opinion, it remains unclear whether such executions would be constitutional if a state specifically adopted, after careful consideration, capital punishment for 15-year-olds. The argument is about how to construe evidence of societal consensus.

In 1972, the Court ruled 5-4 that Georgia's capital-punishment law was unconstitutional. Two of the five majority justices, Brennan and Marshall, said simply that society's "evolving standards of decency" have made capital punishment "cruel and unusual" and therefore unconstitutional. (That claim was promptly refuted—but not abandoned—when 37 states re-enacted capital-punishment statutes in conformity with the Court's 1972 criteria.)

The other three justices in the 1972 majority argued only that capital punishment was cruel and unusual when administered capriciously. In 1976, the Court upheld Georgia's revised statute and it seemed that capital-punishment opponents had confounded themselves, causing reforms that immunized capital-punishment statutes from constitutional challenge.

But the Thompson case reveals a new wrinkle. Justice Stevens, speaking for Brennan, Marshall and Blackmun, erected a rickety statistical scaffolding to support the conclusion that there exists an evolved American "standard of decency" opposed, categorically, to executions of anyone under 18. Stevens noted that all 18 of the states that have adopted a minimum age for capital punishment have adopted age 18.

However, Justice O'Connor, who concurs in the judgment but not Stevens' statistical reasoning, noted that more states (19) and the federal government, have authorized capital punishment without stipulating a minimum age.

A state, complying with the Court's elaborate criteria, gives fastidious attention to the individual circumstances of defendants in criminal cases. That attention makes executions of certain categories of criminals (e.g., those under 18) rare. By a non sequitur (the rareness of a phenomenon demonstrates a societal consensus against the phenomenon generally), this rareness is turned into a constitutional prohibition. So complying with the Court's criteria for constitutional action produces a statistical argument for branding the action unconstitutional.

It is an intellectually elegant wrinkle.

Americans have need to know

WASHINGTON — Every month there is a new installment in the story of the selling of America.

In March, the Bridgestone Corporation of Japan purchased the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company of America, one of the nation's best-known manufacturers. Foreign interests are eyeing other U.S. manufacturers. Even those from Arlington to Palestinians is involved in the buy America.

With wealth gained from years of trade surpluses, the Japanese are major bidders for U.S. assets. As The Wall Street Journal recently observed, — The unique structure of Japanese industry that combines huge industrial firms in close alliance with major banks gives acquisitive-minded Japanese companies immensely deep pockets.

It's not only the Japanese. Texas is drained by its prolonged legal battle with Pennzoil, and Saudi Arabian interests have bid for Texaco's oil refineries on the Gulf Coast. Kuwait has acquired a huge stake in the Alaskan oil bed. Ironically, that poor little rich country, Kuwait, is enjoying American protection of its tanker fleet in the Persian Gulf. American taxpayers are picking up the tab for Kuwait's security at sea while the Kuwaitis buy a big piece of the American pie.

Few Americans seem to know or care what's happening. One congressman who is mindful of the selling of America is U.S. Rep. Byron L. Dorgan of North Dakota. He warns that "We are in the midst of a tidal wave of foreign investments and takeovers, but we have only the vaguest idea of what is going on." He estimates that foreign ownership of U.S. assets increased 25 percent in 1987. Indeed a House Government Operations Committee report said that "There are very few major countries in the world today that are as naive and ignorant concerning the size and nature of foreign investment in their countries as the United States."

Congress and the administration should be sensitive to that obligation. Other countries are concerned when foreigners take over their assets. A writer in Chronicles magazine cites the example of the Swiss, saying "When foreigners start buying too much land, the Swiss yell over-alienation and prohibit it. They believe in the free market, and have relatively free trade, but they do not believe in allowing themselves to be put out of business or bought out by foreigners."

JACK ANDERSON

Memo no help for Heckler staff chief

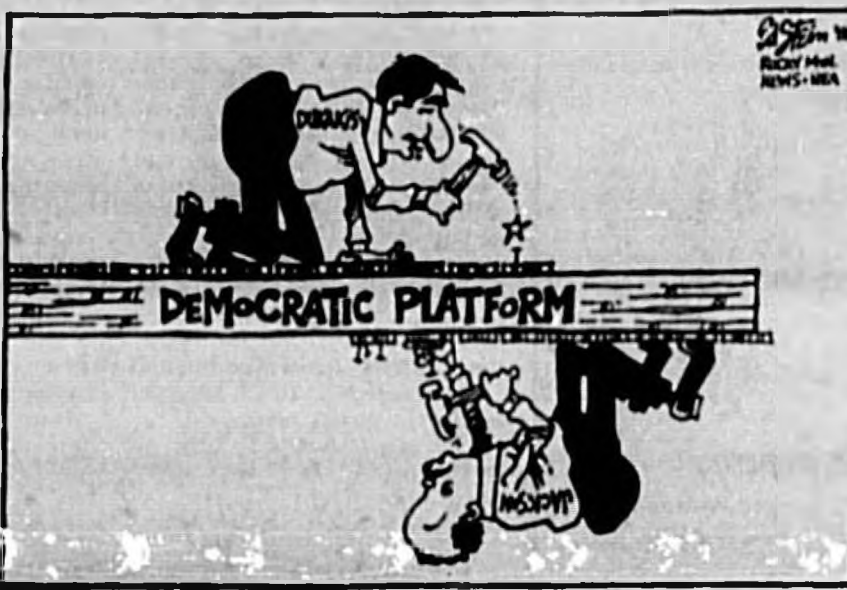

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — Former Secretary of Health and Human Services Margaret Heckler is as adept at the amnesia defense as any top official in the Reagan administration.

Her chief of staff at HHS claims he spent three months in prison because of Heckler's poor memory. C. McClain Haddow was released this spring from the Federal Correctional Institute in Petersburg, Va. His "crime" was conflict of interest. He allowed his wife to earn HHS money by writing several speeches for Heckler. His wife also worked for a foundation set up by the HHS.

Haddow claims that Heckler directed his wife's work. Heckler told the FBI and a grand jury she didn't, but later conceded she might have authorized some of the work. By that time, Haddow already had one foot in the cell, and Heckler was the U.S. ambassador to Ireland.

The case closed the books on Heckler's eccentric term in the Cabinet. She was appointed in 1983

BEN WATTENBERG

Love, hate affair

Democrats seem to know only two ways to describe their quadrennial convention — either as a "love feast" or a "blood bath."

Democrats feel that history shows the unity of a love feast sets up victory. Alternatively, they believe that the chaos and divisiveness of a blood bath yields defeat. There is a rationale. Much of the image of a party is formed during the heavily televised conventions. Americans show distrust of politicians who meet in order to beat upon one another with large wet fish.

This month the Democrats will probably have a love feast in Atlanta. They are pleased. The mantra is recited: "We've never been more unified."

Still, the love feast may be overold this time. There ought to be another phrase Democrats could wish for — more combative than a love feast and less messy than a blood bath. How about a "bold bicker" or a "rhetorical wrangle"?

The reason for such unorthodoxy is Jesse Jackson. So terrified are the Democrats of a chaotic convention, or of black voters not turning out to vote, that they are in danger of bending over backward to be super-nice to Jackson.

In general, it's fine to be super-nice. But Jackson comes with baggage. He has preached a message on the far left of the spectrum. He and his most vocal supporters say they have already made the party more "progressive" (i.e., liberal), and they intend to make it even more so.

That's not what voters want to hear. Quite the opposite: The perception of the Democrats being too liberal has been at the root of Democrats losing four of the last five presidential elections.

Jackson also exhibits certain party-crashing tendencies. In Boston, just before meeting the putative nominee, Jackson said, "In some sense, Mike Dukakis and I have the challenge of forming a new equation, a new coalition, to take our nation to another level of moral consideration."

Huh? Jackson lost in the primaries. What puts him in the new-equation-forming business? What happens if rank-and-file voters get the idea that a vote for Dukakis is a vote for Jackson's new equation?

