"It is going to take inflation to keep them up there. I do not think that increases in anticipation of inflation would be discounted by the actual ordering of inflation; just a little bit would lift prices immediately and they could be kept up."

Representatives of the cotton states insisted in their meeting, that unless the currency were inflated there would be serious trouble with farmers and that farm debtors would remain unable to meet their obligations.

Claude M. Sapp, of Columbia, S. C., chairman of the state's Democratic executive committee, asserted an overturn of the government would be threatened by southern farmers unless the administration turned to inflation to cheapen the dollar for paying debts.

The prediction that if the administration did not inflate, Congress would at the next session be presented by Representative Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, a statement similar to the declarations in some of the telegrams received by Thomas favoring inflation.

Senators Barbour, Republican, New Jersey, Austin, Republican, Vermont, and Hatfield, Republican, West Virginia, expressed opposition to inflation, Barbour telegraphing "I am not in sympathy with any inflation of the currency" while Austin wrote that was a matter for Congress to decide, rather than the President.

Seven men from Minneapolis and St. Paul, accused of knowingly receiving part of the $200,000 ransom paid for Urschel's freedom, filed in as Federal Judge Edgar S. Vaughn entered the chamber and declared court officially opened.

The seven, Isadore Blugienfeld, Pete Valder, alias Hackett, alias Nelson; Clifford Skelly, Sam Krohlick, Edward (Harney) Bertram, Charles Walk and Sam Kosberg, had been free under bond.

Urschel, accompanied by his wife, E. T. Kirkpatrick, who negotiated his release; Arthur and Lamar Seelgson, business associates, and the veteran department of justice agent, Gus Jones, of San Antonio, to whom the Urschels give credit for the arrests in the case, were seated quietly near the table occupied by the prosecution and took little part in the proceedings of the day.

A broad smile appeared on the face of the 30-year-old man when J. B. Dudley, of counsel for the defense, referred in a question to a juror to "this supposed kidnapping."

The chief defendants, Bailey and Hites, who have long criminal records, sat composedly beside their lawyers, occasionally conferring in whispers.

Labor leaders appeared to fear that this could be used by employers to persuade their men to join unions.

Employers likewise can make collective bargains with organized employees, or individual agreements with those who choose to act individually."

Milk Producers In Miami Area Losing Money, Says Report

MIAMI, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Milk producers and distributors in the Miami area, including Dade and Broward Counties, are losing money at the present stabilized prices of 13 cents a quart to the consumer and 23 cents a gallon to the producer, it was testified at a meeting here Friday presided over by George Weems, State milk control director, and Nathan Mayo, commissioner of agriculture, and member of the Milk Control Board.

The dairymen suggested that the retail price be increased 10 cents a quart and that the producer receive 23 cents a gallon. Weems and Mayo stated that they will announce their decision at Tallahassee this week.

The dairymen pointed out that since the establishment of the 18-cent retail price by the board last July, feed and other costs have increased and milk consumption has decreased. Several reported an increase in their business, however. Others stated that the increase was not due necessarily to the increased price but to the purchase of Miami visitors and parturians on summer vacations.

Producers stated that while their price was fixed at 23 cents a gallon, they actually received an average of from 13 to 20 cents a gallon, taking into consideration the reduced prices for certain grades of milk used for cream and buttermilk purposes.

The meeting adjourned without a definite decision being reached on the milk question, after testimony had been introduced by producers, distributors, retailers and consumers.

Mrs. W. T. Langley and daughter, Margaret, have returned from Daytona Beach where they spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. John Langley. Dr. Langley spent the week-end there with them.

HAVANA, Sept. 20. (A.P.)—Widespread outbreaks of malaria were added today to the burden of suffering Cuba. Many towns reported numerous cases of the disease and conditions were especially bad in Cienfuegos. A motly crew of soldiers, students and workmen cracked the rebellious Juan Jose Hernandez in the rugged Camaguey hills while at home a scene was set for another political skirmish. The President let it be known that contracts have been let for the program and that under no circumstances was there any intention of calling back these or altering the plans.

DAVIS DESCRIBED AS 'MOOSE' CZAR BY PROSECUTOR

U.S. Senator Charged With Making Money Out Of Charities
NEW YORK, Sept. 20. (A.P.)—United States Senator James J. Davis was described yesterday as a fraternal "czar" who made money out of charity by the government prosecutor who opened the second trial against him. He is charged specifically with shipping lottery tickets interstate in 1931. Donald F. Stewart, editor of the Moose magazine, was the prosecution's first witness and through him the government sought to show that Davis, Pennsylvania politician and director general of the Loyal Order of Moose, sanctioned articles in the magazine which publicized charity calls of the fraternity. It is Davis' second trial—the first having ended in a hung jury—and he is portrayed by the government as the "czar" of the Moose. The defense portrayed him as a benevolent fraternalist who allowed his name to be used in connection with lodge activities, but who knew virtually nothing of what was going on in the charity enterprises of the society. The government said he had directed and profited from alleged lotteries of the order. The defense contended there was no lottery in charity activities of the order and that Davis knew nothing about the Moose's charity fund and never "consciously got a cent out of it."

