HOROSCOPE

By RENAISSANCE BEEDER

For Wednesday, October 11, 1978

YOUR BIRTHDAY October 11, 1978 The coming year should be a fun one for you socially, and a rewarding one materially. It will be necessary, however, that you set up a budget and live within your means.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Keep your willingness share with others within reasonable bounds today. Be generous, but not in a way that you'll later regret.

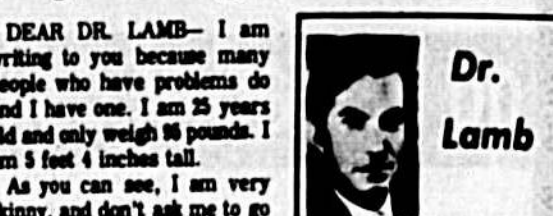

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) A desire to put your personal stamp on things that are going well without it could work against you today. Let sleeping dogs lie.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your self-confidence may be low negatively affected today by what you think others think of you instead of what you think of yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Unless you know exactly what you're doing today you could end up in a unusual situation of being a winner who loses in the process.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) When it comes to conceptualizing today, it's very likely you'll produce brilliant ideas. When it comes to executing them your grades are much lower.

Want To Gain? Try Weight Lifting

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am writing to you because many people who have problems do and I have one. I am 25 years old and only weigh 96 pounds. I am 5 feet 4 inches tall.

As you can see, I am very skinny, and I don't think I am a doctor because I have, and they all say I am OK. They give me a bunch of vitamins that won't help me to gain weight and I am very worried about this. On the other hand, my mother's mother was skinny, but not as skinny as I am, and the rest of my family is OK. Please help!

DEAR READER—In the first place, you are absolutely right about taking a bunch of vitamins. Vitamins do not contain calories. If you are already on a balanced diet and get an adequate amount of vitamins, taking additional ones won't help at all.

Most of the vitamins that you would be interested in for this purpose serve simply as catalysts to break down your food. The energy is in the food, not the vitamins. If you already have enough catalysts to break down the food you eat, adding more catalysts won't help.

You'll be surprised at my suggestion. Why don't you take up weight lifting? You don't want to get fat. That's not very appealing. You want to develop your muscles. Women who want this take up weight lifting first.

Others readers who want this take up weight lifting first. It helps them a great deal. It will develop your strength and muscle size, and you can be shapely at the same time. You don't need to worry about becoming an Arnold Schwarzenegger because you don't have to grow large bulging muscles in the process.

Weight lifting for women is an idea whose time has come. Women do not tend to grow the large muscles that men do. In fact, Jandrea Irwin is a champion in the women's powerlifting group for the United States. She is in the 132 pound class and is a shapely, blond high school senior.

Jandrea comments that training has been geared for boys but, "girls can do their thing, too, if they want." The improved development of your body and increased strength may make you feel better, too.

The only way you can increase the size of your muscles is by working them under load. The larger the load a muscle has to contract against, the larger the muscle will become. So, my advice to you is very simple. Eat enough calories to support all your daily activities and develop an exercise program that helps develop your muscles. I am sending you The Health Letter number 44, Weight Training For Energy and Weight Control.

Other readers who want this take up weight lifting first. It helps them a great deal. It will develop your strength and muscle size, and you can be shapely at the same time. You don't need to worry about becoming an Arnold Schwarzenegger because you don't have to grow large bulging muscles in the process.

Congress Works On Tax Cut Compromise As Session Nears End

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It will be up to a House-Senate conference committee to meld the Senate's $20.3 billion tax-cut bill with the $24.3 House version into a compromise President Carter can sign.

Under the combined pressure of a congressional adjournment target date of Saturday and the threat of a veto if the tax cuts are too big, the task will not be easy.

Late Tuesday the Senate approved its version — nearly twice the size of the House bill and one that includes a tax-free break for homeowners who sell their homes at a big profit, plus tuition tax credits ranging from $200 to $500 to $100 for parents of college students.

A family of four earning $17,000 would get a $100 cut under the Senate bill, $115 under the House plan. The same family earning $18,000 would get a $200 cut under the Senate bill, $230 under the House plan.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, will get Carter's views at the White House Thursday morning.

The Senate bill would cut income taxes across the board; provide a one-time $100,000 tax break for some home sellers; reduce the corporate tax rate from 48 percent to 44 percent by 1981; increase from 24 to 26 percent for homeowners who sell their homes at a big profit, plus tuition tax credits ranging from $200 to $500 to $100 for parents of college students.

