NEWS DIGEST Insurance rate hike County homeowners may pay State Farm a lot more

By NICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - State Farm Insurance is asking the state to approve a rate increase for homeowners insurance that averages 23.5 percent statewide, but would hit Seminole County homeowners with a 27.2 percent hike.

State Insurance Commissioner Tom Gallagher is scheduled to decide within the next several weeks whether to approve the increase, and if so. by how much.

When the rate increase estimates were first revealed earlier this week, the company's Public Affairs manager, Terri Fritsch, said she did not have specific information regarding Seminole County.

She explained that an increase in premiums by as much as $111 was proposed for coastal areas. Non-coastal residents, considered in a noncatastrophic area, would have premiums go up possibly by as little as $3, she said. Seminole See Insurance, Page 5A

AIDS testing Manager will go to court to learn if alleged shoplifter who bit him is HIV positive

By SANDRA ELLIOTT Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Seminole-Brevard State Attorney Norman Wolfinger will ask the legislature to pass a law dealing with AIDS testing as the result of a biting incident in Sanford in carly August.

Jack Scalera, chief of operations in the state attorney's office said, "Mr. Wolfinger is going to be asking the Florida Prosecuting Attorneys Association to submit to the legislature a statue that will allow testing in situations like this."

The biting incident occurred Aug. 7 when James Carlin. manager of the Family Dollar Store on Airport Boulevard was bitten three times as he tried to stop a female he suspected of shoplifting. When he was treated as HCA Central Florida Regional Hospital. Carlin said a triage nurse told him "the woman who bit me was HIV positive."

Because of privacy laws prevent-ing disclosure of medical information. Carlin has not been able to confirm what he was told. Carlin said he has been tested since the incident and he is negative for HIV.

Circuit Court Judge C. Vernon Mize, Jr. has scheduled a hearing Tuesday morning on a motion filed by assistant state attorney Jeff Joseph to test the woman for the virus, and get copies of her medical records. The prosecutor stated in the motion the woman is being investigated for a possible first degree murder charge.

The woman has been charged with robbery in the Aug. 2 incident. Carlin said the woman attacked him when he tried to stop her from leaving the store with $130 worth of merchandise. Carlin also said he was stabbed in the hand with some sharp object before being bitten.

State law currently allows rape victims to request AIDS testing for their assailants but does not provide for testing when other bodily fluids are exchanged except during sexual intercourse. The law also provides that policemen and rescue workers

Your school taxes set with budget approval

By VICKI DeSORMIER Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - With barely a glance, the Seminole County school board approved the district's $345 million budget last night.

Bustling in a few minutes late, the four members of the school board who were in attendance, chit-chatted about the Greater Semiole County Chamber of Commerce's Political Hob Nob that they had left early to attend the board meeting.

Board chairman Jeanne Morris was out of town and was not on hand to cast her vote for the budget.

The budget includes $181 million for salaries and benefits for all the district employees and administrators and $3.9 million for textbooks.

In the meeting room a handful of district employees, mostly from the finance department. clustered near the front rows.

Three members of the public were in attendance, though only one rose to speak to the board about the budget.

"Have you done anything with the schools in Sanford where the CTBS scores are so low?" asked Bill Johnon of Sanford. "We need to pour more money into the Sanford schools. We need to do whatever we can to teach these students in

Chamber's dwindling membership spurs action

LONGWOOD - The Longwood/Winter Springs Chamber of Commerce wants to get back into the limelight. "We've been dwindling," said Presi-dent Ken Pedlow, "but we are going to change."

Several years ago, the two chambers merged together to become a relatively large organization. Pedlow estimated the number at well over 300 members.

"Then." he said. "possibly due to the economy. or due to the lack of activities, we started losing members, and got down to about 140."

"During a recent board meeting," he continued, "we got together and took a good long look at ourselves and what we have been doing. Other than giving scholarship money to youngsters, which is certainly a worthy endeavor. we weren't doing much else."

Board member Hannah Miller commented. "We started examining where we were. We question if we have any voice in government, or any roll in the business and residential development of our two cities."

She continued. "Now we are bound and determined to end all of that, and start getting involved. If we put all of our voices together, we can get back to the position a Chamber of Commerce should have in the communities it serves."

"When we started announcing some of our new projects," Pedlow said, "some of our former members signed back up, and we have added several new businesses bringing us up to almost 200 members in a very short time."

Among projects planned for the immediate future is a ribbon cutting ceremony to welcome a new business to Longwood. "Most chambers do that." Miller said. "but we haven't done it in many years, so this will be a new start in that direction."

The ribbon cutting, scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 22 at 4 p.m., is for Vinelli Catering, located at 255 S. S.R. 427 in Longwood.

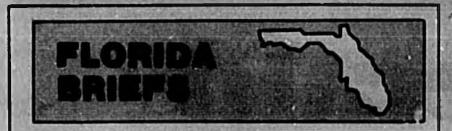

We are also scheduling a political forum for the six people who are running for election or re-election to the Longwood City Commission." Miller said. "And, we have invited Mayor Paul Lovestrand to talk with us about why he has been continuously trying to disband the Longwood Police Department.

Pedlow said the chamber does not plan to be a See Chamber, Page 5A

Chiles to fight for Hispanic PSC member

TALLAHASSEE - Gov. Lawton Chiles wants to re-appoint the only Hispanic ever to serve on the state Public Service Commission, but he might have to go to court. J. Hardin Peterson, the governor's general counsel, told the commission's nominating council Thursday that state law requires the panel to come up with two more names for Chiles to consider in filling two open seats.

