MENAHEM BEGIN ANWAR SADAT What is the main issue? It should be security for Israel'

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) Families from across Egypt converged on Cairo to greet their president, Anwar Sadat, who arrived home around 10 a.m. today from his historic trip to Israel.

Tens of thousands of Egyptians lined the route to Cairo to cheer the man who became the first Arab leader to visit the state of Israel and address its parliament. Arches of triumph were being set up along the airport road.

Sadat's comment that security for Israel was the main issue nevertheless was the first time any Arab leader has attached such importance to the matter.

"We are ready and have no objection to whatever measures that can be agreed upon to provide you with full security," Sadat said. "No objection at all ...

"The other issue is the October (1973) war should be the last war. If we agree on those two principles - security and no war again whatever happens can be solved through peaceful negotiations or peaceful means." In speaking to the Israeli political leaders - first to Begin's coalition partners, then to a group from the opposition Labor party -Sadat called for "full security" for Israel. "Confidence should be built so that we can keep the momentum (for peace). Snit Face Shir III BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) - Hard-line Arabs were enraged today by Anwar Sadat's talk of peace in Jerusalem. Palestinians cried for the blood of the "traitor," but Jordan and Saudi Arabia were silent, indicating possible support for the Egyptian president. Libya, which only recently reestablished diplomatic relations with Egypt after a series of feuds, branded Sadat an "honorary Zionist" and said he was serving a "new terrorist master," Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin.

The Tripoli regime's official news agency issued a 1,200-word broadside saying that "begging and despair were the most important characteristics" of Sadat's address to the Knesset, the Israeli parliament.

Sadat made a hard-line speech, repeating the key Arab demand for the creation of a Palestinian state before any Middle East

The state radios of Jordan, Saudi Arabia and the Persian Gulf sheikhdoms remained silent, indicating a possible base of support for Sadat.

One government official in Jordan said Sadat's repetition of long-standing Arab demands gave them a "new quality." Jor-danian newspapers also withheld direct criticism of the Sadat visit.

But government-run newspapers and radios in Syria and Iraq showered Sadat with abuse. Defiant Palestinians Sunday screamed for his blood and denounced him as a traitor "Spill the traitor's blood. Spit in his face," demanded Zuheir Mohsen, leader of the pro-

Syrian Saiqa Palestinian guerrilla group. Saiqa distributed thousands of leaflets in Beirut refugee camps calling on the Egyptian army to "oppose this treason" and for all Arabs to "follow the traitor Sadat to the ends of the earth, to spill his blood and carry out the just sentence."

In Damascus, hundreds of Syrian and Palestinian demonstrators stormed through the capital's streets and refugee camps and shouted, "Kill the traitor! Kill the traitor!" Yasser Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organizaton, spoke shortly after dawn to some 3,000 Palestinians at a guerrilla cemetery in Beirut and sharply attacked "Sadat's abominable visit," which he said betrayed the Arab cause.

Most of the vehement and violent anti-Sadat demonstrations around the world had spent themselves by Sunday and most wrath and anger was contained only in newspapers. Official Damascus radio confined itself to differing with parts of Sadat's speech.

"We take issue with the parts admitting the existence of Israel and giving the Jewish state the right of coexistence in the Middle East,' said the the broadcast, which carried brief excerpts from the speech.

Beirut's pro-Libyan As Safir daily said Sadat had just "entered history as the personal enemy of every human being in the Arab lands" and that his name would henceforth be mentioned in the same breath as those of the founders of Israel. "He has given us all a choice: us or him,'

Vice President Carries Dissident's Plea To Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Vice President Walter Mondale says he will carry the tearful plea of a Soviet dissident's wife for her husband's freedom to President Carter because the message "speaks to the full cause of human rights."

Natalia Shcharansky, wife of imprisoned Soviet dissident Anatoly Shcharansky, burst into tears Sunday during ceremonies honoring her husband and another Soviet dissident, physicist Andrei Sakharov, for their efforts to improve human rights. Shcharansky, a Soviet Jew, has been threatened by Soviet officials with a trial for treason, a capital offense, and has been in jail since March 15.

Republicans Woo Poor

LAKE BEUNA VISTA (UPI) - The Republican Party, hoping to woo a few states from President Carter's solid South, is aiming its message at the purse strings of the Southern blacks and poor whites who voted so overwhelmingly Democratic last year.

