

Lookouts Win Third Straight, Defeating DeLand 9 To 0

Third Inning Is Big Frame When Locals Get Eight

Sanford's Lookouts won their third consecutive game yesterday by whitewashing the DeLand Reds here, 9 to 0.

McNara, pitcher, held the visitors to seven well-scattered hits, two of which came in the opening inning.

DeLand made their only serious threat in the third stanza when Hooten led off with a single and went to third on Bell's double. A pop-up, a strike-out and a long fly to left field cut off the attempted rally.

The Lookouts went down in order for the first two innings but unloaded a deadly attack on Dopey DeLand to score eight runs in the third.

Mally walked and went to second a wild pitch. Powell hit to center and McGowan followed with a double. DeLand's only hope came in the fourth when McGowan singled and McGowan advanced to second on a sacrifice fly. McGowan scored on a sacrifice fly. McGowan scored on a sacrifice fly.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

WOR TO LIQUOR DEALERS
Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that putteth his bottle to him, and maketh him drunken also, that thou mayest look on their nakedness.—Habakkuk 2:15.

UPON TWELVE

Now has been continued in the increasing noonday. Some show of order wherein to rest.

That time be pressed.

Where in our path was the unblissful clatter of morning. The leaf shadow and stir, the brush and broom. Now at the base of trees is a clean sunlight. At the door, room.

We can sit with minds quiet with the loftiness, though cooler. That the sun has for its meridian. In the fine short space before the roof eaveward. Darkens again. Josephine Miles.

ACTRESS

Is it not a miracle: This aged woman, In appearance dull And hollow-eyed, And wilted as a dying flower, Summoning, at a certain rise, Each regal beauty, pride, And power? Le Haron Cooke.

The war cycle completes itself so swiftly these days ahead, it is a question whether history is repeating itself or stuttering. Cincinnati Star-Times.

We've been listening to Jim Farley, Senator Barkley and Senator Robinson over the radio. To Democrats are pretty good all right, to hear us tell!

Is Governor Shotts climbing on the Cone bandwagon when he says, "The Democrats have made their choice between two splendid gentlemen. Mr. Cone will be elected in November and I am confident he will lead the state through four years of progress?" Or is he?

Local Baptists deny the charge, as printed in this column Tuesday, that Dave Shotts, as well as every other governor since Sidney J. Catts, is a Baptist. The governor is, they insist, a Congregationalist. So we will let it stand at that... until we hear from the Congregationalists.

Well, Judge Patteway did carry Central Florida, Seminole, Orange, and Lake, and he did carry the lower East Coast, Dade, Palm Beach, Broward and Monroe. How good it we are expected to know how every little nook and cranny in the state would go?

Senator Leffin is about to make up his mind to run for re-election to the United States Senate to which he was only recently appointed following Senator Trammell's death. In that case we can expect to learn almost as much about railroad receiverships as we have already learned in recent months about hotel receiverships.

It is no compliment to the South that the Democratic convention is about to abolish the James two-thirds rule, by which it is necessary for a presidential candidate to secure the approval of two-thirds of the delegates before he can be nominated. By means of this rule the South has long been able to influence strongly the selection of a presidential candidate, and absolutely to veto the selection of one which it does not approve. And this is a power which it rarely exercises, for since after this in national elections, the South has furnished the only "electable" votes in the electoral college which the nominee has to

Those Who Lead

"Perhaps the most valuable citizen to any community, town or city is the man or woman, who while not seeking or desiring public office for himself or herself, and who, though not active in matters of a civic nature, is always ready to lend support to the duly constituted authorities and to aid and endorse financially and otherwise all worthwhile civic enterprises," says the Evergreen (Ala.) Courant. "No community, large or small, can exist or progress without a large number of such citizens. There must be leaders, but without a progressive, constructive, co-operative citizenship, such leaders must necessarily fail.

"The leaders receive their inspiration and desire to lead from those who follow. The officials receive their encouragement and desire to properly serve from the thoughts that come to them from those who elect them to office. Such inspiration and encouragement does not come from one, who, when progress is made, blindly shuts his eyes, and shouts from the housetops that his town, state or nation is going to the low wows, and who at every opportunity abuses his officials, leaders, and community efforts. It comes rather from that one, who, when something worthwhile, whether large or small, has been done or accomplished by an official, or who, when some civic betterment program has been successfully carried through by some public spirited leader, says to such official or leader words of encouragement and inspiration, and instead of abusing him for not doing something else, compliments him for the work done and urges him to carry on to other accomplishments.

"The character, ability, and physical strength to lead and serve, may be temporarily in the hands of the chosen leader or official, but for all time, the driving power, the will to progress, the encouragement and inspiration to strive forward, must come from the citizenship of the community, town, county, state, or nation.