STOCK MART IS CONSIDERING NEW LOCATION

Site In Jersey For Exchange Looms With New York Planning Heavy Tax Levies

NEW YORK, Sept. 20. (A.P.)—A large section of the membership of the New York Stock Exchange, including Richard Whitney, president, and Allen L. Lindley, vice president, yesterday pledged its support to the movement for the establishment of a new exchange in New Jersey. Plans for transferring a considerable part of the exchange's business to a market on the west side of the Hudson River and beyond the reach of the transfer and profits taxes which the city proposes to levy on the brokers assumed definite form with the organization of a committee composed of representatives of 12 leading exchange firms. The committee, of which Howard K. Fowler is chairman, announced through the stock exchange last night that 634 members of the exchange had so far accepted the invitation to join the movement. He said their response had been "immediate and enthusiastic." Earlier in the day he stated that organization of the New Jersey exchange was progressing and that a meeting of the committee of organization would be held today. He reported that a draft of a constitution and rules for the new exchange were being prepared and would be in form for submission to the committee in the course of the next 48 hours. The question of location of the new exchange is still in the air, according to the committee. Jersey City, Newark and one or two other nearby Jersey municipalities have been engaging in a hectic bidding contest for the privilege of providing a home for the new exchange, but up to now no decision has been reached by the sponsors of the project. Some Wall Street quarters continued to doubt that the members of the exchange will forsake their expensive plant in the center of the financial district to set up a new institution in the neighboring state. It is recognized that the new taxes if adopted will tend to drive stock business to other financial centers, but against this factor the matter of expense involved in creating a new set of machinery for handling stock trading is regarded by some as an element which might cause the members to proceed slowly in reaching a final decision.

Tampa Orchestra Run Out Of Chicago By Racketeer Head

TAMPA, Sept. 20. (A.P.)—Frank Grass and his orchestra, sent to the Century of Progress exposition last month by the Tampa chamber of commerce as a good will gesture, were hustled out of Chicago by a man named Patillo, two gun king pin of Chicago musicians, after making a big hit with fair visitors. The story got out last night in a report from Lewis H. Hill, Jr., secretary of the board of public relations, to the board of aldermen. The report was requested last week. Details of the incident were provided by A. I. Curata, Jr., chairman of the committee that sent the band to the fair. "You fellows have a good band, but it ain't much better than we have got right here in Chicago and we won't stand for you coming here and taking work that should come to us," Patillo is reported to have told Grass. He threatened his exit by pulling out the drawer of his desk as Grass would get a good look at two guns he had there. Patillo said the Tampa orchestra had violated union rules, and after Grass protested they had done everything they knew to do except with regulations, the union boss is reported to have replied that it made no difference, they were not going to stand for organization coming in. "You may play tonight, and get out of town tomorrow," said Patillo.

Beginning Of Nation-Wide "Buy Now" Movement Is Put Off By Chief Until Oct. 1

URSHEL TELLS OF EXPERIENCE WITH KIDNAPERS

Two-Hour Narrative Is Told By Millionaire Oil Magnate

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20. (A.P.)—The beginning of a nation-wide "buy now" movement to support the greater production and sales of goods under the recovery program, has been set tentatively for Oct. 1 by Hugh S. Johnson. It was disclosed yesterday the Sept. 20 date, originally fixed for starting the campaign to stimulate buying under the Blue Eagle had been pushed back a few days by the prolonged negotiations for a bituminous coal code. Dozens of plans have been laid before officials, involving generally suggestions that various localities be asked to assure a certain quota of purchases over a given period. One and all, these have been discarded, it was said, and Johnson will go before the country with a straight forward appeal to buy under the Blue Eagle. The administrator has reiterated that increased costs would be inevitable to meet the higher price and has sought to stimulate buying at present prices by warning of higher ones to come. The administrator turned to other phases of the NRA program yesterday but there was no indication that he would undertake an analysis of the next big code before him that far retards affecting thousands of employers and millions of workers. Officials of the NRA had expected the tentative draft of this charter to be made public yesterday but revisions still went ahead as Johnson attended a meeting of the recovery council at the White House that for retailers affecting thousands and sought to clear his desk for a trip to New York. Other officials of the NRA, including Donald R. Reiberg, the council, Kenneth M. Simpson, a deputy administrator, and Dr. Alexander Sachs, the economist, have arranged to inspect the work of the steel industry under a code. Meanwhile, differences between employers and workers came up again at public hearings on the bituminous coal code. At the latter, representatives of the American Federation of Labor were charged with causing workers to join the union. The accusation came from a spokesman of the Stone cutters and carriers of Monroe county, Indiana. They also charged that the players in the Bedford Bituminous coal code district in Indiana had forced employees to join union forces dominated by employers. Elusive Girl Convict Is Guarded Closely
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 20. (A.P.)—Helen Spence Eaton, 22, twice convicted of killing men, was held under close surveillance at the prison farm for women today as the result of her second disappearance within a week. She was found last night huddled in the attic of a farm building apparently awaiting the opportunity to escape. The first time she was captured by bloodhounds. Clark, head of Sheffield Clark and Company of Nashville, manufacturer of hardware for several years, was well known among local hardware men who said they had dealt with him for a quarter century. Near his body in the hotel room was found the rough hand-drawn draft of a letter to National Recovery Administrator Johnson, dealing with the hardware code. Another letter, from his wife in Nashville, referred fittingly to the anniversary of the death of an infant daughter 25 years ago. In addition to his widow, he is survived by a son and daughter.