"We're entitled to have six names, and we only got four," Peterson said. "They're wrong."

Commissioner Luis Lauredo's term expires in January, and Chiles must replace Tom Beard, who abruptly resigned last month amid criticism of his romantic relationships with Southern Bell employees and an investigation showing evidence he faked a National Guard drug test.

The council picked four candidates Wednesday but Lauredo missed the cut by one vote. Chiles wants to reappoint Lauredo to a four-term term on the panel regulating Florida utilities.

Convicted torcher lears prison

TAMPA - One of the two white laborers convicted of dousing a black tourist with gasoline and setting him afire said he would be a marked man in prison and fears the three consecutive life sentences he now faces.

"I know if we're not protected, we'll be dead within 24 hours." Mark Kohut, who has been held in a jail isolation cell, told the St. Petersburg Times in an interview published Thursday.

Speaking for the first time since his conviction with friend Charles Rourk, Kohut said he is innocent in the New Year Day attack near Tampa that left Christopher Wilson of New York City with burns over nearly 40 percent of his body.

"We didn't do it - I can't say that enough," said Kohut, who was described by Wilson as the attacker with "bright eyes."

Kohut, 27, said he and "Chuck" Rourk, 33, came from Illinois to the Lakeland area in search of work. Although a neighbor said Kohut used racist remarks, he denied that.

"I don't have anything against any people." he said, adding he is not a member of any hate group. And of the tiny swastika he has tattooed on his right hand, he said: "If I could take it off, I would."

A note left behind at the burning scene read: "One les nigger more to go" and was signed "KKK."

Court ruling

Both sides can seal child abuse public records to protect privacy

By CURT ANDERSON Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - Public records can be scaled in child abuse cases to protect privacy rights of the accused or alleged victima, the state Supreme Court has ruled.

But the justices cautioned their ruling applies only to child abuse, which demands special protection because of its sensitivity and the lives that can be ruined if unfounded allegations get out.

"If the subject of the public record involved no one other than a politician or public figure and not children. for example, it is clear that the privacy interests would be considerably diminished," the justices said in an unsigned opinion.

The case involved a Pinellas County sheriff's investigation of the Church of Scientology's Cadet School. Deputies who gave a puppet show there saw what they thought was evidence of child abuse and neglect Sept. 20, 1991,

The allegations were referred to the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, which found no reason to pursue the charges. The St. Petersburg Times then made a public records request for all of the documents in the sheriff's possession.

The Cadet School got a court to temporarily bar release of the records, and several children who attend the school filed a similar request.

A circuit judge ruled the sheriff's reports were public records and said only the sheriff had the power to prevent their release. The 2nd District Court of Appeal, however, reversed that decision, contending the school and children had a right to exempt the records.

The Supreme Court agreed only that the children had that right - not the school or its operators. State law is "intended to protect these minors from the precise kind of disclosure contemplated by the trial court's order." the justices said.

Letter asks members to reject integration

JACKSONVILLE - Since 1876, the Florida Yacht Club has represented the pinnacle of private clubs in Jacksonville. but a black has never been allowed to join the elite fellowship.

The all-white club has been in the news twice this year when it lost a national youth sailing regatta and the Navy denied use of its facilities for a race because of the group's racial makeup.

Now, with two black men proposed for membership, club members are being asked in an unsigned letter to block integration efforts.

The letter, titled "A Group of Concerned Members to Preserve Our Florida Yacht Club," asks the club's 1,200 members to vote against new membership proposals.

Dentist Orrin D. Mitchell and Willard A. Payne Jr., owner of two McDonald's restaurant, have been proposed for membership in the club. They are the first blacks submitted for membership since the club rejected the membership of black dentist Chester Alkens in June.

IRS expands TeleFile program

CINCINNATI — Some single taxpayers in seven states will be able to file their income tax returns by telephone next year. The internal Revenue Service has tested the TeleFile program in Ohio since January 1992. The agency said Thursday it will expand the venture next year to include Indiana, Kentucky, Florida, Michigan, South Carolina and West Virginia.

To participate in TeleFile, a taxpayer must be single, make less than $50,000 in income and $400 in interest and dividend income, and have no dependents. About 10 percent of eligible taxpayers participated in 1992 and 1993. The IRS hopes more will take part as they learn refunds can be received in about three weeks, instead of the six

"Going in, we didn't really know what to expect," Kerns said. "Going in, we didn't really know what to expect," Kerns said from the IRS processing center in Covington, Ky. "TeleFile has been something that's very easy on the IRS. We've got computers doing the math, rather than people, so there are tons less errors. All the feedback we've had from the taxpayers to the th's every easy to use the taxpayers is that it's easy and to keep it up." The IRS hopes 500,000 taxpayers will participate next year. Taxpayers call a toil-free number and punch in the figure needed to file their return.

Most participants still must mail to the IRS their W-2 forms and a special that amounts to a signature document.

The letter, dated Sept. 3, also asks members to reject a policy change outlined in the club's September newsletter which would require those seeking to reject a potential member to "state in the written objection their grounds for such objection."

The new policy would require the written objections to be retained as a part of the club records and says members "may be requested to appear at a board meeting so that a deter-mination can be made whether or not the objection is one permitted by law." The newsletter said the policy change is being made to "con-tinue to operate legally" under state law.

The unsigned letter, however, calls the new policy a "scare tottin."