"You, the reader, can make your town or county what you want it. Your attitude is reflected in your officials. If you are content, they will be progressive. If you boast, encourage and inspire them by your words and co-operation, they will catch the vision and endeavor to serve accordingly."

A Gloomy Forecast

H. G. Wells, world historian who for years preached a political philosophy of intellectual optimism, now looks with complete disillusion and disgust upon democracy, the League of Nations and the earth's present organization into highly nationalistic, or what he calls "combatant," states. He reveals in a special article published in Collier's. He even goes so far as to forecast the possible imminent extermination of civilization.

Mr. Wells recalls sadly that he once made himself responsible for the phrase "the War to end War," but now sees world catastrophe as the "plain and reasonable probability" at the present time. He admits himself to be one of a group of "baffled onlookers," and finds himself unable to take sides on any of the resounding issues or international disputes of the day. He says he "would not slap a cat for one side rather than the other."

"In 1914," he says, "I still believed in a certain reality behind democracy; I thought that existing 'democratic' governments were conscientiously responsive to current thought. I did not realize how far governments could go on ignoring the increasing intelligence of mankind, thought Germany had to be 'liberated from imperialism' by defeat and then at once welcomed back into the 'comity of nations.'

"There is no escape from the disaster which threatens civilization as we conceive it but strenuous and complicated effort. If within a few generations we do not build that instructed, educated and disciplined world community which alone can end war for us and avert degeneration, then the good things that have gleamed before our eyes, beauty, fruitful leisure, enlargement of vision, associated with ever-increasing power, will be withdrawn inexorably, one collapse will follow another and our children will pass down into the darkness, suffocating each other, flaying each other with bomb and gas, tearing each other to bleeding rags.

"It is the flattest, clearest common sense that these things are ahead in waiting for us unless we turn to a new direction. We have been warned plainly by the events of the past two decades. Not only do we know what may happen but we know in general terms what we ought to be doing about it. And we are not doing it.

"But it can still be done. A great mental turnover has been going on and practical reconstruction has had to wait upon that intellectual revision. The federated world community has to exist first in men's imaginations, before it can give battle to the combatant state and so emerge to triumphant reality. Day by day as this fundamental antagonism in human politics grows plainer, reasonable men have less excuse for indecision in the planning of their lives."

"We recognize that decisions of the Supreme Court until reversed are final and we abide by them," he added. "Nevertheless, we do not regard the court as above and beyond those factors and causes which naturally influence the minds of human beings."

After referring to the court decision invalidating the New York law to fix minimum wages for women, Robinson cried: "Oh, blind and impartial justice, what blunders are committed in thy name!"

The Arkansas paid his respects to Governor Landon in the first paragraph of his speech. Referring to a telegram from Landon in which the Kansas governor informed the convention how he would interpret certain planks of the platform, Robinson declared:

"It was not the first time in our history that a nominee, in advance of accepting the nomination, has placed his interpretation on the language employed, but it is the first instance in which a candidate by keeping silent on national public questions and after maneuvering himself into a position assuring his selection, has indicated a disposition to bolt on five or more subjects on which his party has spoken."

An all night session failed to produce an agreement. Agreement to include some such plank was reported but committee members were described as in disagreement over the phraseology.

Japs Hint They May Send Ship To China

TIENTSIN, June 25.—(AP)—Indignant Japanese hinted last night a warship squadron would be the answer to Chinese marine attacks on suspected smugglers. A spokesman at the Japanese consulate indicated a squadron of destroyers was being sent from Port Arthur to patrol the Gulf of Chihli, North China's vast harbor. The Japanese hinted, too, they might demand complete withdrawal of Chinese customs patrol vessels from northern waters unless "the situation is ameliorated."

Exploding Star Grows Brighter And Shows Iron

Scientists Are Uncertain If Appearance Has Significance

WILLIAMS BAY, Wis., June 25.—The exploding star in the northeastern sky, mystified astronomers recently by adding iron to the blazing matter it hurled into space.

The iron appeared in the spectrum bands color pictures of the star's light observed through Yerkes Observatory telescopes as the star grew brighter. The metal's significance was difficult to explain, Dr. Otto Struve, observatory director, said. Dr. Oliver J. Lee, who also was watching the star at Northwestern University's Dearborn Observatory in Evanston, Ill., said that iron was not unusual in normal stars, but was not seen in novae such as this.

"A very considerable change occurred in the spectrum bands of the new star between Thursday and Friday nights, Dr. Struve reported. At first only hydrogen, helium and magnesium were seen. One thing the iron probably indicated he said, was that the surface of the star had cooled from 15,000 to 10,000 degrees centigrade. The surface heat of the 'exploding star,' the only one known to exist, is 10,000 degrees.