When first asked if he would accept the salute, he responded with an emphatic "no" but was later prevailed to reverse his decision.

Dapper Youth Is Being Sought In Louisiana Killing

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20. (A.P.)—A dapper youth of about 25 was sought in a score of southern cities today in connection with the slaying and robbery of Sheffield Clark, 61 year old Nashville, Tenn., business executive, whose battered body was found in a room of one of the city's largest hotels Monday night. Clark had been beaten over the head and choked to death, apparently by a visitor who remained in the room for some time before the attack. The coroner said Clark was slain probably Sunday night although the body, carefully placed under sheets on the bed, was not discovered until 24 hours later. His effects had been rifled and a considerable sum of money he was known to have carried in his pockets was missing. Late Sunday night a snappily dressed young man dark complexioned and of medium height appeared at the hotel parking lot, posed as Clark's son, presented an auto, call card and took possession of Clark's car. Neither the youth nor the car has been seen since. WASHINGTON, Sept. 20. (A.P.)—Cotton and silver advocates pressed demands upon President Roosevelt yesterday for help through currency expansion. At the same time the farm credit administration was endeavoring to hasten the movement of credit to the agricultural regions. NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20. (A.P.)—A dapper youth of about 25 was sought in a score of southern cities today in connection with the slaying and robbery of Sheffield Clark, 61 year old Nashville, Tenn., business executive, whose battered body was found in a room of one of the city's largest hotels Monday night. Clark had been beaten over the head and choked to death, apparently by a visitor who remained in the room for some time before the attack. The coroner said Clark was slain probably Sunday night although the body, carefully placed under sheets on the bed, was not discovered until 24 hours later. His effects had been rifled and a considerable sum of money he was known to have carried in his pockets was missing. Late Sunday night a snappily dressed young man dark complexioned and of medium height appeared at the hotel parking lot, posed as Clark's son, presented an auto, call card and took possession of Clark's car. Shultz Adamant In His Stand Against Special Session

TALLAHASSEE, Sept. 20. (A.P.)—Governor Shultz told his cabinet in pointed language today there would be no special session of the legislature "despite efforts of sales tax advocates to force one. MILK PRODUCERS IN GEORGIA SET FOR AGREEMENT

Pact Is Designed To Bring Farmers 30 Million More In '34

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 20. (A.P.)—Georgia milk producers and distributors yesterday virtually completed action on a milk marketing agreement which state department of agriculture officials say will bring more than $80,000,000 to farmers next year, and a delegation planned to leave for Washington last night to present the document to Secretary Wallace for final approval. Directors of the Georgia Milk Producers confederation the only organization in the state yet to sign, after a five hour session approved the agreement, but with reservations governing the price of class two milk, milk separated and sold as fluid cream, and as to the sale of surplus milk. Fred Bridges, assistant secretary of agriculture and one of the leaders in obtaining a trade agreement for Georgia, said he believed necessary adjustments could be made in Washington, however, and that the agreement would receive the signature of the secretary. Wallace said would be declared in effect within a few days. The resolution of agreement with reservations as adopted yesterday read in part as follows: "Resolved that we do and hereby authorize the President of the confederation to affix his signature to the Georgia milk marketing agreement, as approved by the secretary of agriculture of the United States, Washington, D. C., provided that the price of Class 2 milk to contracting producers for the Atlanta area be raised from $1.50 per cwt to $1.75 per cwt, and further provided that a specific clause placed in the agreement to allow any contracting producer the privilege of withholding from delivery to any contracting distributor any or all of the amount of class three (surplus) milk, either as individuals, or collectively as an association of producers." This distribution of surplus milk up to the present has proven a stumbling block in agreement negotiations, Frank Buchanan, manager of the confederation says Monday night he announced that two of the largest distributors in Atlanta had refused to buy milk from his organization when it declined to deliver its surplus milk to them.
