Student drug use up

More middle school kids experimenting, although most don't

By YICK! Bosons Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Despite strong efforts by the Seminole County school district to thwart drug use even before it begins, drug use dramatically increases when students enter middle school.

"It is the age of experimentation." Jim Dawson, the school district's prevention coordinator, observed.
"No matter what they learn or know, they have to try it themselves."

The most recent survey of drug use done by the school district was completed two years ago. The district is preparing to do another battery of questions now.

Dawson believes the results will be similar.

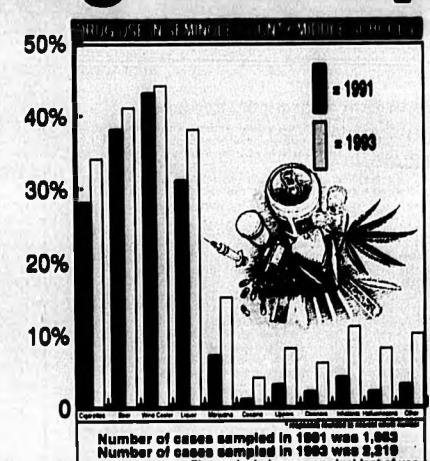

The numbers, Dawson said, are high, but the trend is still that "most kids aren't doing any drugs"

Still, he said, one student is one too many when it comes to drug

According to the 1993 survey, 34 percent of middle school students smoked cigarettes (up from 28 percent in 1991), 41 percent had drunk beer (38 percent in 1991), 15 percent had smoked marijuana (seven percent in 1991), four percent had used cocaine (one percent in 1991) and 11 percent had used inhalanta (four percent in 1991).

Among elementary school students, overall drug use had decreased or remained the same in the two years between surveys, though there were some exceptions.

In 1993 and in 1991, six percent of the students said they had smoked cigarettes. In 1993, nine percent of the students said they had drunk beer (down from 14 percent in 1991). Marijuana use was up from zero to one percent, and the □lice Experiment, Page SA

Lawyers can't exploit clients with sex

TALLAHASSEE — Lawyers can't take advantage of their position for the purpose of having sex with a client under a rule adopted Friday by the Florida Bar.

The rule would apply, for example, when lawyers deal with clients in vulnerable emotional shape, such as someone going through a divorce, said Bar President William Blews, who supported the measure.

It does not say that a lawyer and a client can never, under any circumstances, have sex," he said.

The rule would not apply to a sexual relationship between a lawyer and client if the sex began before the legal representation.

The Bar's Board of Governors approved the rule 37-6; it goes to the state Supreme Court for final approval.

Board members who opposed the rule said it was unnecessary. Existing rules for ethical misconduct would cover the concern over sex between a lawyer and a client.

Settlement of discrimination lawsuit

INDIANTOWN - More than 700 workers should start getting checks totaling $13.5 million next month in a settlement of a racial discrimination lawsuit against a Martin County citrus company.

Checks were set for distribution March 13 and 14 to current and former workers who sued Caulkins Indiantown Citrus Co. more than a decade ago, said Peter Helwig, executive director of Florida Rural Legal Services.

The class-action suit was filed in 1983 on behalf of black employees who say they were subjected to verbal abuse, racial harassment, discriminatory reprisals, racial jokes and other abuses while working for Caulkins in the 1970s and early

The case went to trial last year in federal court in Miami. A nine-person jury rendered a verdict for the plaintiffs last May after more than two days of deliberations.

In December, an agreement on the formula for calculating and distributing the settlements was approved by a judge.

Deaths may lead to changes in training

FORT BENNING, Ga. - The deaths of four U.S. Army Ranger students in a swamp at Eglin Air Force Base may have far-reaching implications and force some changes in training, says a retired general responsible for putting together the first modern Ranger battalion in 1978. There will be questions about whether the Rangers' attitude that they can do anything contributed to the students' deaths, said retired Mai. Gen. Kenneth Leuer, a former Fort Benning commander who now heads Goodwill Industries in Columbus.

The Army has ordered four investigations into the deaths. The soldiers apparently died from exposure after up to eight hours in 52-degree water in a Florida swamp exercise, only two degrees above the point where the training would have been called off, the Army said.

Somebody should have figured "it's going to get even colder when it gets dark," Lever said.

Ranger training — and all water-based training at Fort Benning — was suspended by post commander Maj. Gen. Jay Hendrix after the Wednesday deaths, but Ranger students at

Coast Guard searching for missing teen

MIAMI - The Coast Guard searched off the southern coast of Florida Saturday for a 14-year-old Canadian boy who apparently jumped overboard from a cruise ship after an argument.

The boy, Grant Medeiros, had been in an argument with his parents before he disappeared Friday, leaving only his tennis shoes on deck, Coast Quard Petty Officer Steve Aitkins said. "It's an unknown when he would have gone overboard," Aitkins said. "Nobody saw him jump overboard, nobody saw him in the water. We are going on a report that he is missing from the boat and he had threatened to jump overboard." The cruise ship Regal Princess arrived at Port Evergiades in Fort Lauderdale early Saturday after delaying three hours to aid the Coast Guard in the search in dark waters. The 70,000-ton boat was returning from Cosumel, Mexico and a cruise of western Caribbean during a weeklong cruise. It has a capacity for 1,590 passengers and 800 crew members. The family was taken to an undisclosed Miami hotel and the ship was expected to leave again at 5 p.m. Saturday. Aitkins said the parents were traveling with another son and a daughter. From Associated Press reports

Support the county fair

In some cities up north, the county fair is one of the biggest events of the year. It used to be that way here in Central Florida.

For example, the Canfield Fair in Canfield. Ohio annually draws tens of thousands of people. The whole family becomes involved, and people travel for hundreds of miles and stay for the entire 10-day event.

One of the reasons of course, is that it's in an agricultural area, and farmers and ranchers are anxious to show off their animals

Here, agricultural operations are not what to y used to be when Sanford was the celery al of the world. We don't have thousands of heads of cattle, and few private citizens try to have their own vegetable gardens.

We do have a fair however. It will run Feb. 23 through March 5, at the Seminole Greyhound Park in Casselberry.

This will be the second year the fair has returned to Seminole County, after many years of inactivity. Last year, there was a d turnout. This year, more events, more activities, and more of a county fair at-masphere is promised. The numbers can be expected to be much larger.

We doubt if people will drive hundreds of sailes for our fair. Except for employees at the fair, few will stay in the area for the entire time period. We also doubt that too many competition or that there will be a pie-cating contest.

But for a complete overview of the county and some of its agriculture, plus an active nidway and many outstanding exhibits, we believe attending the Seminole County Fair will be well worth a full day if not two, for the

If more people support it this year, it's sure to be even bigger and better next year, and so

If people don't take the time and make the effort this time, in a few years, they may be wondering why the area again, no longer has

Build it and they will come. The fair has seen built. Now it's up to the people. Visit the sir and have a good time. It will be worth it.

Response to column

Please forgive me for waiting to answer D.G. Coe's column of Feb. 5 re normalizing United States and Vietnam relations. His words amazed and delighted mel it seems something I would have loved to have shouted from the highest roof top from the first word he wrote to the very last. I have never agreed with anyone more.

se forgive me too for my mistakes. I am an old lady of 86 years and I have glaucoma so I cannot read what I wrote and this is not easy but I and wanted to say those things for a long time. I ht it was such truth and I agreed with him in

It also, judging from my lifelong experience, was so unusual that my country's attitude seemed childish and unreasoning that I felt hopeless for the country's well-being.

Of course, listening to TV one loses a lot of hope as the words of Congress sink in. So many idiotic self-seeking speeches destroy the effort of so few.

I wonder if today no one answers him, he doesn't become wordless when it is time to write his column. That must make him wonder who he can talk to. I know that! Well. I can read it though that to difficult so I am sure there are many people who read his efforts though the kids are equalling, their in-laws are out of focus, the roast is burning, the dog has floor and their hours are too few.

Well the way it is, I, too, can't write anymore, my friends inconsiderately die and leave me the companionship of my white dog, Paxson, and my golden out who is his dearest friend. But the two are heartwarming and console me from being in a world which never seems to be living in the same world with me. Well, he is! He made it better so there must be hope for us all.

Celebrating African-American History

February is African-American History Month and in recognition of this, the Cultural Arts Center in DeLand was filled to capacity, Sunday. Feb. 12 in anticipation of the presentation "Our Roots in Music." This was a production of the Storybook Theater Company, Bethel AME Church and the Bethune Cookman College Chorale Ensemble. The cast, the choreography and presentation was extraordinarily moving.

The African-American journey from slavery to the present was heralded in narrative and song. The repertoire included: "What Kind of Shoes," "Free at Last," Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen," "Soon I Will Be Done with the Troubles of the World," "Steal Away," "The Potter's House," "Can't Nobody Do Me Like Jesus" and 'When the Saints Go Marching In."

The poignant struggle of African Americans has deep meaning for those of African descent as assuredly as the Holocaust has for persons of Jewish ancestry. The added burden for African Americans is that the struggle persists to the

Petty points of government

I've been giving some thought to the nomination of our next potential Surgeon General, Dr. Henry Foster, and the parallel similarities it presents to the whole process of what is in generally wrong with our government these days. I mean here is a man, one would assume carefully chosen and screened by the people who do such things, and the minute his name is mentioned, the stigmata begins to appear upon his palms.

Now I don't know any more about Dr. Foster than you folks do: he's a doctor, has done some abortions in his day, and apparently was well thought of enough to have made his mark in the medical community. Clinton nominated him for the post of Surgeon General a few weeks back and now he's the baby murderer from hell and possibly even took part in the aterilization of the mentally challenged. OK. I gather from the evening news that the abortions were in instances of rape and life-saving measures, and the sterilization was until recently a widely accepted procedure around the country: therefore, I do not view either issue with much particular alarm towards the potential of his obtaining a new federal job. So what's the big ruckus about.

Having a somewhat jaundiced eyed viewpoint of the political process in general, I am afraid that the negative voices being cast forth concerning Dr. Foster are just simply one more example of the political game of "king of the hill" that has overridden most of our federal government's efficiency these days.

Mr. Quayle, the spelling champ and so-called conservative bright light of the Republican Party, recently declined to throw his hat in the proverbial ring for '96 in an apparent effort to avoid the very same dog fighting which now besets Dr. Foster. If you think about it for a moment, you might find the whole thing transcends from merely being somewhat abourd to downright obstructive to the smooth and even workings of our government today. And it needs to stop.

Now politics has always been a pretty dirty business at best, and a downright cutthroat one at its worst. But the nature of the character assassinations which our media-driven society now permits is one day going to finally force all men and women of quality from ever seeking higher office. Why should they? Normal people all make some mistakes in their lives. Some of those normal people who see their duty as being on a higher plain sometimes seek public office. But when the leave of whether or not Candidate X ever cheated on his income taxes 20 years ago or Candidate Y amoked pot in college can be enough in the public's mind to disqualify that candidate from even attempting to serve his fellow man, then all we have left are the rascals and scalawags who either haven't been caught, or who have a sufficiently skiliful PR (public relations) department to turn that misfortune around into a qualification for sainthood. Richard Nixon is a case in

Most of my readers do not remember the pre-'60s conservative who gave the famous Checkers speech or who was also the righthand man to Joseph McCarthy. They remember the Nixon of Watergate who tried to do what so often is done, and ultimately got his foot caught in the door. We fired him for it. right? So then what happened. Ford pardoned him, he made a few trips to China, and in just a matter of years, our jaded little selves turned around and made him a hero for his etatesmanship. Oksy, I thought he mea-culps-ed preity well too, and as I said, he just got caught. But what kind of an example does that send to the political assignment out does that send to the political aspirants out there who view power and money as being more important than political service. Or conversely, when we forgive the Nixons of the world, and hurl invectives against the more pure and publicly motivated of our brethren, then what should we expect. Perhaps if we concentrated more on the qualifications for the jobs or offices in question and less on those things from the past which should really have no bearing on the present, then maybe, just maybe, we might finally get something accomplished in this country besides the increase in the hypocrisy factor.