This cooling process was occurring although the star was growing brighter. It could be seen plainly with the naked eye. The easiest way to find it was to locate the constellation Cygnus, known as "the Swan" and "the Northern Cross," in the northeastern sky. The long axis of the cross if projected in an imaginary line northward, would almost hit the nova.

The fact that the star was increasing in brightness, Dr. Struve said, it was of magnitude 2½, when Leslie Pelletier, amateur astronomer, of Delphos, Ohio, found it Thursday night, and was now "slightly brighter" was evidence that the earth had yet to see the high point of the explosion.

Thus astronomers were afforded an unusual opportunity to study the star in the process of "blowing out." Most of such explosions have been seen and studied as the result of the light scattered although common. It rarely was caught in the process in the way it has been seen to flare a second time.

If enough new data—such as the appearance of iron in the spectrum—can be obtained from these "explosions in the making," scientists may get a clew to the cause of the blowups.

Exploding stars are a 4,000-year-old mystery. The ancients called them novae in the belief they were new heavenly bodies. They were seen as early as 235 B. C. One of the most famous was that of 1572 A. D., which could be seen in broad daylight. Modern science knows them not as new stars, but as old ones exploding in an unexplained way. After the explosion they resume their accustomed dimness.

100,000 Bedouin Tribesmen Propose March On Jerusalem To Get Rid Of English

Engineer, Soldier Die In Train Wreck

Two Hundred Chiefs Demand 'Showdown' In Desert Meeting

AMMAN, Trans-Jordan, June 26.—(AP)—Leaders of 100,000 Bedouin warriors today proposed a march on Jerusalem to assist their Arab brothers in the Holy Land.

They laid demands before Emir Abdullah of Trans-Jordan and called for a "showdown" after a meeting of 200 chiefs and leaders of desert tribes.

Arab chiefs said they would march on the Holy Land, if it was necessary, to rid the country of Jews and British. Some leaders said ten days had been allowed for the Jews and British to free the Arabs from "dominance."

The muddy Jordan was guarded at rare intervals by frontier patrols numbering in all 1200 soldiers.

Arabs wrecked a train on the Jerusalem-Haifa Lydda Railroad today killing an engineer and a soldier. A general fight between Arab attackers and the military guard on the train developed.

Transportation Is Topic Discussed With School Board

The Seminole County School Board today discussed budgetary problems and plans for installing new, all-steel buses on routes coming into Sanford.

While no definite action had been taken at 1 P. M., indications were that the proposed expenditures for 1936-37 would be handled somewhat to care for the equipment of the new transportation system.

Some 25 new buses will be needed to put the advanced plan into effect. All old vehicles will be scrapped or sold.

With several firms already indicating their desire of entering bids to furnish the new automobiles, the board announced it would meet on July 9 to inspect the prices offered by motor dealers.

Today's meeting, up until 1 P. M., was marked generally by informal discussions.

A combination of rain proved too much for the insects, although some of the insects were reported in the region where crops, fields and houses are suffering.

Drive For Licenses Gets Results Soon

Dog Vaccination Urged By Police Before Deadline

Chief Roy Williams today called attention to the fact that Saturday is the final day on which Sanfordites may secure dog licenses and have their pets vaccinated.

Saturday Is Last Day For Licensing Pets; Few Permits Issued

Chief Roy Williams today called attention to the fact that Saturday is the final day on which Sanfordites may secure dog licenses and have their pets vaccinated.

Beginning Sunday morning the police department is authorized to pick up and destroy all dogs that do not bear a license and have not been vaccinated against rabies.

Chief Williams spent part of yesterday evening, what he termed the "dog gun," apparently preparing for a vigorous campaign against unlicensed canines.

The police officer pointed out the necessity of inoculation against rabies emphasizing that already this summer—before the hottest period of the season has arrived—a number of suspicious dogs have been reported and several have been shot by the department.

A license costs but $1.25, Chief Williams said. "The City has secured the services of a doctor who will vaccinate all licensed dogs free. We haven't the least desire to shoot anyone's pet, but we will use our guns rather than take the chance of a mad dog biting some child and endangering the lot's life."

Licenses may be purchased at the City Hall. Dogs may also be vaccinated there.

Less than 70 permits had been sold at noon today, according to municipal records.

Al Smith Will Not Discuss Future Plans

Riot Mars Convention When Smith Signs Seen In Balcony; Ends In Free For All

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP)—While Al Smith steadily has refused to discuss publicly his future political plans, persons close to him disclosed he does not now have any intention of making a campaign speech for Gov. Landon.