It's tricky. The Jackson convention forces will likely bring up at least two major resolutions — cut defense, raise taxes — that the Dukakis majority will vote down. Yet, while these are important issues, the arguments already seem like a pre-programmed minuet, taking place in a certain context and atmosphere. The context is that there were about 40 Democratic debates, and Dukakis did not sharply disagree with Jackson. The atmosphere, I suspect, will be almost worshipful to Jackson.

So far, the Dukakis team has been wooing Jackson. One consultant, commenting on the campaign's maximum be-nice-to-Jackson effort and Dukakis' recent 10-point decline in the polls, said, "You could have a 20-point lead in the polls, and it would be worthless if you had a divisive convention."

Wrong. Take the 20. Actually, the Democrats' best interests are served by a spirited convention where differences are highlighted, not buried. Jackson surely deserves respect; he's good on some issues. But respect includes being taken seriously about his views.

Dukakis finished first, largely because he was perceived not to have Jackson's view of the world. Dukakis should now make clear, publicly, that he has serious policy disagreements with Jackson.

ELLEN GOODMAN

Nice job if you can get it

BOSTON—In the quadrennial spectator sport known as a presidential campaign there comes the inevitable and wonderful moment known as The Search for a Vice President. For a few summer weeks, we get to watch prominent Americans exhibit their reluctance for the role of understudy.

With the notable exception of Geraldine Ferraro in 1984, nobody who is anybody admits to a passionate desire to be number two. Nobody says that he or she grew up dreaming about being Vice President of the United States.

This year we may indeed have more protesters than applicants. Just this week, Jeanne Kirkpatrick insisted, "I don't want to be Vice President." New Jersey Gov. Thomas Kean told the press, "I'm doing everything I can to make sure he (Bush) doesn't come to me."

Democrats such as Bill Bradley, Sam Nunn and Tom Foley have all taken their names out of the running. Those who are said to be "interested" in the job don't say much except a self-sacrificing willingness to help the party and/or country. Even Jesse Jackson, who wants to be asked, appears to regard the job as political slumming.

There is a general, national, snickering consensus that the vice presidency is the worst job in Washington, not worth a bucket of warm spit and all that. The current occupant has even disparaged the role saying, "I'm George Bush. You die, f---."

A job without much power, a job without much labor, Bob Dole uttered the ultimate slur. Being Vice President, he sneered, is "indoor work and no heavy lifting."

Heaven forbid.

It's notable that the worst insult inflicted on a job these days is that the post is too easy.

These are the facts. The Vice President of the United States earns $15,000 a year plus $10,000 in expenses. He gets a nice big house on Massachusetts Ave. and he doesn't have to mow the lawn. He gets a plane and a decent office or two. It isn't laccoca, but it isn't shabby either.

In return for this, the Vice President has to preside over the Senate, take an occasional tie, take charge of a task force or two, show up at Cabinet meetings and travel abroad. All you need for the job, as Bush once said, is "a black hat with a veil." You get home in time for dinner.

Suddenly, Heckler's memory started coming back. She remembered seeing the "phony as a three dollar bill" waiver before. If she signed it, she must not have read it, she explained.

But that wasn't enough to keep Haddow out of jail. He had already been persuaded to plead guilty. His entire defense had been hampered by an inability to find documents to back his claims.

Haddow had been in jail a week when Judge Gesell got another letter from the same anonymous correspondent. The letter claimed that Heckler had made a call to an ally in her old office soon after Haddow was charged with conflict of interest. The letter claimed Heckler had ordered a former staffer to purge some HHS files.

FLORIDA

IN BRIEF

Florida and North Carolina offer rewards for prison fugitives

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Rewards totaling $30,000 have been offered by North Carolina and Florida for the capture and conviction of two North Carolina prison fugitives wanted for questioning in the murders of four people in Florida four days after their escape.

North Carolina Governor Jim Martin announced Wednesday that the state will pay a reward of up to $5,000 for information leading to the recapture of each of the convicts who escaped from a state road work detail in Wilkes County on May 13.

Florida officials also announced Wednesday that an additional reward of $10,000 will be paid for information leading to the arrest and conviction of each of the fugitives.

Michael Lovette, 29, of Statesville, and Tommy Wyatt, 24, of North Wilkesboro, were both serving 15-year prison sentences when they made their break. They were serving time at the minimum-custody Wilkes County Prison Unit.

The men are suspects in the May 17 slaying of three employees at a Domino's Pizza at Vero Beach, Fla., and for the killing of a woman near Seffner, Fla.

State to get new park

TAMPA (UPI) — Egmont Key, site of an old fort that guarded the mouth of Tampa Bay during the Spanish American War and one of two manned lighthouses still serving the Gulf of Mexico, is expected to become a state park by the end of the year.

The 2-mile-long, half-mile-wide peanut shaped island currently is accessible only to boaters, but future plans call for ferryboat service within five years, opening up the historic site to everyone.

Negotiations have been under way for some time between the state, the Coast Guard and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to turn the island over to the state, and Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., said Tuesday that could occur by Jan. 1.

Nude art removed from Capitol

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Blushing state officials who gave a $5,000 arts grant to a surrealist photographer have removed five of her pictures from the gallery in the State Capitol because of complaints from tourists offended by nudity in some of her shots.

Photographer Linda Adele Goodline said she and four fellow artists exhibiting their works on the Capitol's 22nd floor might pull all their pictures in protest of the censorship.

Officials of the Department of State said, however, the works might be more appropriate in conference rooms or other parts of the Capitol less-travelled by families with small children. Goodline said she probably would not permit her work to be placed anywhere else in the Capitol.

Ashland criticized for oil spill

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — "essentially the same" as the Ashland Oil Co. says it is "disappointed with the tone" of a state task force report recommending civil and possible criminal action for an oil spill that polluted two rivers and threatened water supplies in three states.

The spill "could have been and should have been averted," the task force appointed by Gov. Robert P. Casey said Wednesday in a 111-page report.

Ashland, while not disputing that point, said the task force reached conclusions that were "essentially the same" as the Battelle Memorial Institute of Ohio, which the company itself commissioned to report on the spill.

emergency measures to prevent oil from contaminating their water supplies.

During the spill, faucets ran dry in thousands of homes in suburban Pittsburgh because utilities were forced to shut river intakes.

People snapped up bottled water, National Guard units rolled in water tanks and fire departments were on emergency alert because of low water stocks.

Even chic restaurants turned to paper plates and other disposable utensils so they could continue operating while using less water.

In its report, the task force recommended civil action to "impose maximum monetary penalties" against Ashland and said it would ask the state attorney general to consider possible criminal action against the company.

Ashland spokesman Roger Schrum said the company has "cooperated fully" with federal and state environmental authorities. "We are disappointed with the tone of the report," he said.

Pamplona's 'wonderful nightmare' begins

PAMPLONA, Spain (UPI) — Thousands of revelers are indulging in one of the world's wildest annual parties, the eight-day fiesta of bull running and round-the-clock drinking that novelist Ernest Hemingway described as a "wonderful nightmare."

The first of eight runnings of the bulls, the highlight of the "sanfermines," the 16th-century fiesta in honor of Saint Fermin, was planned for today.

But the drinking and dancing began at the stroke of noon Wednesday when City Councilman Javier Iurbe lit the fuse of a skyrocket and sent it soaring from the City Hall balcony.

"Let's make this one friendlier than ever," he told the crowd.

The thousands of merry-makers who jammed Pamplona's cobblestone main square raised deafening cheers of "Viva San Fermin" as church bells rang, drums rolled and fiesta-goers passed around their wine gourds.

Hemingway's classic 1924 novel, "The Sun Also Rises," brought world fame to the festival he called a "wonderful nightmare," which draws nearly a half-million revelers from Spain and abroad each year.

Spanish television broadcasts the "encierros," or running of the bulls, live each morning.

Clad in white shirts and red bandannas, hundreds of men chase — or are chased by — six half-ton fighting bulls on the 900-yard run through narrow, barricaded streets between the Santo Domingo corrals and the bullring.