A Florida reader wants to know the expert's opinion on a Florida reader's question. Some experts open one space, others one club. We have no objection to either of these openings.

Hospital Auxiliary... Some Of Them Are Not Ladies

The auxiliary is adding to its male members with a new service adding males and the auxiliary's chairman. BEAR GULLY TURNER CASTLE... NO TAX PROBLEM?

Turner Tax Matter: Castle In The Air?

Ray explained today that the county owns a 1976 certificate for unpaid 1973 county taxes on the property that includes part of the lake bottom of Bear Gully Lake, the beachhouse where the family lives and the immediate surrounding land.

Turner's partially built castle and another 70 plus acres is not involved in this particular tax certificate, Ray noted.

Bill Suber, appraiser in county Property Appraiser Terry Gombal's office said Turner said the bank house property from the 70 acre plus castle property several years ago. The purpose of splitting the property was so that Turner could claim homestead exemption on the boat house, said Suber.

Even though Turner has not paid county taxes on that property during the past four years he has continued to file homestead exemption each and every year, said Suber.

Ray said that a new law will permit the county to acquire a tax deed for the land after formalities are fulfilled that would take at least three months. The county can not foreclose and gain title to the property, however, said Ray, until seven years from that time.

The original tax bill for the property valued at $114,000 over the four-year period is $27,865.65 plus interest of 14 percent monthly for a total of $35,338.41.

Suber said construction has not been completed on the four-story castle and thus it is not listed on a realtor's listing. Turner over the years has valued the entire property including the 70 acres and the nine acres of more than $2.5 million.

Turner was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the district 10 seat in the Florida Senate. He came in second in a field of four in the Sept. 12 primary, but was defeated by former County Commissioner Bill Booth in the Oct. 3 runoff election.

Cablevision For Altamonte

Altamonte Springs may get its own independent cable-television service. After a three-year effort by city officials to obtain a cablevision firm into the city, announcement was made Tuesday evening by Mayor Norman Floyd that a new company, with its prominent place of operation, office, service facilities and satellite office in the city. The firm has pledged to serve the entire municipality within a one-year period.

Thomas N. Alexander, vice president of Sealande Cablevision, said he will submit a proposal to the city within two weeks. Floyd in announcing the firm's plan to locate in the city, stressed the city's desire has been to have a company with its prominent place of operation centered in Altamonte.

Floyd said the city this week also received a letter from the law firm of Cleveland, Moss and Shelton. The law firm requested for the new service would include the station by their view, said Mr. Alexander. "I'm started using husband and wife teams," commented Mrs. Gombal. "The auxiliary can go to the hospital's pharmacy and ask them to furnish copies and bills for the male members of the auxiliary, she said.

Your Newspaper:
It's About You

At birth... First communion... High school graduation... Your engagement and then marriage... The arrival of your children... Your 25th-50th anniversaries... And finally, death.

There may be, and probably are, many more reports on you through your lifetime. The day you hit three for four in the high school baseball game; the afternoon you won the forensics title for your college; the first prize in the Halloween contest that went to your young daughter; the time you ran for the school board and had your biography in the newspaper; or the letter to the editor you wrote on the current topic.

Yes, you are an important part of your community's newspaper. You and your neighbors continue to create the history of your community through this vehicle. A considerable share of this history includes the bargains brought by the merchants and the classified ads presented to you through your friends and neighbors who are buying and selling, renting or leasing, losing and finding.

Another ingredient — the legal notices presented to you by governmental units or local lawyers. These notices and reports give you a running legal documentation that only your local community newspaper can provide.

After you read the newspaper and clip out the items that pertain to you and your family and send an item to Uncle Jake or a picture to Aunt Maud, your newspaper is still valuable for so many reasons.

It can start the flame for the fireplace; line the cabinet shelves or drawers or even the cat's litter box; serve as protection against pest droppings. Literally thousands of uses are attributed to your community newspaper after its first need is fulfilled.

Or, you can stack it in the garage for the local paper drive, when it's gathered with thousands of others to be recycled and brought to you a second time — again, to teach and entertain. It's all something to ponder during this National Newspaper Week.

Only one day into the 1978 World Series I have a major complaint against the class of baseball. As important as the World Series is to the sports world, they have thrown a monkey wrench into a tradition as old as taking peanuts to the ball park.

Integrity
Just Isn't Enough

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The dirty little secret of the General Accounting Office (GAO) has now been revealed: The work performed by the vaunted "watchdog" of the federal bureaucracy is often slow, narrowly focused and overly technical.

For more than a half-century, GAO remained immune to criticism while it regularly exposed all manner of waste, inefficiency and incompetence at virtually every other government department and agency.