Throughout a three-day meeting of conservative GOP leaders at Walt Disney World. the message of four potential 1980 Republican candidates for president was the same - the GOP has to convince the working class that Republicans are not "fat cats." and that what's good for employers is not necessarily bad for employes.

Labor Department Warning

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Labor Department is issuing this warning to employers planning to give workers fourday Thanksgiving holidays: Don't violate federal law by having employees make up the time

"There's no problem in the employer granting the Friday after Thanksgiving as a holiday either with or without pay," said Donald Elisburg, assistant secretary for employment standards.

Conference OK's Rights

HOUSTON (UPI) - Lesbians, often the unwelcome stepsisters of the feminist movement, won a big victory with the National Women's Conference's endorsement of gay rights — a step opponents view as a setback for other women's rights.

The historic conference voted for lesbian rights, abortion and sex education Sunday night during an emotional debate. These issues divided the 2,000 delegates more deeply than any others, including the Equal Rights Amendment.

Carter On Sadat: 'Major Step Forward'

President Anwar Sadat's trip to Israel "breaks down ... centuries of hatred," believes the journey has aided Middle East peace prospects and improved chances for a Geneva conference. The president planned meetings today with national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski for a briefing that includes an update on the Middle East, plus sessions with members of his senior staff and the Cabinet.

Carter led about 100 worshipers at the First Baptist Church of Washington in prayers for a Middle East peace Sunday and said some leaders in that part of the world have failed to heed their The president later voiced his opposition to a private settlement between Israel and Egypt and said neither Sadat nor Prime Minister Menahem Begin would accept such a partial solution. In a six-minute personal prayer, Carter stood at the church's pulpit and said, "We have a vivid realization that the chosen leaders have not responded adequately to this yearning ... of the people of the Middle East for peace.' "Sometimes the leaders of nations have been the ones who have their countries," Carter explained later when asked by reporters plied: "I think so."

Hawkins: Let Bevis Successor Take Stand

LAKE BUENA VISTA (UPI) - If Public Service Commissioner Bill Bevis resigns as expected, PSC chairman Paula Hawkins plans to make his successor take a quick public position on the issues that got all three PSC members in trouble with Florida voters.

Mrs. Hawkins, attending the Southern Republican Conference at Walt Disney World last weekend, told reporters she plans to ask the PSC to reconsider all its major recent rulings if Gov. Reubin Askew appoints Bevis to the Crime Victim Compensation Board.

Mrs. Hawkins, the only Republican on the PSC, said she expects her reconsideration move to be voted down by Commissioner Billy Mayo and whoever Askew appoints to fill the year remaining in Bevis' term. But a vote against reconsideration would be as decisive as a vote on the utility rate increases themselves, she said.

Beer Canned, Banned

BILLY CARTER

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) - The president of the firm that manufactures "Billy's Beer" says he plans to ask Virginia's Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission to reverse its decision to ban the product.

Virginia authorities have banned the beer, named after Billy Carter because of the regulation that prohibits the sale of alcoholic drinks bearing the endorsement of any well-known living person on the label.

ABC Chairman Archer L. Yates Jr. said the state regulation was good public policy because Billy's Beer is "downgrading to the office of president of the country." "It has always been and continues to be the feeling of the commission that endorsements for alcoholic beverages by any Yates was listed as a total loss 12 and last Saturday, according location underneath the

"Do you think it proper for the brother of the President of the United States to endorse any alcoholic beverage, I don't care what it is?" But the president of Falls City Brewing Co. of Louisville, Ky.,

brewer of Billy's Beer, said he has asked Richmond's Reynolds Metals Co., the canmaker for Billy's Beer, to seek a reversal of the ABC Commission's decision. Falls City President Jim Tate said the Virginia commission's regulation is the only one of its kind in the country. Yates is to meet with beer distributors concerning the controversial ban later this month. The firm is already selling its beer in Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky, West Virginia and several other states. Marketing approval is pending from North Carolina, and the firm said the beer will soon be selling in South Carolina.

"It's funny they say the beer can't be endorsed when you see prominent people endorsing beer on television and there is no attempt to regulate that advertising," Tate said.

'The Handicap Is Around You'

In 1973, Congress passed the Rehabilitation Act, which declared that "no otherwise qualified handicapped individual. . . shall solely by reason of his handicap" suffer discrimination under any program or activity receiving federal financial assistance.