The runners' only defense against the bulls' horns are rolled-up newspapers, but they traditionally invoke "Saint Fermin's tiny cape" to see them through.

Women are banned from taking part, and a parallel bull chase for youngsters was outlawed this year as too dangerous.

Fourteen people have been fatally gored in the run since the start of the century and hundreds suffer bumps and bruises each year.

Spain's top bullfighters take on the bulls later in the day.

Soviet Mars probe liftoff set

MOSCOW (UPI) — All systems were pronounced go for today's launching of the first of two unmanned probes to Mars and its moon Phobos in the boldest assault yet on the red planet.

The probes will pick out sites for a possible manned landing next century.

Phobos I, followed by Phobos II on July 12, are the first probes to be sent to the mysterious planet in more than a decade. The successful U.S. Viking series landed in July and September 1976.

The two Soviet unmanned probes, Phobos I and Phobos II, are waiting for their hour of triumph at Baikonur Cosmodrome in Soviet Central Asia, the official Tass news agency said Wednesday.

The two probes will take 200 days to reach a stationary orbit around Mars, some 120 million miles from Earth.

After their January arrival near Mars, the probes will remain there for 60 to 90 days, then enter the orbit of Phobos, one of Mars's two irregularly shaped moons.

While in orbit around Mars, the probes will study the planet's atmosphere and ionosphere, taking measurements of both to fill in gaps left by previous unmanned probes.

NATION IN BRIEF

Pentagon to reopen inquiry into radar system contract

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pentagon investigators say it was the current defense procurement scandal that led them to reopen an inquiry into whether a top Navy official helped rig a naval contract for a $1 billion radar warning system.

Pentagon Inspector General June Brown and her top aide, Derek Vander Schaaf, told the House Armed Services Committee Wednesday that they had closed the case because they could not find evidence of wrongdoing — but now that the FBI's defense corruption probe is providing wiretaps, subpoenas and search warrants that will give them information, they are looking at it again.

The initial investigation was triggered by a whistleblower's claim of bidding collusion, which went to a General Accounting Office hotline a year ago. Brown and Vander Schaaf explained.

The claim charged Assistant Navy Secretary Melvyn Patsley conspired with officials of Litton Corp.'s Applied Technologies Division and Singer Corp.'s Dalmo Victor Division to limit competitive bidding on contracts for the radar warning receiver known as an ALR-67.

Writers vote on new contract

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Union officials warned striking screenwriters that they would face increasing pressure from major producers after a vote on an updated interim contract aimed at putting writers back to work with small independent companies.

Officials of the 9,800-member Writers Guild of America predicted ratification of the revised pact, which includes the union's proposal for domestic and foreign residuals that the major producers rejected in June.

Results of the voting Wednesday night in New York and Los Angeles were expected today.

The revised interim contract would replace a pact approved by the writers in May that has allowed about 115 smaller companies, which the Alliance of Motion Picture and Television Producers contends represent less than 10 percent of the industry, to return to work during the strike against the 270-member alliance.

Senate approves plant closing bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate showed enough strength to override President Reagan's expected veto in passing legislation that would require 60 days of advance notice to workers hit by plant closings and mass layoffs.

After crushing a Republican-led filibuster, senators easily approved the bill 72-23 Wednesday — more than the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto — and sent it to the House, which is expected to approve it just as easily.

Reagan has vetoed the effort once already, when it was part of an overall trade reform package, and his expected repeat performance sets up a likely confrontation with Congress on an issue the Democrats hope to take into the 1988 elections. Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, the party's prospective presidential nominee, has thrown full support to the bill in his campaign.

Iran demands foreign fleet withdrawal

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iran called on all foreign fleets to withdraw from the volatile Persian Gulf as it began burying some of the 290 people killed in the downing of Iran Air Flight 655 by a U.S. Navy warship.

In Beirut, Lebanon, a pro-Iranian group that holds two American hostages said today the captives "will be part of a comprehensive retaliation" for the U.S. downing of the Iranian jetliner and the deaths of all aboard.

Funeral services were held Wednesday in the southern Iranian city of Bandar Abbas for some of the 290 dead and more burials were scheduled today in Tehran.

The Iranian jetliner was on a flight from Bandar Abbas to Dubai, United Arab Emirates, when it was shot down Sunday by the USS Vincennes over the Strait of Hormuz in the southern Persian Gulf.

In a commentary broadcast

Wednesday, official Tehran Radio called for the removal of foreign navies from the gulf because "the fear has arisen that further such incidents will be repeated in the future."

"The presence of the American naval fleet in the Persian Gulf... is threatening the skies of the region," the commentary, monitored by the British Broadcasting Corp., said.

"The daily increase of such dangers emphasizes the necessity of the withdrawal of foreign navies, especially the American ships, from the Persian Gulf."

The commentary also accused President Reagan of trying to blame the downing of the Iranian plane on Capt. Will Rogers, the skipper of the cruiser Vincennes. The Vincennes fired two Standard missiles at the Airbus A300 after mistaking it for an Iranian F-14 fighter during a clash with Iranian gunboats in the Strait of Hormuz.

"By putting all the blame on the Vincennes and specifically her captain, Reagan tries to oppose the view that the presence of foreign naval forces in the Persian Gulf causes unpredictable and painful incidents," the commentary said.

U.S. officials said the $1 billion Navy cruiser has been taken off active patrol duty for the duration of a probe being carried out by a six-member team of Pentagon experts who arrived in the gulf Tuesday.

The officials said the ship, one of the most modern in the U.S. fleet, is currently anchored off the coast of Bahrain.

U.S. diplomats said the Pentagon team has the power to sanction the skipper and crew of the warship if it finds they failed to do their duty, but it was unlikely to use those powers during the 15-day investigation.

In Beirut, the Revolutionary Justice Organization, which holds American hostages Edward Austin Tracy and Joseph James Cicippio, threatened retaliation in a typed statement that was delivered to the office of a Western news agency.

The statement said the 290 people killed in the incident were "sacred victims for the presence of the American warships in the gulf" and it will not be difficult for the group's supporters to "choose the right targets."

"Let everybody know that all the strong cards are still in our hands including the hostages' affair, which will be part of a comprehensive retaliation that will force the murderers to pay the price," the statement said.

In Washington, congressional leaders Wednesday appeared receptive to some form of compensation for the downing of the Iranian plane and also appeared to agree, after Pentagon briefings, that Rogers used his "best judgment" in deciding to fire on the airliner.

Few new details emerged from the several closed briefings throughout the day, but Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman Sam Nunn, D-Ga., expressed an apparent consensus after the private session given him and Sen. John Warner of Virginia, ranking Republican on the committee and a former Navy secretary.

"This seems to me, based on what I have heard, to indicate the captain of the vessel made his decision, based on his best judgment, and his men," Nunn told reporters. "I find nothing to second-guess him on, based on what I've heard about his information and tactics."

Soviets: Dual response to U.S. embarrassment

By Gerald Nadler

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union, castigated five years ago for downing a South Korean civilian airliner with 269 people aboard, has done everything short of chortle about the U.S. embarrassment over shooting down an Iranian airliner.

"They are still in the afterglow of the Moscow summit," a Western diplomat said of the Soviet delicacy. "They haven't really exploited it, but the Americans are full of hints, and the aggressive reply is being kept in reserve."

While muting its official reaction to the discomfort of its fellow superpower, the Soviets are using the disaster to "butcher up Iran," the diplomat said, explaining that rhetorical pyrotechnics are not the best way to make diplomatic points.

"Iran is a big country, and strategic. It borders the Soviet Union. It is the real rise of the New East, and what happens there will have reverberations in Afghanistan and the Arab world," the diplomat said.

Besides being the main arms supplier of Iraq, the Soviet Union also has good relations with Iran, giving it far better diplomatic leverage in the area than the United States.

As if often does in matters of delicacy, the Soviet Union is following a two-track approach, letting the official press unleash the big guns of criticism while officials employ softer words.