Until recently, nobody ever seriously examined the quality of the work done by the revered "investigative arm of Congress." Now, however, a congressional committee has completed an unprecedented assessment of GAO's performance.

The report of the House Select Committee on Congressional Operations was released without any fanfare. But that's not surprising since GAO is one of Congress' "children" and politicians are notoriously chary of criticizing members of the "family."

Thus, the report's primary conclusion is that "GAO is a valuable asset to Congress." That's followed by another equally favorable finding: "A substantial majority of the agency's congressional clients... have a generally high regard for the quality, professionalism and integrity of its services and products and for the competence of its personnel."

Oh, I will still watch. But it just isn't the same. Wrestling fans are indeed a breed of their own. It was never more evident than Sunday night in the Sunnyside High gym, where five matches were viewed off its quick succession in less than two hours.

Ronald Reagan
Carter's Rhodesian
Policy

From "amateur" to "sany," nearly every word in the book has been used to describe Carter administration (with a hiatus for some deserving praise for the Camp David summit meeting). "Cynical," however, is one word that hasn't been applied to Jimmy Carter himself.

His administration's indiscretion about granting visas to Prime Minister Ian Smith and Chief Jeremiah Chirwa to tell their side of the story in the U.S. was on the grounds that they represent an "illegal" government.

Smith, Charu and their two colleagues, Bishop Abel Muzorewa and the Reverend Ndabingi Sibhole, are seeking a transition to black majority rule. Their governing coalition, the United Democratic Movement, was formed in 1974.

What Smith and his colleagues needed was an encouraging word from the U.S. and Britain. What they got was instant rejection and stubborn insistence on an "all parties" conference in order to end Rhodesia's self-proclaimed status as an independent state.

Young, whose world view seems to be permanently locked into Southern civil rights marches of the early Sixties—like a fly in amber—sees the issue as "racism" and seems unable to understand what U.S. national interests are at stake.

Chacey Named Interim City Administrator

Hearing Set On Sunday Liquor Sales In Longwood

BY JANE CAMELBERY

Herald Staff Writer

As the result of the Sept. 28 straw ballot in which Longwood voters favored permitting Sunday sales of alcoholic beverages 290-177, the city council approved setting a public hearing for Oct. 22 on proposed ordinance regulating Sunday sales.

Under the new ordinance sale of beer, wine and liquor will be allowed beginning at noon on Sunday, but will still be limited from 2 a.m. to noon "other than as incidental to the sale of food or retail sale of other items."

Speaking for the Longwood Area Chamber of Commerce, Carmine Bravo, Longwood attorney, said a poll of chamber members on the Sunday sale of alcoholic beverages revealed 66 in favor and 36 against. Of the questions sent out, 66 percent were returned.

The ordinance was read as prepared by City Attorney Ned Julian Jr., who was ill and not present to explain it. Councilman Ray Leibensperger called it "as confusing as can be."

Council voted 3-1 to have the attorney draw up an ordinance banning "topping or bottomless go-go places" on a motion by Councilman Jane Lormann. Leibensperger and Larry Goldberg voted against the motion.

Councilman Stephen Burton said "Alameda has done a good job of protecting their city. Ned (Julian) should check with Alameda on their ordinance. I would hate to see SR 434 turned into another 17-92 in Casselberry."

Since Longwood voters also approved the new city charter which calls for the hiring of a city administrator, the council voted to name City Planning Building Inspector David Chacey as interim administrator at a salary of $18,000 a year while soliciting resumes from any other applicants for the job.

"I'll give it a go," said Chacey. When asked by Goldberg if it was true he would leave the city's employ if he were not later appointed to the job, Chacey said "I don't think I would like going from $18,000 back to $12,000."

City Clerk Onnie Shomate will retire after 28 years on Jan. 1 and under the new charter the post will then be appointive rather than elective. An effort will be made to hire Mrs. Shomate's daughter, Mrs. Linda Martin, for 28 hours a week until January to train her to take over the city clerk's duties, failed Monday.

Mrs. Martin takes minutes for her mother at council meetings.

"I would like to know about the salary," said Mrs. Martin. "She has a fulltime job elsewhere at this time."

Councilman J.R. Grant said, "Linda has been a wonderful help to the city, but I don't think without applications it would do the people of the community justice. Other people ought to have a chance, I'm against it on principle."

"My only fear is you will drag it out too long and with Thanksgiving, Christmas and Mrs. Shomate's two-week vacation the time is getting awfully short, said Leibensperger.

