BALK REMOVAL TO SOUTH CAROLINA

A legal struggle over extradition of a man identified as Frank English, alias Red Callan, and his wife, identified as Mrs. Geneva English, to South Carolina, to face bank robbery charges loomed as attorneys for the pair said at Louisville, Ky. they would fight it to the last ditch. The two are shown after their arrest in Louisville. Mississippi officials also want them. The couple is accused of looting the Palmetto State Bank at Lake City, S. C. (Associated Press Photo)

AS $200,000 FIRE RAGED IN JACKSONVILLE

This picture was made as firemen battled a stubborn fire that did damage estimated at $200,000 in the heart of the wholesale fruit district at Jacksonville, Fla. The billowing smoke pouring out of the flaming buildings cast a pall over the downtown section. (Associated Press Photo)

SHE WON—AND SO DID THE MOVIES

It was a lucky day for Harriet De Bushman, 19, of Kansas City—and also for the movies when she entered a nationwide snap-shot contest sponsored by a Hollywood film studio. She won first prize and the movie company won a lot of publicity for its ranks, as this picture testifies, by awarding her a 10 week contract. (Associated Press Photo)

Elected Governor Of Pennsylvania

For the first time in a generation Pennsylvania has elected a Democratic governor George H. Earle (above), a personal friend of President Roosevelt to go along with the first Democratic senator that state has had since the Civil War. (Associated Press Photo)

KIDNAPING LINKED TO EX-CHUM

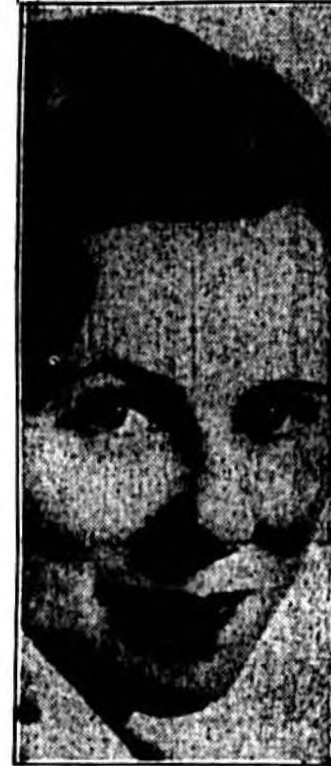

An arrest as startling as the actual kidnaping of six-year-old June Robles of Tucson, Ariz., (upper left) came with the seizure of Oscar H. Robson, school-day friend of the child's father, Fernando Robles. Federal agents charged the prisoner, a night club operator, with making a $1,000 ransom demand. This picture shows the entrance to the grave-like pit in the desert where June was chained for 19 days before searchers found her. (Associated Press Photos)

Take Up Fencing

Fair visitors to Miami, Fla., have taken up fencing in a big way and the sport has been added to the list of winter pastimes at the resort. Maurine Kerns is among the converts and she's well supplied with lances. (Associated Press Photo)

IN 'WHITE HIBISCUS' TRIANGLE

The state rested its case in the murder trial at Woodland, Cal., of Judson C. Duke (upper right) after entering into evidence a death-bed statement of Lamar Hollingshead (lower right) in which the 23-year-old University of California poet and lover of Duke's wife (left) accused Duke of shooting him. Mrs. Duke, whom Hollingshead called his "white hibiscus" in love letters, was sought for questioning. (Associated Press Photos)

G. O. P. BEATS MARYLAND'S RITCHIE

ON THE MEND

Far from being critically ill, as some reports had described him, Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, appears sun-tanned and fit in this exclusive Associated Press picture taken aboard his yacht, the Armada, anchored at Miami, Fla. He is recuperating from an abdominal operation.