Soviet officials have rechecked any joy over the downing of the Iranian jetliner, they could not resist a few jibes.

"The wild anti-Soviet howl raised by the U.S. government and mass media over the South Korean airliner is a bad example, and we will not follow it," Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov said.

Ironically, both sides rejected any comparisons between the downing of the Iranian and South Korean airliners, but for diametrically opposed reasons.

McKinney pulls upset at U.S. Boxing trials

CONCORD, Calif. (UPI) — Kennedy McKinney rebounded from a second round knockdown to upset highly regarded Michael Collins in the 119-pound class Wednesday, highlighting the semifinal bouts at the U.S. Olympic Boxing trials.

In the 106-pound class, Saturday's final will feature U.S. Amateur champ Michael Carbajal against Eric Griffin of Houston.

In the 132-pound class, Romallis Ellis, the U.S. Amateur champion from Ellenwood, Ga., defeated Golden Gloves winner Kevin Childrey, Grand Rapids, Mich., 5-0, to advance to a final showdown with Lyndon Walker, Washington, D.C., who took a 4-1 decision from Victor McKinnis, Fort Carson, Colo.

In the 147-pound class, Kenneth Gould, Rockford, Ill., returned to the stick-and-jab style that won him a silver medal at last year's Pan-Am 5-2 to come away with a 5-3 decision over Gerry Payne of Washington, D.C.

In the 201-pound division, three-time national champ Michael Bent, Cambria Heights, N.Y., will meet Ray Mercer, a serviceman stationed in Germany, in the finals.

Muster survives heat, Arias at U.S. Pro

CHESTNUT HILLS, Mass. (UPI) — Thomas Muster, so fatigued by the heat he didn't know the score, Wednesday beat Jimmy Arias 6-4, 3-6, 7-6 (9-7) in the second round at the $415,000 U.S. Pro Championships.

Muster, the eighth seed from Austria, needed five match points before ending the three-hour match played in temperatures of more than 90 degrees with high humidity.

In later matches, No. 5 Aaron Krickstein of Ann Arbor, Mich., posted a 5-7, 6-2, 6-1 victory over Diego Perez of Spain, and No. 3 Brad Gilbert of Piedmont, Calif., downed Michael Robertson of South Africa 6-3, 6-1.

Mar injured, will miss national meet

HOUSTON (UPI) — Sabrina Mar, 1985 U.S. champion and gold medalist at the 1987 Pan American Games, has suffered a recurrence of a chronic back injury and will miss this week's national championships, coach Don Peters said Wednesday.

Mar will petition the U.S. Gymnastics Federation for a bye into the Olympic Trials in Salt Lake City Aug. 4-7. The top 20 women scorers and the top 18 men at the championships automatically qualify for the Trials.

Americans look to power through tough district

Area 2 tourney starts Saturday at Altamonte

By Chris Pieter
 Herald Sports Editor

ALTAMONTE — In a district that is hands down the toughest in the state, consistency is a key to being successful. But it also takes a certain amount of power — in both pitching and hitting — to make a team stand out from the rest.

The Altamonte Major Americans hope to use their power at the plate and on the mound to make a name for themselves in the District 14 Area 2 Tournament which opens this Saturday.

The Americans, managed by George Pihakis with coaches Vernon Ford and Kevin Kip, open play Saturday night at 7 against Rolling Hills at Altamonte's Eastmonte Park.

"We feel our toughest assignment in the area tournament will be Saturday," Pihakis said. "We faced Rolling Hills and Jamie Amberg in the Top Team Tournament and they had us beat 3-1 until we pulled through in the last of the fifth. We know we have a real tough game ahead of us. We also have Pine Hills and Apopka in our area, which makes three real good teams we'd have to get by."

The Americans will send big lefthander Todd Herrbach to the mound for Saturday's opener. Herrbach pitched one no-hitter for the Athletics during Top Team play and also recorded 15 strikeouts in one game.

Herrbach, who also carries a potent bat from the left side of the plate, is one of two towers of power on the mound for Altamonte. The other is Jason Perry, who pitched for the White Sox during the season.

"Jason (Perry) has really come around the last couple of weeks with his pitching," Pihakis said. "He's throwing over 60 mph with control. He gives us another big kid on the mound along with Todd (Herrbach)."

The Americans were also looking for pitching strength from the Athletics' Matt Wolgemuth, but he injured his back and Pihakis said it will be five days before he knows if Wolgemuth will be able to play.

Also on the All-Stars from the league champion Athletics are outfielder Robbie Bruce, second baseman Chris Lewis, shortstop-outfielder Genius McCrae, center fielder Mike Gonzalez and third baseman-outfielder Richie Alexander.

The Yankees placed two players on the team including third baseman-shortstop Jason Jaiilet and first baseman-pitcher Tim Frazier. Jaiilet was the top home run hitter in the league this season with six and Pihakis plans on using him in the leadoff spot.

The Indians also placed two players on the team in outfielder Shane Wolfe and catcher David Grimm.

"David (Grimm) has been one of the best surprises we've had," Pihakis said. "We had no idea he was as talented as he is. He earned the starting catching spot and we'll probably put him second in the lineup."

Also making the squad are 11-year-old outfielder Jason Grundorf of the Tigers and outfielder Neal Bryant of the Orioles. Other 11-year-olds on the team are Frazier, Bruce, Wolgemuth and Alexander.

"We have a bunch of good players and I feel confident we'll do well," Pihakis said. Pihakis is in his third year coaching at Altamonte and his second with the All-Stars.

Ford, who played basketball at Georgia Tech, like Pihakis has no son on the team but brings a lot of baseball knowledge. He has been Pihakis' assistant for three years. Kip also coached for the Athletics during the season.

Merkerson, King lead Sanford Americans

By Dean Smith
 Herald Sports Writer

LEESBURG — The Sanford American League All-Stars, behind the hitting of Craig Merkerson and the pitching of Jamie King, withstood a furious comeback by the Sanford National League All-Stars to post a 15-11 win in the Florida Little Major League Sub-District Tournament Wednesday night.

The tournament continues tonight at Leesburg with both Sanford teams playing. At 6 p.m., the Americans play Orlando S.A.Y. with winner advancing to the championship game. And at 8 the Nationals take on the host team, the Leesburg Nationals (who they defeated, 19-1 on Tuesday), with the winner to take on the loser of the 6 p.m. game at 6 p.m. on Friday. The loser of tonight's 6 p.m. game will be eliminated. The championship is scheduled for Saturday morning.

Merkerson hit two home runs and had five runs batted in to back the seven-hit pitching of King.

The Sanford Americans' coach, Ous Raines, thought it was a good opening game for his team, especially having to play the Nationals. "We hit the ball well, and I thought we did a good job with a lot of kids who had not been in All-Stars before, and I think we relaxed a little when we got the big lead. But I was displeased with our defense it was very raggedly, but like I said it was our first game and I think we will field better."

In addition to Merkerson the Americans got hits from Travis Byrd, Corey Donaldson, Jamie King, and Quentin Hunt. King, Merkerson, and Jeremy Labit also scored three runs each.

Willie Williams led the Nationals with two hits, while Tony Smith, Don Hunt, Dexter Graham, Michael Horn, and Charles Reynolds each had one. Hunt and Horn's hits were home runs, while Graham's was a double.

After retiring the Nationals in order in the top of the first inning King got the Americans on the board by leading off the bottom of the first with an infield single. In an effort to get King the Nationals' third baseman threw the ball wildly past first allowing King to come all the way around to score. After Jeremy Labit walked, Merkerson hit his first of two home runs to put the Americans ahead after one inning 3-0.

The Nationals scored a run in the top of the second on a couple of errors to cut the lead to 3-1, but the Americans exploded for 10 runs in their half of the second to take a commanding 13-1 lead. The Americans scored the ten runs on only two hits but took advantage of five walks and three National errors. The hits were a double by Travis Byrd and a three run home run by Merkerson.