STUART - Chaos reigned in a Martin County courtroom after a judge overruled a jury's recommendation and sentenced a 21-year-old man to death for killing a convenience-store owner.

The defendant, Stuart Pomeranz, fought with is and yelled obscenities at Circuit Judge Marc Clance and threatened the prosecutor.

"What do you expect me to do, man?" Pomeranz yelled at Clanca. "You just sentenced me to death for something I didn't do."

Meanwhile his mother, Donna Pittman, acreamed at the judge and Assistant State Attorney Rick Barlow, calling him the "most sorry son-of-s-gun prosecutor there is" and had to be forced to leave the courtroom after scuffing with a bailiff.

At the same time, Pomeranz' flancee, Julie Schwartz, a Broward investigator who said she fell in love with him during his trial, sobbed and repeatedly yelled "I love you" as Pomeranz struggled with bailiffs. "Why don't you just shoot him now," she screamed

It was the wildest scene ever witnessed in a Martin courtroom, longtime observers said.

A St. Lucie jury convicted Pomeranz, 20, last month of murdering Ranjit "Pete" Patel and robbing him of $51 a few minutes before the Port Salerno store closed on Easter Sunday 1992.

"At last my father's death is avenged," said his son Nirsj Patel after the courtroom chaos subsided. He and his mother sat quietly across the room when Cianca overrode the jury's 8-4 vote for life and sentenced Pomeranz to die in Florida's electric chair.

"May God have mercy on your soul," the judge said.

"Yeah. right." Pomeranz muttered, rolling his eyes and glaring at the judge with a smirk that was commonplace during his three-week trial.

Pomeranz struggled against the thick leather wrist-restraints and leg shackles and refused the judge's order to be fingerprinted. Four security officers had to hold him and twist his fingers from the ink pad to the sentencing papers. Before imposing sentence, Cianca said officers at the Martin County Jali described Pomeranz as a "cocky, bragging, Billy the Kid-type constantly extolling his violent exploits."

He said he overrode the jury's recommendation because Pomeranz previously was sentenced to life as a habitual violent offender and for the violent nature of his crime.

Mom charged in infants' deaths

By BRENDA C. COLEMAN Associated Press Writer

WAUKEGAN, Ill. - They brainstormed. They pored over medical records. They tested the water and the air. They consulted the nation's top safety experts, disease experts and experts in sudden infant death syndrome.

Finally, they ruled out everything but murder.

And then on Wednesday, investigators said, 30-year-old Gail Savage admitted she had suffocated each of her three infant children with a blanket while her husband was at work. She was jailed without bail on three counts of murder.

"I don't think you could ever come up with a motive for three crimes of this nature." State's Attorney Michael J. Waller said Thursday.

Mrs. Savage's lawyer, Robert Hauser, said the woman's mental condition would almost certainly be central to the case.

Mrs. Savage and her husband, James Savage, 36, of Wauconda, had said they believed their children died of SIDS or a genetic defect.

But Coroner Barbara Richardson said two

Thieves target boat outdrives

By SANDRA ELLIOTT Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Boat outdrives fell victim to one or more thieves along Sanford Avenue Wednesday night with incidents reported to both the Sanford Police Department and the Seminole County Sheriff's office.

Business owner Victoria Simpson, who owns a used car dealership in the 2600 block of Sanford Avenue, said she lost $20,000 to $30,000 worth of equipment when someone made off with the outdrives from four or five boats which were also on the lot. Her business is in the county's jurisdiction.

"Somebody came through there last night and took every outdrive off of every boat." Simpson said. "They took two (outdrives) off of one boat. That's about $12,000 to replace those two."

Simpson found rubber gloves at the scene when she arrived at her businessy Nyursday morning

SIDS cases in one household are extremely rare. It has happened only once in 17 years In Lake County, she said. So the third death in less than three years, on June 28, raised suspicions. "We proceeded with some discretion," Waller said. "Obviously, you don't want to be accusing people whose children die under these circumstances until you can ... rule out all other causes of death.

"And that's really what this investigation has done, and it's gone to great lengths."

The coroner and her staffers and those in other agencies brainstormed on three occasions, trying to identify all possible explanations for the third death.

They reviewed the bables' and parents' medical records, had water in the home tested, asked the Consumer Product Safety Commission to rule out crib dangers and consulted the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Also, they tested emissions from the family's vehicles. They contacted the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation to make sure an instance of the condition in the father's family would have had no effect. And they talked with the Epilepsy Foundation to rule out a connection with the mother's reported

They also consulted four of the top SIDS experts in the country and had Baylor University perform extensive tests to rule out poisons.

Every possibility was eliminated. Finally, they decided to interrogate the parents separately, rather than together.

"That's when the case took a different turn," the coroner said. The father is not a suspect, Waller said.

Autopsies had showed no injuries or other problems in the babies' development, the coroner said, and the conditions of their lungs were consistent with those of SIDS victims.

But "no forensic pathologist in the world" can tell the difference between suffocation with a pillow or blanket and SIDS. Ms. Richardson said. SIDS is blamed for about 7,000 U.S. infant deaths annually.

Six-week-old Michael Savage was the first of the bables to die, in November 1990. The coroner's office blamed his death on SIDS. Then in February 1992, 22-day-old Amber died of unknown causes. That was followed by Cynthia's unexplained death on June 28 of this year. The couple have no other children.