The old saying says that we get what we deserve. Dr. Foster may or may not be suitable for the post of Surgeon General based on his qualifications as a doctor: I honestly don't know enough about him to form any opinion. But you know what? I doubt very much that I/we shall ever have the chance to learn anything about him either. Decisions are based on somewhat more petty things in the government these days. But then again, that is the way we must want it ... Personally, I liked C. Everett Koop, he had a nice beard.

Prison torture rampant in Iran

WASHINGTON - House Speaker Newt Oingrich, R-Ga., has fired a warning shot across the bow of iran's ruling elite — and it's about time.

Gingrich was speaking last week to a conference of military and intelligence officers when he said American strategy should be "designed to force the replacement of the current regime in Iran."

The powerful speaker hinted broadly that ousting lran's muliahe might be a good mission for the Central Intelligence Agency, which is still scrambling to remission after the devastating Aldrich Ames spy case. Since a military ouster is out of the question.

any efforts to de-stabilize fran would begin with the CIA. Should the CIA get around to it — after 16 years of failed policies toward fran that unsettled the Carter, Reagan and Bush administrations — they'll-find among Iran's citizens plenty of diseatisfaction with the nation's islamic government.

Since a military ouster is out of the question, any efforts to destabilize iran would begin with the CIA.

One of the primary reasons for the discontent is also one of the key reasons it is barely visible — Iran's repressive secret police and prison system. Many Iranians live in such terror of them that public protest is out of the question.

But as with all budding revolutions, a spontaneous public explosion becomes inevi-table as the number of angry citizens swells. When the rebels sense they're in the majority and the government's hand is weakened. they strike. That's precisely what happened in 1979, when Islamic rebels overthrew the dictatorship of the Shah.

Those conditions are now building in Iran. From U.S. Intelligence reports, eyewitnesses and other sources, we have learned some of the ghastly details of the torture being inflicted upon prisoners in Iran. The names of more than 3,000 torturers have been documented. It's a brutal system that would make even the most hard-line American politician crings. It should also provide fertile ground for any future destabilization efforts by the Rape of female prisoners, including young girls, is common, and the guards often force the victim's family members to watch. Blocking the urinary tract, which causes a breakdown of internal organe, is another common torture method. Naile have been driven into prisoners' akulla, legs and feet. One ex-prisoner reported to ue that nails were driven into her breasts. Continuous flogging with thick electric cables is the most common means of torture.

This occurs on the soles of the feet, the lower legs, the back and the face. It is the most common cause of death in the torture chambers Another widespread method is burning with electric irons, stoves, cigarettes, acid or boiling oil.

Breaking a prisoner's bones is also a favored method of torture. We were told of favored method of torture.

one man who had all the bones in his face broken before he was put to death in Tabris Prison. Other prisoners had their fingers, hands and legs amputated before they died. Testimony about these hideous deaths is usually provided by grieving relatives who see their loved ones' mutilated bodies when they are returned for burial.

As the late Ayatolish Khomeini, who called imeelf a man of God, once declared publicly: 'Killing is mercy, for it seeks to rectify the person. A person sometimes cannot be rectified unless he is cut up and heated up. You must kill, burn and lock up those who are in opposition."

Moscow summit scrubbed

WASHINGTON — President Clinion is ecrubbing a May summit in Moscow with Russian President Boris Yeliain to register U.S. disapproval of the bloody putdown of the revolt in Chechnya.

The decision Friday followed Yeltsin's defense of the offensive in a speech to the Russian parliament on Thursday in which he did not offer political negatiations to the rebels in the Chechen republic.

Yeltsin had hoped to have Clinton present for a 50th anniversary celebration May 3 of the allies' victory over Germany and fascism in World War II.
But Secretary of State Warren Christopher told The Associated Press: "I doubt the president will be going for the ceremonies in Moscow in May. Last year, the president went to Normandy, and to Corregidor and the Philippines.
"This year he's concluded he chooses to commemorate the final victory on U.S. soil with a ceremony in Hawaii. That's not an absolute, but it's his preference."

The tentative date for a presidential trip to Hawati to commemorate the end of World War II is Sept. 2-3, said a senior U.S. official, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Unmasked robel leader flees

MEXICO CITY - A diagruntled Zapatieta guerrilla commander helped the government arrest several top rebels and unmask their leader, Marcos, who fied his jungle hideout so quickly he left his computer, a library and even his trademark pipe behind.

With that information, the army sent helicopters, armored vehicles and infantry into reserviness towns in the southern state of Chiapan. The Zapatista National Liberation Army retreated into the jungle and the army encountered no resistance as it took control.

Soldiers packed into trucks and armored vehicles headed deeper into rebel territory Friday despite the president's pledge to avoid a confrontation with the Zapatistas.

Child abuse is killing the kids

By LYNDSEY HOLLIDAY Herald Correspondent

Child abuse.

Why? Child abuse is one of the leading killers of today's society. Many children are suffering from child abuse and are not even aware of it.

There are three kinds of abuse: Physical abuse: like hitting. Emotional abuse: a combination of words and cut downs. • Sexual abuse: making a child perform an unlawful task to seek their pleasures. Which is the worst? They're all the worst.

Physical abuse leaves sears

inside and out. Emotional abuse leaves you with major internal scars. •Sexual abuse leaves you with internal and external scars. Many children who suffer from child abuse, lose their sense of trust toward an important person.

A female may never trust a male again. A male may never trust a female again.

Lyndsey Allyson Holliday

Everything that affects you when you're a child will affect you when you're an adult.

Child abuse needs to stop! No child asked to be brought into this world. So when deciding to have a child, please remember the responsibilities that come with it.

More teens, more murder

ATLANTA - The U.S. murder rate, already described by some as an epidemic, will increase sharply and lead to a "blood bath" within the next decade as the number of teen-agers grows, a researcher says.

Murders committed by children aged 14 to 17 have increased by 165 percent since 1965, said James Alan Fox, dean of the College of Criminal Justice at Northeastern University.

That will surge even more as some 40 million young children mature into their teens, Fox said.

"Unless we act today, I truly believe we'll have a blood bath in 10 years when all these kids grow up," Fox said Friday at the national meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. "I'm not optimistic."

NEW YORK — Young couples are more likely to split if they live near lots of unmarried men or women, a new study finds — suggesting that many husbands and wives are keeping an eye out for a better partner.

The more possibilities they see, the better the chance of finding someone worth leaving a marriage for, researcher Scott J. South said Friday. South said he assumes that unhappy marriages are especially vulnerable. But he-couldn't rule out some effect on people quite satisfied with their marriages who happen to meet the partner of their dreams.

South, a sociology professor at the State University of New York at Albany, and colleague Kim Lloyd present their study in this month's issue of the American Sociological Review.

Andrew Cherlin, a Johns Hopkins University sociologist who studies marriage and divorce, called the study "a good piece of research that shows even married people may consider the alternatives if they're not satisfied with their partners. But, he added, "I don't think this tells us that the presence of unmarried adults is a threat to a happy marriage."

The study dealt with non-Hispanic white people in their 20s, young enough that they had been married a relatively short time.

The early years of marriage bring the highest risk for divorce, and it's not clear whether the study findings would apply to people who've been married longer or belong to other ethnic groups, South said. He and Lloyd analysed results from a survey of 2,592 men and women who were interviewed annually from 1979 to 1985. About 22 percent of the partici-pants divorced or became separated during that time.

Using census data, the researchers computed for each participant how many unmarried people of the same ethnic and age group were available in the general area where the participant lived.

Seniors learn to fight crime

Focus: Scams against the elderly

By MARY ROWELL Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY - Area senior citisens learned a little more about scams aimed at them this past week.

Triad North Seminole Safety Seminar was held at Lake Mary City Hall. Triad is a group of seniors and representatives from law enforcement agencies who work to educate seniors about handed out the door prises. Lake Mary Police Chief Richard Beary introduced state Rep. Lee Constantine. Constantine talked about the juvenile justice crime bill that was passed last year. The effects of the bill are reginning to be felt. With the help of that bill and other changes in the justice system. prisoners are now serving an average of 77 percent of their time, up from the 40-50 percent average of just a few years ago. Constantine said he still wasn't satisfied. His eventual goal is for all prisoners to serve at least 85 percent of their time. If you have any problems or questions for Rep. Constantine, you can call him at 331-WORK.

Triad President Dottle Burkett welcomed visitors to the semi-nar. Then, with help from Sgt. Linda Belflore of the Lake Mary Police Department, Dottle

Scott Ballou, an investigator for the Frauds and Forgery Division of the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, was the first speaker for the day. Scam artists, Ballou said, tend to prey on the elderly. Scott explained some of the typical frauda se-niors must be on the lookout for.

The roofing scam is typical. Someone comes by your home and tells you they're going to give you a free estimate on either ainting your roof or fixing it. While one person is talking to you, another is taking the ladder off the truck and climbing on the roof before you can say no. The people will then charge you hundreds or even thousands of dollars for work you didn't want or need. And in these cases, the work they did on your roof is, at best, uncless, but in many cases, actually damaging to your roof. If you did not call someone to work on your roof, do not hesitate to call the police.

A scam that is currently being used involves credit cards. Someone will call you at home. supposedly from the bank, and tell you they are revoking your credit card for one reason or another and relacting you a new card. They will ask for your credit card number, expiration date and identification number. They then tell you to put the credit card in the mailbox for a bank courier to pick up. No bank or credit card company would do this. Call the police and do not give anyone your credit card number over the phone.

The bank examiners scam preys on people who want to be helpful. Going in or coming out of the bank, someone dressed in a suit will approach you. This person will claim to be either from the police department or the sheriff's office. They will have a badge and a picture identification to prove it. They will tell you that they suspect someone in the bank is either skimming money off withdrawals or substituting counterfeit money for real money. They will ask you to withdraw money so they can check it. They will either count it or check to see if it is counterfeit. They will promise to return your money They might even give you a receipt for it. You won't get your money back. No matter how real the badge looks (it probably is), no law enforcement agency would ask you to give them money to help them catch some-one. Call the police if anyone approaches you with this scam. Telephone scams are also on the rise. If someone calls you and says you won a prise, but you have to pay the taxes by check or credit card, don't do it. Take down the information and call the police.

There's an old adage that still holds true. If something sounds too good to be true, it's too good to be true.

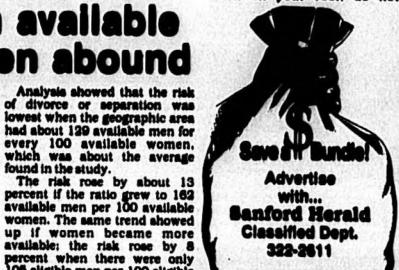

After learning about financial safety, it was time for refreshments. Everyone enjoyed Valentine's cookies and some healthy snacks courtesy of Publix.

The seminar resumed with a talk about personal safety and home security. Besides the talks going on in City Hall, there were booths set up outside. Oisten Kimberly QualityCare was there offering free blood pressure checks. Other seminar partici-pants included Brinks Home Security, Care One, RSVP, Area Agency on Aging of Central Florida and the Seminole County Better Living for Seniors.

Triad is planning another safety seminar to be held in Altamonte Springs in the near future.

Fittingly, Hall punctuated the win with a three-point play consisting of a backboard-swaying dunk and ensuing free throw with six seconds left to play. He also had three assists, a steal, and a blocked shot.

That sparked an impressive first-half performance by Arrow Force III, which sprinted to a 35-22 lead at the intermission.