The Nationals made a game of it by scoring seven runs in the top of the third inning, the big blows being a two run homer by Don Hunt, his fourth home run in two tournament games, and a two-run double by Dexter Graham, but the early lead built up by the Americans was too much for them to overcome.

The Nationals added single runs in the fourth, fifth, and sixth innings, while the Americans countered with runs in the fourth and fifth.

The Americans line score read: 15 runs, six hits, and seven errors. While the Nationals was: 11 runs, seven hits, and five errors.

All-Star lineups set

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 59th All-Star Game is Tuesday night at Riverfront Stadium in Cincinnati. Fans across the country cast 6,146,477 votes, the most since 1984 when 6,333,903 were registered.

The starting NL lineup: St. Louis' Ozzie Smith (ss), New York's Gary Carter (c) and Darryl Strawberry (of), San Francisco's Will Clark (1b), Chicago's Ryne Sandberg (2b), Pittsburgh's Bobby Bonilla (3b) and outfielders Andre Dawson of Chicago and Vince Coleman of St. Louis.

The AL lineup: Jose Canseco (of), Mark McGwire (1b) and Terry Steinbach (c) of Oakland, New York's Dave Winfield (of) and Rickey Henderson (of), Milwaukee's Paul Molitor (2b), Boston's Wade Boggs (3b) and Detroit's Alan Trammell (ss).

Taubensee selected to All-Star team

Eddie Taubensee, a Lake Howell High graduate playing in the Cincinnati Reds organization, has been selected to the Class A South Atlantic League All-Star team. The South Atlantic All-Star game will be played this Monday at Sumter, N.C.

Taubensee, a left-handed hitting catcher for the Greensboro Hornets, is hitting 260 this season with four home runs. Taubensee also spent 10 days with the Class AA Chattanooga team in the Southern League, filling in for an injured catcher. In his first at bat in AA ball, Taubensee hit a home run.

Taubensee, in his third season with the Reds, is also considered one of the top defensive catchers in the Reds' Minor League chain. A year ago, while playing for Billings, Mont., he was rated the No. 4 player in the league by Baseball America.

The South Atlantic League has become a new stomping ground for former Seminole County prep stars.

Merchant: Young man in a hurry

By IRA KAUFMAN
 UPI Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates are placing a large asterisk next to Mark Merchant's numbers in the South Atlantic League.

Merchant's .254 average at Augusta isn't setting any Class A records, but the Pirates will be patient with the No. 2 selection in the 1987 amateur draft. The switch-hitting outfielder is only 19 and Merchant gives away several years of pro experience to virtually every player he competes against.

"You take those three or four years between Mark and the rest of the league... that's an important difference," says Augusta Manager Woody Huyke, who managed Merchant at Bradenton last summer. "You figure at the age of 23, Merchant might be in the big leagues. When you sign a young guy and put him in with older fellows, he gets down on himself a little bit. He never failed before and now he finds it hard to cope."

MINOR LEAGUES

After starring at Oviedo High School, Merchant was drafted right behind Ken Griffey Jr. last year. He batted just 265 in the Gulf Coast League but led the circuit with 33 stolen bases.

"I want to get to the majors as fast as I possibly can," says Merchant, who had only two home runs and 17 RBI in his first 177 at bats with Augusta. "I don't want to spend too much time in the minors."

Merchant, a free swinger, batted leadoff for Huyke last season.

"Truthfully, Mark doesn't like to walk," Huyke says. "He goes up there swinging. The Pirate organization is very high on him and Mark's biggest problem is that sometimes he gets down on himself. He wants to do well every day, every at-bat. I told him, Mark, I'm not interested in performance. I'm interested in progress."

Darling paves way in Mets' victory

United Press International
Ron Darling, often a hard-luck pitcher throughout his major-league career, Wednesday night supplied his own offensive support.

The right-hander singled home the winning run and combined with Randy Myers on a six-hitter to lead the New York Mets to a 5-4 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds.

Darling, 10-5, singled off reliever Rob Dibble with two out to cap the Mets' three-run sixth inning that erased the Reds' 4-2 lead.

"I'm not claiming I'm a good hitter or anything like that. I was trying to concentrate and make contact," said Darling, who has been hindered by no-decisions and injury in recent years. "I think I was lucky. The guy threw the heck out of the ball. You could say it hit my bat."

Kevin McReynolds opened the sixth with a double to chase starter Jack Armstrong. Rob Murphy, 0-4, walked Howard Johnson with one out before yielding RBI singles to Dave Magadan and pinch hitter Gary Carter to tie the score.

"Murphy made a bad pitch to Magadan," Reds Manager Pete Rose said. "and a horrible pitch to Carter when he hung a slider. Carter jumped on it."

Dibble relieved and struck out Kevin Elster before Darling lined the first pitch to center to score Magadan from second.

"Darling is a good athlete. I'm not surprised he got a hit," Rose said. "but I'll take Dibble against Darling again tomorrow night if it decides the ballgame."

Cincinnati scored four of its runs in the top of the sixth when Cal Daniels and Paul O'Neill each hit a two-run homer off Darling, who had allowed only one hit over the first five innings.

"I had some of the best stuff I've had all year and they got a scary four runs," Darling said. "It seemed like the fastest in history — in about a minute and half they had the four runs."

"I threw two horrendous pitches for the homers, but I struck out a few people tonight and I got the 'W,' which is what counts."

Darryl Strawberry gave New York a 2-0 edge in the first inning with his National League-leading 21st homer.

Elsewhere, San Francisco stymied Chicago 2-0, Atlanta nipped Philadelphia 3-2, Montreal downed Houston 4-2, and Los Angeles tripped St. Louis 7-3.

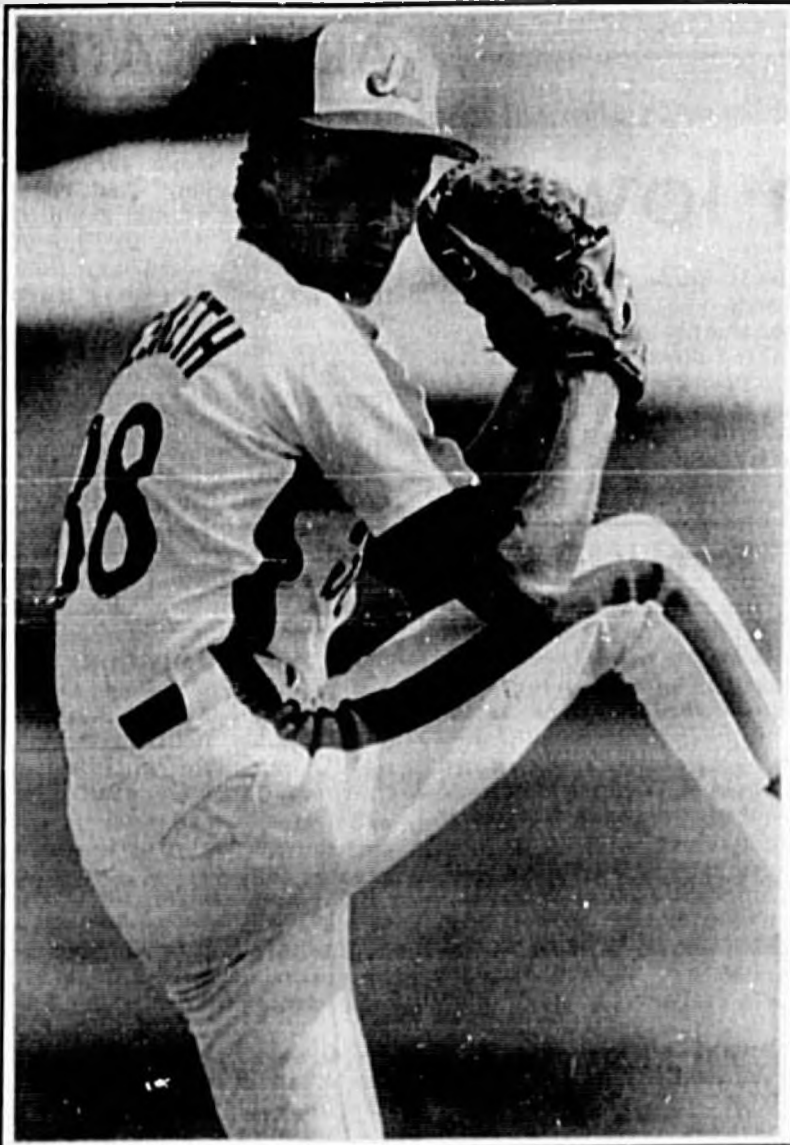

In the American League, it was California 5, Toronto 4 in 10 innings; Cleveland 8, Oakland 6, Detroit 7, Seattle 6; Minnesota 8, Boston 1; Chicago 4, Baltimore 1; Milwaukee 4, Kansas City 2, and Texas 4, New York 2.