'NEW DEALER' GUFFEY TRIUMPHS

This was a glad moment for Joseph F. Guffey, "New Deal" Democrat, who defeated the veteran Republican senator, David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, in the elections November 6. The victor called photographers to snap his 300,000 plurality smile as he cast his ballot in Pittsburgh, along with his sisters, Pauletta and Ida Guffey. (Associated Press Photo)

Farley, The Prophet

Postmaster General James A. Farley predicted the nation would endorse the New Deal by an overwhelming majority—and the sweeping Democratic victories in the elections November 6 prove just how good a prophet he was. He is shown casting his ballot in New York. (Associated Press Photo)

'HER HONOR'

Henceforth lawyers must remember to say "her honor"—instead of the traditional "his honor"—when they address the bench in court held by Judge Sarah Bryan (above), Florida's comely magistrate. Running against a field of six men in Jacksonville, she was elected Nov. 6. (Associated Press Photo)

WOULD STERILIZE

Sterilization of mental defectives, badly diseased persons and habitual criminals was recommended by William H. Montgomery (above) of Wilmington, N. C., before the annual meeting, in Chicago, of Kiwanis Club officers from all over the world. Montgomery is chairman of the Kiwanis under-privileged child committee. (Associated Press Photo)

Cross Re-Elected

Wins Governorship

James M. Curley (above), three times mayor of Boston and an ardent "New Deal" Democrat, is the new governor-elect of Massachusetts. He was swept into office over his Republican opponent, Lieut. Gov. G. G. Bacon. (Associated Press Photo)

Back To Senate

FRENCH YOUTH STAGE RIOT ON ARMISTICE DAY

20,000 Students Rent Air With Epithets Demanding Death Of Ex-Premier Herriot

PARIS, Nov. 12.—Riots in the heart of Paris marred Armistice Day ceremonies yesterday. Royalists and nationalists held a violent anti-government demonstration along the Boulevard de la Madeleine. Autos loaded with police ringed clubs charged into the mobs. Five leaders were arrested in this street fighting. Hundreds of youths, chiefly students, started riots at the conclusion of a pious Armistice Day ceremony at the tomb of the unknown soldier on the Champs Elysee. They marched in a column of 20,000 strong, flanked by police, proceeding through the famous place de la Concorde, scene of the "bloody Tuesday" riots last February. The column, orderly in the main, proceeded into the Latin Quarter, shouting: "Vive Doumergue! Down with Herriot and his radicals!"

Thousands cheered the column, but made no trouble until the remnants broke off down the Boulevard de la Madeleine. A mob gathered around the Hotel de Paris, on the boulevard, where Herriot is stopping, but was absent. "Hang Herriot to a post!" shouted the mob. The police riot squad dispersed the throng. The Armistice Day ceremonies came to a climax earlier at the tomb, where the flame was re-lighted under the Arc de Triumphe at 10:30 A. M. by a torch carrier from Brussels. The torch was used first by King Leopold, lighting the fire tomb. Belgian veterans carried it to Valenciennes, where they handed the torch to French veterans, who carried it across the battlefields of the World War to Paris.

Exactly at 11:00 A. M., the hour of the armistice, thousands of white pigeons were released in the forest where the German and Allied delegates signed the armistice in the special train of the late Marshal Foch, hidden in the trees. President Labrun and Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin led the nation in tribute to the war dead, reviewing troops marching to the tomb on the Champs Elysee. United States Ambassador Straus and his military aide marched with the American Legion war veterans, carrying the (Continued On Page 4)

Bankers Organize To Lend Roosevelt Aid

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Formation of an advisory committee of bankers to co-operate with the export-import banks of Washington which were created by President Roosevelt early this year to stimulate foreign and interstate commerce, was announced yesterday.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

The United States Post-office at Sanford reports a 12 percent increase in postal receipts in October 1934 as compared with October 1933, and a 25 percent increase during the first 10 days of November as compared with the first 10 days of November 1933. And this in a time of year when money usually is withdrawn for the purchase of clothing and winter supplies, and for seeds on farms and groves within the county!

Bartow Judge Nearly Loses Pants Trying To Separate Lawyers Fighting In Court

BARTOW, Nov. 12.—Judge H. C. Petteaway came near losing his pants when two Lake Wales lawyers, George Graham and Emmett Donnelly, engaged in a fist fight in his chambers office during the hearing of matters growing out of the dissolution of their law partnership about six weeks ago. After the dissolution Donnelly filed a bill for accounting and Graham returned answer. It was at the hearing on this in one of the back rooms of the circuit court auditorium that the incident occurred.