Mrs. Shomate has been asked if she would come in part time after she returns in order to train her replacement but she has said that depends on whether or not she approves of the choice.

Leibensperger withdrew his motion after Mrs. Lormann asked that the council "wait until next week" to decide.

The council authorized Grant to look into the possible purchase by the city of the 9 1/2 acre Sun-Pac property on SR 434 and 427 for a future city hall complex and report back next week.

Chacey reported the city's compensation for city employees has risen from $18,000 last year to $23,322. He said this was primarily due to two persons who were off sick costing the city $12,000. "One complained of a sore back and Tommy Jackson (city public works director) caught him playing basketball," said Chacey. "Claims by three city employees were minor and the rest was CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) employees."

"I would like to see the whole system (CETA) phased out,"

Lane, Winsor Manor, to permit the owner, Clifford Raymond to construct a swimming pool.

On a motion by Leibensperger, the council voted to adopt Robert's Rules of Order as a guide for conducting council meetings with the city attorney acting as parliamentarian.

The council voted to abandon a utility easement at 925 Slade

Thirty-six states will hold gubernatorial elections this year. Map at right indicates, 26 of those seats are currently held by Democrats, nine by Republicans and one by an independent.

Askew Sees Graham Win

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Robin Askew says Bob Graham would be "outstanding" as his successor, but won't disclose whether he voted for Graham in last week's runoff.

Askew refused Tuesday to be goaded by reporters into saying whom he voted for in the Democratic runoff between Graham and Attorney General Robert Shubin, even though he revealed earlier he voted in the first primary for Lt. Gov. Jim Williams.

He made it clear, however, he supports Miami Lakes millionaire Graham, who faces Republican Jack Ezchert in the Nov. 7 general election.

"Bob Graham will make an outstanding governor and I intend to do everything I can to be in a position to turn over the reins of government to him Jan. 2," Shubin said prior to Thursday's balloting he expected to get Askew's vote.

Askew remained neutral in the gubernatorial primary fight for the most part, but did reveal shortly before he voted for Williams by absentee ballot. Williams aides quickly declared this as an endorsement.

Askew said before the second primary he considered both Shubin and Graham qualified to be governor and would support the candidate finally winning the nomination.

He expects most other Democratic leaders to join behind Graham despite the defeat of Jacksonville Mayor Hans Tansler, who was an unsuccessful gubernatorial candidate, has endorsed Ezchert.

"I don't think his status in the Democratic primary will be outstanding in the future," he said of Tansler.

Shevin Eyes Judge's Post

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Attorney General Robert Shevin, job hunting after his bid to become Florida's next governor failed, says he may try to become a federal judge.

"It's something I'm considering, either a district judgeship or the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. But the bottom line is, I haven't made up my mind," Shevin said Tuesday.

He has gotten "some very interesting and attractive" offers from south Florida law firms and is considering those.

Shevin, beaten by Miami Lakes millionaire Bob Graham last week for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, intends to make a decision on his future in the next few weeks. He steps down from the Cabinet Jan. 2.

He could apply for one of the nine additional federal judgeships created for Florida under a bill passed by Congress last week. The Federal Judicial Nominating Commission is taking applications until Nov. 13. Or he could seek appointment to the next vacant seat on the New Orleans appellate court.

He would be expected to get the support of Florida U.S. Sens. Lawton Chiles and Richard Stone, who review nominating commission selections and make recommendations to President Carter.

His "head" tells him to join a big Miami law firm and make a lot of money, Shevin said. His "heart" says try to become a federal judge, which "will carry prestige and also allow him to continue his career in public service."

In Quest For Nomination Teddy Can Cool It Now

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the book "Paper Lion," author George Plimpton gave a lot of space to Dick "Night Train" Lane's explanation of how to play cornerback in professional football.

If memory serves, the trick was positioning. Lane, a master at his trade, had an instinct for placing himself so that he could be where the football was going in time to stop a completion or better yet, intercept.

So it is in presidential politics, especially early in the game. For some potential candidates, it probably is more important to be in a position to run for president than to be actually campaigning. An example is Sen. Edward Kennedy, it would be foolish for him to be openly running for the Democratic presidential nomination at this time.

Even when Jimmy Carter's poll ratings were sinking toward record lows, it would have been very risky for Kennedy or any other Democrat to be publicly seeking 1980 delegates. Camp David and the response of the polls is an example of why; presidents have enormous opportunities to recoup popularity losses.

So Kennedy is doing the right thing for a potential Democratic candidate. He is being seen at such places as the national governors' conference and the New Hampshire state Democratic convention; he is talking about issues that have the broadest reach, such as national health insurance.