DETROIT — Hours after being ordered to stand trial for helping a man kill himself, Dr. Jack Kevorkian was on hand at another suicide, the 18th at which he has been present, police said today.

Redford Township police an-swering a 911 call about a suicide in the Detroit suburb went to a home Thursday night to find Kevorkian and a dead man, Lt. Michael Kosla said. The cause of death was not immediately known.

Kevorkian was not immediately arrested, and his exact role in the unidentified man's death was unknown.

Wayne County Prosecutor John O'Hair told WWJ-AM that his office would decide whether to ask a judge to revoke Kevorkian's $100,000 bail and jail him.

"To say that it was troublesome was an understatement," O'Hair said of the latest apparent suicide.

The Longwood/Winter Springs Chamber of Commerce has admittedly been lagging in accomplishments recently. As a result, membership had dropped to its lowest point in several years.

It would have been easy to let it fade into obscurity and suggest members join the Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce. It is certainly a worthwhile organization which has a commendable list of accomplishments.

The Longwood/Winter Springs Chamber board of directors chose otherwise however.

It did what any organization with problems should do. The board members sat down and took a good long look at themselves. They questioned: What are we doing? Who are we serving? Is anyone listening? Why is the membership dropping?

The board has come up with answers. It admitted it has been doing very little, and serving only a few. This resulted in offering very few benefits for being a member.

Now, spurred by strong leadership, the chamber is dedicating itself to expanding in size as well as pervice. New activities are being planned. Special guest speakers are being obtained for meetings. New businesses will be welcomed to the community.

These are all actions most other chambers have undertaken, which have proven to be highly successful in promoting the business communities in the areas they serve.

There is no guarantee this new drive will succeed. But with the dedicated leadership it appears to have, it shows definite promise. We urge business leaders to get involved in chamber activities. Longwood and Winter Springs are excellent

NAFTA opponents suffer amnesia

You know a name has become installed in the public consciousness when it can be publicly referred to by its initials — witness the FBI, NAACP, PTA, UNESCO and YWCA.

NAFTA has now joined that auspicious club. And the North American Free Trade Agreement Act is getting baptized in controversy. The public debate over NAFTA is fascinating for two reasons.

First. NAFTA has created some strange bedfellows. On one side is a curious group of intergalactic opponents: Virginia Gov. Wilder. Ross Perot, House Democrat Whip David E. Bonior, Rev. Jesse Jackson, AFL-ClO chief Lane Kirkland and extreme right-wing poolibah. Pat Buchanan.

On the other side, led by a tippy-toeing President Clinton, are NAFTA's supporters: Republican Senate leader Bob Dole, influential Democrat Rep. Robert T. Matsui of California, 41 of the nation's governors, and conservative columnist Robert Novak.

Those bizarre alliances remind me of the punch line of an anecdote about an extraordinarily diversified group of persons with eclectic tastes - "who argued all night as to who had the right to do what and with what and to whom."

Like Clinton's budget battle, the vote on NAFTA will be decided more by political alignments than economic realities. That's because supporters of NAFTA have done a shoddy job of or-ganizing support, while opponents h a v e d o n e a masterful job of misrepresenting economic data.

That brings up to the second interesting aspect of this agreement: the historical amnesia of its opponents. Nobody can con-vince American workers that ratifying NAFTA will not cause a mass exodus of jobs to Mexico's cheaper labor market. But one of the world's most intellectually formidable publications. The two reasons.

The public debate over NAFTA is

Economist, has quoted the Congressional Budget Office in concluding that the number of jobs lost from NAFTA is likely to be small: "half a million over the next decade in a country in which 20 million jobs were displaced during the 1980s" Still, NAFTA will result in a "tiny net increase" in American jobs. NAFTA opponents selectively quote Bush's Secretary of Labor Lynn Martin's distingue bases that Martin's testimony before the Senate that 150,000 jobs would be lost. But they fail to mention that those lost jobs are part of the total job market mobility that would also result in a net gain of 180,000 jobs from NAFTA. If the United States keeps tariffs low, other nations will reciprocate, resulting in more sales at lower cost and an increase in jobs.

Another side benefit of NAFTA, contended The Economist, is the creation of a stable and prosperous Mexico to help "lessen the flow of illegal Mexican immigrants."

Without a NAFTA agreement, a lot of job losses and regional job shifts have already taken place in this country. In 1966, there were only twice as many jobs in the 11 Southern states as in the six New England states. As of 1991, there were five times more jobs in the 11 Southern states. Lower salary scales, not lower tariffs, caused that shift.

It has come to my attention in a letter printed in the Sanford Herald on Aug. 19, 1993 that one of your readers, Antonio Gonzalez, has experienced difficulty receiving the audio of WMFE Channel 24. He said in his letter that he could only get it by tuning in WMFE through his VCR. Mr. Gonzalez has his TV set inadvertently tuned to the SAP (secondary audio program) channel of WMFE. current news and information to the visually impaired residents of Central Florida. Many other stations across the country use their SAP channels to provide a service to a specific group of people in the community.

Using his owner's manual, Mr. Gonzalez needs to switch his TV set to the main audio channel. Once this is done, he should have no problem receiving the Channel 24 audio without the aid of his VCK. If he should experience any further difficulty setting his television on the main audio channel, he should call WMFE at (407)273-2300. Thank you.

ROBERT WAGMAN Should GOP oppose Clinton?