"We played with a lot more intensity tonight." said Trains. "I'm really proud of the guys. We played a very good first half tonight. Reggie Holloway. Chuck Smith, and Jeff Merthie got us some big blocks and some good rebounds that got us out on the break early."

But as Trains pointed out, Leesburg wasn't 27-3 and ranked No. 4 in last week's Florida Sports Writers Association's Class 5A state poli for nothing. Facing the possibility of a rout, the Yellow Jacketa came out firing in the third quarter, outscoring Seminole 14-6 to close to 41-36 with 4:22 remaining.

Bucs roll past Pats in 6A-4

PORT ORANGE — Top-seeded Daytona Beach-Mainland showed Friday night why it is the top ranked team in the state as it used an excellent all-around team game to dismantle No.2 seed Lake Brantley 72-45 in the championship game of the Class 6A-District 4

Tournament at Spruce Creek High School.

Despite the outcome, both teams will advance to the Sub-District playoffs on Tuesday night. Lake Brantley (14-12) will travel to Jacksonville to take on the 6A-District 3 champion, while Mainland (29-2 and undefeated in the state of Florida) will host the District 3 runner-up. Both games will start at 7:30 p.m.

As usual, the Buccaneers were led by 6-foot-8 All-American Vince Carter, arguably the best high school senior in the country, but he was far from the

The multi-talented Carter had a banner night, with 18 points, 16 rebounds, 6 assists, two steals, four blocked shots, two dunks and two goal tending calls. He capped his night with the two thunderous dunks that brought the standing-room only crowd to its feet, one off an offensive rebound and one on a good move off a nice pass. He exited the contest with 1:43 left and Mainland leading 66-39.

While Carter's presence on the floor was disturbing the defensive pressure and for the Patriots, it was the defensive pressure and quickness of the Buccaneer team that disrupted the

Bald eagle numbers up again in Florida

The bald eagle continues its dramatic comeback in the Sunshine State, soaring to its highest levels in more than two decades. Final figures for 1993-94 show another increase in the number of eagles nesting and mating in Florida.

Researchers know of 951 bald eagles that hatched in Florida during the 1993-94 seasons. That's an incredible 40-percent increase over 1992-93, and an amazing 171 percent increase over the birthrate just 10 years ago, when 351 eagles were hatched in the state.

in addition, the bald cagle population in Florida is now estimated at a minimum of 2,450, more than any other state except Aleaks.

"We are pleased that the eagle is doing as well as it is in Florida and the rest of the Southeast," and Steven Nesbitt, a biological adinistrator for the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. "I'm a little surprised that it's (the population) still growing. I thought we'd peak out by now. but we seem to find more and more each year. There must be more habitat than we thought out there, or the eagles are able to pack tighter together."

The baid eagle is one of only two remaining eagle species in the United States. The other is golden eagle, which is found primarily in California and the western states. The bald eagle makes its home in the extreme southern and northern states. plus Canada and Mexico.

Florida continues to support the highest number of breeding bald eagles of any southeastern state. Approximately 70 percent of the nesting territories used by baid eagles in the South were in Florida during 1993. Since 1973, researchers have recorded more than 9,000 hatchings in the state, an average of 400 per year.

The bald eagle has been struggling to recover throughout the United States for the past 50 years. Its population was decimated between the 1940s and the 1970s, mostly due to pesticides such as DDT, which was banned in 1972. Since that time, the species has been slowly recovering, thanks to federal and state protection.

Few people realise it, but eagles are most often found around water. Fish make up a large portion of the eagles' diet, and these majestic birds can often be found souring above our waterways in search of food. 73521110 PORTICAST

The river continues to drop, and base fishing will be red hot once the water is inside the banks. The high water is a blessing in disguise, because it will cause the young fry from this year's spawn to hide in the grassy shallows and hopefully attain some size before they are forced out into the main river channel. The Puzzle Lake area will be particularly good. In the meantime, stick to issai lakes where the fish are contained by well-defined banks. Base will be bedding heavily around full moon periods in February and March.

Will 17th attempt be lucky for Earnhardt?

AP Motorsports Writer

DAYTONA BEACH - Dale Earnhardt likes to point out it took Darrell Waltrip 17 tries to win his first Daviona 500.

Maybe, finally, on Sunday in Earnhardt's 17th try - the man who has won just about everything else in stock car racing will win NASCAR's biggest race.

But, if you go by history, don't bet on it. And don't look for co-favorite Dale Jarrett, the 1993 race winner and this year's pole-sitter, to cut Earnhardt any slack, either.

"I've got to take care of me and my team." Jarrett said. "Earnhardt will just have to take care of himself. I figure he'll win the Daytona 500 one of these years, but I want to win this one."

There's little question, though. that the sentimental favorite to finally drive under the checkered flag at the end of the 200 laps on Daytona International Speedway's 21/2 mile oval is seven-time Winston Cup champion Earnhardt.

"I feel like it's going to be a competitive race on Sunday," Earnhardt said. "You've just got to be there at the end. It's 500 miles, not 499."

And, as Richard Childress, Earnhardt's car-owner for six of his championships, said, "We've won the Daytona 499 a few times.'

Still, despite a half-dozen incidents of just plain bad luck that have kept the two-time defending series titleholder from winning the big one. Earnhardt remains optimistic. "I'm excited about it: I'm more upbeat about it than usual," Earnhardt said.

It appears he has good reason to be upbeat after driving one of the new Chevrolet Monte Carlos to victory last weekend in the 20-lap Busch Clash for last season's pole winners and again in one of the 50-lap, 125-mile Daytona 500 qualifying races

Thursday. It appears the Monte Carlos. replacing the Luminas that have been campaigned on the Winston Cup circuit since 1989. could be the class of the field after Chevy drivers dominated the qualifying races. Sterling Mariin, the defending Daytona 500 winner, won the other 125 and will start third close behind Earnhardt in th other race.

In the fifth spot is th 48-year-old Waltrip in ye another Monte Carlo. The Monte Carlo is good, an that's all we needed, something equal to those Thunderbirds. the three-time Winton Cui champion said. "We're not any better than they are, but we're equal now.

"We've got a little work yet to do, though. Just look back a year and you'll see the Lumines were good, too."

Chevrolet has won five of the past six Daytona 500s, including the last two. But Ford won 20 of 31 races last season and its second NASCAR Manufacturers' Cup in three years.

Jarrett. who changed teams and moved from Chevrolet to Ford this season, and 1994 series runner-up Mark Martin are the leading banner carriers for Ford after finishing third in their respective races Thursday.

"It's true the Monte Carios have looked good, but a 500-mile race is a long race." Jarrett said. "At Daytona, the guy who geta the handling right for the longest time usually wins the race, no matter what he's driving.

The Fords should be all right us long as we make the right adjustments as the race goes on. Our car was fast off the truck. but we've had to work hard to get it working right in the draft and we made a big improvement this week. Now we have something that you can just work on a little and fine-tune a little."

Martin, whose only top 10 finish in 10 previous Daytons 500 starts was sixth in 1993. was even more positive.

"This is the best car I've ever had for (Daytona) Speed Weeks." Martin said. "It's got plenty of power and handles great, and I can pass high, low or wherever. I've got the best shot I've ever had to win the race."

There are other contenders.

Rusty Wallace and Bill Elliott in Thunderbirds, Terry Labonte and Ken Schrader in Monte Carlos and Kyle Petty and Michael Waltrip in Pontiace all are considered at least darkhorses to get to Victory Lane Sunday,

"it's competitive out there." Earnhardt said during a postrace news conference Thursday in the pressbox above the main other 125 and will start third straightaway. "I'll see you Sunday, alongside fellow Chevy Sunday, here."

Food stamp violations rise

Dy MICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

During 1994, a total of 105 Florida grocers who participated in the food stamp program were penalized for various violations of the rules. In the eight Southcastern states, the total was 473. 60 more than during 1993.

In Florida, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) statistics show that 29 stores were disqualified for periods ranging from six months to five years, 67 stores were permanently disqualified for dealing in food stamps, and the remaining nine were assessed penalties in lieu of disqualification.

During the past year, names of several stores which were either disqualified or penalized in the Seminole County area were reported by the USDA.

investigations revealed that some grocers allowed the purchase of non-food Items with food stamps, and some exchanged cash for food stamps.

William R. Mehr, officer in charge of the USDA Food and Consumer Service Tallahassee field office explained that food stamps can be used legally only to buy food, garden seed, and plants used to grow food.

More than 11,400 retail firms in Florida are authorized to participate in the food stamp program, which annually accounts for more than $1.4 billion in food assistance to low-income families and related administrative costs.

A disqualified store may not accept food stamps during the disqualification period. To resume participation, the grocer must apply to USDA for reinstatement. The grocer will also be required to present a collateral bond or irrevocable letter of credit for at least $1,000 to the Tallahasace field office.

If a store is sold, the new owner may apply to accept food stamps.

Mehr encourages members of the public to assist the food stamp program and keep it from being misused by notifying the agency when violations are noticed.

Scouts hold Blue, Gold banquet

Lake Mary Boy Scout Pack 242 held their annual Blue and Gold banquet, Friday, Feb. 10. Before the banquet began, Diane Carlepy from the Central Florida Council of Boy Scouts of America talked to those present about the funding needs of the council. The council provides the support to make it possible support includes a full-time staff of 30, maintenance of a service center for volunteers on Nebraska Street in Orlando, and maintenance and upkeep of Camp La-No-Che in Lake County. It costs the Central Florida council approximately $75 per year per scout. The council is seeking family enrollment in scouting to help with these costs. One council in South Florida closed last year due to lack of funding.

After Diane spoke with the group, everyone ate a potluck supper that included spaghettl, salads, sweet and sour meatballs and dessert.

After the food, scouts were presented with awards and badges. They were also given a chance to show the group what they had done to earn their badges. One den earned the Engineering activity badge. Participation patches were also given out for Cub Fun Day. The next event for Pack 242 will be the Pinewood Derby, scheduled for Saturday, March 4.

'Olde Days' to be bigger and better

The second annual Olde Lake Mary Days is scheduled for Saturday, May 13. This year's event will be bigger and better than last year's. (Hopefully, this will be the case every year.) Besides being an arts and crafts show. Olde Lake Mary Days is a chance for churches and civic organizations to introduce themselves to the city. It is the perfect opportunity to show the city what your organization does and to recruit new members. Several civic groups have already signed up to participate. Among them are the Lake Mary Community Improvement Assoclation, the Lake Mary/Heathrow Chamber of Commerce, Family and Community Educators, the Lake Mary Woman's Club, the Lake Mary Garden Club, the Lake Mary Stardust Service Unit of Girl Scouts, the Lake Mary Seniors. Grace Christian Church, the Seminole Family YMCA, the First Presbyterian Church of Lake Mary, and the Lake Mary Mother's Club-WOFL-FOX 35 Kids Club will also be there. Jillian was shocked to discover they picked the first day; they were to be the first contestants to play the game. "We were so nervous, but then we had plenty of time to practice everything." They practiced saying their names, the commercial shoots, playing the game, and spinning the wheel. When the time came to actually play the game for real. they were feeling fairly confident, but after winning the first round, they were extremely comfortable. Activist claims circus animals are not abused

DEAR ABBY: Your lows-bred activities to ban circuses and sense of fairness requires you to print a response to the anticircus letter of Phyllis J. Mayer. Evansville, Ind. By her own admission. circus-boycotter Evans has not attended a circus for years.

I have followed circuses for more than 40 years, and I know many people in the circus world.