In May of this year, the executive branch of government, in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, wrote the regulations pursuant to that act. They require the elimination of physical barriers to the disabled wherever federal'funding is involved. They also stipulate that disabled children are entitled to free public education fitting their needs. The cost of enacting these regulations is expected to be $2.4 billion. As with other problems, however, one cannot expect that the promulgation of law, however adequate, and the appropriation of money, however large, will cause the problems of the disabled to vanish or even to diminish considerably. There is a need for changes of attitudes toward disabled persons. What should be understood, above all else, is that a person's disability, physical or mental, may not be his true handicap and that, in the terse expression of Edward V. Roberts, "the handicap is around you.

Mr. Roberts, who had polio before the age of Salk vaccine, knows firsthand that what other make of his disability has been his real handicap. Mr. Roberts now, runs without the middle finger of his left hand the California Department of Rehabilitation, which 23 years ago rejected him for treatment, the reason given that he was too far gone to be helped.

Of course, Mr. Roberts as well might have said that the real handicap is not only "around you" but "in you," provided that you are disabled and the disability has disabled your attitude. It is one of the features of the aborning "disabled" rights movement that its leaders, to the man and woman, are mostly those who are not handicapped by their own attitudes; they are, in the new argot of disability, the "able-disabled."

Thus they speak for those who may be called the "disabled-disabled." Inasmuch as the disabled disabled "need a change of attitude also, the imperative for change has a fairly broad

Surely, though, that sort of change of attitude is significantly harder than what is required of those Americans, some 180 million of them, who are "able." They have neither spina bifida nor polio nor the loss of arm or leg or both as excuse. They have no such "disabling"

What to do? For starters: the creation and-or improvement of access to and facilities on airplanes, buses, taxicabs and trains for wheelchair passengers; the zoning and strict policing of parking spaces for disabled persons; the con-struction of buildings, elevators, walkways, etc., that are useable by the disabled. And these things need to be done, regardless of the involvement of federal funds.

Beyond these and similar measures, what is needed is an increase of what has been called "imaginative sympathy:" that capacity to imagine how life looks to persons less fortunate. Imaginative sympathy takes over when particular measures run out. To put it another way, is what inspires the creation of particular measures, of ways to carry out, for example, the idea of providing education for the disabled appropriate to

The idea of equality, properly understood in American history, means not equality of results but equality of opportunity. Possibly no cause more just exists today than the drive for equality of pportunity for disabled persons.

The laws and regulations are on the books, and ome progress is being made, for example, on lizing opportunities for the disabled in the area of transportation. Still, most everything is still to be done, and it would be a star in its crown if, in the decade ahead, the nation saw its task in regard to he disabled, and did it.

Around < The Clock By DONNA ESTES

Why did the City of Longwood halt the plan in 1974 of constructing sewer lines throughout the large unsewered section of the community and the interceptor line that was to connect Longwood with Altamonte Springs for sewer treatment? It's election time in Longwood and the question is being asked again.

The answer is that the city council of that day stopped all planning on the sewer system in the summer of 1974 after the people in an advisory referendum voted two-to-one against the plan. The question was put to the people after citizens by petition forced it onto the ballot.

The move to force the referendum came about not because the people of Longwood were opposed to having a sewer system. But, rather after many took pencil to maper and determined that the cost per homeowner for the service could be $20 per month or more.

The mathematical problem was a simple one of division. By dividing the total of the bond issue, which would have been floated on the open private market, plus maintenance and operating costs, by the number of customers available the cost per homeowner was arrived at.

A cost which was neither firm nor available was the fee to be charged by Altamonte Springs to Longwood for treating the sewage.

No federal money was being given the city in either loans or grants for the sewage collection system which was the major expenditure for the city's proposed sewer system. The federal government had told the city that if it opted to build its own sewer plant rather than joining Altamonte Springs, no federal money would be available for the construction. A federal grant was approved for 75 percent of the cost of the interceptor line which was to be constructed on SR 434 to Montgomery Road, deep into Altamonte Springs territory.

Since the interceptor line passed several city subdivisions that, were already sewered, the city questioned whether it could go ahead with just the interceptor line and thus accept that grant. . The city engineers looked into it at the time and came back with the response that the city had to do the entire system, including the collection lines, or give up the grant. With the advisory vote already cast by the people, the city council opted to let the grant go.