Giants 2, Cubs 0

At San Francisco, Rick Reuschel scattered six hits over eight innings and Donell Nixon drove home the winning run with a suicide squeeze to lead the Giants, Reuschel, 11-4, walk none and struck out four. Scott Garretts got one out for his seventh save. Jamie Moyer fell to 5-8.

Braves 3, Phillies 2

At Atlanta, Ken Oberkfell singled home Jim Morrison with one out in the eighth inning to lift the Braves to their first three-game sweep of the Phillies since May 9-11, 1975. Zane Smith improved to 4-6. None of the runs off Shane Rawley were earned as he fell to 5-10.

Joe Hesketh picked up his fourth save Wednesday in Montreal's 4-2 victory over the Houston Astros.

Expos 4, Astros 2

At Houston, Pascual Perez allowed five hits over eight innings and Tim Wallach homered and doubled to help the Expos lead the Astros a season-high fifth straight loss. Perez, 6-3, posted his third straight triumph since returning from the disabled list June 21.

Jim Deshaies fell to 5-6.

Dodgers 7, Cardinals 3

At Los Angeles, Franklin Stubbs capped a seven-run rally in the eighth inning by belting a 3-2 pitch from Todd Worrel for a grand slam to carry the Dodgers. Worrel fell to 4-5. Tim Crews, hurled one inning to improve to 3-0. Tom Brunansky slugged his 13th homer — ninth on the road — for the Cardinals.

Incaviglia has blast in first game back

United Press International

Pete Incaviglia, back for his first game after missing nine with lower back strain, said he felt uncomfortable at the plate and in the field. Considering he homered, tripled and threw out a runner — Rickey Henderson no less — at the plate, pity American League pitchers when Incaviglia freis O.K.

Incaviglia's contributions Wednesday night led the Texas Rangers to a 3-2 triumph over the New York Yankees, who stranded 14 runners.

"It felt real good to be back in the lineup. I was in the twilight zone a little out there tonight," Incaviglia said. "I wasn't comfortable at the plate or in the field, but the team won and everything worked out."

Incaviglia homered in the second and after tripling with one out in the eighth, scored the insurance run on Pete O'Brien's sacrifice fly. In the sixth, his throw home beat the speedy Henderson after a single by Claudell Washington. The assist was Incaviglia's ninth of the season.

"You will never hear me complaining, but it's a different lineup with Pete Incaviglia in there," Texas Manager Bobby Valentine said. "The home run and the triple he hit were great, but the throw to the plate to get Rickey Henderson was even better. He nailed him."

With the score tied 2-2 in the fifth, Geno Petralli provided the winning run by scoring all the way from first when third baseman Bobby Chan, three-wildly to first.

In the ninth inning, the Yankees left the bases loaded for the second time in the game.

"If we had played 18 innings we wouldn't have won," Yankees Manager Lou Piniella said. "We left 14 runners on base that we should have scored seven or eight runs off. We had men on second and third with no outs. We just couldn't get a key hit."

The Yankees collected four straight singles in the first but could only manage a 1-0 lead before Mike Pagliarulo hit into an inning-ending double play.

In the second, Incaviglia sent a 1-0 pitch 424 feet over the left-field wall to tie the score. The homer was his 15th of the year but first since June 15. He had missed 12 of 15 games with the back injury. Jeff Kunkel doubled in Larry Parrish, who also doubled.

The Yankees, who loaded the bases with no outs in the fourth and failed to score, tied the score 2-2 in the fifth.

Jeff Pussell, 8-2, went 7 2-3 innings to gain the victory. He won for the first time in three games after winning his first seven this season. Mitch Williams relieved in the eighth and posted his 12th save.

Angels 5, Blue Jays 4

At Toronto, Chili Davis slammed his second home run of the game, a solo blast with two outs in the 10th inning, to lift the Angels. Davis' 12th home run of the year made a winner of Bryan Harvey, 3-2, who worked two innings. Donnie Moore pitched the 10th for his second save. David Wells, 3-5, took the loss.

Indians 8, Athletics 6

At Cleveland, Mel Hall belted a three-run, inside-the-park homer against the Athletics. After spotting the A's a 6-4 lead, the Indians rallied for four runs in the seventh off reliever Rick Honeycutt, 2-2. Hall hit the first inside-the-park homer by an Indian in Cleveland since Andre Thornton's on Sept. 10, 1977.

Tigers 7, Mariners 6

At Detroit, Luis Salazar singled home Matt Nokes from third base with two out in the ninth inning, sealing the comeback against the Mariners. Dave Valle's one-out, three-run homer in the ninth had given Seattle a 6-5 lead. Mike Henneman improved to 4-2, despite allowing Valle's homer.

Twins 8, Red Sox 1

At Minneapolis, Kirby Puckett contributed four hits and two RBIs to back Frank Viola's three-hitter against the Red Sox. Viola, 14-2, walked one and struck out five in becoming the American League's first 14-game winner this year and winning his 18th straight game in the Metrodome. Bruce Hurst fell to 9-4.

White Sox 4, Orioles 1

At Chicago, Jack McDowell gave up four hits over 8 1-3 innings and Greg Walker hit his first Comiskey Park home run of the season, defeating Baltimore.

Sutter up for comeback player honors

By RICHARD L. SHOOK
UPI Sports Writer

It's going to take an excellent comeback in top Bruce Sutter's return from oblivion.

Sutter, 35, is pitching so well for Atlanta he is the obvious choice for Comeback Player of the Year. He has a chance to highlight his return from nearly two years out of baseball by being named the Braves representative to the All-Star game next week in Cincinnati.

"He might make the All-Star team," Atlanta general manager Bobby Cox said the other day when discussing his team's top relief pitcher.

Sutter took a 1-2 record with a club-high 11 saves and a 3.24 earned run average into Wednesday's play. The right-hander finished 18 of the first 26 games in which he appeared, allowing 30 hits in 33 1/3 innings.

"He's been good almost every time out," Cox said. "There was one ball game a few games ago where he gave up four or five singles and lost the lead. But other than that, he's been darn near picture perfect."

"His fastball is good, and when he gets a few more pitches under his belt his split-finger is going to be awesome. He's been kind of feeling his way around out there. You have to remember he's been out for a couple of years."

Sutter did not pitch in 1987 and was on the disabled list from May 26 of the 1986 season.

Sutter was 2-0 with three saves and a 4.34 ERA in 16 games when he went out in 1986, not quite what Atlanta was hoping for when it signed the reliever to a multi-million dollar, six-year contract in December, 1984.

He entered the season with 286 saves, third on the all-time list, including a nine-season streak of at least 20 saves that was a first in baseball history.

The Atlanta portion of Sutter's career was plagued first by a frayed rotator cuff in his right shoulder and then by a nerve that was being squeezed by a ligament.

SCOUTING REPORT

He underwent shoulder surgery for the third time in February of 1987 to remove scar tissue in his right shoulder.

"He had a nerve that wouldn't fire," Cox said. "So he built up the muscle all around the nerve that wasn't firing to compensate for it. He's an extremely strong guy."