Without committing himself to any course that could not be explained as the ordinary activities of a nationally-known lawyer and committed party loyalist, Kennedy clearly is encouraging speculation that he is considering a campaign for the presidential nomination in 1980.

This keeps him high on the list kept by Morris Ullall's "Why Invention," "The Great Moments of potential presidential candidates. It also keeps some aspirants who would not want to compete with Kennedy out of the field and, without actually soliciting for help, it turns up prospective supporters across the country.

Kennedy can continue this position for most of 1979 if he wishes. Unlike political unknowns, such as former Gov. Carter of Georgia in 1975, Kennedy does not have to try to make an impact on the public consciousness. He already is there.

Nor does Kennedy have to worry too much about campaign organization for the time being.

One of the reasons it was always assumed that no one could successfully knock off an incumbent president was the myth that the man in office always would have the party professionals and machinery ready to bat down anyone audacious enough to challenge him.

Ernest McCarthy in 1980 and Ronald Reagan in 1980 demonstrated the fallacy of that assumption. If there is competition for the presidential nomination, the regular party organizations are not much help to the incumbent.

If the president has opposition approaching 1980, he will have to put a campaign organization into operation just like his challengers. And if Kennedy is one of those challengers, he will have an organization and a game one. Jimmy Carter can count on it.

Yankees Turn To Catfish To Halt 'Dodger Blue'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Having run head-on into a tidal wave of "Dodger Blue" emotion, the New York Yankees, coached by 15 hits and three homers, turn to Catfish Hunter, the catalyst of their miracle of 1978 comeback, in an effort to get even tonight in the second game of the World Series.

The Los Angeles Dodgers downed the Yankees Tuesday night in their eighth game of the series, turning the momentum to their own side. Yankees manager Tom Yount, who belted a two-run homer in the second inning Wednesday night and added a three-run blast in the fourth to lead the Dodgers to a 6-4 win.

"Jimmy's up there watching us," said Yount, who belted a two-run homer in the second inning Wednesday night and added a three-run blast in the fourth to lead the Dodgers to a 6-4 win.

John, the Dodgers' 35-year-old pitcher, was the key to the Yankees' success in the first inning, they began to take Yankee starter Ed Figueroa apart in the second.

Dusty Baker led off with the first home run of the Series — a blast that just cleared the wall in left field Monday was next with a lined double to center that Mickey Rivera almost caught at his shoetop.

An infield single by Ron Cey, a lined single by Dusty Baker and a wild pitch from reliever Ken Clay made it 7-0 in the fifth. Three more Dodger runs came in the seventh when Steve Garvey and Baker singled, pinch hitter Bill North doubled off third base for two runs and Lee Lacy, the Dodgers' first-ever World Series designated hitter, singled home North. By that time the Yankees were sufficiently subdued, although they did manage to kayo John in the eighth.

Reggie Jackson broke John's shutout in the seventh with a leadoff homer, his sixth in four Series games.

John was tiring in the eighth and he wasn't helped when shortstop Bill Russell uncorked a wild throw back to the mound. Munson scored on the errant toss and a single by Grant Nettles brought in Pinella to make it 10-0 and finish John.

When they started out in professional baseball eight years ago, Rich Goenge and Bucky Dent, who are with the Yankees now, and Terry Forster, with the Dodgers, discovered they had a common problem. No money.

They reported fresh out of school to the Class A Appleton club in Wisconsin and finding they got along very well with each other, they quickly decided upon rooming together as a means of cutting down expenses.

"I had one room with only one bed," says Goenge, the Yankees' flame-throwing relief ace they signed for $2.7 million, when he became a free agent last winter.

Not long after that, the three of them were called up by the parent Chicago White Sox and they remained together until two years ago when Goenge and Forster were traded to the Pirates in the deal for Richie Zisk and Dent went to the Yankees.

Goenge, with his 27 saves and 2.61 earned run average this season, is the key man in the bullpen for the Yankees, and Forster, with his 23 saves and 1.94 ERA, enjoys the same status with the Dodgers. Goenge relies purely on smoke, throwing the ball as hard as anyone in either league. Forster even probably the best slider in the game and his fastball isn't that shabby, either. His slider has been clocked at 87 miles per hour and his fast ball at 85 mph.

He had both those pitches working perfectly in nailing down the Dodgers' 11-4 victory in Tuesday night's World Series opener. Taking over for starter Tommy John with two out in the eighth inning, Forster gave up a Meep single to Chris Chambliss and then struck out pinch hitter Cliff Johnson plus two more in the ninth.