WASHINGTON - With Congress returning from its summer break to a plate full of important business. Republicans in the House and Senate are faced with a very basic question: Should they continue their absolute opposition to almost every proposal put forward by the Clinton administration or become involved in trying to shape legislative proposals? So far, things have been made relatively easy for the GOP. First there was gays in the military - something virtually all conservatives were able to agree the voters back home did not want. Then there was the budget deal that contained sharply increased taxes on the wealthy, something all good Republicans could oppose.

But upcoming are numerous issues that are far from black and white, which will present Republicans with significant problems. Health-Care Reform. This is the No. 1 issue. Every poll shows that most Americans, regardless of party affiliation, believe basic health-care reform is needed. But given the political importance of the issue, Republican operatives believe the GOP will have to oppose the Clinton plan, no matter what it is. They will argue it costs too much, increases government control and limits patient choice, and they will argue that it hurts small business.

The problem is that, unlike the budget debate, where the GOP was never forced to put forward an actual program of its own, its own polls show that almost everyone wants health-care reform. So the Republicans, if they are going to fight the still-unseen Clinton program, will have to put forward a compre-hensive program of their own. It remains to be seen if they will be able to do so.

The North American Free Trade Agreement. This threatens to tie the GOP into knots. Here you have a Democratic president who is fighting to save a treaty negotiated by a Republican president — George Bush — in the face of significant opposition from key groups, such as organized labor, in his own party. Add to this the fact that opposition to the treaty is a central theme of Ross Perot, and you end up with total confusion in the GOP ranks.

Welfare Reform. During the 12 Reagan-Bush years, the GOP cried that Democrats in Congress constantly blocked any kind of meaningful welfare reform. Now it is expected that the Clinton administration will put forward a wide-ranging reform proposal festuring mandatory job training and the requirement that all recipients work for their checks. How is the GOP to oppose this very Republicant propose the very Republican concept. Too expensive? Too bureaucratic? Possibly the only thing they can hang their hat on is that the Clinton proposal will include a 25-cent-an-hour increase in the minimum wage.

Reinventing Government. The Clinton ad-ministration's plan to reorganize and streamline the federal government will contain so many long-sought GOP objectives — such as reforming civil service rules and privatizing government functions - that many on Capitol Hill can't wait to see what the GOP will come up with as a reason to oppose it.

Crime Bill. How can the GOP oppose funding 100,000 new police officers? It is likely the GOP will oppose a proposal in the Clinton package to do away with mandatory minimum sentences for drug crimes. Jails have become so crowded with minor and first-time drug offenders that state and federal systems are have to let hardened, violent criminals out early to make room. The GOP will say Clinton is soft on crime if he proposes eliminating minimum sentences. even though it is supported by almost every federal judge. 70 percent of whom are Republicans appointed by Reagan or Bush. Adding to the GOP's problems in the Senate is the fact that several influential Republican senators are becoming very uneasy at the sight of GOP Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole using his new-found celebrity to move to the front of the GOP presidential race. Other GOP senators see themselves as just as viable candidates as Dole, and you can look for internal GOP politics to come to the fore as the 1996 primary approaches.

Finally, a number of Republicans on the House side agree with Minority Leader Bob Michel, a moderate, who blistered the hard liners in his own party in a startlingly candid interview in his hometown Peoria, Ill., newspaper. Michel said that the GOP in the House is "the most conservative and antagonistic to the other side" that he has seen since entering Congress in 1957. His complaint is that the GOP in the House has become too obstruc-tionist and the members of his party too unwilling to work constructively to find solutions.

Many think that Michel has become so disheartened that he will retire in 1994 rather than seek a 21st term. If that happens, there will likely be a free-for-all within the House GOP over who will succeed him.

Arafat's aides. meanwhile, rushed the nervous leader to the back of the plane. They strapped him in and stuffed every pillow, blanket and cushion they could find around him - creating a makeshift airbag. Arafat's aides did this even though it lessened their own chances for survival.

When the plane actually crashed, it broke in half just three rows of seats ahead of Arafat. If his aides hadn't moved him, he would have been dead. Instead, he emerged with an injured leg, bruised arm and a changed state of mind.

"It's a sign." Arafat confided to a close aide soon after the crash. It might have seemed like a strange pronouncement from a man who has turned near misses into a virtual art form.

Over the years, Arafat has escaped more than 50 assassination attempts by fellow Palestinians, Arabs and Israelis. He has been imprisoned and tortured ruthlessly in Egypt and Lebanon.

But PLO sources say that the crash reminded him of his mortality more than any previous incident. "When Arafat was found alive, his stock went sky high," one of theses sources told us. "People believed God pre-served him for a while."

Several intimates say that it was this "New Arafat" who decided to compromise more often, leading him to back off from his insistence of dealing with the question of Jerusalem first. Last week, Israel ended years of contentious dealings with the PLO by agreeing to grant autonomy to Palestinians in the Gaza Strip and Jericho. The PLO deems this air disaster so fateful that it has produced its own documentary on the crash and Arafat's survival. They had planned to unveil it last April, around the first anniversary of the disaster. But they decided to wait until a "more jubilant moment." according to one PLO source.

U.S. officials are speculating that such a moment might come in Jericho a year or so from now if the peace deal is completed. That's when Arafat could be ensconced as the new governor of the old city of Jericho and the Gaza Strip.