"He's the type of guy, he loves the game. He's been eating his heart out the last two years. He really heard down in rehabilitation, doing his weight lifting. He did every possible thing he could to come back. He dedicated himself and he did it."

Sutter has turned into something of a recluse. The 6-foot-2, 195-pounder doesn't care to talk about his comeback.

The fact that Atlanta had only 29 wins entering Wednesday's action could hurt Sutter's chances of making the All-Star squad. The Braves have used him strictly as a door-shutter and don't want to work him near picture perfect.

"His fastball is good, and when he gets a few more pitches under his belt his split-finger is going to be awesome. He's been kind of feeling his way around out there. You have to remember he's been out for a couple of years."

But the Braves' weakness as a club also strengthens Sutter's chances of being picked. Dale Murphy is having an off season and somebody from the Braves has to be picked.

SOX STADIUM OKAYED

CHICAGO (UPI) — Gov. James Thompson signed into law Wednesday the bill designed to build a new stadium for the Chicago White Sox.

The bill-signing ceremony was held at home plate before the White Sox played the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night.

Joining Thompson in the ceremony were Chicago Mayor Eugene Sawyer, White Sox owners Jerry Reinsdorf and Eddie Einhorn, several state legislators, White Sox Manager Jim Fregosi and outfielder Harold Baines.

"I just want to send a message," Thompson said after completing the signing. "We don't give up anything in Chicago and we don't let anybody take anything away from us. We are a two-team city and we always will be a two-team city."

Stock prices open lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 28.45 Wednesday, was down 9.43 to 2120.73 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 576-217 among the 1,194 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 7,120,000 shares.

Stock prices closed sharply lower Wednesday in active trading, dragged down by renewed concerns over interest rates and inflation.

A spurt of buying in the final minutes enabled the market to reduce the damage inflicted in a volatile final hour of trading.

Dollar drifts lower, gold, silver higher

By United Press International

The dollar drifted lower today in light trading on major foreign currency markets, apparently because of market nervousness over official U.S. intentions to defend the dollar, dealers reported. Gold moved higher.

Currency traders in Frankfurt reported the Deutsche Bundesbank sold $3.3 billion on the Foreign Exchange for deutsche marks, but said the West German Central Bank was not active in the market.

The Bundesbank's minor intervention followed dollar sales on Wednesday of $133 million.

In Zurich, the dollar began the day at 1.5065 Swiss francs, down from 1.5135, and in Paris, the dollar opened at 6.1245 French francs, down from 6.1345.

In Amsterdam, the dollar opened at 2.048 Dutch guilders, down from 2.05 and in Brussels, the dollar started at 38.37 Belgian francs, down from 38.42.

In Milan, the dollar opened at 1,348.25 lire, down from 1,352.75.

Currency traders in Japan said the dollar was sold following reports quoting a senior U.S. government official as saying the dollar's excessive rise was not welcome.

In Europe, the trend continued in early trading.

The dollar opened in Frankfurt at 1.8172 West German marks, down from 1.8215 on Wednesday.

Eastern, unions sign pact

MIAMI (UPI) — Charles Bryan of the Machinists union announced Wednesday an agreement between management and labor at Eastern Airlines to defuse a defuse a long-standing dispute over safety at the troubled carrier.

leaders of Eastern's three major unions and a representative of non-contract employees and the FAA.

A similar announcement was expected in Washington by former Labor Secretary William Brock and federal Transportation Secretary James Burnley.

"At a minimum, the committee will be responsible for monitoring the activities of locally established safety committees, reviewing and assisting in the resolution of issues identified by local committees and being responsive to federally mandated safety requirements," it said.

"A master safety committee shall be formed to assure safety oversight is maintained at the appropriate level of the company, Eastern's unions and the FAA," the agreement said.

Citrus Shipments

It said the first meeting of the committee will occur within two weeks and will be attended by Eastern President Phil Hakes.

Citrus shipments reported by the Division of Fruit and Vegetable Inspection will be made weekly on Tuesday through the summer. The reports will be published by the Herald in the Tuesday editions.

Engineers officially declared the depression a sinkhole Wednesday and, as a result, the building will be uninhabitable for a minimum of six months, according to Grykin.

value or total rebuild value," Grykin said.

Grykin said engineers will continue to run tests on the property to determine the scope of the sinkhole, and results may be available in the next few days.

However, each resident is responsible for their own personal property insurance on their home's contents. Grykin "guess-timated" four of the affected residents are without insurance.

Residents have found temporary housing with relatives, friends and hotels in some cases. Grykin said three residents were receiving assistance from the Red Cross.

Grykin denied reports that the condos had been built on "an old sinkhole."

"One minute you have a home — the next you don't," Don Seligman, a displaced condo owner said, shaking his head in disbelief.

"The town wouldn't have allowed it," he said.

Seligman, his mother and two other family members own condos at Capistrano. However, Seligman is the only family member whose condo was afected by the shifting soil.

Earlier in the day he had been given "two minutes" to "grab all the clothes I could," he said. However, orders to allow residents to re-enter one at a time kept them waiting their turn. They paced and nervously waited for the signal to dash for possessions and memorabilia.

"I didn't want them in more than one at a time, strictly for safety's sake," Grykin said. He explained that if the building shifted, he wanted evacuation to be swift and uncomplicated.

"If there's so much as a shimmy, we're out," he told a resident who arrived to find out she was next on the list to get in.

"I just want to get my bicycle and TV," she pleaded.

The complex, built in 1979, was converted to condominiums shortly thereafter, according to Grykin. He said the condos sold for between $29,000 and $50,000.

The homeowners association has insurance on the buildings. Titleholders will be reimbursed 100 percent for replacement the municipal parking lot across from the marina on Seminole Boulevard.

Jernigan said boaters who arrive prior or after fee collection times will be charged before leaving.

"There will probably be a lot of working this out as we go along," he said. "We will probably have people coming Friday night and leaving their trailers. When the trailer is moved they will pay a fee." Jernigan said trailers parked in the lots before the fee collector arrives will be noted and the fee will be collected from their owners before the trailers are moved.

The city ordinance, requiring fees of non-residents was adopted by the city commission last month.

The ordinance was to have gone into effect on the weekend of July 2. However, at its last meeting the commission delayed implementation after hearing a request from Dave Farr, executive director for the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, to delay implementation of the ordinance until after the July 4 holiday.

Shultz, Asian counterparts meet

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz today told a meeting of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations that Washington is "unalterably opposed" to the return of the communist Khmer Rouge to power in Cambodia.

He said China was reviewing its policy of supporting the Khmer Rouge, which is the strongest of the three resistance groups fighting the Vietnamese in Cambodia.

The ASEAN foreign ministers, representing Singapore, Thailand, Malaysia, Brunei, Indonesia, and the Philippines, were joined by Shultz and the foreign ministers of Japan, Australia, Canada, New Zealand and West Germany for the two-day meeting.

That Foreign Minister Siddhi Savetsila opened the meeting with a call for a political solution in Cambodia, beginning with informal peace talks scheduled for July 25 in Indonesia.

"We have no illusion about an early breakthrough, but ASEAN is confident of its role as facilitator," Siddhi said.

The ASEAN ministers are arranging the peace talks among ASEAN, Laos, Vietnam, and the competing Cambodian groups.

DEAR ABBY

Wife's wound won't heal until she chooses to forgive, forget

DEAR ABBY: Twenty years ago, my husband had an affair. They were caught by the lady's husband, and that ended it. I offered my husband a divorce, but he said he didn't want one. We had children in school, so I stayed in the marriage for their sakes.

This has been on my mind every day since it happened, and it has changed the way I feel about my husband. At times I actually have feelings of hatred for him.

We are best friends and very compatible, but I can't seem to get over the hurt. Can this wound ever heal? I know I can't forget it. Please publish an answer, as there may be others in this situation.