WORLD WINDOW Refugees Pose Thai Problems BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) - Confusion

reigns in Southeast Asia over the fate of an estimated 100,000 refugees from Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam.

Thailand, host to more than 90,000 people who have fled their homelands, has ordered the ouster of all "boat people" who arrived during the past two months.

Norway and Britain have promised refuge to all Indochinese picked up by their ships. The United States has agreed to accept up to 15,000 refugees from the coasts of Thailand, Hong Kong, Japan, the Philippines and Singapore. But Thailand has a special problem. "If we treat them well, our relations with Vietnam will be endangered," a Thai official said. "If we do not treat them well, the rest of the world considers us inhumane."

Hasty and optimistic speculation by Seoul newspapers on an accord has changed to a cautious tone and now the talk of speedy agreement is no longer printed. Signs are growing that the Americans still wants Park returned to the United States for questioning.

Urban Strategy Suspect

JOHN LOFTON

New York Times, we have been given a peek at the urban strategy being recommended to President Carter by the staff of the Urban and Regional Policy Group, a Cabinet-level panel headed by Patricia Roberts Harris, secretary of the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development. Among the proposals advanced to help the "hard-core unemployed trapped in our cities" prehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), through which "public jobs" are created locally with federal money;

CETA funds through community-based groups to give jobs to a "special target group" - urban minorities: and

- A $1 billion Commerce Dept. program of "soft public works" in neighborhoods for such things as small-scale maintenance. weatherizing, rehabilitation, etc.

But, unless, for some strange reason, Carter lesires to see this country travel the same road to economic ruin as that traveled by Great Britain, he would be wise to send this "working staff draft" back to HUD, marked: "Return to Sender, Addressee Unknown."

By now, if the lessons have not always been needed, the facts and figure concerning Great Britain's economic decline are well known. During the 1955-1965 decade, industrial output increased 35 percent; but from 1965-1975, industrial output increased by less than half this amount, 15 percent. From 1966 to 1975, Great Britain's productive private market sector industry and commerce together - lost almost 200,000 jobs annually.

As regards the desirable economic goals of whether the motorist should be booked for price stability, full employment, and a balanceassaulting an officer or whether occasional of-payments equilibrium, no major nation in the osculation was something policewomen must world has failed in these areas more miserably than has Great Britain. # Riggins Has A Hand In History Repeating Itself —

SPORTS

By DAN RUTLEDGE Herald Correspondent

History repeated itself Friday night. . . but not without some effort by Chris Riggins. In fact, it was second and sometimes third efforts by Riggins that made it possible. The senior fullback had his best individual game ever rolling up 179 yards on the ground, and catching a pass for another 15 yards. His big yardage total was especially pleasing to Riggins, because it was what he was aiming at. . . Everyone would like to close out his career - whether pro, college, high school, sports, whatever-with a great performance. Riggins of course, had that motivation. He was also motivated by team and school spirit - it was Seminole Homecoming, and the county title on the line. Chris was playing for everyone at Seminole High. But it was some special information he received from coach for the Seminoles, told Riggins about Tommy Thompson's great game in 1974 - and how Thompson's performance propelled the Seminoles to a big upset over. who else?. . . Lake Brantley.

Mike Hartwig just before game time that gave him some special motivation Hartwig, football statistician and assistant wrestling

"It was so close to the same situation," Hartwig remembered. "Lake Brantley was having a real good year, and had just accepted a bid to the Rotary Bowl. We were something like 3-6-1. . . big underdogs." Other things were similar in '74 - homecoming, for instance - except that it was Lake Brantley's, not Seminole's. Thompson rushed for 174 yards, in leading Seminole to a 14-8 upset win - and Riggins immediately set that figure as his personal yardage goal for the night.

It looked for awhile as if he would fall just a little short - since the Seminoles had such a large lead over the Patriots that Coach Jerry Posey put in his second and third strings for the final quarter. But Riggins kept hinting, asking, to go back in - and finally did re-enter the contest with just under a minute to

On a first down play he burst up the middle of a good gain - 12 yards - then fumbled the ball away to Brantley's John Sobik. But Riggins didn't care; the 12 yards put him over the 174 goal. Riggins' average per carry for the night was an amazing 14.9 - as he needed only 12 tries to amass the 179 yards. "I knew I would make it, when I had 130 yards at half if I got to play enough in the second half. "It feels wonderful," Riggins said, with a grin.