As for Dent, he's basically a glove man at shortstop for the Yankees, but he singled home two runs against the Dodgers Tuesday night and the Yanks have him to thank as much as anyone for being in the World Series. It was his three-run homer in the seventh inning at Fenway Park that brought the Yankees from behind in their middle-of-the-pennant clincher against the Red Sox.

Dent remembers those early days back in Appleton when he, Goenge and Forster had to shoe-them themselves in the same one-room flat.

'Just One Game, Claim Yankees'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — One game does not a World Series make, the New York Yankees will know.

They lost the opener of the 1978 Fall Classic to the Los Angeles Dodgers, 11-4, and Manager Bob Lemon and his players immediately set their sights on tonight's second game.

"We're not going to roll over and die but those two days off may have hurt us," said Catfish Hunter, chosen by Manager Bob Lemon to start the second game.

"We're just going to come back tomorrow," said Lou Pinella, in his quiet and steady manner.

Lemon yanked Figueroa for 1.5 innings and scored once. "We can't go back to New York to get a well-pitched game from Hunter."

Tommy John handcuffed the Yankees with his slider for six innings and Pinella said, "Our hitters lost their patience. When you're down 7-0 and you try to get back in a hurry against someone like Tommy John, who doesn't give up the long ball, you're in trouble."

NHL Questions Put On Line

NEW YORK (UPI) — As the National Hockey League's 62nd season opens tonight with six games, many questions remain unanswered.

Can Bobby Orr return (after six knee operations) to become even a semblance of the player he once was? Will the ruling of a Detroit judge, returning Dale Talton to the Red Wings, open the door for the mass signings of free agents?

Can the league ever make it an national television? Orr, who has played only 20 games in the last three years, apparently is ready to resume, following a relatively healthy pre-season schedule.

Can the league control the violence that has its officials so worried? Will the league ever make it an national television? Orr, who has played only 20 games in the last three years, apparently is ready to resume, following a relatively healthy pre-season schedule.

It's Good To Train, But Avoid The Strain

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a former weight lifter and jogger. Because of an injury, I was inactive for quite some time. During this period, I had a large weight gain. I have gone back to weight lifting but I am also trying to lose pounds. Local lifters advise me to eat quantities of protein and roughage. I am interested in your opinion. Also, because of the increased exercise, I find myself arising each morning with exceptional stiffness in my legs and ankles. Is there anything I can do to loosen these muscles as average straining exercises do not always work.

DEAR READER—We often see your problem in former athletes. While they are physically active as a distance runner, a champion swimmer or a football player, they use many calories. When they stop their exercise, they don't use nearly as many calories, but they keep on eating as many as they get fat and out of shape. Excess protein will not help you. The roughage may enable you to maintain normal bowel function. Most foods that contain lots of roughage don't contain lots of calories, so that's a plus in your favor. You must limit your calorie intake while increasing your physical activity. By following such a routine for several months, you may be able to get back to a more normal weight level for you.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, "Weight Losing Diet." I wouldn't like for you to stick to this diet forever. Try it for six weeks, and then stabilize yourself without trying to reduce your weight at all for about three weeks. Then go back to it. You should increase your daily walking activity and then you can return to your weight resources. Don't loan what you can't afford.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) It's not like you to be so rigid, but today if your views are opposed you won't give an inch. Clinging to a fixed position will sabotage you.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sonstegard

In an ordinary bridge game West would lead three rounds of diamonds. East would ruff dummy's jack, discard a trump, cash the top clubs, ruff his last club, discard the deuce of hearts on the queen of diamonds, try the heart finesse and just make his contract when it lost.

Both declarers made game in the finals of the Spingold, but the play was worthy of champions. Bill Root of the runner-up team and Paul Solovay of the winners' team, both of the queen of clubs at two.

Edgar Kaplan of the runners-up and Bobby Goldman each of the winners led their second diamond wherupon both West players made the brilliant play of ducking. Each declarer had saved a diamond loser, but still had problems.

Each took a different way to resolve them. Goldman led a club to his ace, ruffed his small club, cashed dummy's king of trumps, led a second trump, finessed his jack and was home when the finesse worked.

He would also have been home had the finesse lost. West would have been on lead and forced to lead a heart up to the ace-queen, lead a club to give a ruff and discard, or a diamond to set up dummy's queen.

Kaplan's line was equally effective. He ruffed a diamond, cashed his high club, ruffed his last club in dummy and the last diamond in his own hand. Then he cashed the ace of hearts, led a second heart and didn't care how trumps broke. He was not going to have to give since he would not have to play the main suit.