Abby, circus animais are not abused or exploited, nor are they treated in a cruel or inhumane manner. Circus people have better sense than to abuse or mistreat the tools of their trade. Just as Iowa farmers do not abuse $50,000 tractors, circus folks do not abuse animals that are very costly to acquire and

After 3,000 hours of scientific observation of trained and exhibition animals, and after long periods devoted to close studies of many circuses and zoos. Dr. Marthe Kiley-Worthington of the University of Edinburgh concluded, "... circuses do not by their nature cause suffering and distress to animals." She further took a position against the expenditure of money, effort and

Bottom line: This occurs so seldom that we should not deny ourselves the pleasures of circus entertainment because of the possibility of a tragedy. [We do not shut down airlines because airplanes crash occasionally.)

So. Abby, the next chance you get, take a kid to the circus, and experience the sheer joy that comes from watching the clowns, acrobats, dancing bears, prancing horses, the large, graceful cats, and all the other features of the greatest family entertainment on earth.

JOHN M. HOLLEY, PAST PRESIDENT, CIRCUS FANS ASSOCIATION OF AMBRICA DEAR MR. HOLLEY: I agree that circuses provide exciting. wholesome entertainment for people of all ages, and I'll concede that abuse of the animals is probably rare. However, there is always the exception to the rule, and I still submit that the threat of a stiff fine would give circus owners and animal trainers second thoughts about the way they treat their

Hobby: Collecting knives keeps local man on the cutting edge

By SUSAN WENNER Herald Correspondent

SANFORD - Being on the cutting edge of things is just how Horace Paul enjoys his life. His knife collection keeps him in the thick and thin of things in his Sanford home.

Paul and his wife of 10 years. Claire, share seven children between them. Children, Mike, Pat, Laurie, James, Tina, Rick and Devron, their seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren keep a sharp eye on dad and grandpa Paul.

The couple have been active members of First Presbyterian Church of Sanford, Claire for 35 years and Horace for nine years. Paul serves as chairman of the budget committee.

He is very active in various veterans organizations such as SCAVAC (Seminole County Area Veterans Advisory Council) in which he holds the position of president. Paul is also a member of the Ficet Reserve Association #147 in Sanford and former national director of the Fleet Reserve Association. He has membership in the American Legion in Sanford and VFW in Eustis. His involvement in the USS Horace A. Bass reunion association has earned him the position of secretary and trea-

Paul is a 1963 retired Navy chief warrant officer and retired from General Dynamics of Longwood as the manager of marketing administration in

Even with the busy schedule this gentleman keeps he stili finds time for his hobby of collecting knives. This pasttime has kept his attention for some three years.

He admitted that he gives many away to family, friends, church functions, charities and Habitat for Humanity but hasn't sold one of his treasures. Paul has over 300 knives taking up three quarters of his shed waiting to become a project in his skillful hands.

"I have 300 waiting to be renovated, overhauled and redone," he said. "I reshape them, refinish the handles and sharpen them. I use a bench grinder and sometimes an electric sander to do my work.

The saying, "One man's trash is another man's treasure," holds true for Paul because most of his finds have been discards or items picked up at yard sales and thrift shops from as near as Florida to as far as Hawaii. "My wife and I are big yard sale junkies," he said. "We've been all over the country to yard sales. When we visited Hawaii we hit all the thrift stores there. We spent a day or two of thrift shopping around the island." Other places such as Nova Scotia, California and North Carolina have been opportune areas for Paul's numerous knife and knife block finds.

Paul discussed his oldest knives and thier places of origin. "One of my oldest knives was one of my grandfathers," he said. "He used it to butcher cows in Tennessee. It's about 70 to 75 years old. Another knife that my Dad gave me is from the deserts of Las Vegas. It's about 50 years old." Two of the most unusual knives he has is one with a staghorn handle and another with a cow horn handle. "The staghorn handle has a very rough surface," he said. "The cow horn is much smoother."

Cost is not a factor with this collection. His steak knives fail in the price range of $47 per set and a nice carving set he refinished may retail for $50. Paul has only a few pocket knives in his collection. Household, kitchen, chef, paring and butcher knives compromise the biggest portion of his shiny. sharp treasures that range in size from three inches to 24

Most of the metals are stainless steel, although some of Paul's older knives house surgical steel to sword steel, and one is handmade from a sawblade. This knife was purchased in North Carolina at a yard sale. The handle and blocks are various different woods such as oak, mahogany, ash and cherry.

Paul shared that the more he got involved in his hobby the 'choosier" he became. "Originally, I'd buy anything," he said. "Now I've gotten more selective. Normally I pay about 25 cents for a knife. I look for the better ones. I turn down a lot now."

For beginners in this hobby, Paul shared, "I think you'd have to be interested in renovating something and getting it at a reasonable price," he said. "If you're interested in that then you'll really enjoy knife collecting. I do. Initially, I made the knives look better to preserve them. I'd match them up and reshape, refinish and sharpen them. It's very relaxing. I enjoy making something ... unlumble from something that didn't cost versity and was the first African-American female Marine officer to enter the Corps from the Officer Selection Office. Nashville.

McGill's promotion is quite significant because there are only seven black female second lieutenants in the U.S. Marine Corps and 52 black female officers total in the U.S. Marine Corps as of January 1994. As second lieutenant, McGill joins an elite group of officers. She will be able to make a significant contribution in setting an example to those enlisted African Americans and females in the Corps.

She has been a reservist with Marine Wings Support Squadron 472 since 1993 and attended officers' candidate school in the summer of 1994. She finished in the top third of her company. She looks forward to active duty in a few months. Second Lieutenant McGill is a 1990 graduate of Seminole High School and the daughter of Nadine McGill Quinn, and the granddaughter of Derry McGill Sr. Congratulations to this Sanfordite who is making a difference in her life.

Bule receives luris doctorate

Carsandra (Sandie) Denyce Bule received her juris doctorate from the University of Florida Law School, Dec. 23, 1994. She is a 1985 graudate of Seminole High School.

1995 Progress Report for Seminole County

Building a future

By NICK PPEIPAUP Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Construction work is continuing rapidly on the Seminole Towne Center mall. The facility. southeast of the State Road 46/Interstate-4 Interchange, is located within the Sanford city limits.

Groundbreaking took place in September of 1993, with a grand opening still projected for September.

The mail is being built in two phases. When originally proposed. the size of the area for Phase I was estimated at 1,250,000 square feet. Since that time, an amendment to the DRI. (Development of Regional Impact) has been approved, which would expand the facility to 1.485.000 square feet. The area includes $165,000 square feet of retail space which was originally planned for Phase II. plus an additional 70,000 square feet in the original building.

Five anchor stores will be featured. They include Dillard's, Parisian, J.C. Penney, Burdines, and Sears. The additional building presently being constructed south of the mail will be a Sears auto service center.

between 125 and 130 additional specialty stores are proposed. Sources at Melvin Simon and Associates, developers of the mall, have not revealed the names of any of the specialty stores, but representative Billie Scott has indicated most of them will be among the most pro-minent and nationally known stores.

A large-scale food court is proposed for the interior of the mall.

The two-level enclosed regional mall is estimated at a cost of $1.25 million.

Once operational, Simon sources predict $200 million will be generated in retail sales per year. There will be an estimated 2,000 jobs, and $2 million in annual taxes.

Developers point out that there will be an additional 60 acres of peripheral outlots and land available for sale or lease. One of the facilities is a 10screen theater complex with over 2,700 seats, to be developed by United Artists.

In addition to the mall construction at the present time, other area work includes changes to the Interstate-4 ramps in the area with which to handle the large expansion in traffic once the mail is operational. Melvin Simon and Associates has also helped

By MICK PPEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Three separate organizations have the same goal: to help Sanford, especially in the historic downtown area, not only survive but grow and prosper.

Members of the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association, (SHDWA), Sanford Main Street program (SMS), and Lake Monroe Waterfront Master Plan Steering Committee may appear to be working on the same projects, but each is working separately, and producing separate results.

Although they are the larger organizations in the area, others should also be cited for helping preserve and protect the city, including the Historic Preservation Board, the Sanford Historic Trust and the Scenic improvement Board.

One of the most recent actions was from the waterfront committee. It has proposed the establishment of a Community Redevelopment Agency, (CRA), through which a massive improvement project can be financed. It would virtually see a complete improvement and modernization of the waterfront area from Interstate-4 casterly to the foot of Mellonville

Plans call for large covered areas out over the water on extended piers, a possible major convention center located just west of Sanford City Hall, improved walkways between the downtown area and lakefront, an expanded county courthouse facility, and many other

The committee took its request for the CRA to the Sanford City Commission in January, and the proposal has since been forwarded to the Seminole County Board of County Commission-

For persons who are not familiar with the development plans proposed by the waterfront committee, artists' models are on display at the Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Avc.

The Sanford Main Street (SMS) organization has accomplished many projects during its first year of operation. They include the implementation of a facade improvement grant, which helped bring about improvements in awnings and/or canoples for 16 separate downtown businesses.

SMS lays claim to having reduced the number of downtown stores which were vacant from 48 percent, to 22 percent. Similar to the waterfront committee, SMS has conducted a building and property inventory downtown, and taken part in a detailed market analysis to identify an economic strategy for the downtown area.

SMS is responsible for the Light Up Sanford Christmas event, and Family Fun in the Park

The Sanford Historical Downtown Waterfront Association, SHDWA, is launching into one of the big events for 1995. SHDWA has accepted responsibility for taking over the July Fourth Fireworks celebration, and has planned to have a full day of events, fun and games, food and Irolic. in the downtown area as well as in the Fort Mellon Park area.

SHDWA is mostly comprised of business leaders from the downtown area. They meet regularly and are concerned with and involved in efforts toward continuing to make the downtown

SHDWA is also working on a project which will See Historic, Page 3

Airport grows right along with customers it serves

By STEPHEN J. COURS A.A.E. Special to the Herald

SANFORD - As 1995 begins to unfold, many exciting things are on this year's agenda at the Central Florida Regional Airport. First, the new International Arrivals Building, expanded terminal and parking lot are nearly complete and the new airport access road will be opened to the public in March.

This important new road provides direct four-lane access be-tween our new terminal and the Central Florida OreeneWay, as well as the Airport Industrial

Commercial air service to Biloxi, (Mise.) via SUN JET International, has remained steady in 1994 as well as service to the Bahamas via National Air

The airport is currently processing 400 to 500 commercial passengers a week and this is expected to grow in 1986.

The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) will start construction on a new 80- foot high air traffic control tower next month. This new $3.1 million federal facility will have direct access to Orlando's radar and should be completed by May of

Thirty years, still going strong

Community College serves community's needs

By ROBERT LYLES Special to the Herald

Right here!

In the 1950s and 1960s the citrus industry in Seminole County was booming. Interstate 4 was under construction. And the biggest tourist attractions in Central Florida were alligator wrestling, stock-car racing on Daytona Beach, rocket launches at Cape Canaveral and the cool. blue waters of the Gulf and the Atlantic.

It was at about that time Gov. LeRoy Collins began implementing a relatively new concept in post-secondary education in Florida - the community college system. Collins believed in and gave life to the community college system because it would give more people an opportunity to pursue a college education Students could live at home and commute to their community's college

By the mid '60s, the two-year college system was shifting into high gear and community colleges were springing up all over

Legislature approved the establishment of the state's 23rd community college and chose Seminole County as the location. Right now!

It's been nearly 30 years since shovels first broke ground at what is now 100 Weldon Blvd. in Sanford, Today, Seminole Community College's 200-aere main campus is home to 16 permanent structures, several temporary buildings, over 1,000 full and part-time faculty and staff members, and more than 32,000 students annually.

In that time, SCC has never forgotten its purpose - to provide an affordable, quality education to the surrounding community. That's why SCC offers education in three distinct areas of instruction College Credit. Vocational Credit and Adult and Continuing Education Right for you!