Associates today described Smith as believing he had fulfilled his political duty by making known his views on the Roosevelt Administration and the course the Democratic convention should follow.

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—A fist fight occurred at the national Democratic convention last night when a group of men and women supporters of Alfred E. Smith began waving their banners.

The Smith forces were present on the last rows of the left side of the balcony. They carried banners reading "Al Smith Democrats" and "We want Al Smith."

It took the delegates on the floor quite a time to notice the big black and white Smith signs but when they did they began to boo.

The Smith supporters continued to wave their banners and followers of President Roosevelt charged toward them.

It was a free-swinging battle while it lasted. The Smith cheer leaders retreated into a strategic corner, swapping an occasional punch.

A small child on its mother's knee was almost in the midst of the row but did not appear to have been hurt. His head could be seen through the flying fists and surging bodies.

Police began shouting the disturbers out and got a big cheer. The boo for Smith and his flag-wavers ran the Columbia Broadcasting station noise meter up to hear 90, which is just about high for this convention.

Reporters who raced into the midst of the disturbance were told the Smith supporters had come to Philadelphia from the El Caballero in the Bronx, New York. Three of the visitors identified themselves as Jimmie Brown, Albert Torell and Anna Ross.

Solution Is Found To Woman's Murder

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 26.—(AP)—County Detective Roy Clinton said today the mysterious slaying two months ago of Mrs. Mae McConnell, 23-year-old mother of twins, had been solved and the killer died May 8 of delirium tremens.

Clinton said investigations revealed "positively" that James Jones, 53-year-old painter, committed the crime. Clinton said Jones confessed the slaying to two women before he died and the women reported it to the police.

JACKSONVILLE, June 26.—(AP)—John D. Montgomery, state director of the "Roosevelt nominators" club, said today more than 100,000 Florida Democrats expected to attend 125 rallies tomorrow night.

Meetings are to be held to raise funds for the party's national campaign. They will differ in details, but all will include the public broadcast by radio of President Roosevelt's nomination acceptance speech in Philadelphia.

The Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee was reorganized in the Court House yesterday afternoon and S. M. Lloyd elected chairman. Other officers are J. C. Maxwell, vice-chairman and Miss Mildred Knight, secretary.

H. J. Lehman and Gordon Barnett, representatives-elect, and S. A. E. Wilkinson, national Democratic committeeman, addressed the 16 present at the meeting, urging the necessity of every Democrat supporting President Roosevelt for re-election.

The speakers also touched on the need for concentrated activity throughout the state, emphasizing that combined efforts of Democrats should be thrown into the campaign field from the present until the general elections in November.

It was pointed that each precinct has its own chairman whose duty it will be to urge attendance at the "Nominating Night" activities in the City Hall (Continued on Page Five)

Advocate Constitutional Changes If Seen Necessary

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—(AP)—The Democratic national convention last night adopted a 1936 platform proposing to meet national economic and social problems by joint federal-state action, but by a constitutional amendment if necessary.

Approved without debate, the declaration of principles on which President Roosevelt will battle it out with Gov. Alf Landon, the Republican nominee, the platform also declared the party would:

Use all available means to raise farm income toward its pre-war purchasing power through the soil conservation and domestic allotment program, and "vigorously and fearlessly" enforce the anti-trust laws and restore them where they have been weakened.

Here is the essence of the platform:

Preamble. The test of a representative government is its ability to promote the safety and happiness of the people. Twelve years of Republican leadership have put it back on the road to restored health.

These obligations, neglected through 12 years of the old leadership, have once more been recognized by American government. Under the new leadership they

President's Name Is Placed Before Convention By John E. Mack Of New York

Wild Stampede Delays Address

Nomination Will Be First Made By Acclamation Since '16

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—(AP)—The name of President Roosevelt was placed today before a cheering Democratic National Convention to run for re-election on a platform advocating a constitutional amendment unless handled otherwise.

Judge John E. Mack of New York, the President's political mentor in youth, started the demonstration by offering Roosevelt's name and acclaiming him the champion of the masses against "classes of privilege."

Since 55 seconding speeches were next in order, the actual nomination is not expected until almost midnight.

The nomination was planned to be the first by acclamation since Woodrow Wilson's renomination in 1916.

Long before Mack could reach his climax, the delegates were bustling to go on another shouting, stamping procession through the aisles. The scene was greatly different from the matter of fact convention, which last night adopted the pro New Deal party platform and threw out the two-thirds nominating rule without a murmur of debate.

When the roll call by states started, Alabama yielded to New York and the show was on. Mack was interrupted frequently by applause.

There was no slightest expectation that any other name would be presented. Governor Bibb Graves of Alabama led off a long list of seconders which read like a miniature "Who's Who" of the party.