But Arafat spends close to 80 percent of his time flying around the world, so some wonder how he will make the transition from globe-trotter to the more mundane business of municipal management. Arafat's childhood friends were way off the mark when they nicknamed him "Yasir." It means "easy" or "no problem." which describes virtually nothing in his life. FULL-SERVICE SENATOR - Sen. Max

Officials call for tougher laws in wake of slaying

By PATRICK NEYNA Associated Press Writer

MIAMI - The 19-year-old man charged in the killing of a German tourist on a highway here was once a former police explorer and Wells Fargo security guard who confessed to his mother hours after the killing.

'My God, I still can't believe it," Cathey Hazelhurst, a secretary for detectives at a Metro-Dade police station, told The Miami Herald for a story published today.

It was at the station, while police searched for him, that Hazelhurst's son, Recondall Wiggins, told her he had killed Uwe-Wilhelm Rakebrand Wednesday morning.

"Mommal did you hear about the tourist who got shot? I'm going to prison 'cause we did it." he said. Standing beside him was Patsy Jones, his girlfriend and the woman police say shot Rakebrand with a sawed-off rifle, but Hazelhurst said he didn't tell her she was involved.

"It made me furious because he covered for her." Hazelhurst said.

Hazelhurst told her son to turn himself in. He promised he would, after visiting his son, who was hospitalized after suffering a scizure. It was at Parkway Medical Center that he turned himself in to police.

Rakebrand, 33, and his pregnant wife, Kathrin, 27, were in an unmarked rental car on a well-traveled road early Wednesday when they were bumped twice from behind by a truck. Aware of the "bump-and-rob" ploy, he continued driving, then was shot dead through the car window.

The couple, who followed all the recommended safety precautions, had arrived about an hour earlier to Miami International Airport for a belated honeymoon.

Rakebrand, an agricultural engineer of Adendorf, Germany, who stood almost 7-feet tall, is the eighth foreign tourist - the fourth German - killed in Florida in a year.

Attorney General Janet Reno said Thursday she has asked Justice Department aides to determine whether there is a federal role to play in the case. The White House called for tougher in the aftermath of the slaying.

"Any kind of law, any kind of regulation, any kind of mechanism that we can use, including spot checks of people on highway systems to prevent individuals from carrying guns in their automobiles, I think ought to be done," Mayor Xavier Suarez said

Thursday. Robyn Blumner, of the American Civil Libertics Union, said Suarez's unconventional proposal limit attacks on tourists went much too far.

"This is a hysterical reaction, and it's one that puts in jeopardy constitutional rights," she said. Wiggins, of suburban Miami, sobbed as he was ordered held without bond on first-degree murder and attempted robbery charges Thursday. He confessed to police he drove the Ryder rental truck involved.

Police continued early today to acek Jones, also 19, who is suspected of pulling the trigger on the .30-30 carbine rifle. Police flu all over."

have said another person may be involved, but have not released a figme.

Wiggins has been arrested five times since he was 17 on charges of aggravated assault, burglary and grand larceny. Four of the offenses were handled by juvenile authorities and produced no jail time. The outcome of his fifth arrest, an arrest on aggravated assault in June, wasn't immediately available.

Jones was jailed in nearby Broward County Jail until last Saturday for trying to pull a gun on a supermarket security guard in Pembroke Pines, police said.

"Something's wrong when teen-agers - barely adults - are already career criminals," said Republican Sen. Connie Mack after meeting Thursday with Reno. "What kind of justice system is this? If this 19-year-old is found guilty, he should be put away for good." Meanwhile. Otto Schneider, head of the German Association of Tourist Agencies, pulled his endorsement of Miami visits, blaming police for the violence.

"Go to St. Petersburg. Go to Orlando. Go to (Florida's) west coast. But don't go to Miami," he said from Frankfurt. "Personally, I think people should avoid a high-crime area like Miami if police can't get a grip on crime."

Gary Stogner, spokesman for the state division of tourism, said the problem is not unique to Miami.

"You can't say that only my left ear is sick," he said. "When you have the flu, you have the

Settlement proposed in class action over breast implants

By ALAN L. ADLER AP Business Writer

DETROIT - Dow Corning Corp. is proposing the creation of a $4.75 billion fund to compensate thousands of women with silicone gel breast implants.

Women would be eligible for up to $2 million each under the proposed class-action settlement, announced Thursday by Dow Corning, once the largest maker of the implants.

Manufacturers, suppliers, doctors and insurance companies would pay into the fund, which would compensate women for illnesses blamed on implants and pay for surgery for those who want to have them removed.

The settlement - which is subject to approval by manufacturers, plaintiffs' lawyers and U.S. District Judge Sam Pointer, who is overseeing 27 class-action lawsuits in Alabama - could end most of the approximately 8,000 lawsuits filed over the implants in recent years.

Women could collect for such ilinesses as lupus and rheumatoid arthritis without having to prove that the implants actually caused their injuries. Dow Corning has consistently denied any link between breast implants and dis-

Clinton restoring contact with PLO, plans ceremony

By RUTH SINAL Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - President Clinton is preparing to resume U.S. contacts with the PLO so he can host an elaborate White House signing ceremony Monday making peace between Israel and its Palestinian neighbors.

Clinton planned to announce the resumption of the U.S. dialogue with the Palestine Liberation Organization after meeting with congressional leaders today. Several leading members of Congress, traditionally a bastion of anti-PLO sentiment, have told the administration they will not object to renewed ties with the organization now that Israel has recognized the group. "President Clinton is doing the right thing." said Sen. Patrick Leahy, a Vermont Democrat who chairs the panel that doles out

President Bush broke off an 18-month U.S. dialogue with the PLO in June 1990 after a faction of the organization launched an aborted terrorist raid on an Israeli beach.