If you are interested in earning an Associate in Airs or an Associate in Science degree but don't want to get lost in the crowd at a large university -SCC is right for you. With an the state. In 1965, the Florida average class size of about 20

And SCC grandates are guaranteed admission to any of Florida's four-year universities because the college is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to award associate degrees. For those interested in immediate job entry, SCC has several occupational training programs as well as one-year certificate and fast-track (less than 16 weeks) certificate pro-

Many students come to SCC because of the excellent vocational training opportunities. The college offers 27 different certificate programs that take anywhere from one week to two years to complete. If you already have a job but need to take a recertification class or if you want to improve your current job skills, SCC offers nearly 100 supplemental courses each

SCC also has Adult and Continuing Education programs offering support services to busi-

At SCC, a quality education is more than lectures, homework and exams. It's the opportunity to interact with a culturally diverse group of faculty and staff. It's the opportunity to attend a variety of free educational, musical, film, theatrical and art gallery events. And it's the opportunity to grow emotionally and intellectually with students from diverse backgrounds.

SCC's middle name is community and offering classes at times and locations that are convenient to the community is one of our goals. For example, SCC recently kicked off a Weekend College Fast Track Program for people who want to earn an Associate in Arts degree, ☐ See College, Page 10 will also train at the center when they are in the eastern part of the United States. They will stay in Seminole County hotels on their training visits in preparation for the 1996 Olympics in Atlanta.

With both the Men's and the Women's teams here, there will be a great deal of national media attention focused on Seminole County and the training center.

A number of international soccer clubs and teams will be making Seminole County their training headquarters during the first quarter of 1995.

Baver 04 Leverkusen, a Division I professional soccer team from Germany, made their fourth trip to Seminole County Jan. 29 through Feb. 9. The team features two former U.S.

National Team midfielders Thomas Dooley and Claudio Reyna. They will train at Sylvan Park, stay at the Embassy Suites hotel and enjoy the many Orlando area attractions and activitics. Another German team, TUS

Berg Landahut, wil be using the facilities in February.

The Seminole County Softball Complex will be the site for numerous national and regional softball tournaments in 1996. These weekend events from May through September will bring thousands of participants and their families to Seminole County hotels, restaurants and attractions.

The Lake Brantley High School Swimming Complex will be the site for a national water polo event in August. Over 100 teams are expected for this weekend event. This will be a tune-up for the selection of members of the U.S. Olympic water polo team.

And speaking of the Olympics,

Seminole County in conjunction with the Orlando Area Sports Commission, will be pursuing several training opportunities. Many countries will be looking for training venues to climatise to the heat and humidity of Atlanta in July of 1996. Soccer, swimming and softball are all Olympic sports, and our fine facilities in the county will be high on the list of possible trailing venues

In summary, Seminole County should fare well in 1995 in tourism. Our niche in sports will bring our hotels weekend busi-ness and our ongoing marketing to the commercial traveler should keep our weekday oc-cupancy high. We will also continue our efforts in the publicity area with our media relations firm, Chernoff Silver & Associates to spread the word that Seminole County is the "Natural Choice" to say, to play, to meet, to train and to vacation.

A New Breakthrough In Hernia Repair

Hernia repair is no longer major surgery. Recent advances like the mesh technique have made it as simple as a one-day "walk-in, walk-out" procedure.

A new laparoscopic technique now available at The Hernia Center of Central Florida has simplified things even further. Because this procedure requires only small incisions, it lessens pain and further shortens recovery time. The Hernia Center is operated by Surgical Associates, an established team of skilled surgeons who have practiced in Central Florida since 1973 and have performed literally thousands of hernia operations.

Public schools: Dual mission, one focus

Students' success comes first

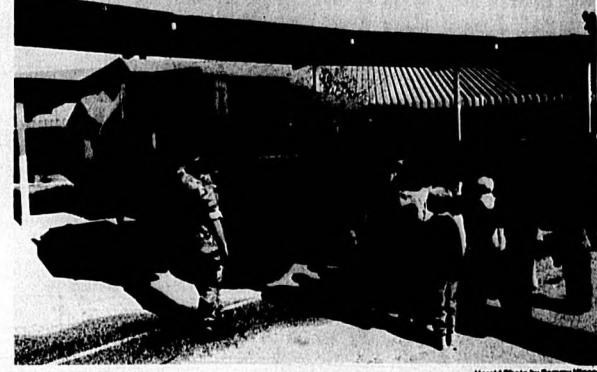

By PAUL HAGERTY Special to the Herald

Public schools today are expected to do "more, better, faster, at a higher level of complexity than ever before." This expectation also is for 100 percent of the students, instead of the 75-80 percent we traditionally have been successful with, and all with the same or dwindling resources. These observations were made recently by a speaker at one of our administrative training sessions. These points dramatize the dilemma our teachers face.

in Florida, over recent years, the average class size has crept up; the administrative support for teachers has decreased; the money available for supplies and equipment has not increased. In addition to these pressures, just since October many dozens of children with extreme handicapa have moved into our county requiring special services not hadgeted for.

in light of all this, I am so pleased and want to compliment our teachers and other staff members for putting children first, doing what needs to be done to make education as good as it can be within these parameters. As it stands, by most measures of educational quality, the Seminole County public school system provides an excellent experience for many of our community's children. On the other hand, our focus and energies are needed far more than ever before on those students who are not successful in school. This parallel effort must be to continue and expand the quality for our top students, while addressing the needs of those with whom we have not been successful. All of us in Seminole County public achools are committed to do so.

Jail program makes inmates responsible

by B.M. SMORTON Special to the Herald

The Seminole County Jail Project began as an evolution rom traditional methods to new nanagement concepts, and finally, rethinking the way we do business. This re-engineering approach gained much of its impetus from the transition that society has made. The society in which we live today is radically different from its predecessor. lince 1960, the American popu-ation has increased by 41 perent while the violent crime rate as advanced 356 percent. Drugs and juvenile crime have mpacted the American family in imprecedented proportions.

The American business setting s also been in a continual tate of flux - first, by being utproduced in the global narket, then downsizing, and inally becoming a global com-

What has happened in the rivate sector is a harbinger of that will come in government. Citizens are demanding that overnment streamline itself and serve the public interest. This hen, was the energy level which heled the Seminole Jail Project.

The goal was to think about at could be done to stem the side of wasted human resources. Young people, many of them school dropouts, started lives of crime at unprecedented early ges, being arrested and sitting in jail learning little or nothing while the world at large becomes more complex and technological. The battle cry of crime has been echoed in the hopelessness of the approaches we have en-dorsed. No one is responsible for anything. Sons and daughters blame their parents, parents blame schools, schools blame the rapidly dissolving family. everyone criticises something. and we run the tautological endiess road like a gerbil on a wheel.

The jail project made major departures from the more accepted traditional thinking of the day. One of the first initiatives pursued was that the thinking reflect the community. Too often, solutions are pursued without adequately understanding the problems. Leaders in the local communities gave dimension to the problem-solving techniques, and after an extended period of lively conversation, reflection, disagreement, debate and negotiation, several assumptions were accepted by the strum as a whole (figures will the group as a whole. (Space will not allow a protracted discourse on all of the assumptions at this time. Anyone interested in a more complete view may request a paper from the jail staff.)

People must take responsibility for their actions and own lives. There appears to be a social premise today that no one is responsible for any of their actions. This is particularly true in the jail. Crimes are routinely explained away by vague concepts which relieve the guilt and somehow diminish the culpability of the perpetrator.

One might be hard-present to explain to an armed robbery victim that the robber beat up his wife because he was not loved as a child or did not have some things as a child and is just hostile because of his past depri-

People have grown weary of criminologists, social scientists. and the collection of other "enlightened experts" trying to explain to them that this epidemic of violent crimes is just rational misadeptation of people who want to be understood. These so-called explanations have yielded a tier of social assumptions about criminals which have little practical use.

Jails are all too frequently run with the mentality that prisoners are helpless and sannot do much for themselves. While there certainly is some practical aspects of that axiom, the resulting evolving philosophy which pervades the environment does a gross disservice to people who are incarcerated. Prisoners came to jail because of choices, not necessarily socially accepted choices, but nevertheless. choices. When they arrive, they frequently stay in day rooms (cellblocks, pods) and watch television. The correctional staff is taught to accommodate their wishes (demands). From time to time, inmates will participate in programs chosen by them, without regard to what needs they presently have. Jail staff in most jurisdictions watch the revolving door with interest. relatively large percentage of those presoners who are chronic repeaters. Still, month after month, year after year, we con-tinue to pursue the same philos-

The basic overview would begin with the "operationalizing" of the individual reeponsibility mode. This would be seen at the intake stage. Obviously, booking would be the first process that a person experi-ences upon entry into any jail. If one does not bond out, then the next step is orientation. Orientation embodies the utility aspects of incarceration (visits, rules, where to find services, etc.) but it also begins to frame those things that are expected. One of the project's primary items is that everyone here is an adult and will be responsible for their own actions. Produtory activity will not be tolerated under any conditions. All inmates are expected to do their own housekeeping and to that end there is a pod (cell) inspection daily. All inmates will be expected to work, with the exception of unsentenced felony inmates and of course, special needs inmates. Under no circumstances will program participation take the place of work. Now the informed reader knows that there will be a percentage of those who come into the juil and qualify for work, who will refuse to partake in the activities. Those individuals are then classified and will live in a 'constitutional minimum' environment. That is, these people classify themselves to an environment which provides those basic items and activities that the courts have mandated. They will obviously be fed the same meals that the rest of the population gets and they will go

The workplace in society is changing rapidly, the world is getting amailer due to communication advances (the global economy). and technology is developing at breakneck speeds (the technology revolution). If traditional methods are allowed to continue, either in business or corrections, the result is that ineffective as producing members of society. The least that should be happening in our jails (and certainly in our prisons) is an attempt, or perhaps heaven forbid, demand, that people incarcerated are at least exposed to processes that reinforce those basic societal processes such as living and job skills.

Another important aspect of the project to foster (by words and practice) is a responsibility to the system. Not just to the criminal justice system, but the community at large. Now, it is certainly acknowledged by this author that these principles might seem a little "corny" for some who read this monograph, but then again, so does "patrioto many of their people. It costs money to keep people in jails and prisons. This money doesn't fall out of the sky, it is part of the agreement that citizens make with their government so that the latter can keep the former safe. How then, can we just allow this in theory only. The Seminole project, as well as others, has seen the wisdom of reinforcing the idea that service doesn't just happen. Service is designed and stays affort because of the dedication and professionalism of people who care ... and it costs money. To that end, some of the more obvious charges that are developing are in the area of medical care. Various agencies are either in the planning stages or already have a working model in place to pass on partial nominal cost to the user of that service. The jail project charges a nominal cost to the inmate for usual medical care and the service will be billed to the inmate and deducted from the commissary account. No inmate. however, will be denied constitutional medical care. In the event that no money is available in that account, a lien will be placed for possible future action

Community involvement is a mainstay of the project. Reciprocal activity is the key. Not only does the citizens' committee help plan and review the pro-gram, but the jail has an obligation to share its resources with the community. In addition to the public work squade that are already functioning in the community, a strategy exists to share programs like the literacy lab with individuals from the community. This plan diminishes the perception that you have to be in jail to receive certain programs. Guest may lecture on anything that pertains to a societal skill or need. Insurance, how to bank, etc., will be presented to the inmate population. In short, any skill, need, perception, or activi-ty which will enhance the knowledge of the inmate will be considered for topical presentation.

There is an existing plan to take part in an activity which will save the local/taxpayers ! even more money. The county education department is reported to spend up to $2,000 a week refurbishing portable classrooms. If the could be delivered to a site at the jail and one journeyman supplied, jail inmates could help rejuvenate the classrooms giving public service, and learn something of a trade in the process. Although this is simply an illustrative project, others could be sought and implemented.