Microwaving Enters Into The 'Fall For Art' Act

Discover the Art of Microwave cooking with Pat Taylor at Seminole Appliances on Saturday during "Fall for Art" in downtown Sanford.

Over 100 artists will display during the annual show sponsored by the Sanford-Seminole Art Association and the Sanford Business Association all day Saturday and Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Taylor will be popping corn and preparing tasty meals for art browsers in her store on the corner of Commercial and Palminto Avenue.

Visit "Fall for Art" and discover the easy way to cook. Mrs. Taylor will prepare the following recipes for interested persons in her store Saturday.

FRUITED PORK ROAST

1 can (6 1/2 oz.) sliced pineapple
1/3 cup brown sugar
1/4 t. allspice
1/4 cup wine vinegar
1 pork loin (4 1/2-5 lbs.)
Drain 1-3 cup juice from fruit into 3-quart glass measure or bowl. Reserve fruit. Mix in sugar, vinegar and spice. Cook in Radarange oven 5 minutes, stir once. Place pork, fat side down, in 2-quart baking dish. Cook in oven 10 minutes. Baste roast with warm fruit sauce; turn dish around 180 degrees in oven. Cook 10 minutes more. Turn roast fat side up, baste. Cook 10 minutes more. Check internal temperature with meat thermometer. Pork is done at 170 degrees. If roast is not done, remove thermometer, and cook 5 to 10 minutes more. Insert thermometer, cover roast, let stand 10 minutes till thermometer registers 170 degrees. Garnish roast with reserved fruit. (Refrigerate unused juice mixture for later use as ham or pork baste.) Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Conventional cooking:
1. Place pork in roasting pan fat side up, baste with warm fruit sauce.
2. Roast uncovered, at 325 degrees, basting occasionally, allowing 30 to 35 minutes per pound. Serve as above.

Mrs. Taylor offers this recipe that is just as delicious as it is quick and easy to make.

QUICK-QUICK CHICKEN

1 fryer, cut up
1 can herb seasoned "Special Sauce"
1/4 cup grated parmesan cheese

Arrange chicken in shallow glass baking dish. Top with sauce. Seal with plastic wrap. Cook in microwave on high for 20 minutes. Garnish with cheese. Serve over noodles or rice.

Jan Freeman (left) samples popcorn "Microwaved" by Pat Taylor who will "make waves" for art enthusiasts Saturday. Mrs. Taylor will spend the day cooking and dishing up samples for interested art show patrons and shoppers.

CHILI GET NUTRITION NOD

Training Table Tactics

A lot of family tables are training tables today, preparing jogggers, Little League, tennis buffs and perhaps aspiring Olympic athletes for the competitive world of sports.

A practitioner of no-nonsense nutrition, Pat Engberg believes that children as well as adults should respect the importance of weight control. She's a believer in daily exercise and regular participation in sports. And on the subject of diet, Pat strives to achieve a balance between intake of saturated and polyunsaturated fats.

Strenuous exercise burns up a lot of calories, that's why exercise is important for physical fitness. But healthy athletes need protein, minerals and vitamins to run efficiently and many athletes have to learn the hard way.

Pat enjoys cooking and collecting recipes but the recipes she clips must provide a generous quantity of nutrients without a surplus of calories and saturated fats.

One her favorite stand-bys is Chili Con Carne because it's economical and a good source of protein, minerals and vitamins. Her basic recipe combines well with numerous other ingredients for making distinctively different main dishes.

Basic Chili Con Carne may be served with kidney beans or rice. It can be topped with cornbread for a delicious Tomato Pie.

4-WAY CHILI

1 tablespoon corn oil
1 cup chopped onion
1 pound lean ground beef
can (28 oz.) peeled white tomatoes

1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon chili powder
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 teaspoon salt
1 can (17 oz.) red kidney beans
In a large skillet melt corn oil margarine over medium heat. Add onions and saute until golden. Add beef and brown thoroughly. Add tomatoes, sugar, chili powder, garlic and salt; cover and simmer 45 minutes. Uncover and continue cooking 15 minutes or until most of the liquid has been absorbed. Mix in kidney beans and heat through.

CORNBREAD TOPPED CHILI:

1 recipe 4-Way Chili
1/4 cup sifted flour
one-third cup yellow corn meal
1 tablespoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 can (17 oz.) red kidney beans
In a large skillet melt corn oil margarine over medium heat. Add onions and saute until golden. Add beef and brown thoroughly. Add tomatoes, sugar, chili powder, garlic and salt; cover and simmer 45 minutes. Uncover and continue cooking 15 minutes or until most of the liquid has been absorbed. Mix in kidney beans and heat through.