White House aides said that since contact was stopped by a presidential order, all Clinton has to do is issue a statement announcing a resumption of the dialogue now that the PLO has renounced terrorism and recognized Israel's right to exist. PLO leader Yasser Arafat signed a mutual recognition agreement with Israel on Thursday, and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin was signing it today.

Resuming contacts with the PLO is a mechanism that will clear the way for the White House to invite a senior PLO representative to the South Lawn signing ceremony Monday morning.

It also would mean that the administration now can help Israel and the PLO work out details for implementation of their accord, which grants self-rule to the 1.8 Palestinians in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip. The cutoff of the dialogue in 1990 meant that the United States could not get involved in the Israel-PLO talks that led to the accord. " Yall some saying such recognition is only given to other governments and others saying that renewed contacts is a de facto recognition.

A resumption of contacts also could lead to the reopening of PLO offices in the United States. which were closed by congressional action to protest the organization's alleged terrorism.

The decision to host the signing at the White House was made at the request of Arabs and Israelis alike, and the administration hopes the event will serve as a catalyst for the other sets of Mideast peace talks -between Israel and Syria, Israe and Lebanon and Israel and Jordan.

Israeli Foreign Minister Shimon Peres is expected to represent Israel.

points with a block and a pair of kills, the second coming off a Lake Mary free ball. Finally, the Rams broke serve when David Scinciani buried a set from Erik Larsen.

Lake Mary scored 10 of the next 11 points. It was a slowmoving rally, a point here, three points there, then another point. The Rams closed to 13-11 before. Osceola finally got its 14th point on a Lake Mary hitting error. With Osceola serving for the game. Will Lipscomb came up with a huge spike to break serve. Lipscomb then put together a four-point service run to give Lake Mary its first and only lead. 15-14. But with the Rams playing for game point. Teriak lia and Jeremy Penner combined to block a Lake Mary spike for a sideout and get the serve back for Osceola.

With Penner doing the serving, Osceola scored the next three points to take the win. 17-15.

Safe use of disinfectants, sanitizers

What are disinfectants and sanitizers and why are they important to our health? A disinfectant is a product that kills a broad range of microorganisms on a surface. A sanitizer significantly reduces the numbers of specific microorganiams on a surface. Products claiming to be disinfectants or sanitizers must pass stringent U.S. Environmental Protecton Agency (EPA) tests to prove they are effective.

The term antimicrobial is sometimes used as a general description to include both disinfectants and senitizers. Disinfectant or sanitizing cleaners are products that combine surfactants and other typical cleaning agents with antimicrobial agents. These products can be used to clean as well as disinfect or sanitize.

Regular cleaning products do a good job of removing soil, but do they kill the germs that can cause many illnesses. Bacteria and viruses that cause diseases can survive for a long time on hard surfaces such as floors. counter tops, door knobs, and tollet scats. In our homes as well as in schools, day care centers, and other public places, such surfaces may be contaminated even when they are not visibly solled. In addition, germs can be spread to other surfaces on dirty cleaning cloths and sponges. Adults and children can get infections by touching such surfaces, picking up the germs on their hands and then touching their eyes, nose, or mouth.

In certain circumstances, it is important to use antimicrobial products to kill germs. The most obvious situation is in a hospital where infectious diseases are prevalent and where most people are susceptible to such diseases. In our daily lives there are also times that warrant extra precautions. Young children, the elderly, and ill individuals are especially vulnerable to infections. Also, individuals who are undergoing chemotherapy and those being taken care of at home following surgery have lowered immunity to viruses. When these susceptible individuals are at home antimicrobial products can help reduce the spread of infectious diseases. Some surfaces, especially those in kitchen and bathrooms. should be cleaned and disinfected with special care. Also, in a day care or elderly care facilities, disinfecting should be a daily routine.

How do you know if a product is a disinfectant or a sanitizer? Simply read the label. Such products are regulated by the EPA under the Federal Insecticide. Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA). It is unlawful for a product to claim to be a disinfectant or sanitizer without passing all the EPA tests and receiving an EPA registration number. The number must be displayed on the product label.

The registration process is costly and meticulous. In fact, it is not unusual for a product to take up to two years to receive registration from EPA. As you can understand, this is a serious consideration for manufacturers who want to make antimicrobial claims. The company must submit extensive health and environmental data. The product m the meet minimum performance criteria, must be effective and have no adverse effects, and EPA must approve the final product label.

What kinds of products are antimicrobial? Common cleaning products are chlorine bleach, all-purpose cleaners, toilet bowl cleaners, and tub and tile cleaners. Since not all products within these categories have antimicrobial ingredients, read the label. To assure that the product is an effective disinfectant or sanitizer, check for the EPA registration number. And to get effective results, it is important to follow label directions carefully. Antimicrobial products have specific instructions for proper use to achieve disinfecting or santizing. Usually the instructions include a specified amount of time the product must be left on the surface. If using a product that is a disinfectant but not a cleaner, the surface must be cleaned then disinfected in order for the disinfectant to be effective.

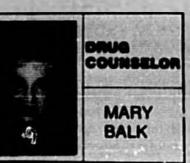

In situations where susceptible individuals are involved, it is important to use the correct product, not only to clean surfaces but to kill germs. Beware of mix-at-home recipes that claim to be disinfectants or sanitizers.