Strategic planning is guide to the future

Special to the Herald

LAKE MARY - In 1991, the City Commission initiated a strategic planning process which would set the mission and goals for the city of Lake Mary. The Strategic Planning Session was held away from City Hall, and included the city commissioners. city manager, and all department heads. It was essentially a roundtable discussion of where the involved parties wanted to see Lake Mary.

In 1994, another similar session was held to determine where the city was in relation to the past mission and goals that had been set in 1991. Specific issues were identified and prioritized for the city to address in the next five years.

Next year, another Strategic Planning Session will be held to assess the city's progress in addressing these issues.

Currently, Lake Mary is experiencing another growth surge. In the near future, we expect 800 new housing starts. as well as employment opportunities at several new developments which will include Recoton's 500,000 square foot distribution center, a 90,000 square foot office addition to AT&T's site on Lake Emma Road, the opening of a 45,000 square foot distribution center for Scholastic Book Fairs, a 44,000 square foot office/warehouse complex for Direct Marketing Resources, and a 27,000 square foot addition to the Strang Communication site on Rinehart Road. The 1-4 corridor has become a hot spot for corporate relocation.

Amidst this tremendous development explosion, the City Commission has defined our mission which is to enhance the city's quality of life and deserved reputation as a "model community" where people want to continue to make their homes.

inherent in this mission at a minimum, are several goals: (1) Maintaining the quiet, eafety and natural beauty of the city. (2) Ensuring that the city remains attractive and livable by insisting on quality development. (3) Responding to citizens desires for new and improved services. and (4) Planning for an adequate revenue base to support the services that Lake Mary residents want from their city government, without unreaconable taxes and fees.

Of particular priority in Lake Mary's historic downtown area. which is located around City Hall. The city has hired a consultant to evaluate the development potential for the downtown and in the next few months, we will have a clearer picture as to the economic and physical constraints which may impede development of this his-

Infrastructure improvements are crucial, but need to proceed in the context of an overall plan to provide the best chance for "return on investment." The development of the downtown is vital to creating a "heart" identity for the city.

Another important issue was maintaining and upgrading city services. Infrastructure needs in the future may outstrip the city's ability to pay for them with its current tax base. In an effort to avoid excessive fee and tax increases, the city will redouble its grant seeking efforts.

Also, the city will be more aggressive in promoting development within its own borders with careful attention being paid to its Land Development Codes and review processes.

they have been lacking.

By the end of May, the chamber will move from its storefront offices in the Lake Mary Center to a new facility just north of Lake Mary Boulevard and visible from Interstate 4.

"But the most exciting thing," said Diane Parker, the chamber's executive director, "is that we will be right next door to the Tourist Development Connell and the Economic Development Council."

Roger Soderstron co-owner of Sterling International Reality, the firm which is leasing the offices to the chamber, said that Lake Mary and northern Seminole County are growing expo-

Recent announcements include, he said. AT&T will be making a 90,000 square-foot addition to their Lake Mary facility; Scholastic Book Fairs has announced a 65,000 square-foot facility: Recoton will made a 5,000 square food addition: Dixon-Ticonderoga has announced a 25,000 square-foot facility and the Seminole Towne Center mega-mail will be open by this fall.

Soderatron said negotiations are underway to lure Cincinnati Beli away from Maitland to a 196,000 square-foot facility in Lake Mary.

Parker was nearly giddy with excitement as the announcement of the move was made during a recent chamber breakfast at the Heathrow Country Club.

"This is something we've always wanted," she said. "We are so excited about the prospect of being able to be right there on the 1-4 corridor and with those organizations (TDC and EDC) that we work with so closely on so many things."

Parker said the 900-square foot space in their new facility is about the same size as their present

However, it offers two advantages. The first, she emphasized, was the location, but almost as importantly was the professional image the new facility would provide for the chamber. "That is so important for us," she said. "We never know who will walk through our door.

From individuals to large corporations we have people walk in every day who are interested in our area." Both Soderstron and Parker attribute the unprecedented growth in northern Seminole County, especially along the I-4 corridor to the

"finest quality of life in Central Florida" and to the forward thinking of city and county government on issues such as transportation. "That has been very important to the growth."

Soderstron said. Parker has promised that when the chamber and the development councils settle into their new digs, there will be a "week of grand openings" to kick things off.
"The whole state of Florida will be here for this," she predicted.

Infusing culture into Seminole County

Cultural Arts Council launched

Special to the Herald

Culture has long been the overlooked equation in Seminole County's economic development efforts, as it has been elsewhere.

No longer. One of the changes taking place is the newly incorporated Seminole Cultural Arts Council faunching a comprehensive needs assessment with results to form the base for services to provide and build a "stage" for welcoming business.

Dr. Karen Copp, cultural arts coordinator for Seminole Community College and one of the council's founders, points out that the assessment can draw a truer picture of the county's cultural identity. Since the council hopes to represent all of the arts disciplines and expects to act as a central clearing house for the cultural scene, it can act with authority in tandem with those strengthening the economic vitality in the area.

Based on marketing studies. council members strongly believe that the cultural climate is a ranking point for consideration in attracting businesses for relocation and start-ups. bringing in conference attenresidents.

For example:

Glen Morgan, director of special projects for the Business and Industry Support Center at SCC, said that companies wanting to relocate or expand, look at the quality of life issues where culture plays an important role. SCC's Dr. Pat Rowell pinpoints it more precisely. She said, "In a national survey of manufacturing businesses, cultural opportunities were one of the nine quality of life considerations in determining where a business is to locate.

'Visiting historical sites, museums, etc. is a very hot item right now as travelers, tourists and local families view them as not only appealing and educational, but affordable," said Jack Wert, executive director of the county's Tourist Development Council.

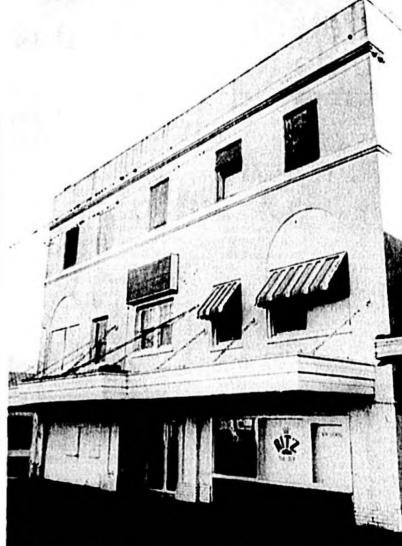

He responded favorably to the council including historical groups in the organization. Wert also applauded plans to help coordinate efforts to produce an events calendar, which would be an aid to businesses catering to visitors and tourists. Existing shop owners would benefit as

HEATHROW - In its ninth year the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of Art has grown into a true showcase for artwork and artistic talent. And as the testival grows, it reaches out more and more into the community. More scholarships are coming each year to the festival and with them, more of their followers, which means more people exposed to the north Seminole County area.

Organizers Joanne Lucas Bourg and DeLores Lash travel to several art festivals around the state each year, carrying information and publications to potential exhibitors who in turn become aware of our communiactivities in the community that impact our culture. In August 1994 she with six art/humanities teachers from Seminole County schools, attended the annual Art Educators' Tea at the Cornell

Fine Arts Museum on the Rollins College campus. At this function, teachers preview the coming year's exhibition schedule and learn of the museum's educational programs.

The art festival also accepted the chairmanship of the "Creative Arts Awards Committee" for the 1994 International Hall of Fame.

The festival maintains an appeal for a wide variety of interests. Musical programs do more than just compliment the artistle atmosphere. Many of the area's talented demonstration artists are given yet another avenue to showcase their work and many people are exposed to the likes of ballet who might never sit down in an auditorium for a performance. The addition of craftsmen has proven to be successful for both the partielpants and the attendees. There is more of a selection for purchase. Everyone can take a little bit of the festival home with

Currently, the city of Lake Mary is beginning the process of a capital improvement financing program which will benefit all citizens of Lake Mary in some way, shape or form. In essence, the city is prepared to address some of the infrastructure needs along with investing in our future through enhanced recreational facilities and beautification of major roadways.

These are all general items at this time which are in the process of being evaluated by

These projects are not in any way, an attempt to waste taxpayers' dollars but quite the opposite - to provide an investment in our future. While the commission has not yet set a final dollar figure, the estimated costs are going to be approximately $4 million. The goal is to minimize the impact on ad valorem taxes while significantaly improving our overall quality of life.

Lake Mary continues to enjoy the second lowest ad valorem rate of any city in Seminole County at 3.7648 mills. We are extremely proud of that levy in light of all that is going on around us.

The city, through its elected officials and staff, work very diligently to be frugal in spending taxpayers' dollars. On the other hand, in many ways, we do not control our own destiny because of the many major roadway improvements going on around us.

To not relocate or in some cases, not install utilities in conjunction with these widening projects, would certainly be penny-wise and dollar foolish.

As long as Lake Mary holds to these principles, the city will fare well in the future.

In the report on the Seminole Towne Center mall on Page 1, a price tag of $1.25 million was attached to the mall. Actually, this is only a small part of the total cost, and only involves initial development planning.

Sanford City Manager Bill Simmons said he had no total figures, but estimated the total to range from $125 million to over $150 million. "It all depends on what money is figured, and for what purposes," he explained.

Tax Increment Financing (TIF) funds for road improvements, expansions and signalization, estimated by the city, total almost $8.5 militon. There is also special work being required by the five major tenant stores, Sears. Burdines, J.C.Penney. Parisian and Dillards, plus the costs of the Sears auto service department which is located in a separate structure to the south of the actual mall.

Sheriff's office strives for efficient, thorough, more personal service

Special to the Herald

Positive changes and new directions characterized the past year for the Seminole County Sheriff's Office.

The concept of Berninole Neighborhood Policing (SNP) was developed during a re-engineering of the Shertif's Office which enabled a review and analysis of services and law enforcement processes. The end result is that delivery of law enforcement and other services provided by the Sheriff's Office are provided in a more personal, efficient and thorough manner. SNP is contributing to a easer community by aggressively enforcing laws and ordinances resulting in an enhanced quality of life through the reduction of crime and the fear of crime within our communities. SNP is a bland of the many and varied ties. SNP is a blend of the many and varied elements of community policing which include certain old-fashioned law enforcement procedures such as foot patrol and location oriented policing.

These techniques enable the deputy to provide direct and personalised service within their direct and personalised service within their assigned area.

Essentially, the community has four basic expectations of their law embreament agency. Law enforcement agencies are expected to maintain an omnercement (high visibility), respond to request for services in altert order in a professional manner, and achieve corrective results for the caller. Simply stated, law enforcement agencies should be visible, responsive, professional and result oriented. It was with this thought in mind that the Shertif's Office embrited upon its re-engineering process with the soal to upon its re-engineering process with the goal to enhance the delivery of law enforcement and related services. Re-engineering of law enforcement services required a fundamental rethinking and redesign of established processes that would result in more visibility, improved responsiveness, professional development and result-oriented service. The Sheriff's Office was reorganized structurally to ensure that work processes would be performed where it makes the most sense in a natural order where several jobs can be combined into one. Additionally, employees are encouraged to make decisions which result in the development of pride and ownership in the community and Sheriff's Office. Creativity and innovation on the part of employees is also secential to the success of SNP. The Sheriff's Office was re-organized into four departments consisting of Neighborhood Policing, Metro Services, Staff Services and Corrections all working in concert to achieve the agency mission of "enhancing the quality of life of citizens by reducing both crime and the fear of crime throughout Seminole County." In order to accomplish this mission, the Sheriff's Office had to reach beyond the typically reactive law enforcement role of "protect and serve" and become directly and perpetually involved as active participants in the neighborhoods and communities we historically only drove through or visited when called upon to provide a requested service.