After almost every victory this Seminole's Coach Posey would give some version of the same apology to his second and third teams. .

Music, Maestra, Please: The Conductor Was A Lady

Maestra Maria Tunicka, associate conductor of the Florida Symphony Orchestra, strutted on the stage with the poise, grandeur and confidence of an eager lioness Saturday night at the Sanford Civic Center to open the season for Seminole Mutual Concert Association.

The small cherub-faced woman unleashed her powers weilded the baton to conduct the symphony with musical distinction and expertise that left the audience vigorously applauding. Displaying solid musicianship and vitality, the dynami conductor led the orchestra in a varied repertoire from popular favorites and contemporary music to classica ompositions.

Preceding the concert, Laurie Dickey presented Mrs Ralph Austin Smith (center photo) with an appreciation plaque for outstanding services to the association since its inception. Mrs. Smith holds the record for acquiring the most memberships annually.

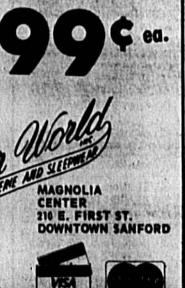

During intermission, the Woman's Club of Sanford hosted a reception when complimentary refreshments were served concert patrons. Mrs. Milton E. Smith (right photo) lights the way for the reception. - DORED DIETRICH

HOW TO ERASE A GOOD PART OF YOUR FUTURE.

Here it comes again ... another shoplifting pitch. We know you've heard it before, but read on. Shoplifting is stealing. It is punishable by law and it labels you a criminal. It can wipe out your hopes for the future. It gets you a court record that can't be erased. Say goodby to college plans or landing a job. Employers will think twice before they hire a thief. Is that wallet, necklace or lipstick you pocket worth the price you must pay in the end?

Keller Industries Survives Hearing; Plant Work Is 'Go

Attorneys in conflict: Howard Marsee for Silver Lake residents (left), Kenneth McIntosh for Keller By SCOTT ABRAHAMS Herald Staff Writer

Alarmed by what they claimed would be objectionable smoke, visual pollution and encroaching dustrial development, residents of the Silver Lake area in southeast Sanford converged upon the Sanford City Commission Monday night to protest the building of an aluminum smelting plant. The plant is to be built by Keller Industries Inc., near Cornwall Road west of the railroad tracks and north of the Cobia Boat Works.

City commissioners said since the four-acre site was properly zoned and that site plans had already been approved, there was little for them to decide in the way of permitting or prohibiting the

And Keller officials pledged to build a plant that will comply with all federal, state and city environmental requirements and to be "an acceptable industrial neighbor." "If there ever is a violation of noise, odor or smoke regulations, we will not cook another dime's worth of aluminum, said Kenneth McIntosh, Keller Industries attorney. "I don't see what these citizens have a legitimate complaint for," said Ron Richards, a representative of Hunt Oil Co., Dallas, Tx., which owns the property Keller is buying.

If the Keller plant goes up, further development "will just snowball," complained Harold, Sundvall. "I'm a family man, I want a nice life and I have a lot invested in my home," he said. "I hate to sound cynical, but I'm tired of being kicked and pushed around," Sundvall said.

Mayor Lee Moore explained at one point that the property in uestion had been zoned industrial for 15 years, even before the ilver Lake-Sanora area was developed.

The hearing was called after strong objections to the $750,000 operation surfaced in October. Mayor Moore noted hearing was not required by law.

Moore said he would delay any "decision" about the matter until all commissioners were present. Commissioner John Morris was absent. Keller Vice-President Robert Connors said after the hearing that company officials are not ready to begin construcation until sometime after Dec. 10, when sale of the property is scheduled to be closed.

The company's earlier move to change the location of the plant from a 3-acre tract at Silver Lake and Mellonville Roads, apparently has meant little to the residents of the area. About 40 persons showed up for the hearing Monday, which lasted 90 minutes.

Company officials said that defeating Democrat Harry prime aluminum would be used Kwiatkowski. Commissioners in the plant operation to reduce also renamed Democrat Bob smoke, a main concern of French as commission vice residents.

Keller officials also said the plant would be a "Cadillac" quality operation in that it would feature a $114,000scrubber that isn't even needed,