CHILI PEPPERS

4 large green peppers
4 cups green peppers
1 recipe 4-Way Chili
Hollow out green peppers. Place in large sautepan with 4 cups water. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer 3-7 minutes. Drain peppers and place in serving dish. Spoon chili into peppers and serve.

CHILI AND RICE

4 cups cooked rice
1 recipe 4-Way Chili
Place rice on serving platter. Spoon chili over rice and serve.

Let Vegetables Liven Up Winter Meals

We usually think of red cabbage in terms of German dishes, such as sauerkraut and smoked pork roasts.

But red cabbage is also tasty when cooked quickly in stir-fry method with fresh tart apples, bananas, raisins, grapes, pineapple or Mandarin oranges. This makes a crunchy sweet-sour combination that goes well with ham, sausages, pot roast or game.

SWEET- SOUR APPLES WITH RED CABBAGE
1 med. size head red cabbage, shredded
1/4 cup corn oil margarine
1 large, slightly chopped tart apples, grated
1 large onion
1-2 cup brown sugar
1-3/4 cup cider vinegar

CABBAGE ACCOMPANIES MANY ENTREES

Parsnips are excellent fall-winter additions to the menu. Take advantage of this vegetable now. Serve it pureed in the French manner, creamed or with a sweet mustard glaze.

MUSTARD-GLAZED FRESH PARSNIPS
3 lbs. fresh parsnips
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup packed light brown sugar
1/4 tsp. dry mustard

Wash parsnips. Place in a medium saucepan with salted water to cover. Bring to a boil. Cover and simmer over low heat for 30 minutes or until tender. Drain and cool slightly. Peel and cut into 1-inch slices.

To prepare cream sauce, melt butter or margarine in a medium saucepan. Blend in flour. Stir in milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add lemon juice, sugar and salt. Add parsnips. Mix well. Makes 4 servings.

PARSNIPS OFFER VARIETY

Don't Overlook Golden Meat Of Winter Squash

Does uncertainty about how to prepare hard-balled squash keep such tasty varieties as Hubbard, Butternut and Acorn off your dinner table? There's no need to overlook this easy-to-prepare vegetable with delicious golden meat inside.

MAPLE-NUT HUBBARD SQUASH
3 pounds Hubbard squash
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup maple syrup
Salt and pepper to taste
1/4 cup chopped pecans

BAKED BUTTERNUT SQUASH
1 large butternut squash, pared, cut into 1/4-inch cubes (remove seeds and fibers)
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 cup packed brown sugar

Donny And Marie Open Season With Lynde, Young

United Press International
FRIDAY NIGHT FEVER: The disco epidemic has spread all the way to Fresno, Calif., where "The Donny and Marie" show is taping its fall season to the best and necking the hill with everyone from Miss America to Marcia Wally.
Who quit being kids some time ago — will open their ABC-TV Friday 10 p.m. production with Robert Young, Kirk Kristofferson and Paul Lynde in a "white tie and tails competition," judged by Kyle Barker — the reigning Miss America, Rita Coolidge, Betty White, comic Johnny Dark and the show's regular "Dico Doozer" round out the cast.

RIGHT YUK, WRONG MODEL: Cybill Shepherd thinks the rumors are funny — but not true.
The freestyle actress' car supposedly broke down in Memphis, her home town, and she and the mechanic were so smitten by love at first sight that he walked off the job and she brought him back to Hollywood. The real story is like a movie plot, she says in Los Angeles. Her brother introduced her to her new boyfriend — 39-year-old David Fier — in a Memphis nightclub. She didn't go to his Mercedes-Benz agency "because I drive a BMW and you won't ever find a Mercedes man helping fix a BMW." And he's not a mechanic, he owns the place.

Crowding Spurs $5.6-Million Plan For Hospital

By TOM GORDANO
Herald News Editor

In an effort to relieve overcrowding, Florida Hospital North on SR 68 in Altamonte Springs today embarked on a massive $5.6-million expansion program designed to ease the increased patient load and provide additional services. The project got underway this morning with formal groundbreaking ceremonies and is expected to be completed in 18 months, according to hospital vice president Ed Weiss.

"We've been filled to capacity recently and over the past few days we've had people sitting in the lobby waiting for rooms. In some cases we've had to send patients home and reschedule their surgery," one hospital spokesman explained this morning. This is the first major expansion at the Florida Hospital North since it opened in 1977, having 1,000 beds.