SNP is a philosophy of full-service, personalised policing where the same deputy sheriff patrols and works in the same area on a permanent basis from a decentralised location, working in a proactive partnership with citizens to identify and solve problems. SNP breaks down the anonymity of both the deputy and neighborhood residents. Each are known to the other. The philosophy of SNP rests on the belief that if the community problems of crime, fear of crime, illicit drugs, social and physical disorder, and neighborhood decay are to be alleviated, that the community memnbers must have a direct role in nominating, identifying and prioritizing the solutions to these problems. The SNP deputy becomes a resource, a to be reactive based on calls for service by the public. A key objective was to respond rapidly. write a report and refer it to an investigator for follow-up at a later time. Today, the deputy continues to provide response to emergency calls for service, but at the same time is continually searching for ways and means to identify and solve, if not prevent, community problems.

Sheriff Don Eslinger (center) and the Seminole County Sheriff's Office has instituted Seminole immediate follow-up is provided by the respond-ing deputy sheriff which enables more timely and efficient analysis of leads that may sometimes disappear if not handled expeditiously. Although there is still a need for specialized investigators to handle major crimes, deputies have become generalists and reassumed the holistic law enforcement role of patrol deputy, investigator, crime scene technician and court process server.

Prior to the implementation of SNP, there were 12 patrol sones spread throughout the county. Including supervisors, approximately 18 deputy sheriffs patrolled the county during a shift under the traditional model. SNP decreased the size of those patrol sones and expanded them to 27 sones now referred to as Community Service Areas (CSAs). Presently, including supervisors. up to 30 deputy sheriffs augmented by other support personnel are patrolling and interacting with the various neighborhoods during a given shift. The county is apportioned into six districts which have a varying number of CSAs. Community service centers located throughout the county serve as satellite Sheriff's Office substations which are bases of operations for each district. The community service centers bring the Sheriff's Office to the neighborhood and encourages personal interaction between the depu-ties and neighborhood residents by providing convenient and close access. The CSAs encompass neighborhoods and are not necessarily delineated according to main roadways or other geographical boundaries, but are based on emographic and topographic chareteristics. and land area that facilitate proactive and effective interaction between deputies and community members. Deputies assigned to CSAs are encouraged to formulate and implement neograms the enhance neighborhood safety and living conditions.

The successful future of law enforcement is dependent upon the partnership that is developed between the community. We are facing a social recession, a cultural regression when ofttimes we see firsthand the actions of depraved and reprobate individuals who seek to destroy our sanctity and quality of life. Identifying and understanding the needs of the community is the first step to revitalisation. Being involved and participating in the resolution of these issues is the needed response. Volunteering your time. skills, talent and abilities within the community is one way to enhance our qualify of life. Pledging your cooperation to be alert and report suspicious or criminal activity to law enforcement is yet

The Seminole County Sheriff's Office has established a Citizens Police Academy that affords community members an inside, hands on perspective of the Sheriff's Office and its operations. It acquaints private citizens with the real community and criminal justice issues that affect their neighborhoods. Citizen Police Academy graduates return to their neighbor-hoods with a realistic view of the community and their Sheriff's Office. Exchange of information and an understanding of each other's expecia-tions can now be established. The end result more cooperation and improved law enforcement service which means safer communities for all of us. Other volunteer areas that are available include the Reserve/Auxiliary Deputy program. Civilian Review Board, Auxiliary Telecommuniations Unit. Victim Advocate program and other task-specific volunteer positions within the Sherlittle chair a made grown 101 BNP, supported by differ participation nont the community, will enable the Sheriff's Office fulfillment of the basic expectations of high visibility responsiveness, professionalism, and result-oriented delivery of law enforcement services. As parners, the community and the Sheriff's Office can work together to enhance the quality of our lives and ensure that our future is preserved.

Not entirely a unique situation, but one that has created an interesting pattern for Seminole County, is the north-south orientation of interstate-4, in the western third of the county, and the east-west intersecting corridors that support the business growth of the area.

State Road 436, at Altamonte Springs, was the first, with it coming the county's first mall. State Road 434, at Longwood, followed soon after. State Road 46, at Sanford, is the next burgeoning business area, and the site of the new Seminole Towne Center mail.

In the middle of all of this, is Lake Mary Boulevard, with its recently completed first phase of widening.

Lake Mary first began to look at a downtown redevelopment plan in 1991. A town workshop was held, to find out what citizens want to see their town become. Late last year planner and architect Bruce Andersen presented the first phase of a concept that could define Lake Mary's downtown. Andersen identified two zones: "a people-oriented main street that both Lake Mary residents and Central Florida can identify as the downtown of Lake Mary."

and a "mixed use residential character business zone between downtown and neighboring residential areas."

Teeter, who served on the city's Business Advisory Board (BAB), said businesses in this downtown setting would have to be "more specialized" than those in a typical retail setting. Currently, businesses in downtown include a mechanic and a body shop, a pub, a barber and two beauty shops, a meat market, a laundromat, various professional offices, a convenence store, two child care centers, a locksmith, four churches □See Downtown, Page 17

Andersen, in an earlier Sanford Herald interview said he thinks Lake Mary has great potential to develop a unique place for locals to enjoy shopping, dining and entertainment. While Lake Mary has little in the way of physical structures or natural beauty in the area it hopes to redevelop, there is a strong sense of history.

This is typified by the building which George Duryea, a certified public accountant, has occupied for more than a decade. Built in 1886, it was once a post office, and looks much as it did 70 years ago.

While the Teeter's business, repair of lawn equipment, might benefit from walk-in traffic. Duryes, and the child care center next door, do not rely on exposure for their customers.

Joan Collard, owner of the Happy Elves Child Care Center, which opened in November of 1982, said the re-routing of Lake Mary Boulevard, late last year, while work was being done of the railroad crossing, was beneficial for her business. Vehicles were routed along Palmetto Avenue to Crystal Lake to Country Club for approximately two weeks. But Collard said it is referals from parents of children at the center, chamber referals and yellow pages advertising that keeps her at near-capacity.

"Lake Mary's a good place to have a business," Collard said. "I wouldn't want to be in business anywhere else."

Andersen's plan for downtown redevelopment focuses on a four block area, that does not include City Hall or the Shoppes of Lake Mary. Tester said these struc-tures are considered in the Lake Mary Boulevard corridor plan developed by the city with the help of the BAB.

Lake Mary's oldest business lies outside of this redevelopment area. Crystal Lake Nursery, established in 1939, by E.W. and Irene Smith, is on Lakeview Avenue, west of Fifth Street. But the business shares similarities with other downtown businesses, being tucked away and off the beaten

Don Smith, who has run his parents' business since the 1960s, was once saked by a Lake Mary mayor how he has stayed in business for more than 55 years. Smith replied, "You do what you tell your customers you're doing to do, it's real you're going to do. It's real

Smith has seen a lot of competitors come and go over the years. Most recently a nursery, located directly on Lake Mary Boulevard, closed its retail operation. Smith said, "it's a real easy business to go into but it's a hard one to stay in if you don't know what you're doing."

Being a retailer and a grower has helped Crystal Lake Nursery, as more businesses have moved into the market. "Competition is good in a way, it makes you work harder," Smith said. "I'd like to be the only nursery in Seminole County just like anyone would like to be the only gracery store in Seminole County. Builder's Square or Home Depot, they can undersell us on one or two things, but they can't undersell us on all of them. because we grow them." The nursery used to be retail and wholesale. Smith still sells to some landscapers. "We sell everything but annuals. We carry what grows here."

Like other downtown businesses, Smith finds it is customer service that keeps them coming back. "We back the plants up. When we landscape, we back them up forever, as long as they call us before they die."

Before the next phase begins, Andersen proposes to meet with property owners, in the downtown area, to find willingness to work on the development plan. The city government may have to consider new guidelines for the area. Andersen states, relaxing open space allowances and helping with the cost of stormwater drainage systems. The ultimate goal, as addressed in the literature promoting the workshop in 1991, is to restore the downtown identity, the small town "charm." "Steps must be taken now to determine what the future holds for Lake Mary and a plan developed to guide it

Dance lovers applaud 27 years of the Ballet Guild

By VALERIE WELD Special to the Herald

Dance lovers have been applauding the efforts of the Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole for 27 years. The city of Sanford has been fortunate over the years to be one of the few cities in the country able to boast of having such a successful and fruitful dance group.

Not only does BGS provide elegant and exciting dance performances for area fans, but It has done its share to export excellent dancers to professional companies throughout the country. Ballet Guild dancers have been principal dancers with the Alabama Ballet, Cleveland Ballet, Cincinnati Ballet, Southern Ballet Theatgre. Boston Ballet and the Joffrey Ballet. Broadway shows such as "A Chorus Line," "The Tap Dance Kid," "Phantom of the Opera," "West Side Story," "Jerome Robbins Broadway" all have one thing in common ... a Ballet Guild dancer!

Former BGS dancers can be applauded on cruise ships around the world and in elaborate productions in the Bahamas, Japan, Atlantic City and Las Vegas!

The young men and young dedicated themselves to bringing the art of ballet and related dance forms to the community have also gained prominence in other areas requiring discipline and hard work. Doctors, nurses, bankers and teachers, all former Ballet Gulld dancers, point to their experience as company members and gladly give thanks for qualities developed while

This season's Ballet Guild gala concert will be presented on April 8 at the Lake Mary High School auditorium. Company dancers and guest dancers will continue the tradition with a dance celebration, "Hallelujah ... Catch the Spirit." Featuring the ballets "Morning has Broken." "Are You Ready for a Miracle?". "Jesus Christ Superstar" and "Shadrack, Meshach, and Abednego," the evening promises to be an inspiring preamble to the Easter season as well as the usual standing ovation-type, energy-filled performances BOS audiences have come to expect.

The Bailet Guild is a not-forprofit organization and was chartered by the state of Florida in 1969. Annual auditions are held on an open call basis and all area dancers with the appropriwomen who have over the years ate skills are encouraged to attend. Dancers do not pay for the training they receive nor are the artistic directors for the past 27 years, Mirlam Doktor and Valerie Weld, paid for their direction of the company.

Dancers selected for the group are required to secure individual sponsors at $10 and $20 each to help with production costs. Thousands of BOS sponsors have kept the company alive and well over the years.

Hard-working members behind the scenes are the board of directors. They are the governing body of the organization who are elected annually and devote many hours of volunteer time. They help BGS with finances and keep things running smoothly by providing creative and fun money-raising projects such as the Annual Chill Cook-Off and Auction. The Ballet Guild Golf and Bowling Tournaments, and of course, the ever popular car washes, bake sales and garage sales.

The Ballet Guild has developed an international flavor in its presentations over the years by commissioning guest choreographers to set special ballets on the company dancers. Russian-born Alexi Dovgopolyi.

Oviedo is one of state's fastest growing cities

The city's growth has not been just residential. but has begun to diversify with a number of shopping centers.

In November 1994, the city executed a preannexation agreement with the Viera Company and the Rouse Company for the addition of a 1.2 million square foot mail to the city of Ovledo

The city is one of two finalists for the proposed relocation of the U.S. Volleyball Association's headquarters and training facilities. The other is San Diego, Calif.

This potential relocation would bring national attention to the city of Oviedo while adding significant impacts to the local economy.

city that gets involved

By NICK PFEIFAUP Herald Staff Writer

OVIEDO - The Greater Oviedo Chamber of Commerce is involved in local as well as area-wide activities. The remainder of 1995 is expected to be most noteworthy.

During the second half of February, plans are being finalized, and action will get underway on Oviedo's participation in the Seminole County Fair. Chamber President Jim Fox says he sees the fair as an opportunity to show off the city of Oviedo to a very wide audience.

The chamber is seeking more participation from its members and others to show off the city in fine fashion at the fair, to be held Feb. 23 through March 5 at the Seminole Greyhound Park in Casaelberry.