UNHAPPY

DEAR UNHAPPY: A wound will never heal if you continually pick at it. Concentrate on the present, and put away those painful memories. God made no perfect people. Believe this, and don't permit heartaches of the past to sour your future. Get professional help to guide you out of this unrelenting bitterness. You deserve better.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I visited my ex-daughter-in-law and my grandchildren in another state, and this is how I was treated by my granddaughter (she treats her mother the same way).

She kicked me, spat at me, knocked books and other items out of my hands, poked me in the abdomen and breasts with her bony elbows, stamped on my feet, and screamed at me until she got her way.

When she noticed that I was about to be seated, she jumped into my chair. Once while I was napping, she poured water on my pillow and my head. If I try to tell her something she doesn't want to hear, she covers her ears and yells until I stop speaking. When sent to her room, she throws terrible tantrums, swears at her mother and threatens to kill herself.

Her parents divorced about a year ago after a strife-filled marriage.

Do you think this child behaves this way to get attention, or is she just hostile? I am supposed to babysit with her for several months next fall. Please advise me.

TERRIFIED GRANDMOTHER

DEAR GRANDMOTHER: You don't mention the child's age, but if she threatens to kill herself, she is not a 3- or 4-year-old spoiled child acting out to get attention. Your granddaughter desperately needs to be evaluated by a pediatrician and psychiatrist. Her behavior is not normal. I urge you to tell the child's mother that her daughter is crying for help. Her obvious anti-social behavior is symptomatic of some kind of mental or physical disorder.

DEAR ABBY: Our father is 90 years old and requires complete care in a nursing home, which costs about $30,000 a year.

My sister says we should take Dad's money out of his name and put it all in our names, because we are told that in two years, the government will take over the cost of Dad's care and we can have what's left of his money.

My sister says this is legal, and our father planned to leave his money to us anyway.

It seems unfair to me to make our father penniless when he's worked hard all his life to have what he has. It's great that the government will take over when a person's money runs out, but I think this is taking advantage of a good thing.

What do you think? We need to make a decision.

SOMEWHERE IN OHIO

DEAR SOMEWHERE: Have you asked your father what he thinks? I cannot assume that because your father is 90, he is incompetent. If he is, and you and your sister have guardianship, I think you should consult with your financial and legal advisers.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence strictly confidential.)

Your Santa Dollars at work

Bruce Erickson (second from right), Jacksonville division district manager of Publix Super Markets, presents a check for $21,825 to Ed Waldron, vice president for financial development of Florida Sheriff's Youth Ranches, Inc. The check represents proceeds from last season's Santa Dollars holiday promotion conducted by Publix in 62 stores throughout north Florida. Harold Raley (left) and Cecil Everett (right), managers of Publix stores in Lake City and Live Oak respectively, look on.

Rummage sale to aid order

SANFORD — Furniture, appliances, clothing and more will be sold in a rummage sale Saturday, July 9, to benefit the Sanford Fraternal Order of Eagles.

The sale will begin at 8 a.m. at 10th Street and Sanford Avenue. Proceeds will benefit the order's building fund. The organization has rented a building, but it can't move in until the structure is renovated.

To donate items for the sale, call Frank Atchison at 321-1080.

County residents to sow seeds of goodwill abroad

Seminole County citizens are among members of The Greater Orlando Friendship Force who will be traveling for Ireland on Tuesday as U.S. Friendship ambassadors.

Goya Tex, Powell Betty Snyder and Catherine Russell all of Sanford, Steve and Eileen Phillips of Winter Springs, Marge Wilshire of Casselberry, and Jean C. Moon of Altamonte Springs are to join a group of 21 from the Greater Orlando chapter.

During their first week in Ireland, the Central Floridians are to live with different families in County Kildare. Their second week abroad is to include touring the country.

The Friendship Force, an international organization, enables people of different countries to spend a week or two at each other's table and thus help establish interglobal friendship.

For more information about the group, call Orlando chapter president Steve Phillips at 684-0489.

Thick blood should be checked by doctor

Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 60, run 100 miles a month, cycle 400 miles a month, stand 5 feet 8, weigh 150 and have a resting heart rate of 48. My doctor says I have polycythemia. Will this cause a stroke with all my physical activity?

DEAR READER: Polycythemia refers to an abnormally high number of red blood cells. It can exist as a primary disease of the blood-forming organs (polycythemia vera) or as a condition that is secondary to another illness, such as emphysema. It causes the blood to be too thick, but it is readily treatable with medicine or by phlebotomy (drawing off excess blood). It has no relation to exercise.

On the other hand, an increase in red blood cells is common in healthy, well-trained athletes, such as you, particularly if they exercise at high altitudes. With less oxygen in the air (or with more demand for oxygen), the body adapts by manufacturing more oxygen-carrying red blood cells. This adaptation is usually called physiological erythremia. It is normal and not associated with any disease.

I'm confused by your question, because I don't know whether you have polycythemia or are showing a healthy biological response to your strenuous activity. You need further testing to define your condition. You may require treatment — or you may not. If the percentage of red cells exceeds 60 percent of your blood volume, you are at risk of thrombosis: blood clots that form and block arteries to the brain and heart.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 27 and have been cutting three wisdom teeth for a long time. A dentist says to take them out, another says wait and see. I get headaches, neck aches and jaw aches. What do you think?

DEAR READER: I think that your decision depends on whether the wisdom teeth are growing in straight or crooked and whether they will adversely affect your bite by crowding your other teeth. Wisdom teeth are molars at the back of the dental ridge that are the last to grow in, usually when people are in their 20s. These teeth are not necessary for proper dentition. In fact, they are sort of an afterthought by nature: they often produce problems by growing crookedly (impaction) or by putting pressure on teeth that are already in place, thereby causing pain, overriding and abnormalities of bite.

If you are having symptoms from your wisdom teeth and if dental X-rays show them to be maligned, have them removed. If they appear to be in the normal position and your symptoms have other causes, let them alone and see what happens.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
You don't have to spend much time at the bridge table to see greed rear its ugly head. Here South was in an easy three-no-trump, with nine top tricks available after the opening lead. But that wasn't enough.

Declarer won the king of spades in dummy, cashed the ace of diamonds and led a club back to his queen. West took the ace and switched to the jack of hearts. Now living in a dream world, declarer rose with the king. East won, returned a low heart to partner's 10, and took the setting tricks when West played the three of hearts through the dummy's remaining 8-4.

Of course, even after losing to the ace of clubs, declarer can still guarantee his contract simply by playing low from dummy on the jack of hearts. He can then cover West's 10 with the king, and dummy's eight will stop the run of the heart suit. But how much simpler to just take the first nine tricks ending in dummy and then lead a club. Declarer will make an overtrick if East has the club ace or if West has the heart ace or if the defense makes a mistake.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books (C)1988, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

By Bernice Ede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
July 8, 1988

In the year ahead benefits will come to you through the contacts you establish in large organizations and clubs. It behooves you to take an active role in group activities where you can cultivate new acquaintances.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're very adept today at helping others advance their ambitions. This could prove to be advantageous for both. Major changes are ahead for Cancer in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're now in a cycle where meaningful objectives can be achieved where your work or career is concerned. Be enterprising, energetic and optimistic.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A good day to examine a problem that's been annoying you recently. Solutions that have previously evaded you can now be found.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Lady Luck tends to favor you today in situations where you can participate in something another has originated. Your contribution will help make it more successful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You could be more fortunate than usual at this time in your partnership arrangements, whether they be romantic, social or for a commercial purpose.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today, beneficial conditions are developing where your worldly interests are concerned. Be alert, because two opportunities could present themselves today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Friends may discuss things with you today that they are reluctant to talk about to others. The information they disclose could prove useful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something you are presently working on can be expanded to produce more benefits than you initially envision.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You are both an effective leader and a good organizer at this time. If you are involved in something you feel hasn't been run properly, take measures to make your presence felt.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Significant steps can be taken today to either re-channel or conclude a matter that is of material importance.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You should be able to excel today in situations that require imaginative touches. Ideas or concepts you conceive are apt to be better than usual.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something that was previously unprofitable still has some life left in it and can be reworked to produce a return. Don't give up.