LANDIS RULING DELAYS LEGAL LIQUOR SET-UP

TAMPA, Nov. 12.—A new opinion by Attorney General Landis changed the entire legal liquor set-up here and delayed until Nov. 23, at least, the first legal sale under the Davis package law.

Davis Package Ruling Cannot Be Put Into Effect Until Nov. 23

The opinion, read to the county commission by County Attorney Sutton, outlines two distinct methods of obtaining permits to open liquor stores. They are: (1) Applications to open liquor stores must be accompanied by petitions signed by a majority of the voters in the election precinct where the store is to be operated. The voters' petitions are to be based on the revised registration of last June. Applications must be filed at regular meetings of the county commission and must be advertised once a week for two weeks before the commission can act on permits.

GARDEN NOTES

By Mrs. W. D. GARDNER

Ed. Note: This is the third installment of an article on Potted Plants written by Mrs. Gardner and read at a recent meeting of the First Gardeners Circle at the Garden Club.

As soon as any plant is potted it should be watered until all the soil is thoroughly moistened. They can then be set in a sunny place, but protected from the sun somewhat for a few days, and then gradually brought to the sunlight. During these first few days the plant should be thoroughly watered.

Plants may be kept in good condition over a much longer period by fertilizing them and by partially removing the soil from the top and replacing it. Very small amounts of fertilizer, preferably such materials as tankage, cottonseed meal, or ground bone meal, may be scattered on the surface and scratched into the soil. It is best to water the plants rather dry and to water thoroughly after fertilizing. Fertilizer may also be given in water by using an ounce of nitrate of soda to a gallon of water. Soil may be worked out of the top of a pot and replaced with new earth. Holes may be dug into the soil in large pots with a trowel and these refilled with new material.

To know when to water and when to withhold water is not easy. The same plant demands different amounts at different times. It is not necessary to water plants every day, but a daily examination is necessary. During periods of flowering and active growth more water is needed than during a period of dormancy. Some plants are fast-growing and vigorous free-blooming specimens, as the palmetto, and need more water whereas in contrast, the slow-growing sansevieria, aspidistra, and Chinese rubber plant need little water.

Then, too, more water is needed on a sunny day than on a cloudy day. So, when the top soil feels crumbly and dry, when the appearance of the pot and earth is light, then water your plants and water them abundantly. Pour water on until it comes out the drainage hole, and then the whole root system will have been thoroughly saturated. Nothing is so beneficial to plants as well-timed periods of watering, nothing so harmful as constant, inadequate ministrations that moisten only the top half of the earth.

Pots placed in jardiniere should be set on a small saucer, upside down, to keep the bottom of the pot above seepage water, and a favorite way to water is to pour water into the jardiniere and let the soil soak it up through the bottom, thus reaching the roots of the plant first, insuring proper moistening of the roots. It is also very satisfactory to place the pot in a pail of water, the water coming within an inch of the top of the pot and thoroughly saturating the plant.

Plants should never have their tops and foliage sprinkled with water. A clean plant is a healthy one. Plants breathe through their leaves, so they should be kept free from dust and dirt or soot. Broad leafed plants may be wiped with a damp cloth, but a fine daily spray is best for all house plants. For ferns, rubber plants, and palms, a soapy spray should be given about every 10 days. Oil which broom may be used if you do not have a sprayer.

Signs of infection in a plant are not necessarily signals for repotting, or fertilizing. Repotting should be done only when the plant has filled its pot with roots, and a plant food or fertilizer given only if the plant is healthy and able to carry on. If there is an infestation of some kind, don't repot or stimulate, but spray.

Fair enough

WE tell you that Chesterfield Cigarettes are made of mild, ripe tobacco. We've told you about the paper—that it's pure and burns right, without taste or odor.

We have said that Chesterfields are made right. The tobaccos are aged, then blended and cross-blended, and cut into shreds the right width and length to smoke right.

These things are done to make what people want—a cigarette that's milder, a cigarette that tastes better—a cigarette that satisfies.

You can prove what we tell you about Chesterfield. May we ask you to try them—that would seem to be fair enough.

Strictly on their merits

the cigarette that's Milder, the cigarette that TASTES BETTER.