One of the largest immediate undertakings is preparations for the chamber's first-ever, "Taste of Oviedo." Fox has predicted possibly 20,000 to 35,000 persons will attend the event, coming up in May.

The event will be presented on Alexandria Boulevard, in front of City Hall.

In addition to many restaurants showing off their foods, the chamber is planning to allow businesses to showcase their products during the event. Initial plans call for food, bluegrass and jazz music, games and contests for youngeters, and displays by selected Greater Oviedo artists.

Co-chairmen Nita Rawison and Jim Krauss said the Taste of Oviedo is an exciting challenge for the chamber. It will be an annual project, hopefully becomming bigger and better each year.

Regarding progress in Oviedo growth, one of the latest is the 1.2 million square foot proposed Marketplace at Oviedo Crossing. The large mail is expected to be of great help in the tax revenues for the city, and is expected to provide 1,500 jobs during construction, and up to 2,000 jobs when operational.

in with the cultural/historical scene that beckons local shoppers and tourists.

For instance, many businesses did not know how to attract visitors associated with last year's visit of the Irish soccer team which practiced in Seminole County. It is envisioned that the council would assist in building linkages and develop creative ways to draw from such

For cultural purists, perhaps festivals, "recreational events," craft shows and the like are not what they had in mind. However, a relatively new concept listed by the Arts Extension Service is that culture, although different in each community, is the sum total of things that shape daily life.

Thus, these elements, viewed within the larger definition of culture, will help bring in businesses and visitors. In turn, they can be recruited to support the arts and/or be enticed to move into the county.

To back up the economic/cultural team assumptions, Eleanor Matthews of Marketek. the company which conducted the economic marketing study for Sanford's Main Street, was asked about this new partnership. "Yes, indeed," she said.

Findings noted that comments dealing with culture, legitimate theatre and movies were ranked first, arts and crafts, second. "But, many mentioned concerts, both indoor and in the park. street music, galleries, dinner theatren, craft shows, and classes, jazz concerts, symphonies, historical museums and related festivais and events," she concluded.

Although this marketing study was conducted for a Sanford entity, overall conclusions can be drawn, as its target area covered most of the county. This information wil be utilized in the council's strategic planning which will take place in March when the needs assessment results are compiled.

To go further abroad for economic implications due to the arts, the National Assembly of Local Art Agencies listed the expenditures of nonprofit arts organizations (nationally) reaching $36.8 billion with a total of full-time equivalent (FTE) jobs supported at 1.3 million.

John Naisbitt in his "Global Paradox," produced in 1994, wrote that worldwide tourism and travel will create 144 million Jobs between now and the year 2005, and "that cultural, heritage and eco-tourism offer golden opportunities to communities and regions."

No wonder businesses and governments are thinking with a different mind set. A year or so ago, one would be hard-pressed to find the word "culture" in any of the cities' comprehensive plans, much less the county's. From those documents, the most likely conclusion to be drawn would be that the only activity designated for leisure time was

The Lake Mary/Heathrow Art Festival is a prime example of causing a change of attitude. Also, one has only to look at Altamonte Springs' Crane Roost facilities and the year-long celebration of their 75th anniversary. Derek Riley, the city's events coordinator, was quoted as say-"We want to make our events accessible to everyone in the community. We can, thanks to business sponsorships."

Yes, business sponsorships. One of the most exciting changes is the plan for Sanford's waterfront developed by University of Florida architectural students with directions from the steering committee and input from the community. Jay Marder, director of planning and development for the city, pointed out that a major goal was to "create a familyoriented, lakefront activity center." Objectives include "the development of the downtown and waterfront area as a cultural, entertainment and recreational focal point including art and educational activities and amenities."

Another is to ered outdoor event facility to accommodate concerts and programs. Not just plans, but concrete action is being taken.

The Old Star Theatre has been revived in the black community of Goldsboro: a group has attained the Ritz and is desperately working to obtain funds in a race to save the old movie house from irreversible deterioration and turn it into a live performance stage; Sanford Main Street is planning a whole series of programs in Magnolia Square in support of their vision of turning the two blocks encompassing the square and the Ritz into a "culture center."

All of this positive cultural movement begs the question, 'Why is a cultural arts council needed?" Dr. Copp explained. "It provides services, coordinates, presents and runs programs: does fund-raising including administration and distribution of grants; educates, stimulates, and nurtures the cultural life of the community."

"We feel the best way to develop the kind of cultural leadership Seminole County needs is to form an alliance of the county's cultural facilities, festivals, and organization into an arts council to serve their specific needs," Copp continued. Thus, the needs assessment.

Four major task forces were formed to reach out to every segment of the county with questionnaires. They are Minority/Ethnic, Individual Artists. Business and Industry, and Community Activity, the most important since it covers the entire community including seniors and cultural organizations.

Questionnaires are being mailed to government officials. to contacts on education and to the media.

Plus:

and Much More!

"Through networking we hope to forge new partnerships, not only with cultural groups and individual artists, but businesses and governments." Copp emphasized.

Putting the model to work. Charles Jackson, president of the Sanford/Central Florida interdenominational Musicians Guild, was contacted. This group, along with Tajiri Arts, is making an important contribution in the African-American community. The discussion was highlighted by Jackson saying.

"Unity in the Community is our Motto."

The council ascribes to that goal. The council believes a unified cultural effort can result in enriching the quality of life and, in addition, be an essential factor in Seminole County's economic progress.

Kay Barthelemen is a member of the Board of Directors for the Seminale Cultural Arts Council. She is a civic activist involved in many community oriented projects.

Controversial training center has positive economic impact

By TONY Become Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD - Over the last year, the Seminole County Sports Training Center has been the topic of much discussion. And John Giantonio wouldn't have it any other

"We're becoming pretty well-known in in-ternational soccer circles," said Giantonio, who oversees scheduling and marketing for the SCSTC. "This is still a relatively new facility, but we're pleased with the response we've been getting.

Every year, more teams are showing an interest in using the facility. Things are really starting to pick up.

The SCSTC made national (and international) headlines twice in 1994, being selected as the permanent home for many of the United States Soccer Federation's national teams and serving as the training site for the Republic of Ireland's national team during the 1994 World Cup.

And if the first six weeks of 1995 are any indication, things are not going to slack off much.
"Things have slowed down a little bit after the World Cup." said Giantonio on Feb. 9. "We do have a team in from Germany (Bayer 04 Leverkusen, a member of the German Premier Division) that's training here now. And the United States U-23 and U-21 teams have come in to

'They (the U.S. teams and the German squad) have been playing games against each other and against other teams that are in Central Florida begin preparation to defend their world championship in the Women's World Cup, which will be played June 5-18 in Sweden," said Giantonio.

"And every time some reporter writes about the U.S. women's team, they'll be writing about our Giantonio explained that the SCSTC's growing popularity is no accident, but the result of careful planning and continuous effort, which have resulted in the highest compliments available in the business world: repeat business and postive word-of-mouth referrals.

"First, you have to understand what your niche is," he said. "We've researched what other athletic facilities similar to the SCSTC are doing and why teams go there. And we use that research to guide our efforts here.

"In the soccer world, people talk to each other. And apparently, people who have been here are speaking well of the center because for the first time in our short history, we've had to turn people away.

Giantonio knows better than to expect that to be the case all year.

"As in any business, it goes in waves," said Giantonio. "There are certain training periods during the year when teams are looking for a place to train. There is a certain season where you have to take advantage of the opportunities available, of teams looking to go somewhere to get ready for their season.

'From January through the end of February. we'll have teams from Europe taking their spring training here. Of the 32 available days. I'll have foreign teams in here training, using some part of the facility, on a minimum of 21 of these days."

With the European professional seasons cranking up in March. Giantonio expects a few slow weeks before activity picks up in April.

"April is when the United States Interregional Soccer League begins training for their outdoor scason," Giantonio said. "Right now, we already have two teams scheduled to train here. And the U.S. women will be in at same time."

And as action picks up on the SCSTC fields, so will the off-field activity of visiting players and support personnel.

These teams are spending a lot of cash in Seminole County," said Giantonio. "This facility is doing everything lin having a positive econom le impact) that the people who signed off on it thought it would do.

"And now that the SCSTC is the permanent home for the USSF national teams, the Center is definitely going to have a financial impact on the

SANFORD - The Sanford Recreation Department continues to grow and expand with each passing year. Under the direction of Recreation and Parks Director Mike Kirby and Recreation Superintendent Tom Farnsworth, the staff of Rocky Ellingsworth, Jim Schaefer, Tom Kelly, Yvette Hartsfield, Evelyn Bennett, Chris Usry and Lies Jones are working hard to provide the best recreational and leisure time opportunities available for every segment and age group of the anford population

In the past year the department has added several new programs, including a T-Ball Baseball League for five and six year olds, a girls' Fall Slowpitch Softball League, a 16-18 year old baseball league and an Adult 3-on-3 basketball league.

In addition to these new programs, the SRD has also seen its other programs continue to grow as well, especially the adult co-ed volleyball leagues and the women's slowpitch softball league, which this Polar Bear season has more teams entered than ever before, forcing the use of two fields.

Among the other athletic programs are baseball leagues for boy's ages 7-9, 10-12 and 13-15, spring softball leagues for girls 10-12 and 13-15, youth basketball leagues for ages 7-9, 10-12, 13-15 and 16-18, youth flag football and slowpitch softball leagues for both men and women.

The SRD also took steps to improve the athletic educational opportunities for its participants by offering fall coaching clinics and instructional baseball leagues for the youth, as well as requiring all of its athletic coaches to go through a coaches' clinic, testing and first aid training to be sanctioned to renew their licenses yearly.

Last summer the SRD also accepted a major undertaking, assuming control of the Sanford Memorial Stadium on Melionville Avenue.

With the help of donations from the community, the department has been hard at work making repairs to the stadium. including improving the plumbing, painting the scats and resodding the field.

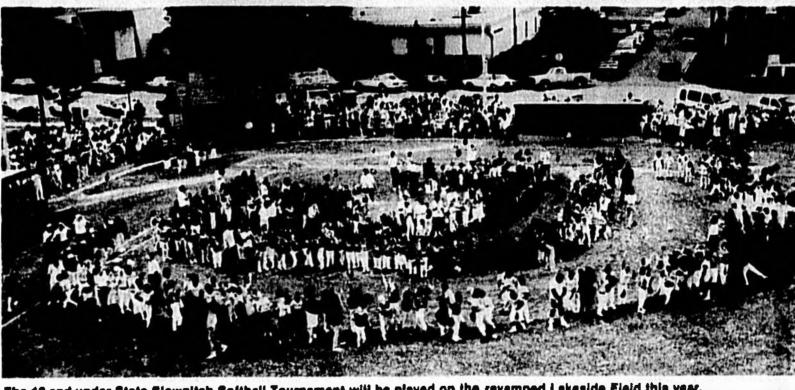

The SRD was helped when it got the Sanford Ice, an entry in the new Women's Baseball League, to become a tenant of the facility. The stadium has also been the site of several baseball tournaments, in addition to the Sanford Babe Ruth League, as well as the home to Over-35 and Over-40 baseball leagues on the weekends.

The department hopes to obtain enough money over the next few years to be able to reinstall lights and make other improvements so the stadium can become a centerpiece of activity for Sanford residents

In the past few months the parks department has also been busy upgrading the playing fields, putting up new, higher fencing on the Chase Park softball field and Zinn Beck Field at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

In addition to safety, the new fences are being installed in preparation to host the Class A-B Men's State Slowpitch Softball Tournament late this summer.

Sanford will also be the host to the 12-and-under State Slowpitch Softball Tournament later this year. The tournament will be played on the revamped Lukeside Field in Ft. Mellon Park. The fences have been moved in to a distance of 200 feet to make a better facility for Little Majors baseball and the