Parental denial of child's addiction

DEAR READERS: Last week the mother of a recovering addict shared with us her denial and unwillingness to acknowl-edge the reality of her daughter's problem. Denial and enabling are a natural reaction to having a drug-using child because the situation is so threatening to a parent's self-esteem. We feel that we must have done something wrong or the child wouldn't have gotten into trouble. Meanwhile, parents who don't have drug-using kids may be tempted to pat themselves on the back and look down on cions, don't hope the problem will go away. It is important to seek help quickly to get the child into treatment. When a kid learns to trade the short-lived high from alcohol and other

Second wife puts daughter first and wins man's love

DEAR ABBY: This is in reply to the woman who signed herself "Jealous Valentine." who wrote to complain that her boyfriend gave his 6-year-old daughter roses for Valentine's Day. Your advice not to compete with his daughter struck a chord with me, so I am writing to advise the boyfriend to run, not walk, away from this selfish, insecure girlfriend as fast as possible. No caring father wants to choose between his child and his "love interest," and a woman who truly loves him will care for his daughter because the little girl is a part of him.

I, too, had a daughter (Lisa) from a previous marriage when I met my present wife. After a four-year couriship, including many "take-Lisa-with-us" dates, we married. My wife, far from excluding my daughter from the l'adults only" wedding, insisted the be part of the wedding party and when it was time to exchange rings, she had to give the priest a little ring to bless for

Lisa. She told me her promise to DEAR MARRIED: I couldn't love and cherish was for both of luave said it more convincingly us that day. In the 10 years we've been married, my wife has always considered my daughter's welfare first, even to passing up a lucrative job offer so Lisa wouldn't have to change wouldn't have to change schools. Because my daughter comes first with my wife, my wife comes first with me, and Lies (18 years old now) has grown into a lovely, caring lady. just like her stpemother.

So, Dear Abby, tell Jealous Valentine's boyfriend to keep looking, and just sign me...

than you just have. Your wife is a truly beautiful woman. DEAR ABBY: The letter from the lady who was upset because her boyfriend had also sent his 6-year-old daughter a dozen roses on Valentine's Day made me write to you for the first time. How right your advice was in regard to the fact that his girlfriend abould not be competing with his daughter. Children from divorced parents need all the attention they can get from both parents. I was divorced when I met the woman I married the second time around. We had a great relationship until she became jealous of my three sons from my previous marriage. (The boys never did live with us, but they did come to visit us about four times a year for a weekend.) Then she made the mistake of giving me an ultimatum - them or her. Although I loved the woman dearly, my sons had to come first. I divorced her that spring.

Pinched nerve may limit exercise

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 39-year-old black female who suffered from high blood pressure until I began a regimen of aerobics and running. My pro-blem is that I have to stop running before I get to my third mile because of numbress in my foot. What could be causing this?

DEAR READER: You are to be congratulated on attempting to improve your health by changing your lifestyle. Re-member that you may also lower your blood pressure by losing weight (if you are stout) and stopping alcohol (if you consume such beverages on a regular basis).

With respect to your foot numbness, you may have a pinched nerve that is exacerbated by your program of physical activity. This could be something as simple as running shoes that are too tight or you could have tissue that is pressing on a nerve. See your family doctor about this. He will examine you and, if necessary, refer you to an orthopedic surgeon (or sports medi-cine specialist) if you need special exercises, an orthotic device for your shoe or surgery to remove a bone spur.

Because exercise is important for your continued good health. attend to this foot problem with reasonable haste and continue to monitor your hypertension with regular visits to your doctor. To give you more information on your hypertension. I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Hypertension." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title. DEAR DR. GOTT: 1 suffer from halitosis. I've tried everything I can think of for control. yet the problem persists. DEAR READER: Bad breath

The types of changes you've been hoping to make in your lifestyle might come into being in the year ahead with little or perhaps even no effort on your part.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you predicate all of your hopes and expectations upon things of a material nature, you could be severely disappointed today. Put your faith in others and the noncommercial things life offers. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are roman-tically perfect for you. Mail $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Should success be denied you in a competitive involvement today, chances are you'll have only yourself to blame by underestimating your opposition. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

Don't let your emotions and feelings gain the upper hand over your logic and practicality today. If you do, you might repeat a mistake you've recently made.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone on whom you're counting to do you a special favor is not a god from Mount Olympus, but just an ordinary person like yourself. You could be disappointed if your expectations are excessive. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

19) Partnership arrangements could be a hindrance today instead of a help, because persons with whom you're teamed might not feel the same sense of urgency you do regarding your goals.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your sense of priorities might be a trifle distorted today. You may waste lots of time on insignificant matters while ignoring that which is really important.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be careful what you volunteer to do for another today, because it might be an assignment you're ill equipped to handle. It could be hard to back out your commitment.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Persons with whom you'll have dealings on a one-to-one basis might find you a tad too opi-nionated today. Even if you feel superior, don't manifest it in your behavior.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't try to get others to do things for you today which you're capable of doing for yourself. Even if they submit to your wishes, they could still feel very resentful and put upon.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could be rather lucky today. but not necessarily where your financial or commercial interests are concerned. Move cautiously in these areas and don't take gambles.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your self-assurance could be rather fragile today. This could cause you to be a late starter and perhaps lose an opportunity you've taken for granted.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An associate might let you in on some information today that could be used to your advantage. Unfortunately, you may not know what to do with it. C)1993. NEWSPAPER EN-TERPRISE ASSN.
